WHY NOT TO ADAM?

St. John, N. B., Feb. 15, 1907. To the Editor of the Times: Sir, I have been lately in your paper a subscription list to collect funds toward the erection of a monument to the memory of the French explorer Champlain. As he was a citizen of France, employed by that government and worked for the interest of that nation, no doubt France built a monument to his memory. Now the French were not the real discoverers of North America, those who were to England, under the reign of King Henry VII, when John Cabot was sent from Bristol to explore North America. He made the map of the western hemisphere, which made it easy for other nations to explore, therefore I consider Cabot the chief explorer of the coast line of North America. It was not through the good will of the French that Canada enjoys the privileges she now has under the British flag, but this was due to the pluck and skill of the French, the brave General Wolfe and his brave soldiers, who lost their lives in the assault that gave to Britain the sovereignty of this extensive country. Now would it not be more appropriate for the citizens of St. John to build a monument to those brave men, or to the real founders of this city--the English Loyalists, so that school children can look on it with pride. This would we install in the children the spirit of loyalty and patriotism.

All doubt as to whether the trial was to continue or to end in a mis-trial was thus practically dispelled.

CHAPTER XV. "If we were exclusively a party of young people, I should be disposed to suggest a game of hide and seek for this afternoon," Sir Ralph said cheerily, when the boisterous party were leaving the dining-room after luncheon. "As such an energetic way might not suit us all, I would propose instead that we explore the house, which has many interesting nooks and corners. "Oh! charming," exclaimed Miss Stoper, who passed as an aficionado of old buildings and objects of historical interest. "You have everything quite correct here, have you not, Sir Ralph?" under-ground cells, subterranean passages, oubliettes, all that went to make medieval life so fascinating. "Fascinating," young Jack Digby, another of the guests, raised his eyebrows, and laughed; "I fail to see where the fascination can come in for those who were unlucky enough to live in the oubliettes," he said. "You offended your enemy, or your liege lord, and before you could turn round, you were popped down an oubliette, or left to linger in a dungeon—et puis, cousin!" "Perhaps the middle ages had their drawbacks," Miss Stoper owned, "but still I do see and feel a great fascination about them, and I am really quite glad today in wet days we may all have an opportunity of thoroughly exploring this wonderful old house. No doubt you will be interested in it," she added, turning to Molly who was standing beside her. "I dare say you have not seen many old houses." Although the words were said smoothly and with a smile, the thoughtfulness in Mrs. Bedworth's eyes, and the way she looked at Jack Digby, who, having laid himself figuratively and almost literally at the feet of the heiress, glanced indignantly at the old maid, and prepared to take up the cudgels for Molly, when she herself answered gently: "I have naturally seen very few old houses in England. Lodging-house servants don't have many opportunities for staying in an historical mansion; you know, her eyes twinkled wickedly; "but I have stayed in several fairly old and historical houses abroad." "Oh, indeed!" Miss Stoper's tones were both tart and surprised. Mr. Digby looked much amused. "I thought you were living very quietly in some small out-of-the-way place with Mrs. Grey. From what Mrs. Bedworth told me, I knew where I was or what I was doing, came the quiet but freezing answer, whilst a look of cold dignity suddenly fell like a veil over Molly's bright face; "until I met her here quite unexpectedly, three nights ago, we have not even heard of each other for two years."

TORTURED BY INDIGESTION Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured After Doctors Had Failed. Mrs. T. J. Tobin, 388 King street, Quebec, wife of the circulation manager of L'Evenement, is one of the best known and most estimable ladies in the city, and her statement that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her of a very severe attack of indigestion will bring hope to similar sufferers. Mrs. Tobin says: "About a year ago I was seized with indigestion which had an alarming effect upon my health. Day by day my strength grew less. I suffered from terrible headaches, dizziness, palpitation of the heart and sleeplessness. I was in this condition for about six months. I consulted two doctors and although I followed their treatment carefully it did not help me in the least. Last October, seeing that instead of regaining my health I was growing worse, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After I had taken the second box there was change for the better, and after taking the pills for a month longer the trouble entirely disappeared, and I am again enjoying the best of health. I have so much confidence in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I always keep them in the house and take them occasionally as a safeguard. "Just as surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Tobin's indigestion they can cure all the other ailments which come from bad blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, red blood. That is the one thing they do—but they do it well. In making this new rich blood this medicine strikes straight at the root of such common ailments as anæmia, headaches and backaches, general weakness, nervous debility, neuralgia, rheumatism and the torturing weakening ailments that afflict women and growing girls. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EMPIRE EVENING GOWN. Pale yellow chiffon satin was used as the foundation for the gown illustrated, this lining being a closely fitted princess, over which was hung the outer skirt of cream-colored embroidered net. The lower part of the skirt was trimmed with bands of satin put on as explained by the drawing, the bodice having a little 'jacket' of flax net embroidered in gold thread, and bound with orange-colored velvet. The under-bodice and sleeves were of cream-white shirred mousseline.

What Causes Your Frequent Colds? People catch cold either because of exposure, low vitality or neglect of the bowels. Once become costive, allow the eliminating organs to grow sluggish, and cold will fill the entire system. But the worst cold is curable in one night. Don't use a strong cathartic—it only makes matters worse. Just take one or two Dr. Hamilton's Pills before retiring. While you sleep, this wonderful medicine works through the system and completely carries away the cold. By stimulating the bowels and kidneys, it ensures healthy elimination, wakes up the sluggish organs and gives nature a chance. Next morning you wake up with a fresh, brisk feeling. Color has improved, appetite is sharp, cold has disappeared. Nothing simpler, nothing half so effective as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which not only destroy the cold but tone and regulate the whole system. In rheumatism, gout and kindred ills, the action and effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills is just the same as with the simple cold. Prevent sickness by keeping Dr. Hamilton's Pills on hand, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, and refuse a substitute. (To be continued.)

Not one person in a thousand knows that Fruit is really a wonderful medicine? Not rare fruits—but the common, everyday fruits that you can buy in the fruit shops. APPLES act directly on the kidneys—increase the flow of urine. ORANGES are excellent for the skin. FIGS and PRUNES are splendid bowel laxatives and liver tonics. There are two great difficulties in curing yourself of Kidney and Bladder Troubles—Rheumatism—Constipation—Skin Eruptions, etc. by simply eating fresh fruit. First, the minute quantity of medicinal principle that you would get by eating a normal amount of fresh fruit would be insufficient to do any real good—second, eating excessive quantities of fruit would upset the stomach, on account of the indigestible pulpy fibre found in all fruits. An Ottawa physician overcame these difficulties when he discovered the principle which brought forth "Fruit-a-tives." "FRUIT-A-TIVES" are fruit juices—not as they occur in fruit—but with their medicinal activity greatly intensified. After the juices are extracted from the fruit, a chemical change is made to take place in which one atom of the bitter principle in fruit is replaced by one of the sweet. Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole pressed into tablets. Fruit-a-tives act on the three great eliminating organs—the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin. They arouse the sluggish liver—enable the liver to give up more bile, which regulates the bowels and cures Constipation (or non-action of the bowels). Fruit-a-tives strengthen the kidneys and induce vigorous, healthy skin action. For Headaches and Backaches—for Indigestion and Disordered Stomach—for Irregular Bowels—for all Kidney and Bladder Troubles—for Skin Eruptions—Fruit-a-tives are without an equal in the world. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your druggist or dealer does not have them. FRUIT-A-TIVES LIMITED, OTTAWA, Ont.

SOWING DOLLARS. That is what the baker is doing who buys "FIVE ROSES" or "HARVEST QUEEN" FLOUR, even if he has to pay a little more for it than for an ordinary flour. The extra price paid is one of the best investments he can make. "FIVE ROSES" and "HARVEST QUEEN" are milled from selected Manitoba Hard Wheat, by the best processes known and therefore excel in uniformity, strength and nutritive value. By reason of their uniformity, baking with them is quick and easy, and the results are uniformly the best. Working expenses are cut down, and there is no spoiled bread. On account of their strength, they will absorb more water, and therefore will make more bread per barrel than any ordinary flours. Bread made from them, besides being sweeter and tastier, is richer and more nutritious than that made from cheaper flours. The public is quick to appreciate these qualities in bread, and the use of "Five Roses" and "Harvest Queen" will bring to any good baker a steady and permanent increase in trade. He will reap a rich harvest from the dollars he has sown when he bought these brands. Lake of the Woods Milling Co., Limited Montreal, St. John, Winnipeg.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—Sir Frederick Borden's measure to provide for the Broad Arrow within the letter C, on militia stores, was read a third time in the house this afternoon.

Mr. Borden said it seemed that Mr. Hymans' health had been generally believed. It seemed strange that Mr. Hymans should be completely incapacitated from work for so long and on the resignation, it would throw some doubt on the validity of the document.

After further discussion the matter was dropped. Emmerson, in reply, said that ever since the summer of 1904 Mr. Crockett had been calling out that the surveys were false and ordered to be cancelled.

Mr. Crockett accused him of being opposed to the St. John valley route. He was not opposed to the route, but was opposed to the way it was being conducted by his department.

Mr. Emmerson then made a few remarks about the Frederick Gleason. He said that the same lines as Mr. Crockett and Mr. Haggart said that he held the government responsible.

When the house went into supply the post office estimates were taken up. Mr. Lemieux announced that he was abandoning the idea for the present of starting a small parcel post service.

THE DELEGATION

The St. John delegation to Ottawa is a strong and influential one, and it goes well fortified with facts relative to the present condition and future needs of this port. It will meet with a kindly reception, and we may hope that many matters will be cleared up, and the government pleased so fully in possession of the facts concerning the port that no steamship company will find it easy to evade responsibility, while provision will be made for continuous work on the additional facilities required in this harbor.

THE EXPOSURE

It is fortunate for St. John that there are some newspapers here which put St. John interests first. Had not the Telegraph and Times directed the attention of the public and the minister of railways to the Allan sailing schedule cutting out this port with their turbine steamers, they perhaps would have got the consent of Sir Richard Cartwright to make the change—on the false assumption that they could not get wharf accommodation at this port.

Something should be done for these boys. They have nowhere to go in the evenings, and the fact that they went to the Every Day Club rooms proves that they are not kept at home.

MISREPRESENTATION

THE AULD BRIG O' AYR.

[Lord Rosebery has appealed for £10,000 to save this famous structure from being demolished, on account of its unsafe condition. The anniversary of Burns' birthday is on the 25th, and his immortal memory will be toasted at numerous haggis-and-whisky feasts. "Mr. Punch's" advice for Burns' night is that his worshippers should pass round the hat and let their satchels gang bang into it.]

Ye better Scots, frae Perth to Denny! Tak' tent' o' drum-bags frae the army! Come like Jock, come like Janny, Row in your sound, birl up your penny! Aik save the Brig!

Five hunder years, ye deil and fair, Five knail upon the banks o' Ayr, Bending my back, now gashed and bare, Frae hand to hand, And, by ye sun, five hunder mair, I'll sign to stand!

Could ye but see the mighty thrang Hae passed my cobble stanes along, The tale and laird, the auld and strang, The bairns see prime! My bonnie lass, ye did sma' wrang To beg for lime!

Ladies and Lords frae yon the town, Knights o' chain and iron, Ballies, ha' banched up and deun, My auld soon lads, ye hae been here, And, auld times rested on my croon, To ha' their crack.

But, King among them a' by right, Who sing his sang, and lead his fight, Watched the braid moon her silver light Leave to my stream, The while he preesed his fancy's sight And wove his dream.

And shall these stanes where Rabble stood, For lack o' mair, by the rood, A shapless mass beneath the food Sink for a' time? The "Auld Brig" o' Scotland's rhyming brood Forbids the crime!

All ye who warnt the Brig's name, By all its gild his sangs ha' done, Frae Arctic night to India's sun, Whae green woods grow and rivers run, It shall na' be! —Punch.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

TOOK HIS ADVICE. "You certainly took advice; you must have followed my advice and had a change." "Yes, doctor, so I have." "Where did you go?" "I went to another physician."

SOPHRONY'S TROUBLE.

"Yes," sighed Mrs. Lapping, "Sophrony suffers terribly from neuralgia. The only relief she ever gets is when she has an epidemic inserted in her arm."—Chicago Tribune.

ACCURATE DEFINITION.

"Tommy"—"Pa, what is the Isthmus of Panama?" "Pa"—"The Isthmus of Panama, Tommy, is a narrow strip of land connecting Central America with the United States Treasury."—Life.

THE JOVIAL DRUMMER.

"What business are you in," asked the jovial drummer. "I'm a drummer," replied Mr. Pompos, "I'm a gentleman, sir!" "You don't say? Haven't been working at it long, have you?"—Philadelphia Press.

HARD TO SATISFY.

"Some women," said Uncle Eben, according to a writer in the Washington Star, "not only want the privilege of blamin' their husbands' fo' lettin' 'em have it if it don't turn out right."

AMUSING EXPERIENCE.

"Yes," said the sexton, as he was showing the visitors round the church. "We had an amusing experience here only a few weeks ago. Our regular minister was away, and a stranger filled his pulpit. During the service, finding a written note tucked in the Bible on the reading desk, he read it out with all due solemnity. It was a request for the congregation's sympathy and prayers for Mrs. Wilkerson, who had been deeply afflicted by the loss of her wife. The sexton smiled broadly for a moment before finishing his narrative. "You see, sir," he said, "our regular minister had been using that paper as a book-marker for more than a year, and Mr. H., in a smart grey suit, sat in a front pew with the second wife he had taken the week before."

THE NORTH SHORE CRITIC.

Commodore Stewart of the Gladham World turns from Tompkinson Smith for a moment to hand one to another brother who has gone astray. Thus:—"It is interesting in view of all that has been said recently of church union, to note what Rev. W. J. Wilkinson said of it at the deacons' meeting, and we call Judge Forbes' attention particularly to it. Mr. Wilkinson thought some of the leading Protestant sects would soon be amalgamated, but that the time was not ripe for union with the several branches of the Catholic Church. Note 'Protestant sects' and 'branches of the Catholic Church.' These 'branches' are, we presume, the Anglican, Greek and Roman communions. The others are 'Protestant sects.' Judge Forbes will note his hopes for union between mere 'sects' and a real 'branch of the Catholic Church' are not likely to be realized. The only way for his 'sects' to secure union is to unite with one of the 'branches' and then endeavor to get these to amalgamate. These poor sects, you see, as seen from the lofty height of Anglican righteousness, are not branches of the Church as all, not even bought on a branch, nor twigs on a bough, nor leaves on a twig, and their talk of union with the Church of England is an impertinence. How pleasant it must be to have this sense of superiority and to be able to look from the tolerant toleration on the antics of the sects that are out of the fold though they fancy they are in a corner of it."

SUCCESS OF NOVA SCOTIA'S COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The Provincial Institution of Truro is Essentially a School for Practical Farmers Which in the Standard of Work and the Quality of Instruction is Second to None.

(Truro Cor., Halifax Chronicle). Prominent among the buildings is a classic brick structure, bearing over the door the simple, dignified, but broad-meaning inscription, "College of Agriculture."

The college was formally opened two years ago. During this time three short courses have been held, and the college is now in the middle of the second regular session of the full term course.

102 STUDENTS ARE ENROLLED. During the two years since the opening, three short courses have been held. The first was in February, 1905. Sixty-eight students enrolled.

EQUIPMENT OF THE COLLEGE. The college is a two-story structure, well planned, well furnished, splendidly lighted, and in every respect a model of a school building.

Exquisite Handsome Creations Still Favored—Colors Are Extremely High, Sleeves Are Striking—by Novel in Design—Some Girdles Built on the Waist.

The separate blouse of lingerie persuasion has made such a niche for itself in the estimation of fashionable and unfashionable alike that it has come to be accepted as a wardrobe necessity, as indispensable as a corset cover or nightgown. From the plain and machine-made article that sells over the department-store counter for 25 cents or thereabouts up to the hand-embroidered affair, decorated with not one, but several, kinds of real laces, there is place and occasion for each and everyone of them.

Some Late Fripperies.

Little Things That Mean Much to the Fashionable

METAL CLASPS AND TAG ENDS appear once more at the trimming counter—those to decorate the many ends of ribbon and velvet that go to form the cravats, lacings and other dangling ornaments that accompany the latest modes. Many of them are designed that they can be fastened in a moment, just a pinch of the pliers holding them in place securely. Others have claw ends that are worked like a paper fastener, while still others have to be stitched fast with strong buttonhole twist.

Concerning the Separate Wrap.

Some Charming and Becoming Devices—Short and Loosely Fitted Effects Are Favored—The Three-Piece Costume Succeeds the Tailor-Made Coat and Skirt Suit.

The Riviera season in the south of France, where the elegants of Europe assemble to pass the dreary winter months, has brought out a number of charming devices in the shape of separate wraps that are sure of an immediate acceptance, once they are displayed on this side of the ocean.

A Novel Sleeve Effect.

So well has the blouse been established, and so emphatically have its lines been laid down, there is but little scope for the ingenuity of the designer to display itself, except in the matter of the trimming scheme and the sleeve. Indeed, it is in this latter feature that the best ideas now present themselves. Sleeves, anyway, are always in a transition state; they are either growing larger or smaller all the time, and seldom do they seem to stand still.

SEVERAL LACES AND EMBROIDERIES.

So far from the fact for the intermingling of many laces and embroideries being on the wane, each new model presented seems to utilize the lace in some new and novel way. Valenciennes, Cluny, Venetian and Irish laces are all cleverly combined, and then the skill of the embroiderer is called upon to add something more to the extravagance of effect.

Irish Crochet and Hand Embroideries

The sheers of fine French linen fabric is the groundwork of the most fascinating and filmy embroideries that find their way across the water. This is the material used in the dainty blouse of the picture, one of those that are really worth their weight in gold, since they weigh but a few ounces at most. The embroideries are the form of stripes, a passion flower motif with petit pois raised in bold relief. To those are applied stripes of Irish crochet insertion, one of the characteristically small and fine patterns being used. The crochet hook is employed to join the lace and embroidery together, this being a new fad among the best makers in Europe.

DOUBLE, TRIPLE AND TUNIC SKIRTS

DOUBLE, TRIPLE AND tunic skirts are threatened in the immediate future, and already they are models in sheer summer goods made up after this very

DRAPED BELTS OF GOLD AND SILVER

DRAPED BELTS OF gold and silver gauze, with designs, chiefly floral, in delicate colorings are mounted upon those clever little featherbone frames that lace in front. Many of the most attractive of these have the lacing repeated on the outside of the belt, a gold or silver cord with tasseled ends being used for this purpose.

SUN PLEATED SKIRTS

SUN PLEATED SKIRTS are still being made up for wear at the present at southern resorts, and those will doubtless appear as spring frocks in the north and elsewhere when the southern season is over. Some pretty ones are made up in cashmere and landweave, with three deep tucks above the hem—the skirts are all in walking length—and the bodice in accordion pleating, strapped with some fancy passementerie. The sleeve is usually three pleat frills at the top, and the rest is shirred mousquetaire effect, that reaches to the hand.

BUTTONS ARE TO BE USED MORE

BUTTONS ARE to be used more ever in trimming the charming gowns that are to usher in the spring. Velvet-covered moulds are to be had in almost all the staple colorings in the shops, and there are springing up little shops on every hand, equipped with button machines, where moulds of every conceivable size and shape are kept in stock to be covered with the customer's material and delivered in a very short time.

SAILOR SHAPES

SAILOR SHAPES are very conspicuous in the first batches of spring millinery. The little turned up saucer brim is back again in countless attractive guises, and the handkerchief is now at the side somewhat towards the front.

French thrift and French savings

French thrift and French savings permeate the nation to such an extent that home government bonds are held by the French people, principally the industrial classes, to the extent of over five billion dollars.

Bricktop and the Twins Find a New Friend

Saturday morning was clear and bright, the sun having shone for so many days that the backbone of winter seemed to have been broken. The snowdrifts had disappeared and the ice on the pond and river was hardly safe to go skating on, owing to the smiles of old Sol, whose geniality warmed all things under his touch.

Fritz and the Sea Fairies

By Maud Walker. Fritz was a little German boy, an orphan without friends. After the death of his parents he went to live with an old sailmaker in a city by the sea.

He tried to stagger to his feet, but was too weak from want of breath to do so.

pie, where'd you come from?" he asked, stooping down and stroking the dog's cold back.

Although the dog obeyed Bricktop, he did so reluctantly, and still kept his eye of terror on the tramp, growling in a way that threatened another attack.

After Bricktop had finished his story his grandfather said: "You've got a rare friend and protector in that old fellow, and I hope you'll have the pleasure of keeping him, for if an owner should turn up I'll pay him five times the dog's value to keep him for you."

THE DIFFICULT TASK OF TEACHING THE DEAF CHILD TO SPELL - Lessons Read from Formations upon the Instructor's Lips Creating Sounds the Pupils Did not Know to Exist

An Object Lesson Class - Teaching Pupils to Spell the Word Cow

SUPPOSE you were to awake some morning in a strange land, occupied by a people whom you had never seen, whose language was totally unintelligible to you, and yours to them. Could you imagine anything more hopeless? Yet you would not be without hope. You have education, knowledge of the world and human nature; your familiarity with your own language, coupled with power of observation, would enable you in time to pick up the strange tongue.

He has not the first essential upon which to base an education; you cannot explain things to him, because he cannot hear you; his eyes enable him to distinguish common objects within his little sphere of action—nothing more.

Yet he can be—being—taught to know the alphabet, to spell; and, with this basis for an education, follows the unrolling of the great scroll of knowledge. Not less wonderful than the teaching of congenitally deaf persons to use their lips and voices in talk is this seeming miracle of educating them. It has transformed many thousands of unfortunates into rational, normal, well-informed people.

ONE word mechanically comes to the lips of the person who for the first time has the workings of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, at Mount Airy, Philadelphia, demonstrated to him. It is "wonderful."

He doesn't know that he has organs of speech, although they don't know it as a word, only as an action. So it is when they go on to phrases and sentences. When a child hears—sees—the teacher say, "Open the door," "Wash your hands," "Get your coat," "Go upstairs," and such simple sentences, he does not know that she is speaking words, but does know that those motions of her lips correspond with certain actions.

KNOWS ABSOLUTELY NOTHING AT FIRST Can you imagine the position of a 5-year-old just admitted to the school? He doesn't know that he has organs of speech, although they don't know it as a word, only as an action. So it is when they go on to phrases and sentences. When a child hears—sees—the teacher say, "Open the door," "Wash your hands," "Get your coat," "Go upstairs," and such simple sentences, he does not know that she is speaking words, but does know that those motions of her lips correspond with certain actions.

MAKING SILHOUETTE PICTURES WITHOUT THE AID OF SCISSORS OR PENS

ANYTHING that arouses the imagination and sets going the creative faculty of the child is regarded as valuable in modern methods of teaching. Many progressive teachers of lower grades find that good results are obtained from having children cut out various objects from paper—figures of persons, animals, trees, houses, articles of furniture, and so on. As it is not always possible or advisable to keep a supply of scissors, this work—so instructive play—is frequently done by hand.

in which to make men, animals, trees, houses and other objects. Naturally, the products of the eager little fingers are crude at first. It is surprising to note, however, how closely the child will endeavor to follow his conception, or the impression that has been made upon the mind. Children who make paper pictures of bears, for example, often make them standing erect, instead of on all fours, as the erect posture was the one that had made the deepest impression upon them.

Little ones take a great delight in making pictures from paper, and often artistic ability of no mean order crops out. Youthful imagination leaps forward to devise all sorts of combinations and possibilities, and the method is regarded as especially valuable in ascertaining, by illustration, the mental impression made by traditions and tales of the nursery.

Some of them are curious-looking trees, to be sure, but in a little while the children have grasped the idea, and each succeeding effort shows improvement. Thoughtful teachers, however, do not permit the children to devote much time to imitative objects, except as the setting for some picture of life.

Children interested in this work will watch a horse or dog to see how it walks; will study the limb movements of a human being, the flight of birds.

AN OBSERVANT YOUNGSTER "Oh, Miss B.—" exclaimed one lot in rapture recently, "I can make a paper cow setting up out of bed; she gets up backward."

IN THE first place, paper tearing is an inexpensive school art. One can get pleasing combinations of colors, too, for the pictures; soft grays, blues or other tints for backgrounds.

Children interested in this work will watch a horse or dog to see how it walks; will study the limb movements of a human being, the flight of birds.

Suggestions For Housekeepers.

By Beatrice Carey.

In patching wall paper, which becomes necessary sometimes, there is often difficulty in disguising the joint between the new and the old paper, but if cleverly done as a rule the "patch" will be quite unperceivable. Of course, paper which has been on the wall some time always becomes slightly faded, so that the new paper which has probably been kept rolled up in a dark closet will be apt to be much brighter in tone.

If this is the case, cut out the piece to be applied and expose it to the bright sunlight for three or four days before using it, to bring it to the same general color as the old paper. The outlines of the pattern of the added piece must match those of the old, but to render the patch almost imperceptible the edges of the piece to be applied should be scraped down with fine sandpaper.

A very useful bit of household knowledge is the fact that a large bowl of fresh cold water, placed in a room where the air is heavy with odor of stale smoke or cigarette smoke will change the condition of the atmosphere in an hour or so. Thus, the men of the house and their friends may enjoy their cigars with the room filled with the odor of stale smoke for hours afterwards. In this way it will be found very helpful to place a bowl of cold water in the room in which the smoking and in the morning the air will be quite free from any odor. Also, all the tobacco and ash should be removed, or, if convenient, burned at once.

Brown wall paper has recently become very popular among the more artistic decorators, and can be had in various shades, and can be had in the darkest. These brown papers are especially recommended for rooms having a southern or eastern exposure, in which the light is of a glassy nature. A brown background will display most furniture to advantage, and possible exceptions being those in golden oak finish.

The green and black tones of furniture of weathered or of flemish oak contrast charmingly with the brown wall papers, and to be used the paper should be of a very light brown; in fact, almost a buff color, to do full justice to the red of the mahogany. Brown covered walls make a very effective background for pictures and far from being sombre, give a cozy and inviting appearance to the room. If the woodwork is done over in cream white, the result will be extremely satisfactory, and the touch of light will prevent any appearance of monotony.

Jewelry is completely spoiled in appearance if it is allowed to become dirty, and dust has collected about the settings, but few people understand how to take care of such pretty trinkets. When not constantly used each article should be kept separately wrapped in silver paper and not jumbled together in a box or drawer, which is the usual habit of most women. It takes a little extra time and trouble, but the results are well worth it. All gold jewelry not in constant use should be kept in boxwood sawdust. This can be bought from any jeweler. To clean it, use a lather of soap, to which a little sal volatile has been added. It must afterwards be dried with a soft cloth and rubbed with a piece of chamois. Silver ornaments may be treated in the same way, but if dirty they ought to be rubbed with powdered whiting made into a paste with a little ammonia, the whiting being allowed to dry on the article and then rubbed off with chamois leather. Artificial diamonds should never be cleaned with anything moist, but should be softly rubbed with a dry plate powder, and then with a clean, soft brush. Diamonds, on the other hand, are much improved by being

Charming Light Colored Frocks.

By Dorothy Dale.

The two gowns illustrated are charming models for light-colored evening frocks and either of the designs pictured might be easily copied by any clever seamstress. The figure to the left of the plate had the frock taken from one of the best models seen at a recent exhibit of costumes designed for southern wear.

An excellent idea can be gained of what will be worn during the spring and early summer by a study of the frocks, wraps and hats designed for wear at Palm Beach and the other southern resorts, and a great many of these models have been put on view during the last few weeks. The princess mode, despite its popularity during the past few seasons, is still much in evidence, and although the fashion is reserved now more for indoor gowns than for those designed for street wear, a great many delightful models, especially in light-colored frocks, are made on princess lines. Then, too, a great many of the lingerie gowns of white mull and French mull are made with the skirts and bodies joined by rows of beads, or lace insertion, an effect which is particularly good on graceful slender figures.

To return to a description of the gowns illustrated, the first figure was sketched from a model frock of white silk mull. The skirt was in short, round length, and was trimmed with three-inch ruffles of the silk mull, finely plaited, these ruffles being set into the skirt, except the three lower rows, between panels outlined with a band of white Irish lace.

The bodice was also trimmed with in-

Seasonable Meat Dishes.

By Sara Cranford.

SQUABS IN CASSEROLE.—Two or three young chickens, known in market parlance as squab chickens, may be cooked in the casserole with very good results. Cooked in this way they are more delicious than when simply broiled. Dot the bottom of the casserole with little bits of butter, then put up in a "squab," trussed as for boiling, season it and spread with butter. Put in another squab, skin side up, as before, and season. If there is another chicken, put it in as before; pour in a gill of water, tightly cover the casserole and set in a moderate oven. Let the squabs cook till they are thoroughly done and very tender, then serve from the casserole while still very hot.

RAISED BEEF.—Take a slice from the top of the round, weighing about three pounds, and cut an inch and a half thick. Season it with a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of pepper; cut gashes in the top or upper side, and fill with stuffing. Roll the meat up and skewer it; dredge with flour and brown it in a frying-pan in some salt pork fat. Put it into the braising pan, with one-third of a cupful of diced carrots, three slices of onion and a small bit of bayleaf. Pour on three cupfuls of boiling water and let simmer three hours.

STUFFING.—One-third of a cupful of rolled cracker crumbs, to which has been added a scant tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of salt, a speck of pepper and a half teaspoonful of thyme or sweet marjoram, or such mixed seasoning as is desired. Moisten the whole with four tablespoonfuls of milk and water.

SAUCE.—Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter, adding two rounding tablespoonfuls of flour, and stir until the whole becomes brown. Pour onto this slowly the liquor in the meat pan, of which there should be about one pint.

BAKED TONGUE.—Procure a beef tongue weighing from three to four pounds, either fresh or, better, corralled few days. Put it into a pot of boiling

Windows and Window Seats.

The little sketch shows a pretty design for a recessed window, the window picture being a wide, low one built in the side wall of the room. The sketch was taken from the hallway of a suburban house, but the idea of a shallow recessed window seat below is available for almost any room, and would add greatly to its attractiveness.

The hall illustrated was really a sort of square reception-room. It was finished in Flemish oak, the woodwork about the window, the window seat and the high wainscoting all being in this dark wood. An effective tapestry paper in verdure effect in rich greens and reds was used above the wainscoting, the portieres and cushions on the window seat being in crimson velvet. Brightly colored, silk sofa cushions in harmonious shades were piled up on the window seat, and richly colored rugs, in which tones of red and green predominated, were used on the hardwood floor.

The draped sash curtains at the window were of cream net, finished with ruffles, edged with lace braid. These thin net curtains can if desired be supplemented by a valance of narrow side draperies of silk or velvet during the cold weather season. Elaborate window draperies are, however, no longer seen, and for most rooms the curtain which hangs from the top of the casing to the bottom of the sash is preferred to the box curtain which touches the floor. The long curtain is required in many city houses, however, for the drawing-room and other formal rooms, but is hung either under the cornice or simply from the pole in long, graceful lines, without any attempt of elaborate draping.

For living rooms, libraries, billiard or smoking rooms, stenciled patterns in colors are often used on the thin mull or other lightweight fabric of which the curtain is made, and although the white and cream net window draperies always look well for certain rooms, the figured novelty materials for sale in most of the house-decorating shops are now unusual, and if well chosen are very attractive.
