

IMAGE EVALUATION
TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences Corporation

23 WEST MAIN STREET
WEBSTER, N.Y. 14580
(716) 872-4503

1.5 2.8
1.6 3.2
1.8 3.6
2.0 4.0
2.2 4.5

CIHM/ICMH
Microfiche Series.

CIHM/ICMH
Collection de microfiches.

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadien de microreproductions historiques

10

© 1982

Technical and Bibliographic Notes/Notes techniques et bibliographiques

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below.

L'Institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-être uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

- Coloured covers/
Couverture de couleur
- Covers damaged/
Couverture endommagée
- Covers restored and/or laminated/
Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée
- Cover title missing/
Le titre de couverture manque
- Coloured maps/
Cartes géographiques en couleur
- Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/
Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)
- Coloured plates and/or illustrations/
Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur
- Bound with other material/
Relié avec d'autres documents
- Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/
La reliure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distortion le long de la marge intérieure
- Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming/
Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont pas été filmées.
- Additional comments:/
Commentaires supplémentaires:

- Coloured pages/
Pages de couleur
- Pages damaged/
Pages endommagées
- Pages restored and/or laminated/
Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
- Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/
Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées
- Pages detached/Pages détachées
- Showthrough/
Transparence
- Quality of print varies/
Qualité inégale de l'impression
- Includes supplementary material/
Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
- Only edition available/
Seule édition disponible
- Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips, tissues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/
Les pages totalement ou partiellement obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata, une pelure, etc., ont été filmées à nouveau de façon à obtenir la meilleure image possible.

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/
Ce document est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

10X	14X	18X	22X	26X	30X
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
12X	16X	20X	24X	28X	32X

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

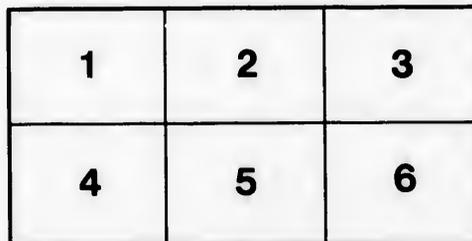

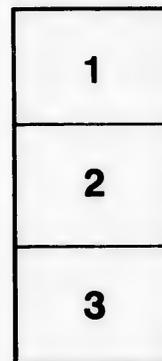

Izaak Walton Killam Memorial Library
Dalhousie University

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Izaak Walton Killam Memorial Library
Dalhousie University

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaître sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

ails du diffler une image rata o elure, à

Impress

Y BOUND.

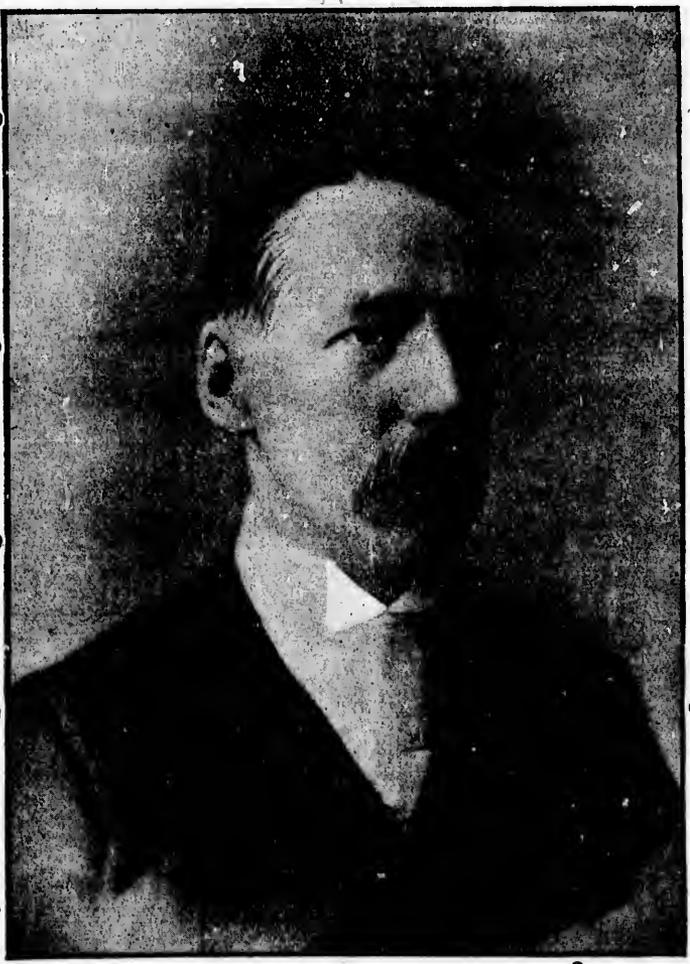

IM' SELECTIONS.

FROM

JOHN IMRIE'S POEMS.

Pol.

Ovc.

IMRIE, GRAHAM & CO.,

PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS,

CORNER OF CHURCH AND COLBORNE STS., TORONTO, ONT.

Dalhousie College Library

The

JOHN JAMES STEWART COLLECTION

4817 - Feb. 17/20

350 PAGES.

BEAUTIFULLY BOUND.

IMRIE'S POEMS.

SECOND EDITION.

Post Free for $1.00.

With Photograph of Author.

INTERSPERSED WITH MUSIC AND ILLUSTRATIONS.

POEMS OF LOVE, HOME, PATRIOTISM AND FRIENDSHIP; INCLUDING SCOTCH SONGS AND READINGS AND A NUMBER OF SACRED SONGS AND HYMNS.

Over 2,000 copies sold, and still in demand. Preparing for a new edition. Read the notices of the Canadian, American and English Press.

IMRIE, GRAHAM & CO., Publishers,

Corner of Church and Colborne Streets,

TORONTO, ONT.

SELECTIONS FROM THE WORK.

THE LINKS THAT BIND US.

Oh! the fond links that bind us to this earth,
Strong as bands of iron—yet fine as gold;
Partings and tears oft mingle with our mirth,—
If loving much love never can grow cold!

Ah! were it not for partings now and then,
Love of home and friends were never tested,—
Hardship and trial make the noblest men:
Present pain is future joy invested!

The patriot's wistful eyes are dimm'd with tears
When parting from his much lov'd native soil,
His heart doth throb with many doubts and fears,
Yet Hope points FORWARD though his soul recoil!

But when the weary years have come and gone,
And o'er the sea he homeward ploughs his way,
He finds his former doubts and fears have flown,—
Midnight with him hath changed to dawn of day!

A mother parts with one—her only son,
Each shows but half the anguish that they feel,—
The voyage finished, or the battle won,
What depths of love the meeting doth reveal!

Methinks such joy is ours when God, at last,
Shall find us gathered 'neath Heaven's azure dome;
Our journeys, tears, and partings of the past,
Will be as naught if we but reach our home!

NIAGARA FALLS.

OH ! Niagara ! as at thy brink I stand,
 My soul is filled with wonder and delight,
 To trace in thee that wonder-working Hand,
 Whose hollow holds the seas in balance light

Worthy art thou to be a nation's pride,—
 A patriot's boast—a world's unceasing wonder ;
 Like some bold monarch calling to thy side
 Subjects from every clime in tones of thunder !

Deep on my soul thy grandeur is impress'd,
 Thy awful majesty—thy mighty power—
 Thy ceaseless tumult and thy great unrest,
 Like nations warring in dread conflict's hour !

Rainbows of glory sparkle round thy shrine,
 Cresting thy waters with effulgence bright ;
 And in thy foaming currents intertwine
 Rare coruscations of commingl'd light !

Like roar of battle, or like thunder's call,
 Thy deep-toned echoes roll with solemn sound !
 Great pillar'd clouds thy vapors rise, and fall—
 Like sparkling pearls—upon the thirsty ground !

Rush on ! rush on ! in thy uncheck'd career,
 With avalanchic power thy course pursue ;
 While rending rocks quake as with mortal fear,
 And stand in awe to let thy torrents through !

Naught but the hand of God could stay thy course,
 Or drive thee back to Erie's peaceful keep !
 Then onward press with thy gigantic force,
 'Till in Ontario's bosom lull'd to sleep !

Emblem of Freedom ! who would dare essay
 To bar thy noisy progress to the sea ?
 Then onward press ! while bord'ring nations pray
 For strength and wisdom to be great and free !

"SCOTTY."

YES ! ca' me "Scotty" if ye will,
 For sic' a name can mean nae ill,
 O' a' nick-names jist tak' yer fill—
 I'm quite content wi' "Scotty !"

To be a Scot is nae disgrace,
 Maist folk can trust a guid Scotch face,
 He's never lang oot o' a place,—
 The honest, faithful "Scotty !"

A Scotchman has the knack to plod,
 Through thick an' thin he'll bear his load,
 His trust is aye in richt an' God,—
 The perseverin' "Scotty!"

He's 'tentive baith to kirk an' mart,
 To friends he's true an' hard to part,
 In life's great race he needs nae start,—
 "I'll win or dee," says "Scotty!"

An' if he meets wi' ane or twa
 O' Scotlan's sons when far awa',
 They'll 'gree like brithers ane and a',—
 A "clannish" man is "Scotty!"

Though aft he travels far frae home,
 He's aye a Scotchman a' the same,
 An' prood to crack o' Scotlan's fame,—
 A loyal son is "Scotty!"

Should Scotlan' ever need his help,
 He'll gie her enemies a skelp,
 An' mak' them rin like frichted whelp,
 And gie respect to "Scotty!"

Then ca' me "Scotty" if ye will,
 Nick-name like that can wark nae ill;
 I'll shake yer han' wi' richt guid-will,
 Whane'er ye ca' me "Scotty!"

THE SWEETEST WORD ON EARTH IS HOME.

THE sweetest word on earth is home,
 To loving hearts most dear;
 Where'er our footsteps seek to roam,
 Home thoughts are ever near.
 The mem'ries sweet of life's spring-day
 Keep fresh and green forever,
 Like fragrant flowers they scent the way
 Adown life's winding river.

CHORUS.—The dearest spot beneath the skies
 Is that we call "our home!"
 'Tis there we look with longing eyes,
 Though o'er the earth we roam!

Our homes may be where mountains rise
 Like dark green clouds to heaven;
 Or where the valley-lily lies
 Our humble lot be given;

Or on an island of the sea
 Oft by the tempest prest,
 No matter where our homes may be,
 To each that home is blest.
 CHO.—“The dearest spot,” etc.

The strongest love within man's breast
 Is love of life and home ;
 Like fledglings hovering round their nest
 Our thoughts encircle home ;
 Our years may reach three-score-and-ten,
 And full of changes be,
 Yet scenes of home will haunt us then
 When life was pure and free.
 CHO.—“The dearest spot,” etc.

Where love hath cast her golden spell
 And kindest deeds are done,
 Where loving hearts unite to dwell,
 'Tis heaven on earth begun ;
 Then cherish home with jealous care
 And let not strife prevail ;
 Thus for our “heavenly home ” prepare,
 Secure within the veil.
 CHO.—“The dearest spot,” etc.

YOUNG CANADA !

YOUNG CANADA ! Arise ! Arise !
 Let wisdom open wide your eyes,
 Be lulled by neither threats nor lies,
 Stand well the test of nations !

Though others sell their birthright cheap,
 Be ours inviolate to keep,
 The rights and liberties we reap
 Through contact with great nations !

Be true to country, Queen, and laws,
 Defend the “Statutes ” clause by clause,
 Stand by the right and Freedom's cause,
 A peer among the nations !

Our sires were men of noble birth,
 'Mong nations foremost on the earth,
 Where mountains rise, and seas engirth
 The glad homes of free nations !

Our heritage—from sea to sea—
 A glorious home for men shall be,
 As long as they shall dare be free,
 And stand among the nations !

Our boast shall be "The Maple Leaf,"
 Our toil's reward—the golden sheaf!
 Enough for us, and for relief
 Of other poorer nations!

We envy not our neighbour's land,
 We'll guard our own with sword in hand,
 And by our attitude command
 Respect from other nations.

A BUNCH OF HEATHER.

ADDRESS ON RECEIVING A BUNCH OF HIGHLAND HEATHER IN AMERICA.

DEAR token frae my native lan',
 Thou bonnie bunch o' heather!
 I'll shelter ye wi' tender han'
 Frae oor extremes o' weather;
 I'll plant ye in a pat o' mool
 Brought a' the way frae Oban,
 An' slochan ye wi' water cool
 An' clear as frae Loch Loman'!

An' when the Scotchman's day comes roon—
 Saint Andra's day sae cheerie—
 I'll tak' ye wi' me to the toon,
 To busk my auld Glengerrie;
 An' you'll see faces there you ken,
 Wha speiled wi' me the heather,—
 Braw Hielan' lasses an' their men
 Shall dance a reel thegither!

Then will I gie ye bit-by-bit,
 Each ane a sprig o' heather,—
 To keep ye a' I'll no be fit
 Aince we meet a' thegither!
 At sight o' you we'll a' feel good,
 We loe sae ane anither,
 For, ye maun ken, we're unco prood
 O' Scotlan' an' her heather!

How aft your purple face has seen
 Auld Scotia's heroes gather?
 How aft the martyr's bluid hath been
 Spill'd ruthless on the heather?
 For Freedom, Liberty, an' Right,
 Read Scotland's deathless story,
 Our fathers left us by their might
 A heritage of glory!

WHERE DOTH BEAUTY DWELL!

LOOK for the first faint streaks of morn
 That gild the eastern sky,
 Another day in beauty born,
 As mounts the sun on high ;
 Tinting the tops of highest towers
 With crimson and with gold,
 Meltirg the dew-drops from the flowers
 That peepingly unfold :
 There doth " the beautiful " abide
 In calm security ;
 The rosy morn—deck'd like a bride—
 Of virgin purity !

Look for the eyes that beam with love,
 And sparkle with delight,
 To meet thy gaze—like stars above—
 Brightest in thy dark night ;
 Dispelling every thought of sin
 From out thy heart's great deep,
 Chasing the darkness from within,
 Or soothe thy fears to sleep :
 There doth " the beautiful " abide
 In full maturity ;
 And there may thy fond heart reside
 Through all futurity !

A SOUVENIR OF LOVE.

DEAREST, sweetest, fondest, best,
 Lean your head upon my breast ;
 Loving arms shall thee entwine,
 Loving hands be placed in mine ;
 Throbbing hearts with pleasure beat,
 Happy eyes in gladness meet ;
 Peace and joy now reign supreme,
 Love our all-absorbing theme.

Picture of a living love,
 True as angel-notes above ;
 Constant as the Polar star
 Shining in the heavens afar ;
 Deep and boundless as the sea,
 Ever pure and ever free ;
 Warm and bright as Southern skies,
 Earthly Eden—Paradise !

Love like this doth ever sing,
 Echoes wake and echoes ring ;
 Love and pain may sometimes meet,
 Love can make the pain a sweet ;

Grief and care shall flee away,
 Darkest night be turn'd to day,
 Winter snows to Summer showers,
 Autumn leaves to Spring's fresh flowers.

Sordid pleasures have their day,
 Truth and Love shall ne'er decay ;
 Heaven and earth their blessings give,
 Love and Truth shall ever live.
 Then, let Love our bosoms thrill,
 Empty hearts may have their fill ;
 The poorest may be rich in love,
 Bless'd on earth and crown'd above !

A KISS THROUGH THE TELEPHONE.

THE telephone,
 In merry tone,
 Rang "Tinkety-tinkety-tink !"
 I put my ear
 Close up to hear,
 And what did I hear, do you think ?

"Papa, hello !
 'Tis me, you know !"—
 The voice of my own little Miss ;—
 "You went away
 From home to day.
 But you never gave me—a kiss !

"It was a mistake,
 I was not awake,
 Before you went out of the house ;
 I think that a kiss
 Will not be amiss
 If I give it--sly as a mouse !

"So here goes, Papa,
 And one from Mamma,
 And another when you can come home :
 Just answer me this,
 Is it nice to kiss
 When you want through the dear telefome ?"

"Hello !" I replied,
 With fatherly pride,
 "I've got them as snug as can be ;
 I'll give them all back,
 With many a smack,
 As soon as I come home to tea !"

MY MITHER'S GRAVE.

I STAN' beside the cauld head-stane,
 An' wat it wi' my tears ;
 An' whisper, "*Mither, here's your wean
 You hav'nd' seen for years !*"
 Whan last I saw your dear, sweet face,
 An' heard your kindly tone,
 I little thought that this dread place
 So soon would claim its own.

I plann'd to tak' you ower the sea
 To comfort an' to ease,
 Whaur you could end your days wi' me,
 An' dae maist as you please ;
 But, ah ! the Lord had ither plans,
 An' sent for you Himsel' ;
 His ways are no' aye like to man's,
 Yet does He a' things well !

But, though you cannot come to me,
 I yet shall gang to you,
 When death shall set my spirit free
 I'll mount yon starry blue,
 Where grief an' partings are no more
 Nor Death, nor any pain,
 You'll welcome me on Canaan's shore,
 We'll never pairt again !

Farewell ! most sacred spot to me,
 My dear auld mither's grave,
 I'll think o' thee when ower the sea,
 Ayont Atlantic's wave ;
 Our graves may yet be far apart,
 Our spirits joined shall be,
 There's aye a green spot in my heart,
 My mither dear, for thee !

THE TOUCH OF THE DIVINE.

EACH grain of sand by sounding sea,
 Each trembling leaf on quivering tree,
 Each blade of grass on dewy lea,
 Speaks volumes of God's love to me !

The pearls that deep in ocean lie,
 The twinkling stars that gem the sky,
 The sunbeam, caught from noontide's eye,
 Direct my thoughts, oh God, to Thee !

The flowers that deck the fragrant dell,
 And o'er me cast their beauty-spell,
 I love them—for they seem to tell
 The story of God's love to me !

No matter where I wander free,
 By river, lake, or boundless sea,
 The touch of God's dear hand I see,
 And know by these He loveth me !

Oh, God ! Thou doest all things well,
 Earth, sea, and sky Thy wisdom tell,
 In heaven what must it be to dwell
 For ever, O my God, with Thee !

THERE IS A GOD !

THERE is a God !—I know full well,
 Though I have never seen His face ;
 Earth, sea, and sky, His power tell,
 His handiwork in these I trace.

There is a God !—the heavens declare
 His gracious presence night and morn ;
 Sun, moon, and stars in God's pure air
 Laugh Infidelity to scorn.

There is a God !—each flower I see
 Seems but to live to speak His praise ;
 Each blade of grass, each leaf-crown'd tree,
 Their heads in grateful gladness raise !

There is a God !—thus saith the sea,
 Rock'd in the cradle of His hand ;
 Emblem of God's immensity,
 Mov'd by the winds at His command.

There is a God !—the mountains high Point to His heavenly throne above !
 The stars that twinkle in the sky
 Proclaim a God—a God of love !

Thou art my God !—Thy Word doth show
 The imprint of a Hand Divine ;
 'Tis from its pages that I know
 My soul is kindred soul to Thine !

DEAR LAND AYONT THE SEA.

I STAND upon a foreign shore
 And gaze across the sea,
 Fond memories bridge the waters o'er,
 Sweet home-thoughts come to me ;
 Once more I see the bonnie hills,
 Feel gladsome, young and free,
 My heart with loyal rapture thrills—
 Dear land ayont the sea !

I see once more the gowans fair
 And scent the hawthorn bloom,
 I feel the pure sweet mountain air
 Blow fresh from heather broom ;
 I hear glad voices as of yore
 Sing songs of love to me,
 Oh ! shall I ever see thee more,
 Dear land ayont the sea !

May Heaven grant me this request
 Before the day I dee,
 To see the land I love the best,
 My birthplace o'er the sea :
 And oh ! methinks I would be blest,
 When soars my spirit free,
 To know my body yet would rest
 At hame ayont the sea.

FREEDOM.

FREEDOM is obedience to righteous law
 Framed for the guidance of a nation great ;
 Made to be kept—not broken by a flaw
 Known only to the rulers of the State !
 Justice that treats the rich and poor alike,
 Defending each from favor or attack ;
 Slow to convict—yet ready aye to strike
 The fatal blow on all who honor lack !
 A nation's strength is measured by her laws ;
 Her safety is the welfare of her sons ;
 Industry and loyalty the power that draws
 In peace her commerce, and in war her guns !
 Freedom—our birthright, sell it not for gold,
 Our fathers bought it with their blood of old !

REST!

REST is the peaceful calm that follows toil :
 Sweet to the labouring man who tills the soil ;
 Likewise most precious to the weary brain,
 Tired with the dull routine of loss or gain ;
 Or to the authors of our learned books,
 Who show the trace of study in their looks—
 All value rest—all need those quiet hours
 As much as doth the plant those welcome show'rs
 Which Heaven sends to cool the fevered earth,
 And cause sweet Nature sing aloud with mirth.
 When God at first created earth and skies
 He "rested" in the shades of Paradise !
 Likewise shall we, earth's care and labour o'er,
 Find rest the sweeter for the toils we bore !

ADDRESS TO JOHN IMRIE, BY A BROTHER BARD.

From DONALD F. SMITH, Camlachie, Out.

JOHN IMRIE, ye're a gifted chiel,
 Yer clinkin' sangs I loe them weel,
 Ye needna' heed the woralt's heel,
 Wi' a' her wrangs,
 For ye could earn yer meat an' meal
 Jist writin' sangs.

There's mony poets in oor lan'
 Jist made o' common lime an' san',
 But, Jock, ye're jist the mettel drawn
 An' shappit weel,
 By guid Dame Nater's honest han',
 Frae head to heel.

It's sweetly dae ye gar it clink,
 Wi' pathos yoked to ilka link,
 Lang may yer canty muse aye blink
 Sae blyth an' clear,
 Till ye're out o'er Parnassus' brink
 Withoot a peer.

Ye dinna praise thae daft M.P.'s,
 Wha hae a 'nack o' tellin' lees,
 But aye ye sing the Muse to please
 As suits thysel',
 An' how ye dae it wi' sich ease
 I canna tell.

Some poets praise prood fashion's wiles,
 Or court aristocratic smiles,
 An' never heed the han' that toils,
 But this ye'll grant—
 Wherever vanity beguiles
 The muse is scant.

Gie me the poet wha can sing
 O' Summer, Autumn, Winter, Spring,
 Or spread with a majestic wing
 The patriot's page,
 An', hark, ye'll hear his echoes ring
 Frae age to age.

Gie me a bardie like yersel',
 Ye sing but why ye canna tell,
 But when ye tak' the musey spell
 Ye hae the airt
 O' touchin' aye the inmost cell
 O' ilka heart.

If critics cock their crabbit nose
 Heed not, dear Jock, their silly prose ;
 Just turn an' trample on their toes,
 They'll tak' their heels,
 They're but a set o' feeble foes,—
 Satire the deils !

An' sud ye happin on sich cattle,
 Wi' ony o' their ill-faured prattle,
 Ye needna' try, wi' honest battle,
 To stop their chat,
 But rhyme satire an' let it rattle,
 They'll no stan' that.

If ony o' them nip yer line,
 An' ye are unco set for time,
 Gie me the wink—my aid is thine—
 An' faith they'll be Another daft-like herd o' swine
 Droon'd in the sea.

So, Imrie, here's to you this night,
 An' may immortal honors bright
 Crown thee, yea, as a shining light,
 While folk in thrangs
 Wi' kings an' princes in their might Sing loud thy sangs.

TO JOHN IMRIE.

From ALBERT E. S. SMYTHE, Toronto.

IMRIE, your lyrics pass the laws of kings
 Whose dread decrees but steel'd the captive's heart ;
 Your home-taught lays a softer power impart,—
 Love, joy, and peace, the might that mercy brings :
 And, though your muse lack flight of angel's wings,
 To walk and talk with men is no mean art ;
 Strong in life's straits, secure against death's dart,
 Attuned to truth, foreprizing hallowed things ;
 Not of the mockers, nor of those who make
 Love's sacrament a feasting, passion-spiced ;
 Not lucre-thrall'd, nor canker'd with the ache
 Of envy ; free of almsdeed honour-priced ;
 Not of the world ; but humbly, for His sake,
 Striving the nobler manhood after Christ.

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

FIFTY years of wedded life,
 Half a century of bliss,
 Since we first were man and wife,
 What a consummation this !

Through the sunshine and the shower,
 Bound in golden bands in one,
 Hand-in-hand in darkest hour,
 We the race of live have run.

True to vows of early years,
 Faithful to each other's love,
 Yet with tenderness and tears,
 Ripening for the courts above.

Years of joy, and love and peace,
 Full of happiness and tru ;
 Learning, as the years increase,
 God is ever wise and just.

Soon at last His voice will call
 One or other hence away ;
 Still remaining ONE through all,
 WEDDED THROUGH ETERNITY !

SCOTCH DAINTIES.

GIE a Scotchman a guid cog o' brose,
 Wi' milk just new drawn frae the coo',
 Feth, ye'll no see him turn up his nose,
 But tak' them, and then smack his moo' !

CHORUS.—Brose, parritch, kail, haggis an' bannocks,
 Are dainties abune a' compare !
 Nae English, French, Yankees or Canucks,
 Could mak' such a gran' bill o' fare !

Guid parritch for weans is sae healthy,
 It mak's them grow strong, fat an' weel,
 Dyspeptics are aye 'mang the wealthy,—
 They eat what wad sicken an eel !—CHO.

Noo, what is sae guid as Scotch kail,
 Wi' carrots, an' turnips an' leeks ;
 Hielan'men are braw, hearty an' hale—
 Yet gang a' the year without brecks !—CHO.

But the haggis is king o' the table,—
 A Scotchman's maist toothfu' delight,
 By dining on that he is able
 To match ony twa in a fight !—CHO.

When spying for game in Glen Sannox,
 Ahint a when stanes on my knees,
 What's sweeter than crumpin' oat bannocks,
 An' eating a' whang o' guid cheese?—CHO.

Brose, parritch, kail, haggis an' bannocks
 Wad mak' lean consumptives grow fat,
 Though they'd sleep oot at night in hammocks,
 They'd ne'er be a bit waur o' that!—CHO.

Then gie us oor dainty Scotch farin',
 We'll honour the auld muckle pat!
 For pastry an' pies we're no carin',
 Scotch laddies are no built wi' that!—CHO.

MY HEART IS SCOTLAND'S YET.

OH, weel I loe the Scottish tongue,
 The language o' my hame,
 An' weel I loe a sang that's sung
 In praise o' Scotland's fame;
 It mak's me think o' happy days
 An' scenes o' beauty rare,
 There's something in my heart that says:
 There's nae lan' half sae fair!

CHORUS.—My heart is Scotland's yet,
 Though I bide ower the sea:
 I never can forget
 The lan' sae dear tae me!

When travelin' in a foreign lan'
 I hear a Scottish voice,
 Instinctively I gie my han',
 An' baith o' us rejoice;
 An' then we crack o' Scotland's fame,
 Recite her battles ower,
 An' feel we yet could daur the same
 Our faithers daur'd before!—CHO.

Oh, Scotland is a bonnie place,
 Wi' scenery sublime;
 Whaur Nature smiles wi' fairest face
 That stan's the test o' time!
 Each mountain, river, loch, or glen,
 Are fu' o' storied fame;
 Wha reads the history o' her men
 Can ne'er forget their name!—CHO.

In every lan' roun' a' the earth
 Are leal hearts true tae thee;
 An' prood are they tae own their birth
 Ayont the wide saut sea,

Whaur towers the mountains bold an' gran'
 Like guardians o' the free,—
 Oh, here's my heart, an' there's my han'
 Dear Scotland, aye tae thee!—CHO.

MYSTERY!

BIRTH of a soul! what mystery
 Enwraps thy silent history,—
 In dumb amaze
 We stand and gaze,
 Own baffled with thy mystery!

Oh, Love! thou art a mystery,
 Yet old as earth's dim history,—
 From birth till death
 We feel thy breath,
 Oh, wistful, blissful mystery!

Oh, Life, thou art a mystery!
 Each living soul a history
 Of hopes and fears,
 Of joys and tears,—
 An ever present mystery!

Oh, heart of man! thy history
 Is oft enshrined in mystery,—
 Yet God can scan
 The heart of man
 And flood with light its mystery.

Oh, death! thou art a mystery,
 Who knows thy after-history?
 From heaven or hell
 None come to tell
 The living of thy mystery.

Oh, Life beyond! Oh, mystery!
 We yet shall know thy history,—
 So live each day,
 That, come what may,
 Our souls shall fear no mystery.

Oh, realms of bliss! what mystery
 Enshrouds thy sphere and history,—
 No finite eyes
 Can pierce the skies
 To scan thy blissful mystery.

Oh, God! Thou art a mystery,
 Thy love a world's history,—
 Most humbly we Shall worship Thee
 Till Thou shalt solve all mystery!

SHE PAYS HER DEBTS WITH KISSES.

I KNOW a winsome little pet
 With wealth of roseate blisses,
 Who takes what favors she can get
 And pays her debts with—kisses !

At night when I come home to tea
 She bribes me with her "kishes,"
 Then plants herself upon my knee
 And tastes of all my dishes !

She comes off best in every "trade,"
 And seldom ever misses
 To catch me in the trap she's laid,
 Then "pays me off" with—kisses !

She says she wants a "dolly" nice,
 With long and golden tresses,
 And if I ask her for the price,
 Gives kisses and caresses !

I dearly love this little maid,
 Above all other misses ;
 I'll take back every word I've said
 And "trade" with her for—"TISSES!"

AYE CHEERIE, O !

AYE mak' the maist o' every hour.
 An' laugh an' smile fu' cheerie, O !
 Gae by the whins an' pu' the flower,
 An' think o' a' that's dearie, O !
 Ne'er fash your heed wi' future ills,
 It's useless wark an' wearie, O !
 Gae singin' on like mountain rills,
 An' no like hoolets drearie, O !

Ne'er let a runkle mar your face,
 Your heart keep young an' cheerie, O
 Sour words an' looks are oot o' place
 Amang your frien's sae dearie, O !
 An' if misfortune should owertak' ;
 An' things get tapsalterie, O !
 Guid sense an' wit shall droon the pack,
 An' mak' them blin' an' blearie, O !

EXTRACTS FROM NOTICES OF THE PRESS TO THE FIRST EDITION.

From the Toronto Truth.

The volume before us has a mission. It is divinely sent. Its pages gleam with the brightness of ennobling thought and injunctions to lofty endeavor. May it "accomplish that whereunto it is sent."

From the Toronto Mail.

We have received a neatly-bound volume of "Sacred Songs, Sonnets and Miscellaneous Poems," by John Imrie, of this city. A number of Mr. Imrie's poems, among them several contained in this volume, have appeared in the columns of The Mail and other city papers, and have been extensively reproduced elsewhere. Mr. Imrie's efforts to stimulate national feeling and to infuse a spirit of patriotism into our people, by the agency of song, have from time to time attracted considerable attention, and have met with encouragement.

From the Canada Presbyterian, Toronto.

This excellent volume has many recommendations. It sings in modest but sweet melodious tones the songs of home and country, which will find a responsive echo in the popular heart. The volume is appreciatively introduced by Mr. G. Mercer Adam. Then follow sacred compositions, sonnets, patriotic songs, songs of love, home and friendship; and the book closes with miscellaneous poems. From beginning to end it breathes an excellent spirit. No one can lay it down without feeling better for the kindly, humane, and Christian tone that pervades the entire volume.

From the Hamilton Daily Spectator.

JOHN IMRIE'S POEMS.—Frequently of the late years the Toronto papers have been graced with dainty little poems from the pen of John Imrie, and those who have read these will be glad to know that the young poet has printed, in neat book form, a collection of sacred songs, sonnets and miscellaneous poems. While not claiming to be one of the great poets, Mr. Imrie has succeeded in producing work that will give him high rank, and that will make the world, or at least a portion of it, better and happier.

From the Kingston Daily Whig.

The latest contribution to Canadian poetry is a volume by John Imrie, Toronto, well-known for his patriotic ballads. They are collected and published by request of his friends, and breathe a healthy air of patriotism, home and friendship, the highest earthly ideals. The versification is good, and the sentiment exalted. Canadian literature will not suffer at the hands of this entertaining collection.

From the Paris Star-Transcript.

LITERARY.—Imrie & Graham have just issued a handsome cloth and gilt edition of John Imrie's Poems. The book is full of poetical gems from cover to cover and should be read by everyone.

From the Crillia Times.

A FINE WORK.—Received, John Imrie's Poems, neatly bound in cloth, handed over to our poetical editor for criticism. The rhyme and metre is of a high standard, but it is the subjects dilated upon by the bard that call forth our praises. Intensely patriotic, abounding in allusions to our own loved country; Canadian to the backbone, such are John Imrie's poems; and if they do not have a large sale, it is because true merit is unappreciated by this dollar-serving age.

From the Presbyterian Witness, Halifax.

Mr. Imrie has wooed the muse to some purpose and has furnished the reader with a very neat volume, beautifully illustrated, filled with poems of more or less merit as poetry, but all breathing a fine Christian spirit. His patriotism, and the devotional spirit are faultless and admirable. His verses are creditable, and in some cases fresh, vigorous, and really beautiful. The "Souvenir of Love" is a gem of which any poet might be proud. The "Dying Scot Abroad" is also most touching.

We might refer to a number of other poems well worthy of commendation : but we must conclude by congratulating Mr. Imrie on a volume in which there is not a verse or a line for which he or his friends need blush.

From the Napanee Beaver.

We have received from Mr. John Imrie, of Toronto, a neat volume, containing a collection of original poems, songs and sonnets. The work has an introduction from G. Mercer Adam, who speaks in the highest terms of the refined sentiment which prevails throughout this author's productions. The love of home, friends and country is the distinguishing characteristic of these songs and poems, and they are such as will have a very desirable influence in the family circle.

From the Whitby Chronicle.

Among the many publications sent us for review there has never come one of equal interest with a nice red covered book containing the poems of John Imrie, Toronto. Mr. Imrie is of the class of poets who touch the heart every time. His book contains a great many of his best writings and will have a large sale.

From the Guelph Mercury.

JOHN IMRIE'S POEMS.—Imrie & Graham, music and general printers, Toronto, have forwarded to this office a neat and well-printed book of poems, entitled "Poems by John Imrie, Toronto." The outward appearance of the book is very attractive, but this cannot be for a moment compared with the grace and the taste of the utterances of the poet contained within the two boards of the book. Whoever peruses the volume will find the true poetic spirit in every poem, no matter what the mood of the poet.

From the Royal Templar (Temperance) Buffalo and Hamilton.

IMRIE POEMS.—A book of "Songs, Sonnets and Miscellaneous Poems," by John Imrie, of Toronto, Ont. We are indebted to the author for a copy, and every moment stolen from our busy round to scan its handsome pages, has been a ray of sunshine. The beauty and power of simplicity stamp the verses, and they insinuate the sentiment of the writer into the tender places of our nature. The book is a worthy addition to the scant but growing stock of Canadian literature.

From the Valley Record, Wallaceburg.

John Imrie, of Toronto, has long been noted for those fine poetical sentiments that have occasionally appeared in the columns of the Toronto press. He has gathered them into a neat volume, a copy of which has been kindly sent us. The poems are all worthy efforts, and conclusively prove that Mr. Imrie does not court the muse in vain. The book is really worthy of a place in every household.

From the Presbyterian Review, Toronto.

Mr. Imrie is well known through his contributions to the Toronto press as the writer of simple, artless, and often touching verses that appeal to some of the best instincts of our nature. He has gathered his effusions into a neat volume, pleasingly illustrated, and in offering them to the public makes his bow and speech with most engaging modesty. Mr. Adam gives him a happy and appreciative introduction, a tender and discerning bit of criticism—with the sentiments of which we heartily agree. To borrow a few words: "Our author comes with his tuneful lyre and sings us the glad some lays of the home and fireside."

From the Christian Guardian, Toronto.

This is an unpretending volume of lyrics by a Torontonionian, which reveals considerable power of fancy and poetic insight. Most of these poems are marked by a high moral and religious tone, deep human feeling, and power and facility over the difficulties of rhyme and versification.

From the Irish-Canadian, Toronto.

"IMRIE'S POEMS."—This is a neat volume issued from the press of the author, John Imrie, Toronto. In his preface Mr. Imrie says he would not have ventured on the debatable ground of authorship, were it not for the urgent solicitations of many friends, who read from time to time in the newspapers the pieces which are now so prettily strung together in book form. It is well the author consented, as his verses breathe a spirit highly seasoned with the fire and pathos of the poet's fancy; and will rank as not unworthy of a niche in the temple of our Canadian literature. Mr. Imrie will be complimented as an author whose ability is far beyond his pretensions, and whose gifts of song are found in many moods, and all touching most effectively the proper chord, whether in the grave and solemn moments of his muse, or in the moments when his inspirations led him to lighter and brighter fancies. We must congratulate Mr. Imrie on his volume of poems. Whether as to the intellectual effort, or as to the printing and binding, the work is a credit, not only to him, but to the literary taste steadily developing in Canada.

From the Dominion Churchman, Toronto.

This attractive volume will, we trust, find much favor with purchasers of gift books, as well as with those who are anxious to see what rank of poet we have in Toronto, and who desire to encourage his work. Mr. Imrie's muse is of a gentle, loving, home-brooding nature, full of the tenderest sympathy with the young and for the sorrowing. There will be many a smile and many a tear started, and many a heart will be gladdened by these songs of faith and love. The book is handsomely bound and should command a large sale.

From the Dominion Alliance Journal, Toronto.

A book for the home and the fireside. The volume is appropriately illustrated, and produced in very neat style.

From the Canada Citizen.

A CANADIAN POET.—Mr. John Imrie, of this city, has published in a neat and handsome volume a collection of his "Sacred Songs, Sonnets, and Miscellaneous Poems." As a writer Mr. Imrie needs no introduction to the readers of the Canada Citizen, most of whom have read and appreciated the many verses full of deep religious sentiment, and earnest and patriotic feeling. He is a thorough temperance man, and not unfrequently brings the help of his ready pen to the promotion of our noble cause. We cordially recommend to our readers this volume of poems.

From Our Own Fireside, Toronto.

We have been favored with a neatly bound volume containing a very fine collection of "Sacred Songs, Sonnets, and Miscellaneous Poems," from the pen of our fellow citizen, Mr. John Imrie. The author has been a constant contributor to several of our leading magazines and newspapers. At the solicitation of many friends he has been induced to publish this volume. Its pages gleam with bright thoughts of home and friends; and, in fact, from beginning to end, it breathes an excellent spirit. It is impossible to read it without feeling better. An introduction by Mr. G. Mercer Adam speaks volumes for the work. We hope it will have a very large sale.

From the Canadian Methodist Monthly, Toronto.

This is emphatically a collection of songs of the hearth and home. A considerable proportion are directly religious compositions, and there are a number of stirring patriotic poems; but the larger number are songs of home, love, and friendship—themes to which every heart will respond. The book is neatly printed and bound and has some graceful illustrations and pieces of music, and a portrait of the author. This volume will make an appropriate holiday gift book.

From The Week, Toronto.

It is gratifying to learn that Mr. Imrie's poems "have at various times appeared as contributions to the public press, more especially in Toronto, and have afterwards been copied in exchanges over Canada, and in some of the leading city papers and publications in the United States and the Mother Country." Perhaps the degree of familiarity with which the poems have been thus invested to the public at large will relieve us of the interesting duty of exploiting their merits. For the sake of the few still unfamiliar with them, however, we may say that they are chiefly of a deeply religious or domestic character, and that the metre in which they are written is exceedingly consistent.

From the Canada School Journal, Toronto.

This volume will find its true place, the place for which it is intended, in many a home and heart. Its simple lays breathe throughout the spirit of reverence for God, loyalty to country, and regard for the delights of love, home, and friendship. As such they will be read by the quiet fireside, and minister pleasure and solace to many homes where more elaborate and finished productions, with less heart in them, would fail.

From The Kindergarten, Toronto.

A singularly happy collection, and cannot fail to find a welcome at many a fireside.

From Books and Notions, Toronto.

Imrie & Graham, Toronto, publish "Poems by John Imrie," cloth, $1.00. Many of these have already appeared in print. The division of the book, Love, Home and Friendship, is certainly the best. The inception of some of the poems, and the rhythm, are good. A fine fancy is that of "A Kiss Through the Telephone," "Papa's Pet," and "Teaching the Twins to Walk," are happy thoughts and make pleasant reading.

From the Toronto Grip.

JOHN IMRIE'S POEMS.—We should at an earlier date have called attention to this modest volume, the honest work of an honest man. John Imrie's name is familiar to most newspaper readers in Canada, but many may not be aware that it belongs to a workman—an ardent follower of the printer's calling, who puts in a sturdy ten hours per day at his office on Colborne street. Poetry is his recreation, not his business, or perhaps it would be more correct to say that it is a propensity which he must gratify after hours. His theme is the Home and its sacred pleasures, and in this day of artificial enjoyments, God be thanked for every joyful home-poet, whether his literary merits be great or small. Mr. Imrie's poems are not great as such, but they are good and pure, and they have that special quality which marks every utterance that comes from the heart. The book is very neatly bound.

From the Railway Signal, Toronto.

Some time ago reference was made in The Signal to a book of poems, by John Imrie, of Toronto, then in press, while one of the poems was cited as a sample. That the creditable volume has appeared is evident, for the author has given us a copy, which fully justifies all that was anticipated by our remarks then. It contains music, several fair illustrations, and a number of meritorious compositions, besides an introduction by G. Mercer Adam, of Toronto. The book will make a very appropriate Canadian Christmas present and New Year's gift to friends at home and abroad, and its timely appearance makes it possible for our old country folks here to have it placed in the hands of relatives and friends in the old land before the holidays. Do so. Price $1.00; cloth, boards, 350 pages.

From the Merchant and Manufacturer, Toronto.

Mr. John Imrie, of Toronto, has just published his book of poems, which is now for sale in any of the principal bookstores. Mr. Imrie's name is familiar to most of our readers as a natural poet, and his poems are daily quoted by the leading American and Canadian journals. One thing very noticeable throughout the entire list of poems is the freedom of speech, nothing being forced to make up rhyme, but every sentence pointing to the poetic genius of the author. A celebrated poet of the last century said a man, by learning, might imitate Spenser, Shakespeare or Milton, but except he is born a poet he never could partake of poetical strength. We fully believe Mr. Imrie to be a poet of the latter class. Every true lover of poetry should secure a copy.

From the Montreal Gazette.

SACRED SONGS AND POEMS.—Through the courtesy of the publishers, we have received a handsome book which bears the title: "Sacred Songs, Sonnets and Miscellaneous Poems." The author is Mr. John Imrie, a gentleman well known in business, church and social circles in Toronto, and the work is recommended by G. Mercer Adam in a judicious introduction. His themes are love, friendship, home, the duty and the reward of honest labor, the kindly relations that should exist between man and man, the voices of the happy children, the sorrows of the orphan, the sufferings of the poor, charity, patriotism, loyalty, religion, the hope of the world to come. The book is adorned with a portrait of the author and a number of other illustrations.

From the Parkdale Times, Toronto.

Mr. John Imrie, the printer-poet, has published a volume of poems of considerable merit. Mr. Imrie ranks high among poets and writers, and a copy of his works should be in the home of every Canadian.

From The Free Press, Ottawa.

MR. IMRIE'S POEMS.—Mr. John Imrie, of Toronto, who is well known as the author of a large number of fugitive and poetical contributions to the press of the Queen City, has collected into one handy volume a large number of his finest productions. The contributions are classified under the headings of sacred compositions, sonnets, patriotic songs; songs of love, home and friendship; and miscellaneous poems. Mr. Imrie's style is largely descriptive and may be judged by his poem on "Queenston Heights," where he says:

Here two great nations meet as if to kiss,
Divided only by a silver line;
Peace, welfare, harmony and mutual bliss,
Link fruitful branches of a parent vine.
Again in his ode to Lake Ontario:
Last of the inland seas—yet nearest home—
Thy waters soon shall swell the mighty deep,
And mingle with the ocean's briny foam,
There shalt thou rest, and there for ever sleep.

PRESS NOTICES TO THE SECOND EDITION.

"Toronto Globe," May 26th, 1891.

Songs and Miscellaneous Poems, by John Imrie, with music and illustrations, and an introduction by G. Mercer Adam (Toronto; Imrie & Graham, Colborne street), is the title of a handsomely bound, well got up volume from the pen of this Toronto bard. The author three years ago made his first venture as a poet when he placed an edition of his works before the public, and so gratifying was the encouragement he received that he has now published a larger and more pretentious book. This second edition contains a great many newer and later rhymes of sympathetic tone and healthy sentiment. Quite a number of the songs are set to the music of Toronto composers, and they received their meed of approbation when they appeared from time to time in sheet music form. Love, friendship, home, patriotism, are amongst the many themes on which Mr. Imrie sings. His verses are warm and effusive; they speak to the hearts of the common folks and they speak in unaffected strains, but they are not wanting in sincerity. There is a tone of piety and a thread of religious sentiment running through the book, but they never obtrude themselves too far, nor does the work savor of dogmas or churches. The volume opens with the patriotic song, "Our Native Land, Fair Canada"—a Canadian national song that may be sung to the air of the National Anthem. The author's patriotism is pretty evenly divided between "Fair Canada and Bonnie Scotland." Side by side we have "Sons of Scotland," "Land of Freedom," and ode to "Lake Ontario," "Niagara Falls" and "To Glasca, Scotland." He tells in his unpretentious way the story of how the thistle came to be the national emblem of Scotland:—

One morn before the break of day
Our foes crept near our slumbering camp;
They might by stealth have won the day
Did not one on a thistle stamp.

A cry of pain our sentries heard,
A quick alarm then was given;
At once each gleaming sword was bared,
And backward Scotland's foes were driven.

The home has for Mr. Imrie many charms. He loves to depict the cleanliness and brightness of the humble dwelling, where cheerful contentment and unselfishness prevail; where the children prattle by the parent's knees, and where piety guides the course through life. Friendship is appreciated at its fullest value, for we find

The friendship of the good and true
Is more to me than gold.

It is described as a "golden band," a "silken cord," a "beacon light," an "iron shield," and finally as the "gift of God." Among the miscellaneous poems are "A summer's day—Morning, Noon and Night," a song of bonnie Rosedale, Toronto's sylvan suburb. The merits of the Knights of Labor and the Knights of Pythias are sung in appreciative strains. "The Dead Beat" arouses the indignation of the poet, and the doctrine he teaches is the one taught by Paul long ago, "He who will not work should not dare to eat." Pride would have no place in the ideal world of Mr. Imrie, for it is "Satan's favorite plant—a noxious weed infernal." There is a meritorious collection of sonnets upon places, persons and sentiments. One is addressed to "Fair Toronto, Queen City of the West," another to Toronto Bay, commencing "Oh lovely scene, of ever changing hue." Under the heading of "Retaliation" Canada is thus addressed:—"Oh, Canada, arise in thy young strength and prove thyself a nation of the earth." Finally the reader is bade adieu, but not farewell—"a word full fraught with sorrow." These simple strains, we are told, are from a glowing heart that seeks to find an echo to its voice in the hearts of others. The writer's style is chaste and his sentiments pure, but he is not ornate, and he never attempts to soar to the loftier heights of the divine muse.

We can truly say with Mr. Mercer Adam, whose introduction to the first edition is reproduced, "There is not a puzzling or baffling line in the book."

Pomiac Advance, Portage-du-Fort, Que.

We are favored by the publishers with a copy of "Songs and Miscellaneous Poems by John Imrie, Toronto." It is a very nice selection of Scotch and other poems, price $1.00. On the frontispiece is a photograph of the author, and an introduction to the first edition by G. Mercer Adam. Here is a sample verse:—

Gie a Scotchman a guid cog o' brose,
Wi' milk just new drawn frae the coo',
Feth, ye'll no see him turn up his nose,
But tak' them, an' then smack his moo'.

And take this:—

Steady now, young "Chatterbox!"
Rosy cheeks and raven locks;
Mamma wants your portrait now,
Smile again and smooth your brow!
Touch your mouth with finger-tips,
Pearly teeth and ruby lips;
Papa's pride and Mamma's pet,
High upon the cushion set!

Send for the book to help you enjoy quiet hours.

Labor Advocate, April 24th, 1891.

We have received a copy of the second edition of John Imrie's Poems, with an introduction by G. Mercer Adam, published by Messrs. Imrie & Graham, Toronto. Mr. Imrie is one of the best-known of the rapidly-increasing number of Canadian poets. His verse is simple and unpretentious, and totally devoid of that artificial straining after effect which mars the work of so many modern writers, but always characterized by true poetic feeling and melodious expression. His themes are mostly those of every-day life, and are treated feelingly and in a manner which renders it evident that the author writes from the heart. The volume includes a number of songs set to music, and is got up in neat typographical style. It may be commended to all who enjoy the poetry of the domestic affections and the simple joys of life.

Grip, May 2nd, 1891.

While our Canadian bosoms are swelling with pride over the poetic success of William Wilfred Campbell, whose recent contribution to Harper's Magazine, "The Mother," is declared by foreign critics to be one of the great poems of the century, it is timely to call attention to a humbler singer who is, however, perhaps more widely known in this section of the Dominion than Mr. Campbell. We refer to honest John Imrie, whose new volume of "Songs and Miscellaneous Poems" has just made its appearance from the press. The reader who dotes on Browning will not find much use for this volume, because it requires no mental effort to understand Imrie's muse. She is an innocent, plain-spoken little fairy, with a heart brimming over with love and charity for all mankind. She indulges in no high flights, but, on the other hand, she never even suggests a thought which could bring a blush to the cheek of purity itself. Whether these songs and poems entitle their author to a place among Canada's recognized poets or not, they will certainly secure for him a warm place in the affections of all right-minded readers.

Free Press, Ottawa, May 4th, 1891.

Mr. Imrie has issued a second edition of his poems, finding that his genius has been to some extent appreciated by the Ontario public. The new volume, with the additional songs and poems makes a book of 350 pages. The poet appears at his best in his patriotic poems and songs of home and freedom. Child life also furnishes him with some of his happiest items, and his style is natural and unaffected. Every line is full of sympathetic meaning. Mr. Imrie does not soar into puzzling heights but writes in language which all can understand. His verse is pure and some of his poems are worthy of his great countryman Burns.

Christian Guardian, April 8th, 1891.

SONGS AND MISCELLANEOUS POEMS—
By John Imrie. With music and illustrations, and an introduction by G. Mercer Adam. Published by Imrie & Graham, 26 and 28 Colborne Street, Toronto. The following from the introduction well expresses the scope and character of the volume: "It would indeed be difficult for thoughts on love, friendship, home, and kindred topics, to fail to find response in the human breast; and the average reader who follows the bent of his own unperverted taste, and is as indifferent to the critics as the poets themselves, will find much to please him in the book. The volume is chiefly noteworthy, not only for unassuming sincerity on the part of the writer, but for its appeal to the universal and easily-wakened feelings of our common humanity."

The Mail, Toronto, Friday, April 24th, 1891.

Songs and Miscellaneous Poems, by John Imrie, (Imrie & Graham, Toronto) is an enlarged volume of the author's poetical effusions, prefaced by an introduction by Mr. G. Mercer Adam. Mr. Imrie's poetry is very well known to a large number of Canadian readers, and little need be said as to its quality. It has run the gauntlet of the critics in safety, and has found a home in the hearts of lovers of pure thought elegantly and simply expressed. It has won for the author a distinctive place among the bards of Canada, and is widening the circle of his genuine admirers. It is a contribution to the literature of his country of which he need not be ashamed, and of which his countrymen may feel proud. The pieces, varying in range of subject from the patriotic to songs of home, friendship, and love, from the rollicking sailor's song to the sacred sonnet, one and all breathe the manliness, the sympathy, the sincerity and high purpose which at once reveal the author's aim, not only to cheer on the toiling thousands whom he chiefly addresses, but to lead them unto moral regions where may be gathered strength and elevation of character and lasting comfort for the trials of life. The fire of his patriotism burns not fiercely but brightly, and ever with a genial glow which, while it does not lead the hand to the hilt, is clearly from the genuine spark. The author's efforts, it is pleasing to learn from the preface, have met with an encouraging appreciation, and that greater enjoyment will be derived from this larger edition than from its predecessor may be safely predicted.

Summerside Journal, Summerside, P. E. I., April, 23rd, 1891.

John Imrie, of Toronto, does not belong to those authors who appeal in vain to the people, for his "Songs and Miscellaneous Poems" seem to have struck a responsive chord, having reached the second edition, three years from their first appearance in book form. We should like to make selections from each department, but to choose any particular poem, where all are good, and call it the best, would be a difficult undertaking, and we can only advise our readers to procure the work for themselves, as it should be in every home in the land. A notable feature of the volume is the excellence of the Scottish poems with which it abounds, and many of which would be worthy of Robbie Burns himself. "Scotty," "Sons of Scotland," "My Heart is Scotland's Yet," "The Hielan' Fling," "Scotch Dainties," "Toddlin' Hame," "The Bonnie Arran Hills," and "A Scotch Surprise Party," are especially good. "In many a Scottish family," says the Week, "these songs will find a warm welcome, as reflecting their traditional verses and melodies."

Chatham Tri-Weekly Planet, March 23rd, 1891

Mr. John Imrie, of Toronto, has long been known to the Canadian public as an exact and skilful versifier. About three years ago, with all a young author's apprehensions, he issued a book of poems, and the venture met with a kindly and appreciative reception at the hands of the public. Now an enlarged and improved edition has just issued from the press for which the author again solicits the public favor. The book embraces many themes—patriotism, love, home and friendship each finding a place in Mr. Imrie's simple, unaffected lays. His patriotic pieces in particular have in them the ring of the true metal, and some of them enjoy a wide circulation in sheet music form. The volume is not wanting in humor, but it is rather the production of a thoughtful mind which regards life as real and earnest. Mr. Imrie is a Scotsman, and some of the matchless scenes of his native land are embalmed in verse written in "braid Scotch." The volume, containing 350 pages, is nicely bound and illustrated, and, it should be said, contains some of his best songs set to music. Typographically also the work is a credit to the publishers.

Stratford Beacon, Friday, March 13, 1891.

In the field of lyrical compositions of a popular, patriotic Canadian spirit, Mr. Imrie has hardly a rival. His verses are uniformly clear, musical, and of manly Christian sentiment. The Canadian national anthem of the poet, as well as other compositions of a similar spirit, are favorite songs with our school children, and their use among all classes of the community will have a tendency to foster that legitimate patriotism which is as remote from jingoism as it is from folly and impertinence.

Dundee Courier, April 18th, 1891.

SONGS AND MISCELLANEOUS POEMS.
By John Imrie, Toronto: Imrie & Graham.—The author of this volume is a Scot by birth, and they who peruse it will see that he is no degenerate son of Auld Scotia. He is patriotic to the core, and, at the same time, leal and loyal to the land of his adoption. His compositions have the ring of true poetry in them, and are thus classified "Patriotic," "Love, Home, and Friendship," "Sacred Poems" and "Sonnets." The poem, "My Heart is Scotland's Yet," "To Glasgow, Scotland," "The Thistle," "Sons of Scotland," and "Scotty," all show how dear to the heart of the author is the land of his birth. Some of the more remarkable and attractive characteristics of Mr. Imrie's poems are the heartiness and enthusiasm expressed in them for all that relates to childhood and the young. A considerable number of the poems are accompanied by the music to which they have been set. Besides a well-executed photo of the author, there are a number of excellent illustrations. The book has reached its second edition, a sufficient proof of its popularity. The volume is handsomely got up, and well printed on good paper.

Kensington Society, London, England, April 18th, 1891.

From "far over the sea" we have here an offering to the lovers of the muse which cannot but prove welcome to all true song worshippers at home and abroad. Like Sir John Macdonald, the really Grand Old Man, and veteran premier of Canada the loyal, Mr. Imrie is a Scotchman to the backbone, and just one of those whose study love and appreciation of everything British has formed the grit of that resisting force which has so successfully driven back the turbulent gain-seekers of the Dominion, who have been truckling to and with the plotters in the United States—men who have so long had the subjugation of Canadian interests and Canadian freedom in view. Mr. Imrie is a native of Glasgow, therefore a "Clydeside singer"—one who has followed in the wake of Henry Glassford Bell, James Hedderwick, Andrew Park (author of "Silent Love"), Alexander Smith, the late A. G. Murdock, and others.

It is in his admiration for and devotion to the land of his adoption that Mr. Imrie shows to most advantage. When engaged in this labor of love, he now warbles like the lark, now thrills like the nightingale, and, better still, now gives forth a voice like that glorious Niagara, whose "awful form" is seen to great artistic advantage as one of the fine illustrations which embellish the volume.

As poet, printer, publisher, and journalist, we wish Mr. Imrie "God speed" in all his vocations; convinced that it is of such men from whom the greatest of our Transatlantic pioneers have come. To him and such as he, the future of our vast colonial possessions will owe much more than it will ever be possible to conceive, much less to relate.

Dundee Weekly News, April 18th.

We do not wonder that a second edition of this volume of poems has been called for. Mr. Imrie is a sweet singer and a true poet. It is difficult to say whether his patriotism, his love of freedom, his appreciation of Nature's beauty, or his pathos, is most to be admired. Our author knows how to stir the heart of his reader to high resolve, and while seeing and feeling himself the nobility and the pathos that surround the humblest of lives, can teach others how to see and feel as he does himself. Perhaps in nothing is he more successful than in the poems which deal with love, home, and childhood. Here it is that he unfolds his richer nature. "The Humber Fairy" shows with what a light and graceful touch he can treat the more ideal and poetic themes. His love of the young is seen in "Learning the Twins to Walk," "His Only Pair of Pants," "Romping with the Children," "The Little Newspaper Boys," and "Oor Johnnie." "Fair Canada," "Song of Freedom," "The Links that Bind Us," "Ode to Lake Ontario," and "The Dying Scot Abroad" prove how surely and firmly he can strike the patriotic chord. The songs of labor in the volume are heartfelt expressions of the sympathy which the writer has for the sons of toil. Space prevents us further particularising. We note that the volume is beautifully got up and illustrated, and that a number of the poems are set to music. We can recommend the book most cordially to readers on this side of the Atlantic, believing that if we can induce any of them to procure the work we shall thereby have earned their lifelong gratitude.

Guelph Mercury, March 13th, 1891.

John Imrie's Songs and Poems have been received at this office. It is a charming book, and to the true lover of the muse and poesy it is worth its weight in gold. Mr. Imrie is a poet of no mean order, and one of his great charms is the simplicity and easy grace of his verse. Even a little child can comprehend his words. The best evidence of his popularity as a poet is that the first edition of his poems was bought up inside of a couple of years, and now he has presented to the public the second edition, which has been revised and contains all his latest productions up to date. Many of John Imrie's songs and poems are well known and have gained for themselves popularity and admiration throughout the Dominion and wherever they have been read.

Montreal Witness, March 14th.

Songs and Miscellaneous Poems by John Imrie, Toronto, is a larger edition of a book first published some three years ago, and contains 350 pages instead of the 210 of the first edition. Many of the poems are patriotic in character; others treat of love, home and friendship, or are religious in their tone. There is an introduction by Mr. G. Mercer Adam, who says: "The volume is chiefly noteworthy not only for unassuming sincerity on the part of the writer, but for its appeal to the universal and easy-awakened feelings of our common humanity. The unobtrusive piety and strain of religious sentiment which run, like threads of gold, through the book, will not the less endear the book to the reverent reader, and to those whose hearts have felt the influence of the Divine."

London Advertiser, March 21st.

A goodly number of verses are included between these modest blue covers—poems of patriotism, love, home and friendship, miscellaneous poems, sacred compositions and sonnets. "My style is simple," says the author in his preface to the second edition, "but none the less sincere, and my chief desire is to please and encourage the toiling masses. That these humble heart-thoughts and aspirations for the present and future welfare of my fellow-countrymen and humanity at large may be accepted in the kindly spirit in which they have been composed is my earnest wish." Such words disarm criticism, and make the inveterately fault-seeking critic a little ashamed.

The Toronto World, March 2nd.

A second edition of "Songs and Miscellaneous Poems" by John Imrie, Toronto, has just been published. The volume is neatly got up and its patriotic strain and the unassuming sincerity of every line should commend it to all who love their home and country. Mr. Imrie truly states that there can be no love of home without a pure and unselfish patriotism. The volume appears at a time when its perusal may awaken a just indignation among a people who are brought face to face with the vaulting ambition of an unscrupulous writer who would sell the country they love so well. It is the duty of every loyal citizen to place literature of this kind in the hands of the wavering, and especially the young.

The Canada Presbyterian, Feb. 26th.

Mr. Imrie's volume of verse published some time ago met with so favorable a reception that already a second edition is called for. The new volume is an improvement on the former one, in that it has added attractions in the way of illustration and music. A number of new poems are added, so that the present volume is one hundred and forty pages larger than the first. Mr. G. Mercer Adam writes a tasteful and genial introduction. Mr. Imrie sings in various tones. He voices the affections, is patriotic and devout. He makes no pretensions to be a poet of the highest rank, but the productions of his muse strike the best chords of the human heart. He desires to benefit and cheer his fellowmen by the warmth and geniality of his rhymed conceptions.

Daily Intelligencer, Belleville, April 6th.

Mr. John Imrie, of Toronto, has published a neat volume of his poetical writings. Mr. Imrie is one of the minor poets, but his verse is earnest and moral, and is worthy of being written.

The Canadian Nation, Feb. 26th.

We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of a beautifully bound copy of "Songs and Miscellaneous Poems," by Mr. John Imrie. This work is a real gem of itself. Between its two handsome covers may be found that which will cater to the tastes of the most fastidious. It is most replete with numerous illustrations, and a very fine photo of its gifted author adorns one of its front pages. A large number of the songs are set to music by well-known and accomplished professors. We notice throughout the pages of this pretty gem that while the patriotic heart of the gifted author overflows in verse for dear old Scotland, his native land, that of his adoption is not forgotten.

The Toronto Truth, March 3rd.

"Songs and Miscellaneous Poems" by John Imrie is the name of a new volume just published by this favorite Canadian singer. Those who have seen the former volume will welcome this new and enlarged edition. Mr. Imrie is emphatically the people's poet. He enters the home and taking his place with the romping boys and girls sings their pleasures in words simple and pure. He joins himself to the father and mother and repeats with them the story of their many and varied experiences. He goes forth with the toiler and, sympathizing with the man whose back is bent to his work, sings of the difficulties that confront him and the hopes that inspire him. Dull indeed, and unsympathetic, must be the spirit that will not find in the 350 pages which constitute this second edition of Mr. Imrie's poems, something that will inspire with a nobler purpose, fill with kindlier thoughts and lead into a nobler and higher life. The volume, besides a number of appropriate illustrations, contains the music of some twenty-five songs that have lately become very popular. The price of the volume is $1.00.

Whig, Kingston, March 9th, 1891.

Canadian poetic literature has received at the hands of John Imrie, Toronto, a formidable contribution in a volume of 350 pages. The author has a natural gift for melody and rhyme. His enthusiasm and patriotic and moral ardor give force to his writings so that by aid of sterling common sense he is able to present a highly creditable addition to the national library. His poems are popular because simple and euphonious; there are few strained effects or seeking after superior, misty levels. He apparently is a plain, everyday mover among the people, sharing their sympathies and pleasures, and endeavoring to elevate prevailing tastes and ideas while inculcating reverence for higher things. Many of the poems have been set to charming music and this music is given in this volume, which is a second edition, by the way, and a great enlargement on the first effort.

The Week, March 27th, 1891.

We congratulate Mr. Imrie on the issue of a second edition of his poems within a comparatively short period of time. The present edition is considerably larger than the first, the bulk having swelled from 210 to 350 pages. The songs have borne the best of all tests, that of use, for, being published separately with music, they have found a ready sale; and are here reproduced with accompanying airs, most of them, we imagine, original. These verses are domestic, national, and patriotic, following the traditions and spirit of Scottish song, and they could hardly do better. In many a Scottish family these songs will find a warm welcome, as reflecting their traditional tales and melodies.

Ledger, Toronto, March 7th, 1891.

Our well known townsman, Mr. John Imrie, has recently published a second volume of poems of his own composition, some twenty-five of them being set to music. It would be difficult to name a phase of life from babyhood to old age which is not in some way referred to by Mr. Imrie in the two or three hundred poems with which his book is filled. The author is a Scotchman and intensely loyal, and these two characteristics are distinctive features of the publication. We hope Mr. Imrie's venture will be richly rewarded by large sales.

Hamilton Spectator, March 9th, 1891.

From time to time gems from Mr. Imrie's pen have found a place in the Spectator, and readers of this paper are not unacquainted with his merit as a poet. He has just issued a second edition of his poems. The new book contains all that made the first edition so popular, with much new matter. Mr. Imrie's patriotic Canadian songs should be in the hands of everybody. He has been able to bring to Canada with him a Scotchman's great love of country, and finds, under the same flag in his new home, ample reason for poetic display of patriotism. The book is neatly printed, well illustrated, and gives the music of many of the songs. It is nicely bound, and everybody ought to have it.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX.

A Birthday Greeting.....	167	Christian's Armour, (The)	284
A Birthday Wish	266	Christian, Awake.....	302
A Bouquet of Flowers	90	Christian's Hope, (The)	276
Absent Sunday-School Teacher, (The).....	242	Christmas Gifts	317
A Bunch o' Heather	70	Come Unto Me	271
Adieu	340	Conscience	307
A Christmas Carol	163	Consecration	280
African Slave Trade, (The)	244	Cross'd Love	143
A Golden Wedding	130	Dead-Beat, (The).....	214
A Husband's Birthday Greeting ..	136	Donna Hide the Heart-love.. ..	148
A Kiss Through the Telephone ...	117	Drunkard's Fate, (The)	331
A Lesson from the Clock	175	Drunkard, (The)	252
An Anxious Soul Comforted	270	Dying Child, (The)	204
An Honest Man	181	Dying Scot Abroad, (The).....	49
A Prayer	269	Eight-Hour Movement, (The).....	216
A Prayer for Wisdom	300	Emblems of Friendship	99
A Scotch Surprise Party	254	Eyes That Speak	101
A Souvenir of Love	97	Faith, Hope and Charity	309
A Summer's Day—		Faith Illustrated.....	165
Morning	151	Farewell	264
Noon.....	153	Flower of the Family, (The).....	108
Night	154	Flowers	168
A Tribute to Mother	133	Fragments for Autograph Albums	266
A Wife's Last Good-Bye	138	Freedom	324
Baby's Portrait, (The).....	121	Friendship (sonnet)	326
Battle of Life, (The)	220	Friendship	266
Believer's Refuge, (The).....	274	Golden Rule, (The).....	234
Betrothed	146	Good-bye	262
Bitter or the Sweet, (The)	213	Hame—Yet No at Hame	76
Bonnets o' Glengarry	56	Happy Childhood.....	193
Bonnie Arran Hills, (The)	238	Happy Heart, (The)	209
Bring Another to Jesus	293	Heart Questionings.....	86
British Arms (The)	67	Hielan' Fling, (The).....	68
Brose, Parritch, Kail, Haggis, an' Bannocks	81	His Only Pair of Pants.....	223
Brotherhood of Man, (The)	217	Hope Deferred	316
Bruce and Bannockburn	78	House of God (The)	282
Buried in Her Cradle	256	Humber "Fairy," (The)	95
Canada	73	Hymn of Praise	281
Canada's Defenders	32	Image of the Heavenly, (The).....	305
Canadian Nation, (The).....	65

its is a Dear Face.....	135	On a Visit to the Old Country	74
the Moment.....	334	On My Fortieth Birthday.....	206
kn / a Moment.....	311	Our Baby.....	126
Fidelity.....	311	Our Father Abune.....	230
Is This Life Worth Living?.....	231	Our Johnnie.....	111
-Jesus's Love.....	273	Our Native Land—Fair Canada... ..	19
-Jesus, My Refuge.....	301	Pain.....	332
-John Three-Sixteen.....	248	“Papa's Pet”.....	113
-Jubilee Song.....	58	Patience.....	322
Knights of Labor, (The).....	189	Peace of God, (The).....	306
Knights of Pythias.....	194	Perseverance.....	323
Last Enemy—Death, (The).....	297	Pleading.....	310
Laughing.....	180	Power of Song, (The).....	182
Learning the Twins to Walk.....	123	Preacher's Warning, (The).....	272
Liberty.....	325	Pride.....	207
Life's Brighter Side.....	190	Queenston Heights.....	38
Life's Progress.....	173	Queen Victoria's Jubilee.....	37
Life's Supreme Moments.....	156	Resignation.....	312
Light.....	314	Rest.....	336
Little Newspaper Boys, (The).....	184	Retaliation.....	335
Longing Soul, (The).....	288	Romping with the Children.....	109
Lord, I believe.....	292	Rosedale.....	186
Lord's Prayer, (The).....	286	Sabbath Chimes.....	237
Love and Charity.....	93	Sabbath Day, (The).....	304
Love and Sympathy.....	208	Sabbath-School Teacher's Reward, (The).....	299
Love-Links.....	107	Scarboro' Heights.....	253
Love's Ideal, (The).....	120	Scenes of Early Years.....	337
Loves of an Infant-Class Scholar, (The).....	243	Scotch Dainties.....	81
Love's Progress.....	105	“Scotty”.....	34
Master's Call, (The).....	298	Seeking After Knowledge.....	308
Missionary's Prayer, (The).....	275	She Pays Her Debts with Kisses ..	200
Misunderstood.....	124	Skating.....	247
Mortgaging the Homestead.....	258	Sleep.....	321
Motherless Child, (The).....	128	Soap-Bubbles.....	191
Mother-Love.....	320	Song of Freedom.....	23
Mother's Voice.....	141	Song of the Drummer.....	170
Music.....	329	Sons of England.....	63
My Heart is Scotland's Yet.....	53	Sons of Scotland.....	40
My Mither's Grave.....	228	Stand Thou the Test.....	290
My Portion.....	278	Star of Love, (The).....	88
Mystery.....	176	Sunday-School Infant Class, (The). ..	240
Name of Jesus, (The).....	303	Sunrise.....	318
Name of Temple.....	160	Sweetest Word on Earth is Home, (The).....	51
Niagara Falls.....	26	Tears.....	330
Nursery Creak, (The).....	340	Tender Passion, (The).....	144
Ode to Lake Ontario.....	43	The Dominion of Canada.....	30
Oh! Fainting Heart.....	289
Old Year and the New, (The).....	216

The Links that Bind Us.....	29	Two Poor Or
There is a God	294	Victoria's J
The Thistle	44	Voyage of
Thy Choice—Which?	277	Welcome Home,
Thy Last Hour.....	313	What Can Love Do?.....
To a Brother Bard	260	What is Joy?
Tobogganing Song	333	What is Love?.....
Toddlin' Hame.....	226	What is Regret?.....
To Glasgow, Scotland	46	What Shall I Sing?
To-Morrow.....	235	When Jesus was Away
To My Friends.....	131	When Love is King.....	233
Toronto	338	Where Doth Beauty Dwell?	85
Toronto Bay	339	Workingman's Half-Holiday, (The)	202
To the Four Winds of Heaven	188	Workingman's Wife, (The)	147
To the Pansy	174	Yachting Song	219
Touch of the Divine, (The).....	279	Young Canada!	60
True Love.....	91	Young Musician, (The).....	197
Truth	315

ILLUSTRATIONS.

Portrait of Author	Frontispiece	Nature's Temple	161
Niagara Falls	27	Life's Progress	172
Queenston Heights	39	The Young Musician	199
The Dying Scot Abroad	48	She Pays Her Debts with Kisses ..	201
A Kiss Through the Telephone .. .	119	His Only Pair of Pants	222

MUSIC.

Fair Canada	21	Eyes That Speak of Love	100
Song of Freedom	22	"Papa's Pet".....	115
Queen Victoria's Jubilee	36	A Kiss Through the Telephone	116
Sons of Scotland	41	I Miss a Dear Face	134
Sweetest Word on Earth is Home..	50	Mother's Voice	140
My Heart is Scotland's Yet.....	54	A Christmas Carol.....	162
Sons of England.....	62	Song of the Drummer	171
The British Arms	66	Knights of Pythias.....	164
Canada.....	72	The Young Musician.....	196
Scotch Dainties	80	Yachting Song	218
The Star of Love	89	Sabbath Chimes.....	236
The Humber "Fairy"	94	My Portion	278
A Souvenir of Love	96

its as a Dear Face..... the a Moment.....
 k
 Fidelity..... as This Life Worth Living,

SANGS

USIO

Jesu's Love Afton Water—Annie Laurie
 in Gray—Aye Wakin' O!
 Jesus, My Bidee—Braes o' Yarrow—Caller
 John Thaxley, Johnnie Cope—Highland Mary
 Jubilee in Grove—Laird o' Cookpen—Land o'
 Deal—Mary of Argyle—Mother's Voice—
 Knarland Willie—My Nannie's Awa'—My
 Nannie O'—Robin Adair—Scotch Dainties—
 Scots Wha Hae—Sons of Scotland—Tam
 Glen—Twa Lovers (a Duet)—Year that's Awa'—Ye Banks and Braes.

And 44 Additional Scotch Songs of Equal Merit.

ALL POST FREE FOR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Imrie, Graham & Co.,

31 CHURCH ST.

TORONTO.

Gathering of the Clans

This splendid Scotch Picture, shows all the Clan Tartans in Costume and is fit to adorn any parlor. Mounted on heavy stiff board. Post free for Fifty Cents.
 Only a limited number now on hand. Also a fine Coloured Portrait of

Sir Walter Scott

with views of Abbotsford—Silver
 Strand—Melrose Abbey—The Scott
 Monument—Ellen's Isle—Dryburgh Abbey—Rob Roy, and Helen MacGregor.

Post Free for Twenty-Five Cents

Imrie, Graham & Co.,

31 Church Street,

TORONTO, CANADA.

PRINTING

OF ALL KINDS, GOOD AND CHEAP, AT
Imrie, Graham & Co.,

Estimates Cheerfully Furnished.

31 Church St., Toronto, Can.

JOHN IMRIE'S POEMS

..A FEW SAMPLE VERSES..

"CALL ME SCOTTY!"

Yes I oa' me "Scotty" if you will,
 For sio' a name can mean nae ill,
 O' a' nick-names just tak' your fill—
 I'm quite content wi' "Scotty!"

A Scotchman has the knack to plod,
 Through thick an' thin he'll bear his load,
 His trust is aye in richt an' God,—
 The perseverin' "Scotty!"

He's 'tentive both to kirk an' mart,
 To friends he's true an' hard to part,
 In life's great race he needs nae start,—
 "I'll win or dee," says "Scotty!"

Though aft he travels far frae hame,
 He's aye a Scotchman a' the same,
 An' proud to crack o' Sootlan's fame,—
 A loyal son is "Sooty!"

A Volume of 350 pages beautifully bound in Cloth and Gold, good paper, and well-printed, nearly 3000 copies disposed of.

POST FREE FOR ONE DOLLAR.

IMRIE, GRAHAM & CO.,

31 Church St., Toronto, Canada.

GUID SCOTCH READINGS

FULL OF FUN AND FROLIO

CONTENTS:

Saunders McGlashan's Courtship—The Hotel Bed—Watty and Meg—Lackie Wul-son on Braid Scots—The Auld Sark Sleeve—
 Sandy McTartan's Visit to the Shows—
 Raisin' His Mother-in-Law—Sir Colin Campbell's Address—Lamplichter Davie's Love Affair—Wee Bobbie Barefeet—The Washing-House Key—The Sitting-Doon Cauld—
 Willie Weedrap's Domestic Astronomy—
 Popping the Question—The Wocoin' o' Kate
 Dalrymple—Wha Rules the Hoose—Tamma
 Thorl's Fottygraphic Experiences—The Minister's Pownie—The Minister's Choice—
 Receipt for a Haggis—The Stairhead Man-awdgs—To the Gallant Forty-Eighth—Part of a Scotch Minister's Sermon—The Hidin' o' the Tawse—The Findin' o' th
 Tawse—A Poet's Bid for Fame—Scotty-
 The Kistin' o' the Sweep.

All Post Free for Twenty-Five Ce

IMRIE, GRAHAM & CO

31 Church St., Toronto, C

