OCTOBER.

There comes a month in the weary year -A month of leisure and healthful rest; When the ripe leaves fall, and the air is cleaned October: the brown, the trisp, the blest.

My life has little enough of bliss : I drag the days of the odd eleven, Counting the time that shall lead to this The month that opens the hunter's heaven.

With the sweep of the hounds upon the track The bark-roofed cabin, the camp-fire's light, The break of the deer and the rifle's crack."

Do you call this wiffing ? I tell you, friend, A life in the forest is past all praise, Give me a dozen such months on end-You may take my balance of years and day

For brick and mortar breed filth and crime, And a pulse of evil that throbs and beats; And men grow withered before their pr With the curse paved in on the lanes and street

And lungs are choked, and shoulders are bowled In the smothering reek of mill and mine: An I Death stalks in on the struggling crowd, But he shuns the shadow of oak and pine.

And of all to which the memory clings, There is naught so sweet as the sunny spots Where our shanties stood by the crystal springs. The vanished bounds, and the lucky shots, -[The "Aldine" for October.

In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Say you do; dearest, and it will give me spirts to go down and tackle those cold beans lef over from yesterday." The Fonda Democrat is responsible for the above paragraph. Pro-bably by next week Mr. Londwick will be prepared to give Charles answer which will undoubtedly run somewhat in this wise "Dear Susan, I do Tackle them beans.
