"THE OLD UNCLE"

Herr Balthasar was by no means what one would be apt to call a pleasant individual. He was no longer young and had no family of his own, but he was very rich. Small wonder, then, that he was treated exceedingly well by all his nephews and nieces in spite of all his peculiarities, and especially so by those of them who were wise in the ways of the world.

I am no longer strong, he used to say with an unpleasant smile, but I don't need any nursing by relatives. I should like to see the whole gang of them hang.

The diplomatic niece, Emma, who heard these words, because they were addressed directly to her, did not hesitate to put them into circulation, adding, however, that everybody knew that the old gentleman had his disagreeable qualities, but, nevertheless, he was like a good soft kernel in a rough shell.

Oh, nonsense, Cousin Adolph replied. I never noticed any soft kernel. He is a perfect type of egotist and a tyrant, and you may tell him that from me, if you care.

It is hardly necessary to say that these words of his nephew reached the ears of the old uncle and the man who told him was a very pleasant, somewhat modest young fellow, his nephew Herman. When he had told his uncle, he rubbed his hands and thought to himself—

Now, we don't need to fear that Adolph will inherit anything from the old miser. One must know how to treat these grumbling old fellows if one expects to get anything.

It really did annoy the old man to hear what his nephew, Adolph, thought of him, but he decided to put all his nieces and nephews to a test that he might be able to select the worthy ones and punish the unworthy. During the last few years his eyes had been continually growing weaker, to such an extent that he now had to use two pairs of spectacles and could write and read only very little even then.

This gave him the idea to take in to his house one of his nephews and nieces for six months at a time.

His experiment with the nieces was soon over. He couldn't bare that the girls cried whenever he roared at them and besides none of them thought of anything but clothes and pleasures to criticise the hat worn by an old female friend of his.

Thus the turn came to the nephews and the first one who was invited to come was Adolph, the impertinent.

Adolph, however, although he had always been rather outspoken in his ways, was at heart a very good fellow, and when he saw his uncle's helplessness he felt sorry for him because he had to depend on others. Not to be able to read seemed to him a most terrible punishment. That he couldn't write did not appear so bad, for he advised the old man to buy a typewriter and began to instruct him in the use of it. After a few weeks the old gentleman was able to write letters to his friends and others on his machine in spite of his poor eyesight. He knew the position of the various keys and after a while he didn't even need to read the letters over. When a letter was done on a machine he scratched what he thought looked like a signature underneath, and thus being able to carry on correspondence unaided made him feel considerably younger.

Adolph was a student, but during the six months he spent in his uncle's house, he did not find time to study at all, and for this reason he told the old man the time was up, that now he had loafed enough, and intended to go back to his studies.

I thought, the old man growled, that you had rather a pleasant time of it with me, or at least an easy time. You have had everything you want for I have never been stingy in the way of pocket money, as you must admit, and as for your studies, they will not run away from you.

You may be right that the studies won't run away from me, Adolph replied, but the time to study is when you are young, and I must think of my future. I admit that I have been living far better with you than I can ever hope to be able on my own resources; but I have always had to humor you, and at times you have a very disagreeable way of treating people. I am of an independent nature, and I cannot think of always giving in to the whims of others.

You are an impertinent fool, the uncle replied.

But Adolph laughed and remained firm, and a week later Herman came to relieve him, and Herman was all smiles and pleasantness from the day he entered the house.

"I tell you, Adolph, I cannot trust that beast," the old man wrote a few weeks later on his typewriter. "He's always dancing around me, trying to guess my wishes, as if I had any higher wish than to see him hang. You were always rather impertinent, but when it comes to choosing between you and that jug of molasses, I will choose you every time. I never believed in people that are smooth and slippery like eels."

The reply which came from Adolph was rather surprising. He found excuses for Herman, and declared that he had always been intimidated and rather harshly treated at home, and that this probably explained his too pronounced anxiety to please.

"Personally, you know, I do not care much for Herman, but that probably comes from the fact that we always used to fight as boys, and because I as the stronger always beat him. I now realize that I was a bully, and that he has no reason for friendly feelings toward me."

"That Adolph is indeed an upright fellow," Uncle Balthasar thought. "He should only know how Herman always endeavors to place him in a bad light, but I'm going to catch this Master Herman, and I know just how."

Although Uncle Balthasar was still able to read the letters he received without help by using three pair of spectacles over one another, his eyesight was continually growing worse. At this time it happened that Herman found himself in great need of cash,

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

To tell the truth he always did need, but his uncle knew nothing about it. "If I ask the old miser for money," Herman thought, "I'm done for, but I know how to get it."

On the first of each month the old uncle was in the habit of sending out checks, instructing his banker to whom and for what amounts they were to be made out, for in spite of all his peculiarities old Uncle Balthasar had always fulfilled what he considered just obligations.

Herman's sister Emma was one of those who were assisted by Balthasar, receiving 100 marks every three months.

More nearsighted than ever Uncle Balthasar was sitting at his typewriter ordering his banker to send Emma a check for 100 marks—but what was that? How strange! Instead of making the figure one the machine had written five. Uncle Balthasar's eyes must have been unusually good that day, for he immediately noticed that Herman was watching him anxiously and he knew that something was up, although his expression never changed.

He tried again, wrote several figures, but it was the same. The key which was to strike the figure one struck five every time.

Nobody but Herman had access to the typewriter so the case was clear enough.

Uncle Balthasar continued writing, finished the letters to the banker, wrote several others and then went to his desk and signed the letters. Herman himself mailed the letters and he noticed that among them there was also one for Cousin Adolph.

The next day he received a letter from his sister Emma which gave him a terrible shock. In the letter the girl complained that instead of sending her one hundred marks as usual Uncle Balthasar had only sent her ten.

"And to think that you were talking about five hundred," she wrote, "and asked me to let you have the three hundred of these because it was you who had made uncle raise the amount. You will please explain this to me immediately or I shall go to uncle myself."

Herman was terrified. He didn't understand anything or rather he did not dare understand the truth. But Uncle Balthasar was trotting up and down the floor rubbing his hands in glee.

Towards evening he sent for Herman and told him, to make himself ready for a short journey, and when the unhappy young man stood before him ready to leave, he told him that he might go and never come back.

"Don't ask any questions, don't try to fool me, just be quiet," the old gentleman said, "and I advise you to begin a typewriter factory for the manufacturing of machines to deceive stupid people. Good-bye."

The next day Uncle Balthasar, himself, went on a trip to the university town where Adolph was studying and had a long talk with him.

A week or so afterwards he surprised all his relatives by making Adolph his adopted son and only heir.

Nobody was ever told of what Herman had done, but when Uncle Balthasar's last will was opened there was no legacy for Herman, who was mentioned only in this manner: "To my nephew, Herman, I leave my sincere respect and besides my typewriter. He will know the reason why."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

No Mother-in-Law

It is difficult for a woman who has led an active life as housekeeper to become a passive member of her son's or daughter's home. She likes her old way best, she longs to show the younger generation how they are wasting their resources. Youth will learn only by experience. It resents interference. And so there are misunderstandings, and unhappiness results. A woman is always happier in her own home with her own income however small it may be, than in the home of another, even her own son and daughter, though it be a home of wealth and lavish generosity, where there is an earnest desire to make her comfortable and happy.

STOMACH DERANGEMENT

Here is a Queer Family Mixup

Washington, Penn., Bewildering relationships among members of two east townships families have resulted from the marriages of a father and his two sons and a widow and her two daughters. The three ceremonies were celebrated within the last two months.

Harry Dillinger, an elderly farmer whose wife died nearly a year ago, engaged Mrs. Mar a Richmond as his house-keeper. It was agreed that the two daughters of Mrs. Richmond, Lucy, aged 16, and Jennie, aged 19, should live in the Dillinger home, wit: the father and his two sons, Chas. and David. After a time the farmer married Lucy Richmond, and the two families continued to occupy the same house. A few weeks after the first marriage, Mrs. Richmond became the wife of David Dillinger, the elder son, Jennie Richmond and Charles Dillinger next fell in love and were married last week. The three families now live in the East Finley township home of the older Dillinger, all apparently happy and contented.

AND THE EARTH TREMBLED

Notable triumphs have been achieved over the lawlessness of nature; but let this old earth tremble only for a moment, and every creature is reduced to a condition of the most agonized fear and helplessness. Periodically, nature gives a hint of the caloric energy which is stored up within her breast, and which, through violent interior displacements and sudden convulsions, bursts through the thin crust, and generally with very disastrous results.

The latest conclusion of science would seem to be that one thousand million years ago this old ball was a mass of fire-mist. Fire and flame are still at the core of the earth. The crust has thickened during past eons of time; but there is no security of foothold, and at any moment there may be disaster.

Were it not that man is a creature of habits, it would seem strange to find that in Southern Italy people still live and work in districts which, again and again, have been devastated by seismic agitations and cataclysms.

Familiarity with danger breeds contempt for it, but this is not the chief reason why thousands of people crowd in the neighborhood of Vesuvius and Actua. This whole district is the most fertile in the world. As many as four crops in the year can be taken out of the soil. This proves the magnet which draws the people to the ill-fated spot, the hope of gain, the certainty of added profit in the sale of fruits and vegetables which grow in profusion in the soil which has been fertilized so often, and with such tragic results, by the lava which, from time immemorial, has flowed down the hillsides in the neighborhood of the "toe of Italy."

The sympathy of the world will go out to the relatives of the victims of the latest earthquake, and there will be a certain feeling of helplessness in the presence of a catastrophe which must always convey the sense of insecurity. Standard.

Not much interest seems to be taken in the doings of the town council. In the stores and on the streets town affairs are discussed, and there would appear to be evidence of popular interest, and the necessity of reform in connection with the methods of the administration of some departments of the town machinery. It would seem that the real interests of the ratepayers could be better served by attendance at the meetings of the Council and looking into the methods of legislation for the government of the town. The members of the Council can hardly be expected to take a very deep interest, in the conduct of town business, when the citizens show almost total indifference to what is going on. Public sentiment must take a part in any measures put forward for municipal reform.

The representatives of the people are always ready to receive the opinions of those directly interested in any matters of town interest, and it would appear that real interest in the town's welfare could be better shown by attendance at the Council meetings, than by criticism made while perched on the head of a barrel in a grocery store.

The members of the Council, who are carrying the responsibility of the government of the town, are certainly not doing it for financial reward, or any plums that can be distributed, they are the servants of the people and are open to any suggestions or advice for the betterment of the town, and should not be unjustly criticised for their efforts in this direction.

Don't make criticism the chief product of the community, and talk about civic righteousness, attend the Council meetings and help develop, improve and modernize the town.

Still, it is a pity that the streets last year, quite a tidy sum, we streets last

BY THE WAY

Winter!

All on the water wagon.

Bad for the lumber industry.

We are still in the ring--5-3.

And the cold begins to strengthen.

1908 went out peaceably and resignedly.

Hard smooth ice, and everybody enjoying themselves.

The weather up to date would indicate that our climate was changing.

"Reduced," "Mark down sale," "Stock-taking." Buy something, no matter what.

If more attention be paid to the Board of Health regulations, epidemics will never flourish in this town.

It would seem that once in every few years natural forces must break their bonds and teach superior man the futility of his greatness.

Never mind superficial accomplishments in upper educational work, pay more attention to "readin'" "writin'" and "arithmic."

Sand strewing wagons, which rapidly spread even layers of sand on the icy streets, have been successfully tried in some cities. We spread it in the summer time in this locality with great success.

Tom Longboat's Indian name is Ca-Wa-Ga-meaning "Everything," and that of his bride-to-be is Ka-Hon-Do-Son, translated "The Leader." They ought to make a winning combination.

"It is time," said the speaker, "that we had a moral awakening in this town. Let us arise in our might. Let us gird up our loins. Let us take off our coats. Let us bare our arms. Let us—"

"Hold on now," screamed an angular lady, who was seated near the platform: "if this is to be a moral awakening don't you dare to propose to take off another thing."

"Look here," said the guest, "things around here are just about as rotten as they make them. When I went to lunch today I found hair in the ice-cream, hair in the honey, and hair in the apple sauce."

"Well," exclaimed the genial proprietor, "the hair in the ice-cream came from the shaving of the ice. And I suppose the hair in the honey came off the comb. But I don't understand about the hair in the apple-sauce. I bought those apples myself, and every one was a Baldwin."

Are hen-pecked husbands really unhappy? From time immemorial they have been held up to scorn and derision, yet, for all that, there is much to prove that many of them are more successful in life and better off in every respect for the power behind the throne, the ready wit which supplements their own, and the clear judgment which is forever at their service.

The influence of a woman who governs her household herself, and her husband benefits, cannot but be beneficial. She gets her husband upon a pedestal, and insists upon all the bowings genuflections and swingings of censors which the most exacting could demand. She pulls the wires, but she keeps them well hidden, and her graceful show of deference to her husband is scrupulously kept up.

The result is that in due time her husband attains to a position of success which he would never have secured had he been left to his own unaided efforts.

A Washington Judge has ruled that a wife has the right to go through her husband's pockets.

Little dollar in my pocket,
Ere I lay me down to sleep,
Let me feel my fingers round you,
Little dollar I would keep.

Let me tenderly caress you,
Let me think of you as mine,
Little dollar in my pocket,
You are near the danger line.

In the morning when I waken,
You'll have vanished from my clutch,
For while I am sleeping soundly,
You will feel a tender touch.

Little dollar in my pocket,
You and I must part tonight,
When I'm sleeping on my pillow,
Fingers soft and fingers white
Round our silver throat will fasten
With a firm and solid grip;
From the cavern of my trousers
You will make a hasty trip.

You'll be yanked from their instanter,
Yanked from your companion keys,
Taken to another stronghold
Where she keeps her recipes.

Little dollar I must leave you;
In my nighties I have not
Pockets or a place to hide you;
Fortune favors her, I wot,
I shall waken in the morning,
Knowing you have gone astray,
But I mustn't start a riot,
For a married fellow has said it,
When a fellow peeped about at night,
Searched through their husband's pockets,
What she finds are woman's rights.

Miss Jessie Catherine has gone to St. John, where she will take a course in one of the business colleges there.

Miss Goddard of St. John, who has been instructing Miss Alma Coffey at the Telephone Central, left on Saturday for her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cook returned from Red Beach on Saturday, where they were attending the funeral of Mrs. Warren Cook.

Mrs. Jos. Murray will spend the winter in Calais. Miss Susie Murray returns to Lowell. They have been guests of relatives here for some weeks.

Miss Myrtle Dick leaves for Lawrence Mass. next week, where she will enter a hospital and complete a course of training commenced some time ago.

A Band of Hope will be organized this afternoon in O'Brien and Gillmor's hall, under the auspices of Red Granite Division. Miss M. E. Russell will have charge of this work.

Dr. Alexander's fancy skating on the ice last week was very much admired. The Dr. has not indulged in this form of amusement for many years, but he has not forgotten his skill and executed many different feats with ease and much grace.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor Greetings
St. George, New Brunswick.

Dear Sir:--

It gives me pleasure to enclose you herewith my check for subscription to Greetings and beg to say that there is nothing that gives me more pleasure than to receive each Monday this message from the old home.

I never tire of thinking of the beauties that surround my native town, and there are pictures in every corner of my western home of the homes and hills surrounding the good old Magaguavic River.

I wish you, Mr. Editor, a Happy New Year and through your columns extend the same to the many dear friends in and around St. George.

Yours Truly,
C. H. SHILLING,
District Manager.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

When business is dull advertise.

Large numbers have been out enjoying the skating.

The schools have opened again, after the holiday vacation.

Dr. E. M. Wilson will be in St. George office Jan. 19th-20th-21st-22nd.

Of 350 fatal accidents in Maine, last year, not one has been a passenger on a railroad train.

Clams are being shipped, to St. John, in large quantities, from points along the N. B. Southern Ry.

Frauley Bros. reduction sale is attracting much attention. Give them a call and then you will know who is who and why.

The ball held Monday evening of last week, was a delightful affair. Eld. Craig, Harold Goss, James Watt and Joe Manning were the committee and are to be congratulated on the manner in which they carried out the program. Mooney's orchestra furnished excellent music.

The post office door was opened Sunday night. Some young men saw the open door and notified the post-master. On examination it was found the lock had been jammed open by pressure. Nothing on the inside was disturbed. If a lone knight of the road did the trick, he had evidently become frightened and left empty handed.

Arthur Clinch, who has recently opened an up-to-date bake shop in the south side of Hay Scale block, is having a lunch counter placed in the front store, where lunches and regular meals are to be served. Mr. Clinch is baker and caterer of considerable experience and will doubtless draw a generous share of the city's patronage.—Eastport Sentinel.

Master Hugh McGrattan is showing a blossom of cotton from Texas, sent by his cousin Mr. Hugh McGrattan who visited St. George last summer. The blossom has the appearance of a horse-chestnut as it looks with the outside burr. The cotton wool is bursting forth and the centre full of seeds. The flower tells in eloquent language the difference in the climates.

Chancellor Jones, of the University of New Brunswick, announced that no decision as to Rhodes scholar from the University of New Brunswick in 1909 would be made until about the 1st of April. Another application has been received, making the total three. The new applicant is Grover Martin, brother of the first Rhodes scholar. Mr. Martin was graduated with the class of 1908. He is at present principal of the Superior School at St. George. The other applicants to date are E. Ralph Sherman of this city and E. Stanley Bridges of St. John.—Gleaner

At the request of many persons the recital given by Miss Mae Johnson, in the Baptist church on Dec. 16th, was repeated New Years night before a large and select audience. Miss Blanche Gillmor assisted in vocal selection, which was a most pleasing feature of the entertainment. Miss Gillmor's fine and well trained voice was heard to good advantage and her solos were sung with an expression that went straight to the hearts of the audience. It is hoped that these attractive entertainments will be continued during the winter.

Officers for the Sons of Temperance for the next quarter are:—

The new officers for the Division Sons of Temperance for the next quarter are: Wm. Seelye, W. P., Mrs. E. R. O'Brien, W. A., Stuart McAdam, R. S.; Miss Mary Perry, A. R. S.; John M. McLaughlin, F. S.; Rankine McIntyre, Treas.; Wm. Austin, conductor; Miss Irene O'Brien, Asst. Cond.; Percy Tayte, I. S.; James Watt, O. S.; Abram Goss, P. W. P.; Miss Russell, Supt. P. Work; Mrs. A. Goss, Asst. Supt.; organist, Miss Jennie Meatin.

Steamer Granville which ran between Annapolis and St. John has been purchased by Connors Bros of Black's Harbor and will be used for passengers and freight running between local ports and St. John. Connors Bros., who have three sailing vessels engaged in carrying their freight, will probably use them for some other purpose, as the steamer will cover the route in much quicker time. It is the intention to put the boat on about 1st of April. Her name will be changed, and some improvements made to insure better service for patrons of the boat. It is possible that arrangements may be made to run to this point, but as yet no decision has been definitely decided.

Mr. Edmund Billings, of Boston, has sailed for Italy, where he will have charge of the Massachusetts relief fund. Mr. Billings is a St. George boy, and has held many positions of trust since going to Boston.

The death occurred on Tuesday of Miss Ann Spofford. The deceased who was 88 years had been in failing health for some time. She was a much respected lady and has many friends who will hear of her death with deep regret.

The debating club, recently organized, had their first encounter Monday Eve. The subject, debated, was one that is occupying the minds of some of the finest minds in the world. Resolved: That woman suffrage will be a benefit to this country. Dr. Alexander, R. T. Wetmore, Leo McGrattan and H. Doull took the affirmative side of the question, and put up some brilliant arguments, showing that they had made a very close study of the question. The negative was handled by Mayor Lawrence, Chas. McGrattan, K. C. Wathan, Thos. Kent and Fred Smith. They advanced some sound arguments. Dr. Taylor, the judge gave his decision in favor of the negative.

Masquash was the scene of a tragic drowning accident Wednesday evening when Harry Harding, one of the most popular young men of this place, was swept over the dam belonging to the Ingleswood Pulp and Paper Company. The unfortunate man, with George Barry, Jack O'Dell and Alonzo Stevens, started out at eight o'clock Wednesday evening to lift the gate of the dam, in order to relieve the pressure of water against it and prevent it from going out. Harding was ahead and started to walk from the main land to the dam on a plank, when it turned over and he was thrown into the water. In spite of frantic efforts he was swept over the dam, his companions being powerless to help him. Stunned by the suddenness of the disaster Harding's companions returned to the village and a grappling party was formed and search is being instituted for the body.

Harding was 31 years of age and was a grandson of the late Dr. Harding who for many years practiced in Masquash. He resided with his uncle, James Davidson, and was employed by the Ingleswood Pulp and Paper Company.

The Town Council met Monday Eve. with Mayor Lawrence, Ald. Bogue, Grant, Craig and Dewar present. The minutes of last regular meeting were read by the clerk and approved. A bill of Tayte, Mating Co., carried over from last meeting, was ordered paid.

The reports of the alms house commissioners, town treasurer and auditor were laid before the council, and after brief discussion were placed on file. Some comment was made on the delinquent tax list, which was larger than in former years, but no definite action was taken in regard to collection.

Mayor Lawrence was appointed to represent the town at the municipal Council, which convenes at St. Andrews Jan. 15th. Alderman Dewar spoke at some length on some changes he considered should be made in the town incorporation act. He thought the interests of the town could be better looked after by the system of electing aldermen at large, and that the town elections should be held in January of each year, instead of April as at present. He suggested that application be made to the legislature to make these changes at the next session. Some of the other aldermen present favored the change as outlined by Ald. Dewar. The alms house affairs were discussed at some length, and it was the opinion of the board that some changes should be made in the management of the business of this institution. Commissioner R. H. Greason, who was present, was invited by the Mayor to give his views on the present condition of this institution. Mr. Greason showed that it was costing as much to care for three paupers now, as it did for fifteen in past years. The majority of the Commissioners did not take the interest that they should. It was time that some steps be taken to reduce the expense of caring for the poor of the parish. The town was producing nothing, whereas in former years it produced from three to four hundred dollars. Under present conditions the towns proportion of the assessment should not be more than two hundred dollars. Ald. Dewar thought this amount ample enough and moved a resolution to this effect. Ald. Bogue moved an amendment that the assessment be made three hundred dollars. This amendment was carried. The unsatisfactory condition of the street lamps was discussed, and referred to the street committee to take any action necessary. The salaries of the town clerk, marshal and auditor were ordered to be paid. The Marshal was reappointed for another month. The town report probably will be printed and distributed among the rate-payers at an early date.

Heart Strength
Heart Strength or Heart Weakness means Nerve Strength or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Heart is not a weak heart in a hundred to one, actually, it is a strong heart in a hundred to one. It is simply a matter of nerve strength. This character—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply weak, and must have more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fall, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same governing nerves.

Why Horses Shy at Newspapers
The mortal terror of newspapers to which even the most intelligent horse is a prey, is certainly a mystery. If a horse meets a torn newspaper lying in the middle of the road, he is seized with a conviction that it is on the point of tearing him to pieces, and accordingly he falls into a spasm of terror. I presume that the scientific explanation of this fact is that the pre-historic horse was severely abused by the newspapers of the time, and that his descendants have thus inherited a horror of newspapers.

42. No householder in whose dwelling there occurs any case of scarlet fever, diphtheria, small-pox, cholera, or typhus fever, shall permit any person suffering from any such disease, or any clothing or other property to be removed from the house without the consent of the Local Board of the district, or of the sanitary officer or attending physician, who shall prescribe the conditions of removal.

43. No person affected with any of the diseases in the last Section named, and no person having access to any person affected with any of the said diseases shall mingle with the general public until such sanitary precautions as may be prescribed by the Local Board or attending physician, shall have been complied with.

44. Persons recovering from small-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, cholera or typhus fever, and nurses who have been in attendance on any person suffering from any such disease, shall not leave the premises until they have received from the attending Physician, Local Board or sanitary officer, a certificate that they have taken such precautions as to their persons, clothing, and all other things which they purpose bringing from the premises, as are necessary to prevent the spread of infection to other persons with whom they may come in contact, and no such person shall expose himself in any public place, shop, street, inn or public conveyance, without having first adopted such precautions.

45. Whenever any house owner shall know that any person within his family has small-pox, scarlet fever, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers of the Local Board of Health for the Municipality, city or town in which he resides.

For not taking such precautions and concealing the existence of a contagious disease a fine of FORTY DOLLARS can be imposed.
Ignorance of the nature of the disease is no excuse as a physician must be called when there is any doubt.

a Socialist or yellow sheet, but also by the further fact that horses do not shy at live snakes whether they are deadly or innocuous.

The true explanation of the horse's fear of a newspaper, is that in the code of equine etiquette it is considered good form to appear to be afraid of newspapers. All animals have their ideas of what is good form, and cling tenaciously to them. The dog does not bark at very small children, because it is contrary to canine etiquette to do so. The cat, who is an inflexible stickler for good form, plays with a half-dead mouse merely because playing with half-dead mice is considered among all cats of good breeding to be the correct thing to do. Women profess to entertain a terrible fear of mice, for the reason that it is thought womanly to entertain and exhibit such fear, while in reality the average woman fears a mouse no more than she fears a fly.

The horse, knowing that if he did not pretend to be frightened nearly cut of his life by a newspaper, he would be regarded by all other horses as an ignorant and ill bred beast, shies whenever a newspaper flutters into his path. In the absence of any better explanation I submit that this one ought to be accepted. It is quite in keeping with what we know of the manners and customs of animals, and it fully explains all the facts of the case.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Christian Mother

Now, suppose Christ should come into your house. First the wife and the mother should feel his presence. Religion almost always begins there. It is easier for women to become Christians than for us men. They do not fight so against God. If women tempted man originally away from holiness, now she tempts him back. She may not make any fuss about it, but somehow everybody in the house knows that there is a change in the wife and mother. She chides the children more gently. Her face lights up sometimes with an unearthly glow. She goes into some unoccupied room for a little while, and her husband goes not after her nor asks her why she was there. He knows without asking that she has been praying. The husband notices that her face is brighter than on the days when years ago, and he knows that Jesus has been putting upon her brow a wreath sweeter than the orange blossoms. She puts the children to bed, not satisfied with the formal prayer that they once offered, but she lingers now and tells them of Jesus who blessed little children and of the good place they all hope to be at last. And then she kisses them good-night with something that the child feels to be a heavenly benediction—a something that shall hold on to the boy for he has become a man 40 or 50 years of age, for there is some-thing in a good, loving, Christian wife's kiss that 50 years cannot wipe off the cheek.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drag the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by All Dealers.

Making Home Happy

Let every parent instill into the minds of the children the principles of self-sacrifice, cheerfulness, generosity and making others happy—make home so attractive that the boys and girls will find more pleasure there than elsewhere. Give the boys a pretty room; pictures and ornaments have a tendency to refine them. Give your children good and wholesome books for the character of the child is greatly influenced by the books he reads. After reading the books of a noble and unselfish man, the children will try to emulate it. Music and flowers brighten the home. An interesting game will add much to the pleasure of an evening. Reading aloud is both pleasant and instructive. Let the conversation at the table always be bright and cheerful. And just here, let us say, cultivate an excellent deportment at the table always, for however polished you may be, if your table manners are neglected they will surely betray you. Let each member of the household do all in his or her power to make home the brightest and happiest place on earth.

A Happy Woman

Is she not the very sparkle and sunshine of life?—A woman who is happy because she can't help it, whose smiles even the coldest sprinkle of misfortune cannot dampen. Men make a terrible mistake when they marry for beauty, for talents, or for style. The sweetest wives are those who possess the magic secret of being contented under any circumstances. Rich or poor, high or low, makes no difference; the bright little fountain of joy bubbles up just as musically in their hearts. Do they live in a log cabin, the fire that leaps upon its humble hearth becomes brighter than the gilded chandeliers in an Aladdin palace. Where is the stream of life so dark and unpropitious that the sunshine of a happy face falling on the turbid tide will not waken an answering gleam? Why, these joyful, good-tempered people don't know half the good they do.

Doctors Fear Tonsillitis Outbreak

Hundreds of cases are reported. If your throat is irritable and sore, gargle three times daily with Nerviline and water. Then rub the throat and chest vigorously with Nerviline and put on Nerviline Porous Plaster. Follow these instructions closely and you will avoid Tonsillitis, Bronchitis and Throat Trouble of every kind. Hundreds are preventing and curing their colds by this method and report it eminently satisfactory. Both Nerviline Plasters and Polson's Nerviline can be had from any dealer, 25c. each.

Mother First

A mother is truly our guardian spirit upon earth; her goodness shields and protects; she walks with our infancy, our youth and maturing age, even sheltering us with her absolving love, and expiating our many sins with her blessed prayers. And when our mother, with all her burden of love, her angelic influence, her saintly care, ceases her beautiful life, how much we lose of home, of happiness, of heaven, no one can reckon; for our mother was none but ours, and we only can know how holy she was, how sacred her memory must be.

Only One Painless Corn Cure

Hundreds have tried, but no one has succeeded in making as good a remedy as Patnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It is by far the best—beware of substitutes for "Patnam's."

Pierpont Morgan's Money

Financial gossip—oral and written—is always abundant with tales and accounts of speculation in Wall St., of a Morgan, a Harriman, a Flick, a Schiff, or others of that type. In probably 90 per cent. of the cases the gossip has no foundation in fact. It is all very well to talk of professional operators who may be in and out of one particular stock several times in one session; but the men of the type previously referred to cannot afford to act in that manner. For instance, Mr. Morgan, with his $200,000,000 of wealth, has a very large part of it in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., the prophets of which firm are very large. It is undoubtedly, the most profitable investment Mr. Morgan has. Then, in the next place, a great deal of his personal wealth is in securities of the first rank, and stays there, year in and year out. He is altogether too big a man to buy, for instance, 10,000 or 20,000 shares of Reading for 10-point or 20-point rise. It would be worth the while of a smaller man, but not of Mr. Morgan. Then he has a great deal invested in his works of art. I am told that Mr. Morgan has invested in art works $45,000,000, and that his collections have been so carefully and shrewdly made, and go back over such a long period, that they are today worth $70,000,000.—Adams' Financial Letter

It Has Hundreds

Strong purgatives have killed many a good man. Costiveness is bad—violent cathartics are worse. If bothered with stomach trouble or biliousness, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire system is cleaned of wastes. Dr. Hamilton's Pills move the bowels gently, they tone the kidneys, assist digestion, clear the skin. For those subject to colds, biliousness, languor, throat sore, a better medicine. Try a 25c. box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Honor Age

Old age should be well fed, well dressed, well housed, free from the worries of life and the discomforts. It should be placid and gentle and beautiful. The heart free from care and the body free from labor; the mind should expand and the aged should become a source of moral strength and wisdom to all about them. The old folks should be cared for and honored, and above all they should be allowed to have their room and their will, for assuredly they have lived long enough to know what they want.

Your Nerves Are Weak

You sleep badly, appetite is variable. You eat but gain no strength. Morning tiredness makes you wish. When night comes refreshing sleep is hard to obtain. You're run down, your blood is thin and watery, your nerves have grown weak, the thought of effort scares you. You need Ferronine; it makes blood—red strong blood. An appetite! You'll eat everything and digest it too. Strength! That's what plenty of food gives. Ferronine gives hope, vigor, vim, endurance. Use Ferronine and get strong. Results are quick—care is lasting. All dealers in 50c. boxes.

A Long Drought

The year now near its close is the driest since the record of annual precipitation began to be taken, and even the "oldest inhabitant" whose recollection runs far back to that date, would be hard put to it to recall an equal. We are at the middle of the twelfth month, and unless the latter half does better than the first, December, like all its predecessors since May, with the possible exception of August, will drop far below the average for the month. The temporary relief that the recent light storms have given us does not touch the root of the trouble. The ground has not been in condition to receive the full benefit of the moisture, and we are approaching the land-locked season with the prospect of a winter drought, one of the worst that can be experienced.

Conditions are all the while becoming more acute. Instances are not rare even in country villages of New England where families have to depend on the purchase of spring water for domestic purposes, and when even water must be added to the marketable necessities of life the outlook for the poor is doubly depressing. But it is not alone the household and the farm that are suffering from this state of things. Some of our most important manufacturing interests have already become seriously restricted. The loudest complaints come from the paper-makers. The pulp for practically all the mills in the country is ground in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and California, and the men engaged in this industry claim that it is impossible to employ steam for their purposes because of the expense, though in extreme cases this is resorted to by grist and flour mills.

The 1400 pulp-grinders in the United States have an average capacity of 3000 tons a day. Just now the total output of all these grinders is not more than forty per cent. of their regular service, and in some cases not more than ten per cent. The situation would be more tense than it is had the companies had not a large stock of accumulated pulp to draw upon.—Boston Transcript.

Eighty Years Submerged

Timber to be Raised

Five hundred cords of sunken pine piling now lying submerged in the Rideau river and in the lakes some miles back of Kingston, Ont., has been bought by an American concern which will raise the timber and take it by boat down the St. Lawrence to Ogdensburg, where it will be made into bleached soda pulp. The pulp is said to be made by a secret chemical process for use in the manufacture of high grade stationery. The piling in question was sunk some eighty years ago when lumbering operations along the Rideau were beginning and while the canal was being built. As the lumber in this district has been generally cut, the wonder is, says Consul Vansant writing from Kingston, that this valuable submerged timber has not been used before.
