Dead bodies were stretched about, and everything was a mass of con- fusion. Joseph Gilmonr, the hoursman of oit No. 2, was found dead near the engine at the bottom of the shaft, and in the afternoon three more hodies were recovered. They were brought up by the No. 2 shaft, near to the bot- tom of which they had been seen lying. The bodies were those of young lads aged from 12 to 14, and they presented a shocking sight when brought to the surface. They were literally encased in mud: the faces were all blackened a'nd charred. Two of them, named a'nd charred. Two of them, named a'nd charred they were pony drivers, Bai, 'ney were discovered lying be- side the 'tentified as a son of a man named Gilm 'ar, whose corpse was re- moved from t.' to same pit at an earlier hour. During the earlier part of the even- ing vigorous effort.' were made to reach the sufferers in No. 3 pit who had been heard calling it.'t assistance, The search parties, reliev.'d at bytel intervals, were basily, at work' in the blocked shaft; and another exploring party was organized. On reaching the bottom of the shaft they vierte driven back repeatedly by choice- damp. They, however, boldly re- turned to the task to which they had set themselves, and at last succeedd in forcing their way into the gallery which leads to the No. 3 pit. The intelligence that such was the case elicited a cheer from the crowd gathered at the shaft. During an hour which followed, the excitement increased in intensity, and, despite a pitless rain, driven by a strong wind, the number of persons continued to increase at the scene of the explosion. The watchers were rewarded about eleven o'clock, by the information that a few more lives had been sna tched from the tomb. The news in the vague form in which it was first re- ceived was considered too good to be the string party, who, on coming fro m	<ul> <li>implicit faith in the explorers, some of whom had exposed naked lights.</li> <li>The Late Caleb M-Culley, Esq</li> <li>We have been requested to publish the following, which was written by a friend of the late Caleb M-Culley, Esq. The manuscript was first handed to the Advance for publication, but the Manager of that paper showed his personal antagonism to the R. E. Church by mutilating the paragraph in which reference is made to the establishment of the Church in Chatham. It is not usual for editors of papers to carry their personal leelings into public matters, especially church affairs, but then, the Manager is an exception.</li> <li>"At an early hour ou Sunday morning the 28th ult, Chatham lost one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants by the death of Lt. Col. Caleb M'Culley after a very short illness, which he bore with Christian patience and resignation. Born at Ouslow, Colchester County, N. S., on the 29. Nov, 1799, of U. E. Loyal s patents. Very Natural. When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtul reputation, or concerning which he knows notling. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and valuable horse- medicine known as "Darley's condition Powders and Arabian Heave Kemedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other: many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine. or for any complaint af- tecting the wind of horses. Remember the mane and see that the signature of Hu d & Go. is on each package.
