SCANDAL OF THE BESSIE BUTLER AND TRENT CANAL HEARD IN THE HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

SPECIAL TO THE STANDARD

Ottawa, Ont., June 5.—The bill to reimburse the depositors who lost their money in the Farmers' Bank swindle for which the Laurier government was responsible, was passed by the Commons today and now goes to the Senate.

The G. T. P. bill passed the committee stage the opposition venturing little in the way of argument.

Tonight the scandal of the Bessie Butler and the Trent Canal was in the limelight. This was a case in which a number of individuals in Peterboro were put on the payroll of the Trent Canal and in this way Liberal party funds were raised.

Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs—Abel Ferry. Under Secretary of the Interior—M. Jacquier.

Under Secretary of Fine Arts—M. Ponsot. Under Secretary of War—M. Maurouy.

Seven of the men appearing in the above list—M. Martin, Noullens, Malvy, Gauthier, David, Raynaud and Renault—held portfolios in the late cabinet of Gaston Doumergue.

The house then took up the Farmers' Bank Bill to committee before being read. Hon. W. T. White, in reply to statements by Mr. J. H. Sinclair, of Guyabour, and W. M. German, of Welland, that other creditors of the bank had a better claim for repayment than had the depositors, stated that this principle was not recognized in the present bill.

AMENDMENT TO C.N.R. BILL IN SENATE

Offered Yesterday by Senator Bostock, Leader of the Opposition. NOT ABSOLUTELY OPPOSED TO AID.

Bill Does Not Provide Sufficient Safeguards, the Amendment Claims—Debate on the Second Reading.

Ottawa, June 5.—The Liberal leader in the Senate has offered an amendment to the Canadian Northern Railway Aid Bill.

The debate on the second reading was begun this morning by Hon. J. A. Loughheed, government leader, and Senator Bostock, the opposition leader, followed with a speech and amendment which enumerated the objections taken in the commons, and suggested that the government would not be disposed to facilitate aid being given to MacKenzie J. Mann on conditions which would not be open to the objections mentioned.

The Liberal leader, in both his speeches and resolution, made it clear that he does not wish to deny aid to the C. N. R. in the present financial condition of the world.

The Liberal amendment is as follows: "That this House, before assenting to the second reading of the bill, desire to express its opinion that the said bill is adverse to, and does not properly safeguard the true interests of the country, and amongst other respects the following:—

"That aid in the form provided for in the said bill implying, as it does, partnership on the part of Canada with Sir MacKenzie and Sir Donald Mann, may involve the country morally and otherwise in very large additional expenditures, and will effect bring about the payment by the government of the outstanding securities of the C. N. R. system.

INCREASE SALARIES OF MINISTERS

General Assembly Adopts Resolution to Make Minimum for Maritime Province Ministers $1,000 and Manse.

Woodstock, Ont., June 5.—Tonight session of the Presbyterian General Assembly was devoted to the recital of the divergent statements about the mission work in out-of-the-way corners of the Empire by men actively engaged in the Presbyterian foreign fields.

The Rev. Wm. Munro, in presenting the report of the eastern section of home missions, stated that the revenue received during the past year was the largest in the history of the Maritime Provinces.

The report of the augmented committee contained several recommendations regarding the salary to be paid in the Maritime Provinces.

The Rev. W. P. Spencer moved that the minimum stipend in the Maritime Provinces be one thousand dollars and a manse, and that augmented congregations shall give no less than six hundred dollars and a free house.

The Rev. W. J. Clark will preach in the assembly church on Sunday morning and Principal McKinnon will conduct the evening service.

London, June 6.—The Daily Express asserts that Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, has notified President Wilson in friendly but unequivocal terms that if General Villa should become president of Mexico the British government would demand an exact satisfaction for the murder of Wm. DAMAGE BY WIND STORM AT CAPITAL

One of the Pinnacles of Methodist Church Tower Blown Down—People on Street Narrowly Escape Injury as it Falls.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, June 5.—The gale of wind which set in this afternoon following last night's rain storm, has been severe and has done considerable damage. Branches have been blown off trees in various parts of the city and fences blown down.

The most serious damage was at the Methodist church, one of the pinnacles of the tower of which was blown off. It fell to the ground, a distance of more than one hundred feet and struck within a few feet of Mr. and Mrs. Tribe, of Marysville, who were walking on King street.

Alarous casualties were made here today by relatives of a young married woman who, it was said, had eloped from Boiestown yesterday with a stranger, said to come from Bangor, Maine.

The register at the Barker House shows the names of Mrs. William Smith and Mr. William Smith, who occupied room 15 last night. This Mr. and Mrs. Smith are said to be the eloping couple, they left by the C. P. E. train morning with Bangor as their destination.

The couple reached the Barker House last evening between 8 and 9 o'clock, and after a short conversation the women went to the desk and registered their names, first Mrs. William Smith and then Mr. William Smith. They arrived here on the L. C. R. mixed train last evening and their departure from Boiestown was marked by some exciting scenes as the husband endeavored to persuade his wife to remain with him.

The annual students' social following formal closing exercises at the Provincial Normal School was held this evening in the Assembly Hall, the faculty and others being guests. The following programme was carried out: Selection, Orchestra; class prophecy; Miss Myrtle Holmes; selection, Quartette; reading, Miss Lily Perry; selection, Orchestra; reading, Miss Ruth Greene; selection, Double quartette; class prophecy, Miss Katherine Young; selection, Quartette; solo, Dr. H. V. Bridges; flute solo, Miss Elizabeth Klavins; violin solo, Mr. E. L. Chambers; God Save the King.

RESOLUTIONS AGAINST THE MORMON FAITH

Two passed at revival meetings in Queen's Rink last evening—Addresses on subject.

At the revival meeting in the Queen's rink last evening the following resolutions, prepared by Dr. A. E. Burroughs, were introduced by W. H. Kingston and carried by votes of the audience:

To His Worship Mayor Frink—Whereas the Mormon Church teaches the divinity of polygamy and its prophets and priests practice that unlawful and un-Christian form of marriage, and

Whereas the Mormon church is seeking to establish itself in the City of St. John from which its elders can conduct a propaganda for their polygamous faith,

Now, therefore, we citizens of St. John in mass meeting assembled do protest to the Mayor of the city against all street meetings and distribution of literature by the elders of the Mormon church for the preaching or teaching of its doctrines, and against the granting of any permits for the holding of any services or maintaining of any buildings within the limits of this city.

To Governor Wood. Honorable Josiah Wood, Lieut.-Governor of New Brunswick—

Whereas the Mormon church doctrines teach that the prophet of the church is supreme in the temporal as well as the spiritual affairs of men; and whereas under such teachings and its practices, the Mormon church is seeking to become fixed in the Province of New Brunswick and to exercise authority in civil affairs;

Now, therefore, we the citizens of New Brunswick, in mass meeting assembled, do respectfully petition Your Excellency not to appoint to any office any person who gives his highest political allegiance to the Mormon church.

And that you use the influence of your high office in refusing any quarters to the Mormon church within the Province of New Brunswick.

On Thursday evening, Dr. David Hutchinson delivered an address warning the people against the tracts being left about the city by the Mormons and condemning the doctrines of that faith.

Last evening Dr. Burroughs spoke at length on Mormonism, saying that its doctrines were dangerous. He quoted from the Christian Worker and Evangelist of New York statements to the effect that the Mormon church controlled a million votes, was powerful in the political councils of eleven states and only had to win two more to secure power enough to amend the clause of the United States constitution prohibiting polygamy. He also quoted statements made at Carnegie Hall that the Mormons violated the law and practiced polygamy on a considerable scale.

It All Started From a Bad Cold Watford Man Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Robt. Taylor, Sr., After Suffering for Two Years, Tells of the Benefits He Got from Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Waterford, Ont., June 5th.—(Special)—Mr. Robert Taylor, Sr., a very estimable man living here, is telling his friends that the pain in his back from which he suffered for some time, has disappeared, and that he gives all the credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started with a cold," Mr. Taylor states, "and though I was treated by a doctor I got no permanent relief. I had cramps in my joints, and in my joints, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I perspired freely with the least exertion. I had attacks of rheumatism and sciatica, and though I tried many medicines I found no relief till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. I must say they were a great benefit to me."

Mr. Taylor's troubles came from his kidneys. The diseased kidneys failed to strain the uric acid out of the blood and the results were as he has stated. Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in working order, the uric acid was strained out of the blood, and the troubles went with it.

RING SHAPED MONOPLANE OF LANGLEY TYPE FLIES WITH SUCCESS

THE CEDRIC LEE MONOPLANE

The tandem aeroplane type, first produced by Samuel P. Langley, is rejected with some additions to give further stability in a new machine flown several times successfully at the Shoreham Aerodrome, in England. Pictures of this craft shown herewith give the impression that an old hat brim detached from the crown is sailing through the air.

Builders of the Cedric-Lee monoplane, as it is known, have connected the front and rear planes of the tandem type with other surfaces running fore and aft. Experiments made two years ago in New York city by a member of the Aero Club of America with a small model of similar shape showed remarkable natural stability.

Entry has been made of the Cedric-Lee monoplane with the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain as a candidate for the next race for the Coupe Internationale d'Aviation. The span of the machine is about twenty feet, its length, including tail, slightly more.

EXCUSABLE HOMICIDE, THE JURY'S VERDICT

Failure of Brakes to Work Cause of Collision Between Trolley Car and Auto Which Resulted Fatally.

Montreal, June 4.—Taking into consideration the fact that the brakes of the street car which plunged down the steep grade on Atwater avenue at 6.30 o'clock last evening, leaving the tracks at St. Antoine street and crashing into an automobile causing the instant death of Mrs. Robillart and her eighteen-year-old daughter, Blanche, had suddenly gone out of order, and that at the moment of the fatal accident the car was on its way to the repair shop, the coroner's jury this morning rendered a verdict of excusable homicide.

APPRECIATE WORK OF REV. T. J. DEINSTADT

At the annual meeting of the St. John district of the Methodist church held in Sussex, during this week, Rev. T. J. Deinstadt was granted superannuation and the following resolution was passed by the meeting:

Rev. T. J. Deinstadt has completed fifty-one years in the regular work of the ministry and is asking a superannuation relation and whereas Brother Deinstadt has been permitted to exercise a long and exceedingly fruitful ministry in the province of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and has been privileged to lead many souls into the Kingdom of God and into membership with the Methodist church and has during those years been thoroughly evangelical in teaching and marked by an evangelistic relation and has been active in his efforts to hold evangelistic services; therefore resolved that this district meeting place on record its sense of the high esteem in which Brother Deinstadt's character and worth are held and pray that he may have a long and pleasant eventful life with his family and may continue to find pleasure working for the Master as opportunity may offer and his strength may permit.

THE COURTS. CHANCERY DIVISION.

The case of the St. John Real Estate Company Limited vs. J. Roderyck & Son came up yesterday morning before Mr. Justice White in the Chancery Division. The plaintiff claims a right of way over the defendant's property in Canterbury street extension by prescription by more than twenty years user. The contention of the plaintiff is that for twenty to thirty years the occupants of the property in Britain street, now in the possession of the plaintiff have by user acquired a right of way from Canterbury street extension to their yard over a strip of land seven or eight feet wide, purchased last summer by the defendants. Immediately after acquiring this strip of land the defendants, it is alleged, piled shingles up against the windows of the plaintiff's property shutting out light, and built a fence preventing access to the yard of the plaintiff's property. The defendant denied the plaintiff's right of way and also their title to the adjoining lands in their possession.

The case came up for trial yesterday morning but G. H. V. Belyea, in behalf of the defendants, on objection that one of the deeds served on him in proof of the plaintiff's title did not contain a copy of the certificate of the registrar of deeds attached to the original, and that the certificate of registration of a will in proof of the plaintiff's title was signed by the deputy registrar instead of the registrar. These objections having been raised the case was set over to come up for trial on July 28.—M. G. Teed, K. C., appeared with L. F. D. Tilley, K. C., for the plaintiff.

Large advertisement for Studebaker SIX 1914. Features an image of the car and text: 'Studebaker SIX $1975. How It Feels To Ride In This Car. Speed up this Studebaker SIX to 35 miles or more, and note the result. The engine is just as quiet as it was before. It does not labor and groan, and strain, to meet the added tax on its energies. It communicates neither vibration nor tremor to the rest of the chassis. The car does not tremble or shake. The increasing power simply swells into a greater volume, and goes silently to work. You are not conscious of the rate at which the car is going. The landscape merely slips by a little more swiftly. There is no strain on your nerves—just a restful relaxation of mind and body. Slow down—and the sensation is the same. Evenness, steadiness, smoothness and silence. A sense of clinging softly to the road. And still a sense of breathing it like a bird. A feeling of lightness, and yet a feeling of absolute security. It is the perfect balance of the motor that eliminates the vibration. It is the perfect balance of the entire car which gives you the sensation of stability without superfluous weight. Scientific engineering—close manufacture—perfect alignment—absolute balance. A demonstration means conversion—not merely to the "Six" principle, but to this Studebaker SIX. Send for the Studebaker Proof Book.' Sold by Empire Garage and Supply Co., St. John, The Launsbury Co., Moncton and Newcastle.

THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN

By HAROLD MAC GRATH.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters.
Kathlyn Hare, eluding her father, Col. Hare, in search of her mother, leaves her home in California to go to him in Allahabad, India. Umballah pretends to be the throne of that principality, has imprisoned the colonel, named by the king as his heir, because he fears the American may insist on his royal rights. Upon her arrival in Allahabad, she is informed by Umballah that her father, being dead, she is to be queen, and must marry him forthwith. Because of her refusal she is sentenced to undergo two ordeals with wild beasts.

John Bruce, an American and fellow passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allahabad, saves her life. The elephant which carries her from the scene of her trials becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party.

After a ride filled with peril she takes refuge in a ruined temple. The holy men and villagers, believing her to be an ancient priestess, rise from the tomb, allow her to remain as the guardian of the sacred fire. But Kathlyn's haven is also the abode of a lion, and she is forced to flee from it with the savage beast in pursuit. She escapes and finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allahabad to the public market. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmitive, throws her into the dungeon with her father.

Bruce and his friends effect the release of Kathlyn and the colonel. Umballah's attempt to recapture them is unsuccessful, and the fugitives are given shelter in the palace of Bala Khan. Supplied with camels and servants by that hospitable prince, they start on their journey to the coast. The party is overpowered and taken in custody by brigands. The leader, recognizing the colonel, dispatches Ramabai and Pundita to Allahabad for ransom for the white king, his daughter, and Bruce. Umballah journeys to the lair of the bandits. The chief delivers to him and he orders that Kathlyn and Bruce be killed. (Copyright: 1914: by Harold MacGrath.)

CHAPTER XIII.

IN THE JACKAL'S LAIR.

THE golden sands, the purple cliffs, the translucent blue of the heavens, and the group of picturesque rascals jabbering and gesticulating and pressing about their chief, made a picture, Kathlyn was never to forget.

"Patience, my little ones!" said the chief, showing his white, strong teeth in what was more of a snarl than a smile. "There is plenty of time."

Bruce leaned toward Kathlyn. "You've been in tighter places than this. If we can get free, leave the rest to me. So long as one can see and hear and move, there's hope."

"I'm recognizing a coward. Do what you can. I promise to obey you in all things."

Bruce bent as far as he could, and went desperately to work at the knot with his teeth. Success or failure did not really matter; simply, he did not propose to die without making a mighty struggle to avoid death. The first knot became looser, then another. Kathlyn stretched her hands cautiously.

"Now!" he whispered.

She twisted her hands two or three times and found them free.

"Mine now!" said Bruce. "Hurry!"

"God bless those ropes!" he murmured. "There'll be a fine row in a minute. Keep perfectly still, and when the moment comes follow me into the cave. They have left their guns in there."

"You see a brave and ready man, Mr. Bruce?"

"You called me John once."

"Well, then, John," a ghost of a smile flitting across her lips. Men were not generally sentimental in the face of death.

"There are nine of us!" screamed one of the brigands.

"And I claim one bag because without my help and brains you would have had nothing," ratted the chief. "Who warned you against the opium? Ha, hi!"

The first blow was struck. Instantly the chief drew his knife and lunged at the two nearest him.

"Treachery!"

"Ha! Pigs! Dogs! Come, I'll show you who is master!"

The remaining brigands closed in upon their leader and bore down upon his back.

"To the tiger with him!"

"Now!" cried Bruce.

He flung the rope from his hands, caught Kathlyn by the arm, and, running and stumbling, they gained the cave, either ignored or unobserved by the victorious brigands.

"Come. There may be some outlet to this cave. Here is another rifle. Let us cut for it! When thieves fall out you know the old saying. They ran back several yards and discovered a kind of chain leading diagonally upward.

"Thank God! We can get out of this after all. Are you strong enough for a stiff climb?"

"I've got to be—John!"

"Poor devils!" said Bruce. "Had they shown the least resistance those brigand chaps would have killed them off like rats."

"Take us back to Bala Khan in the morning, and we promise that no harm shall befall you. Now, find us a place to sleep."

Nevertheless, it was hard work to keep that promise. Bala Khan stormed and swore that death was too good for the warty hearts of his camel men.

these keepers refuse to cage the leopards without a formal order from the king or queen. Superstition forbids Umballah to make way with the brutes. The people, your people and mine, Lal Singh, believe that these leopards are sacred, and any who kills them commits sacrilege, and you know what that amounts to here. So there he dodders; too cowardly to fly in the face of superstition. He must torture and humiliate the colonel sahib and his daughter.

On the palace steps he harangued the people.

"Trust me, Kathlyn," he replied simply. He had but one life, but he determined then and there to make it equal or outlast the six lives which stood between him and liberty.

The brigands, having succeeded in their mutiny, beheld themselves of their prisoners, only to find that they had vanished. Familiar with the cave and its outlet they started eagerly in pursuit. They reasoned that if an old man was worth three bags of rupees, two young people naturally be worth twice as much. And besides, being tigers, they had tasted blood.

A shout caused Bruce to turn. Instantly he raised his rifle, and pulled the trigger. The result was merely a snarl. The gun had not been loaded. He snatched Kathlyn's rifle, but this, too, was useless. The brigands yelled exultantly and began to swirl up the ragged cliff. Bruce flung aside the gun and turned his attention to a boulder. Half way up the chasm had a width which was little broader than the shoulders of an ordinary man. He waited till he saw the wretches within a yard or so of this spot, then pushed this boulder. It roared and crashed and bounded, and before it reached the narrow pathway, Bruce had started a mate to it. There a third followed. This caused a terrific slide of rocks and boulders, and the brigands turned for their lives.

"That will be about all for the present," said Bruce, wiping his forehead. "Now if we can make that village we shall be all right. Bala Khan's men will not leave with the camels till they learn whether we are dead or alive. It will be a trick, Miss Kathlyn. Ten miles over sand is worse than fifty over turf. I don't think we'll see any more of those ruffians."

"Kathlyn," she said.

"Well—Kathlyn."

"Or, better still, at home they call me Kit."

They smiled at each other's eyes, and no words were needed. Thus quickly youth discards its burdens.

That he did not take her into his arms at once proved the caliber of the man. And Kathlyn respected him none the less for his control. She knew now, and she was certain that her eyes had told him as frankly as any words would have done; and she felt into his stride, strangely embarrassed and not a little frightened. The firm grasp of his hand as here and there he steadied her, sent a thrill of exquisite pleasure through her.

"Love! She laughed softly; and she stopped and eyed her in astonishment.

"What is it?"

"Nothing," she answered.

But she went on with the thought which had provoked her laughter. "Love! Danger all about, un- seen hidden; misery in the foreground, and perhaps death beyond; her father back in chains, to face she knew not what horrors, and yet she could pause by the wayside and think of love!"

"There was something," he insisted. "That wasn't happy laughter. What caused it?"

"Some day I will tell you—if I live."

"Live!" Then he laughed.

And she was not slow to recognize the Homeric quality of his laughter.

"Kit, I am going to get you and your father out of all this, if but for one thing."

"And what is that?" curious in her turn.

They should be crucified on the wall. Kathlyn's diplomacy alone averted the tragedy. Finally, with a good deal of reluctance, Bala Khan gave his word. So Bruce and Kathlyn planned to return to Allahabad, and it was the khan himself who devised the method. The two young people should stain their skins and don native dress. He would give them two camels outright, only they would be obliged to make the journey without servants.

"But if harm comes to you, and I hear of it, by the beard of the prophet, I'll throw into Allahabad such a swarm of stinging bees that all find shall hear of it. Now go, and may Allah watch over you, infidels though you be!"

Umballah sent a messenger on before, for he loved the theatrical, which is innate in all Orientals. He desired to enter the city to the shrilling of reeds and the booming of tom-toms; to impress upon this unruly populace that he, Dingsa Ram, was a man of his word, that when he set out to accomplish a thing it was as good as done. His arrival was greeted with cheers, but there was an undertone of grunts that was not pleasant to his keen ears. Deep in his heart he cursed, for by these sounds he knew that only the froth was his, the froth and scum of the town. The froth he had; so they would have it in preference to him; but he put his hand upon his hip, and he held Allah in the hollow of his hand, and this day he would prove it.

So he put a rope about the waist of Col. Hare and led him through the streets, as the ancient Romans had read about did to the vanquished. He himself recognized the absurdity of all these things, but he but put his hand upon his hip, and he held Allah in the hollow of his hand, and this day he would prove it.

He wandered if he would find any more of those anonymous notes relating to the lavable person of Ramabai. Woe to him who laid them out, could he but put his hand upon his hip, and he held Allah in the hollow of his hand, and this day he would prove it.

From the soldiers about came wild buzzards.

Ahmed and Lal Singh, packed away in the heart of the crowd, exchanged gloomy looks. Once the army was Umballah's they readily understood what would follow: Umballah would acclaim himself, and the troops would back him.

"We have a thousand guns and ten thousand rounds of ammunition," murmured Lal Singh.

"Perhaps we had best prevail upon Ramabai to strike at once. But wait. The colonel sahib understands. He knows that if he signs anything it will directly prove his death warrant. There is still an obstacle to Umballah's feet. Listen."

Sadly Umballah recounted his adventure in full. The daughter of the king and his friend, the American hunter, were dead. He, Umballah, had arrived too late.

The colonel, mad with rage, was about to give Umballah the lie publicly, when he saw a warning hand uplifted, and below that hand the face of Ahmed. Ahmed shook his head. The colonel's shoulders drooped. In that sign he read danger.

"They live," said Ahmed. "That is enough for the present. Let us begone to the house of Ramabai."

"The colonel sahib is safe for the time being."

"And will be so long as he refuses to open the treasury door to Umballah. There is a great deal to smile about, Lal Singh. Here is a treasury, guarded by seven leopards, sarge as savage can be, and only the two keepers ever dare approach them, and ted. Ah, those white people! They have heads and heads of steel. I know."

And Umballah has the heart of a flea bitten pariah dog. When the time comes he will grovel and squirm and whine."

"He will," agreed Ahmed. "His feet are even now itching for the treadmill."

The colonel was taken to one of the palace chambers, given a tub and fresh clothing. Outside in the corridors guards patrolled, and there were four who watched the window. He was a king, but well guarded. Well, they had crowned him, but never should Umballah, through any signature of his, put his hand into the royal treasury. Besides, this time he had seen pity and sympathy in the faces of many who had looked upon his entrance to the city. The one ray of comfort lay in the knowledge that faithful Ahmed lived.

He dared not think of Kathlyn. He forced his mind to dwell upon his surroundings, his own state of mind, death, only his future. For they doubtless led to Umballah. They would not kill Kathlyn so long as they believed she was worth a single rupee.

Umballah came in, followed by four troopers, who stationed themselves on each side of the door.

"Your majesty—"

"Wait!" thundered the colonel. Suddenly he turned to the troopers. "Am I your king?"

"Yes, majesty!" The four men saluted.

"Then I order you to arrest this man Dingsa Ram for treason against the person of your king!"

The troopers stared, dumfounded, first at the colonel, then at Umballah.

"I command it!"

Umballah laughed. The troopers did not stir.

"Ah," said the colonel. "That is all I desire to know. I am not a king. I am merely a prisoner. Therefore those papers which you bring to me cannot lawfully be signed by me." The colonel turned his back to Umballah, sought the latticed window, and peered forth.

"There are ways," blazed forth Umballah.

"Bah! You black fool!" replied the colonel, wheeling. "Have I not yet convinced you that all you can do is to kill me? Don't waste your time in torturing me. It will neither open my lips nor compel me to take a character brush in my hand. If my daughter is dead, so be it. At any rate, she is at present beyond your clutches. You overreached yourself. Had you brought her back it is quite possible I might have surrendered. But I am alone now."

"You refuse to tell where the filigree basket is hidden?"

"I do."

"You refuse to exercise your prerogative to open the doors of the treasury?"

"I do."

Umballah opened the door, motioning to the troopers to pass out. He framed the threshold and cautiously eyed this unbendable man. Presently he would bend, Umballah smiled.

"Col. Sahib, I am not yet at the end of my resources," and with this he went out, closing the door.

That smile troubled the colonel. What devilry was the scoundrel up to now? What could he possibly do?

Later, as he paced wearily to and fro, he saw something white slip under the door. He stooped and picked up a note, folded European fashion. His heart thrilled as he read the stilted script: "Ahmed and I shall watch over you. Be patient. This time I am pretending to be your enemy, and you must act accordingly. A messenger has arrived from Bala Khan. Your daughter and Bruce Sahib are alive, and more, on the way to Allahabad in native guise. Be of good cheer, Ramabai."

And Umballah, as he lifted his fruit dish at supper, espied another of those sinister warnings. "Beware!" This time he summoned his entire household and threatened death to each and all of them if they did not immediately disclose to him the person who had placed this note under the fruit dish. They cried and wept and wailed, but nothing could be got out of them. He had several fogged on general principles.

Kathlyn and Bruce returned to Allahabad without mishap. Neither animal nor vagabond molested them. When they arrived they immediately found means to acquaint Ramabai, who with Pundita set out to meet them.

In their picturesque disguise Kathlyn and Bruce made a handsome pair of high caste natives. The blue eyes alone might have caused remark, but this was a negligible danger, since color and costume detracted. Kathlyn's hair, however, was securely hidden, and must be kept so. A bit of carelessness on her part, a sportive wind, and she would be lost. She had been for dyeing her hair, but Bruce would not hear of this desecration.

So they entered the lion's den, or, rather, the jackal's.

At Ramabai's house Ahmed fell on his knees in thankfulness; not that his memsahib was in Allahabad, but that she was alive.

During the evening meal Ramabai outlined his plot to circumvent Umballah. He had heard from one of his faithful followers that Umballah intended to force the colonel into a native marriage; later, the colonel would be killed and the queen himself. Suttie had fallen in disuse in Allahabad. Ramabai would now apparently side with Umballah as against Col. Hare, who would understand perfectly. As the colonel would refuse to marry, he, Ramabai, would suggest that the colonel be married by proxy. However suspicious Umballah might be, he would not be able to find fault with this plan. The betrothal would take place in a fortnight. The memsahib would be chosen as consort out of all the assembled high caste ladies of the state. Ahmed threw up his hands in horror, but Lal Singh bade him be patient. What did the memsahib say to his? The memsahib answered that she had herself unreservedly in Ramabai's hands; that Umballah was a madman and must be treated as one.

"Ramabai, why not strike now?" suggested Ahmed.

"The promise Umballah has made to the soldiers has reunited them temporarily. Have patience, Ahmed." Lal Singh selected a leaf betel nut and began to chew with satisfaction.

"Patience?" said Ahmed. "Have I none?"

So the call went forth for a bride throughout the principally, and was answered from four points of the compass.

Between the announcement and the fulfillment of these remarkable proceedings there arrived in the blazing city of Calcutta a young maid. Her face was very stern for one so youthful, and it was as fearless as it was stern. Umballah's last card, had she but known the treachery which had lured her to this mystic shore. The young maid was Winnie, come, as she supposed, at the urgent call of her father and sister, and particularly warned to confide in no one and to hide with the utmost secrecy her destination.

BRITISH POLO PLAYERS AND PARTY PHOTOGRAPHED UPON ARRIVAL IN AMERICA

Herewith are shown the English challengers who arrived in America to make another try to bring back the International Polo Cup to Great Britain.

As far as physical appearance was concerned, all of them, with the possible exception of John Traill, the Argentine player, looked in the full bloom of health. Mr. Traill, who had two operations performed on him not so long before being chosen as a player on the British team, was a bit pale and drawn looking. The team appeared somewhat lighter in weight than the combination which came last year to meet with defeat.

In the party were Major and Mrs. F. W. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. John Traill, Lord Wimborne, the backer of the team, and Lady Wimborne. Captain H. A.

LORD WIMBORNE DUKE OF PENARANDA

Tomkinson, Captain Leslie St. George Cheape, Captain Vivian N. Lockett and the Duke of Penaranda, a Spanish polo player of note.

Captain Lockett and Captain Cheape were on the team that played last year for England. The latter was really one of the finest players seen on the field, not even excepting the great Devereux Milburn. Captain Cheape showed his prowess by scoring six of the eight goals that the Britons made in the two games that decided where the cup should go. Captain Lockett was the back for England and played a fairly strong game. He has not been in particularly good health and may not get into the match at all. Mr. Traill, an Irishman and the only civilian among the players, has made a great reputation with the Argentine team in Great Britain and is highly spoken of by English critics.

SIR THOMAS GIVES HIS OPINION

London, June 5.—In response to an invitation for his opinion of the Shamrock IV, on her showing in Thursday's sail stretching trip, Sir Thomas Lip-ton said tonight:

"The Shamrock IV, came up to my fullest expectations during her trial yesterday. She will do still better, and I have every confidence in her ultimate success. The four leaves will do the trick."

THIS DATE IN RING ANNALS

1905—Tommy Burns and Hugo Kelly fought 10-round draw at Detroit. The following month Burns and Kelly met again in Los Angeles, and scrapped 20 fast rounds, the battle again ending in a draw. Later that year the Canadian was defeated by Jack (Twin) Sullivan, who had been defeated by Kelly. Within a year of his two bouts with Kelly Burns was the heavyweight champion of the world, while Kelly, despite the many victories he achieved, was never able to win a title, although he fought long and hard for the middleweight championship. Kelly, which was not his real name—was a Chicago Italian, and he had been instructed in the glove game by the great Tommy Ryan. He was a clever boxer and had a wallop that was "something fierce." Although at one time Ryan proclaimed his protegee to be the middleweight champion, Kelly never really held that title. It is a curious fact that Kelly and Jack (Twin) Sullivan, two of the best modern middleweights, did not reach the championship goal, although there were periods in the careers of both men when they were easily the best of their class.

1913—Joe Burrolf defeated George Ashe in 10 rounds at Allentown.

1913—Soldier Kearns defeated George 'One Round' Davis in 10 rounds at Buffalo.

SPORTOGRAPHY "GRAVY"

Bob Moha, "Pudgy Polish Prince", is 25 today.

Bob Moha, the "pudgy Polish prince" and "Milwaukee's blonde beauty" was born in Milwaukee just a quarter of a century ago. Bobby started his pugilistic career about ten years ago as a featherweight, and has been by turns lightweight, welterweight and middleweight. When he is right, Moha is now one of the best of the light heavyweights, and has a good claim to the commissionweight title. His defeat of Battling Levinsky, the famous Philadelphia Hebrew, a couple of months ago, placed him among the top-notchers of the newest boxing class.

Moha was born in Milwaukee on June 6, 1889, and as a featherweight cleaned up a number of local lads. Moha, who has passed through three divisions since then, is still a featherweight in height, standing only five feet four in his mude tooties. Fighting at 175 pounds, he looks about as broad as he is long. Bob has been able to work down to 163 pounds, but that is his limit, and the middleweight division is closed to him. In action Moha resembles in appearance a young freight car, but he has developed a fair amount of speed and cleverness for all his awkward build, and the shifty and brilliant Levinsky found him more than he could handle in their bout in Moha's home town last March. Bob has been called "the wild man," and in some of his bouts he has lived up to the description, but in others he has seemed tame and domesticated.

Moha did most of his scrapping in Milwaukee until 1910, when he went to Buffalo and knocked out Hillard Lang, the Canadian boxer, in the first round. The following year, in Boston, Moha was matched with Billy Papke and won a decisive victory over the Illinois Thunderbolt. Bob looked like a coming middleweight champion, but after that he went out of training for a time, and accumulated so much meat that he has never been able to get back to the middleweight class.

Last year Moha fought a draw with Eddie McGoorty, defeated Cyclone Johnny Thompson, and achieved other victories, but made a poor showing against Jack Dillon, the Hoosier middleweight. He started out this year by knocking out Freddie Hicks of Detroit in Brooklyn, whipping Jack Driscoll in the same city, and outpointing Levinsky in Milwaukee.

RITCHIE-WELSH BOUT POSTPONED

Chicago, June 5.—The date for the Willie Ritchie-Freddie Welsh bout for the lightweight championship in London has been postponed from June 30 to July 4. It was announced here today by Ritchie's manager. All hitches which threatened to interfere with the bout have been straightened, according to the manager. Guarantees of the London promoters have been postponed in New York, and the Ritchie party has arranged to leave Chicago Wednesday for New York, thence to sail to England.

Legions More Adopt Goodyear Tires

This Year's Increase So Far—55 Per Cent

Please mark this fact:
After men have tried millions of No-Rim-Cut tires, this year's sales jump 55 per cent.

After going by leaps from bottom place to the top, this tire in one year wins 55 per cent more users. And wins them, mark you, by the mileage test; for most users today meter mileage.

—lessens loose tread danger by 60 per cent.

It is because of our All-Weather tread—a double-thick, resistless anti-skid, which runs on dry roads like a smooth tread.

No other tire offers one of these features. And the verdict of users tells you what they mean.

Half Former Prices

No-Rim-Cut tire prices are about one-half what they were in 1909. Part of the saving comes in lower-cost rubber, but a very large part is due to quantity output.

There are 18 Canadian and U. S. makes of tires today which sell at higher prices—up to one-half higher. The cost of three of some of them will buy you four of Goodyears.

Yet we give you in all ways the utmost in a tire. And in four ways we give you more than any other maker offers.

If you consider these facts—with the verdict of users—you can't doubt what tire to buy.

No-Rim-Cut Tires
With All-Weather Treads or Smooth

The Highest Court

This verdict comes from the highest court. There is no appeal from users. They bought last year more Goodyear tires than of any other tire in the world. On top of that, they this year buy one-half as many more.

That's because we ended rim-cutting in the only feasible way.

It is because we saved men countless blow-outs with our "On-Air" cure. And no other maker does that.

It is because one method—used by us alone

OPPORTUNITIES IN POULTRY RAISING IN N. B.

Introduction.

The rapid growth of our cities and towns during the last few decades, and the expansion of rural population, has resulted in an increase price of agricultural products, congested city conditions, and in general has aided materially in bringing about the high cost of living. As some would naturally expect, these conditions have turned the attention of all classes of city people toward the farm, so that "back to the soil" is heard in the city at present nearly as often as "young man, go west" was a number of years ago. The former expression sounds very alluring to the city dweller who reads of the opportunities in various lines of agriculture; who abandoned farms can easily and readily be restored to their former state of production; what would hinder crops they will produce when handled by the "right man," and other similar inducements.

The advantages of the rural life over those of the city also entice. Life on the farm now is not what it was a few years ago. The farm house with all modern conveniences, pure air, healthful work and a more or less independent life draw many from the city and we hope they will continue to do so, but we would like to say to the inexperienced, that any one of the various lines of specialized agriculture today is much more of a business proposition than general farming under less intensive conditions and anyone who embarks in any branch of it with the hope of success, should be well versed in the rudiments at least. The fact alone that agricultural colleges and experiment stations have been established in practically all the provinces of Canada, to train men and women for agricultural pursuits and to help farmers solve their problem is evidence that those who contemplate engaging in any line of farming should be well informed on the subject. The following pages give but a mere outline of the opportunities in poultry raising in this province, with emphasis laid upon the necessity of preparation for the industry.

Markets.

There is no province in Canada that presents greater opportunities in poultry culture, than New Brunswick, nor is there a province in a more unique geographical position in regard to markets, including local, interprovincial and export. On account of the large tourist travel in summer, large hotels are being erected in all favorite watering places in the province, and from these hotels, order for large quantities of fresh eggs, broilers, roasters and fowl are received by the few enterprising poultrymen who are in a position to fill these orders. There is room for many such poultrymen in this province. The interprovincial trade, we are in a position to ship and do ship large quantities to Sydney, Halifax and Digby, while we are only four hours from Montreal (Canada's greatest market), where the demand for all poultry products is unlimited. Furthermore, we are situated at the very gate of the export market with no long freight or express haul; we are right at the winter port. And, again, we can supply the large passenger and mail steamships that ply between Canada's waterports and Great Britain.

As to present conditions it may be of interest to state that New Brunswick is not supplying enough eggs for home consumption, and that large quantities are brought in from Prince Edward Island to meet that demand. It is estimated the hen population of New Brunswick does not exceed 1,000,000. In other words not three hens per capita of our population, and this is about on a par with the rest of Canada, with the lone exception of Prince Edward Island which ships large quantities of eggs to St. John and Montreal.

Is it any wonder under the above conditions that Canada last year imported 12,000,000 dozen eggs from the United States alone, besides thousands of dozens from far-off China? The fault of this condition is with our farmers. While they enjoy ideal locations and opportunities to keep poultry, they as a rule do not give systematic attention to the production of poultry and its products on the farm. Even with this apparent neglect, poultry and its products in New Brunswick last year amounted to more than $2,500,000 which exceeds the amount of any other branch of live stock raised in the province, on account of the great disparity between the production and consumption of poultry and eggs in Canada. It is evident from this, that there is not much danger of our markets being flooded, for consumption seems to be keeping on production every year.

Another advantage poultrymen in this province have, is that all their products are taken right at home, whereas poultrymen in sections of the country, where there is an over production, are obliged to ship their eggs long distances or seek what might be termed a foreign market. In other words, the poultry producers of this section are nearer the consumer than those of many provinces in Canada.

Climate.

The climate in this province is very favorable to poultry culture indeed. We do not have the extremely cold spells in winter nor the prolonged hot ones in summer, found in the more southern and western portions of our country. At first thought, one might suppose that a section of the country having warm winters, or in other words, perpetual summer, is better suited for poultry than ours, but in practice it is found that under such conditions more work is required to keep down such pests as lice and mites, and disease, than to care for the poultry. Another point that should not be overlooked is the fact that extreme heat is just as detrimental to egg production, as extreme cold. The very hot days and the oppressively hot nights that are experienced in most parts of the United States and Western Canada, first the chickens grow and even cause large losses.

Nearly every section of New Brunswick that poultry is raised in to any extent, is remarkably free from heavy fogs that cause so much damage and ill weather. We have just about the right proportion of sunshine and rain to insure a healthy crop.

These conditions are just ideal chicken weather. Again, on account of the mild climate, the early hatching and rearing of chicks is encouraged. This insures high prices for products throughout the season; early broilers, early roasters and early pullets for fall layers, when eggs are extremely high in price.

Soil.

No section of the country can boast of better soil for poultry than ours. In most parts of the province we have a light sandy or gravelly loam. There is no danger, therefore, of its becoming contaminated with droppings, as the heavy rains wash it out. On some farms in New Brunswick, poultry have been kept on the same land for a great many years with no serious results. Of course, I refer, now, to poultry farms and not general farms where only a few fowls are kept, but where the extensive system rather than the intensive is used. Again, much of the soil here is adapted to the growth of corn, mangels, beets and all kinds of green crops for poultry. Its heavy sandy gives a quick growth which means tender, palatable green food throughout the growing season. Sandy, well drained soil also insures dry houses, other things being equal.

Low Price of Land.

We are sure very few people living in England and elsewhere in Canada realize the difference in the cost of land here and in the Middle West and Western Canada. Very little land can be bought there for less than $100 per acre and most of it sells for a great deal more, if at all favorably situated. In the city markets it can be had for $5 to $25 per acre. Much of this land is well situated and has the desired advantage of having good farm buildings already erected. This cheap land is accessible to good markets and good community advantages, while all cheap land in the west has not these advantages. Again, the land that is available at such a low price is ready to till and grow crops to feed the poultry. Furthermore, by careful selection and placing poultry buildings on an automatic, low price land is obtained, for the country abounds in springs and good water supply.

Capital.

Very little capital is necessary for one engaging in the poultry business as compared with some other branches of farming. Even a few dollars is sufficient to equip a backyard poultry pen. $500 or $1000 in addition to the land will furnish a equipment for a one man poultry project. The great mistake that most people make is that they put so much of their capital in the land and equipment, that very little is left for emergencies.

Furthermore, poultry keeping furnishes quick returns. This is a great advantage, especially to those who have little capital. If one starts with eggs, broilers are ready for market in 5 to 8 months. This chance to turn one's capital over several times in the year results in a decided financial gain.

Feed.

The fact that all the feed required for poultry cannot be produced in New Brunswick, makes many people think that poultry keeping cannot be made very profitable. We do not believe this should give cause for alarm. We can grow every kind of grain that is required for poultry except commercial corn, and that commodity can be bought as cheap in New Brunswick as in any other province of Canada. As to the production of all sorts of green food and vegetables this province takes no second place. When we compare the prices of grain here, and grain retailed in the grain sections of the Western States and Western Canada, the extra cost of grain ranges only from ten per cent. to twenty per cent. Then when we consider the prices of eggs and live chickens, we have a great advantage over the farmers of the Middle and Western States. As to poultry keeping out on the Canadian prairies only a very limited number of farmers keep poultry at all on account of the housing problems and the cold winters.

Poultry and Eggs as Delicacies.

Poultry and eggs are rich protein foods and yet are considered a delicacy by most people. On account of the ease with which they are digested, they should form an important part of our regular diet rather than be reserved for the sick and the wealthy and for special occasions only.

The Egg Eating Habit.

The extent to which the egg eating habit has increased during the last few years is very noticeable. A careful canvass will show that many families are now having eggs for their breakfast, who, a few years ago, either did not care for them or felt they could not afford them. This is not only true of the private family, but egg sandwiches and egg drinks are now very popular at restaurants and soda fountains. A man remarked in my hearing not long ago, that there is not a drug store in the country, that does not keep a large dish of fine fresh eggs on the counter and that such was not the case a few years ago. No doubt the high price of meat and our habits of living in recent years have done much to bring this about. The people of Canada have learned the true value of eggs as a food and many of them have commented, in talking with me, on the fact that some people will quite willingly pay 5 cents apiece for oranges and apples or buy plums at the rate of 2 or 3 for a nickel and at the same time make a tremendous kick and talk about combs or trusts who sell good wholesome eggs sell at 4 or 5 cents each. This same egg eating habit has taken possession of Europeans also. About 3 years ago a commission was appointed in England to investigate the high price of eggs. In their report it was stated that one of the most important causes for the scarcity and high price of eggs was the development of the egg eating habit among the peasants of western Europe, especially in southern Russia and certain parts of Germany and Austria. All these facts are evidence of the increasing demand for poultry and eggs and that the opportunities in poultry culture will not be confined to the next few years, but will continue for many years to come.

Poultry Breeding.

Poultry breeding is the most interesting and requires the most knowledge and skill in all poultry culture work. Yet it is the first that most amateurs take up. There are two classes of breeders now, the exhibition breeders and what I like to term the utility breeders. The former breed exhibition stock almost exclusively. He has an eye for the beauty, symmetry and color of fowls, and he furnishes breeders and eggs to others in his class and also foundation stock for most of the utility breeders. Many of these do well as they usually begin in a small way and learn the business by hard knocks. It is, of course, a side line with them, and as soon as they think they can succeed with poultry alone, they drop their other employment.

The utility breeder is of more recent origin. He is the result of the great demand for lower priced hatchling eggs and stock. There are many of these, outside the breeding season, who are not interested in the special corner grocery stores in the city, that cater to the best fresh egg trade. Some of these utility breeders look up steady customers, such as hotels, restaurants and private family trade. They thus eliminate the middle man and get better prices for their eggs and stock. If one starts with a few fowls, and has had six fattening stations in New Brunswick and bought live chickens from the farmers at good prices, crate-fattened them and treated them by the most approved methods and placed them in cold storage until a carload accumulated. They were then shipped to Montreal and sold at record prices. The object of these stations is to teach our farmers how to fatten and dress chickens in order to obtain the best prices. In the past, thousands of chickens have been marketed during September, October and November, not because they were in a market condition, but because of congested quarters, and the owner felt he was losing money if he kept them any longer. So they were sent to market, thin and badly dressed, the local market became congested, prices went way down and many chickens were simply wasted.

I can see no reason why private poultrymen should not buy and fatten and make good money by putting these chickens on the market in first-class condition. The demand is unlimited for well fattened chickens. The Department has issued a Leaflet on "Fattening and Marketing of Poultry" that treats very fully the method of preparing poultry for market.

The Back Yard Poultry Keeper.

The foregoing is for the man that specializes in poultry on the farm. Now just a word to the man in the city, town or village that in self defense in order to supply his table with a few laid eggs that he cannot obtain with any degree of certainty as to quality or quantity resorts to keeping a few hens in his backyard. From this humble beginning, many of our best poultrymen began their career. I believe the backyard poultryman makes the greatest profit of all, because of the advantage of having a part of the food for his poultry furnished in the form of table scraps that would otherwise be wasted. Neighbors also contribute to their raising in order to supply his table with a few laid eggs that he cannot obtain with any degree of certainty as to quality or quantity resorts to keeping a few hens in his backyard. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be Restored to Health.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The doctors told me I would never be a mother. Every month the pains were so bad that I could not bear my weight on one foot. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had not finished the first bottle when I felt greatly relieved and took it until it made me sound and well, and I now have two fine baby girls. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I always speak a word in favor of your medicine to other women who suffer when I have an opportunity."—Mrs. H. T. Winn, 1225 Fremont Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Read What Another Woman Says: Cumming, Ga.—"I tell some suffering woman every day of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for me. I could not eat or sleep, had a bad stomach and was in misery all the time. I could not do my housework or walk any distance without suffering great pain. I tried doctors' medicines and different patent medicines but failed to get relief. My husband brought home your Vegetable Compound and in two weeks I could eat anything, could sleep like a healthy baby, and walk a long distance without feeling tired. I can highly recommend your Vegetable Compound to women who suffer as I did, and you are at liberty to use this letter."—Mrs. CHARLES BACLEY, R. 3, Cumming, Ga.

THE Women's department of the Standard is conducted by Miss Hazel Winter of Fredericton, supervisor of the Women's Institutes of New Brunswick, and all matter for publication in this page must be submitted to Miss Winter for approval.

Interesting The Girls in The Institute.

If the readers of this page had the opportunity of observing the printed programmes and reports of the Women's Institutes, they would discover that one of two meetings a year are given up to the girls.

We are ever trying to interest the girls in the Institute, either by giving them an office, letting them take part in the programme or allowing them to prepare one or more programmes during the year, thus giving the girls a chance to surprise and allow them to sit back and enjoy themselves. I remember while attending the Short Course in Household Science, at Truro, one elderly lady remarked, "Isn't it a treat for the older women to sit back and watch the young girls fitting here and there, with rosy cheeks and their minds centred on what they are doing." And in the institute it is just such a treat for the older members to let the girls take full charge of the programme now and again.

We are endeavoring to impress upon the girls the fact that the greatest profession under the sun is house-keeping; providing comfort, providing an atmosphere which will make people better for having entered our homes. We want our Institute to make the young girls feel their responsibility as being homemakers, for unless their happiness is in the home, it is an empty shell.

Recently the Havelock Branch of the Women's Institute held a "Girls' Meeting." Articles were read on "Just Girls," "Advancement made by Modern Girls," and the following paper was written and read by Miss Bryn-

AS SEEN FROM THE GIRL'S STANDPOINT

How many of the girls of today ever stop for a moment to consider what a splendid period of the world's history we are living in; ever compare our lives with those of the maidens of the past century? If we do, without a moment's hesitation we can say, "Joy is it in this age to be alive, but to be young is very Paradise."

From we get our criticisms and some of our twentieth century aces have come forward with the pessimistic idea that our girls today are spoiled for business, for professional work, for athletics. In fact for everything but the dear old-fashioned art of house-keeping.

Well girls, do we deserve it? Perhaps that is too large a problem for us to deal with tonight, yet it is one that needs our careful consideration.

The girls of by-gone-days were taught it as the foundation stone of their education, and a mother, who had a usual mother's ambition for her daughter's future, would have serious twinges of conscience at the age of sixteen or seventeen without being able to "reign a queen in the kitchen." It went along with the girls' education, and the country of our was being transformed from a wilderness into a home. We are thankful that we have descended from such women and that amongst the busy whirl of life today there is still a great deal of that element left in us.

Our grandmothers lived in a day when rolling pins and pie plates had a greater hold on feminine youth than they have today, for the simple reason that in our modern days we have little time to specialize. Our girls who acquire an all around education today, are only at a fair beginning at the age when those maidens considered their complete.

But ours is a broader view of life than theirs. Even our training in the art of cooking is not confined to the narrow limits of our kitchen walls. We have our Institutes where cooking is taught from a scientific stand-

HOW TO MAKE HOME ATTRACTIVE

This paper was written by Mrs. C. W. Alexander of Hammond, and read by her at a meeting of the Havelockville and Hammondville Branch of the Women's Institute.

There is such a thing as throwing round a home so many beautiful things, that it does not mean beautiful in the eye, but beautiful in thought and association to hold the heart, that children will cling to it, and we ourselves will not be able to tempt them away from it.

The complaint is often made by

SOME HINTS FOR SUMMER WEATHER.

The hot days are dreaded by many women, who have to stand a great deal of their feet. In fact the majority of women today are spoiled for the summer weather with their feet, and have to wear old boots if they want to enjoy any comfort at all.

The following paper, written by Miss Stella McLean, a member of the Havelockville Branch of the Women's Institute, we hope will help the readers of this page if they have tender, sensitive feet.

ILLS OF THE FEET, HELPS FOR THEM

In speaking on this important subject, I feel sorry of my inability to give it more thoroughly, but I will give you a few general facts and hints which I have been able to glean.

First, the general principals of the foot are the foot, the foot, the foot, clearly in mind. With this in view I have drawn two outlines of the foot, the perfect and the imperfect foot.

Have you ever stopped to think what a great influence our feet have on our bodily and mental activity? How responsible are they to the gaining of a livelihood and the enjoyment of pleasure? Nevertheless, they are the parts of the body which receive the least consideration.

To have our feet look attractive, and be in style seems to be the only thought we give to them, consequently we put on boots and shoes that destroy their normal shape.

The front consists of twenty-six bones and carries the weight of the body, therefore should have as much care as your hands, even more.

Did you ever stop to think how much we abuse our feet; how much we use them and how little care we give them in return? Do you ever stop to think that they are encased in air-tight, disfiguring shoes or boots sixteen or eighteen hours out of every twenty-four? Is it a wonder then that many of us suffer with our feet?

PROMOTE HAIR GROWTH

And Cuticura Ointment. They do much for irritated, itching scalps, dandruff and dry, thin and falling hair, and do it speedily, agreeably and economically.

Care of the Feet.

For tender, sensitive feet a daily rub with cologne water or camphorated oil is beneficial. A good bath for tender feet is composed of: Five quarts of hot water; 200 grams of boracic acid; five grams of tannin.

Let the feet soak in this bath for ten minutes. Dry them thoroughly and then rub with cologne water.

For feet inclined to swell during long standing, hot sea-baths are beneficial. Good results are also obtained by dissolving the following ingredients in the foot-tub: One quarter ounce of alum; two ounces of Rock Salt; one half ounce borax.

Powder for Excessive Perspiration.

One drachm of oleate of zinc; powdered one ounce powdered starch; one third drachm, salicylic acid.

Dust this frequently over the affected parts. Tea of white oak bark applied freely to the parts may be used.

Odorous Perspiration of the Feet.

With a pen filler fill all six drops of undiluted forty-per-cent formalin well up into the toes of the shoes. Here it evaporates and subjects the feet to the action of very weak formalin gas for several days. The effects of which last a fortnight. More or less of the solution may be used later, as conditions indicate. Bathing the feet with formalin, even when strongly diluted, is not always safe.

THE DAILY HINT FROM PARIS

Let the table be the happy meeting place of a merry group and not a dull board where a silent, if not sullen, company of animals come to feed; let the meal be the time when you will settle themselves to books and games 'till the sound of good-night kisses is in order.

Let their be some music in the household; music not kept like silk and satins to show company, but music in which father and mother, sister and brother can join in.

Let young companions be welcomed and made for the time a part of the group, so that daughters shall not be necessary to seek the obscurity of back parlors with intimate friends, or to drive father and mother to distant no-man's-land.

Let the home be surrounded by an air of cosy and cheerful good-will; then children will not be able to tempt them away from it.

OPPORTUNITIES IN POULTRY RAISING

2. Ignorance of the business principles and methods underlying large poultry raising. Man is the controlling factor in the poultry business. All men are not fitted for poultry work. The cause of the failures there are in poultry work is they are misfits. They belong to that great army of men and women in all walks of life, that are simply misfits in what they are trying to do, having no love or adaptability for that particular calling.

Bunions.

A bunion is caused by the great toe being crowded toward the outside of the foot. This causes inflammation and a bunion forms. Shoes too narrow or too short will also cause bunions. Once started it grows with great rapidity. It should be rubbed with good oil and a pad ought to be worn.

How to Rest the Feet.

A great rest to the feet is to change the shoes and stockings often, not wearing the same shoes and stockings in the afternoon that were worn in the morning.

Rubbing is very refreshing to tired feet, while a bath in cologne will tone them up wonderfully.

The following prescriptions were sent me by a physician as good home remedies:

Cure for Broken Arch.

To cure this, the strain and pressure is taken off the weak arch, the muscles and the weight of the body, evenly distributed. To do this, get a rubber or cork insole adapted to your case. I was talking to a lady friend who uses these arches and she said, "they cause no discomfort or pain, and are liable to wear out. I have been a great sufferer with her feet and found no relief until she used the arch."

More to Come

When any part of the foot has been exposed to severe cold for a considerable length of time and then brought back to the heat, an itching and burning sensation follows, which we call chilblains. A very satisfactory mode of treatment is the application of cold water or snow. This must be done on first detection of the trouble, or it will not cure.

I am told that a solution called foot-dok, a small tablet dropped into the foot-bath of warm water in which the patches disappear, will draw out the pain and by using this, wearing soft stockings with white feet and rosy shoes, this trouble will soon disappear.

Some Hints For Summer Weather.

The hot days are dreaded by many women, who have to stand a great deal of their feet. In fact the majority of women today are spoiled for the summer weather with their feet, and have to wear old boots if they want to enjoy any comfort at all.

The following paper, written by Miss Stella McLean, a member of the Havelockville Branch of the Women's Institute, we hope will help the readers of this page if they have tender, sensitive feet.

ILLS OF THE FEET, HELPS FOR THEM

In speaking on this important subject, I feel sorry of my inability to give it more thoroughly, but I will give you a few general facts and hints which I have been able to glean.

First, the general principals of the foot are the foot, the foot, the foot, clearly in mind. With this in view I have drawn two outlines of the foot, the perfect and the imperfect foot.

Have you ever stopped to think what a great influence our feet have on our bodily and mental activity? How responsible are they to the gaining of a livelihood and the enjoyment of pleasure? Nevertheless, they are the parts of the body which receive the least consideration.

To have our feet look attractive, and be in style seems to be the only thought we give to them, consequently we put on boots and shoes that destroy their normal shape.

The front consists of twenty-six bones and carries the weight of the body, therefore should have as much care as your hands, even more.

Did you ever stop to think how much we abuse our feet; how much we use them and how little care we give them in return? Do you ever stop to think that they are encased in air-tight, disfiguring shoes or boots sixteen or eighteen hours out of every twenty-four? Is it a wonder then that many of us suffer with our feet?

Five pairs of 1914 Silver Black Foxes, selected from the highest grade of class A Stock. Particular care was taken by the promoters in securing foxes having prolific parents, some of which were among the season's earliest litters.

This Company guarantees that in the event of more foxes being added they will be from Island foxes of class A. The number already secured are of the Raynor, Tuplin and Oulton strains.

RANCHING. The Directors have entered into a contract with the Maritime Silver Black Fox Co. of Central Bedeque to ranch their foxes for a term of five years at the low cost of seven and one half per cent. of the yearly increase. This includes all incidental expenses. Considering the low capitalization and the moderate charge for ranching, the directors look forward to a dividend in 1915 of at least from 40 to 50 per cent.

Business On the Island Has Every Indication of Permanency

Production of Foxes this year, in spite of occasional losses, is larger than before.

PRICES ARE HOLDING FIRM

Not many options now changing hands—Government is tabulating information from all ranches.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 4.—The announcement a few weeks ago of the loss of twelve litters of pups in the Dalton ranch naturally caused some excitement in this province which the fox industry is making famous. The news, however, gave, but a temporary setback to the business. Although the loss was heavy, the fact that the capital was unimpaired and that the company have saved sufficient litters to declare a dividend of about ten per cent. has had a reassuring effect. It must also be remembered that last year this company paid a dividend of 40 per cent., and it may be taken for granted that the shareholders will get at least half their money back in two years—not a bad showing. On the other hand, a certain ranch near Charlottetown, which did not have a single litter last year, has had exceptional luck, almost every pair producing young, this season. Last year the increase averaged about two and one quarter foxes per pair. This year the average will be as good as last year, if not a little better. The record has also been broken for the number of individuals in a litter. Heretofore seven was the maximum, and this year the Peerless Ranch, which had profits equal to a 900 per cent. divi-dered, this time have the good luck to bring forth in one litter eight pups. A prominent fox man, interviewed the other day, states that there are not many options changing hands at the present time. The tendency for investors is to wait until they ascertain how many pups can be delivered. This will be known in a week or two, when it is expected that all the little animals will be out of the breeding houses into the pens. The ruling prices for the best stock is $12,000 a pair. The danger that ranchers had to contend with this season owing to ice in the pens is now practically over. This year there was an unusual quantity of snow in the ranches and this was beaten hard by the foxes running over it. The bushes in a number of ranches shaded the snow and kept it from melting until the recent warm weather set in. The ice water running in the pens constituted a source of danger to the young foxes who thrive better when the pens are dry. However, very few, if any losses are reported from this cause. In view of the reported death of the young in certain localities, the government has arranged for the issue of a circular setting forth authentic-

OTHER FUR BEARING ANIMALS

Lots of money is coming in from the United States—Protecting Investors in the West.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 4.—The Fur Producers, Limited, capitalized at $2,000,000, is the largest company of the kind in the business. They report that excellent progress has been made in the sale of stock. They have three men, including Mr. A. R. Hauffmann, one of their directors, working in England. Another group are organizing through Ontario, and a branch office will be opened in Toronto. Organization is also being undertaken in Manitoba. In this province the Public Utilities Commission insists upon certain conditions being observed, and the Fur Producers Company is prepared to conform to the regulations, such as registration, stating by affidavit the standing of the company, and giving all the particulars which

The Commission considers are necessary in order to safeguard the investing public. Another representative of the company is going to Edmonton to organize a branch office for the selling of Black Fox Company's stock. There are also four men working in the New England States organizing branch offices and appointing local representatives. The reports of these organizers are very optimistic. They declare that the American people are beginning to realize the possibilities of the industry and are showing their faith in it in the most practical way, that is by investing cash. Similar reports come from other land one of the agents stating that

P. E. I. PEOPLE NOW BUYING AUTOMOBILES

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 4.—One sign of the prosperity attending the fox business here, is shown by the fact that four members of one of the exchanges have each purchased an automobile. In various parts of the island expensive mansions are being erected by men who have rapidly acquired a fortune in the business. Mr. J. H. Dennis of this city is about starting to build a residence which will be one of the best of its kind in the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Dennis is at present touring New Brunswick in his automobile, and was one of the visitors at the closing of Mount Allison University, an institution to which he has given handsome donations. financially interested in it.

MANITOBA TO LOOK OUT FOR THE INVESTOR

Fox Stock may not be sold there until Public Utilities Commission is satisfied as to genuineness of propositions. Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 4.—Mr. Fred E. Morris, one of our prominent fox men, recently returned from Manitoba, where he had been in the interest of the industry. Asked about the fox business of Prince Edward Island in the minds of the Winnipeggers as well thought of, but several flotations which were attempted to be put on the market, out there have been turned down by the Public Utilities Commission. This is a very efficient protection for the people. Mr. Morris interviewed the Commissioner, Judge Robinson, and found him very sympathetic toward the fox business—that is to say, the genuine fox business emanating from Prince Edward Island; but he was opposed to flotations covering wild or western stock, and capitalized at unwarranted figures. Mr. Morris also had luncheon with Sir Douglas Cameron, Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba, who said that the fox business was a very profitable one, and he had given the business careful consideration and intended to become financially interested in it.
