GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY IN VIOLENT ATTACK ON LOOS

French Report New and Important Progress Near Village of Tahure and Foothold Gained in "La Trapeze", One of Enemy's Strongly Fortified Works — Fighting Confined to Local Attacks with No Attempt to Resume General Offensive.

ALLIES' SUBMARINES HAVE ENEMY'S SHIPPING IN THE BALTIC TIED UP

Paris, Oct. 8.—The gaining of a foothold in German positions, and the capture of several trenches and two block-houses in Champagne, is recorded for the French in the official communication made public tonight. The communication says:

"After an intense bombardment with shells of various calibre the Germans attempted today a very violent attack against Loos and its northern and southern approaches. This attack was completely repulsed and the attackers suffered heavy losses.

"In Champagne we have made new and perceptible progress to the southeast of Tahure. We have gained a foothold in the fortified work 'Le Trapeze', and carried several trenches and two blockhouses included in the salient still held by the enemy in front of his second line of defense.

"More than 200 prisoners, a bomb-thrower and some machine guns were captured by us.

"Artillery actions have taken place on both sides in the Western Argonne, in the wood of Le Preire, in the Vosges at Braunkopf, and on the approaches to Sonderbach."

Paris, Oct. 8.—The Belgian official communication issued today says:

"The night and the day were quiet. Our front to the south of the Ferryman's House was submitted to a rather violent shelling by means of bombs."

No Attempt Yet To Resume Offensive.

London, Oct. 8.—A renewed offensive by the Allies on the western front has not materialized, the recent French attacks in Champagne and Artois apparently having been simply local attempts to capture points of vantage, which brought about furious German counter-attacks. This is notably true of the attack against the hill of Tahure, in the centre of the German lines in Champagne, which has been almost continuously under German fire since its capture by the French.

A somewhat similar situation seemingly has arisen on the eastern front. The Germans several times have shown signs of developing a big attack against Drinsk, but beyond gaining a few yards of trenches they have made no progress, while from that region right down to Galicia the Austro-Germans have been engaged in meeting strong Russian attacks.

With Polish mud again clogging the wheels of the armies it is doubtful whether either side will be able to make an important move for some weeks. But winter with its hard, frozen ground, is expected to bring a renewal of the offensive by one side or the other.

The German mercantile marine in the Baltic is beginning to feel the effect of the submarine warfare there. Virtually all German shipping in that water is being held up by British and Russian underwater craft, and the ferry services between Germany and Scandinavia are being carried on by neutral vessels.

Sofia, Oct. 7, via London, Oct. 8.—The Ministers representing the Entente Powers asked for their passports last night. The Italian minister joined with the French, British and Russian representatives in this action,

NOVASCOTIAMAN AND TWO SONS BURN TO DEATH

Trapped in Burning House — Charred Remains First Knowledge Neighbors Had Victims Had Not Left the House.

Whitehead, N. S., Oct. 8.—About half-past two o'clock this morning a dwelling house owned and occupied by Arthur Munroe and his two sons, took fire and when neighbors gathered on the scene, it was too late to get the fire under control and they had to stand by and watch the building burn to the ground. It was not known at the time that there was anyone in the building but after the fire burned out the charred remains of Munroe and his two sons were found in the ruins. Arthur Munroe was about forty-five years of age and leaves one son and three daughters in Boston and one daughter of Halifax. Dewey Munroe, one of the victims, was seventeen years of age and his brother Hugh, twelve.

How the fire originated is not known.

FOUR MORE MEN FROM COLLINA

Patriotic District in Kings Co. Has Already Given Fifteen Men and More Intend to Enlist.

Special to The Standard.

Collina, Kings Co., Oct. 8.—A rousing recruiting meeting was held here this evening and four fine recruits were enlisted. They were: Percy Long, Clarence Baxter, Arthur Edwards, Benjamin Bates and Hedley Kierstead, brother of Kierstead, who enlisted the other night. This brings the recruits from this place up to fifteen and shows the fine work being done in Kings County by the recruiting speakers and speaks well for the patriotic spirit of this district. The speakers were Rev. M. E. Conroy and J. D. McKenna.

There was a large recruiting meeting at the Hillside Exhibition grounds this afternoon. It is expected that more men will enlist from Collina in the near future. All those who have enlisted expect to go with the 88th Battalion.

CONTRACTOR WHO WAS ACQUITTED OF THEFT SUES MAYOR MARTIN

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Contractor J. W. Harris, who was acquitted on a charge of stealing $10,178 from the city of Montreal, has issued writs against Mayor Martin and citizen Rodrigue Lamplais for $25,000 damages each, alleging false arrest at their instance.

PETITCODIAC MAN FIRST MEMBER OF THE "26TH" WOUNDED IN ACTION

Since the word reached this city that the Twenty-Sixth Battalion has crossed to France and gone up to the firing line reports have been circulated daily that the battalion had gone into action. Last night, however, with the issuing of the casualty list by the Militia Department came the first official word that the battalion which, more perhaps than any of the others, claims particular interest in St. John, are getting the chance for which they longed to do their bit, and having their baptism of fire.

The casualty list sent out by the militia authorities last evening contains the name of only one member of the battalion. The first to fall is a Petitcodiac man, William D. Turnbull, who is reported as wounded.

The announcement in the casualty list says: TWENTY-SIXTH BATTALION.

Wounded—William D. Turnbull, Petitcodiac, N. B., (gunshot in face and neck.)

Now that the battalion is doing its share other casualties must necessarily be expected, but whatever part they are called upon to play in the great struggle their friends at home are confident that the men of the "26th" will do their bit bravely and well.

ALLIED FLEET TO GREEK WATERS IS SUGGESTED

FIRST STAGE IN ATTACK ON SERBIA PROVES DISASTROUS TO TEUTONS

Advance Guard Which Crossed Danube at Belgrade Destroyed or Captured—Forces Which Succeeded in Entering Serbian Territory Meet With Enormous Losses.

London, Oct. 8.—The efforts of Austria and Germany to force their way through Serbia to reach the Near Eastern seas and join hands with their Turkish allies have produced one of the most interesting situations of the war.

The Austro-German troops already have gained a footing on Serbian territory, and the advance guard who crossed the Danube at Belgrade has been partly destroyed and partly captured. The Anglo-French force which was landed at Saloniki is making its way northward to assist the Serbs, and to protect Macedonia from a threatened Bulgarian invasion.

The newspaper 'A Nette' publishes an interview with the captain of the San Melito in which he stated that the British Admiralty insisted on the strictest secrecy of the place of the attack, in order to facilitate the mission of the swift British cruisers on patrol duty. The captain is quoted as saying that he thought the attacking vessel was a German torpedo boat, for he saw off the ship's prow the peculiar wake caused by a torpedo. The captain said the first shell that struck his ship made a hole three yards long and one yard wide and pierced the steel plate half an inch thick. Other shells ricocheted among the petroleum tanks,

BELIEVES GERMAN TORPEDO BOAT ATTACKED HIS SHIP

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, Oct. 8.—The British freight steamship San Melito, which arrived here yesterday from Tuxpan, Mexico, and reported that she had been attacked at sea by an unknown vessel, one sailor being killed and six wounded, left this port the same day for Buenos Ayres.

The newspaper 'A Nette' publishes an interview with the captain of the San Melito in which he stated that the British Admiralty insisted on the strictest secrecy of the place of the attack, in order to facilitate the mission of the swift British cruisers on patrol duty. The captain is quoted as saying that he thought the attacking vessel was a German torpedo boat, for he saw off the ship's prow the peculiar wake caused by a torpedo. The captain said the first shell that struck his ship made a hole three yards long and one yard wide and pierced the steel plate half an inch thick. ARMED NEUTRALITY POLICY OF GREECE

London, Oct. 8.—Premier Zaimis of Greece, informed the British, French, Russian and Italian ministers, who visited him today, that he could not define the government's policy until after a meeting of the cabinet, says a Reuter despatch from Athens.

"It is understood that the government proposes following a purely Hellenic policy, without leaning either way, and that it will not abandon armed neutrality unless high national interests compel it to take such a step."

London, Oct. 8.—(Gazette Cable)—A well-informed Greek, representing moderate Greek thought, expressed the opinion today that a coalition cabinet in Greece means a do-nothing cabinet. It is a combination of half a dozen parties, and usually avoids any aggressive movement that could offend any section. He believes that Venizelos is strong enough to destroy the government, but that he is unlikely to take this course. This man repudiates the idea of the King being pro-German, declaring that he was only inspired by what he believed to be the national interests.

Public and Press in England and France Demand that Steps be Taken to Prevent Greece Following Bulgaria's Lead.

London, Oct. 8.—The landing of British and French troops is proceeding, despite the change in the Greek government. The ministers of the Entente Powers at Athens have asked Greece to define her policy with regard to the Balkan situation, but the premier, Alexander Zaimis, has answered that he will be unable to do this until a meeting of the cabinet is held. There is, however, evidence that Greece will maintain a policy of benevolent neutrality toward the Allies.

The press and public of London and Paris, with the experience of the sudden change in Bulgaria's attitude fresh in their memory, are demanding that steps be taken to see to it that a similar change does not take place in Athens.

It has been suggested that the appearance of an Allied fleet in Greek waters would have the effect of holding Greece in line.

Allied fleets already are reported off Bulgarian ports in the Aegean and the Black Sea, and in view of the possibility of a Russian landing on the Black Sea coast of Bulgaria, it is stated that a Turkish army is being sent there, so that the Bulgars will not be called upon to fight their old friend and protector.

What assistance Italy will lend her allies in the new venture forced upon them in the Balkans is not disclosed, nor has any change in the policy of Rumania been announced.

The German press suggests that the Allies, despite the landing of troops in Saloniki, are preparing for more energetic operations against Turkey in the hope of smashing her before German assistance arrives, and that Italy may take part in these operations.

There still are three months of good weather ahead for any new move against the Dardanelles, or for operations in other parts of the Aegean district, while the Russians, under Grand Duke Nicholas, are expected to force matters in the Caucasus, and the British to push along to Bagdad.

FRENCH MINISTER'S SON SENTENCED TO YEAR IN GERMAN PRISON

Berlin, Oct. 8, via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J.—Lieut. Jacques Delcasse, son of the French foreign minister, who is a prisoner of war at Halle, has been sentenced to detention for one year in the fortress for having spoken abusively of Germany and declined to obey orders, according to the Overseas News Agency.

DARING FEAT OF BRITISH OFFICER IN SEA OF MARMORA

Swam from Submarine Propelling Raft Carrying Explosives to Destroy Viaduct.

BLEW UP CULVERT AND MADE HIS ESCAPE

Plunged Into Sea as Explosion Went Off Scattering Debris all Around Him—Almost Exhausted When Rescued.

London, Oct. 8.—How Lieut. D'Oyly Hughes, attached to a British submarine operating in the Sea of Marmora, swam from his craft, pushing ahead of him a raft bearing explosives with which he made a breach in the Turkish railway skirting the beach, is related in an official report given out here tonight. This statement, chronicling, perhaps, the strangest experience that has befallen any man during this war, says:

"His weapons consisted of an automatic service revolver and a sharpened bayonet. He also carried an electric torch and a whistle. The cliffs proved unscalable at the first point of landing. He therefore relinquished his raft till a less precipitous spot was reached and after a swift climb and a considerable march he reached the railway."

"Sighting a viaduct," continues the statement, "he planned to destroy it, but abandoned the idea because of the presence of enemy workmen. He then selected a brisk culvert, under which he placed a charge of explosive and lit a fuse. He effected his escape by running a mile down the railway, and plunged into the sea just as the explosive went off. Debris was scattered near him, indicating that the explosion was effective. Having blown his whistle to summon the submarine, the lieutenant swam for the surface. However, on sighting the submarine, he mistook it for a group of Turkish row boats, whereupon he swam towards shore and began to ascend the cliff in hope of hiding. He then discovered his mistake, and again entered the water. Subsequently he was rescued by the submarine when he was on the verge of exhaustion."

PILOT BLAMED FOR COLLISION

Held Responsible and Fined on Account of Accident in Which Allan Liner Pretorian Was Struck.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Pilot Wilhelm Langlois is held responsible for the steamship Kansas of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, colliding during a fog with the Allan Liner Pretorian about half a mile east of the White Island Lightship in the St. Lawrence river on the morning of Sept. 15, and he was fined $100 by Captain L. A. Demers, Dominion wreck commissioner, who gave judgment today in the official inquiry held recently. The fine is payable by November 1st. The commissioner holds that no blame is to be attached to the captain, officers or Pilot Lachance of the Pretorian, whose vessel was anchored at the time.

"Under the weather conditions the speed was too great," says the judgment with reference to the Kansas, "and Pilot Langlois did not use all the prudence required of him."

32,000 ALLIED TROOPS LANDED AT SALONIKI

4,000 DESERTERS FROM THE BULGARIAN ARMY

London, Oct. 9.—Only today have the English newspapers been permitted to announce that Brigadier-General A. B. Hamilton is in command of the British forces which have been landed at Saloniki.

“Thirty-two thousand allied troops have landed up to Thursday evening, and the landing continues. The Bulgarian forces on the Greek frontier have been ordered to move to the Serbian frontier. The Bulgarian desertions, it is said, have reached a total of four thousand.”

NEW RULES FOR PAYMENT OF FISHING BOUNTIES

Issued Yesterday by the Government—Claims Must be Filed Before Nov. 30th Each Year.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Oct. 8.—New regulations governing the payment of fishing bounties were issued by the government today. The chief clauses are as follows:

Resident Canadian fishermen who have been engaged in deep sea fishing in Canadian vessels or boats for fish other than shell fish, salmon and shad, or fish taken in rivers or mouths of rivers for at least three months and have caught not less than 2,500 pounds of sea fish, shall be entitled to a bounty, provided always that no bounty shall be paid to men fishing in boats measuring less than 15 feet keel, and not more than 3 men (the owner included) be allowed as claimants in boats under 29 feet.

No bounty shall be paid upon fish caught in trap nets, pound nets and weirs, nor upon the fish caught in kill nets fished by persons who are pursuing other occupation than fishing and who devote merely an hour or two daily to fishing these nets, but are, as fishermen, steadily engaged in fishing. Only one claim will be allowed in each season even though the claimant may have fished in two vessels, or in a vessel and a boat or in two boats.

The owners of boats measuring not less than 15 feet keel, whether propelled by oars, sails or other motive power which have been engaged during a period of not less than three months in deep sea fishing for fish other than shell fish, salmon or shad, or fish taken in rivers or mouths of rivers shall be entitled to a bounty to be calculated on the registered tonnage which shall be paid to the owner or owners prior to the first of December. The three months during which a vessel must have been engaged in fishing to be entitled to the bounty shall not include such periods as she may have been lying in port, provided that not more than three days may be permitted for the sale, transfer or discharge of her cargo of fish and settling.

Owners or masters of vessels intending to fish and claim bounties on their vessels, must, before proceeding on a fishing voyage, procure a license from the nearest collector of customs or fishery overseer, said license to be attached to the claim when sent for payment.

The date when a vessel's fishing operations shall be considered as having begun, shall be the day upon which she sails from port on her fishing voyage, after the license has been procured and the date upon which her fishing season shall end, shall be the day upon which she arrives in port from her last fishing voyage.

Claims must be filed on or before the thirtieth of November in each year. The amount of the bounty to be paid to fishermen and owners of boats and vessels will be fixed from time to time by the governor-in-council.

Church Notice. The Rev. M. S. Farley will conduct the services in St. Andrew's Church next Sabbath at both services. Strangers cordially invited.

DOMINION STEEL CO. WILL MAKE BIG SHELLS

New Orders Aggregating $12,000,000 Discussed at Executive Meeting—Quarter Dividend Declared.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—New orders aggregating, according to street reports, something like $12,000,000, were under discussion at an executive meeting of the Dominion Steel Corporation, held here today. It is understood that the executive finally decided, under certain conditions, to embark on the manufacture of large sized shells, which have been in progress for some weeks back, and an early announcement that a contract for the work has been closed is not unlikely.

Col. Frederick Nichols, who is acting as president of the corporation during Mr. Plummer's illness, stated after the meeting that as yet the board had no announcement to make. He had been taken up largely in discussing further large foreign contracts, as well as bids for six and eight and two inch shells. These bids would shortly be submitted to the Canadian Shell Committee, and if they were accepted the corporation would be in a position to start operations on the new work at an early date.

The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1.4 per cent on the corporation's preference shares.

WEDDINGS.

Nickerson-McKinney. A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinney, Summer Hill, Queens county, on September 22nd, when their daughter, Eliza Lena, was married to Havelock David Nickerson, of Ibiberna, Queens county. Rev. David Patterson officiated and the couple were unattended. The bride looked charming in a suit of pale blue silk. The bride, who is very popular with a very wide circle of friends, received a number of costly and useful presents.

EX-MINISTERS ARE SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—Magistrate P. A. MacDonald shortly before one o'clock this afternoon committed for trial the four ex-cabinet ministers, Sir Rodmond Roblin, the late premier, Hon. Dr. Montagu, ex-minister of public works, J. H. Howden, ex-attorney-general, and G. R. Coldwell, ex-minister of education. The charge against the ex-ministers is conspiracy to defraud the province in connection with the contracts for the new Manitoba parliament buildings, and the contractor, Thomas Kelly, is now under arrest in Chicago, awaiting extradition proceedings.

Since the original charge was laid, other charges have been preferred against three of the accused, that of the destruction of public documents against Sir Rodmond Roblin and Mr. Coldwell, and of perjury against Mr. Howden. These have not yet come to preliminary hearing, but probably will be heard next week. Mr. Justice Macle granted bail of fifty thousand dollars each.

MEET IN LONDON AFTER BOTH HAD BEEN REPORTED DEAD

London, Oct. 8.—An unusual experience has befallen Joseph Rochette and Alfred Belanger, who left Quebec a year ago. After fighting side by side in the trenches they were both wounded at Ypres, taken to different hospitals and reported dead. Now they have met in London, having returned from the front at the same time.

REV. DR. MACMILLAN INDUCTED AT MANITOBA COLLEGE

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—Rev. J. W. MacMillan, D. D. of the Halifax Presbytery, was tonight inducted with appropriate ceremony into the chair of social ethics and practical theology at Manitoba College, duties to commence immediately. He is well known in Winnipeg, having been pastor of St. Andrew's church for some years. Tonight he delivered a masterly address on the "Business of Preaching."

MARRIED.

MOORE-McNEIL.—By the Reverend Canon Hoyt, M. A. John Edwin Moore to Gertrude, daughter of Duncan McNeil, of 74 Exmouth street, all of this city.

BERLIN ENTERS PROTEST WITH GREEK GOV'T

Berlin, Oct. 8, via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J.—“The German government has lodged a protest in Athens against the landing of troops on Greek territory by the Entente Powers,” says the Overseas News Agency. “The reply of Greece has not been received.”

CRIMEA WAR VETERAN DEAD IN ENGLAND, WAS MARRIED IN FREDERICTON

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, Oct. 8.—News was received by cable announcing the death on Tuesday of Mr. Thomas W. MacGregor at Christ Church, Eithan, England.

The late Mr. MacGregor belonged to the 22nd Cheshire regiment, had served service in many countries, was a veteran of the Crimean war, '54-'55, having served through the battles of Alma, Inkerman and Sebastopol and was in hospital for some time in Constantinople.

The present conflict now raging in the Dardanelles was followed closely by deceased. Few survivors of the Crimea are alive at this time. A brother of deceased was a member of 6th Lancers and was severely wounded at the memorable battle at Balaklava. The late gentleman was married in Fredericton to Miss McCaffrey, who predeceased him in Exeter, England, a little more than two years ago.

He is survived by two sons, Francis T. McGregor of Boston and Rev. Dr. Geo. McGregor of Christ Church, Eithan, England.

WM. ROSS, ST. JOHN MAN, BREAKS LEG IN DRIVING ACCIDENT

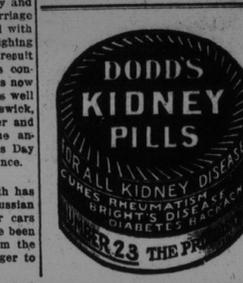

Well Known Piper Thrown from Carriage in Runaway at Stanley.

Fredericton, Oct. 8.—Piper Wm. H. Ross of St. John broke his left leg in a runaway accident at Stanley this morning. With a number of others Piper Ross was driving to this city. The pole strap broke and the animal became frightened, running away and throwing the occupants of the carriage out. Mr. Ross struck the ground with violent force, being a man weighing close to 300 pounds and as a result suffered a broken leg. He was conveyed to Dr. Moore's office and is now being attended at Stanley. He is well known throughout New Brunswick, being an exceptionally fine piper and always being in demand at the annual celebration of St. Andrew's Day by the Scotchmen of this province.

London, Oct. 8.—General Booth has decided to transfer to the Russian government five hospital motor cars donated by Canada. These have been accepted in a special letter from the Czar, who is sending a messenger to receive them.

AERONAUT KILLED AT BROCKTON WAS NOT AT FREDERICTON FAIR

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, Oct. 8.—Elmer Olsen, the young aeronaut who was killed at the Brockton, Mass. fair this week when making a parachute jump from a balloon did not appear at the Fredericton 1915 exhibition as reported in the St. John Telegraph this morning. The two aeronauts who performed here during exhibition week were Joseph Auben and Willis Wolgast.

TAKE BRITISH EXPERIENCE ORGANIZE MOUNTAIN GUN PLAN

Sir Frederick Donaldson, Arsenal, and a Member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will give Canadian benefit of their experiences.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Announcement that Sir Frederick Donaldson, chief superintendent of ordnance at Woolwich Arsenal, and Lionel Hitchins of the Gunmetal Laid Company, were coming to Canada to assist in the work of further organizing munition and gun manufacturing plants in the Dominion was today made by A. E. Thomas, representative of David Lloyd George, British munitions minister, who has been touring the United States and Canada inspecting shell making factories. Mr. Thomas was the guest of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and made this announcement in the course of a speech in which he dealt with the whole shell situation in Canada.

Mr. Thomas said that at first Canada was behind on orders given for shells, but had speeded up now. The shells being produced were of good quality.

DENY BULGARIA HAS COMMON CAUSE WITH THE TEUTONS

Plan is to take Macedonia and test future conduct of the Allies.

Sofia, Oct. 3, via Berlin and London, Oct. 8. (Delayed in transmission).—Bulgaria, it is considered here, is certain to occupy Macedonia simultaneously with the launching of the Austro-German offensive against Serbia. What future action Bulgaria will take will depend upon the conduct of the Entente Powers after Macedonia has been occupied.

The conclusion that Bulgaria is making common cause with the Central Powers is asserted by prominent Bulgarians to be unwarranted and premature. At the present moment, it is maintained, Bulgaria has not assumed an obligation to assist the Austro-German forces, and only the refusal of the Entente Powers to recognize Bulgarian claims in Macedonia could have such a result. In the view, however, that the Entente Powers are bound to resist the occupation of Macedonia without their consent, Bulgaria is said to be prepared to meet whatever situation may be created through its action.

A Statement. The Ford Motor Co. of Canada has issued a statement touching on the recent expressions of Henry Ford, which included the following remarks: "Mr. Ford owns only 25% of our stock. We employ directly and indirectly 3,000 to 3,500 Canadians. Over 300 of our employees have enlisted for overseas. Our shareholders include Col. Sydney Robinson, 21st Regiment; Capt. W. L. McGregor, 21st Regiment; W. C. Kennedy, E. N. Bartlett, Dr. H. A. Dewar, Windsor; Major H. Kemmis-Betty, Ottawa, 1st Contingent; Hon. Justice R. F. Sutherland and Albert B. Cameron, Toronto; Robt. Bray, Chatham; Joseph Marr, Winnipeg; Dr. Hoar, Wm. Robins, Walkerville, and many other Canadians as well as Americans whose sympathies are absolutely with the Allies. Why penalize these men because of Mr. Ford's views. As Canadian shareholders and as a Canadian company and in every other way our sympathies and resources are absolutely with the Allies. THE STANDARD has secured, at a price which will appeal to all, a number of very fine portraits of SIR ROBERT L. BORDEN

THESE are beautifully made engravings, said to be the best likeness of the Premier in existence, and are printed on a heavy paper suitable for framing.

THESE Portraits may be secured from The Standard on payment of thirty cents, by mail, or twenty-five cents delivered at this office. They will also be given, as long as the supply lasts, as premiums for bona fide new subscriptions. The shipment is limited, and any desiring these portraits should apply at once.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

Thin men and women—that big hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You have gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. Thin people material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny savdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those single Sargol tablets. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.

TAKE MACEDONIA FIRST IS BULGARIA'S PLAN

BRITISH EXPERTS WILL HELP ORGANIZE MUNITIONS AND GUN PLANTS IN CANADA

Sir Frederick Donaldson, Chief Supt. of Woolwich Arsenal, and a Member of Cornwell, Laird & Co., Will Give Canadian Firms Making Guns Benefit of Their Experience, A. E. Thomas Announces.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Announcement that Sir Frederick Donaldson, chief superintendent of ordnance at Woolwich Arsenal, and Lionel Hitchins of the Cornwell, Laird Company, were coming to Canada to assist in the work of further organizing munition and gun manufacturing plants in the Dominion was today made by A. The Ford Motor Co. of Canada has issued a statement touching on the recent expressions of Henry Ford, which included the following remarks: "Mr. Ford owns only 25% of our stock. We employ directly and indirectly 3,000 to 3,500 Canadians. Over 300 of our employees have enlisted for overseas. Our shareholders include Col. Sydney Robinson, 21st Regiment; Capt. W. L. McGregor, 21st Regiment; W. C. Kennedy, E. N. Bartlett, Dr. H. A. Dewar, Windsor; Major H. Kemmis-Betty, Ottawa, 1st Contingent; Hon. Justice R. F. Sutherland and Albert B. Cameron, Toronto; Robt. Bray, Chatham; Joseph Marr, Winnipeg; Dr. Hoar, Wm. Robins, Walkerville, and many other Canadians as well as Americans whose sympathies are absolutely with the Allies. Why penalize these men because of Mr. Ford's views. As Canadian shareholders and as a Canadian company and in every other way our sympathies and resources are absolutely with the Allies. Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited."

MOTHER DEATH FROM TYPHOID FROM DORCHESTER

The seventh since outbreak of epidemic—Situation still serious.

Special to The Standard.
Dorchester, N. B., Oct. 8.—The seventh death from typhoid fever occurred today at noon, the victim being Luther Card, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Card. This case had been pronounced hopeless some days ago. Since last reporting three or four cases have developed but this was expected. The disease is of such a malignant type as to cause great apprehension. The case of Stanley McAllister is extremely critical.

MAJ. HAMILTON GAULT SUING FOR DIVORCE

Leader of Princess Pats is at present in England recovering from wound.

Special to The Standard.
Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The formal notice of the application of Major Andrew Hamilton Gault of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Regiment for divorce from his wife, Marguerite Claire Stephens, on statutory grounds appears in this week's Canadian Gazette. Major Hamilton Gault is a well known Montreal financier who became prominent when war broke out by offering to subscribe $100,000 towards the cost of raising the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Regiment. This sum, it is understood, has not yet been paid. He saw active service with this famous regiment and was twice wounded. He is at present recovering from his second wound but it is unlikely that he will be able to go on active service again. Mrs. Hamilton Gault is a sister of George W. Stephens of Montreal. When the Princess Patricia's left Canada for England she went also and it was understood that she would go on duty as a nurse and is at present staying in Ottawa with relatives.

ANDREW BENNETT COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Circumstantial evidence only so far—Several Witnesses gave evidence.

The preliminary hearing of Andrew Bennett, charged with destroying the property of Mrs. Mary Hanson, was resumed in the Police Court yesterday morning and the defendant was committed for trial.

Mrs. Bennett, wife of the accused, said that she and her husband had gone out on Saturday evening about seven o'clock and returned about 8.30. They went to bed and she did not think that accused could get up without her knowing. They got up about nine o'clock on Sunday morning and went to church.

Miss Bernice Bennett, daughter of the accused, told of going to church on Sunday morning and observing a ladder in front of the house. Her father removed the ladder when they returned from church.

Before the defence opened, however, His Honor asked the usual statutory questions, and defendant replied "not guilty."

WILL INTERN BULGARIANS WHO PROVE TROUBLESOME

Over 25,000 in Canada—Will be prevented from leaving—Registration arranged for.

Special to The Standard.
Ottawa, Oct. 8.—After a conference this morning with General Sir William Otter, who is in charge of internment camps, Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, stated that orders were being issued to Col. Sherwood, Commissioner of Dominion Police, to take steps to prevent any Bulgarians leaving the country and to intern those regarded as dangerous. There are over 25,000 Bulgarians in Canada at the present time most of them having immigrated during the past three years. Little trouble is anticipated, generally these are looked upon as harmless, which is the expression used in official circles regarding the Austrians. The registration offices having been closed sufficient for every one. Reference was made to the value which the scriptures should have for the soldier and to the fact that all which made the British Empire worthy of fighting and dying for might be traced to the book which was being placed in the soldiers' hands. The battalion was formed in single file and every one desirous of having a copy had one presented by the chaplain.

BIBLES FOR SOLDIERS.

Following the church parade of the Protestant members of the 55th Battalion at Valcartier on Sunday last an interesting service took place when copies of the New Testament were presented to each member of the Battalion.

Aerial Battle-Fleet Of France Inspected

Remarkable development in Military Aviation made possible formidable array of Aerial Cruisers, Torpedo Planes and Scouts.

Paris, Oct. 8.—An aerial army is no longer a dream of romance. Such an army, formed in divisions and squadrons, with battle aeroplanes, cruiser aeroplanes, scout cruisers and torpedo planes, all heavily armored and carrying three-inch cannon and rapid fire guns, is a reality. It has been made possible through the remarkable development of military aviation in France. The French government today permitted the first inspection of its new fleet of aeroplanes. Opportunity was given to inspect the large and small types of the new battle planes.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION IS NOT SERIOUS IN CANADA

Special to The Standard.
Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The unemployment situation in Canada is now by no means serious. Indeed in some branches of industry there is a scarcity of labor, particularly in lumbering in this case. Reports to the government from all over the country show that any unemployment which exists is confined for the most part to skilled mechanics in trades for whose product there is little demand and to clerks and business assistants. Generally speaking the industrial situation in Canada is good and the scarcity of labor in some quarters is the result of enlistment for war service.

"We are fighting for a worthy purpose, and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved"—H. M. The King.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE EMPIRE—Every fighting unit we can send to the front means one step nearer peace.

THE LIBERALS AND THE NAVY

The Telegraph still attempts to contend that if the Laurier policy had been adopted in Canada, the Canadian ships in the Empire's fighting lines would have been built in this country. As previously stated the contention is absolutely without foundation. Laurier's "navy" never got beyond the paper stage. He asked for tenders in February, 1911, for the construction of four cruisers and six destroyers. The tenders were opened in May of the same year and the contract was not awarded. It may fairly be asked why? Mr. Pugsley was Minister of Public Works at the time and if he ever intended to make good his promise that the yards in which the ships were to be constructed would be built in St. John his opportunity came between May and September. Why did he not act?

Possibly his own reason, as given in the House of Commons in 1913, may afford the Telegraph an opportunity to devote space to its futile attempt to absolve the Liberals from blame in this particular. Mr. Pugsley, on May 6th, 1913, when asked why the Cammell-Laird tender for the construction of ships yards at St. John had not been accepted, said:

"The reason was that in the province of Quebec the question of a Canadian navy was being made an issue. It is that province there were certain public men going from platform to platform seeking to create a prejudice against the government, seeking to make the people believe that in some way the creation of a Canadian navy would work disastrously to the people of Quebec, that it would mean conscription, and that it would mean that the young men of Quebec would be drawn off into foreign wars. The government thought that under the circumstances, as only a very short time had elapsed from the return of the then Prime Minister and the then Minister of Marine from England before the dissolution took place, that it would be proper to leave the awarding of contracts for the building of war vessels and to start upon the Canadian navy until after the elections took place." Hansard, 1912-13, page 8192.

The Telegraph has contended that Hon. Mr. Hazen did not award the contract for the yards at St. John because the Government feared the effect his action would have in Quebec. That is not in accordance with the facts and, as shown by the foregoing quotation from Hansard, Mr. Pugsley himself confessed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's administration deliberately delayed action because they desired to flirt with Quebec at least until after the election took place.

Mr. Pugsley's remarks would seem to be a subject for explanation before the Telegraph again attempts to blame Mr. Hazen for returning the Cammell-Laird tender. There is also the interesting fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised the people of Montreal that if naval yards were to be established in Canada Montreal would get them.

The whole policy of the Liberal party is at once made plain. It was nothing more than a vote catcher. The people of Montreal, anxious of course to see new industries come to that vast center, were to be fooled with the promise of an immense yard for the construction of warships. St. John men, interested in the development of this port, were also misled by the statement that the yards were to come here, while, out of kindly consideration for certain Quebec constituencies where there was opposition to the idea of a navy at all, the government actually decided to do nothing.

How differently did Premier Borden grapple with the problem. He made good his promise to consult with the British Admiralty on the question, and while in England learned it was the earnest wish of the British government that Canada should not wait to build ships at home but should act at once and the lines on which that action would be most acceptable were plainly and definitely specified in the Churchill memorandum.

The contents of the memorandum were submitted to the Canadian Parliament openly and above board. There was no hope and corner work, no promise of a ship yard for this port and that port in order to influence sentiment or curry favor. The ships were not to be built in Canada but in British yards where they could be obtained more quickly. The whole Borden emergency policy was a gift to Britain and nothing more. It was never intended that it should be taken as the final word on the question of naval defence, and the Liberals themselves did not understand it as such.

Yet, enraged by their defeat at the polls the Liberals fought it tooth and nail. They laughed at the advice of the Admiralty; they scoffed at the thought of emergency and, finally, when the Government majority in the House of Commons passed the measure they brought such influence to bear on the Liberal majority in the Senate that the bill was killed and Canada remained unrepresented in the Empire's fighting line.

Full well the Liberals know the burden of responsibility resting upon their shoulders for this disloyal and unwise action. Full well the Telegraph knows that to scoff at the emergency today would be to bring about its ears a storm like unto that which burst around it on one occasion in a former war. Faced with the plain facts of the Laurier fiasco the Liberals attempt to conceal the paucity of their arguments under the cloak of generalities. The game will not work. Laurier and his colleagues are solely to blame for the fact that today Canada is not represented in the North Sea by three of the finest fighting machines in the British navy.

BULGARIA'S MISTAKE.

The Bulgarian Government, in a statement to the Associated Press, explains its action in siding with the Central Powers by expressing the belief that Germany will win this war, and that it would have been suicidal for Bulgaria to have allied herself with the losing side.

If the statements represent the result of observation and investigation made in the interests of Bulgaria, it would appear that her statesmen have used their faculties to very little effect, for there is nothing in the situation to indicate the slightest possibility that the Quadruple Entente will be defeated, or that there will be any other end to this war except the complete downfall of Prussianism.

One year ago the German armies were overrunning France and rapidly advancing on Paris. They had practically all their forces in arms and the situation favored them. As time progressed their chances of victory diminished until now the Tueton hosts are not as far advanced as they were one year ago and on practically every front, with the exception of a section in Russia and the latest invasion of Serbia, they are on the defensive.

During the year the Teutonic powers have added Turkey and Bulgaria to their side, but this has been more than offset by the entry of Italy on the side of the Allies. One year ago the total strength of the British army under arms was not much in excess of half a million men. While the British losses have been heavy the response to the appeal for soldiers has sufficed to make up for the losses and to increase the size of the army, until today it numbers at least four million men. And it is growing all the time.

On sea the triumph of Britain is already complete. Germany is isolated and shut off from the receipt of supplies by sea. Her commercial and industrial life strangled, she has commenced to feel the hardship of the situation. How is it with Britain? The navy rules the sea as completely as on any previous occasion. The trade of the British Empire still flows uninterrupted in the lanes of the sea and there is no indication that this condition will change.

Triumphant on sea, continually improving her position on land, with a growing army and a determination that will not be denied in its quest for victory, Britain is sure to win. Bulgaria, in her effort to "play the winner," made a fatal error, and one she will probably have abundant cause to regret.

SIX RECRUITS SECURED HERE YESTERDAY

Fine Patriotic Smoker last evening, drew good crowd—A strong plea for men.

YESTERDAY'S HONOR ROLL

- John Little, St. George.
- Thomas Daggett, St. John.
- Beverly R. Allen, St. John.
- Leslie Holder, St. John.
- Lewis Clarke, St. John.
- Fred H. Thomson, Hampstead.

The old Every Day Club hall was crowded last night by an enthusiastic audience. The speakers were of a high order and it must have been disappointing to the committee that their efforts were not crowned with a larger measure of success.

George A. Kimball presided and the speakers were John C. Ferguson, Rev. M. E. Fletcher, Captain C. F. Sanford and John Connors. The committee in charge provided a splendid programme. Steve Hurley entertained in his inimitable way and was accorded a round of applause that necessitated an encore. Bob Ritchie rendered a couple of selections and Jack Powers was on hand with his usual fund of funny stories. Professor Fox officiated.

John C. Ferguson, the first speaker of the evening, made a stirring appeal for recruits. He pointed out that the defeat of British arms in the present struggle meant the destruction of the Empire and the enslavement of the British and Canadian people. He called attention to the debt of gratitude that the people of Canada and said: "It is high time we realize that it is a very serious time in the life of our beloved Dominion, we must stand or fall with the Empire, and it is time that we arose to the occasion and do our duty as our forefathers did theirs. If the people of the Loyalty City, and the rest of the Dominion are as courageous and loyal as their ancestors were, Canada will do her part and stand by the Empire until German militarism is crushed, and Great Britain and her allies emerge victorious from this momentous struggle."

Mr. Ferguson directed his appeal more particularly to the Irish citizens of Canada. He pictured Canada as the ideal home of the Irishman, where one could enjoy the freedom so dear to the heart of the sons of old Erin. He pointed out that the Irish had always been classified as a fighting race, and said the present war afforded an unprecedented opportunity for them to get into the fray, and he felt sure they would embrace the opportunity.

Rev. Mr. Fletcher.

Rev. M. E. Fletcher was the next speaker. He prefaced his remarks by singing "The Island Home of an Englishman," which seemed to meet with the approval of the audience. He read a letter from his son, who is in France with the Canadians. The boy told of a ball game in which his team was successful. He spoke of Frank Smith of Carleton, who is his tent mate, and he asked what was the matter with the boys of St. John, that they were not enlisting. He said they were a poor bunch of sports. Mr. Fletcher today and yesterday, he said, he had written to meet with the approval of the audience. He read a letter from his son, who is in France with the Canadians. The boy told of a ball game in which his team was successful. He spoke of Frank Smith of Carleton, who is his tent mate, and he asked what was the matter with the boys of St. John, that they were not enlisting. He said they were a poor bunch of sports. Mr. Fletcher today and yesterday, he said, he had written to meet with the approval of the audience.

"The boys say they are getting out a newspaper over there, and he is going to write a story for it. Boys, the Canadians at the front are writing a story today and writing it with the bayonet, a story that will live for ever, and what is your part in that story going to be? Are you going to help write it?"

"He says, what is the matter with the boys that they are not enlisting. That is the question that is disturbing me. Why don't you enlist? Kitchener is calling now for thirty thousand men a week, and I think Canada should furnish her quota of those. If you are going to help the country now is the time. If you don't come soon the war will be over and you will miss the chance to be able to say I was in it."

Captain Sanford.

Captain C. F. Sanford came to the platform to explain to intending recruits, just what the government would do for its soldiers in the trenches, pensions, etc. His address was very business like and to the point. Captain Sanford has offered to go on active service and was very sincere in his efforts to point out to those present the gravity of the situation.

He said that the general impression seemed to be that Great Britain would win anyway. "That," he said, "is a grievous error. There is only one way that we can be victorious, that is with men. Kitchener has said 'Give me men and I'll win.' At the outset of the war his instructions were to raise 5,000,000 men. He is still 2,000,000 men short of that number. The Little Benny's Note Book.

BY LEE PAPE.

Me and pop and ma took a ride out to Ant Sues house in the kuntry yesterday afternoon, ma going down town shopping first and saying she would be waiting for us outside of the railroad station at 4 o'clock, and me and pop got down there at 5 minutes to 4 by pop's gold watch and started to stand there waiting.

If thares wan thing id prefer to do anything elts than, its waiting, sed pop. And we kepp awn standing there, and after a wile pop took out his gold watch and looked at it agon, saying, Quartir after 4, Benny, if you erriv catch a woman awn time for anything, take her into the nearest drag stor and have restoratives administered to her.

And we kepp awn waiting, and pop took out his gold watch and looked agon, and it was hal past 4.

In the usum of time and tide and efficiency, sed pop, if anybody wants to no wait the opposite of pleasure, refer them to me. And we waited till pop's gold watch sed 24 minits to 5, and then pop sed, Bloo blazes and red Indtuns, lets take a wawk around the block before I give way to a desire to assault a pieceman.

And me and him wawked around the block, wawking pritty slow and looking in difrent stor windows, and wen we got back to the slayshin agon who was standing there waiting but ma.

Well, this is an unexpected pleasure, I must say, sed pop. This is no time to be fny, sed ma, the ideer of showing up at 5 o'clock wen you were supposed to meet me at 4.

Otwich, bang, sed pop, and how lawng have you bin heer, may I make so bold as to inquire.

I must bin heer at least 3 quarters of an hour, sed ma. As the soldier sed wen the bomb he was setting awn exploded, wats the use of arguing, sed pop. And me and him and ma went to Ant Sues house in the kuntry.

call is insistent; it is to you. The question is forced home to you tonight. Why are you not in khaki? What is the matter with the men of New Brunswick? Are they not loyal? There is no more loyal people in the Dominion. Are they afraid? We don't breed that kind. We have sent some men to the front and they have written the name of Canada in letters of blood that will never be erased. Every available man is needed. It is up to you to ask yourself the question and answer it too. Why are you not in khaki?"

John Connors.

John Connors was the last speaker at the meeting, and he made the issues of the war, as they pertain directly to the people of this country, very plain. He drove his facts home in a forcible manner and made a profound impression on his listeners. He pointed out that the present call for men should meet with ready response in this country, if only as a mark of gratitude for what Britain has done for Canada. He said it was only a matter of plain duty. "Great Britain has not only lent us her protection," he said, "but she has made advances to us that have enabled us to build up this Dominion until today it is one of the finest countries in the world. I am sure a little reflection on the part of our young men will cause them to realize what their duty is in this crisis, and once realizing it will come forward freely and offer their services."

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, and cheers for the king.

Tonight there will be a smoker in the recruiting rooms at the corner of Mill and Union streets. A piano has been secured and a fine programme has been arranged. The musical numbers include Swiss bell ringing, banjo and mandoline selections, also a novel duet with mouth organ and flute. A. H. Wetmore will preside.

Red Cross Meeting.

A special meeting of the local Red Cross branch is called for Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 at the depot rooms to consider plans for assisting the British Red Cross plea. By order of the president, Mrs. John McAvity.

PATRIOTIC PUMPKIN SEEDS SOLD FOR ONE DOLLAR EACH AT THE AUCTION LAST NIGHT

There was a large crowd present and goods sold freely—Citizens are asked to visit the rinks today and help to swell the receipts.

TODAY'S EVENTS. St. Andrew's Rink. Doors open 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Admission ten cents. Sale of goods from all departments, special values in groceries.

The great Patriotic Auction, now coming to an end, was the occasion yesterday of very large gatherings in both St. Andrew's and Queen's rinks. Throughout the day there were sales of almost everything that could be desired by the ordinary householder.

The celebrated pumpkin was not quartered, but halved; the edible part will fill an important office in the pie to be sold as hereinafter mentioned. But the seeds! The sale of these was the occasion for bringing forth the unstinted eloquence of an amateur auctioneer who does not wish his name to be published.

SCENE FROM "THE MAN ON THE BOX" TO BE PRESENTED AT THE OPERA HOUSE BY PARTELLO STOCK COMPANY

"The Man on the Box" adapted from Harold McGrath's popular novel of the same name, is a play that is certain to provoke much laughter, and its presentation by the Partello Stock Company at the Opera House Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will surely be the signal for the assembling of all comedy lovers.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD ENDED DELIBERATIONS Odds and ends of business transacted yesterday morning—Delegates away

The Presbyterian Synod, which has been in session here this week, closed its deliberations yesterday morning, after a most successful meeting.

The report of Women's Missionary Society was read by Rev. Dr. Stewart with reference to the overture of the Presbytery of Pictou. No action was taken.

The questions of amalgamation of social services and evangelism with home missions, and augmentation was taken up, and a resolution was introduced that the amalgamation be made.

Two hundred pumpkin pies will be auctioned into this afternoon and again tonight. They are being made by the Robinson Bakeries who generously offered to manufacture the delicacies at a very low price.

PHILADELPHIA TAKES FIRST OF THE WORLD'S SERIES

SPEAKER SCORES LONELY TALLY THAT SAVED HIS TEAM FROM SHUT OFF

First of World Series Lacking in Expected Brilliance — Phillies Nose-Out Victory on Five of Flukiest Hits in History of Baseball — Younger Members of Red Sox Affected by Stage Fright at Critical Moments — Shore Pitches Good Game, but Luck Against Him.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Grover Cleveland Alexander won his game from the Boston Red Sox today, but the victory was far from being the impressive one his team mates of the Philadelphia Nationals had predicted. The breaks of the game were with the star pitcher of the National League, and had to be too good for him to win the first world's series contest in which he has participated. Through a sequence of plays as unusual as ever seen on a ball field the Phillies won by 3 to 1.

They made these three runs on five of the flukiest hits the game has ever known, a Texas Leaguer which developed into the first run of the series being the only safe hit driven out of the diamond by a Philadelphia batsman. It had been predicted the short outfield would prove the winning factor for the home team, but contrary to all expectations it was the infield, wet and heavy from the rain, that turned the tide in their favor.

Lacking in Brilliance.

It was a mediocre ball game, this first of the big series, for, despite the few errors of commission, there were several of omission, and two or three plays which will go down in baseball history as lined with ivory. Strangely enough it was the Red Sox, veterans in battling for the highest honors of the game, who were guilty of the slips, although the offending individuals were new members of the team.

Hobitzell, the big first baseman of the Sox, indignantly ended a first inning attack by his team-mates when he calmly lapsed into slumberland off his home station and was caught at most flatted by a quick toss from Alexander to Luderus for the third strike.

recovering his balance, started to toss the ball to second to catch Stock, but the bag was bare. Top late Scott realized his duty and started on a dead run for the keystone. In a forlorn hope Barry shot the ball to him but Stock was safe and there were two on instead of two out.

How Game Was Won.

At this critical juncture Shore became unsteady and passed Paskert. The bases were full and Cravath, the home run champion of the National League with a particular fondness for the short fences of the Phillies park, was at the bat. The crowd was shouting itself hoarse for Cravath to hit it "out of the lot."

Shore proved that he was willing to take a chance, however, by breaking the first ball over the plate for a strike. The best Cravath eventually could do was to send a slow bouncer to Scott.

A Freak Episode.

That the game was regarded largely as a freak episode in world series baseball is shown tonight by the fact that the supporters of the defeated Red Sox have lengthened the betting odds they are willing to give on that team for the remainder of the series.

Shore Pitched Star Game.

Alexander felt the strain that the confidence of the National League adherents had placed upon him, and during the first three innings of the game was plainly nervous. In two of these innings serious trouble threatened.

Paskert's Great Catch.

It was here that Paskert saved the game with his startling catch of Gardner's drive. Paskert has suffered much in all preliminary comparisons with Speaker, whom he opposes in centerfield, but that one catch today gave him a warm place in the hearts of the Phillies. The way Shore and Alexander were working at this time indicated the game might go into many extra innings, but in the Phillies half of the eighth came the decision. Alexander proved an easy out. Shore got a bit careless and passed Stock. Bancroft then shot the pill over second which gave Barry the opportunity to make the wonderful stop with his bare right hand. Barry, Shore gave the Phillies' star a fight from time play was called until the last man was out.

Four or five times the game hung in the balance. With the score a tie in the first half of the eighth, and with Lewis on second base, Gardner, of the Red Sox, smashed into one of Alexander's fast breaking out curves for a drive which seemed far out of reach of any of the Phillies, but "Dope" Paskert started after it from center field and made a spectacular catch while running at full speed. The play brought the big crowd to its feet and undoubtedly saved the game for the National League contestants. This play, and the wonderful stop by Barry back of second base, which hypnotized young Scott long enough to pave the way for the two winning tallies, were the fielding features of the game.

Shore Out-pitched.

Alexander out-pitched Shore in every way except in the number of hits allowed. "Alex" gave but two bases on balls, as against Shore's four, and he struck out six men while Shore fanned but two. Boston had nine men left on bases against Philadelphia's five.

The official attendance was 19,343. Total receipts, $51,066. National Commission's share, $5,106.60; players share, $7,575.64; each club share, $9,191.83.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACING

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 8.—The Blue Grass Stake, the chief event on the card of the Grand Circuit meeting here today, was captured in straight heats by Russell Boy driven by Geers, Altwood being a contender in the first heat, and Queen Abbas in the second and third. Russell Boy was easily the best and had no difficulty in winning. The time in the first heat was 2:08 1/2, which is a record for the race.

After two heats of the 2.16 pace had been raced, the event went over until tomorrow, Charlie C winning the opening heat and Peter Worby the other. Summary:

HORSE RACING MONDAY.

In addition to the bicycle racing on Moosepath Park track on Monday afternoon the park management have arranged for some good horse racing and an excellent programme of sports is expected.

BOB MAC'S OWNER IN PLAIN TALK

To the Sporting Editor The Standard: Dear Sir.—The owners and backers of Carlin Hal have been for several days talking of matching their horse against Bob Mac, owned by me, and on Thursday evening they suggested a match race between the two horses for $500 a side. I at once agreed to this, and suggested that the articles be drawn up and the money deposited at once. This did not suit them, but they suggested that they would meet me at the Dufferin Hotel at 2 p. m. Friday and conclude matters. At the appointed hour they failed to show up and after waiting until 3:30 p. m. I went to see them, and they, who were promised to be at the Dufferin Hotel at 7:30 tonight to sign the agreement and deposit the money. Up to 9:30 tonight they had failed to show up and I went down to see them once more. They agreed to put up the money tomorrow (Saturday), at 2 o'clock to race on either Wednesday or Thursday or next week. If they fail to deposit the money tomorrow at 2 p. m. I will make arrangements to ship my horse home, and the sporting public will then understand the reason for "no race."

Yours truly,
E. A. CAMPBELL,
Owner Bob Mac.

CLOSING LETTER OF N. Y. MARKET BY E. & C. RANDOLPH

(MODUGALL & COWANS.)
New York, Oct. 8.—Railroad stocks have been strong and active all through the day while the industrials after a strong opening became reactionary as a result of heavy realizing sales. The rise in the railroads has been partly due to the excellent showing of the government crop report which in the yield both of wheat and corn surpassed expectations. The decline in grain prices indicates to what extent a final yield of over a billion bushels of wheat and indications of substantially more than three billion bushels of corn exceeded the traders' anticipations and the figures mean so much more tonnage for the railroads and addition to the surplus available for dividend distributions. That the advances were greater in the stocks of some of the Eastern than of the Western roads was due partly to the industrial revival, while there was also the factor of a short interest in a number of the Eastern issues like Reading, Lehigh and N. H. In some of the industrials the market did not behave well under the influence of realizing sales and even in the Copper issues there was a reactionary movement at the end as a result of the switching of speculative positions in the railroad stocks. Total sales $246,000. Bonds $4,575,000.

RAILWAY SHARES THE DOMINANT FACTOR IN YESTERDAY'S MARKET

New show of strength in these stocks hailed as welcome change from hectic trading in War Specialties—Two small lots of new Anglo-French notes offered.

New York, Oct. 8.—Prices made further recovery today from their abrupt declines of Wednesday, under guidance of the railways, which governed the market from start to finish. The movement in the transportation shares furnished the most impressive demonstration of strength seen in many months, and was everywhere hailed as a welcome and much needed change from the long period of hectic trading in stocks whose values are yet to be determined.
 Reading was the most prominent feature of the rally, and for that matter of the entire list, its sales of 145,000 shares exceeding those of every other issue. At its top price of 12 1/2 it showed a gain of 7-8. Other active railways included Lehigh Valley, and Harriman and Hill issues, St. Paul, Pennsylvania, Canadian Pacific, New York Central, Erie, Chesapeake & Ohio and New Haven. Minor issues like Western Maryland, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Denver and Rio Grande and Toledo, St. Louis and Western were active and strong to an unwelcome degree.
 Specialties opened strong, Westinghouse, Crucible Steel, Colorado Fuel and Baldwin Locomotive recording advances of one to three points, while

FIGURES MAKE RED SOX AND PHILLIES APPEAR WELL MATCHED

All Philadelphia Looks to Moran's Men to Uphold the World's Series Honors.

HAVE INITIAL CHANCE.

Quakers have Struggled 34 Years for Opportunity Won in Season's Struggles.

Having accomplished a National League pennant after thirty-three years of unsuccessful strife, it now becomes the financially profitable privilege of Father Penn's 1915 heroes to convince America's fandom that world's baseball honors, as far as Philadelphia is concerned, are not confined to the American League. "Pat" Moran's "misfit" Phillies, unheralded, their praises unsung, face opportunity and riches, stand before fame and fortune, are entered in the nation's sport classic of the year, and upon their own shoulders rest their future laurels.

Like the Braves of last year, the Athletics of 1908 and the White Sox of 1906, the Phillies of 1915 are not considered on even terms with the opposition. Boston's American League conquerors under William Carrigan, critics agree, figure to swamp the Quaker entry. Even in Philadelphia "fans" insist that the Red Sox be installed 2 to 1 favorites in the series. And, like the Braves, Athletics and White Sox, this makes the task of Moran lighter, for the Red Sox evidently figure as do the critics and over-confidence has cost many a victory.

Baseball in the present era is so automatized that one can almost judge one team from another by the kind of game played. The Phillies are strategic; the Red Sox alert. In the series of last season the Braves were pugacious, the Athletics scientific in their display. Recall, the Braves rode roughshod over "Connie" Mack's men. This argument would help to prove that the Red Sox will defeat the Phillies, as their alertness may offset Moran's strategy.

Phillies Are Fighters

Moran's club is made up of young men most of whom are realizing ambitions for the first time. Most of the players are not yet aware of their achievement nor of the success which may be theirs in future struggles. They are a determined, spirited, willing lot, whose chief asset is lack of orientation. They go about their labors in faithful workmanlike manner. They time their punches, put all strength behind the blow which the opening appears. This has won them a pennant in the National League, and this, Moran hopes, will win the series from the Red Sox.

Boston's machine is a defensive aggregation of unequalled baseball worth. Celebrities of the game, made famous by past laurels, are considered the main assets of the team. These players are conscious of their ability, and are perfectly willing to allow others to share in this knowledge. They play

CARRIGAN CARRIES WORRIES OF RED SOX.

Hats off to William C. Carrigan, of Lewiston, Me., who has overcome obstacles of great height and has polished off an otherwise well regulated machine by bringing the Red Sox to the floor of the world's series. Carrigan is deserving of honors, few expect he needs, for he took the Red Sox when the club was almost rent under by feuds and he smoothed out the troubles, shouldered the work and brought his players to a point of good fellowship. Carrigan, an aggressive leader who cares not for the feelings of others so long as he can win. He drives his players hard and demands that they obey him. He undoubtedly will be a leading factor in the coming series, and to this end it will be doubly interesting to watch the duel of wits of the two managers, who are both of Irish descent and both from New England.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONS WHO WILL PLAY IN BIG SERIES FOR WORLD'S TITLE

PHILADELPHIA NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONS 1915

winning baseball once given a lead, but while behind they seem content to hold the opposition in check, instead of fighting for an opportunity to put over a victorious assault. In a short series, many believe this will handicap the Red Sox and prove advantageous too to the Phillies.

Two American League managers have said the Red Sox lack nerve. Clarence Rowland of the White Sox, asserts that Carrigan's men "quit under fire." Hugh Jennings, of the Tigers, declares the Red Sox must "break" ahead to win. Both these men were distanced by Carrigan this season and this fact may take the sting out of their remarks. But Rowland and Jennings are able judges of baseball clubs and have an intimate knowledge of the Red Sox, which gives their remarks a ring of truth.

It is certain that the Phillies will test the hearts of the Red Sox players before the series is over and if Jennings and Rowland have diagnosed the weaknesses correctly it should prove of value to Moran's men.

Novel Series Ready

The series will be novel in many ways. It will introduce to the "fans" two managers, each making their first fight for baseball's leadership, an honor generally bestowed upon a victorious manager. New England will be proud of the winner, regardless to whom the laurels fall, as both Patrick Joseph Moran and William C. Carrigan are products of the "Down East" section. Moran came from Pitchburg Mass., textile mills and Carrigan branched out from the schools of Lewiston, Me.

The series will mark the Phillies' first entry in the classic. During the forty years of National League existence Philadelphia has made thirty-four fights for the supreme honor, an untold "Pat" Moran became the head of the organization it was unsuccessful. The Quakers have been persistent, however, and now the "fans" of Philadelphia are entitled to wide latitude for celebrating. In these thirty-four struggles, the Phillies have won once, finished second three times and the rest of the years have been also rans consistently.

The selection of the new park of the Boston National League Club as the scene of the games to be played in Boston opens the way for increased attendance, for the Braves' stadium can accommodate close to 50,000 spectators. The Phillies' park is reconstructed, fully 5,000 seats being added to the present stands, which will allow for more than 20,000 spectators in Philadelphia. This practically assures world's series struggles last year, but this did not interfere with their taking the scalps of the Athletics in four straight games.

That this series will not be completed in four games is practically agreed upon by every one concerned. The Phillies boosters argue that Alexander must be counted upon for at least two games and probably three. To offset three victories Boston must win four, which would make the series seven

Under almost any conditions it is safe to assume that 200,000 spectators will witness the play for the 1915 title. While this will not surpass the record established by the Giants and Red Sox in 1912, when 251,901 saw the series, it must be reckoned that eight games were played then. If Philadelphia had a field similar to the Braves there is no doubt that all sport attendance figures would be shattered in this series.

Ten of the players who helped to win the world's series from the Giants in 1912 will be found on the present roster of the Red Sox. Carrigan and Cady of the catchers, Epesaker, Hooper, Lewis and Henriksen of the outfielders; Gardner and Wagner of the infielders and Wood and Collins of the pitchers will be the familiar faces seen. Only the pitching staff and the infield has undergone any material change since the Giants were beaten in that famous game series.

In striking contrast to the veteran-like line up of the Red Sox the Phillies have been gathered from widely separated districts in the last two years. Their achievement during the season, however, proves their combined strength and playing ability. Of the men on the Phillies, Whitted, Becker, Demaree and Stock are the only regulars who have had an opportunity to face a world's series crowd, Whitted getting his baptism of the fire last season with the Braves, and Stock, Demaree and Becker learning to control their feelings while with the Giants.

Besides the ten mentioned above there is another Red Sox star, who has a lot of world's series experience, Jack Barry by name. Barry since joining the Red Sox has been field captain of the club and Carrigan is credited with saying that the one-time star of the Athletics has had a lot to do with winning the pennant. Barry has been incapacitated of late by a carbuncle, but he figures upon playing in the big series.

The rest of the men on each team face the supreme test for the first time in their respective careers. To some this may mean a fright which will have to be worn off, to others it will be all in a day's work. Most of the Braves were inexperienced in world's series, so granting Alexander three wins, which is open to dispute, there still remains a necessary triumph to gain the honors. The others pitchers on the Phillies staff are nowhere near Alexander in ability. Demaree, Chalmers and Mayer are about on a par, but many doubt if they can withstand the attack of Boston's left hand sluggers led by "Tris" Speaker.

Task for Right Hander
Boston critics are certain that no right hand pitcher can beat the Red Sox, and they do not except Alexander. They turn to the records and read where the Red Sox have beaten, routed and upset such men as Walter Johnson, Ray Caldwell, "Jim" Scott and "Bill" James, and they ask if Alexander can be rated in a class higher than these men. Boston feels certain of victory inasmuch as Moran has not a capable left hander. The Red Sox have had more trouble beating left hand pitchers this year than any others.

If figures are to be believed the Phillie mound department does not compare with that of the Red Sox. Alexander, of course, is as good as, if not better than, any man of Carrigan's club. But outside of Alexander there is not a man with the Quakers who can be classed with Shore, Leonard, Ruth, Foster or Wood.

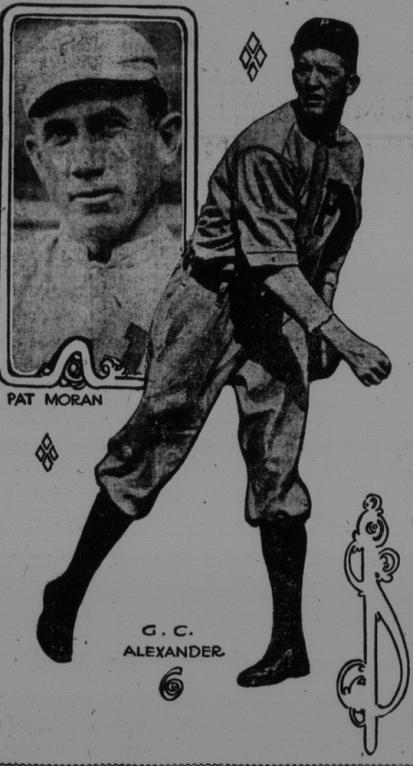

In the American League pitching averages for this season the five leading pitchers are those above named, with Wood leading the others. "Smoky Joe" is probably as great a right hander as the game has known in several years, but right now, he is suffering from rheumatism in his throwing arm and his playing in the series is problematical.

Last year Leonard led the pitchers of the American League in efficiency and this year he seems every bit as good. He will be counted upon to do his share. Shore has been the sensation of baseball this year with his great pitching, and this youngster may get the best shortstop in the league, at the short field, and Milton Stock, who has been hitting and fielding in sensational style of late, at third, the Phillies seem surprisingly well off.

It is thought that Carrigan relies upon his right hand pitchers to do the brunt of the work, because eight of the Phillies who will appear in the game are right hand batters, only Captain Luderus hitting from the off side of the plate. Left handers have had their work cut out trying to stop the Phillies in the National League, and it is safe to assume southpaws of Boston will have as hard a time. In the infield Philadelphia seems better off than its rival. With Captain Luderus, the leading batsman of the league, at first; "Bert" Nelhoff, a stocky, ambitious, hard working, German at second; "Dave" Bancroft, called the best shortstop in the league, at the short field, and Milton Stock, who has been hitting and fielding in sensational style of late, at third, the Phillies seem surprisingly well off.

games in length, provided Alexander is as successful as anticipated.

It seems the general opinion that the series will be harder fought and as long drawn out as any ever held in the history of the inter-league battles. Each team is supplied with twirlers of no mean ability, and undoubtedly the mound duels will stretch out the affair until it will be almost a question of endurance. Certainly if Mayer or Demaree or Chalmers can come to the rescue of Alexander it will be a fight for more than a week anyhow.

Boston was of the opinion that should Alexander be beaten in the first game, then the Red Sox will duplicate the trick of the Braves of last year. It is suggested that with a host of efficient baffling mound heroes Boston is better equipped to decide the issue quickly.

Up to the Pitchers
After watching the Braves sweep aside all predatory figures of strength last year against the Athletics, one approaches the "dope" of each team in this classic charity. As in the past, the big question seems up to the pitchers, just as it was in every post season exhibition ever held. And in the mound department each club is extra well fortified.

plished in either league, is rated by such judges as McGraw, Stallings and Bresnahan as being one of the pitching stars of history. McGraw says Alexander will beat the Red Sox three times in the series. He says Alexander can work every other day without losing any of his effectiveness.

Mays	4	6	.400

Just how much Alexander had to do with the Phillies' success is shown in the above figures. He has won more games than any other twirler in either league and his list of twelve shutouts for the year makes him stand out as the premier twirler of the year and Philadelphia's outstanding hope.

care of by "Dick" Hobbitzel or "Del" Gainer, both finished fielders and hard hitters, at first base; "Jack" Barry, whose all round excellence is hard to match, at second; Everett Scott, the sensational fielder, at short stop, and "Larry" Gardner, the veteran, at third base. This combination provides a wall almost impregnable, but man for man it does not seem up to the Phillies.

Luderus is as good a fielder as either Hobbitzel, or Gainer and he is by far the best batsman of the trio, which would give Moran, an edge at the initial sack. Nelhoff, of course does not compare with Barry, but Nelhoff is playing a natural position, while Barry has been shifted from shortstop to second base.

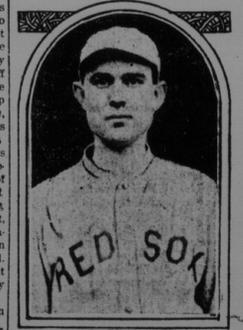

Of the two shortstops, both of whom are youngsters, Bancroft seems the superior. A marvelous ground coverer, a sure fielder and dead shot thrower. Bancroft has "officially" made the Phillies this year. Scott is a good fielder, but too weak at the bat to be compared with Bancroft, who hits timely and with the proper punch. Bancroft also is a base stealer of no mean ability.

At third base the Phillies also seem to have the edge, judging from the playing of Milton Stock in his games of late. Stock when with the Giants was only a mediocre fielder and weak hitter. This season he has advanced so rapidly in each of these departments that he has practically doubled his efficiency. Gardner is not the Gardner of old. His throwing is erratic and his fielding also suffers. Further, Gardner has not done as good batting this season as in other years. Decidedly, it looks as if the Phillies outclassed the Red Sox, so far as the inner defence is concerned.

Peculiarly enough, there will not be a keystone combination in this series which will compare with the Tinker-Evers, the Collins-Barry and the Maraville-Evers combinations which have electrified the crowds in past series. Barry and Scott make a good team, but they have not been playing together long enough to perfect their double play teaming. The same might be said of Bancroft and Nelhoff.

Red Sox Outfield Best

Just as surely as the Phillies have the better infield, the Red Sox are superior in outer-gardens. With "Tris" Speaker, the marvellous fly chaser and consistent hitter, flanked on either side by Harry Hooper, and "Duffy" Lewis, the Red Sox can feel justly proud in the possession of one of the greatest outfields in the history of baseball. As a defensive trio these men can hardly be equalled, and as a hitting combination they compare favorably with the Cobb, Crawford, Veatch outfit which was heralded so widely this summer.

SHORE

The Phillies need not be ashamed of "Cactus" Cravath, the home run king of baseball; George Whitted, whose speed and timely hitting are known far and wide; "Dode" Paskert, the speedy capable fly chaser, and "Beals" Becker, the fortunate. These four men work in perfect unison and have broken the hearts of many pitchers this last summer. Just which one of the four will be forced to warm the bench is not known now, and it is probable that each will get a crack at the bat before the series ends.

The Phillies seem the better off in the catching department, with "Bill" Killifer, probably the ranking receiver in the National League, ably assisted by "Eddie" Burns and Jack Adams. Killifer has been suffering from an injured shoulder but has recovered sufficiently to start. His throwing is (Continued on page 14)

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Bedtime Stories For the Children. UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE BIG ICE CREAM CONE

By HOWARD R. GARIS (Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate).

Uncle Wiggly Longears, the rabbit gentleman, who had come down to the seashore for a few days because it was so hot in the woods where he had his hollow stump sunnolow, started out one morning to take a walk.

"Where are you going, Uncle Wiggly?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, who always went wherever Mr. Longears did.

"Oh, I'm just going down to see if the boardwalk has learned how to run yet," answered Uncle Wiggly, laughing.

At the seashore, you know, they always have a long sidewalk, made of boards, so the animal people who have to get their shoes full of sand. Besides, it's very hard to walk on soft sand.

"I am going down to watch the board walk do a hop, skip and a jump," went on Uncle Wiggly in a jolly sort of a voice, jokins-like.

"Well, don't be gone too long," spoke Nurse Jane. "I am going to have some fried salt water taffy for supper, and you know—"

"I know I wouldn't miss that for all the boardwalks in Asbury Grove," cried Uncle Wiggly, making his whiskers smile away around at the back of his neck, as he was so happy. "I'll be back in plenty of time for supper."

Nurse Jane. And please have lots of fried salt water taffy, for I'll be back in plenty of time for supper."

Then she went in the little cottage, where she and Uncle Wiggly were stopping, and tied her tail up in curl-papers so it wouldn't get all sticky when she fried the salt water taffy.

As for Uncle Wiggly, the rabbit gentleman, went down to the ocean beach and hopped up and down the boardwalk, where there were many other animal people, boys and girls.

Along the boardwalk were stores and in them were monkey doode gentlemen and others selling toys and good things to eat, such as ice cream cones, lollypops, rice cakes and cabbage and carrots, all covered with the marshmallow, of which Uncle Wiggly was very fond.

The rabbit gentleman was going along slowly, wondering if he would have an adventure that afternoon, when all of a sudden up the beach, in his bathing suit came running Sammie Littleleaf, the rabbit boy. He had been having a swim in the ocean.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggly!" cried Sammie. "I don't believe you can guess what I saw today!"

"Why—er—Monday, to be sure," said Uncle Wiggly.

"Yes, but it's my birthday, too," cried Sammie. "And Uncle Wiggly, you're coming to our house, aren't you?"

ANSWERS TO LETTERS RECEIVED BY UNCLE DICK

J. Evelyn Kerawh—I was pleased to have your interesting letter, and to note that you are trying in this week's contest. Yes, certainly I shall let you have a collecting card, and trust you will be very successful with same.

Alice Monohon—I was very pleased to have you as a new niece added to our increasing Corner, and trust that you will be very successful with your work on behalf of the Soldiers' Children's Toy Fund.

Ernestine Friars—You will no doubt be pleased to see that you have been successful in winning second prize in the Fund contest, and I should like to see the same number of new members who desire to collect and work for the children's Fund, there, I am awarding you a special consolation prize.

Beatrice Wallace—Although Ernestine was able to collect a little faster than you, having so far gathered in over $5, you were able to introduce the same number of new members who desire to collect and work for the children's Fund, there, I am awarding you a special consolation prize.

Geraldine Ryan—I am very pleased to number you among my hardworking nieces and hope that it will not be long ere you send me in the full collecting card together with the three dollars. I am sure you will enjoy the Corner each week, and get to look forward to same as much as all my other kiddies do.

Tressa Donovan—I was pleased you called in at the office the other day and became a member of our large and increasing Corner, also that you took a collecting card, and are now working hard to get subscriptions to the Christmas Toy Fund.

Mary Reid—What a great number of new nieces and nephews I had to welcome this last week, and you are another. I am very pleased you were able to collect a card and hope you will be very successful with same.

Doris Foster—I am very pleased to welcome you to the Corner, and trust you will be very successful in the department of work that is going on among those who are helping to get a big pile of dolls, toys, warm garments, etc., for the soldiers' children at Christmas.

Grace Ward—I was very glad you called in to see me yesterday, and became a member of our very large and increasing Corner. I am sure it will not be long ere you obtain your own card to help in the department of work for the Fund.

Elda Carleton—I was pleased to have your attempt in the hand writing contest, the result of which will of course be made known next week.

Burtis Gordon Israel—I am very pleased to see that you are entering the contests, and if you are successful will award you the prize as requested, but even if you don't manage to win the prize at first, the contest will not be made known until next Saturday.

Harriet Vanstone—Your letter was evidently delayed, as I did not receive it until last week. You will no doubt have received the Collecting card you asked for ere this, as I sent it off early in the week. Yes, try in the handwriting contest, as you writing is quite good.

Helen Grimmer—Many thanks for the letter you sent me. I have sent you the Fund collecting card you ask for, and trust you will be very successful with same.

Full particulars of the children's new contest will be found on page sixteen.

UNCLE DICK'S TOY FUND FOR SOLDIERS' CHILDREN

This week I am pleased to be able to acknowledge further receipts towards the above fund. This of course does not by any means represent the full amount collected, but shows the amount actually received.

Previously acknowledged $5.10
Dorothy Warren (Collecting Card) 3.20
Total $8.30

Will those of my kiddies who wish to have a collecting card please send me in their names and addresses.

If you are not able to help in this way, perhaps you will dress dolls, make little toys, knit children's warm stockings, and in other ways assist.

All toys etc., when completed, cards when filled in collecting, and other communications must be addressed to UNCLE DICK, The Standard, St. John, N. B. and be marked in the top left hand corner "Children's Fund." All articles and subscriptions received will be acknowledged through this Corner.

This is open to Boy Scouts also, in fact I shall look for their special assistance.

1. Loosen the collar—that's easy enough. Then try to pull out the object with your finger or the handle of the patient jumps about while you are doing this.

2. Give him two or three hard slaps on the back to dislodge the object. 3. Hold the patient upside down, so that he may choke the object out of the wind-pipe, if it be in that channel.

4. To remove a bone in the throat, eat doughy bread. 5. If a person has swallowed something small and hard, like a trowser button, give him castor oil and make him sick.

Helpful Hints First Aid

Hot dry flannels applied as hot as possible for neuralgia. Sprains and bruises call for an application of tincture of arnica.

If an artery is severed, tie a small word or handkerchief above it. For bilious colic, soda and ginger in hot water. It may be taken freely.

Ticking in the throat is best relieved by gargling with salt and water. Rains in the side are most promptly relieved by the application of mustard.

For cold in the head, nothing is better than powdered borax, sniffed up the nostrils. A drink of hot, strong lemonade before going to bed will often break up a cold and cure a sore throat.

Nervous spasms are usually relieved by a little salt taken into the mouth and allowed to dissolve. Whooping cough paroxysms are relieved by breathing the fumes of turpentine and carbolic acid.

Broken limbs should be placed in natural positions and the patient kept quiet until the surgeon arrives. Hemorrhages of the lungs and stomach are promptly checked by small doses of salt. The patient should be kept as quiet as possible.

Sleeplessness caused by too much blood in the head may be overcome by applying a cloth wet with cold water to the back of the neck. For stomach cramps ginger ale or warm water. For small children it is a half glass of water in which a half teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved.

Wind colic is promptly relieved by peppermint essence taken in a little warm water. For small children it may be sweetened. Peppermint is also good, but it should be used with caution. Sickness of the stomach is most promptly relieved by drinking a teaspoonful of the tincture of ginger, if it brings the offending matter up, the better.

A teaspoonful of ground mustard in a cupful of warm water is a prompt and reliable emetic and should be resorted to in cases of poisoning or cramps in the stomach from over-eating.

Avoid purgatives or strong physics, as they not only do no good, but are positively hurtful. Pills may relieve for the time, but they seldom cure. Care of the Teeth

The enamel covering our teeth will last as long as we do if we intelligently co-operate in the care of them. This may be accomplished by simply having a visit once a month to a reliable dentist and having the teeth given a thorough cleaning—this to be followed up by daily faithful brushing and retiring and after each meal.

Cleaning Wallpaper To clean wallpaper, first brush the walls thoroughly clean by means of a duster tied over a house-handled broom and wipe with clean cloths till all dirt is removed.

Then cut a stale loaf in four, and with this lightly wipe the paper, holding the bread by the crust, beginning at the top and rubbing downwards, never up or across.

To Develop Bust Cocos butter is excellent for developing the bust. Simply melt the cocoa butter and massage gently with a circular motion.

This is also an excellent exercise: Double the fists as tightly as possible, bringing them together in front with the arms on a level with the shoulders, slowly open the arms as widely as possible. Do this 100 times every night. Deepening breathing will also help to develop the bust.

The Daily Fashion Hint.

If one likes, merely be pocket effects to finish the dress. The gores of the front and back, too, also give fullness, and the pattern is one easy to make and which will hang well and not "give" with hard usage, says the Eastern Argus. Nothing makes a woman in a tailored costume look quite as chic as a well hanging skirt.
Another convenience about this skirt is the fact that it fastens in front, and this also insures a perpetually neat appearance.
The material of which it is made is a silky-colored tan tussore silk, of that heavy weave that is so much used for suitings for men and women.
The popularity of tussore and pongee is due to the fact that they are so easily cleaned at home, and spare those large cleaning bills which run up the price of a wardrobe beyond the limit of many pockets.
The tussore in this dress is heavy as to quality, and is shot with an inconspicuous dark blue stripe. Buttons of either dark blue or tan may be used, and button molds cost only about 2 cents a dozen. If one does not like to cover buttons—and nothing is easier—there are shops where this is done for a mere trifle, or one may purchase braid buttons of a suitable kind. I do not think metal or pearl buttons look well on this sort of a tailored skirt, although so many people wear them, that is a matter of taste.
A pattern of this sort is intended for the more solid weights of wool, silk, mixed wool and silk, and canvas and heavy cotton and linen fabrics. It will not set prettily if made of thinner material unless the pleats are omitted and the materials gathered under the pockets instead of being laid in pleats there. Thin goods will not hold pleats in shape long, and muslin pleats are an abomination.
Silk Undergarments
Crepe de chine as a material for underclothes is thoroughly established. The charming, almost untried models in the heavy quality, which were used last winter have given way to the lighter weights, lace trimmed or ribbon run, which are most appropriate to the warm weather.
It is well to remember, in buying silk undergarments, that a flesh color or pink is preferable to white, as washing only makes it prettier, while the white is almost sure to become yellow with continued trips to the laundry.
Lovely as the silk materials undoubtedly are and practical, as they have shown themselves, there are women after all for whom linen remains the material par excellence for underclothes. Similar forms, less elaboration, are noticed here also.
Feather stitching and handrun tucks form the only decoration of some of the new French underwear. Many gowns and chemises have no ornamentation at all, except large buttons, which in an empire line through which are drawn inch-wide pink ribbons. Fillet lace and Russian lace are substantial in wearing qualities and look ephemeral.
The favorite envelope chemise which has been adopted with so great an enthusiasm is procurable now in different price qualities of handkerchief linen, as well as in the humbler batiste, in both the mercerized and unmercerized varieties.
Warmer weather displaces the glove-silk or crepe de chine knickers in favor of muslin and linens. Many women whose winter wear is the envelope chemise under the corset, and jersey knickers and brassiere over it change in summer to a combination of drawers and corset cover of washable materials; and so the shops are showing these in all qualities and prices.
Quite new is the adaptation of the envelope chemise idea to the drawers of this combination.

PEACE VIEWS BAR HER FROM ITALY

Having been politely requested by the Italian government to leave Italy because of her "pacifist" writings, Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, prominent suffrage worker and wife of Eugen Boissevain, a native of Holland, has arrived in America. As Mrs. Boissevain explained, the Italian government is not going in for pacifist war correspondents now. But through the whole business, she added, the Italian officials were politeness personified, having almost literally "bowed" her out of the country. Mrs. Boissevain was a correspondent for an American periodical at the time she was ordered to leave Italy.

to the hips, but belted at the normal waistline, continues. This is prettiest when the bodice material is different in color from that of the skirt.

The Evening Dress
A novel touch in an evening dress is a new side train that loops up to form draperies when the wearer is dancing. The gown is of ivory white panne velvet and silver lace.

Black Velvet Dress
An adjustable dress of black velvet can be worn for afternoon or evening. Simply remove the lace edging the corsage and fill in neck and sleeves with a satin gump.

A Charming Gown
A charming gown is of white net with blossoms hung from the tabs of silver draperies. Another pretty decoration consists of bowknots of silver ribbon.

For One-Piece Frock
For one-piece frocks a combination of serge and silk is more attractive than one of serge alone, and equally suitable for general wear.

Silk Jersey Waists
Silk jersey waists are of bright colors—rose, garnet, light green, royal purple, French blue, and so on. As a rule they are of a military character.

New Evening gown
A lovely blue-and-silver evening gown shows the uneven bottom, which is a feature of the fashionable gown and the cascaded side drapery.

Reliable Recipes
Soup and Economy
Economy is the finest recommendation a cook can have nowadays. But economy should not mean poor food, nor that which does not nourish and satisfy. The careful housewife is only economical in so far as that which she prepares will keep her family healthy, and ready each day for their work.

Of all foods, there is none more nourishing or cheaper than soup. The peasant of France, the traveler across the desert, the explorer in Alaska, as well as the dwellers in big cities, can eat nothing that is more quickly converted into energy than soups and broths for broths are only first cousins to soups.
Most women think they must buy meat as a basis for soup. Not at all; you can always have soup stock on hand by using the cuttings, trimmings and bones from your roast and stewed meats.
French women always have a stock pot on the back of the range and into this they throw not only these articles, but bits of vegetables, leftovers of cooked meats and almost everything that we prodigal Americans discard.
When you buy a roast of beef or lamb, have the butchers save and crack small every bone and put these and the odd pieces he gives you into a large granite pan, being careful to discard any portion not perfectly fresh. Cover with cold water and allow to come to the boil gradually, skimming carefully. For three or four hours simmer gently, then when the nutriment has all been extracted drain through a colander. Stand aside until cool, skim the fat from the top and you will have stock sufficient to use two or three times as a basis for good soup.
In a large family there is no need to spend money for soup stock, if this plan is followed, as there will be plenty of bones and cuttings each week says the "Daily Argus." Keep the stock on ice.
Always keep on hand bits of celery and especially the tops, scraps of vegetables, left over from meals, seasonings of all kinds from bay leaf to tobacco sauce. These you will find invaluable when making soup.

Bean Soup
In the winter the cheapest and easiest prepared soups are those made of dried peas, lentils and beans. A pot of bean soup made with salt pork, sufficient for a family of six persons for two dinners and an extra lunch, was made at the cost of fourteen cents. A half a pound of salt pork, costing eight cents, was put in a pot and covered with about three quarts of water. A quart of small round beans which cost five cents, had been soaked overnight. These were drained and added to the soup, then boiled gently for two or three hours.
The seasoning was celery tops and a cent's worth of parsley, with a dash of paprika. This is a highly nourishing soup.
If you prefer not to use salt pork this soup can be made by adding soup stock to the beans and part milk instead of so much water.

Dried Lima Bean Soup
Dried lima beans, which are eight cents a pint, can be boiled as a vegetable for one day's dinner and if you cook enough of them, those left over can be mashed through a colander, added to soup stock, and presto! the soup for the next evening's dinner.

Vegetable Soup
Vegetable soups are made simply by adding to the stock those vegetables you like best. Carrots, turnips, onions, tomatoes, barley, rice are all good; in fact, a soup made of these without straining is an excellent soup for a cold winter's night, but too heavy for this time of the year.

Dried Pea Soup
Dried pea soup is made the same as lentil soup and is just as economical. If you desire a finer soup, buy a can of green peas for eight or ten cents a can, press and strain them through a colander, add them to a quart of stock and after seasoning with salt and pepper and a drop of onion juice, add a quart of milk. This is not so cheap as the dried peas as it takes two cans of peas for six people, but it makes a delicious soup for a company dinner.

There was a heavenly light in her very face

I think, now that I have seen "The Goddess" I know why Joan of Arc had that mysterious angelic color in her expression. Because her mission—the bigness of it—the realization of the undertaking that was her burden—the nation that was pleading with her to save it—was reflected in her life and expression.

And I think that it is precisely these emotions which inspired Anita—I mean Celestia. (They are now one and the same). As a woman from Heaven her mission is to save the world. And in her costume and with the settings that lend atmosphere to her person, she has gradually come to believe in the spirituality of her character.

Such playing is more than real acting. It is nearer to the attitude of the inspired minister or the beatifying Sister of Mercy.

Interpretation and Prejudice
Dr. Eugene E. Ayres delivered the Marcellian address at the open Crozet Theological Seminary, on "Interpretation and Prejudice." The reporter gives the following "gems" from the address:

"A mind that has no prejudice is not a simply mind. A man's prejudices differentiate him from other men. No two men have the same prejudices, because no two men have the same experiences. Prejudice is a foster mother of ingenuity. Allegorism was a famous resort of the interpreters for 1,400 years. Since the days of Calvin they have denounced allegorism on principle and resorted to it only when necessary. We are much more loyal to our own experiences. Men's minds react on their environment as one never dreamed they would. Prejudice is always vindicating. It is helping a passage was originally intended for allegory it is proper to interpret it as such. The traditionalist assumes the inspiration of the Bible; the radical denies it, and the new conservative, after careful study, finds it. The New Testament would soon cease to hold the lofty place it now holds if it were easily understood."

The England of Today
Mrs. Charles Brown, wife of the pastor of Fernie Baptist Church, London, England, writes in the Baptist Times on "Women at Home and Abroad."

During these past months of our country's tribulation, what searchings of heart we have experienced! We have been asking ourselves and each other, Has England really been drifting away from God, becoming more and more given up, powerless to strike a death-blow at the drink traffic—her worst foe—and tolerant of impurity in her literature and amusements in an increasing degree? While we feel that we have taken the noblest course to hold the lofty place it now holds if it were easily understood."

Rev. B. E. Graham, of N. S., on Chaplain to His Majesty's Forces, is a member of the Society. Rev. Dr. Harrison has a splendid and vigorous article in the Christian Advocate, (Nashville), on "Unexpected Confirmations, some fundamental truths of Christianity are being strongly confirmed."

A Pay-in Investment
Baptist in the Maritime Provinces as well as in Texas, would do well to take the following to heart:
Dr. George W. Truett, of Texas, says: "In general I want to say that one of the weakest places in our denominational life is the neglect of the denominational paper. Surely most of us, if not all of us, need the sharpest kind of rebuke for dereliction with reference to the denominational paper. It will pay, immeasurably pay in all directions, pay perhaps beyond any other denominational investment for pastors, teachers, deacons and all the rest to magnify the denominational paper. It ought to be counted a disgrace for a minister, a family not to receive the denominational paper."

Pastoral Work
Rev. Robert Stuart MacArthur, D.D., writes: "It is almost impossible to overestimate the value of faithful pastoral work in building up a church. A pastor can never really preach with power to men and women until he has seen them and their families in their own homes. There is, it will be frankly admitted, great joy, at a certain stage in a man's life, when he is relieved of pastoral care. This care is great. It is varied, and often extremely oppressive. There is a close, intimate relation between the words "care" and "cure"; if we are to cure souls, we must cure for souls. The French word for a minister, a curate, a parson, a priest, is cure; it is, simply our word care transformed into the word cure, in its practical application to a religious functionary. The care of souls is the most serious burden that can come into our life. The pastor who truly does his work must really feel this care. If he does not care for souls he cannot cure souls. It is very well to say that a pastor

Both Have Advantages
The teams as a whole, Boston seems to have the edge in pitchers and outfielders with the Phillies the stronger in catchers and infielders. As pitching is the main asset in a short series, or has been proven so in the past, it seems the Red Sox must be considered as having the better chance of success.
That Alexander may win three games during the series is not beyond the realm of the possible. Mathewson turned the trick in 1905 and Adams won three games for Pittsburgh against Detroit in 1909. Alexander seems as strong physically as either Adams or Mathewson and undoubtedly he has as much machine as either.

MOOSE HUNTING IN NEW BRUNSWICK

A Holiday in the Sportsman's Paradise as described by Sir T. Edmond Grattan, Bart.
By Sir T. Edmond Grattan, Bart. Moose-hunting in New Brunswick is the fall is a most fascinating sport. The clean, fresh air, the wonderful scenery and the active, wholesome life one leads make it a most desirable experience—more especially if one is lucky enough to succeed in one's undertaking.
In moose-hunting much depends on your guides. If you can secure the services of good ones, skilled in the lore of the wilderness, ready in the many emergencies of camp life, and companionable withal, then you are in clover. I was very much so on the expedition I have in mind. My guides—father and son, typical New Brunswickers of Scotch descent—lived on a tidy farm of some five hundred acres on the verge of the backwoods, where the still unquenched forest thrusts out its long tentacles into the plain.
We started one fine morning in September on horseback, leading a couple of spare horses laden with our impediments, and took the trail up country. Our roads—which soon became a mere track—wound about among hills; over water courses, spanned at first by rough timber bridges; and through swamps, more or less "corduroyed"; but we soon left these evidences of primitive road-making behind and the forest allowed us up. The going became none too good, but our horses were clever and sure-footed, and with occasional halts to boil our kettle and refresh ourselves with most potent tea, we made our destination successfully about nightfall—a deserted lumber camp, and a very comfortable headquarters it proved to be. There we unpacked, and made ourselves at home.
Next morning we sent the horses back, and set about our business in earnest. Our camp was well chosen. It was situated on the side of a fair-sized stream, free of rough spots, and discovered—with pools at intervals quite useful for washing. All about us stretched the silent forest, gorgeous beyond description in its autumn coloring, maples and birches, beeches and poplars, and a variety of reds and scarlets and purples, oranges and yellows and browns, flaring away against the sombre background of the spruces and pines. No mere subdued harmony of symphony of color, but a riotous and brilliant hue, a whole grand orchestra of innumerable tones.
From the moose, or business, point of view the situation seemed good; their tracks were everywhere.
Our daily program was roughly as follows. Up before daybreak we would steal off alone the woods, by moose or bears or deer, until we reached some fairly open glade, where we would begin "calling" moose.
Calling moose is a somewhat weird performance. The idea is to imitate the cry of the cow-moose, and so attract the male of the species. The instrument used is a birch-bark trumpet, and the making of this instrument is a work of considerable dexterity. When used by an expert it emits an amazing sound, which carries for miles and miles. "Calling" is done at dawn and sunset. The moose is an extraordinarily wary animal, with an astonishing sense of hearing and of smell. He is difficult to attract, and as he lives in a dense forest, he is by no means easy to see, for all his great size, when you do succeed in enticing him within shooting distance, I have been in the middle of a troop of moose without being able to see one of them in the dusk.
Being arrived at a likely "calling" place, we commenced operations, and presently the strident bellow of the moose-horn wakes the slumbering silence and goes echoing down the

MOOSE HUNTING IN NEW BRUNSWICK

A Holiday in the Sportsman's Paradise as described by Sir T. Edmond Gratton, Bart.

By Sir T. Edmond Gratton, Bart. Moose-hunting in New Brunswick in the fall is a most fascinating sport. The clean, fresh air, the wonderful scenery and the active, wholesome life leads makes it the most desirable experience—more especially if one is lucky enough to succeed in one's undertaking.

In moose-hunting much depends on your guides. If you can secure the services of good ones, skilled in the lore of the wilderness, ready in the many emergencies of camp life, and companionable withal, then you are in clover. I was very much so on an expedition I have in mind.

My guides—father and son, typical New Brunswickers of Scotch descent—lived on a tidy farm of some five hundred acres on the verge of the backwoods, where the still unspoiled forest thrusts out its long tentacles into the plain.

We started one fine morning in September on horseback, leading a couple of spare horses laden with our impediments, and took the trail up country. Our roads—which soon became a mere track—wound about among hills; over water courses, hopped at first by rough timber ridges; and through swamps, more or less "corduroyed"; but we soon left these evidences of primitive road-making behind and the forest allowed us up. The going became none too good, but our horses were clever and sure-footed, and with occasional halts to boil our kettles and refresh ourselves with moist potato tea, we made our destination successfully about nightfall—a deserted lumber camp, and a very comfortable headquarters it proved to be. There we unpacked, and made ourselves at home.

Next morning we sent the horses back, and set about our business in earnest. Our camp was well chosen. It was situated on the side of a fairly sized stream full of trout—as I soon discovered—with pools at intervals quite useful for washing. All about us stretched the silent forest, gorgeous beyond description in its autumn coloring, maples and birches, beeches and poplars, a amazing collection of reds and scarlets and purples, oranges and yellows and browns, flaring away against the sombre background of the spruces and pines. No mere subdued harmony or sympathy of color, but a marvel of brilliant hues, a whole grand orchestra of innumerable tones.

From the moose, or business, point of view the situation seemed good; their tracks were everywhere. Our daily program was roughly as follows. Up before daybreak, we would steal off along one of the tracks made from time immemorial by moose or bears or deer until we reached some fairly open glade, where we would begin "calling."

Calling moose is a somewhat weird performance. The idea is to imitate the cry of the cow-moose, and so attract the male within shooting distance. The instrument used is a birch-bark trumpet, and the making of this instrument is a work of considerable dexterity. When used by an expert it emits an amazing sound, which carries for miles.

"Calling" is done at dawn and sunset. The moose is an extraordinarily wary animal, with an astonishing sense of hearing and of smell. He is difficult to attract, and as he lives in dense forest, he is by no means easy to see, for all his great size, when you do succeed in enticing him within shooting distance. I have been in the middle of a troop of moose without being able to see one of them in the dusk.

Being arrived at a likely "calling" place, we commenced operations, and presently the strident bellow of the moose-horn wakes the slumbering silence and goes echoing down the forest glades. Then we listen. It is curious what a number of noises there are in these so-called "silent" forests. It is only when listening intently—as one does after moose-calls—that one realizes what an amazing number of noises there are in the depths of these primeval woods.

The low whistlers of little birds, the scurrings and chuckings of squirrels, the drumming and fluttering of partridges, the snawing of beavers, the occasional crashings of falling trees, the croakings and gurglings of frogs—these noises in the woods when moving about, but catches them when listening intently as the echoes of the moose-call die away. None of these sounds, however, are the sound we want to hear. And we listen and wait, and listen again, speaking, if we speak at all, only in whisper, or making signs to one another.

The Answer! By and by we try another call. Suddenly we start—we have caught a far-off sound that sets our blood tingling. "Is it an answer? We listen again. Yes! An answer, surely! From far away a faint "Whuff! Whuff!" steals to our ears through the trees. A bull has heard our call. "Will he come? We call again, and again we listen. Yes! He is on the move. "Whuff! Whuff!"—we can hear it more plainly now, and we point out the direction to each other. How is the wind? The thought strikes us simultaneously. We suck our fingers and hold them up. If the great beast is down wind it is no use; he won't come. But perchance the wind is right, or better still, perhaps there is none at all, and we nod to each other. "He may come. Try another call!"

Again we listen. A few seconds' interval, and there is another "Whuff! Whuff!" much nearer this time, followed by a faint snort, and then silence. Suddenly away in the distance, there is a faint crack. Again we start. The bull has broken a dead branch in his passage. He is still coming. We blow two short grunts through the horn, our last card. But now—horror of horrors!—there is a new development. A fog is rising from the marshy ground! First it is a mere haze, then it begins to look like patches of white wool.

These grow and grow and join together, and presently all the hollows are blotted out, and still the woolly clouds rise and spread. And now tree clumps stand out like islands in a grey water, and the horrid tide keeps rising and something our landmarks one by one, while all the time the moose draws nearer and nearer. He is quite near now. His grunting snort cannot be many hundred yards off, and the windfalls crack as he snubs them with his hoofs, and his snailers ring against the trees. And there is a new sound—"Plosh! Plosh! Plosh!" as he pounds through the bog. Then silence, and the wool-packs rise, and how dies within us. The moose is listening, drawing in the smell of the damp air. Then a loud "Whuff!" quite close. We start and peer into the fog. "Plosh! Plosh! Plosh! Splash! Splash! Whuff!" as he makes his stealthy way through the water and rushes and fern. We can hear our hearts beating. We can see nothing—"Whuff! Whuff! Whuff!" splash! splash! splash! He must be nearly beside us, yet we can see nothing. We are completely lost in the woolly fog. Then there comes a savage "Whuff!" with an incredibly vicious snarl in it. He has waded! A small dead pine clings down beside us.

In the Moonlight Now we take heart of grace. The moon may help us, and we pray she may. As she sails upwards the groves smaller and smaller, silencing the alders and the scrub here and there with her pale waning beams. All the time our moose is coming. We have stopped calling, and we wait and wait and he is near. We hear him plainly, though he seems to be in no particular hurry. But he is coming still. Every now and then his "Whuff!" breaks the silence like a hoarse cough. But now—horror of horrors!—there is a new development. A fog is rising from the marshy ground! First it is a mere haze, then it begins to look like patches of white wool.

Nothing has happened for an hour or more. The sun has long since disappeared behind the tree crests, and it is growing decidedly chilly. We call once more and at last, some three or four miles off, we get an answer. Then our duty begins. We call and listen, and call and listen. Our moose, however, is a suspicious creature. He takes his time, and by the western sky, or what we can see of it, turns from yellow to pale green, and "Venue twinkles out. And still the moose draws nearer and nearer, while we wait and wait and listen, and pray that he may hurry up and now the eastern sky is grey, and in the west it is a pale blue, and next the moon starts up with a faint glow through gloom deepens. Still the "Whuff! Whuff!" comes to us at intervals, the pines, while round about us the thought it shifts a point or two between the calls. Our moose is decidedly suspicious. And now the moon is shining behind the tree, and up and she climbs and presently swings above us a large red ball.

Now we take heart of grace. The moon may help us, and we pray she may. As she sails upwards the groves smaller and smaller, silencing the alders and the scrub here and there with her pale waning beams. All the time our moose is coming. HARDSHIPS OF PERSIAN GULF CAMPAIGN

Desert Warfare is described by an officer of the British Army—Fighting heat and thirst.

In reference to the Persian Gulf campaign—the success which has attended it, the "almost incredible" toll those engaged in it have performed, and the little that has been officially told of its doings, the following from the letter of an officer in the Royal Field Artillery gives an idea of what campaigning in the summer in the Persian Gulf means in physical effort and exhaustion:—

As we are hung up by a stretch of water nearly two miles wide, I am trying to jot down some of our doings. We continued our march with a somewhat smaller force, into the unknown desert. We started at 6 p.m. very much overladen, owing to the fact that they were cut off and had to carry four days' supplies also transport animals were going sick. When we started ter here was pretty bad, but not very salt. We just lay down for the night, and started again at 4 a.m. The going was very heavy that morning, and at about 7, when the sun was very hot, the infantry got very done. We cannot carry nearly enough water, and one's tongue soon swells when the sun gets up. After marching about eight miles we struck water and got settled into camp about 8.30 a.m. This was a bad camp on burning sand, and a hot damp wind blew off the marsh all day. The temperature was 110 deg., and that for damp heat is about the limit of human endurance. A great many men went sick. We lived through the day somehow, and moved on again at 6.30 p.m. The going was better, but we had to stop at dark owing to holes, so only covered five miles. Then we lay down for the night.

No water left, so when we moved off again at 8.30 a.m. we had not much water left to carry us along the eight miles to the next camp, where there was a fairly decent looking bit of marsh. Water, however, proved to be very salt, added, and it appeared to have the same effect as the former. This camp was on hard alluvial plain, and the heat was awful. I do not know what the actual temperature was, but in the hospital tent it varied between 125 deg. and 130 deg. All this time we were living on fat, sugar, hard cheese, tinned beef, and biscuit, the latter so hard that only those with good teeth can eat it unsoaked. We lay down for an hour's rest at 3 a.m. and at 4 started and picked up the infantry, who went ahead of us. That morning at 8 a.m. we struck marsh and halted for the day.

At midday I was sent for and told to go on eight miles and find out if we could get across the two miles of marsh. I had to go across the desert with a guide and my room. I started at 2 p.m., having forced some food down my throat—you can't imagine what it was like. I covered the eight miles in about 1 1/2 hours, and my horse was about cooked. My goggles were so hot that they blistered where they touched my face even under the shade of my helmet.

Two days later—Soon after writing the above I heard the six rats for our guns were ready, so I set off at 3 o'clock with 24 men to fetch them into camp. A very strong duststorm was blowing and quite a big sea running on the marsh. We went in Arab dug-outs, and two of them capsized on the way. We got to the rats and then had to push them back to camp through two miles of water from 1 ft. to 5 ft. deep. They were mired in the wrong side of the channel, and what with the wind and strogy current I was thankful no one was drowned. I got back to camp at 7.30, having been in the water for three hours. The rats were very heavy and wading in the mud made the work much harder.

and we were fairly cooked that night when we got back. As I had seen so much of the marsh I set out at 4.30 next morning with the first party—namely, eight ammunition wagons and the wagons, which were then loaded in their boats. We all got safely into the next camp, and I then had to start unloading the wagons from the Arab boats, with no stores to help me and no sort of dock to run the boats into. At about 3 p.m. the remaining four wagons and another 60 horses turned up.

Sport of Submarine "Hunting" Is Found Only in Fiction

Life Aboard Craft on Watch in North Sea for German Submersibles is a Maddening Vigil, Declare Crews who have Robbed Kaiser of One of His Chief Weapons.

The London Daily Express publishes the following from its correspondent at Edinburgh:

A statement has been published by Mr. Frederick Palmer, the American author privileged to make a public communication of the Grand Fleet that hunting submarines is considered great sport. This is a travesty on one of the hardest and most monotonous branches of the services of the fearless guardians of our shores. The First Lord of the Admiralty announced that the losses inflicted upon German submarines have been formidable. By doing so Mr. Balfour crystallized the stories told by the naval men who have come in from the North Sea to those who move among them in the anchorage on the eastern seaboard. With Teutonic bragadocio, the Germans, it is popularly supposed, replied to Mr. Balfour's message with the sinking of the Hesperian, just as they were credited with having answered Mr. Churchill's speech at Liverpool, when he threatened the German ships if they would not come out would dig out like rats from a hole, with the sinking of the Hogue, the Cressy and the Aboukir. But the navy do not believe the Germans give replies on these lines. The stake is too serious for spiking like this, and in the stern game where men are constantly looking into the jaws of death you will not get any of them to believe that the Germans are playing for fireworks displays—no, they are out for results all the way.

Life Filled with Perils.
The officers and men of the battle ships and armed cruisers are envious of those engaged in submarine hunting, which are regarded as great sport. So says the American writer. That statement may have been made, but it is the greatest possible travesty on a dangerous, monotonous and exposed life; so much is it so that it is inconceivable to any acquainted with the sea that any naval officer or seaman could frame the words. There are 2,300 trawlers, mine sweepers and other auxiliaries on duty, outside the regular service, keeping the North Sea clear. We always believed there were about 3,000 ships at work around our coast and what is this matchless armada searching for on the lone wastes?

What is this quarry that gives the great sport? Reliable figures are not available of how many German submarines were afloat when war was declared. Possibly at the outset fifty. Painful stories have been published of submarines built in sections and carried overland—vessels of 1,000 tons be it noted, all fitted with most finely adjusted and delicate machinery. To the Germans, we grant, everything is possible, but setting aside such ideas and coming to absolute facts, the German yards would not turn out in a year more than twenty new submarines.

Even supposing not a single submarine is being retained outside Kiel, off Heligoland, or in the Baltic, for a year 3,000 ships have enjoyed great sport and been the envy of the fleet, searching for about half a hundred underwater craft. No angling competition on a turgid canal was ever more boring or lustreless in individual success. A summer sea, a sound comfortable craft winding lazily through the Western Kyles, with a background of blue Scottish mountains, capped with a wreath of gossamer shreds of mist, a little music and well cooked, solid sustaining meals for hungry men. What a champion life the sailor leads hunting submarines! No wonder he looks such a jolly, keen eyed, clean skinned fellow when ashore. It is infinitely better than shooting seals off Mull or chasing seahorses outside Coll. So the picture in fancy. But what of it in reality? The smaller craft have their month divided up, more than half of the thirty days on actual patrol work, about one-third they come back and lie at their moorings, ready at any moment to go out and reinforce a given unit; the remaining few days they come into the harbor and are then on shore leave. But their work when out is no sport.

"A Maddening Vigil."
Take the men who are patrolling given tracks. They do ten miles either way—back and forward, back and forward, no change, no variety—looking, watching, ever ready should the skulking foe, who has a million square miles to hide in, suddenly rise in the limited area they guard. Night and day there stands the sun layer, his own master when to fire. To watch these vessels from land, even at long intervals, as they pass back and forward, grows tiresome.

In the weather life is passable, but take it the dirty winter nights they passed through. Where was the sport in living under conditions which led torpedo boats above high water mark, a March gale tossing them ashore like corks, and the gales of the North Sea are as fierce and bitter as any on ocean.

Respite from active service are now happily more numerous than in the anxious days when we thought the German fleet might put its nose out, but it was a melancholy experience to move slowly about the North Sea, day after day, week after week and month after month—nothing in sight but water, and no one on board knowing where they were except the captain.

It was a maddening vigil, over the danger lurking that the fate that overtook the Hawke and the Pathfinder in broad daylight might overtake them at any moment. Never was it sport. The losses inflicted on the German submarines have been formidable. They are more than formidable, they are irretrievable. When this war started we had still to acquire actual experience in fighting the underwater craft. We had to learn, but after the Hogue, the Cressy and the Aboukir, there was a lull to the Pathfinder and the Hawke, and it took a long time before the Germans did anything to the formidable. But we have grappled with the difficulty, and we have means for tracing submarines immediately they enter given areas that are among the most carefully guarded secrets of the navy.

Trailing a Submarine
What is common knowledge among those acquainted with naval work is that we can trace a submarine traveling under water through a curious formation of the wave it creates on the surface. Our sailors are now trained to pick out this wave. Even lay men in navigation will readily understand that if there is a large object under the water, approximating a thousand tons, even at a considerable depth, it will cause a displacement of the surface. This wave is not easy to pick out on a tumultuous sea, but we can do it, and, moreover, once we get on this wave there is no difficulty in following it, for the submarine is constantly sending up little air bubbles. Once on this track the submarine is doomed. It has no escape. But there are not many German submarines now. We keep sinking them, towing them in, blowing them up.

I was standing on the east coast less than a month ago when three destroyers came steaming up not three miles out. Two were steaming abreast, and one stood back about midway. They were going about half-speed. I watched them through the glasses until suddenly the rear destroyer made a spurt forward. She gathered speed so that the foam rushed over her bows.

The others zig-zagged and the guns boomed out. The destroyers were twisting and twirling in a maze of movements the while their guns cracked. Soon the firing ceased, and the destroyers steamed about over the apparently vacant sea for about half an hour. Then they turned seaward and steamed away. Their mission was accomplished.

On the next incoming tide the shore was strewn with oil. Life in these submarines is on a razor's edge. The Germans know that the fearless, tireless British navy has swept from the sea the bulk of its submarines. It takes years to train the highly skilled men for submarine work.

If the Germans have many boats left—and the facts are against them having many—they cannot have capable men or skilled officers to work the most delicate machine in the whole service of the sea.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

Hair Becomes Charming, Wavy, Lustrous and Thick in Few Moments.

Every Bit of Dandruff Disappears and Hair Stops Coming Out.

For 25 cents you can save your hair, in less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

NEW WAR ZONE CREATED BY BULGARIA'S ENTRY INTO CONFLICT

KING CONSTANTINE

KING FERDINAND

Preparations for eventualities in the Balkans continue to be pushed forward, and, according to reports from Athens, a big Allied contingent for Serbia has been landed at Salonica and Russian war ships have appeared off the Bulgarian port of Varna. No information is forthcoming as to the nationality of the number of the forces landed at Salonica, but military experts agree that the landing is an accomplished fact and that Hellenic public opinion is quite reconciled to this infraction of Greek neutrality. It also is stated that the Greek government, which has made formal protest on the point, has been officially informed that the troops are intended solely to help Serbia against an Austro-German invasion and to guard Serbia's railway communications along the Vardar Valley against a Bulgarian attack.

GOVT EXTENDS ORDER BARRING FOREIGN LABOR

Prohibition against their entry through Pacific ports or U. S. extended for another six months.

Special to The Standard, Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The government has extended for another period of six months the prohibition against the entry of artisans or laborers into British Columbia through Pacific coast ports or across the American border. By the previous orders the reason given is the lack of employment for workmen coming from outside.

RED CROSS DONATIONS.

There will be a special meeting of the St. John Branch of the Red Cross on Tuesday afternoon, October 12, at 3.30 p. m., to consider the best plan of forwarding the campaign to help the British Red Cross. The thanks of the St. John Branch are given for the following contributions from the crew of the tug Helena: Capt. David Reid, $3.00; John Thorne, 1st engineer, 3.00; R. McLellan, 1.00; J. Hughes, 1.50; A. Wilson, 1.00; H. Lauder, 1.00; George Post, 1.00; J. Gordon, .50; E. Tufts, .50; W. Reid, 1.00. Total, $13.50. To St. Philip's church for proceeds of concert (part of a campaign being carried out in other parts of Canada), $12.00.

PATRIOTIC FUND.

Mayor Frink received $50 yesterday from M. G. Toed for the Patriotic Fund. C. B. Allen, secretary-treasurer, acknowledges receipt of the following sums from the employees of the dredge W. S. Fielding: C. F. Lewis, Henry Postbrooke, R. B. Olin, $5 each; J. W. Wellings, Benjamin Haines, M. Collins, S. L. Murphy, Wm. Bennett, $2 each; A. L. Bustard, $1.50; E. Markie, J. McMasters, L. FUNERALS.

The remains of Mrs. Marina M. Ochs were brought to the city Friday from Westfield. From the I.C.R. depot they were conveyed to Fernhill cemetery where interment took place. Ven. Archbishop Raymond conducted the services. The funeral of Walter J. Pincher took place at 2.30 o'clock from his late residence, Church avenue, Fairville. A large delegation from Willis Lodge, L.O.L., attended and the service was conducted by Rev. George Barie. Interment was in Cedar Hill. The funeral of Thomas Marshall took place from his late residence at Milford to St. Rose's church, where the burial service was read by Rev. Charles Collins. Interment in Sand Cove cemetery.

Interesting Contests For Boys and Girls

A COMPOSITION CONTEST

As many of the boys and girls who read the Children's Corner each week are continually asking for a contest in which they may be allowed to write an essay, or story, I have decided to let you have some this week. Write an essay or story about any subject you wish, such as "A trip in a submarine," "How I spent my holidays," or any other subject you think of. Use only one side of the paper, and enclose with your attempt ONE coupon only. All essays must reach this office by Wednesday. To the boy or girl who sends me in what I think is the best written essay, I shall award a BEAUTIFUL WATCH, or any other prize of a similar nature you may prefer. I shall also publish the winner's story.

UNCLE DICK, THE STANDARD, ST. JOHN, N. B.

A screw is a small part of a battery leading to short-circuiting, spilling but may be very important. Any weak spot is sure to make trouble and if the bottom of a battery box comes loose, the constant jolting and vibration of motor travel will soon break the sealing compound and possibly the jars, leading to short-circuiting, spilling acid and other troubles. All screws used in Willard storage batteries are made of good steel, and are heavily copper and lead-coated to make them proof against acid corrosion.
