THE MYSTERY REMAINS

Miss Marian Grace Perkins Turns Up Alive and Well at Home—Her Young Man is Also in Evidence, and It is Said They Are Married—Meanwhile Mrs. Guilford Has Flitted.

Middleboro, Mass., Sept. 17.—Charles Bourne, the young man whose name has been used in connection with the Bridgeport murder case, returned here this afternoon. He was accompanied by Miss Grace Perkins, the young lady who was supposed to have been murdered. Their arrival created a great sensation and the identity of the murdered remains found in the mill pond still remains a mystery.

Miss Perkins' father was not in town, for at the time of his daughter's arrival he was on his way back from Bridgeport with the gruesome remains which he had identified as those of Grace, and for whom the funeral arrangements, including the digging of the grave, had been completed. So unexpected was the coming of Miss Perkins and young Bourne that outside of one or two friends, who had been previously notified, there were very few at the railroad station when the train came in.

The young lady, however, was immediately recognized by the bystanders at the station and the news spread around the town with incredible rapidity. A carriage with a messenger was despatched to the Perkins' home and Mrs. Perkins, the mother, suffered almost as badly from the shock of the good news as she did two days before when the circumstances of her daughter's supposed horrible death were gently broken to her.

So positive had Mr. Perkins been that his daughter had been the victim of the crime that he had gone to Bridgeport to get the remains and had sent word from there to his family to make every arrangement for the funeral, which was to take place tomorrow. Just across the street from the Perkins' house is a little cemetery and only this morning, in response to the request of the uncle of Mrs. Perkins, a grave had been dug by the sexton in the family lot and the new earth thrown up beside could be plainly seen from the house. Half an hour after Miss Perkins arrived home a local undertaker's wagon drove up to the house and in it was the coffin which had been ordered by the family. The funeral arrangements had even gone so far that the family minister had been asked to conduct the service.

Mr. Perkins Hears the Good News. Taunton, Mass., Sept. 17.—The few people who were on the platform of the Taunton Central passenger station on the arrival of the Providence train at 7.30 to-night witnessed a pathetic and almost seemed a tragic incident. It was when Frank W. Perkins of Middleboro was first told that his daughter was safe and well at home. When the train stopped a middle-aged man with marks of care upon his face alighted and walked along the platform a short distance and came to a standstill, looking up and down the station in an uncertain way. There were few people to notice him and none recognized the man nor was his identity known until a few minutes later, when Mr. B. F. Kingsbury came out of his office and, looking about at the people, asked, "Is Frank W. Perkins here?" The man who had been standing alone raised his head and indicated that he was the person sought. Mr. Kingsbury stepped forward and placed in Mr. Perkins' hand a slip of paper on which the words were written: "Your daughter Grace and Charley are at home safe and well."

Would Not Believe It. Mr. Perkins started as though he had been struck, looked at the train dispatcher in a dazed sort of way and said, "I will believe it when I get home and see her with my own eyes here." The man who had been standing alone raised his head and indicated that he was the person sought. Mr. Kingsbury stepped forward and placed in Mr. Perkins' hand a slip of paper on which the words were written: "Your daughter Grace and Charley are at home safe and well."

They Refused to Talk. Middleboro, Mass., Sept. 17.—Neither Miss Perkins nor young Bourne will say a word as to their recent movements. Miss Perkins declares that she knew nothing of the sensation created over her suspected murder until yesterday, when she read of it in a Providence paper.

Not Located in Montreal. Montreal, Sept. 18.—Nothing has yet been discovered to warrant the belief that Mrs. Perkins' young man is in Montreal. The mysterious Bridgeport case, is in Montreal. One report was that the woman had purchased a ticket at Elmira last Wednesday evening for Montreal, but if she did come here she probably left at once for Quebec. She is supposed to be the same woman who was arrested here some years ago, under the name of Mrs. Gillon, on a charge of abortion, but the local authorities have received a wire from Bridgeport to be on the lookout for her.

WILL THEY COME TO BLOWS?

France is Sensible She Will Not Try to Hold Fashoda.

Only Hot-Headed French Generals Anxious to Hide Their Own Corruption Would Favor a Conflict With John Bull—Something About the Little Frenchman, Marchand.

New York, Sept. 18.—Harold Frederic, coming from London to The Times regarding the supposed presence of Major Marchand at Fashoda, says: "Granting that the panic-stricken Derivis in their crazy old penny steamer really saw the tri-color waving at Fashoda, the crucial question is whether the French are prepared to fight in order to retain possession. If sober sense prevailed, I do not think they are. By no twisting of history can this portion of the Nile be made out as other than Egyptian territory. Schweinfurth so considered it in 1869. Baker subdued the whole neighborhood on behalf of Egypt in 1870, and three years later the unucky Yussuf was the Egyptian Governor of Fashoda.

"Thus, for more than a quarter of a century it has been impossible honestly to label this place no man's land, but suppose the French ignore this fact, as do their hysterical newspapers. Surely, with a navy of samples, as Lockroy courteously christened it, France can hardly be so mad as to try conclusions with the English fleet, an experiment which, as things are today, can only end in increasing and chasing the self-knowledge of the French admiralty and a striking diminution in the number of their ships. Of course, the French politicians are charmed with any new opportunity of slandering "Perfidious Albion." They care precious little, and perhaps know still less, about all this Upper Nile question.

"It is not burning or even smouldering in France to-day, but it might be lighted up by a posse of angry generals eager to hide the stench of their own corruption, and perhaps honestly desirous of escaping a revolution by letting the blood of Englishmen instead of shooting down the French in a theatrical manner on each side of the Channel, but there is no real ground for apprehension that the two powerful nations will ever go to war over a swamp hole in equatorial Africa. The Sirdar may raise the British flag and Marchand may protest, but ultimately the dispute will be settled by diplomacy. French rivalries in Africa have diminished in importance since the alliance with Russia has been discredited by the czar's manifesto. The situation at Fashoda is melodramatic, and until the sequel is learned it causes a certain degree of anxiety in official circles here and in Paris, but an open conflict between Marchand's small force and the Sirdar's Egyptian force is hardly within the range of probability. Nor is it credible that the Sirdar, after a reconquest of Khartoum, will be asked to place the French expedition in possession of the White Nile region. There will be an exchange of courtesies after the British and Egyptian flags are raised at Fashoda, and the whole matter will be relegated to the slow processes of diplomacy, as in West Africa, with the final adjustment of the frontiers being the French Empire in Northwest Africa and the British-Egyptian Empire, extending from Alexandria to the lakes, and thence through Tanganyika to South Africa.

The French people are so intensely preoccupied with the Dreyfus affair, which is now in a critical stage, that they can take only a languid interest in Marchand's adventures.

MARCHAND'S CHARACTERISTICS. If He Has One of His Fits on When He Meets the Red Cross. London, Sept. 18.—The Manchester Courier publishes a report of an interview with an intimate friend of Major Marchand. He described Marchand as an extremely modest and retiring little man, who when at school was nicknamed "The Mouse." He is not particularly clever, but is plodding and determined in a quiet sort of way. The secret of his success in life is his talent for keeping on good terms with the authorities without forfeiting his self-esteem. His friends are unable to understand to what extent his self-repression is natural, or how far the result of calculation, as he is known to indulge in the most violent fits of passion. He is a romantic believer in the future of France as a colonializing power, and if he is met with by the British while in one of his enthusiastic moods there will be trouble.

MEANT TO BURN HER EYES OUT

Prince Albert Coat and Plug Hat Did Not Save Gaetz.

He is Charged With Having Done Up a Wealthy Pittsburg, Who Trusted Him and Kept Him in Funds for Some Time—Slemin Caught the Bird.

Jacob F. Gaetz, aged 30 years, dressed in a Prince Albert coat and plug hat, was a prisoner at Police Headquarters last night charged with obtaining $400 from Dr. Clark George of Pittsburg, Pa. The police were very reticent about the case, and Crown Attorney Curry went so far as to say that there was really nothing of importance in the arrest.

Gaetz was taken into custody yesterday afternoon by Detective Slemin, just after he had left the G. N. W. Telegraph Company's office, on a warrant sworn out by the Doctor. The specific charge is only one of four that are hanging over him. On three of these the prisoner is now on bail. It is said that Gaetz met Dr. George, who is a well-known dentist, in Pittsburg about two years ago. The Doctor was possessed of much wealth and Gaetz arranged with him to invest various sums in buying patents. Gaetz seemed to have much technical knowledge in chemistry and electricity, and the Doctor had every confidence in him. About two months ago Gaetz was arrested for desertion, followed by another charge for non-support. In each of the cases he was released on bail, the security being furnished by the Doctor. Not long after he was again taken into custody for obtaining money under false pretences. Dr. George again stood by him and put up $1000 more security. About two weeks ago Gaetz went to a good field in Canada to sell patents and asked the Doctor to furnish him the money to bring him to Toronto. A contract was entered into which Dr. George was to send him $300 on his arrival here, which was forwarded with out delay. On two later occasions the Doctor was wired to send more money, which he did, to the extent of $60, the amount mentioned in the warrant. Gaetz put up at the Arlington Hotel, where he had not been for some time. It is said that he ran up a bill of $400, which has not been paid. He had no company four women and one child, who have since left the house. Last week Gaetz was to appear for trial and just after the court opened the Doctor learned that the prisoner had made up his mind to stay in Canada and evade justice, leaving his bondsman to put up the $1000. Dr. George consulted his attorney, Frank R. Agnew, 518 Fourth-avenue, and extradition papers were at once issued. The Doctor, accompanied by his attorney, arrived here on Friday last and registered at the Walker Hotel. They at once contacted with Crown Attorney Curry, who issued the warrant and placed the matter in the hands of Detective Slemin, who successfully executed it yesterday.

Two days before his arrest, Gaetz, it is said, arranged to go into partnership with a local patent solicitor. The prisoner will appear in the Police Court to-day and if he waives extradition proceedings will be taken to Pittsburg this morning.

TUMULT IN A THEATRE. The Dreyfus Trial Was Portrayed and Frenchmen Interrupted It. Havana, Sept. 18.—At the Tacoo Theatre last night there was produced a play based upon the Dreyfus trial, in which Dreyfus was portrayed throughout as an innocent victim of conspiracy in the French army. From the start the sympathy of the audience was with Dreyfus. Four Frenchmen, one of whom is supposed to have been an officer of the French gendarme Fusil, now lying in the harbor, occupied a box in the first tier. All of them carried batons in their hands, and at the first intimation against the honesty of the trial they began to blow the whistles and to loudly hiss the players. A scene of indescribable tumult followed. The entire audience rising in defence of Dreyfus. The Frenchmen were forcibly ejected and the performance was continued without further interruption. One of the Frenchmen, who was thought to be an officer of the Fusil, refused to give his name at the station house, to which the party was taken after being ejected from the theatre, and he was locked up over night. General Blanco has prohibited the future performance of the play in Havana.

THE SULTAN GIVES IN

Military Commander in Crete Ordered to Accede Fully to the Demand of Admiral Noel—British Troops Will Probably Occupy Candia.

Candia, Island of Crete, Sept. 18.—The Sultan has ordered Djévdar Pasha, the military commander in Crete, to accede to the demand of the British Admiral Noel for disarmament, thus complying with the whole ultimatum of the admiral. A British military detachment to-day occupied the entrance to the fort; an dit is rumored that the Ottoman troops will be withdrawn and British forces will occupy the town.

Among the prisoners already handed over to Admiral Noel are two who are credited with being the ringleaders in the attack on the British camp. Noel will not eat Crow.

New York, Sept. 18.—The London correspondent of The Times, referring to affairs in Crete, says: "Navy men here are quite satisfied that whatever may happen in Crete there is little danger of the English Admiral Noel eating crow, however much the Turks may try to disguise the dish for English consumption. Noel is not only an extremely determined man, ready to eat up alive any one opposing what he holds to be his plain duty, but he looks the part. Long ago discerning shipmates christened him 'Jack Shark,' and Editham Pasha may find that this uncomplimentary epithet is fairly well deserved. "I am told that Noel's anger at some of his own emn having been shot down by Turkish bullets was something ominously quiet. It will take all the combined efforts of the European concert to keep 'Jack Shark' from having at least one good bite in return. "The Cretan business would be amusing if it were not such a grave matter for the unucky islanders themselves. Were it possible for England to handle this middle alone, matters would go quickly enough, though at some cost to the nightly rest of the Sultan and the Ambassadors at Constantinople. This came out very clearly when the English sailors were murdered and the interest for a short time became purely British. The action was taken with quick decision, and what is more, was backed up by the startled diplomats of Constantinople, roused from slumber at 2 a.m. The offending houses were knocked down in Candia and the ringleaders, or ruffians cast for the part, handed over to the irate admiral. "Unfortunately for Crete the isolated British action cannot go on indefinitely, and the wretched concert starts playing its dead march once more over the unhappy island. It is a pity that the suggestion, made by The Spectator, cannot be adopted, of turning out the Turkish soldiers, their tellings, Russia to boldly name the Governor and offering to stand in with her, if the other two powers kick. This is an admirable idea, but almost too happy for an imperfect Europe."

Ontario's Birth Rate. Anglican Synod at Montreal Passes Resolution for Committee. Montreal, Sept. 18.—(G. N. W. report.)—The motion made by the Rev. Dr. Williams for a committee to enquire into the cause of the low birth rate in Ontario was adopted by the Anglican Synod yesterday. Dr. Williams, in support of the motion, made some very strong statements. He said that from enquiries, he had made from people in a position to know he had been informed that the low birth rate was largely due to many women in Ontario doing things they should not do, and using means to prevent their having children. He had been informed that this practice was alarmingly common, and he thought the matter should be looked into. The motion for a committee to enquire into the subject was carried.

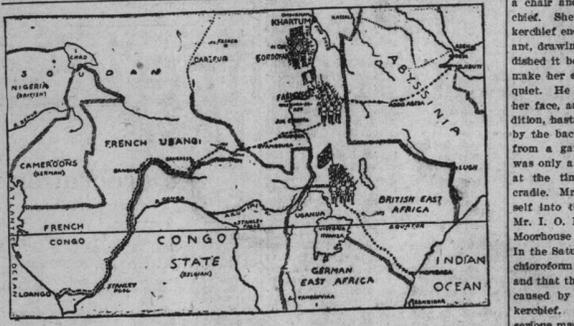

France is Conciliatory. London, Sept. 19.—From Cairo and from an entirely independent source The Daily Mail learns that France has assumed a conciliatory attitude towards Great Britain and has declared that the expedition of Marchand to Fashoda, which was the cause of the war, is quite unjustified. The Sirdar will be informed that the Major will accept and that Fashoda will be occupied by Egyptian troops.

Monday considering the report of the Committee on Beneficiaries.

At 3:30 an adjournment was made to the core of Bay and Diamond-streets to witness a turnout of the Bay-street Fire Brigade.

Suddenly the gong struck, and where a minute before all was quiet, the horses sprang out, the collars snapped and the drivers were in their places.

Then the look and ladder truck, the condenser water tower, raised his brass nozzle 60 feet in air, and was worked around to show the range of the stream.

The scene was the scene of an animated fire, except that there was no fire. Dense smoke trailed against the Temple building and all operations were suspended.

The visitors were struck with the speed of the operation and the beauty of the horses. "Jim" was much praiseworthy.

Brother F. Sowery of the reception committee has been taken very ill and all the boys are asking about him.

It seems that Dr. Pott's circus is an assured fact. Most schemes of this kind of his have fallen through, but what makes the thing possible and has infused enthusiasm into the Dr. (of Beattie) is that he has just booked "Shasher, the Zulu King from Belleville," who has also another act "the man who stands from the air."

There is no more potent of conscientious man around the committee room than "Scotty" Pimplyson, and his little box is on duty late and early. He looks after it well done. "Scotty" will not be imposed upon, knows his business, and is happy, anxious to get the best of his content. He doesn't want to be a Grand Master just yet, but he knows his "entirement" all right and knows why a spray comes out of the cylinder when the operators are opened.

Brother Frank Arnold is the Grand Secretary and Treasurer of the B. of L. F. and a general and typical railroad man; good natured but when he directs those Brown eyes at one of the other sex she doesn't "hold her" worth a cent. Frank is an amateur photographer and has a camera, and admits knowing a little less than a novice about it. Quite recently a friend who first glanced around to see if he could, if necessary, photograph quickly, asked him to go for a bicycle ride.

To the Straight and Narrow Way. As soon as the shower of yesterday afternoon would permit a good number of the delegates to the B. of L. F. convention assembled on Wellington-street, between York and Bay-streets, and from there, to march to the Auditorium, where they were addressed by Rev. Father Treacy, D. D., and Rev. E. S. Rowe.

The parade was under the command of Grand Marshal T. Shea of New Jersey. The service at the Auditorium was opened with the doxology, after which Grand Chaplain E. E. Pruyn of Rochester read the formal opening from the Rev. Mr. W. J. Brown was in the chair. Mayor Shaw and Aid. Woods were present.

Father Treacy chose as his subject, "Thank God for organized labor." He said that, although they were divided by different religions, although they held allegiance to different flags, although they worshipped at different altars and were from different social conditions, yet they were all freemen upon the engine of life.

When Adam delved and Eve sowed, Who was then the gentleman? Following the condition of the workingman from the dark ages to the present day, he thanked God that with the advent of Christianity came the freedom of the laboring class from the oppression of the tyrant and the last of the task-master.

The blessed Saviour was a laborer and blessed is the man that can follow Him in His footsteps. When Christ came he abolished all distinction between the masses and the classes, and taught that all men were equal, and before you tell this afternoon, ministers of the Christian church and preachers of the Catholic church, would be false to our Master if we refused to extend the right hand of fellowship to the workingman.

"Thank God for organized labor." The Pope, Leo XIII., that grand old man of the Christian churches of to-day, in his encyclical to the bishops of the world, commended it and instructed the church to support it in every way possible. He advised the payment of a wage that was just and honest and not a mere sufficiency, which only enabled the workingman to clothe his family with a bare sufficiency. For what minister, Protestant or Catholic, could preach the gospel to a parish that was suffering the pangs of hunger?

He concluded his address with: For right is right. As God is God. And right the day shall win. To doubt would be dishonesty. To falter would be a sin.

Rev. E. S. Rowe of Euclid-Avenue Methodist Church then addressed the gathering. He said he was pleased to appear upon the same platform with his brother and co-worker; referred to the two flags draped above the stage and presented greetings from the church he had the honor of representing.

"I congratulate you upon your success as an organization, because you possess means to one's defeat to congratulate you upon your strength, and I will call your attention to obligations that come with strength. If occasion should arise, you could stop the wheels of commerce as no other force could stop them, so I warn you to use this strength advisedly.

"I notice your social influence. You represent 100,000 souls and are responsible for their welfare. I notice you are the masses have to pay the bill. Hold the honor of your country as dearly as the honor of your mother, sister or brother (Applause.) Do not elect a man because he is a 'half-fellow well-meaning,' or because he gives you a genial snap on the back, but elect the right man to the right place.

"Your union may have high aims, good constitution, splendid leaders, but these are useless if your members are not of equally high ideals."

In conclusion, he said: "You cannot meet your obligation to your God. You cannot meet your obligation to your God. A collection was taken up and $40 was raised for the Sick Children's Hospital."

A Magnificent bore in the State of Vermont in 1851, and has younger days spent as a farmer's boy, where the opportunity of securing education was wanting, but plentiful. However, he struggled along, picking up what learning he could in a photograph gallery in the town of Walling, Vt. But his health became poor, his lungs being slightly affected, and he decided that he must give up the idea of going to college. He was 25 when he enlisted in the cavalry service of the United States regulars in Arizona. He saw the world, and he was a member of a bunch of boys. In his first essay he was, it was partly the broadness of his mind, but he had mastered it. He later was exhibited, and when he got through with the brochure the crowd did not laugh.

Mr. Sargent remained in this position till he was entirely recovered and discharged, and then he secured employment as a "wiper" in the roundhouse of the Southern Pacific Railway, Yuma, Arizona. During all this period he had no one to whom he could put up at the Walker in this city. There is not another hotel for C. A. W. He was immensely fond of the bear, and one day invited a couple of friends down to view him, a privilege not accorded to all. And when the exhibition was in full swing he saw a bear unceremoniously and maliciously "chawed" C. A. W.'s arm, inflicting wounds. The friends agreed the bear certainly was all right as a bear, but they wished to know if C. A. W. was going to make a personal friend of him and introduce him round. I asked the gentleman what became of the bear, and he said "Parliament contacted and 'em him." But he is a professional jollier and when he runs at the coming election for the office you want stand from the air." The Tom Marshall colored gait with the hat on of the Cow Brand, running for the Peoria House at Naperville, Ill., and with Dr. Pott's circus having bones in them. This was at the ball.

Since he became Grand Master, the B. of L. F. has shown a marked increase in the credit for this largely attaches to the Grand Master. When he first grasped the reins of the B. of L. A WEEK'S STOCK MARKETS

Wall Street Stocks Closed Strong on Saturday.

Review of Situation and Causes of Movements of the Past Seven Days—Money Markets—Canadian Pacific—Northern and Union Pacific—Tobacco's Strength and Sugar's Weakness—Gossip.

Continued fear of stringency in the money market carried last week's depressing report to-day.

Disappointing crop report to-day, however, was advanced to any extent could be profitably imported from Europe.

The active demand for stocks in New York was reported in the money market.

As for the future, the big railway earnings, the extensive grain movement, likely to begin now, and the general trade conditions may warrant higher prices.

On the other hand there is the money market reported in London and advances were reported in New York to be figured on, and more important, the fact that the pending electoral campaign in the United States.

THE TORONTO WORLD

Wall Street Stocks Closed Strong on Saturday.

Review of Situation and Causes of Movements of the Past Seven Days—Money Markets—Canadian Pacific—Northern and Union Pacific—Tobacco's Strength and Sugar's Weakness—Gossip.

Continued fear of stringency in the money market carried last week's depressing report to-day.

Disappointing crop report to-day, however, was advanced to any extent could be profitably imported from Europe.

The active demand for stocks in New York was reported in the money market.

As for the future, the big railway earnings, the extensive grain movement, likely to begin now, and the general trade conditions may warrant higher prices.

On the other hand there is the money market reported in London and advances were reported in New York to be figured on, and more important, the fact that the pending electoral campaign in the United States.
