Ruled BY Destiny!

CHAPTER X.
THE STRANGER'S TRAP.

"And you love me!" he said, in an amazed whisper. "Why, Floris, it is almost past belief."

"Is it?" with a little shy glance and a fluttering smile that made him long to catch her to his heart.

"Yes! I always thought you hated me!"

"Yes?"

"Yes! We never met but we quarreled. I never spoke a civil word to you but you froze me on the spot."

"Did I?" with a smile.

"That you did! There were times when after you had sent me away, with an icy glance or a word of contempt, that I felt too ashamed and humiliated to live! Why, what made you change so, Floris? Tell me; I am curious!"

"I have not changed!" with a stare of amazement and delight.

"No!" shaking her head, and turning her eyes shamefacedly from his ardent gaze. "No, I have not changed. Will you not look away from me, Bruce? You fill me with shame—I loved you from the very first."

"Great Heaven!" he murmured, in a rapture. "From the first. Not from the first, Floris?"

"Yes," she said, making her confession with averted eyes and burning cheeks; "I think I loved you the first night I saw you. You, you told me that you loved me, remember."

"Yes, I did! Not knowing you were you! But you—you were pride and scorn and hauteur combined."

She shook her head.

"Great Heaven, what addresses women are! And—and—all the time!"

"Yes," she admitted, and the admission was sweet. "All the time, Bruce, I fought against it. I told myself that I ought to hate you. I almost prayed that I might learn to do so. But it was no use."

He did not speak. His was a joy too deep for words.

"And when I felt it was no use, why, with a sudden start, I was likely to die with shame when I remembered that perhaps you were already engaged, that—that Lady Blanche—"

He bit his lips, but his eyes met hers unflinchingly; the arduous opposite them, behind which Lady Blanche stood, stirred and rustled as she pressed forward, straining her tortured ears to catch the response.

"Lady Blanche?" he said, gravely, almost coldly. "Yes, I know; Floris, you had nothing to fear, you were misled. There was never anything tangible between us. I never loved her, never could have loved her. And if at any time there had been anything in my heart to her warmer than friendship, it would have vanished at your presence, dearest."

Awful words for that stricken woman to hear.

No wonder she turned white to the lips and staggered back, grasping a tree to keep herself from falling.

No wonder that, possessed by the demon of jealousy, and the fire of unrequited love, she was compelled to press her hand to her lips till the teeth closed on them, to prevent the cry of despair and anguish that rose from her heart.

"Oh, I am glad," said Floris, with a little sigh. "I could not have shared your love. I could not have borne to think that I had only got it second hand. You see, with a little piteous smile that was very near tears, "I am so proud."

He bent till his lips touched her beautiful hair.

"By heavens, I think I love you all the more for being so," he answered. "I would not have you altered by a hair's breadth, my darling. I think you perfect, bodily and mentally."

"Why I dream even, don't laugh, of your very dresses. To-night you look like a vision of cold, pure ice, you see. Proud. So you shall be. Be as proud as you like, so that you are not too proud to let me love you. And, I, too; I am proud. But I am a bad lot altogether, my poor darling. Heaven grant I may be able to conceal it from you."

She smiled trustfully enough.

"I will take you as you are, Bruce," she murmured.

"I am proud, too, little one," he said, very thoughtfully, "and a monster of jealousy."

She laughed softly.

"Are you? How much alike we are. My pride is only outdone by my jealousy. I warn you, Bruce, I shall grudge every smile you bestow on other women. I shall want all your soft speeches."

He laughed grimly.

"I was never wont to smile much, or very rich in soft speeches, my darling, but what I have in stock shall be reserved for you. Ah, you know well how wholly and entirely I am yours, bound body and soul to your chariot wheel, so much your slave that there is not another woman in the world that is worth a thought to me."

She put up her hand with a little naive caress, and laid it against his cheek.

"Ah, how happy I am," she murmured, "so low, and yet so distinct that it reached the hidden woman opposite

She put up her hand with a little naive caress, and laid it against his cheek.

"Ah, how happy I am," she murmured, "so low, and yet so distinct that it reached the hidden woman opposite them, and went to her heart like the stab of a knife.

Then Floris started.

"We must go. Why, how late it must be."

He laughed.

"It is not late. What does it matter? Who cares?"

"Oh, but I must, sir. Lady Pendleton, my mistress, has forgotten me, and I must find her."

He laughed with grim delight.

"Lady Betty, your mistress. Ha, ha! How surprised she will be, and yet, I don't know, I have caught her looking at me once or twice with that cock-sparrow expression in her eyes which makes her look so knowing. She will be delighted. Must we go? Let me put your cloak around you. Happy cloak. What a pretty one. What made you think of that dress, and its edging of swansdown? My beautiful angel," and he took her bodily and boldly in his arms.

"Oh, take care," she murmured, blushing, and looking around fearfully. "Some one will see us."

"Who cares? And to think that only this morning you snubbed me. Actually refused to sell me the flower from your bosom."

She blushed.

"Do you care to have it now?" she asked, quietly.

"Care? Give me a chance of getting it," he retorted.

She took the crushed and withered rose from within her dress and held it out to him.

Then, as with a cry of delight, he eagerly stretched out his hand, she whipped hers behind her.

"Give me something in exchange, Mr. Bruce."

He laughed, his short curt laugh.

"Take all I have," he said, then he glanced down and about him. He wore no rings, no trinket he could depend himself of.

"Give me that flower in your coat," said Floris.

"Ah, yes," he assented, entirely forgetful of the woman who only that morning made him promise to wear it, who pinned it in his coat with loving hands. "Here you are. Give me my rose," and he took it from her, and with all a boy's love and a man's passion, kissed it before he hid it in an inner pocket.

And so they passed out, arm in arm, heart to heart.

For a moment Lady Blanche stood leaning against the palm, her face white as death, her hands clutched at her side.

Death. She had died a thousand deaths in that last ten minutes.

Hope, joy, the future, all were dead, and from their ashes had sprung the demons of hate and jealousy.

Without a cry she sank on to a seat, and sat staring in front of her with clasped hands.

And she had lost him. Lost the man she loved more than life. And she had so nearly won him; a week, a few days ago, he was almost hers.

The world had linked their names together. It wanted but the word to make him hers irrevocably.

And now she had lost him. And why? Because of this chit of a country girl, this girl with the round face and the gray eyes, this servant of Lady Betty's?

Oh, Heaven, it was hard to bear! Hard, hard! hard! And he had told this girl that he had never loved, never could love Blanche.

"Ah, it was hard to bear, too hard. She could not."

"I will not," she murmured, huskily; "I will not. There must be some way of stopping him, of balking her. She has caught him with her doll's face, with her pretended modesty and shyness. He must be saved! He shall not marry her; I mean it! But how can I prevent it? How? how? Oh, if there was some one to help me, some one I could depend on."

She looked around wildly. "I am only a woman, a wronged, insulted, helpless woman. If there were only some one who could help me."

As if in answer to her prayer, a voice from behind her said, in a quiet, almost sarcastic tone:

"I will help you!"

Lady Blanche started, and turning her white face over her shoulder, she saw a man standing half-hidden behind the ferns.

"I will help you!"

Lady Blanche started quickly, as if the words had sprung from the lips of the familiar demon, the demon jealousy, that at that moment was reigning paramount in her bosom.

She started even more violently as she looked at the man who had spoken, for it seemed as if the shadow of Lord Norman had sprung up beside her.

She even murmured his name. "Bruce!"

The man smiled sardonically, and shook his head.

"No, my lady, I am not Lord Norman," he said, calmly, with an ease that was almost insolent.

Lady Blanche looked again at him. The likeness to Lord Norman was extraordinary; had this man been dressed in an evening suit he might have walked into the ballroom and been mistaken by all but the closest observer for the earl.

"Did you speak to me?" she demanded, in the cold, hard voice which had struck a chill to many an inferior.

"I did, my lady, I heard your appeal for help, and—I answered it."

"Who are you?"

Italians Count River Overflows Bridges. Gr

BATTLE CONTINUING BITTERLY

ROME, June 20.

From the Montello to the sea the battle of the Piave River is continuing bitterly without pause, the Italian war office announces to-day. Last night the Italians forced the invaders to withdraw their whole front north of the Monte Bellune railway. More than 1,200 Austrian prisoners were taken and numerous machine guns were captured. The Austrians yesterday afternoon, says the report, launched a fresh attack on the Piave with strong forces and succeeded at first in gaining some ground in front of Zenson. Later our reserves were brought up and forced the enemy to retire. French troops on the Asiago Plateau stormed enemy positions at Bertigo and Pennar. The Italian troops succeeded in capturing Ocastlunga, the statement adds.

COUNTER ATTACKING.

LONDON, June 20.

By counter attacking all along the Piave, the Italians have gained further ground on the Montello Plateau, in the northern sector of the river front, and have also made headway southeast of this ridge, says the Evening Standard to-day.

AUSTRIAN DIFFICULTIES.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, June 19. (By the Associated Press.)

—For forty-eight hours the River Piave overflowing its banks has destroyed several pontoon bridges constructed by the Austrians at Intestaduffa and also at Sandonna di Piave. This has increased the difficulty of the Austrians in their rear communications, affecting the transportation of artillery, ammunition, food and fresh troops. It is stated that the Austrians fighting south of the Piave River continue to implore help and also that two of their divisions have been greatly reduced by losses.

A HUNGER OFFENSIVE.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, June 19.—That Austria's drive against Italy is positively a hunger offensive, has been proved by new orders and addresses found upon prisoners. These were signed by officers ranging from Field Marshal von Hoetzendorf down to regimental commanders. One which was issued by the commander of the famous regiment bearing the name of Archduke Charles, says: "Soldiers, remember the spoils we got last fall from the Italians—the sheep, cows, stores and warehouses full of good clothes and groceries, stores full of wine, canned goods, flour and sugar. Think of your family, think of the white bread you may win for all." The correspondent has visited groups of hundreds of prisoners, all of whom are thin and weak. They said they had little food for the past month and spoke with horror of the winter months they had passed. A sample of their black bread showed that it was made of rye, straw and potatoes. Many of the prisoners had strong well spiked shoes, but these

Italians Counter Attacking With Success. River Overflows and Destroys Enemy Bridges. Grave Internal Conditions in Austria.

BATTLE CONTINUING BITTERLY.

ROME, June 20. From the Montello to the sea the Piave River is continuing bitterly without pause, the Italian war office announces to-day. Last night the Italians forced the invaders to withdraw from the north of the Monte Bellina railway. More than 1,200 Austrian prisoners were taken and numerous machine guns were captured. The Austrians yesterday afternoon, says the report, launched a fresh attack on the Piave with strong forces and succeeded at first in gaining some ground in front of Zenson. Later our reserves were brought up and forced the enemy to retire. French troops on the Asiago Plateau stormed enemy positions at Bertigo and Pennar. The Italian troops succeeded in capturing Ocastalunga, the statement adds.

COUNTER ATTACKING.

LONDON, June 20. By counter attacking all along the Piave, the Italians have gained further ground on the Montello Plateau, in the northern sector of the river front, and have also made headway southeast of this ridge, says the Evening Standard to-day.

AUSTRIAN DIFFICULTIES.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, June 19. (By the Associated Press.)—For forty-eight hours the Piave River overflowing its banks has destroyed several pontoon bridges constructed by the Austrians at Instastava and also at Sandonna di Piave. This has increased the difficulty of the Austrians in their rear communications, affecting the transportation of artillery, ammunition, food and fresh troops. It is stated that the Austrians fighting south of the Piave River continue to implore help and also that two of their divisions have been greatly reduced by losses.

A HUNGER OFFENSIVE.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, June 19.—That Austria's drive against Italy is positively a hunger offensive has been proved by new orders and addresses found upon prisoners. These were signed by officers ranging from Field Marshal von Hoetzendorf down to regimental commanders. One which was issued by the commander of the famous regiment bearing the name of Archduke Charles, says: "Soldiers, remember the spoils we got last fall from the Italians—the sheep, coats, stores and warehouses full of good clothes and groceries, stores full of wine, canned goods, flour and sugar. Think of your family, think of the white bread you may win for all." The correspondent has visited groups of hundreds of prisoners, all of whom are thin and weak. They said they had little food for the past month and spoke with horror of the winter months they had passed. A sample of their black bread showed that it was made of rye, straw and potatoes. Many of the prisoners have strong well spiked shoes, but these they claim they made themselves or bought. Their clothes are falling apart, having been patched frequently. Most of them have mere rags for shirts. The majority of the prisoners have money, but it is either in paper bills or iron coin. The most of them wear medals for valor, some of them having two or three of them, but these decorations are of "base metal" and some are of gold or silver. One is stamped with a likeness of Empress Zita and encircled with laurel wreaths and is made of a zinc composition. The prisoners part readily with these medals, saying they have no pride in them, for a few pennies of Italian money. Most of the captured men are young and light haired and generally have bad teeth. The Italian soldiers tell humorous stories of captives effected by persuading the Austrians they will be well fed. One Italian commanding officer who had been wounded and picked up by a group of Austrians who intended to make him prisoner, explained how foolish they were. He said, come with me and you will get meat, wine and real bread. Thereupon the whole party went over to the Italian lines. It is said that at the beginning of the offensive the Austrians in the front line each received three rations of meat, no food for the rest of the day until they reached the Italian stores. They were so hungry that they ate all of them the first day. During his tour the correspondent talked with an Austrian prisoner, a member of a manufacturing firm with offices in the great centres, including New York. "I have been fighting for forty months," said this man; "first on the Russian front where I had an easy time and now here where the Italians are making things too hot for us. There is no food for the people of Austria and next to none for the army. I had but few pieces of bread and potatoes before the fight and since the fight began I had had none. The army can't last for more than a couple of months. There are no good officers left. We have plenty of ammunition but no one to use it properly." The Italian losses were comparatively small, while those of the known Austrian losses will have to be added to the many Austrian dead which still encumber the wooded mountain sides. It is still too early to predict that the Austrians will not come back with a further effort, but it is clear that in their so far futile push they under-estimated the Italians both as regards their morale and general fighting efficiency. A sample of the comparative destructiveness of the Allied and Austrian fire was observed by the correspondent in the Asiago region where the French troops had fired more than 10,000 shells while the Austrians discharged large numbers. The Austrian outposts were covered with dead bodies whereas the French had suffered hardly any damage.

ITALIAN CONTROL OF THE AIR.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, June 20. (By the Associated Press.)—The Italians have won complete control of the air along the Piave where the most determined fighting of the present Austrian offensive is in progress. This afternoon not a single Austrian machine was aloft on the front. In general the situation of the Austrians along the Piave appears far from satisfactory to them. Prisoners taken by the Italians all declared the Austrian army has little food. Some of the prisoners have not eaten for forty-eight hours.

ITALIANS CONGRATULATED.

LONDON, June 20. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Premier Lloyd George has telegraphed Premier Orlando of Italy as follows: "The Imperial War Cabinet, representative of all the peoples and nations of the British Empire, desire to congratulate the Italian Army on the splendid defence they have made in the great battle now in progress. The Imperial War Cabinet has watched with pride and admiration the unwavering courage with which the brave soldiers of Italy, in company with the Franco-British troops, repelled the offensive conducted with the whole strength of the Austro-Hungarian army. This great success has been a deep source of encouragement to the Allies. In the coming most fatal hour of the whole war it is a good augury that an alliance of free nations will ere long free the world once and for all of the military domination which threatened it so long."

THE AUSTRIAN CLAIM.

VIENNA, June 20. The Austrian troops under Field

Marshal Von Borovcic have held all the ground they gained from the Italians on the west bank of the Piave, to-day's official War Office report states, and in addition have driven the Italians back westward south of the railway that leads to Treviso. The new advance was made with the aid of an infantry division under General Baron Scharner. The Italians attacked again southwest of Asiago on the mountain front, the statement adds, but met with the same poor success as on previous occasions. The battle in the Montello region increased in violence yesterday equalling that of the great battles on the Carso front. The statement says the Italians drove forward six times and employed reserves indiscriminately, but all their efforts were in vain.

AUSTRIA'S RATIONS.

AMSTERDAM, June 20. For at least six weeks, says the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, the people of Austria will have to exist on little more than salads and vegetables.

STRIKE IN VIENNA.

LONDON, June 20. More than 100,000 persons have gone on strike in the Vulcan arsenal and the Warschowski airplane works in Vienna, according to a despatch from Zurich to the Exchange Telegraph Co. The despatch adds that riots have occurred at Favoriten, Margarethen, Ottakring and Brigittenau, suburbs of Vienna.

SUCCESSFUL RAIDS.

LONDON, June 20. (Official.)—Two successful raids were carried out last night in the neighborhood of Liere by French troops who captured several prisoners. The British took a few prisoners northeast of Metzen. This morning we advanced our line slightly northwest of Metzen and captured a few prisoners and a trench mortar and machine gun. Two counter attacks on our new positions were beaten off. The hostile artillery was active with gas shells to-day in the vicinity of Aypette, south of Arras.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, June 20. (Official.)—There was intermittent artillery action between Mont Didier and the Oise and south of the Aisne. In the eastern theatre both armies were active along the whole front. Two enemy planes were downed and one balloon north of Dieppe.

AERIAL OPERATIONS.

LONDON, June 20. The official statement on aerial operations to-night says: Low clouds and rain interfered with flying on June 19th and the enemy aircraft showed little activity. Five German planes were destroyed during the day and two more were driven down out of control. One of our is missing.

BERLIN REPORT.

BERLIN, June 20. The evening statement issued by the War Office says: North of Albert, to the southwest of Noyon and to the southwest of Chateau Thierry small attacks by the enemy failed with heavy losses.

RUSSIA MUST BE RESCUED.

PARIS, June 20. (Via Havas Agency.)—Maklakoff, the Russian Ambassador to France, reiterated, in an interview printed in the Petit Journal, his appeal to the Allies for intervention in Russia, saying that such action is absolutely necessary. The future of Russia, says Maklakoff, depends on victory for the Entente Allies, which will mean the salvation of humanity. Allied intervention is necessary to allow disarmed and betrayed Russia to resist the German. To help the Bolsheviks will be to play the German propaganda game. The Allies must help the population of the districts where the Bolsheviks and the Germans are not masters of the situation.

TRANSPORT TORPEDOED.

PARIS, June 20. The transport Santa Anna, proceeding from Bizerta for Malta, was torpedoed and sunk on the night of May 10-11, according to the Havas Agency. There were aboard 2,150 soldiers and native workmen, of whom 1,512 were saved. The date May 10-11 is being investigated.

AMERICAN DASH.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE MARNE, June 20.—The American troops in this sector attacked the German line northwest of Chateau Thierry during the night and made an advance of five-eighths of a mile, driving the Germans back from a small pocket on the northern side of the Belleau Wood. The Americans occupied the German positions without resistance from the enemy, the Germans having withdrawn when the short and sharp preliminary artillery bombardment indicated that an infantry attack would follow.

NAVAL SQUADRON ATTACKED.

LONDON, June 20. German airplanes attacked a British naval squadron north of Heligoland on June 19th, the British Admiralty announced to-day. The German machines made no hits and one seaplane was destroyed.

GOMPERS RE-ELECTED.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20. Samuel Gompers was re-elected President of the American Federation of Labor by acclamation at the annual convention here this afternoon.

HOME FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

LONDON, June 20. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Lord Beaverbrook opened the center in Norfolk Street for the Dominion's allied and neutral correspondents, affording closer touch with each other, and the ministry of information. He said he hoped they would familiarize themselves with what Britain was doing and study the national determination which was equally vital with the spirit of the fighting men for victory.

NO THOUGHT OF PEACE.

LONDON, June 20. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Premier Hughes, of Australia, at a luncheon of the British Empire League, commiserated Russia on the tragic spectacles of her treatment by Germany. The shillbills of Bohemia, he said, would see it through, the faint whisperings of a few pacifists were drowned in the mighty and determined shout of a patriotic people. Premier Hughes paid a special tribute to the Americans who did not dream of peace and were stepping in to the forefront of the battle. Germany was trying her hardest to grasp a quick and elusive victory, but nothing would break the strength of the Allies whose minds should be purged of all thoughts of peace.

THE ALLIED TRADE.

LONDON, June 20. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Premier Massey, of New Zealand, at a luncheon of the British Empire Producers, emphasized the paramount importance of the transportation of goods and also the necessity of post war prohibition of the commercial, financial, social and political activities of enemy aliens within the Empire. He urged the adoption of an imperial fiscal preference, including a preference for British ships between Empire ports, and added that there should be generous treatment of allied trade.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says: "I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation. Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well. My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARY BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Allied Fleets Busy Keeping Sea Safe.

RALPH D. PAINE TELLS MORGAN GUESTS NAVAL MEN STILL HOPE FOR REAL FIGHT WITH GERMANS.

Stories of American, British and French sea fighters in action were told to a company of guests of J. P. Morgan, including a large number of officers in the three navies, by Ralph D. Paine, the novelist, who has visited the warships under Government authorization to prepare a book called "The Fighting Fleet."

"People talk of the inactivity of the grand fleet," he said, "but the grand fleet is continually active. It is not afraid of submarines; it has gone to sea again and again to answer alarms that the German high seas fleet was coming out, and in every officer and man in the fleet there is confidence that some day they will actually catch the Germans. I asked Admiral Beatty what would happen if the Germans did come out, and he answered cheerfully, 'We're here—what, what?' Mr. Paine told of one of these occasions when the fleet left its base in the north of Scotland between midnight and dawn in response to a report that the Germans were abroad. 'They came through a channel,' he said, 'which navigators had said before the war could not be traversed at night; but in the war all the fleets have learned to do the impossible. On this occasion the newly arrived American battleships had received the place of honor in the van just behind the British flagship. The fleet cruised twenty hours in a high gale, but found no Germans.

"One of the British battleships had sent up an observer in a kite balloon just before the fleet sailed, and had no time to bring him down. So for twenty hours he was towed by the battleship at the end of his long cable in a wind so high that his observation car was usually sticking out horizontally behind the balloon.

"I visited also the submarine base where American submarines are undergoing intensive training for stalking German U-boats, under the direction of Captain Nasmyth, who commanded a British submarine that performed remarkable exploits in the Dardanelles and the Sea of Marmora, sinking a Turkish battleship and several transports. He is now training Americans in the very difficult work of submarine stalking.

"The submarine has no friends; other vessels shoot whenever they see a periscope without stopping to find out whether it belongs to friend or enemy, so the work is somewhat hazardous. The submarine men are resigned to a good deal of it. I met one officer who said that he didn't mind it when two destroyers of his own fleet had attacked his boat, one ramming it and the other dropping a depth bomb. But he did think it was a little too much when the Admiral commended them for their energy. Among the crews of the larger ships there is a feeling that the submarine has spoiled this war."

Mr. Paine told of a German mine-laying submarine which had settled in the bottom of a British harbor to discharge its mines, when on the shell of which presently assumed the form of a message in the international Morse code.

"Unless you come to the surface and surrender at once," said the message, "we will drop a depth bomb." Unable to see how the message could have been sent to him, the commander hesitated, but there came another tapping. "The bomb is being put into position." Then the German came to the surface almost under a British trawler, which, though taken by surprise, opened fire and forced the sub-

Your Debt.

Have you ever considered the debt which you owe to those who are fighting your battles overseas? Has it ever occurred to you to ask yourself how you could ever hope to repay, in even the smallest way, one lot of the tremendous obligation under which you are labouring towards those heroes who on sea and land, and suffering untold hardships and miseries, and risking their lives that you may live in peace and security. There is a service which cannot be reckoned in the common market; yours is a debt which could not be computed in the highest court of the land. And it is true that of which you owe the living, who can measure the proportions of your responsibility and obligation to the dead, who gave their young lives that you might live, and whose death itself from their hearts and homes. There is only one way in which you can endeavour to be worthy to at least some degree of the sufferings and sacrifices of your defenders, and that is by aiding with every means in your power the Cause for which they have struggled and died, and for which their comrades are battling to-day against the forces of tyranny and oppression. And you can aid that cause in no better way than by helping along the Newfoundland Victory League by subscribing yourself, by urging others to subscribe, and by boosting wherever and whenever possible. Make it a personal matter, because it is a personal matter. It is a small means of helping you in some way pay your debt to our sailors and soldiers. Avail of it without delay, and you will have the comforting assurance of having helped along the great Cause of Justice and Liberty.

Council Meeting.

The regular session of the Municipal Council was held last evening at 8 o'clock. The Mayor presided, and Councillors Morris, Tait, Brownrigg, Ayre and Vinnicome were present. After reading of minutes, etc., the following matters were disposed of: Hon. F. McNamara wrote that steps would be taken to prevent any further case of complaint regarding blocking of sidewalks near his premises. The President of the Nfd. Industrial Workers' Association wrote on behalf of Jas. Harvey, and asked that he (Harvey) be reinstated in his former position on the Sanitary Department. He will be written explaining the Council's position in the matter. James Murdoch again applied for permission to build on the Cockburn Road. Referred to Solicitor. John Ross asked permission to build an outhouse and workshop on Golf Avenue. Permission granted. John Adams wrote asking to be given an extension of time to install sewerage in his house, York Street. He will be written to make application the usual way. Mrs. Taylor sent a bill for damages.

The Spirit of America.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

In a little country town that we passed through one day his spring was a very fine drugstore. We stopped for the inevitable visit to the very neat soda fountain and attendant of praise to the proprietor on his remarkably attractive and complete little pharmacy, got into quite a conversation with him.

In the course of it something was said about the summer crowds of tourists and he said, "Yes, my son helps me in summer. My son," he went on "is at the pharmaceutical college."

"Going to have him come into the business with you when he gets through?" we asked.

"I don't think so," he said. "When he gets through I'm going to send him to the Institute of Technology. We'll see what he wants to do when he gets through."

Getting Back At The World.

"You certainly are doing pretty well by him," said someone.

"Well, I'm trying to," said the druggist, his fine plain face beautifully alight. "We fellows that did not have any too much education ourselves, we have to get back at the world by giving what we missed to our sons."

"I hope," said someone, "that he appreciates it and repays you."

"Don't know as I expect that," said the druggist. "I just want him to do a little better by his son, when he has one, than I have by him."

The Keynote Of America's South.

After we had left that drug store I fell to thinking over what he had said, and it seemed to me that I had never heard the Spirit of America better put into words than by that man.

"We fellows that didn't have any too much education ourselves have got to get back at the world by giving what we missed to our sons."

And again, "I just want him to do a little better by his son, when he has one, than I have by him."

If that isn't the keynote of this country, of its growth, its possibilities, its ideals,—I don't know what is.

From The District School To College —Three Generations.

One generation goes to the little country school or the city grammar school, but its sons and daughters must needs go through high school and bring home diplomas to be framed and hung in the sitting room. The years pass, and the sons and daughters are denying themselves that their sons and daughters may go to college and bring home a sheepskin.

This is the history of my own family and very likely of yours. It is the history that hundreds of thousands of families in this country have made or are making.

And the spirit that makes this history, the spirit that conceives it to be the supreme ideal of life to pass on the torch of education and opportunity brighter than it was received, is what makes America the wonderful land of opportunity and progress and infinite possibility, that it is.

MINARD'S LINIMENT is the only Liniment asked for at my store and the only one we keep for sale.

FOR THE BUSINESS GIRL.

The business girl has a larger account to settle with the Goddess of Beauty and her handmaidens. Youth than the girl who stays at home. The hasty luncheon, the neglected breakfast, the mad rush for the train in the early morning hours, the oftentimes hours of sleeplessness, and long hours of sitting with feet in wet shoes, innumerable hours at the nerve wrecking typewriter, are all against her. In fact she has but a fighting chance of being beautiful.

The business girl should try to get at least eight hours of sound sleep every night. The tedious work before her, is hardly an agreeable thought as she hastily dresses herself, with eyes half-closed in sleep. Even though she must sacrifice a few late parties, it would count for more in the end to retain her health and beauty.

Don't carry lunch from home if you can possibly avoid it, but go out for it. Eat slowly as you do at home during dinner, and spend the remainder of your lunch hour taking a brisk walk. Most business girls lose their fresh, clear coloring after a couple of years in an office and become almost sallow, because of lack of fresh air and exercise.

If you sit at a typewriter all day you must do everything possible to make conditions easier for your nerves, as you must remember that the ends of the fingers are the most sensitive portion of the body and you are striking them all day long. Always sit erect in your chair so that the end of the spine will be resting on the chair.

Take care of your health, Miss Business Girl, as it is your chief asset in being a success in your chosen work.

Everyday Etiquette.

"When a girl's engagement has been announced should her parents call on her fiancé's parents, or should they call first?" asked Ellis.

"When a girl's engagement has been announced the young man's family should take the initiative in calling on her parents," replied her married sister.

SOME SWEET DAY.

WILSON MASON

Some day we'll see the dawn of peace, some day the noise of war will cease, and swords will gather rust; the men who wield the saber now will march along behind the plow, amid the flies and dust. Some day the man who fought and bled will have a wreath upon his head, and honors by the ton; and we'll admire him as he walks, and say, "He helped to knock the socks from off the hideous Hun." Some day the man who stayed at home and filled the gumbos and the loaves, to give the nations wheat, will find we've marked his loyalty in our little hall of fame; and he'll have a parquet seat. Some day the men, and women, too, who helped to see the struggle through, with patriotic zeal, will know the joy of duty done; they've helped in all the triumphs won, and, gee, how good they'll feel! Some day the men who groined and groaned when in the war time they were bored to cough up fifty cents, will be so lonesome they'll swear, and they will weep and read their hair, and put up loud laments. They'll have acquired a pound renown, and they can never live it down in twice a hundred years; their tears will flow in streams and ponds as they clin coupons from the bonds with cheap mail order shears. The man who fails to loosen up will find there's wormwood in his end when peace has come again; for him there'll be no cordial hand in any corner of the land where there are loyal men.

Special Notice.

At the end of this year we will give 5 cts. for every 12 Outside Green Wrappers obtained from "STAFFORD'S LINIMENT."

We will also give $10.00 to the person forwarding us the largest number and $5.00 to the 2nd largest.

We will keep a record of every person forwarding us these wrappers from time to time and at the end of the year we will publish the names of the winners.

"STAFFORD'S LINIMENT" is the Strongest and most penetrating Liniment for sale in Newfoundland, and is sold in over 600 stores.

It is the best Liniment you can use for RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA and all ACRES and PAINS.

Owing to the cost of Bottles and Ingredients used in the manufacturing of this Liniment, we have had to advance the price a little, but the bottle still remains the same size.

Killed in France.

Private John Cochrane of Arlington, L Company of the 101st Infantry, has been killed in France by accident, according to official notification to relatives.

He was born in Newfoundland, 22 years ago, and was the son of the late William and Katherine Cochrane. He came to Boston a year ago last July, and took out his first papers. He enlisted May 30, 1917, in the 6th Regiment, and when that organization was merged he was assigned to L Company of the 101st Infantry. He was killed April 14. He had lived in Arlington about a year. He has a brother Patrick F. Cochrane, who is an engineer in the Naval Reserve, and two sisters, the Misses Mary and Margaret Cochrane, of Arlington. Two brothers, Daniel and William, are living in St. John's Nfd.—Boston Globe.

Had Piles for Ten Years

And Tried Nearly Everything Except a Surgical Operation Without Obtaining Relief—Tells How Complete Cure Was Effected.

There are reported here three cures of chronic cases of piles. In all three cases many treatments were tried before it was discovered that Dr. Chase's Ointment is about the only remedy for this distressing ailment.

Mrs. A. Oates, 25 Wilkinson street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for ever so long, and am particularly indebted to it for a cure from Piles. I had suffered from this annoying trouble for ten years, and tried nearly everything I heard of. After using Dr. Chase's Ointment a short while I was completely cured."

Mrs. Wm. Shaatz, 155 Albert street, Kitchener, Ont., writes: "For several years I was troubled with bleeding piles, I tried different remedies for relief without success. I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac of the benefits other people were receiving from Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I sent to your office for a sample box. I found it gave me such relief that I went to a drug store and purchased a full-sized box. I have used several boxes since, and have derived more benefit from its use than any remedy I have ever used."

Mrs. F. Cassons, Victoria street, Ingersoll, Ont., writes: "About two years and a half ago I was suffering from Piles. I had tried many different remedies for this distressing trouble, but nothing helped me. Finally I got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and after using it found that I was completely cured and have not been bothered in this way since. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to anyone suffering as I did."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanon, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. There are no rivals to Dr. Chase's Ointment as a treatment for Piles.

The Young Women's Christian Association.

What are the needs of the girls of to-day? Conditions are fast changing as month after month our men crop their tasks and march off to the battlefields, and the girls must pick up and carry on.

There is overwhelming evidence that girls need guidance and leadership, that proper boarding homes must be provided for those who are pressing into cities, that activities to build up sound bodies are so essential, that plans must be made whereby girls will find an incentive to be strong in body, mind and spirit. It is true that the Churches are trying to meet these needs, but the experience of leaders the world over is, that by a united effort of the whole community much better results are attained. The awakening of a community spirit is the greatest development that can come to any group of people, and the lining up of units is what makes an army a force that conquers.

If the people of this city would unite to meet the needs of the girls, great results could be attained. The Young Women's Christian Association is one of the forces at work in the world to-day to help to bring in the Kingdom of God, and it would be a great thing for our colony if we could have a branch established in this city. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of men and women and girls at the meeting on Friday evening, June 21st, when the question of opening a branch here will be discussed.—Com.

E. G. Cousins sent a plan of small shed and garage to be erected on the South Side Road. Permission granted.
John Galway, Alexander Street, requested to make repairs to house. Enquiry to be made if water and sewerage is in this house before permission is given.
The Engineer is to report on Mrs. Goadby's request to make repairs to house, Water St. West.
Solicitor Carter reported that in the matter of the Council vs. the Street Railway Co. a writ and statement of claim for $22.56 was issued and served upon the Solicitor for the defence and company, Mr. Conroy. No defence or subsequent pleadings have since been delivered. As the matter is in the Supreme Court nothing can be done until October unless the Council wishes to go ahead with the necessary repairs and sue the Company for the cost. This is a case where the Council have requested over and over again that the Reid-Nfd. Co put the part of street between the tracks and two feet outside in good repair, as complaints have been made of the condition of the streets throughout the belt line. Decided to ask the Solicitor for a report as to what legal action can be taken in the meantime, or if an order of injunction can be secured to compel the Reid Company to put the streets in good condition.
Arising out of the Engineer's report, the sewer in McCarthy's Cove was ordered to be repaired, and the old reservoir, Merrymeeting Road, filled up.
Francis Snow was given sewerage under the Small Homes' Act.
Plan of proposed pipe line on the south Side Road was discussed.
After passing pay rolls, bills, etc., and disposing of some other routine business, the meeting adjourned.

Lt.-Col James Forbes-Robertson.

D.S.O., M.C.
(Awarded V.C.)
For most conspicuous bravery whilst commanding his battalion during the heavy fighting.
Through his quick judgment, resources, untiring energy and magnificent example, Lt.-Col. Forbes-Robertson of four separate occasions, saved the line from breaking and averted a situation which might have had the most serious and far reaching results.
On the first occasion, when troops were falling back he made a rapid reconnaissance on horse-back, in full view of the enemy, under heavy machine-gun and close range shell fire. He then organised and still mounted led a counter-attack which was completely successful in re-establishing our line. When his horse was shot under him he continued on foot.
Later on the same day, when troops to the left of his line were giving way, he went to that flank and checked and steadied the line, inspiring confidence by his splendid coolness and disregard of personal danger. His horse was wounded three times and he was thrown five times.
The following day, when the troops on both his flanks were forced to retire, he formed a post at battalion headquarters and with his battalion still held his ground, thereby covering the retreat of troops on his flanks. Under the heaviest fire this gallant officer fearlessly exposed himself when collecting parties, organising and encouraging.

On a subsequent occasion, when troops were retiring on his left and the condition of things on his right were obscure, he again saved the situation by his magnificent example and cool judgment. Losing a second horse, he continued alone on foot until he had established a line to which his own troops could withdraw and so conform to the general situation."
(Lt.-Col. James Forbes-Robertson was attached to the Royal Newfoundland Regiment as O.G. for some time, and won his D.S.O. at Monchy while with the Newfoundlanders.)

England's Burden Cheerfully Borne.

Does England groan under her prodigious burden? Does she lament the billions she has spent and is spending to preserve the Empire intact, to sustain her Allies, and to protect her Dominions from slavery, indigence, and ruin? Does she whine at the blows she has received from her terrible antagonist and make outcry to the stars and her cruel sacrifices? Does she lose heart because some of her War partners have faltered? Does she reproach us for our lesser sacrifices and our feebler efforts? God knows that she does not! Peerless, steadfast, incomparable England still fronts the future proud and dignified and undimmed. The greater her task the more resplendently shines out her fortitude. Disappointments and disasters are equally powerless to daunt her or to disturb her heroic magnanimity. She greets the shortcomings of her Allies with messages of hope and cheer and inspiration. She is the sustainer, the consoler and the comforter of the whole of civilised Europe. She

Household Notes.

Glasses should always be washed first.
Cold lima beans may be used in salad.
Rhubarb meringue pie is a dainty dessert.
Whatever you do about milk don't waste it.
Bananas can be baked to serve as a vegetable.
Small potatoes may be baked in half an hour.
Never add cold water to beans while baking.
When vegetables become cheap, buy less meat.
Sponge cake is at its best made of potato flour.
Add a little lemon juice to the coffee gelatine.
A small wooden knife is best for scraping dishes.
Lime water is satisfactory for preserving eggs.

Some Reasons Why You Should Buy Victory Bonds.

1. Because it is the best investment that has come your way for a long time.
2. Because of the high interest rate of $6.50 per $100 invested for every one of the ten years.
3. Because of the gilt-edge solid security behind the Loan.
4. Because all the world is buying Liberty and Victory Bonds. It's the great national pastime.
5. Because it is a convenient investment, your money being returned at the end of the ten-year period.
6. Because it is your duty as a patriotic and public-spirited citizen.
7. Because you want to see this War brought to as speedy a conclusion as possible, and dollars now count as much as men in the fight.
8. Because your pride as a citizen will not permit you to see Newfoundland lag behind the other Dominions and the Mother Country in the record they have set in this regard.
9. Because you want the world made safe for you and your children.
10. And finally, because you have longed to have a "go" at the Kaiser, and every Bond you purchase is another bayonet thrust at his Hunnish hordes.

Household Notes.

Vegetables should always be put into boiling water.
It is a good idea to core apples before paring them.
Coffee jelly is best made with almost no sweetening.
Milk will sour quickly if turned into unclean vessels.
Never use vanilla as flavoring in food for sick people.
Oranges and dried marmalade are good for marmalade.
Rice and barley flour can be very well used for pastry.
Prunes and toasted barley bread are good supper dishes.
Half a cup of corn flour equals a full cup of wheat flour.
Serve sliced bananas with lemon jelly if cream is lacking.
Buckwheat flour can be used in muffins like any other flour.
Fruit juices can be canned and kept the same as whole fruit.
The gas should always be turned low after the pot starts boiling.
Olive oil and lemon juice makes an excellent dressing for lettuce.
Strawberry shortcake can perfectly well be made of potato flour.
Kitchen refuse can be turned into good fertilizer when properly handled.

Problems of Life.

BY THE REV. E. J. CAMPBELL. The Case of Ireland.

The state of affairs in Ireland at the present time is occasioning much perplexity to thoughtful and fair-minded Englishmen. The Government is being severely blamed in many quarters in this country for introducing and determining to force through in the teeth of all opposition a measure applying conscription to Ireland on the same terms as it has long existed in the rest of the United Kingdom. A certain section of the public press has attacked the Prime Minister and his colleagues with great bitterness on this account, using freely such epithets as "insane," "humane politicians," "cynical tyrants," etc., etc. Some organs go so far as to inform us that the contemplated measure puts us in a false light before the world, is on a par with Prussian methods in enslaving Belgians and Poles, and diametrically opposed to the principles for which we profess to be fighting. That such language should be common in Irish periodicals is not perhaps surprising under the circumstances, but that there should be so much of it in journals claiming to represent Liberal feeling in Great Britain is somewhat difficult to understand considering all that is at stake. The Government may be well-advised or ill-advised in pursuing the course announced; it may issue in disaster or it may not; but what on earth has that to do with the right or wrong of the issue thus declared? The only question for us is whether Ireland ought to fight or not, and there could hardly be a doubtful answer on that point once the facts are fairly faced. We are fighting for our lives to-day; our backs are to the wall; we have thrown into the conflict every morsel of strength that we possess. We are fighting, not for empire or domination, but to avert from the whole world the gravest menace that has ever assailed human liberty and well-being. The war is not our war; it was none of our making; it is a war for mankind, and we were brought into it in the first instance because of the horrible fate that befell a little Catholic country with which one might have supposed Ireland's sympathies would be even keener than ours. As time has gone on the nature of the moral principles involved in the struggle has become so clear that practically every democracy on the face of the globe has been enlisted on our side and this has been demonstrated above all by the whole-hearted manner in which the United States have come to our aid. America has no national interest to serve in joining in the bloody inferno in Europe. Never was a loftier act on the part of a great people than that with which she threw in her lot with the Allies; American troops fight by our side in France and Flanders to-day because President Wilson saw and said that the nation whose elected chief he was could not stand by and see the old world mastered by Prussianism; he knew that the moment had come for the universal vindication of the great principles upon which the American constitution rests.

Ireland Hangs Back.

This is how America thinks and acts, and yet Ireland hangs back—nay more largely hostile to the British cause, which is the American cause and the cause of all free peoples. We do not forget the noble exceptions to this sweeping classification. We remember with respect and something warmer the magnificent lead which Mr. John Redmond endeavoured to give to his countrymen at the beginning of the war; we remember how his brother died fighting with our armies; we recall with gratitude and admiration the glorious record of the Irish regiments, who have stood shoulder to shoulder with their comrades of the sister island in the blood-soaked trenches on the Western Front and elsewhere for the last three and a half years; in particular, we cannot but acknowledge what Ulster has done, is doing, and will do in the sharing of our burdens and perils. But the rest of Ireland—the Irish swayed by the Spanish De Valera and Sinn Fein—this Ireland will have nothing to say to any proposal that she should do her bare duty. No coercion should have been necessary; for her own credit's sake, for truth and honour's sake, Ireland, as a whole, should have been in this war long ago shoulder to shoulder with the men of France, Italy, and Belgium, and her own kinsfolk and ours beyond the seas. To put the case on the very simplest ground, what is America's fight in Ireland's fight, and if Ireland is recreant now there will be a moral breach between her and America for the first time in the history of both; it will no longer be possible for Ireland to appeal to America to support her own claim to justice and freedom if she on her part refuses to strike a blow for these ideals in concert with America.

At The Bidding of England.

We are told that Irishmen reject conscription because it is imposed at the bidding of England. Then why did they tarry till England spoke? There was no need to do so. We are told that they would obey the mandate if it came from an Irish Parliament. They is not the slightest evidence of it, much, indeed, to the contrary. We are told and retold and told again that if England would only remedy Ireland's grievances there would be no unwillingness left and that Irishmen would spring to arms to defend the common heritage. Ireland has no grievances, and it is absolutely false to say that England enjoys any privilege to-day which she withholds from the sister island. The nonsense that is talked in this way is detestable. Irish farmers are buying their own land with English money, taxation is immensely lighter in Ireland than in England, yet the Irish people share in every social benefit of English Legislation down to State insurance and old age pensions. If they want Home Rule let them have it, but they will be worse and not better off economically and otherwise if England withdraws her supporting hand. That England has many things to repent of in her past treatment of Ireland may be sorrowfully admitted; but that she has done her best for many years to atone for these is no less evident, and to-day the balance has swung to the other side; it is England and not Ireland that stands in need of emancipation from Imperial burdens and responsibilities which should be spread over a wider area. The scandal is intolerable that Englishmen, Scotsmen, Welshmen, not to speak of our kinsmen throughout the world, should be making every sacrifice for humanity and Ireland make none; that our sons should be maimed and slain that Ireland may walk the streets in safety; that here old men should have to shoulder the rifles that these young men by the scores of thousands may be permitted to dwell at ease. These things can no longer be let those who speak for Ireland see to it.—Church Family Newspaper.

boarded the Chesapeake, and the American flag was pulled down. The fight had lasted for only a quarter of an hour, but with such fierceness that the carnage was appalling. —Tit-Bits.

Fresh Hun Wickedness

There is a complaint by the British Government that the enemy is using British prisoners behind the German lines in France, where they are exposed to our fire. This a crowning barbarity and a fresh infraction of the agreement concluded between the British and German Governments last year. Added to that there is proof that the parcels for prisoners are arriving irregularly or not at all, and that many of them are being stolen by the Hun. There are cases where ten parcels have accumulated for one man and he has only received the equivalent of two. The meaning of this is that our men are being steadily starved to death. Feeling themselves forgotten and overlooked, they are at last beginning to break down in spirit. What all the Hun cruelty has not been able to effect the apparent indifference of our Government is accomplishing. "I hope to God they finish the war this year," one of them writes, "or most of us will be mad." And that is the judgment of Mr. Gerard in his book published to-day. "The long confinement will make many prisoners insane."

These men have been loyal through torture to death. Thousands of them refused to work in making German munitions and could not be cowed by any cruelty. They have shown the martyr's heroism and faith. The question which the nation requires its Government to answer is this: Why have they not been made to feel that our Government's sympathy and the nation's love and gratitude were working actively in their behalf? Why have our authorities been so slow in moving for their release or exchange? If Lord Newton is not answerable for this, who is the person responsible? Is there some obstructing influence among the military survivors in the War Office?

DERELICT SIGHTED.—A vessel which reached port this morning reports having seen a schooner bottom up with a large hole in her bottom in 40 deg. 5m. north and 25 deg. by 20m. west. The hole looks as if it had been caused by the explosion of a torpedo or of some other high explosive. It was impossible at the time to make an examination of the derelict and the name of the unfortunate ship therefore is unknown.

The First Naval Duel.

When Briton Fought America. This month marks the anniversary of one of the most stirring incidents of the war between England and America, at the beginning of the last century.

England's sea supremacy had been badly shaken. The Americans, notwithstanding their inferiority in numbers, had captured five British ships. These reverses so exasperated the British that an opportunity of retrieving the honour of their Fleet was eagerly watched for.

On June 1st, 1813, the Shannon, lying off Boston Bay, under the command of Captain Broke, came upon the American frigate Chesapeake, which was lying within the harbour securely defended by the guns of Forts Warren and Independence. In order to test the valour and skill of the Fleet, Captain Broke sent an invitation to the commander of the Chesapeake to "quit the shelter of the forts and come out and try the fortune of the respective flags." The challenge was accepted, and both pledged their word that whatever might be the result of the battle no other ship should interfere.

The Shannon waited for the attack. The stately Chesapeake moved slowly down the bay, attended by numerous yachts, pinnaces, and pleasure-boats full of spectators, whilst on shore the house-tops and hills were crowded with interested witnesses. Not until the two frigates were within a stone's throw was a shot fired; then began one of the most dramatic sea-fights in history. The superiority of the British marksmanship was immediately evident; the rigging of the enemy was soon in tatters, her stern was beaten in, and the deadly musket-balls, discharged from heavy guns swept her decks. The American fire proved ineffective, and after a few broadsides the ships came into contact—the Shannon continuing to use two of her guns, the Chesapeake replying feebly with only musketry. Captain Broke, sword in hand, followed by seamen with bayonets fixed,
