THE INSOLVENT ACT OF 1875.

38 VICT. CHAP. 16, 1875.

An Act respecting Insolvency.

[Assented to 8th April, 1875.]

HER MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:

1. This Act shall apply to traders and to trading co-partnerships and to trading companies whether incorporated or not, except Incorporated Banks, Insurance, Railway, and Telegraph Companies.

The following persons and partnerships or companies exercising like trades, callings or employments, shall be held to be traders within the meaning of this Act:

Apothecaries, auctioneers, bankers, brokers, brickmakers, builders, carpenters, carriers, cattle or sheep salesmen, coach proprietors, dyers, fullers, keepers of inns, taverns, hotels, saloons or coffee-houses, lime burners, livery stable keepers, market gardeners, millers, miners, packers, printers, quarrymen, sharebrokers, ship-owners, shipwrights, stockbrokers, stock-jobbers, victuallers, warehousemen, wharfingers, persons insuring ships or their freights or other matters against perils of the sea, persons using the trade of merchandise by way of bargaining, exchange, bartering, commission, consignment or otherwise, in gross or by retail, and persons who, either for themselves or as agents or factors or others, seek their living by buying and selling or buying and letting for hire goods or commodities, or by the workmanship or the conversion of goods or commodities, or trees; but a farmer, grazier, common laborer, or workman for hire shall, not, nor shall a member of any partnership, association or company which cannot be adjudged insolvent under this Act, be deemed as such, a trader for the purpose of this Act:

All such persons, co-partnerships, or companies, having been traders as aforesaid, and having incurred debts as such, which have not been barred by the Statutes of limitations or prescribed, shall be held to be traders within the meaning of this Act; but no proceedings in liquidation shall be taken against such traders, based upon any debt or debts contracted after he has so ceased to trade.

2. The word "county" shall mean a county or union of counties, and the word "district" shall mean a district, as defined for judicial purposes by the Legislature of the Province wherein the same is situate:

a. "Official Assignee" shall mean the person or persons appointed by the Governor in Council as hereinafter provided, to act as Assignee or Joint Assignee under this Act in any County or District.—"Assignee" shall mean either the Official Assignee or the Assignee appointed by the creditors, as the context may require.

b. "Official Gazette" shall mean the Gazette published under the authority of the Government of the Province where the proceedings in bankruptcy or insolvency are carried on, or used as the official means of communication between the Lieutenant-Governor and the people; and if no such Gazette is published, then it shall mean any newspaper published in the county, district or Province, which shall be designated by the court or judge for publishing the notices required by this Act:

c. The word "Court" shall mean the Superior Court in the Province of Quebec, the Court of Queen's Bench in the Provinces of Manitoba, and the County Courts in the Provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island, and also in Nova Scotia whenever County Courts shall have been established in that Province,—and until such County Courts are established it shall mean the Court of Probate of that Province:

d. The word "Judge" shall mean a Judge of the said Courts respectively, having jurisdiction in the County or District where proceedings shall be had under this Act, and shall also include a Junior and Deputy Judge when such are appointed:

e. The word "Debtor" shall mean any person or persons, co-partnership, company or corporation having liabilities, and being subject to the provisions of this Act:

f. The word "Insolvent" shall mean a debtor subject to the provisions of this Act, unable to meet his engagements, or who shall have made an assignment of his estate for the benefit of his creditors:

g. The words "before Notaries" or "before a Notary," shall mean executed in notarial form, according to the laws of the Province of Quebec:

h. The word "Creditor" shall mean every person, co-partnership or company to whom the Insolvent is liable, whether primarily or secondarily, and whether as principal or surety;—but, in reference to proceedings at meetings in Insolvency, to the right of voting, to the execution of a deed of composition and discharge, the consent to a discharge of an Insolvent, or any other consent or action with regard to the management and disposal of the estate of an Insolvent, the word "Creditor" shall mean a person, co-partnership or company whose unsecured claims, to an amount of one hundred dollars or upwards, have been proved in the manner provided by this Act; and the proportion of claims in value required to give validity to any such proceeding or action shall be formed of all claims so proved, whether above or under one hundred dollars, and of no others: and with regard to any deed of composition and discharge, or the consent to a discharge of the Insolvent, no creditor whose claim is not affected by such discharge shall be reckoned as one of the required number of creditors, nor shall his claim be reckoned as forming part of the proportion of claims required to give effect to such composition and discharge. For all the purposes of this Act the required amount of the creditor's claim shall be over and above any set-off or counter-claim of the debtor against such creditor; and every affidavit of indebtedness made by any creditor shall be construed as made in this sense:

i. The word "collocated" shall mean ranked or placed in the dividend sheet for some dividend or sum of money:

j. In the case of any partnership or any company, incorporate or not, the word "he," "him," or "his," used in relation to any Insolvent or creditor, shall mean "the partnership" or "the company," or of "the partnership" or "of the company," (as the case may be) unless the context requires another interpretation to give such effect as the purposes of this Act require, to the provision in which the word occurs.

3. A debtor shall be deemed insolvent—

a. If he has called a meeting of his creditors for the purpose of compounding with them, or if he has exhibited a statement shewing his inability to meet his liabilities, or if he has otherwise acknowledged his insolvency:

b. If he absconds or is immediately about to abscond from any Province in Canada with intent to defraud any creditor, or to defeat or delay the remedy of any creditor, or to avoid being arrested or served with legal process; or if, being out of any such Province in Canada, he so remains with a like intent; or if he conceals himself within the limits of Canada with a like intent:

c. Or if he secretes or is immediately about to secrete any part of his estate and effects with intent to defraud his creditors, or to defeat or delay their demands or any of them;

d. Or if he assigns, removes or disposes of, or is about or attempts to assign, remove or dispose of any of his property with intent to defraud, defeat or delay his creditors or any of them;

e. Or if with such intent he has procured his money, goods, chattels, lands or property to be seized, levied on or taken under or by any process or execution, having operation where the debtor resides or has property, founded upon a demand in its nature provable under this Act, and for a sum exceeding two hundred dollars, and if such process is in force and not discharged by payment or in any manner provided for by law;

f. Or if he has been actually imprisoned or upon the goal limits for more than thirty days, in a civil action founded on contract for the sum of two hundred dollars or upwards, and still is so imprisoned or on the limits; or if, in case of such imprisonment, he has escaped out of prison, or from custody, or from the limits;

g. Or if he wilfully neglects or refuses to appear, on any rule or order requiring his appearance, to be examined as to his debts under any Statute or law in that behalf;

h. Or if he wilfully refuses or neglects to obey or comply with any such rule or order made for payment of his debts or of any part of them;

i. Or if he wilfully neglects or refuses to obey or comply with an order or decree of the Court of Chancery or of any of the judges thereof, for payment of money;

j. Or if he has made any general conveyance or assignment of his property for the benefit of his creditors, otherwise than in the manner prescribed by this Act; or if, being unable to meet his liabilities in full, he makes any sale or conveyance of the whole or the main part of his stock in trade or of his assets, without the consent of his creditors, or without satisfying their claims;

k. Or if he permits any execution issued against him under which any of his chattels, land or property are seized, levied upon or taken in execution, to remain unsatisfied till within four days of the time fixed by the sheriff or officer for the sale thereof, or for fifteen days after such seizure, — subject, however, to the privileged claim of the seizing creditor for the costs of such execution, and also to his claim for the costs of the judgement under which such execution has issued, which shall constitute a lien upon the effects seized, or shall not do so, according to the law as it existed previous to the passing of this Act, in the Province in which the execution shall issue.

4. If a debtor ceases to meet his liabilities generally as they become due, any one or more of his creditors for unsecured claims of not less than one hundred dollars each, and amounting in the aggregate to five hundred dollars, may make a demand upon him either personally or at his chief place of business or at his domicile upon some grown up person of his family or in his employ, (Form A.) requiring him to make an assignment of his estate and effects for the benefit of his creditors. But the said demand shall not be made until the creditor or creditors making the same shall have filed with the clerk or prothonotary of the court, in which the proceedings in liquidation (if any) will be carried on, his or their affidavit verifying his or their debt or debts, and that he or they is not or are not acting in collusion with the debtor, or to procure him any undue advantage against his creditors:—

The creditor or creditors making such demand of assignment shall in such demand elect and appoint a domicile or domiciles, respectively, within the district or county in which such affidavit is filed, at which service of any answer, notice or proceeding may be served on him or them; and the said clerk or prothonotary shall keep the original and give a certified copy to the creditor or creditors; and such copy shall be annexed to the notice served on the debtor.

5. If the debtor, on whom such demand is made, contends that the same was not made in conformity with this Act, or that the claims of such creditor or creditors do not amount to one hundred dollars each or five hundred dollars in the aggregate, or that they were procured in whole or in part for the purpose of enabling such creditor or creditors to take proceedings under this Act, or that the stoppage of payment by such debtor was only temporary, and that it was not caused by any fraud or fraudulent intent, or by the insufficiency of the assets of such debtor to meet his liabilities, he may, after notice to such creditor or creditors, (but only within five days from such demand) present a petition to the judge praying that no further proceedings under this Act may be taken upon such demand, and, after hearing the parties and such evidence as may be adduced before him, the judge may grant or reject the prayer of his petition, with or without costs against either party; but if it appears to the judge that such demand has been made without reasonable grounds, and merely as a means of enforcing payment under color of proceeding under this Act, he may condemn the creditor or creditors making it, to pay treble costs.

6. If at the time of such demand the debtor was absent from the Province wherein such service was made, application may be made after due notice to the creditor or creditors, within the said period of five days to the judge on his behalf, for an enlargement of the time for either contesting such demand or for making an assignment; and thereupon, if such debtor has not returned to such Province, the judge may make an order enlarging such period and fixing the delay within which contestation or assignment shall be made; but such enlargement of time may be refused by the judge if it be made to appear to his satisfaction that the same would be prejudiced to the interest of the creditors.

7. If such petition be rejected, or if, while such petition is pending, the debtor, without the leave of the judge or otherwise than on the terms prescribed by him, continues his trade, or proceeds with the realization of his assets, or if no such petition be presented within the aforesaid time, and the debtor, during the same time, neglects to make an assignment of his estate and effects for the benefit of his creditors, as hereinafter provided, his estate shall become subject to liquidation under this Act.

8. No such proceedings as aforesaid shall be taken under this Act to place the estate of an Insolvent in liquidation, unless the same are taken within three months next after the act or omission relied upon as subjecting such estate thereto; nor after a writ of attachment in liquidation has been issued while it remains in force; nor after an assignment has been made under this act.

WRIT OF ATTACHMENT, ETC.

9. Any creditor, upon his affidavit, or that of his clerk, or other duly authorized agent, that a trader is indebted to him in a sum provable in insolvency of not less than two hundred dollars, over and above the value of any security which he holds for the same, and provided the affidavit or affidavits filed disclose such facts and circumstances as will satisfy the Judge or Prothonotary of the Superior or County Court, in the county, province, or district, as the case may be, in which such trader has his chief or one of his principal places of business, that such trader is insolvent, and that his estate has become subject to liquidation under the provisions of this Act, and that he does not act in the premises in collusion with such trader, not to procure him any undue advantage against his creditors, (Form B.) shall be entitled to a writ of attachment, (Form C.) against the estate and effects of such trader, addressed to the Official Assignee of the county or district in which such writ shall issue, requiring such official Assignee to seize and attach the estate and effects of such trader, and to summon him to appear before the court or a judge thereof on a day therein mentioned, to answer the premises. Concurrent writs of attachment may be issued when required, addressed to the official Assignee of other counties or districts in any part of the Dominion other than the county or district in which the same shall be issued. Such writs shall be subject as nearly as can be to the rules of procedure of the court in ordinary suits, as to their issue and return, and as to all proceedings subsequent thereto before any court of judge.

10. The service of a writ of attachment issued against a debtor under this Act, may be made upon him as provided for the service of an ordinary writ of summons in the Province where the service is to be made; and if such debtor remains without such Province, or conceals himself within such Province, or has no domicile in any Province of the Dominion, or absconds from his domicile, in every such case service shall be made by such notice or advertisement as the judge, or in the Province of Quebec, the judge or prothonotary, may order:

Concurrent writs of attachment issued against a debtor may be executed without being previously served upon him, except in cases where such debtor has his domicile or a place of business in the county or district in which the same is to be executed, when the writ may be served at such domicile or place of business.

11. Writs of attachment shall be made returnable forthwith after the execution thereof: and immediately upon the receipt of a writ of attachment issued under this Act, the Official Assignee shall give notice of the issuing thereof by advertisement (Form D).

12. The official Assignee, by himself or by such deputy (which word shall in this Act include deputies) as he may appoint, shall, under such writ of attachment, seize and attach all the estate, property and effects of the Insolvent, within the limits of the county or district for which he is appointed, including his books of accounts, moneys, securities for moneys, and all his office or business papers, documents, and vouchers of every kind and description; and shall return with the writ a report under oath stating in general terms his proceedings on such writ.

13. If the official Assignee or his deputy is unable to obtain access to the interior of the house, shop, store, warehouse or other premises of the insolvent named in the writ, by reason of the same being locked, barred or fastened, such official Assignee or deputy is hereby authorized forcibly to open the same in the presence of at least one witness, and to attach the property found therein.

ASSIGNMENTS AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON.

14. A debtor on whom a demand is made by a creditor or creditors who has or have filed the affidavit required, or against whom a writ of attachment has issued, as provided by this Act, may make an assignment of his estate to the official Assignee appointed for the county or district wherein he has his domicile, or wherein he has his chief place of business, if he does not reside in the county or district wherein he carries on his business, and in case there is no Official Assignee in the county or district where he resides or wherein he carries on his business, then to the Official Assignee for the nearest adjoining county or district; but such assignment or writ of attachment may be set aside or annulled by the court or judge for want of, or for a substantial insufficiency in the affidavit required by section four or by section nine, on summary petition of any creditor to the amount of not less than one hundred dollars beyond the amount of any security which he holds—of which petition notice shall have been given to the debtor and to the creditor who made the demand of assignment or who issued the writ of attachment, within eight days from the publication of the notice thereof in the Official Gazette.

15. The assignment mentioned in the next preceding section may be in the form E; and in the Province of Quebec the deed of assignment may be received by a notary in the authentic form.

16. Whenever an Insolvent shall have made an assignment, and in case no assignment shall have been made, but a writ or concurrent writs of attachment shall have issued as provided for by this Act, such assignment or such writ or writs of attachment, as the case may be, shall vest in the official Assignee of the county or district wherein the same shall have issued, all right, power, title and interest which the Insolvent has in and to any real or personal property, including his books of account, all vouchers, letters, accounts, titles to property and other papers and documents relating to his business and estate, all moneys and negotiable papers, stocks, bonds and other securities, and generally all assets of any kind or description whatsoever which he may be possessed of or entitled to up to the time of his obtaining a discharge from his liabilities, under the same charges and obligations as he was liable to with regard to the same; and the Assignee shall hold the same in trust for the benefit of the Insolvent and his creditors and subject to the orders of the court or judge; and he may upon such order and before any meeting of the creditors, institute any conservatory process or any proceeding that may be necessary for the protection of the estate; he may also upon such order, sell and dispose of any part of the estate and effects of the Insolvent which may be of a perishable nature: such assignment or writ or writs of attachment shall not, however, vest in the Assignee such real and personal property as are exempt from seizure and sale under execution, by virtue of the several Statutes in that case made and provided in the several Provinces of the Dominion respectively, nor the property which the Insolvent may hold as trustee for others.

17. The Insolvent shall, within ten days of the date of the assignment, or from the date of the service of the writ of attachment, or (if the same be contested) within ten days from the date of the judgement rejecting the petition to have it quashed, furnish the Assignee with a correct statement (Form F) of all the liabilities direct or indirect, contingent or otherwise, indicating the nature and amount thereof, together with the names, additions, and residences of his creditors and the securities held by them, in so far as may be known to him. The Insolvent shall also furnish within the same delay a statement of all property and assets vested in the Assignee by the deed of assignment or by the writ or writs of attachment issued against him, and such statement shall in all cases include a full, clear, and specific account of the causes to which he attributes his insolvency, and the deficiency of his assets to meet his liabilities. The Insolvent may at any time correct or supplement the statements so made by him of his liabilities and of his property and assets.

18. The Insolvent may present a petition to the judge at any time within five days from the service of the writ of attachment; and may thereby pray for the setting aside of the attachment made under such writ, on the ground that the party at whose suit the writ was issued has no claim against him, or that his claim does not amount to two hundred dollars beyond the value of any security which he holds, or is not provable in insolvency, or that his estate has not become subject to liquidation; or if the writ of attachment has issued against a debtor by reason of his neglect to satisfy a writ of execution against him as hereinbefore provided, then on any of the above grounds or on the ground that such neglect was caused by a temporary embarrassment, that it was not caused by any fraud or fraudulent intent, or by the insufficiency of the assets of such debtor to meet his liabilities: and such petition shall be heard and determined by the judge in a summary manner, and conformably to the evidence adduced before him thereon; and the judgment, subject to appeal as hereinafter provided, shall be final and conclusive.

19. A copy of the deed of assignment, or a copy of the writ of attachment (as the case may be), certified by the Assignee or the clerk of the court, shall forthwith be registered in the registry office of the county wherein the Insolvent resides, and also in every county or registration district wherein he may have any real estate; in the Province of Quebec such deed of assignment or writ of attachment shall be accompanied by a description of the real estate belonging to the Insolvent, and shall be registered in the county or registration district wherein the same is situate, with a notice that the same has, by such assignment or writ of attachment, been transferred to the Assignee.

20. Immediately after the assignment shall have been made, or (in the case of an attachment) immediately after the delay within which the attachment can be contested, or immediately after the contestation has been rejected, or (with the consent of the Insolvent) immediately after the writ shall have been returned, the Official Assignee shall forthwith call a meeting of the creditors of the Insolvent,—to be held at the place and on the day and hour to be mentioned, notice of which meeting, in in the Form G, shall be published at least twice in the Official Gazette, the first publication of which notice shall be at least three weeks before the day fixed for such meeting.

21. The Assignee shall also forward by mail, at least ten days before the meeting takes place, a notice in writing to every creditor mentioned in the original or any corrected or supplementary list or statement furnished by the Insolvent, or who may be known to him to be a creditor, and give such other notice as the circumstances of the case may require: but in case the Assignee is unable to obtain such list, then ten day's notice shall be given by advertisement in one local or the nearest published newspaper.

EXAMINATION OF INSOLVENTS.

22. The creditors, at their first meeting held at the time and place fixed for that purpose, may appoint one of themselves as chairman of the meeting; and at all subsequent meetings the Assignee shall be chairman.

23. The Insolvent shall be bound to attend at the first meeting of his creditors, and after making such corrections as he may deem proper to his statement of liabilities and assets, shall attest the same under oath; he may also be examined under oath before the Assignee, by or on behalf of any creditor touching his affairs, and more especially as to the causes of his insolvency and the deficiency of his assets to meet his liabilities.

24. The Insolvent shall sign his examination or declare the reasons why he refuses to sign, and the examination shall be attested by the Assignee.

25. The Insolvent shall, at all times until he shall have obtained a confirmation of his discharge, be subject to the order of the court or judge, and to such other examination as the judge, the Assignee, the inspectors hereinafter mentioned, or the creditors may require; and he shall, at the expense of the estate, execute all proper writings and instruments, and perform all acts required by the court or judge touching his estate: and in case the Insolvent refuses to be sworn or to answer such questions as may be put to him, or to sign his answers or the writings or instruments, or refuses to perform any of the acts lawfully required of him, such Insolvent may be committed and punished by the court or judge as for a contempt of the court.

26. The court or judge may also, on the application of the Assignee, of the inspectors, or of any creditor, order any other person, including the husband or wife of the Insolvent, to appear before the court or judge or the Assignee, to answer any question which may be put to him or her touching the affairs of the Insolvent and his conduct in the management of his estate; and in case of refusal to appear and to answer the questions submitted, such person may be committed and punished by the court or judge as for a contempt of court.

ASSIGNEES AND INSPECTORS.

27. The Governor in Council may appoint in the several Provinces of Canada, except the Province of Quebec, one or more persons to be Official Assignee or Assignees or Joint Official Assignee, in and for every county; and in the Province of Quebec, such appointment of an Official Assignee, or Official Assignees, or Joint Official Assignee, shall be made in and for each judicial district in the Province—except that in each of the Judicial Districts of Quebec, Montreal, and St. Francis respectively, such appointment may be made either for the whole district or for one or more electoral districts in the same; and the word "district" shall mean either a judicial or an electoral district, as the context may require.

28. Each person so appointed Assignee or Joint Assignee shall hold office during pleasure, and before acting as such shall give security for the due fulfilment and discharge of his duties in a sum of two thousand dollars, if the population of the county or district for which he is appointed does not exceed one hundred thousand inhabitants, and in the sum of six thousand dollars, if the population exceeds one hundred thousand—such security to be given to Her Majesty for Her benefit and for the benefit of the creditors of any estate which may come into his possession under this Act; and in case any such Assignee fails to pay over the moneys received by him or to account for the estate, or any part thereof, the amount for which such Assignee may be in default may be recovered from his sureties by Her Majesty or by the creditors or subsequent Assignee entitled to the same, by adopting, in the several Provinces, such proceedings as are required to recover from the sureties of a sheriff or other public officer:

a. The Official Assignee may also be required to give in any case of Insolvency such further security as, on petition of a creditor, the court or judge may order,—such additional security being for the special benefit of the creditors of the estate for which the same shall have been given:

b. The Official Assignee shall be an officer of the court having jurisdiction in the county or district for which he is appointed; he shall as such be subject to its summary jurisdiction and to the summary jurisdiction of a judge thereof, and be accountable for the moneys, property and estates coming into his possession as such Assignee, in the same manner as sheriffs and other officers of the court are.

29. The creditors at their first meeting or at any subsequent meeting called for that purpose, may appoint an Assignee who shall give security to Her Majesty in manner, form and effect, as provided in the next preceding section, for the due performance of his duties to such an amount as may be fixed by the creditors at such meeting. In default of such appointment, the Official Assignee shall remain the Assignee of the estate, and shall have and exercise all the powers vested by this Act in the Assignee. The creditors may also at any meeting called for that purpose, remove any Assignee and appoint another in his stead. A certified copy of any resolution of the creditors appointing an Assignee shall be transmitted in every case to the clerk of the court where-in the proceedings are pending to remain of record in his office.

No creditor shall vote at any meeting unless present personally or represented by some person having a written authority, to be filed with the Assignee, to act at any or all such meetings on his behalf, and no more than one person shall vote as a creditor on any claim for the same debt; persons purchasing claims against an estate after insolvency, shall not be entitled to vote in respect of such claims, but shall in all other respects, have the same rights as other creditors; and no claim, after being proved, shall be divided and transferred to another person or party to increase the number of votes at any meeting; each claim shall continue to have one vote only in number.

30. As soon as the security required from the Assignee appointed by the creditors shall have been furnished by him, it shall be the duty of the Official Assignee to account to him for all the estate and property of the Insolvent which has come into his possession, and to pay over and deliver to him all such estate and property, including all sums of money, books, bills, notes and documents whatsoever belonging to the estate, and to execute in his favour a deed of assignment in the Form H.

31. Every Assignee on his becoming such shall give notice of his appointment as such by advertisement in the Form I, and by a copy thereof sent to each creditor by post and postpaid.

32. No Assignee shall act as the attorney or agent of any creditor in reference to any claim or demand of such creditor or an insolvent estate of which he is the Assignee.

33. An Assignee may, however, on being authorized by the judge, act as the attorney or agent of a creditor when the action to be taken is in the interest of the estate or of the creditors generally.

34. The creditors may, from time to time, at any meeting, determine where subsequent meetings shall be held; and until they shall have passed a resolution to that effect all meetings of the creditors shall be held at the office of the Assignee, unless otherwise ordered by the judge.

35. The creditors at any meeting may appoint one or more Inspectors, who shall superintend and direct the proceedings of the Assignee in the management and winding up of the estate; and they may also, at any subsequent meeting held for that purpose, revoke the appointment of any or of all the said Inspectors; and upon such revocation, or in case of death, resignation or absence from the Province of such Inspectors, may appoint others in their stead; and such Inspectors may be paid such remuneration as the creditors may determine; and whenever anything is allowed or directed to be done by the Inspectors, it may or shall be done by the sole Inspector, if only one has been appointed. But no Assignee as Inspector of any insolvent estate shall purchase directly or indirectly any part of the stock in trade, debts or assets of any description, of such insolvent estate.

36. The creditors may, at any meeting, pass any resolution or order directing the Assignee how to dispose of the estate, real or personal, of the Insolvent; and, in default of their doing so, the Assignee shall be subject to the directions, orders and instructions he may, from time to time, receive from the Inspectors, with regard to the mode, terms and conditions on which he may dispose of the whole or any part of the estate.

37. Any one or more creditors whose claims in the aggregate exceed five hundred dollars, who may be dissatisfied with the resolutions adopted or orders made by the creditors or the Inspectors, or with any action of the Assignee for the disposal of the estate or any part thereof, or for postponing the disposal of the same, or with reference to any matter connected with the management or winding up of the estate, may, within twenty-four hours thereafter, give to the Assignee notice that he or they will apply to the court or judge, on the day and at the hour fixed in such notice and not being later than forty-eight hours after such notice shall have been given, or as soon thereafter as the parties may be heard before such court or judge, to rescind such resolutions or orders. And it shall be lawful for the court or judge, after hearing the Inspectors, the Assignee and creditors present at the time and place so fixed, to approve, rescind or modify the said resolutions or orders. In case of the application being refused the party applying shall pay all costs occasioned thereby,—otherwise the costs and the expenses shall be at the discretion of the judge.

38. The Assignee shall exercise all the rights and powers of the Insolvent in reference to his property and estate; and he shall wind up the estate of the Insolvent, by the sale in the ordinary mode in which such sales are made, of all bank or other stocks, and of all movable property belonging to him, by the collection of all debts or by the sale of the estate of the Insolvent, or any part thereof, if such be found more advantageous, at such price and on such terms as to the payment thereof as may seem most advantageous:

Provided that no sale of the estate en bloc shall be made without the previous sanction of the creditors given at a meeting called for that purpose; and provided also that no such sale shall effect, diminish, impair or postpone the payment of any mortgage or privileged claim on the estate or property of the Insolvent, or any portion thereof.

39. The Assignee, in his own name as such, shall have the exclusive right to sue for the recovery of all debts due to or claimed by the Insolvent of every kind and nature whatsoever; for rescinding agreements, deeds and instruments made in fraud of creditors, and for the recovery back of moneys alleged to have been paid in fraud of creditors, and to take, both in the prosecution and defence of all suits, all the proceedings that the Insolvent might have taken for the benefit of the estate, or that any creditor might have taken for the benefit of the creditors generally; and may intervene and represent the Insolvent in all suits or proceedings by or against him, which are pending at the time of his appointment; and on his application may have his name inserted therein in the place of that of the Insolvent; and if, after an assignment has been made or a writ of attachment has been issued under this Act, and before he has obtained his discharge under this Act, the Insolvent sues out any writ or institutes or continues any proceeding of any kind or nature whatsoever, he shall give to the opposite party such security for costs as shall be ordered by the court before which such suit or proceeding is pending, before such party shall be bound to appear or plead to the same or take any further proceeding therein.

40. If a partner in an unincorporated trading company or copartnership becomes insolvent within the meaning of this Act, and an Assignee is appointed to the estate of such Insolvent, such partnership shall thereby be held to be dissolved; and the Assignee shall have all the rights of action and remedies against the other partners in such company or copartnership, which the said insolvent partner could have or exercise by law or in equity against his copartners after the dissolution of the firm, and may avail himself of such rights of action and remedies, as if such copartnership or company had expired by efflux of time.

41. Every Official Assignee, or Assignee appointed by the creditors, shall in every case in which he acts as such, keep a register showing the name of each Insolvent who has made an assignment, or against whom a writ of attachment has issued, his residence, place of business, and the nature of his trade or business, the date of the assignment, or of the issue of the writ of attachment, the amount of liabilities acknowledged by the Insolvent in his schedule of liabilities, the amount of claims proved, the amount of composition, or of dividends paid,—and whether a discharge has been granted within one year or not,—the amount of dividends remaining unpaid after three months from the declaration of the last dividend, with such other information as the Assignee may deem of general interest with reference to each estate,—which register shall be open to the inspection of the public, within office hours, at the office of such Assignee; and the Official Assignee, or the Assignee, as soon as he takes charge of any estate, shall open a separate book for each such estate, showing a debtor and creditor account of all his receipts and disbursements on account thereof:

And every Assignee, other than an Official Assignee, shall within one month after he shall have wound up the estate of any Insolvent, and obtained his discharge, deposit the register kept by him as aforesaid, with reference to such estate, in the office of the Official Assignee of the county or district, where it shall remain for the like purposes, and under the same provisions as the register kept by the Official Assignee.

ASSIGNEES' ACCOUNTS, COMMISSIONS, ETC.

42. Every Assignee under this Act shall, within thirty days after obtaining his discharge, and every Assignee under any Act hereby repealed shall, within thirty days after obtaining his discharge or the closing of his accounts as such, or within thirty days after the coming into force of this Act (if he has obtained his discharge or closed his accounts before its coming into force) pay over to the Receiver General all moneys belonging to the estate then in his hands, not required for any purpose authorized by this Act or any Act hereby repealed, as the case may be, with a sworn statement and account of such moneys, and that they are all he has in his hands, under a penalty of not exceeding ten dollars for each day on which he shall neglect or delay such payment; and he shall be a debtor to Her Majesty for such moneys and may be compelled, as such, to account for and pay over the same.

43. The Assignee shall be entitled to a commission on the net proceeds of the estate of the insolvent of every kind, of five per cent. on the amount realized not exceeding one thousand dollars, the further sum of two and a half per cent. on the amount realized in excess of one thousand dollars and not exceeding five thousand dollars, and a further sum of one and a quarter per cent. on the amount realized in excess of five thousand dollars,—which said commission shall be in lieu of all fees and charges for all his services and disbursements in relation to the estate, exclusive of actual expenses in going to seize and sell, and of disbursements necessarily made in the care and removal of property:

No Assignee shall employ any counsel or attorney at law without the consent of the Inspectors, or of the creditors; but expenses incurred by employing such counsel or attorney with such consent, shall be paid out of the estate, if not recovered by any party liable therefor:

The remuneration of the Official Assignee, when he is superseded by an Assignee appointed by the creditors, shall be fixed by the court or judge and taxed by the proper officer, and shall be the first charge on the estate.

44. The Assignee shall call meetings of creditors, whenever required in writing so to do by the Inspectors, or by five creditors, or by the judge, and he shall state succinctly in the notice calling any meeting the purpose thereof.

45. The Assignee shall deposit at interest in some chartered bank, to be indicated by the Inspectors or by the judge, all sums of money which he may have in his hands belonging to the estate, whenever such sums amount to one hundred dollars; such deposit shall not be made in the name of the Assignee generally, on pain of dismissal, but a separate deposit account shall be kept for each estate of the moneys belonging to such estate, in the name of the Assignee and of the Inspectors (if any) and such moneys shall be withdrawn only on the joint cheque of the Assignee and of one of the Inspectors, if there be any:

The interest accruing on such deposit shall appertain to the estate, and shall be distributed in the same manner and subject to the same rights and privileges as the capital from which such interest accrued.

If in any account or dividend sheet made subsequent to any deposit in a bank, the Assignee omits to account for or divide the interest then accrued thereon, he shall forfeit and pay to the estate to which such interest appertains, a sum equal to three times the amount of such interest; and he may be constrained so to do by the judge, upon summary petition and by imprisonment as for a contempt of court.

At every meeting of creditors, the Assignee shall produce a bank pass book showing the amount of deposits made for the estate, the dates at which such deposits shall have been made, the amounts withdrawn and dates of such withdrawal,—of which production mention shall be made in the minutes of such meeting,—and the absence of such mention shall be prima facie evidence that it was not produced thereat; the Assignee shall also produce such pass book whenever so ordered by the judge at the request of the Inspectors or of a creditor, and on his refusal to do so he shall be treated as being in contempt of court.

The Assignee who shall make or cause to be made any false entry in such pass book, with a view to deceive the Inspectors, creditors or judge, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable, at the discretion of the court before which he shall be convicted, to punishment by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or to any greater punishment attached to the offence by any Statute.

46. Upon the death of an Assignee or Official Assignee, or upon his removal from office, or upon his discharge, the estate shall remain under the control of the judge until the appointment of another Assignee or Official Assignee as the case may be, when the estate shall become vested in such other Assignee or Official Assignee.

47. After the declaration of a final dividend, or if after using due diligence the Assignee has been unable to realize any assets to be divided, the Assignee shall prepare his final account, and present a petition to the judge for his discharge, after giving notice of such petition to the Insolvent, and also to the Inspectors, if any have been appointed, or to the creditors by circular, if no Inspectors have been appointed; and he shall produce and file with such petition a bank certificate of the deposit of any dividends remaining unclaimed, and of any balance in his hands; and a statement showing the nominal and estimated value of the assets of the Insolvent, the amount of claims proved, dividing them into ordinary, privileged or secured and hypothecary claims, the amount of dividends or of composition paid to the creditors of the estate, and the entire expense of winding up the same. And the judge, after causing the account to be audited by the Inspectors, or by some creditor or creditors named by him for the purpose, and after hearing the parties, may grant conditionally or unconditionally, the prayer of such petition, or may refuse it.

48. Any Assignee who neglects to present such a petition within six months after the declaration of a final dividend, or within three months after he shall have been required by the Inspectors or by any creditor of the estate, after it shall have been ascertained that there are no assets wherewith to declare a dividend, shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars.

(2.) The provisions of the next preceding section shall apply to all persons who have acted or are acting as Assignees under "The Insolvent Act of 1869," or in either of the Provinces of Quebec or Ontario under the Act formerly in force therein called and known as "The Insolvent Act of 1864," or any Act or Acts amending or continuing the same or either of them; and any such person, who neglects to present such a petition as therein mentioned within the following delays respectively, shall incur a penalty of one hundred dollars, that is to say:—

COMPOSITION AND DISCHARGE.

49. If at the first meeting of the creditors or at any time thereafter the Insolvent files with the Assignee a consent in writing to his discharge, or a deed of composition and discharge, signed by at least a majority in number of the creditors who have then respectively proved claims of one hundred dollars and upwards or if at such first or at any subsequent meeting an offer in writing be made by the Insolvent to compound with his creditors, specifying the terms and conditions of the proposed composition, and such offer be approved by a majority in number of such creditors present at such meeting, the Assignee shall call another meeting of the creditors to take such consent or such deed or offer of composition and discharge into consideration; and in every case such deed of composition or offer of composition shall be on condition, whether the same be expressed or not, that if the same be carried out, the Insolvent shall pay the costs incurred in insolvency, including those for the confirmation of such composition.

50. Such meeting shall be called by at least one advertisement published in the official Gazette, stating the time, place, and object of the meeting, and also by a letter or card postpaid addressed by mail, at least ten days before the meeting, to each of the creditors mentioned in the list of creditors furnished by the Insolvent, and to all other creditors who may have proved their claims, although not mentioned in the said list, indicating in substance, in addition to the time, place and object of the meeting, the terms and conditions of the proposed composition and discharge; and such meeting shall not take place less than fifteen days after the first publication of the said advertisement.

51. The creditors present at the meeting to take into consideration the proposed discharge, or composition and discharge, may, by resolution to that effect, express their approval thereof or dissent therefrom; and any creditor may at any time before or during the said meeting, file with the Assignee his objections in writing to the proposed discharge or composition and discharge.

52. If at the close of the meeting or at any time thereafter the Insolvent has obtained the assent to his discharge or to the proposed composition and discharge, of a majority in number of his creditors who have proved claims to the amount of one hundred dollars and upwards, and who represent at least three-fourths in value of all the claims of one hundred dollars and upwards which have been proved, the Assignee shall annex to the deed or consent to a discharge, or to the deed or offer of composition and discharge a certificate to that effect, in which he shall state the total number and amount of claims of one hundred dollars and upwards which have been proved, the number of creditors who have given their written assent to the discharge or to the proposed composition and discharge of the Insolvent and the amount of proved claims of one hundred dollars and upwards which they represent. The Assignee shall further annex to such certificate a copy of any resolution adopted at the meetings of creditors in reference to the discharge, or to the proposed composition and discharge, and all the objections which may have been filed with him to such discharge, or composition and discharge, together with a certificate as to the amount of claims of the creditors who shall have agreed to or opposed such resolution, or who may have filed objections in writing to such discharge or proposed composition and discharge, indicating the amount of such claims of one hundred dollars and upwards which have been proved, and whether from their nature they will be affected by the proposed discharge or composition and discharge.

The Assignee shall further state in such certificate the ratio of dividend actually declared and likely to be realized out of the estate for the unsecured creditors, and shall, without delay, transmit such certificate to the clerk or prothonotary of the court in the county or district wherein the proceedings are carried on.

53. An insolvent who has procured a consent to his discharge, or the execution of a deed of composition and discharge, and the certificate of the Assignee, within the meaning of this Act, may file in the office of the court the consent or deed of composition and discharge, with such certificate annexed, and may then give notice (Form J) of the same being so filed and of his intention to apply by petition, to the court in the Provinces of Quebec and Nova Scotia, or in the Provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia and Manitoba, (and in Nova Scotia when County Judges are appointed there) to the judge, on a day named in such notice (which, however, shall not be before the day on which a dividend may be declared under this Act), for a confirmation of the discharge effected thereby; and such notice shall be given by one advertisement in the Official Gazette and also by letter or card postpaid, addressed to each of the creditors by mail at least one month before presenting the petition to the court or judge; and upon such application, any creditor of the Insolvent, or the Assignee under the authority of the creditors, may appear and oppose such confirmation.

54. If it appears that all the notices and formalities required by law, have been given and observed, and that no objections have been made to the proposed discharge or composition and discharge, the court or judge may, without further notice and on the petition of the Insolvent, confirm his discharge or the proposed composition and discharge; but in case it appears that objections have been made to such discharge or composition and discharge, the application of the Insolvent shall not be heard until at least three days' notice shall have been given of the same by the Insolvent to the Assignee, the Inspectors and to the creditors who shall have objected to the said discharge, or proposed composition and discharge.

55. The court or judge shall not confirm the discharge or proposed composition and discharge of the Insolvent, unless he shall have produced with his application an affidavit in the Form K, shewing that no one of the creditors who have signed the same, has been induced to do so by any preferential payment, promise of payment or advantage whatsoever made, secured or promised to him by or on behalf of the Insolvent, and a certificate from the Assignee that he has delivered a sworn statement of his liabilities and assets as required by this Act.

56. The Insolvent shall not be entitled to a confirmation of his discharge or of a deed of composition and discharge if it appears to the court or judge that he has not obtained the assent of the proportion of his creditors in number and value required by this Act to grant such discharge or enter into such deed of composition and discharge, or that he has been guilty of any fraud or fraudulent preference within the meaning of this Act, or of fraud or evil practice in procuring the consent of the creditors to the discharge, or their execution of the deed of composition and discharge, as the case may be, or of fraudulent retention and concealment of some portion of his estate or effects, or of evasion, prevarication or false swearing upon examination as to his estate and effects; or that the Insolvent has not kept an account book shewing his receipts and disbursements of cash, and such other books of account as are suitable for his trade, or that if, having at any time kept such book or books, he has refused to produce or deliver them to the Assignee, or is willfully in default to obey any provision of this Act or any order of the court or judge; but in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, the omission to keep such books before the coming into force of the Insolvent Act of 1864, and in the Provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, such omission previous to the coming into force of the Insolvent Act of 1869, and in the Provinces of British Columbia, Prince Edward Island or Manitoba, such omission previous to the coming into force of this Act, shall not be a sufficient ground for refusing the confirmation of the discharge of an Insolvent:

And provided further that any Act on the part of the Insolvent, which might be held to be an act of fraud or fraudulent preference within the meaning of the Insolvent Act of 1864 or of 1869, or of this Act, but which would not amount to fraud if the said Acts or this Act had not been passed, shall not be a ground for refusing the confirmation of the discharge of any Insolvent, if such act was done by the Insolvent, in the Province of Ontario or Quebec, before the coming into force of the Insolvent Act of 1864, or in the Province of Nova Scotia or New Brunswick before the coming into force of the Insolvent Act of 1869, or in the Province of British Columbia, Prince Edward Island or Manitoba, before the coming into force of this Act.

57. The court or judge, as the case may be, upon hearing the application for confirmation of such discharge, the objections thereto, and any evidence adduced, shall have power to make an order either confirming the discharge or annulling the same according to the effect of the evidence so adduced. But if such evidence should be insufficient to sustain any of the grounds hereinbefore detailed as forming valid grounds for contesting such confirmation, but should nevertheless establish that the Insolvent has been guilty of misconduct in the management of his business, by extravagance in his expenses, recklessness in endorsing or becoming surety for others, continuing his trade unduly after he believed himself to be insolvent, incurring debts without a reasonable expectation of paying them (of which reasonable expectation the proof shall lie on him, if such debt was contracted within thirty days of the demand made by an assignment or for the issue of a writ of attachment), or negligence in keeping his books and accounts; or if such facts be alleged by any contestation praying for the suspension of the discharge of the Insolvent, or for its classification as second class, the court or judge may thereupon order the suspension of the operation of the discharge of the Insolvent for a period not exceeding five years, or may declare the discharge to be of the second class, or both, according to the discretion of the court or judge.

58. Whenever it appears that the estate of the Insolvent has not been paid or is not likely to realize for the creditors a dividend of thirty-three cents in the dollar on the unsecured claims, and sufficient account is not given for the deficiency, the court or judge may, in its or his discretion, suspend or refuse altogether the discharge of the Insolvent.

59. A deed of composition and discharge may be made under this Act either in consideration of a composition payable in cash, or on terms of credit, or partially for cash and partially on credit; and the payment of such composition may be secured or not, according to the pleasure of the creditors signing it; and the discharge therein contained may be absolute, or may be conditional upon the condition of the composition being satisfied; but if such discharge be conditional upon the composition being paid, and the deed of composition and discharge therein contained should cease to have effect, the Assignee shall immediately resume possession of the estate and effects of the Insolvent in the estate and condition in which they shall then be; provided always, that the title of any bona fide purchaser of any of the assets of the estate shall not be impaired or affected by this section: but the creditors holding claims which were provable before the execution of such deed, shall not rank, vote or be computed as creditors concurrently with those who have acquired claims subsequent to the execution thereof, for any greater sum than the balance of composition remaining unpaid; but after such subsequent creditors have received dividends to the amount of their claims, then such original creditors shall have the right to rank for the entire balance of their original claims then remaining unpaid, and shall be held for all purposes for which the proportion of creditors in value require to be ascertained, to be creditors to the full amount of such last mentioned balance.

60. So soon as a deed of composition and discharge shall have been executed as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the Assignee to re-convey the estate to the insolvent; and the reconveyance by the Assignee to the Insolvent or to any person for him, or whom he may appoint, of any part of his estate or effects; whether real or personal, if made in conformity with the terms of a valid deed of composition and discharge, shall have the same effect (except as the same may be otherwise agreed by the conditions of such deed or re-conveyance) as if such property had been sold by the Assignee in the ordinary course, and after all the preliminary proceedings and formalities herein required for such sale; and if such deed of composition and discharge be contested, and pending such contestation, the judge may suspend any payment or instalment of the composition falling due under the terms of such deed; and the deed of reconveyance need not contain any further or more special description of the effects and property re-conveyed, than is required to be inserted in the deed of assignment, and may be enregistered in like manner and with like effect; and such deed may be executed before witnesses or before notaries, according to the exigency of the law of the place where such deed of composition and discharge is to be executed.

61. The confirmation of the discharge of a debtor in the manner herein provided shall absolutely free and discharge him, after an assignment, or after his estate has been put in compulsory liquidation, by the issue of a writ of attachment, from all liabilities whatsoever (except such as are hereinafter specially excepted) existing against him and provable against his estate, whether the same be secured in part or in whole by any mortgage, hypothec, lien or collateral security of any kind or not, which are mentioned or set forth in the statement of his affairs exhibited at the first meeting of his creditors, or which are shown by any supplementary list of creditors furnished by the Insolvent, previous to such discharge and in time to admit of the creditors therein mentioned obtaining the same dividend as other creditors upon his estate, or which appear by any claim subsequently furnished to the Assignee; whether such debts be exigible or not at the time of his insolvency, or be contested in the whole or in part, or be dependent on certain conditions or future contingency, and whether the liability for them be direct or indirect; and if the holder of any negotiable paper is known to the insolvent, the insertion of the particulars of such paper in such statement of affairs or supplementary list, with the declaration that the holder thereof is unknown to him, shall bring the debt represented by such paper, and the holder thereof, with the operation of this section.

62. A discharge under this Act, whether consented to by any creditor or not, shall not operate any change in the liability of any person secondarily liable to such creditor for the debts of the Insolvent, either as drawer or endorser of negotiable paper, or as guarantor, surety or otherwise, nor of any partner or other person liable jointly or severally with the Insolvent to such creditor for any debt; nor shall it affect any mortgage, hypothec, lien or collateral security held by any creditor as security for any debt thereby discharged, without the consent of such creditor.

63. A discharge under this Act shall not apply without the express consent of the creditor, to any debt for enforcing the payment of which the imprisonment of the debtor is permitted by this Act, nor to any debt due as damages for assault or wilful injury to the person, seduction, libel, slander or malicious arrest, nor for the maintenance of a parent, wife or child, or as a penalty for any offence of which the Insolvent has been convicted; nor shall any such discharge apply without such consent to any debt due as a balance of account due by the Insolvent as Assignee, tutor, curator, trustee, executor, or administrator under a will, or under any order of the court, or as public officer; nor shall debts to which a discharge under this Act does not apply, nor any privileged debts, nor the creditors thereof, be computed in ascertaining whether a sufficient portion of the creditors of the Insolvent have voted upon, done, or consented to any act, matter or thing under this Act; but the creditor of any such debt may claim and accept a dividend thereon from the estate without being by reason thereof in any respect affected by any discharge obtained by the Insolvent.

64. If, after the expiration of one year from the date of an assignment made under this Act, or from the date of the issue of a writ of attachment thereunder, as the case may be, the Insolvent has not obtained from the required proportion of his creditors a consent to his discharge, or the execution of a deed of composition and discharge, he may apply by petition to the court or judge, to grant him his discharge, first giving notice of such application, (Form 1.) for one month in the Official Gazette, and also by letter or card postpaid, addressed, ten days before such application, by mail to each of his creditors whose claims amount to one hundred dollars or more, and may be affected by a discharge under this Act.

65. Upon such application, any creditor of the Insolvent, or the Assignee by authority of the creditors or of the Inspectors, may appear and oppose the granting of such discharge upon any ground upon which the confirmation of a discharge may be opposed under this Act, or may claim the suspension or classification of the discharge or both; and whether such application be contested or not, it shall be incumbent upon the Insolvent to prove that he has in all respects conformed himself to the provisions of this Act; and he shall submit himself to any order which the court or judge may make, upon or without an application to the effect, to the end that he be examined touching his estate and effects and his conduct and management of his affairs and business generally, and touching each and every detail and particular thereof; and the court or judge may also require from the Assignee a report in writing upon the conduct of the Insolvent and the state of his books and affairs before and at the date of his insolvency; and thereupon the court or judge, as the case may be, after hearing the Insolvent and the opposant, if any, and any evidence that may be adduced, may make an order either granting the discharge of the Insolvent or refusing it; or in like manner and under like circumstances to those in and upon which the discharge could be suspended or classified as hereinbefore provided, upon an application to confirm it, an order may be made suspending it for a like period, or declaring it to be of the second class, or both.

66. Every discharge or confirmation of any discharge obtained by fraud or fraudulent preference, or by means of the consent of any creditor procured by the payment or promise of payment to such creditor of any valuable consideration for such consent, or by any fraudulent contrivance or practice whatever, tending to defeat the true intent and meaning of the provisions of this Act in that behalf, shall be null and void; and in no case shall a discharge have any effect unless and until it is confirmed by the Court.

SALE OF DEBTS.

67. After having acted with due diligence in the collection of the debts, if the Assignee finds there remain debts due, the attempt to collect which would be more onerous than beneficial to the estate, he shall report the same to the creditors or Inspectors, and with their sanction he may sell the same by public auction, after such advertisement thereof as they may order; and pending such advertisement, the Assignee shall keep a list of the debts to be sold open to inspection at his office, and shall also give free access to all documents and vouchers explanatory of such debts; but all debts amounting to more than one hundred dollars, shall be sold separately, except as herein otherwise provided.

68. If at any time any creditor of the Insolvent desires to cause any proceeding to be taken which in his opinion would be for the benefit of the estate, and the Assignee, under the authority of the creditors or of the Inspectors refuses or neglects to take such proceeding after being duly required so to do, such creditor shall have the right to obtain an order of the judge authorizing him to take such proceeding in the name of the Assignee, but at his own expense and risk, upon such terms and conditions as to indemnity to the Assignee as the judge may prescribe; and thereupon any benefit derived from such proceeding shall belong exclusively to the creditor instituting the same for his benefit and that of any other creditor who may have joined him in causing the institution of such proceeding. But if, before such order is granted, the Assignee shall signify to the judge his readiness to institute such proceeding for the benefit of the creditors, the order shall be made prescribing the time within which he shall do so, and in that case the advantage derived from such proceeding shall appertain to the estate.

69. The person who purchases a debt from the Assignee may sue for it in his own name, as effectually as the Insolvent might have done, and as the Assignee is hereby authorized to do; and a bill of sale (Form M), signed and delivered to him by the Assignee, shall be prima facie evidence of such purchase, without proof of the handwriting of the Assignee; and the debt sold shall, in the Province of Quebec, vest in the purchaser without signification to the debtor; and no warranty, except as to the good faith of the Assignee, shall be created by such sale and conveyance, not even that the debt is due.

LEASES.

70. If the Insolvent holds under a lease, property having a value above and beyond the amount of any rent payable under such lease, the Assignee shall make a report thereon to the judge containing his estimate of the value to the estate of the leased property in excess of the rent; and thereupon the judge may order the rights of the Insolvent in such leased premises to be sold separately, or to be included in the sale of the whole or part of the estate of the Insolvent, after such notice of such sale as he shall see fit to order; and at the time and place appointed, such lease shall be sold upon such conditions, as to the giving of security to the lessor, as the judge may order; and such sale shall be so made subject to the payment of the rent, to all the covenants and conditions contained in the lease, and to all legal obligations resulting from the lease; and all such covenants, conditions and obligations shall be binding upon the lessor and upon the purchaser, as if he had been himself lessee and a party with the lessor to the lease.

71. If the Insolvent holds under a lease extending beyond the year current under its terms at the time of his insolvency, property which is not subject to the provisions of the last preceding section, or respecting which the judge does not make an order of sale, as therein provided, or which is not sold under such order, the creditors shall decide at any meeting, which may be held more than three months before the termination of the yearly term of the lease, current at the time of such meeting, whether the property so leased should be retained for the use of the estate, only up to the end of the then current yearly term, or, if the conditions of the lease permit of further extension, also up to the end of the next following yearly term thereof; and their decision shall be final.

72. From and after the time fixed for the retention of the leased property for the use of the estate, the lease shall be cancelled and shall from thenceforth be inoperative and null; and so soon as the resolution of the creditors as to such retention has been passed, such resolution shall be notified to the lessor, and if he contends that he will sustain any damage by the termination of the lease under such decision, he may make a claim for such damage, specifying the amount thereof under oath, in the same manner as in ordinary claims upon the estate; and such claim may be contested in the same manner, and after similar investigation and with the same right of appeal, as is herein provided for in case of claims or dividends objected to.

73. In making such claim, and in any adjudication thereupon, the measure of damages shall be the difference between the value of the premises leased when the lease terminates under the resolution of the creditors, and the rent which the Insolvent had agreed by the lease to pay during its continuance; and the chance of leasing or not leasing the premises again, for a like rent, shall not enter into the computation of such damages; and if the claim is not contested, or if, being contested, the damages are finally awarded to the lessor, he shall rank for the amount upon the estate as an ordinary creditor.

74. The preferential lien of the landlord for rent in the Provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, or Manitoba, is restricted to the arrears of rent due during the period of one year last previous to the execution of a deed of assignment, or the issue of a writ of attachment, under this Act, as the case may be, and from thence so long as the Assignee shall retain the premises leased. In the Province of Quebec the preferential lien or privilege of the lessor shall be governed by the provisions of the civil code.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

75. The Assignee may sell the real estate of the Insolvent, but only after advertisement thereof for a period of two months, and in the same manner as is required for the actual advertisement of sales of real estate by the sheriff in the district or place where such real estate is situate, and to such further extent as the Assignee deems expedient; provided that the period of advertisement may be shortened to not less than one month by the creditors with the approbation of the judge, but in the Province of Quebec such abridgment shall not take place without the consent of the hypothecary creditors upon such real estate, if any there be; and if the price offered for any real estate at any public sale duly advertised as aforesaid is more than ten per cent. less than the value set upon it by a resolution of the creditors, or by the Inspectors and the Assignee, the sale may be adjourned for a period not exceeding one month, when, after such notice as the Inspectors and the Assignee may deem proper to give, the sale shall be continued, commencing at the last bid offered on the previous day when the property was put up at auction, and if no higher bid be then offered, the property shall be adjudged to the person who made such last bid; Provided that with the consent of the hypothecary and privileged creditors, or where there are no hypothecary or privileged creditors, with the approbation of the creditors or of the Inspectors, the Assignee may post one the sale to such time as may be deemed most advantageous for the estate, and whenever the sale shall have been so postponed beyond one month, the last bidder shall be discharged from any obligation under the bid he may have made on the previous day when the property was offered for sale by auction.

76. All sales of real estate so made by the Assignee shall vest in the purchasers all the legal and equitable estate of the Insolvent therein, and the conveyance may be in the Form N; but in the Province of Quebec, such sale shall, in all respects, have the same effect as to mortgages, hypothecs or privileges then existing thereon, as if the same had been made by a sheriff under a writ of execution issued in the ordinary course, but shall have no other greater or less effect than such sheriff's sale; and in the Province of Quebec the title conveyed by such sale shall have equal validity with a title created by a sheriff's sale; and the deed of such sale which the Assignee executes (Form N) shall, in the Province of Quebec, have the same effect as a sheriff's deed; but the Assignee may grant such terms of credit as he may deem expedient, and as may be approved of by the creditors, or by the Inspectors, for any part of the purchase money; except that no credit shall be given in the Province of Quebec for any part of the purchase money coming to any hypothecary or privileged creditor, without the consent of such creditor; and the Assignee shall be entitled to reserve a special hypothec or mortgage by the deed of sale as security for the payment of such part of the purchase money as shall be unpaid; and such deed may be executed before witnesses or before notaries, according to the exigency of the law of the place where the real estate sold is situate.

77. In the Province of Quebec such sale may be made subject to all such charges and hypothecs as are permitted by the law of the said Province to remain chargeable thereon when sold by the sheriff, and also subject to such other charges and hypothecs thereon, as are not due at the time of sale,—the time of payment whereof shall not, however, be extended by the conditions of such sale; and also subject to such other charges and hypothecs as may be consented to in writing by the holders or creditors thereof.—And an order of re-sale for false bidding may be obtained from the judge by the Assignee upon summary petition; and such re-sale may be proceeded with after the same notices and advertisements, and with the same effect and consequences as to the false bidder and all others, and by means of similar proceedings as are provided in ordinary cases for such re-sales in all essential particulars, and as nearly as may be without being inconsistent with this Act. And as soon as immovables are sold by the Assignee, he shall procure from the registrar of the registration division in which each immovable is situate, a certificate of the hypothecs charged upon such immovable, and registered up to the day of the issue of the writ of attachment, or of the execution of the deed of assignment, by which the estate of the Insolvent was brought within the purview of this Act, as the case may be: And such certificate shall contain all the facts and circumstances required in the registrar's certificate obtained by the sheriff subsequent to the adjudication of an immovable in conformity with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be made and charged for by the registrar in like manner: And the provisions of the said Code as to the collocation of hypothecary and privileged creditors, the necessity for and the filling of oppositions for payment, and the costs thereon, shall apply thereunder this Act as nearly as the nature of the case will admit: And the collocation and distribution of the moneys arising from such sale shall be made in the dividend sheet among the creditors having privileged or hypothecary claims thereon, after the collocation of such costs and expenses (including the Assignee's commission on the amount of the sale), as were necessary to effect such sale or are incident thereto, in the same manner as to all the essential parts thereof, as the collocation and distribution of moneys arising from the sale of immovables are made in the appropriate court in ordinary cases, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with any provisions of this Act; but no portion of the general expenses incurred in the winding up of the estate shall be chargeable to, or payable out of the said moneys, except on such balance as may remain after the payment of all privileged and hypothecary claims. The Assignee's commission on such sale shall be the same as the poundage to which the sheriff is entitled on sales made by him. Any balance remaining after the collocation of the said necessary costs and expenses, and of the privileged and hypothecary claims, shall be added to and form part of the general assets of the estate.

78. In the Province of Quebec any privileged or hypothecary creditor whose claim is actually due and payable, shall have the right to obtain from the judge an order on the Assignee to proceed without delay to the sale in the mode above prescribed, of any property real or personal which is subject to his privileged or hypothecary claim; and such creditor may also, one month after the sale has taken place or one month after the Assignee has received the price thereof, if not paid at the time of the sale, obtain an order from the judge to compel the Assignee to make a dividend of the proceeds of such sale.

DIVIDENDS.

79. Upon the expiration of the period of one month from the first meeting of the creditors, or as soon as may be after the expiration of such period, and afterwards from time to time at intervals of not more than three months, the Assignee shall prepare and keep constantly accessible to the creditors, accounts and statements of his doings as such Assignee, and of the position of the estate; and he shall prepare dividends of the estate of the Insolvent whenever the amount of money in his hands will justify a division thereof, and also whenever he is required by the Inspectors or ordered by the judge to do so.

80. All debts due and payable by the Insolvent at the time of the execution of a deed of assignment, or at the time of the issue of a writ of attachment under this Act, and all debts due but not then actually payable, subject to rebate of interest, shall have the right to rank upon the estate of the Insolvent; and any person then being as surety or otherwise, liable for any debt of the Insolvent, and who subsequently pays such debt, shall thereafter stand in the place of the original creditor, if such creditor has proved his claim on such debt; or if he has not proved, such person shall be entitled to prove against and rank upon the estate for such debt to the same extent and with the same effect as the creditor might have done.

81. If any creditor of the Insolvent claims upon a contract dependent upon a condition or contingency which does not happen previous to the declaration of the first dividend, a dividend shall be reserved upon the amount of such conditional or contingent claim until the condition or contingency is determined; but if it be made to appear to the judge that the estate may thereby be kept open for an undue length of time, he may, unless an estimate of the value of such claim be agreed to between the claimant and the Inspectors, order that the value of such contingent or conditional claim be established by such person or persons as the claimant and the Inspectors may appoint, and in case they do not agree, then by such person or persons as the judge shall name; and the persons so named shall make their award,—which award the judge, after hearing the claimant and Inspectors, may reject or confirm. In case the award be rejected, other persons shall be appointed as herein provided to establish the value of such claim, subject to the control of the judge, and if the said award be confirmed, the amount therein mentioned shall be that for which the claimant shall rank upon the estate as for a debt payable absolutely.

82. In the preparation of the dividend sheet due regard shall be had to the rank and privilege of every creditor—which rank and privilege, upon whatever they may legally be founded, shall not be disturbed by the provisions of this Act, except in the Province of Quebec, where the privilege of the unpaid vendor shall cease from the delivery of the goods sold; but no dividend shall be allotted or paid to any creditor holding security from the estate of the Insolvent for his claim, until the amount for which he shall rank as a creditor upon the estate as to dividends therefrom, shall be established as hereinafter provided; and such amount shall be the amount which he shall be held to represent in voting at meetings of creditors, and in computing the proportion of creditors, whenever under this Act such proportion is required to be ascertained.

83. No lien or privilege upon either the personal or real estate of the Insolvent shall be created for the amount of any judgment debt, or of the interest thereon, by the issue or delivery to the sheriff of any writ of execution, or by levying upon or seizing under such writ the effects or estate of the Insolvent, if before the payment over to the plaintiff of the moneys actually levied under such writ the estate of the debtor has been assigned to an Assignee, or if proceedings to place the same in liquidation under this Act, have been adopted and are still pending. But this provision shall not affect any lien or privilege for costs which the plaintiff possesses under the law of the Province in which such writ shall have been issued.

84. If a creditor holds security from the Insolvent, or from his estate, or if there be more than one Insolvent liable as partners, and the creditor hold security from, or the liability of one of them as security for a debt of the firm, he shall specify the nature and amount of such security or liability in his claim, and shall therein, on his oath, put a specified value thereon; and the Assignee, under the authority of the creditors, may either consent to the right to rank for such liability, or to the retention of the property, or effects constituting such security or on which it attaches by the creditor, at such specified value, or he may require from such creditor an assignment of such liability, or an assignment and delivery of such security, property or effects, at an advance of ten per centum upon such specified value, to be paid by him out of the estate so soon as he has realized such security, in which he shall be bound to the exercise of ordinary diligence; and in either of such cases the difference between the value at which the liability or security is retained or assumed and the amount of the claim of such creditor, shall be the amount for which he shall rank and vote as aforesaid; and if a creditor holds a claim based upon negotiable instruments upon which the Insolvent is only indirectly or secondarily liable, and which is not mature or exigible, such creditor shall be considered to hold security within the meaning of this section, and shall put a value on the liability of the party primarily liable thereon, as being his security for the payment thereof; but after the maturity of such liability and its non-payment he shall be entitled to amend and revalue his claim.

85. But if the security consists of a mortgage upon real estate, or upon ships or shipping, the property mortgaged shall only be assigned and delivered to the creditor, subject to all previous mortgages, hypothecs and liens thereon, holding rank and priority before his claim, and upon his assuming and binding himself to pay all such previous mortgages, hypothecs and liens, and upon his securing such previous charges upon the property mortgaged, in the same manner and to the same extent as the same were previously secured thereon; and thereafter the holders of such previous mortgages, hypothecs and liens, shall have no further recourse or claim upon the estate of the Insolvent; and if there be mortgages, hypothecs or liens thereon, subsequent to those of such creditor, he shall only obtain the property by consent of the subsequently secured creditors; or upon their filing their claims specifying their security thereon as of no value, or upon his paying them the value by them placed thereon, or upon his giving security to the Assignee that the estate shall not be troubled by reason thereof.

86. Upon a secured claim being filed, with a valuation of the security, it shall be the duty of the Assignee to procure the authority of the Inspectors or of the creditors at their first meeting thereafter, to consent to the retention of the security by the creditor, or to require from him an assignment or delivery thereof; and if any meeting of Inspectors or of creditors takes place without deciding upon the course to be adopted in respect of such security the Assignee shall act in the premises according to his discretion and without delay.

87. The amount due to a creditor upon each separate item of his claim at the time of the execution of a deed of assignment, or of the issue of a writ of attachment, as the case may be, and which shall remain due at the time of proving such claim, shall form part of the amount for which he shall rank upon the assets of the Insolvent, until such item of claim be paid in full, except in cases of deduction of the proceeds or of the value of his security, as hereinbefore provided; but no claim or part of a claim shall be permitted to be ranked upon more than once, whether the claim so to rank be made by the same person or by different persons; and the Assignee may, at any time, require from any creditor a supplementary oath declaring what amount, if any, such creditor has received in payment of any item of the debt upon which his claim is founded, subsequent to the making of such claim, together with the particulars of such payment; and if any creditor refuses to produce or make such oath before the Assignee within a reasonable time after he has been required so to do, he shall not be collocated in the dividend sheet.

ber of a co-partnership, or as a member of two different co-partnerships, the claims against him shall rank first upon the estate, by which the debts they represent were contracted, and shall only rank upon the other after all the creditors of that other have been paid in full.

89. The creditors, or the same proportion of them that may grant a discharge to the debtor under this Act, may allot to the Insolvent, by way of allowance, any sum of money, or any property they may think proper; and the allowance so made shall be inserted in the dividend sheet, and shall be subject to contestation like any other item of collocation therein, but only on the ground of fraud or deceit in procuring it, or of the absence of consent by a sufficient proportion of the creditors.

90. No costs incurred in suits against the Insolvent after due notice has been given according to the provisions of this Act, of an assignment, or of the issue of a writ of attachment in liquidation, shall rank upon the estate of the Insolvent; but all the taxable costs incurred in proceedings against him up to that time shall be added to the demand for the recovery of which such proceedings were instituted; and shall rank upon the estate as if they formed part of the original debt, except as herein otherwise provided.

91. Clerks and other persons in the employ of the Insolvent in and about his business or trade shall be collocated in the dividend sheet by special privilege for any arrears of salary or wages due and unpaid to them at the time of the execution of a deed of assignment, or of the issue of a writ of attachment under this Act, not exceeding three months of such arrears, and also for such salary or wages for a period not exceeding two months of the unexpired portion of the then current year of service,—during which period they shall be bound to perform, under the direction of the Assignee, any work or duty connected with the affairs of the Insolvent, and which the Insolvent himself might have directed them to perform under their respective engagements; and for any other claim they shall rank as ordinary creditors.

92. So soon as a dividend sheet is prepared, notice thereof (Form O) shall be given by advertisement, and by letter, posted to each creditor, inclosing a copy of the dividend sheet together with the claims objected to; and after the expiry of eight days from the day of the last publication of such advertisement, all dividends which have not been objected to within that period shall be paid.

93. It shall be the duty of the Inspectors to examine with the Assignee the claims made against the estate, and also each dividend sheet before the expiration of the delay within which the same may be objected to, and to instruct the Assignee as to which claims or collocations should be contested by and on behalf of the estate, whereupon contestation shall be entered, and made in the name of the Assignee or of the Inspectors or of some individual creditors consenting thereto, and shall be tried, and determined by the court or judge; and the costs of such contestation, unless recovered from the adverse party, shall be paid out of the funds belonging to the estate.

94. If it appears to the Assignee on his examination of the books of the Insolvent, or otherwise, that the Insolvent has creditors who have not taken the proceedings requisite to entitle them to be collocated, it shall be his duty to reserve dividends for such creditors according to the nature of their claims, and to notify them of such reserve,—which notification may be by letter through the post, addressed to such creditors' residences as nearly as the same can be ascertained by the Assignee; and if such creditors do not file their claims and apply for such dividends previous to the declaration of the last dividend of the estate, the dividends reserved for them shall form part of such last dividend.

95. If any claim be objected to at any time, or if any dividend be objected to within the said period of eight days, or if any dispute arises between the creditors of the Insolvent, or between him and any creditor, as to the amount of the claim of any creditor, or as to the ranking or privilege of the claim of any creditor upon such dividend sheet, the objection shall be filed in writing by or before the Assignee who shall make a record thereof; and the grounds of objections shall be distinctly stated in such writing, and the party objecting shall also file at the same time the evidence of previous service of a copy thereof on the claimant; and the claimant shall have three days thereafter to answer the same,—which time may however be enlarged by the judge, with a like delay to the contestant to reply; and upon the completion of an issue upon such objection, the Assignee shall transmit to the clerk of the court the dividend sheet or a copy thereof with all papers and documents relating to such objection or contestation; and any party to it may fix a day, of which two days' notice shall be given to the adverse party, for proceeding to take evidence thereon before the judge, and shall thereafter proceed thereon from day to day until the evidence shall have been closed, the case heard, and the judgment rendered,—which judgment shall be final, unless appealed from in the manner hereinafter provided: the proceedings on the said objection or contestation shall form part of the records of this court, and the judgment shall be made executory as to any condemnation for costs, in the same manner as an ordinary judgment of the court.

96. The creditors, and in their default the Inspectors may by resolution authorize and direct the costs of the contestation of any claim or of any dividend, to be paid out of the estate, and may make such order either before, pending, or after any such contestation; they may also, with the sanction of the judge, authorize the payment out of the estate of any costs incurred for the general interest of the estate, whether such costs were incurred by the Assignee, the Inspectors or any individual creditor.

execution of a deed of assignment, any immovable property or real estate of the Insolvent be under seizure, or in process of sale, under any writ of execution or other order of any competent court, such sale shall be proceeded with by the officer charged with the same; unless stayed by order of the judge upon application by the Assignee, upon special cause shewn, and after notice to the plaintiff.—reserving to the party prosecuting the sale his privileged claim on the proceeds of any subsequent sale, for such costs as he would have been entitled to out of the proceeds of the sale of such property, if made under such writ or order; but if such sale be proceeded with, the moneys levied therefrom shall be returned into the court on whose order the sale has been made, to be distributed and paid over to the creditors who shall have any privilege, mortgage or hypothecary claims thereon, according to the rank and priority, of such claims; and the balance of such moneys after the payment of such claims shall be ordered to be paid to the Assignee, to be distributed with the other assets of the estate.

98. All dividends remaining unclaimed at the time of the discharge of the Assignee shall be left in the bank where they are deposited, for three years, and if still unclaimed, shall then be paid over by such bank with interest accrued thereon, to the Government of Canada, and if afterwards duly claimed, shall be paid over to the persons entitled thereto, with interest at the rate of four per centum per annum from the time of the reception thereof by the Government.

99. If any balance remains of the estate of the Insolvent, or of the proceeds thereof, after the payment in full of all debts due by the Insolvent, such balance shall be paid over to the Insolvent upon his petition to that effect, duly notified to the creditors by advertisement and granted by the judge.

PROCEDURE GENERALLY.

100. Whenever a meeting of creditors cannot be held, or an application made, until the expiration of a delay allowed by this Act, notice of such meeting or application may be given pending such delay.

101. Notices of meetings of creditors shall be given by publication thereof for at least two weeks in the Official Gazette of the Province in which they are to take place, and by such other notice as the judge or Inspectors may direct:—and in every case of a meeting of creditors the Assignee shall address notices thereof to the creditors and to all the representatives within the Dominion of foreign creditors, and shall mail the same at least ten days before the day on which the meeting is to take place,—the postage being prepaid by such Assignee: in other cases not provided for the Assignee shall advertise as directed by the Inspectors or the judge.

102. All questions discussed at meetings of creditors shall be decided by the majority, in number and in value, of the creditors having a right to vote under section two, present or represented at such meeting, and representing also the majority in value of such creditors, unless herein otherwise specially provided; but if the majority in number do not agree with the majority in value, the views of each section of the creditors shall be embodied in resolutions, and such resolutions, with a statement of the vote taken thereon, shall be referred to the judge who shall decide between them.

103. If the first meeting of creditors, which takes place after the expiry of the period of three weeks from the first advertisement calling such meeting, be called for the ordering of the affairs of the estate generally and it be so stated in the notices calling such meeting, all the matters and things respecting which the creditors may vote, resolve or order, or which they may regulate under this Act, (except when otherwise specially provided) may be voted, resolved or ordered upon and may be regulated at such meeting, without having been specially mentioned in the notices calling such meeting,—due regard being had, however, to the proportions of creditors required by this Act for any such vote, resolution, order or regulation.

104. The claims of creditors furnished to the Assignee in the Form P, attested under oath and accompanied by the vouchers on which they are based, or when vouchers cannot be produced, accompanied by such affidavit or other evidence as in the opinion of the Assignee shall justify the absence of such vouchers, shall be considered as proved unless contested,—in which case the claims shall be established by legal evidence on the points raised.

105. Any affidavit required in proceedings in Insolvency may be made by the party interested, his agent or other party having a personal knowledge of the matters therein stated, and may be sworn in Canada before the Assignee or before any Official Assignee, Judge, Notary Public, Commissioner for taking affidavits, or Justice of the Peace, and out of Canada before any Judge of a Court of Record, any Commissioner for taking affidavits appointed by any Canadian Court, any Notary Public, the chief municipal officer for any town or city, or any British Consul or Vice-Consul, or before any person authorized by any Statute of the Dominion or of any Province thereof, to take affidavits to be used in any court of justice in any part of the Dominion.

106. A creditor holding a mortgage, hypothec, lien, privilege, or collateral security on the estate of a debtor, or on the estate of a third party for whom such debtor is only secondarily liable, may release or deliver up such security to the Assignee, or he shall by his affidavit for the issue of a writ of attachment, or by an affidavit filed with the Assignee at any time before the declaration of a final dividend, set a value upon such security; and from the time he shall have so released or delivered up such secu-

The law of set-off, as administered by the courts, whether of law or equity, shall apply to all claims in insolvency, and also to all suits instituted by an Assignee for the recovery of debts due to the Insolvent, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the Insolvent were plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, except in so far as any claim for set-off shall be affected by the provisions of the Act respecting frauds or fraudulent preferences.

110. In any proceeding or contestation in insolvency, the court or judge may order a writ of subpœna ad testificandum, or of subpœna duces tecum to issue, commanding the attendance as a witness of any person within the limits of Canada.

... 111. All rules, writs of subpœna, orders and warrants, issued by any court or judge in any matter or proceeding under this Act, may be validly served in any part of Canada upon the party affected or to be affected thereby; and the service of them, or any of them, may be validly made in such manner as is now prescribed for similar services in the Province within which the service is made; and the person charged with such service shall make his return thereof under oath, or, if a sheriff or bailiff in the Province of Quebec, may make such return under his oath of office.

... 112. In case any person so served with a writ of subpœna, or with an order to appear for examination, does not appear according to the exigency of such writ or process, the court or the judge on whose order, or within the limits of whose territorial jurisdiction, the same is issued, may, upon proof made of the service thereof, and of such default, if the person served therewith has his domicile within the limits of the Province within which such writ or process issued, constrain such party to appear and testify, and punish him for non appearance, or for not testifying, in the same manner as if such person had been summoned as a witness before such court or judge in an ordinary suit; and if the person so served and making default, has his domicile beyond the limits of the Province within which such writ or process issued, such court or judge may transmit a certificate of such default to any of Her Majesty's superior courts of law or equity in that part of Canada in which the person so served resides, and the court to which such certificate is sent, shall thereupon proceed against and punish such person so having made default, in like manner as it might have done if such person had neglected or refused to appear to a writ of subpoena or other similar process issued out of such last mentioned court; and such certificate of default, attested by the court, judge, or Assignee before whom default was made, and copies of such writ or process, and of the return of service thereof certified by the clerk of the court in which the order for transmission is made shall be prima facie proof of such writ or process, service, return, and of such default.

113. No such certificate of default shall be so transmitted, nor shall any person be punished for neglect or refusal to attend for examination in obedience to any subpoena or other similar process, unless it be made to appear to the court or judge transmitting, and also to the court receiving such certificate, that a reasonable and sufficient sum of money, according to the rate per diem and per mile allowed to witnesses by the law and practice of superior courts of law within the jurisdiction of which such person was found, to defray the expenses of coming and attending to give evidence, and of returning from giving evidence, had been tendered to such person at the time when the writ of subpoena, or other similar process, was served upon him.

114. The forms appended to this Act, or other forms in equivalent terms, shall be used in the proceedings for which such forms are provided; and in every contestation of a claim, collocation or dividend, or of an application for a discharge, or for confirming or annulling a discharge, the facts upon which the contesting party relies shall be set forth in detail, with particulars of time, place and circumstance; and no evidence shall be received upon any fact not so set forth; but in every petition, application, motion, contestation or other pleading under this Act, the parties may state the facts upon which they rely, in plain and concise language, to the interpretation of which the rules of construction applicable to such language in the ordinary transaction of life shall apply.

115. No plea or exception alleging or setting up any discharge or certificate of discharge, granted under the bankrupt or insolvent law of any country whatsoever beyond the limits of the Dominion, shall be a valid defence or bar to any action instituted in any court or competent jurisdiction in the Dominion, for the

116. The rules of procedure as to amendments of pleadings, which may be in force at any place where any proceedings under this Act are being carried on, shall apply to all proceedings under this Act; and any court or judge, or Assignee, before whom any such proceedings are carried on, shall have full power and authority to apply the appropriate rules as to amendments, to the proceedings so pending before him, and no pleading or proceeding shall be void by reason of any irregularity or default which can or may be amended under the rules and practice of the court.

117. The death of the Insolvent, pending proceedings in liquidation, shall not affect such proceedings, or impede the winding up of his estate; and his heirs or other legal representatives may continue the proceedings on his behalf to the procuring of a discharge, or of the confirmation thereof, or of both; and the provisions of this Act shall apply to the heirs, administrators or other legal representatives of any deceased person who, if living, would be subject to its provisions, but only in their capacity as such heirs, administrators or representatives, without their being held to be liable for the debts of the deceased to any greater extent than they would have been if this Act had not been passed.

118. The costs of the proceedings in Insolvency up to and inclusive of the notice of the appointment of the Assignee, shall be paid by privilege as a first charge upon the assets of the Insolvent; the disbursements necessary for winding up the estate shall be the next charge on the property chargeable with any mortgage, hypothec or lien, and upon the unincumbered assets of the estate respectively, in such proportions as may be justified by the nature of such disbursements, and their relation to the property as being incumbered or not, as the case may be; and the remuneration of the Assignee and the costs of the judgment of confirmation of the discharge of the Insolvent, except when such confirmation is upon a deed of composition, or of the discharge if obtained direct from the court, and the costs of the discharge of the Assignee, being first taxed by the proper taxing officer at the tariff rate, or if there be no tariff, at the same rate as is usual for uncontested proceedings of a similar character, after notice to the Inspectors, or to at least three creditors, shall also be paid therefrom as the last privileged charge thereon. But no portion of the assets or property chargeable with any mortgage, hypothec or lien for any claim not provable on the estate shall be liable for any other but their proportion of costs necessarily incurred in realizing such assets and property, except what may remain after payment of such mortgage or lien.

119. The judge shall have the power, upon special cause being shewn before him under oath for so doing, to order any postmaster at the place of residence or at the place of business of the Insolvent to deliver letters addressed to him at such post office to the Assignee, and to authorize the Assignee to open such letters in the presence of the prothonotary or clerk of the court of which such judge is a member, and in the presence of the Insolvent or after notice given to him by letter through the post, if he be within the Province; and if such letters be upon the business of the estate the Assignee shall retain them, giving communication of them, however, to the Insolvent on request; and if they be not on the business of the estate they shall be resealed, endorsed as having been opened by the Assignee and given to the Insolvent or returned to the post office; and a memorandum in writing of the doings of the Assignee in respect of such letters, shall be made and signed by him and the prothonotary or clerk, and deposited in the court.

120. All cases of disqualification applying to a judge in civil matters in the several Provinces to which this Act applies, shall be causes of disqualification and recusation under this Act, as regards the final hearing and determination of any matter subject to an appeal or revision under this Act; but such grounds of disqualification shall not apply to mere ministerial acts or incidental proceedings; and such causes of disqualification shall be tried as provided for by the laws in force in the several Provinces where the proceedings are pending. If a judge be disqualified or incompetent to act in any matter in insolvency under this section, the judge competent to act in matters of insolvency in a county or district adjoining that in which the proceedings are pending (or in case of a Judge of the Court of Probate in Nova Scotia, the judge of the said court in an adjoining county) and who is not disqualified under this section, shall be the judge who shall have jurisdiction in such matter, in the place of the judge so disqualified.

121. In the absence of the judge from the chief place of any district in the Province of Quebec, the prothonotary of the court shall preside at the meetings of creditors called to take place before the judge, and shall take minutes of the proceedings at the same, and shall in such cases as well as in all others, make any order which the judge is empowered to make; but the same shall not be delivered nor put into execution if any objection to it is filed with the prothonotary, the same day or the next after, and then the whole matter and all the papers and proceedings, produced and had at such meeting shall be referred to the judge, who shall adjudicate upon the same, confirming the order made by the prothonotary, or making such other as he may think best in the case.

122. In the Province of Quebec, rules of practice for regulating the due conduct of proceedings under this Act, before the court or judge, and tariffs of proceedings under this Act, before the court or judge, and tariffs of fees for the officers of the court and for the advocates and attorneys practicing in relation to such proceedings, or for any service performed or work done for which costs are allowed by this Act (but the amount whereof is not hereby

123. In the Province of Ontario the judges of the Superior Courts of Common Law, and of the Court of Chancery, or any five of them, of whom the Chief Justice of the Province of Ontario, or the Chancellor, or the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, shall be one,—in the Province of New Brunswick, the Judges of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, or the majority of them,—in the Province of Nova Scotia, the Judges of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, or the majority of them,—in the Province of British Columbia, the Judges of the Supreme Court, or the majority of them,—in the Province of Prince Edward Island, the Judges of the Supreme Court, or the majority of them,—and in the Province of Manitoba, the Judges of the Court of Queen's Bench, or a majority of them,—shall forthwith make and frame and settle the forms, rules and regulations to be followed and observed in the said Provinces respectively, in proceedings in insolvency under this Act, and shall fix and settle the costs, fees and charges which shall or may be had, taken or paid in all such cases by or to attorneys, solicitors, council and officers of courts, whether for the officer or for the Crown as a fee for the fee fund or otherwise, and by or to sheriffs, assignees, or other persons whom it may be necessary to provide for, or for any service performed or work done for which costs are allowed by this Act, but the amount whereof is not hereby fixed.

124. Until such rules of practice and tariff of fees have been made, as required by the two preceding sections, the rules of practice and tariff of fees of insolvency, now in force in the said Provinces respectively, shall continue and remain in full force and effect.

125. Every Assignee shall be subject to the summary jurisdiction of the court or judge in the same manner and to the same extent as the ordinary officers of the court are subject to its jurisdiction; and the performance of his duties may be compelled, and all remedies sought or demanded for enforcing any claim for a debt, privilege, mortgage, hypothec, lien, or right of property upon, in or to any effects or property in the hands, possession or custody of an Assignee, may be obtained by an order of the judge on summary petition in vacation, or of the court on a rule in term, and not by any suit, attachment, opposition, seizure or other proceeding of any kind whatever; and obedience by the assignee to such order may be enforced by such court or judge under the penalty of imprisonment, as for contempt of court or disobedience thereto, or he may, if not an Official Assignee, be removed in the discretion of the court or judge.

126. In the Province of Quebec every trader having a marriage contract with his wife, by which he gives or promises to give or pay or cause to be paid, any right, thing or sum of money, shall enregister the same, if it be not already enregistered, within three months from the execution thereof; and every person not a trader, but hereafter becoming a trader, and having such a contract of marriage with his wife, shall cause such contract to be enregistered as aforesaid (if it be not previously thereto enregistered) within thirty days from becoming such trader; and in default of such registration the wife shall not be permitted to avail herself of its provisions in any claim upon the estate of such Insolvent for any advantage conferred upon or promised to her by its terms; nor shall she be deprived by reason of its provisions of any advantage or right upon the estate of her husband, to which, in the absence of any such contract, she would have been entitled by law; but this section shall be held to be only a continuance of the second sub-section of section twelve of the "Insolvent Act of 1864," and of section one hundred and forty of the "Insolvent Act of 1869," and shall not relieve any person from the consequence of any negligence in the observance of the provisions of the said sub-section or section.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT.

127. Any debtor confined in gaol or on the limits in any civil suit, who may have made the assignment provided for in this Act, or against whom process for liquidation under this Act may have been issued may, at any time after the meeting of creditors provided for in this Act, make application to the judge of the county or district in which his domicile may be or in which the gaol may be in which he is confined, for his discharge from imprisonment or confinement in such suit; and thereupon such judge may grant an order in writing directing the sheriff or gaoler to bring the debtor before him for examination at such time and place in such county, or district as may be thought fit; and the said sheriff or gaoler shall duly obey such order, and shall not be liable to any action for escape in consequence thereof, or to any action for the escape of the said debtor from custody, unless the same shall have happened through his default or negligence; or if the debtor is confined in the county or district in which the judge does not reside, the judge instead of ordering the debtor to be brought before him for examination may, if he sees fit, make an order authorizing and directing the Official Assignee for the county or district in which the debtor is confined, to take such examination, and it shall be the duty of the Official Assignee to take down or cause to be taken down such examination fully in writing and transmit the same under his hand forthwith to the judge; and the Official Assignee shall be entitled to ten cents for each folio of one hundred words of such examination.

(1.) In pursuance of such order the said confined debtor and any witnesses subpoenaed to attend and give evidence at such examination may be examined on oath at the time and place specified in such order before such judge or Assignee; and if on such examination it appears to the satisfaction of the judge that the said debtor has bona fide made an assignment as required by this Act, and has not been guilty of any fraudulent disposal, concealment or retention of his estate or any part thereof, or of his books and accounts or any material portion thereof, or otherwise in any way contravening the provisions of this Act, such judge shall, by his order in writing, discharge the debtor from confinement or imprisonment; and on production of the order to the sheriff or gaoler, the debtor shall be forthwith discharged without payment of any gaol fees: Provided always, that no such order shall be made in any case unless it be made to appear to the satisfaction of such judge that at least seven days' notice of the time and place of the said examination had been previously given to the plaintiff in the suit in which the debtor was imprisoned, or to his attorney and to the Assignee for the time being:

(2.) The minutes of the examination herein mentioned shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court out of which the process issues, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to the Assignee; and if, during the examination or before any order be made, the Official Assignee or the appointed Assignee, or the creditor or any one of the creditors at whose suit or suits the debtor is in custody, makes affidavit that he has reason to believe that the debtor has not made a full disclosure in the matters under examination, the judge may grant a postponement of such examination for a period of not less than seven days nor more than fourteen days, unless the parties consent to an earlier day:

(3.) After such examination, in case of any subsequent arrest in any civil suit as aforesaid for causes of action arising previous to the assignment or process for liquidation, the said debtor may, pending further proceedings against him under this Act, be forthwith discharged from confinement or imprisonment in such suit, on application to any judge and on producing such previous discharge: Provided that nothing in this section contained, shall interfere with the imprisonment of the said debtor, in pursuance of any of the provisions of this Act.

APPEAL.

128. In the Province of Quebec all decisions by a Judge in Chambers in matters of insolvency shall be considered as judgments of the Superior Court, and any final order or judgment rendered by such judge or court may be inscribed for revision or may be appealed from by the parties aggrieved in the same cases and in the same manner as they might inscribe for revision or appeal from a final judgment of the Superior Court in ordinary cases, under the laws in force when such decision shall be rendered. If any of the parties to any contestation, matter or thing upon which a judge has made any final order or judgment are dissatisfied with such order or judgment, they may, in the Province of Ontario, appeal therefrom to either of the superior courts of common law or to the Court of Chancery, or to any one of the judges of the said courts; in the Province of New Brunswick to the Supreme Court of New Brunswick or to any one of the judges of the said court; in the Province of Nova Scotia to the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia or to any one of the judges of the said court; in the Province of British Columbia to the Supreme Court of that Province, or to any judge of the said court; in the Province of Prince Edward Island to the Supreme Court of Judicature, or to any judge of the said court; in the Province of Manitoba, to the Court of Queen's Bench or to any judge of the said court; but any appeal to a single judge in the Provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, or Manitoba, may, in his discretion, be referred on a special case to be settled, to the full court, and on such terms in the meantime as he may think necessary and just. No such appeal or proceeding in revision shall be entertained unless the appellant or party inscribing for revision shall have within eight days, from the rendering of such final order or judgment, a lodged proceedings on the said appeal or revision or unless he shall, within the said delay, have made a deposit or given sufficient securities before a judge that he will duly prosecute the said appeal or proceedings in revision, and pay such damages and costs as may be awarded to the respondent. If the party appellant does not proceed with his appeal, or in review, as the case may be, according to the law or the rules of practice, the court, on application of the respondent, may order the record to be returned to the officer entitled to the custody thereof, and condemn the appellant to pay the respondent the costs by him incurred.

129. Pending the contestation of any claim or of a dividend sheet, and of any appeal or proceeding in revision, the Assignee shall reserve a dividend equal to the amount of the dividends claimed or contested.

FRAUDS AND FRAUDULENT PREFERENCES.

130. All gratuitous contracts or conveyances, or contracts without consideration, or with merely a nominal consideration, respecting either real or personal estate, made by a debtor afterwards becoming an insolvent, with or to any person whomsoever, whether such person be his creditor or not, within three months next preceding the date of a demand of an assignment or for the issue of a writ of attachment under this act whenever such demand shall have been followed by an assignment, or by the issue of such writ of attachment, or at any time afterwards, and all contracts by which creditors are injured, obstructed or delayed, made by a debtor unable to meet his engagements, and afterwards becoming an insolvent with a person knowing such inability or having probable cause for believing such inability to exist, or after such inability is public and notorious, whether such person be his creditor or not, are presumed to be made with intent to defraud his creditors.

131. A contract or conveyance for consideration, respecting either real or personal estate, by which creditors are injured or obstructed, made by a debtor unable to meet his engagements with a person ignorant of such inability, whether such person be his creditor or not, and before such inability has become public and notorious, but within thirty days next before a demand of an assignment or the issue of a writ of attachment under this Act, or any time afterwards, whenever such demand shall have been followed by an assignment or by the issue of such writ of attachment, is voidable, and may be set aside by any court of competent jurisdiction, upon such terms as to the protection of such person from actual loss or liability by reason of such contract, as the court may order.

132. All contracts or conveyances made and acts done by a debtor, respecting either real or personal estate, with intent fraudulently to impede, obstruct or delay his creditors in their remedies against him, or with intent to defraud his creditors, or any of them, and so made, done and intended with the knowledge of the person contracting or acting with the debtor, whether such person be his creditor or not, and which have the effect of impeding, obstructing or delaying the creditors of their remedies, or of injuring them or any of them, are prohibited, and are null and void, notwithstanding that such contracts, conveyances, or acts be in consideration, or in contemplation of marriage.

133. If any sale, deposit, pledge or transfer be made of any property, real or personal, by any person in contemplation of insolvency, by way of security for payment to any creditor: or if any property, real or personal, movable or immovable, goods, effects, or valuable security, be given by way of payment by such person to any creditor when by such creditor obtains or will obtain an unjust preference over the other creditors, such sale deposit, pledge, transfer or payment shall be null and void, and the subject thereof may be recovered back for the benefit of the estate by the Assignee, in any court of competent jurisdiction; and if the same be made within thirty days next before a demand of an assignment, or for issue of a writ of attachment under this Act, or at any time afterwards, whenever such demand shall have been followed by an assignment or by the issue of such a writ of attachment, it shall be presumed to have been so made in contemplation of insolvency.

134. Every payment made within thirty days next before a demand of an assignment, whenever such demand shall have been followed by an assignment, or by the issue of a writ of attachment, or within thirty days next before the issue of a writ of attachment under this Act, when such writ has not been founded upon a demand, by a debtor unable to meet his engagements in full, to a person knowing such inability, or having probable cause for believing the same to exist, shall be void, and the amount paid may be recovered back by suit in any competent court, for the benefit of the estate: Provided always, that if any valuable security be given up in consideration of such payment, such security or the value thereof, shall be restored to the creditor before the return of such payment can be demanded.

135. Any transfer of a debt due by the Insolvent, made within the time and under the circumstances, in the next preceding section mentioned, or at any time afterwards, whenever such demand shall have been followed by an assignment or by issue of such writ of attachment, to a debtor knowing or having probable cause for believing the Insolvent to be unable to meet his engagements, or in contemplation of his insolvency, for the purpose of enabling the debtor to set up by way of compensation or set-off the debt so transferred, is null and void, as regards the estate of the Insolvent; and the debt due to the estate of the Insolvent shall not be compensated or affected in any manner by a claim so acquired; but the purchaser thereof may rank on the estate in the place and stand of the original creditor.

136. Any person who, for himself or for any firm, partnership or company of which he forms part, or as the manager, trustee, agent or employee of any person, firm, copartnership or company, purchases goods on credit or procures any advance in money, or procures the endorsement or acceptance of any negotiable paper without consideration, or induces any person to be some security for him, knowing or believing himself or such person, firm, copartnership or company for which he is acting to be unable to meet his or its engagements, and concealing the fact from the person thereby becoming his creditor, with the intent to defraud such person, or by any false pretense obtains a term of credit for the payment of any advance or loan of money, or of the price or any part of the price of any goods, wares or merchandise, with intent to defraud the person thereby becoming his creditor, or the creditor of any such person, firm, copartnership or company, and who shall not afterwards have paid or caused to be paid the debt or debts so incurred, shall be held to be guilty of a fraud, and shall be liable to imprisonment for such time as the court may order, not exceeding two years, unless the debt and costs be sooner paid; Provided always, that in the suit or proceeding taken for the recovery of such debt or debts the defendant may be charged with such fraud, and be declared to be guilty of it by the judgment rendered in such suit or proceeding.

137. Whether the defendant in any such case appear and plead, or make default, the plaintiff shall be bound to prove the fraud charged, and upon his proving it, if the trial be before a jury, the judge who tries the suit or proceeding shall be immediately after the verdict rendered against him the defendant for such fraud (if such verdict is given), or if not before a jury, then immediately upon his rendering his judgment in the premises, adjudge the term of imprisonment which the defendant shall undergo; and he shall forthwith order and direct the defendant to be taken into custody and imprisoned accordingly; but such judgment shall be subject to the ordinary remedies for the revision thereof, or of any proceeding in the case.

OFFENCES AND PENALTIES.

138. Every Assignee, to whom an assignment is made under this Act, is an agent within the meaning of the seventy-sixth and following sections of the "Act respecting Larceny and other similar offences," and every provision of this Act, or resolution of the creditors, relating to the duties of an Assignee, shall be held to be a direction in writing, within the meaning of the said seventy-sixth section; and in an indictment against an Assignee, under any of the said sections, the right of property in any moneys, security, matter or thing, may be laid in "the creditors of the Insolvent in name of him, under the Insolvent Act of 1875," or in the name of any Assignee subsequently appointed, in his quality of such Assignee.

139. Any Assignee who, in any certificate required by this Act, shall wilfully misstate or falsely represent any material fact for the purpose of deceiving the judge, the creditors, or the Inspectors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable at the discretion of the court before which he shall be convicted to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years.

140. From and after the coming into force of this Act, any insolvent who, with regard to his estate,—or any president, director, manager or employee of any co-partnership, or of any incorporated company not specially excepted in the first section of this Act, with regard to the estate of such co-partnership or company, who shall do any of the acts or things following with intent to defraud, or defeat the rights of his or its creditors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable, at the discretion of the court before which he is convicted, to punishment by imprisonment for not more than three years, or to any greater punishment attached to the offence by any existing Statute.

If he does not upon examination fully and truly discover, to the best of his knowledge and belief, all his property, real and personal, inclusive of his rights and credits, and how and to whom, and for what consideration, and when he disposed of, assigned or transferred the same or any part thereof, except such part has been really and bona fide before sold or disposed of in the way of his trade or business, or laid out in ordinary family or household expenses and fully, clearly and truly state the causes to which his insolvency is owing; or shall not deliver up to the Assignee all such part thereof as is in his possession, custody or power (except such part thereof as is exempt from seizure as hereinbefore provided), and also all books, papers and writings in his possession, custody or power, relating to his property or affairs;

141. Every offence punishable under this Act shall be tried as other offences of the same degree are triable in the Province where such offence is committed.

142. If any creditor of an insolvent, directly or indirectly, takes or receives from such Insolvent, any payment, gift, gratuity or preference, or any promise of payment, gift, gratuity or preference, as a consideration or inducement to consent to the discharge of such Insolvent, or to execute a deed of composition and discharge with him; or if any creditor knowingly ranks upon the estate of the Insolvent for a sum of money not due to him by the Insolvent, or by his estate, such creditor shall forfeit and pay a sum equal to treble the value of the payment, gift, gratuity or preference so taken, received or promised, or treble the amount improperly ranked for as the case may be; and the same shall be recoverable by the Assignee for the benefit of the estate, by suit in any competent court and when recovered, shall be distributed as part of the ordinary assets of the estate.

143. If, after a demand is made for the issue of a writ of attachment in insolvency, or for an assignment of his estate under this Act, as the case may be, when such demand shall be followed by the issue of a writ of attachment or by an assignment under this act, the Insolvent retains or receives any portion of his estate or effects, or of his moneys, securities for money, business papers, documents, books of account, or evidences of debt, or any sum or sums of money belonging or due to him, and retains and withholds from his Assignee, without lawful right, such portion of his estate or effects, or of his moneys, securities for money, business papers, documents, books of account, evidences of debt, sum or sums of money, the Assignee may make application to the judge, by summary petition, and after due notice to the Insolvent, for an order for the delivery over to him of the effects, documents or moneys so retained; and in default of such delivery in conformity with any order to be made by the judge upon such application, such Insolvent may be imprisoned in the common goal for such time, not exceeding one year, as such judge may order.

The Governor in Council shall have all the powers with respect to imposing a tax or duty upon proceedings under this Act, which are conferred upon the Governor in Council by the thirty-second and thirty-third sections of the one hundred and ninth chapter of the Consolidated Statutes of Lower Canada, and by the Act intitled: "An Act to make provision for the erection or repair of Court Houses and Goals at certain places in Lower Canada," (12 Vict. chap. 112.)

PROCEDURE IN THE CASE OF INCORPORATED COMPANIES.

147. The provisions of this Act shall apply to the estates of incorporated companies, not specially excepted in the first section of this Act, subject to the following modifications:—

(1.) No writ of attachment shall issue against the estate of an incorporated company except upon the order of the judge, and after notice of at least forty-eight hours has been given to such company of the application for such writ. The judge in all cases where proceedings have been adopted under this Act against an incorporated company, may, before granting a writ of attachment, order the Official Assignee to inquire into the affairs of the company, and to report thereon within a period not exceeding ten days from the date of such order:

(2.) Upon such order it shall be the duty of such company, and of the president, directors, managers and employees thereof, and of every other person, having possession or knowledge thereof, to exhibit to the Official Assignee, or to his deputy, the books of account together with all inventories, papers and vouchers referring to the business of the company, or of any other person; and generally to give all such information as may be required by the Official Assignee to form a just estimate of the affairs of the said company; and any refusal on the part of the said president, directors, managers or employees of the company to give such information shall, on evidence of such refusal, be considered as a contempt of an order of the court or judge, and punishable by fine or imprisonment or by both at the discretion of the judge:

(3.) From the time the above order is served upon the company, the president, directors, managers, and employees thereof, and all other persons having the control or possession of its affairs or property, shall hold the estate and property of the said company upon trust for the creditors of the said company, and shall be bound to account for all the property of the said company under the same obligations, liabilities, and responsibilities as trustees appointed by courts of law or equity in the several Provinces, or as guardians and sequestrators in the Province of Quebec, are bound:

(4.) for allowing the business thereof to be carried on as they may deem most advantageous to the creditors; and may also appoint two Inspectors and indicate the mode in which the business of the company should be wound up or should be continued.

(5) The resolutions so adopted shall be submitted to the judge at the time and place appointed at the meeting, and at least forty-eight hours' notice shall be given by the Official Assignee to the company of the time and place so fixed.

(6) The judge, after hearing such creditors as may be present, the Assignee and the company, may confirm, reject or modify the said resolutions; and he may order the immediate issue of a writ of attachment to attach the estate of the company, or direct that the issue of such writ shall be suspended for a period not exceeding six months,—during which period he may order that the Official Assignee or the Inspectors (if any have been appointed by the creditors) shall exercise a general supervision over the estate and business of the said company by requiring from the president, directors, managers and employees of the company, such periodical accounts and statements, of the business done, and of the moneys received and expended or disbursed since the last statement as may be required by the said Inspectors or the said Official Assignee to obtain a proper knowledge of the affairs of the company.

(7.) The judge may also, if he deems it for the advantage of the creditors, appoint a Receiver charged with such duties as to the superintendence or management of the affairs of the company as may be imposed upon him by the order of the judge; and who shall also assume and be invested with all the powers vested in the directors and stockholders respecting the calling in and collecting of the unpaid stock of the company, and subject to such orders and directions as he may, from time to time, receive from the judge:

(8.) Such Receiver shall account, whenever ordered by the court or judge, for all moneys or property he may have received from the estate.

(9.) Before the expiration of the six months next after such order, the Official Assignee or the Receiver, as the case may be, shall cause another meeting of the creditors to be called:

(10.) On the resolutions adopted at such meeting the judge may either grant a further delay not exceeding six months, or cause a writ of attachment to issue at the instance of any creditor or creditors:

(11.) If, at the expiration of such prolonged delay, the demands made upon the company to place it in liquidation have not been satisfied, the judge shall order the issue of a writ of attachment; and the estate of the said company shall be wound up under the provisions of this Act, unless the creditor or creditors entitled to such writ shall consent to a further delay:

(12.) Nothing in this section shall prevent the judge before the expiration of the delays he may have granted under the preceding sub-sections, from cancelling the orders so given by him, and from ordering the issue of a writ of attachment or from releasing the company from the effect of any such order, as circumstances may require:

(13.) The president, directors, managers or other officers or employees of the company, and any other person, may be examined by the Assignee or by the judge on the affairs of the company, and each of them shall, for refusal to answer questions put in reference to the business within his own cognizance be liable to the same penalties as ordinary traders refusing to answer questions put under the provisions of this Act:

(14.) The remuneration of the Official Assignee and of the Receiver for services performed under the preceding subsections shall be fixed by the judge.

(15.) Nothing in the preceding sub-sections shall prevent the president, directors, managers or employees of the company, on being duly authorized to that effect, from making an assignment of the estate of such company to an Official Assignee in the form provided for by this Act, before the expiration of the delays which may have been granted to such company by the court or judge.

A village in the Township of Stanley, prettily situated on Lake Huron, at the mouth of the Bayfield River. It was first settled in 1843, and laid out by a Baron de Tyle. The Post Office was established in 1847, Donald Fraser being the first postmaster. It was incorporated as a village by Act of Parliament, in 1876, with a population of 846. The first Village Council elected was as follows: Reeve, W. W. Conner, by acclamation; Councillors, John Keys, Andrew Rutledge, John Esison and J. C. McIntosh.

It is situated twelve miles south of Goderich, nine miles south-west of Clinton, sixteen miles south-west of Seaforth, and is surrounded by one of the richest agricultural countries in Ontario. Its situation is also very healthy.

The harbor, is, by order of the Dominion Government, being fitted up for a Harbor of Refuge, and is being greatly improved. Mr. J. S. McEwin is the contractor for the work, and the sum of $51,600 has been set apart for this work. A considerable business is done in fishing, herring, white fish and salmon trout being the kinds which are caught. Eight boats are engaged in the business, employing about thirty men. The value of the catch for 1875 was $18,528.

The store keepers are Robert Morrison, Tudor J. Marks, Mary Cameron, James Gardiner, James Burns, Keys and Elliott and Andrew Rutledge, all of whom are doing a good business. F. C. Wilson is the only chemist and druggist in the village.

Chauncey Benedick is proprietor of the tannery. Messrs. John Luby and the Messrs. Cameron carry on the business of harness making.

There are two cabinet shops, that of James P. Holland, being well stocked. There are also in the village four waggon shops, one grist and saw mill, one fulling and carding mill and two planing factories, but there is plenty room for other manufacturing.

There are four churches in the village, viz: Wesleyan Methodist; brick 36x26; erected in 1856 at a cost of $1,200. Church of England is a handsome brick building. Presbyterian Church, brick; and Episcopal Methodist.

RIVER HOTEL,

Bayfield, - - Ontario,

John Morgan - - Proprietor.

FIRST-CLASS ACCOMODATION FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS and the public generally.

CLINTON,

An important and prosperous town and station on the Buffalo and Lake Huron branch of the Grand Trunk Railway, having also a station of the London Huron and Bruce Railway, which has just been completed, giving it railway facilities equal to any town of its size in the Province. It is situated twelve miles east from Goderich, thirty-two west from Stratford, twenty-two south from Wingham and forty-eight miles north from London.

It was first laid out as a village by Mr. Rattenbury in 1848, and named by him Clinton in commemoration of a distinguished family of that name living in the neighbourhood of his native home in Devonshire.

It was incorporated as a village on the first of January, 1858, with Joseph Whitehead, Esq., for its first Reeve. Population about 1,000.

It was next incorporated into a town in January, 1875, with a population of 2,386, and laid out into four wards, named respectively, St. John's, St. James', Saint Andrew's and St. George's, with R. Callender, Esq., as its first Mayor; a Reeve and twelve Councillors.

It owes its rise and progress principally to the rich agricultural resources of the surrounding country, its facility of access by rail and gravel roads, and salubrity of the section where it is located.

The town possesses no water power whatever for manufacturing purposes, but steam is employed very extensively in manufacturing establishments, among the largest of which are the Clinton flour, grist and saw mills of Mr. James Fair, a large establishment, having four run of stones, capable of turning out 150 barrels of flour per day, and with extensive machinery in connection for cutting and dressing staves and heading for the barrels used in the mill, and which are manufactured on the spot. The saw mill also cuts an enormous quantity of lumber every season.

The Huron grist and oatmeal mill of Mr. David Irwin, London road, is a large frame building three storeys high, 60x40 feet, and contains four run of stones, with extensive steam power capable of turning out a large amount both of flour and oatmeal.

Messrs. Glasgow, McPherson & Co. have an extensive foundry and agricultural implement manufactory, and turn out a very superior threshing machine, employing a large number of hands and using steam power.

Messrs. M. McTaggart & Co. employ about twenty hands in the manufacturing and distributing through the country of a very superior fanning mill, being the largest establishment of its kind in the Province. Their buildings cover over an acre of ground. The machinery is run by steam.

Mr. Hugh Moore's tannery consists of two large frame buildings, in which he manufactures all kinds of leather for boots shoes and harness. Driven by steam.

Messrs. Doan & Brown's tannery is also a large frame building, two storeys high, in which they manufacture sole, upper, and harness leather, kip and calfskins. Run by steam.

Mr. D. Mulloy's pump factory on Rattenbury street is quite an establishment, turning out a large number of pumps annually.

Mr. James Ferguson has a large pump factory on High street, where he carries on an extensive business.

The Stapleton salt works, owned by Mr. Henry Ransford and superintended by Messrs. Richard and John Ransford, situated about a mile east of the town, are a very extensive concern, and turn out many thousands of barrels of salt annually.

The Clinton salt works, a large establishment adjoining the Grand Trunk Railway, owned by Messrs. McGarva, Combe & Co., are capable of turning out about 100 barrels per day.

There are also two bending factories, one just started, Messrs. Scott & Moore's, on Albert street, and one in operation about a year, Mr. W. T. Holmes', on the same street, both doing a good business.

MANUFACTURES.

In general manufactures Clinton compares favourably with any town of its size in Ontario, among which we may mention the sash, door and planing factory of Messrs. Stevens & Miller, on Huron street, the planing and building material factory of Messrs. Cooper & McKenzie, High street, the large carriage and waggon shops of Messrs. Rumbale & Leslie, on Huron street, Messrs. Cantelon Brothers, on Albert street, and Mr. W. T. Holmes, on Victoria street, the cabinet and furniture shops of Messrs. J. Osherty & Menzies, on Albert street, Mr. Thomas Stevenson, on Albert street, and Mr. Geo. Diehl, Victoria street, the blacksmith and iron turning shops of Peter Grant, who manufactures a very superior hay fork, also a soap and potash factory, carried on by Mr. Thomas Potts, besides a number of other establishments.

Mr. Corbett does a large business in the woolen trade in a brick building on William street, where he has extensive machinery for carding wool and manufacturing cloth.

Messrs. W. Doherty & Co. do a large business in the importation and manufacture of musical instruments.

HOTELS.

The hotels for the town will compare favourably with those of any other in this western section.

POST OFFICE.

Mr. Thos. Fair, Postmaster, is a large distributing centre for offices, both north and south.

BANK.—The Royal Canadian Bank, a fine white brick building, two and one half storeys high, fronting the market square on Rattenbury street. M. Lough, Esq., manager.

CHURCHES.—There are four churches, viz.: St. Paul's Church, (Episcopal) situated on Huron street, a handsome brick building in the gothic style, with a tower and spire about 100 feet high, completed April 1st and opened April 12th, 1863; size, 40x64; cost, $4,000, and will seat 350 persons. The Rev. Dr. Walt is the present rector; in connection with which a very fine brick parsonage has lately been built.

The Canada Presbyterian Church, a handsome frame building 40x70 feet, with tower, gilt dome and vane, erected in 1856 at a cost of $2,500, and enlarged in 1870 at a further cost of $1,000, having now seating capacity for 500 persons. This church was organized in 1856 through the labours of the Rev. John Rennie and others, and continued to be a mission station until 1859, when the Rev. A. D. McDonald entered on the charge. Since removed to Elora, few churches have increased more rapidly in numbers and influence than this since its organization. The Rev. F. McCuaig is the minister at present presiding.

The Wesleyan, Methodist Church is a fine brick structure, erected in 1857 at a cost of $3,000 to seat 350; but since enlarged in 1871, costing a further sum of $2,500, having now seating capacity for 600 people. Previous to the erection of this church the congregation worshiped in the School House and Bible Christian Church for about three years. The number of adherents is rapidly increasing. The minister at present stationed here is the Rev. Mr. Brock.

The Bible Christian Church is a neat plain building, costing about $1,000, and can accommodate about 270 people. The present minister is the Rev. Mr. Courtice.

There is also a congregation of Plymouth Brethren, who worship in the first flat of a large building on Princess street.

GODERICH.

A port of entry and the county town of Huron. It is beautifully situated on Lako Huron, at the mouth of the River Maitland, and at the western terminus of the Buffalo and Goderich section of the Grand Trunk Railway, 157 miles from Buffalo, 32 miles west northwest of London, and 133 miles from Toronto. It is the principal shipping port on the western shore of Lake Huron, and when the Government improvements have been completed it will have one of the finest harbors in Ontario with a basin covering twenty acres, and surrounded by substantial and commodious docks. The Government has expended a large sum in making the port a harbor of refuge for vessels during storms, and with this object the entrance has been made broad and easy of access during the severest gales. A light-house overlooks the entrance to the harbor. The town is elevated above the lake 130 feet, is clean, well drained and enjoys one of the healthiest atmospheres in Ontario, which fact is fully appreciated by the hundreds who visit Goderich during the "heated term" from different parts of Canada and the United States. As a summer resort it is becoming each year more popular, and the splendid building of the Goderich Summer Hotel Company which overlooks the harbor, the Point Farm hotel, and the several other hotels in town, give evidence of the extent of this business.

The town was first settled about the year 1827, and was laid out by the late Dr. Dunlop. Its progress was slow at first, but in the year 1854 it began to advance more rapidly, until it was a town of 5,015 inhabitants and growing steadily. It has a spacious market ground in the shape of an octagon, in the centre of which stands the court-house, a splendid brick building, two stories high, with commodious court room and offices. The entire cost of the building was $18,000. The jail is situated on the north side of the town, on the banks of the Maitland, and is a substantial stone building, two stories high, and surrounded by a stone wall fourteen feet high. The streets diverge from the market square, which stands about the centre of the town, to the eight principal points of the compass, and on these are erected many handsome business houses, principally built of brick.

The Central School, first opened in 1857, is a fine brick building, situated on North street, and comprises seven departments besides an extensive public library. There are three primary schools, and the staff of teachers numbers thirteen individuals. A handsome new grammar school was opened in the year 1875, which is presided over by H. I. Strang, B. A., and an efficient assistant. The building is of brick, two stories high, and stands on Waterloo street.

Goderich possesses several fine churches, as follows:

Knox's Church—Canada Presbyterian—situate on East street, brick, opened February, 1861; size, 50x75 feet. Revs. Robert Ure, D. D., and James Sieveright, pastors. The congregation of St. Andrew's Church (Church of Scotland) united with Knox's Church in 1875, the year of the Presbyterian union.

St. George's Episcopal Church, brick, size 70x40 feet. Venerable Archdeacon Ulwood, minister; Rev. C. Channer, curate.

North Street Methodist Church, brick, size 60x40 feet, with two wings; built in 1860. Rev. W. C. Henderson, M. A., minister.

Brock Street Methodist Church, brick, size 36x56; built in 1856. Rev. A. A. Bowers, minister.

Episcopal Methodist Church, frame, size 30x40; built in 1857. Rev. J. Koso, minister.

Roman Catholic Church, situated on North street, frame. Rev. P. J. O'Shea, priest. Adjoining the church is the priest's residence, a large two story brick edifice.

Manufacturing interests are well represented, such as iron, ash, blinds and doors, barrels leather, flour, artificial stone, agricultural implements, salt, &c. Messrs. Ogilvy & Hutchison are proprietors of the Harbor Mills, with ten run of stones. This is a very large building of stone, and cost in its erection, together with the elevator, over $100,000. There are fifteen salt manufactories, including the block recently erected by Messrs. Ogilvy & Hutchison, which have a capacity of about 2,500 barrels of salt per day. The business for several years past has been somewhat depressed.

A large business is done in lake fishing, in which business fifteen vessels are employed. The value of the catch for 1875 was $27,980. Almost the entire amount of the fish caught is shipped fresh to Buffalo and eastern points.

Lumber is an important item in the business at this port, Messrs. Secord, Cozzens & Co., and Messrs. Williams & Murray making this their headquarters. About 20,000,000 feet of lumber were brought by these firms to Goderich in 1875, the greater portion of which has been disposed of in Canada and the Eastern States.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company has a large elevator at the dock, as also have Messrs. Ogilvies & Hutchinson, the latter elevator being a splendid, capacious and well-finished structure, having in connection with it the Huron mills. A large amount of grain is consequently transhipped here for eastern points.

Regular communication is had by water with Saginaw, Detroit, Sarnia, Kincardine and Southampton, the boats of the Beatty, Windsor and Saginaw lines calling here regularly.

It has branches of two banks, the Royal Canadian Bank, Col. A. M. Ross, M. P. P., manager, and the Bank of Montreal, J. H. Finlay, mayor, manager.

There are two newspapers published here, viz.: The Huron Signal, one of the oldest papers in the Province, and the Goderich Star, a Conservative journal.

Its officers for 1876 are as follows: Mayor, J. H. Findlay; Reeve, J. T. Garrow; Deputy Reeve, Dixie Watson; Chairman Board of School Trustees, C. Crabb; Clerk, James Thompson; Treasurer, Rev. C. Fletcher.

SOCIETIES.—Masonic—Huron Chapter, No. 30, G. R. C.; regular convocations second Friday in the month. Goderich Lodge No. 33, G. R. C.; first Wednesday in the month. Maitland Lodge No. 112; second Tuesday in the month. These bodies meet in the Masonic Hall, East street.

SEAFORTH.

Seaforth is a smart, lively business town, of about two thousand inhabitants. It is surrounded by one of the most fertile and flourishing farming districts in Canada, and to this fact it owes in a great measure the great prosperity which has attended it. Twenty years ago the ground where Seaforth now stands was little better than a bog, and there was only one old log house to be seen. To-day it is one of the first towns in Canada. Its mercantile establishments are generally acknowledged to be larger and superior to most towns of its size, while its manufacturing and milling interests are largely represented. There are three large gristing and flouring mills, two extensive planing mills and sash and door factories, two small foundries, an extensive cheese factory, two large cabinet factories, several extensive cooperages, two saw mills, and other like branches of industry. The most important interest of all, however, is the salt interest. This, alone, with ample consumption, would soon make a city of Seaforth. The bed of rock salt is thicker at this point than at any other where salt has been discovered. There are now in operation at Seaforth ten large salt blocks, each capable of turning out an immense quantity of salt annually. If there was a market for the article there would soon be double the amount of money invested in salt works in Seaforth than there is now; but even as it is the interest is a very important one. Every interest is well represented in Seaforth, and the art preservative of all arts is not behind, as there are three printing offices. If opposition is the life of trade, trade in almost every department should be lively enough, for there is lots of opposition. In churches also this town is fully up to the mark. There is a Presbyterian, Methodist, Methodist Episcopal, Roman Catholic, and English Episcopal. The Presbyterian element slightly predominates. The Presbyterian and Catholic Church buildings are the most imposing, being large brick edifices, nicely finished both outside and inside.

WINGHAM.

This thriving village has, as if by magic, risen within the past three or four years to one of the most, if not the most, important in the county. It is situated about thirty miles from Goderich. The Southern extension of the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway has its terminus here. In the year 1854, at the time it was incorporated, there was a population of between 900 and 1,000, and now it has 1 600 inhabitants. Adjoining the incorporated village is Lower Wingham, with a population of 400 or 500, making the whole number over 2,000. There are four places of worship—English Church, Presbyterian and two Methodist, the first being built of brick and the others frame. The Plymouth Brethren also hold service in one of the halls every Sunday afternoon. There is a public school with — names on the roll, at which four teachers are employed, two male and two female; two newspapers, the Advance and the Times, six hotels at present, two steam saw mills and shingle factories, one flouring mill in Upper and one in Lower Wingham, two furniture factories, one steam; a foundry, a steam tannery, one steam planing mill, and a second in course of erection; there are two banks here, an agency of the St. Lawrence and C. Tait Scott's, Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank; also a large number of dry goods and grocery stores, and two drug stores. The village is blessed with only one lawyer and three doctors. On the whole we doubt if there is another place in the county which has made such rapid strides in population, business and general prosperity than the village of Wingham.

Wroxeter is a village prettily situated on the north branch of the River Maitland, in the Township of Howick, and is distant from Goderick about fifty miles and from Seaforth twenty-six. It is a station of the S. G. and B. R. R.; from the terminus of which, Teeswater it is about fifteen miles distant. The first settlers arrived in the vicinity about 1853, and since that time it gradually increased until in 1874 it became an incorporated village, with Mr. Alexander L. Gibson as Reeve. One great advantage Wroxeter possesses is one of the best water privileges on the River Maitland, and which, though made good use of, is not entirely utilized. Water is the motive power for the first class flour and grist mill, owned by Gibson Bros. and occupied by Messrs. J. & R. Clark. It does a large business in gristing and chopping, besides turning out on an average about 8,000 barrels per season. In connection with the mill is a cooperage, employing four or five hands. The woollen factory, leased by R. Forsyth & Co., and owned by Gibson Bros., is a large frame building, the machinery of which is driven by water or steam. This mill does a good business in custom carding, spinning, fulling and dressing, besides manufacturing from Canadian wool tweeds, shirtings, blankets, flannels, winceys, etc. Messrs. Gibson & Black's planing mill and sash and door factory is driven by steam. Manson & Anderson's tannery is situated on the south bank of the river, and in it the tanning of harness and upper leather, sheepskins, etc., is carried on. On the other side of the river are Mr. W. Allen's cabinet factory, where the manufacturing of furniture is carried on in all its branches, besides undertaking and wood turning, and Mr. Robert Millen's planing mill and stave factory, where custom planing and wood working is done and staves, shingles and heading manufactured. On the road leading from the village to the railway station is the new saw-mill, lately erected by Gibson Bros., and rented by Slichter & Detivillier. It is driven by steam and turns out large quantities of lumber. An oatmeal mill to be driven by water is in process of erection.

MERCANTILE.—Mr. John Sanderson owns a fine brick store and has a large and well established business, and Mr. John Moffat and Bell & Shaver have each excellent general stores well stocked with usual merchandise. Mr. Robinson's drug store, in which the office of the Montreal Telegraph Company is located, shows a good stock of drugs and fancy articles. Mr. Wm. Heald, Mr. Robert Scott, Mr. William Harrison and Miss Mackenzie have first-class grocery and provision stores. There are also the representatives of the usual mechanical trades. Mr. Thos. Sanders and Mr. Thomas McDonald carry on the harness and saddlery business, and Messrs. Davidson, Orr and Hemphill each do a good business in the blacksmithing department. Charles Holland and Peter Eamer have good waggon and carriage works, and Mr. Peter Moir and Mr. W. B. Barker represent the shoemaking interests. Mr. Robert Paulin has a hardware shop and tinsmithing combined. In the tailoring line there are Mr. John Knuston and Mr. Robt. Dickson. The latter is postmaster, and has, in addition to his tailoring business, a good stock of books, stationery and fancy articles. Mr. John B. Voght, does gunsmithing and general repairing. Messrs. John McLaughlin and James Orr have livery stables in connection with their other vocations. There are four taverns, owned and occupied by James Crawford, Jno. Goston, Wm. Johnson and Jno. McLaughlin. There are three churches in the village and three resident clergymen. The Presbyterian Church is a large frame building capable of seating five hundred, and is under the charge of the Rev. George Brown. The Congregational body is presided over by the Rev. John Kidson, and meets in the public hall. The Methodist Church is a frame building, seated for two hundred and fifty, and the Church of England Chapel is capable of holding about the same number, and is under the care of the Rev. Mr. Woodburn. The school house is a brick building, situated on the cutskirts of the village, with Mr. David Walker as principal.

SOCIETIES.—The Masons, Oddfellows, Orange and Good Templars Societies have all branches working in the village. There is also a Mechanics' Institute, with a good library in connection, which has been lately greatly increased.
