Fierce Fight In India.
RANGOON, Jan. 10.—A dispatch from Bhamo says that the hostile Kachyens made a desperate attack on the British made a desperate attack on the British outpost at Simal. The British commander, Morton, led his men in a fierce conflict with the enemy, who were repulsed after a struggle, in which Commander Morton himself and five Sepoys were killed, the Kachyens leaving fifteen dead on the field. The Kachyens continue to make desperate resistance to the British, and the subjection of these mountaineers progresses very slowly. They fire on the troops from the jungle and protect their stockades with pits in which sharp bamboo stakes are fixed and covered over as a trap to their enemies.

The French Crisis.

Paris, Jan. 10.—At a Cabinet Council held to day Premier Ribot announced to President Carnot that he and his colleagues recognized that it was necessary to refetthe Cabinet. The Ministers thereupon the Cabinet. The Ministers thereupon collectively presented their resignations to President Carnot, and the president charged M. Ribot with the duty of reconstructing the Ministry. It is understood that M. Ribot will retain the office of Premier, but will exchange the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for the Ministry of the Interior. It is also reported M. Loubet, Minister of Interior, and M. De Freycinet, Minister of Nar, will probably not be found in the reconstructed Cabinet.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Although the resignation of the Ministry caused widespread excitement there was no attempt to create disorder. The order that is prevailing throughout the city is due to the fact that the lawless element well knows that any disturbance will be put down with a strong hand by the military. The House resumed its sittings and elected M. Casimir-Perier President of the Chamber by a majority of 185-yeas, 408; nays, 253.

with "Her Majesty the Queen," which was duly honored.
Hon, G. M. Gibson and Mr. N. Awrey, M.P.P., replied briefly and in appropriate terms to the toast "The Legislative Assembly."
"The Dominion Parliament" was replied to by Mr. Somerville, M.P.; Mr. Gibson, M.P., of Beamsville, and Mr. Charlton, M.P., of Nortolk.

HON. WILFRED LAURIER.
Hon. Wilfred Laurier was given a most enthusiastic reception upon rising to reply to the last-mentioned toast. He thanked the audience for the very hearty way in which he was received. Mr. Laurier denounced the gerrymandering of constituencies by the Conservative party, but said he was not in the least downcast, and was very certain of the ultimate success of the Liberal principles. He believed the result of the last Presidential election showed the great popularity of free trade, and predicted that tree trade only could place Can-Liberal principles. He betteven the teams of the last Presidential election showed the great popularity of free trade, and predicted that free trade only could place Canada on an equal footing with the United States. Unrestricted reciprocity of free trade in natural products with the country to the south was what Canada most wanted at present, and he believed were the Liberal party in power this measure could be obtained. The speaker pronounced as a farce the attempts made by the present Dominion Government to secure unrestricted reciprocity with the United States, and said that when the Liberals obtained power he hoped the doctrine of free trade would have secured such a stronghold on the hearts of Canadians that this policy would be held out to the whole world as their platform.

Mr. Laurier spoke for over an hour. He was given a very attentive hearing and loudly applauded during his address. Other toasts followed, and before midnight the banquet was cancleded.

Tickets have been altered and the value raised from 75 cents to $19 45. The tickets were made good to a station just beyond a junction or division point, and the passenger getting off the train at the junction point would retain the ticket, which, then being of but a few cents' value, would be thrown away or destroyed, thus concealing all traces of the fraud.

Rather a novel state of affairs exists with some of the great railroad systems. The last two years they have bought locomotives so rapidly that there has been a scarcity of engineers, and roads which fill that position by the promotion of iremen have exhausted the supply from that source, having promoted all who have been in the position of firemen long enough to pass the proper examination. On the Big Four a dozen engineers have been employed in the last few months from other roads; still, the company promotes every fireman who can pass the necessary examination. On the Pennsylvania lines there has been a good deal of drawing of men from the less important lines to the more important divisions, where trains are numerous and cool-headed engineers are needed.

They are mounted on six-wheel trucks, with triple brakes, and are vestibuled, so that the maxim of easy motion, safety and freedom from dust are insured. They have a new roof pattern, the empire deck, which largely increases the roomy appearance of the interiors. Fate of Apprentice Coolidge, Who Fell Overboard from a British Bark.

Fate of Apprentice Coolidge, Who Fell Overboard from a British Bark.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. II.—The British bark Counters of Derby, Capt. Watkins, from Genoa, has arrived with the loss of one of the erew, who is sapposed to have been the victim of a shark. The unfortunatewas Sameel Coolidge, an apprentice, 18 years of age.

On Dec. 15, during a heavy gale, all hands were aloft stowing the topsail. Young Coolidge was stationed on the outer end of the yard and the vessel was pitching and rolling furiously. A sudden jerk of the bark threw the lad headlong into the boiling sea. Being a good swimmer he kept himself afloat awhile. Capt. Watkins threw him a life buoy and prepared to launch the lifeboat, but Coolidge disappeared from view and in a moment an immense shark was seen wrestling with an object near where the poor fellow went down.

No trace of Coolidge was afterwards down.

No trace of Coolidge was afterwards seen, although the vessel cruised around for an hour. Capt. Watkins is convinced that Coolidge was devoured by a shark, otherwise his life could have been saved. Coolidge was a son of Capt. George Coolidge was a son of Capt. George Coolidge was a son of Capt. dge, of the life-saving service.

Crippled Condition of the Coal Combine —How the Knockout Was Caused. —How the Knockout Was Caused.

New York, Jan. 10,—The Herald says the backbone of the Reading coal combine has been breken by the withdrawal of the Jersey Central and gives the following as the reason for the latter road's action: The essence of Mr. McLeod's scheme was that the Reading, Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central could get the greater part of the business and control the output of anthractic coal.

The Jersey Central's output for 1892 was 6,000,000 tons, but the Reading was unable to sell more than 5,500,000 tons. Consequently the Central lost the profit on 500,000 tons, amounting to $750,000.

to sell more than 5,500,000 tons. Consequently the Central lost the profit on 500,000 tons, amounting to $750,000. The Reading lost 300,000 tons, the Lebigh Valley lost something, but the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western were gainers, because they mined and sold their ful quota. This showing displeased the Jersey Central directors. The rates established by McLeod gave it a better revenue for 1891, but the earnings should have been greater.

A committee was appointed by the Jersey Central directors to look into the situation, and, if necessary, break the contract with the Reading. The committee asked McLeod how he was going to make up the 500,000 tons he failed to sell for the Jersey Central. He made no satisfactory explanation and the committee replied that they would have to take charge of their own business. President Maxwell verifies the above. "We have withdrawn from the combine," he said, "because we did not get our share of the business last year."

"You will be free to make your own rates now," was suggested.

"We shall establish rates that will enable us to sell our share of the tonnage. There is no reason for cutting rates," was the reply.

"The Advertiser" looks forward with hope to Canada's future as that of an Independent Canadian Nationality, in equally friendly alliance with the United States and with Great Britain helicoing that make a with Great Britain, believing that such a status would be best for Canada, best for Great Britain, and promotive of the best attainable relations with the United States. As to Imperial Federation, sometimes spoken of, the ADVERTISER as yet has seen nothing proposed that bears any stamp of practicability, and in any case infinitely prefers the grander and more really hopeful scheme of a federation of the English-speaking peoples of the world. Towards this consummation a large stride would be taken by a Confederation of the English-speaking people of the North American Continent.

"The Advertiser" advocates prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor; and all expedient general legislation and persuasion in the meantime.

"The Advertiser" is an advocate equal rights Women, whether as regards the franchise, or equal wages for equal work.

"The Advertiser" is a believer in Christian Union, and considers the time has come when the various Christian denominations should come closer together. Christian Union go on !

DR. TALMAGE'S paper contains a fine cut of the proposed "Cathedral of St. John the Divine," to be erected in New York. A magnificent building, it will loom up as a land-mark in the chief city of America. It will be 520 feet in length; its central tower will rise to a height of 445 feet. The in-terior of the dome will be 253 feet from the pavement, the width of the nave 92 feet, and the length of the transept 296 feet, Seven chapels, known as "the Chapels of the Tongues," are included in the design. They will be devoted to services in the seven different languages which the Protestant Episcopal Church uses in the cosmopolitan capital. When they are built citizens of seven different nationalities will be able every Sunday to join in the service and hear a sermon in their respective languages. The choir, which is to be the first portion of the vast structure to be crected, will have a seating accommoda-tion for 1,500 persons, and the entire Cathedral will hold 10,000 persons, Bishop Potter laid the corner stone and a fine address was delivered by Bishop Doane, of Albany. "I am glad to say," said the bishop, "that one of the greatest and most generous of the gifts which will build this cathedral comes from one belonging to another Christian body. I am glad to say there is some good Presbyterian money i my own cathedral also; it is a most hopeful sign of the recognition of what this church

OUR VISITORS. Cold though the weather may be, we need scarcely inform the visiting dairymen that they are warmly welcome to the hospitable and progressive city of London. In recent years, the Forest City has been recognized by very many public organizations as a most central point at which to hold a convention, and the wide-awake dairymen of the West coincide in this view. They find they can reach the city from all points of the compass and return to their nomes with ease and dispatch, while enjoying every needed entertainment during their sederunt.

We welcome the distinguished visitor because of what they have done for the promotion of the great interest which bands them together. It is less than 30 years since the first cheese factory was established in Canada by that most sanguine, genial, energetic New Yorker, the late Harvey Farrington. Since then, co-operative cheese making has become an established industry. Every progressive county in Ontario is studded with factories, and from an export trade in cheese in 1866 valued at $123,494 we have reached an export of about $10,000,000. By 1868, the export of cheese had been increased five-fold. In 1873, it brought $2,280,412; in 1878, $4,121,301; in 1888, $8,928,242. What has happened in cheese may be duplicated in butter, and this the dairymen now realize. They have learned that if they would hold and in crease their market for cheese in Great Britain they must maintain their high standard of excellence. If they would encourage consumption of cheese in Canada, they must put a good article on the market and not disgust consumers with "culls." So in regard to co-operative butter production. Its future is in the hands of the farmers themselves, as the experts at the convention assert.

These great annual gatherings are for the purpose of disseminating the best purpose of asseminating the best information obtainable with regard to the dairy interest. The convention is a splendid school, and the education obtained being of the most practical character good results are certain o flow from its deliberations. Citizens of London recognize the importance of this great farm industry, and as the snipping and importing center of the fine Western farming lands, they will ever have a warm feeling for the men who, by their primary control of the earth and the fruits thereof, really feed us all. Greater success to them,

Benjamin Franklin Butler, the distinguished United States soldier, lawyer, statesman and manufacturer, died te-day at the age of 74. "Ben" Butler has been a for many years. As early as 1853 he was a entered the Senate, and in 1860 he was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Charleston. The convention refusing to reaffirm the principles enunci-Mr. Butler, after taking part in the open-ing debates, declared that Massachusetts would not further participate in its deliberations, on the ground that some of the States had withdrawn. He added as a further objection, "upon the ground that I would not sit in a convention where the African slave trade. which is piracy by the laws of my country, is approvingly advocated." In the same year, he was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

When President Lincoln called for troops to combat the uprising in the South in A STEP towards the ADVERTISER'S practical dream of Christian Union has been taken in overtures made yeaterday before the Foronto Presbytery for a union between he was transferred to the command of Fortress Munroe and the Department of Eastern Virginia. While here, some slaves who had come within his lines were de-manded by their masters. He refused to deliver them up on the ground that they were contraband of war; hence arose the designation of "contrabands" often appl We wish the movement every success. the coast of North Virginia. in those things held by each to be of the highest importance. Let the good work of Farragut passed the forts April 24, 1863, thus virtually capturing New Orleans, and Gen. Butler took possession of the city, governing it with vigor tili November, when he was recalled. Gen. Butler's infamous order, withdrawing protection from women found on the streets of New Orleans after a certain hour, reflected no credit on him, and brought him into popular disfavor. His later war experiences were not characterized by brilliancy, and late in 1864 he retired to his home in Massachusetts not in the best of humor. In 1866 the Repulicans sent him to Congress, in which for a time he took a prominent part. He was the most active of the managers appointed in 1808 by the House of Representatives to conduct the impeachment of President Johnson. General Butler again served in Congress, and was Governor of Massachusetts in 1883. In 1884 he was the Greenback candidate for the Presidency, but did not cut much of a figure on election day. Since that time General Butler has taken little interest in public matters, but has busied himself with his professional affairs. His death, which seems to have been unexpected, is doubtless traceable to overwork and worry in a big lawsuit that he recently engaged in an failed to win for his clients.

A DISASTROUS PLAGUE.

The cold in this northern climate is at times trying to both man and beast, but it to health. Men and women live longer and enjoy life with greater zest in these latitudes than do the inhabitants of the warm southern countries. Man and beast, too. enjoy greater immunity from disease when they have changes of seasons such as we have. While our southern neighbors have suffered greatly from yellow fever and kindred complaints, Canada has enjoyed complete immunity from these epidemics; and while herds in the United States have at times been devastated by the dreaded pleuro-pneumonia, Canadian cattle have escaped the disease.

Our cattle raisers will have additional reasons for being satisfied with their lot when they reflect on the terrible plague that has destroyed millions of the cattle of Africa within the past year and a half. The results have been most disastrous in all the cattle-raising countries of the Soudan, from the regions south of the big northern bend of the Niger River for 2,000 miles east almost to the Indian Ocean. The first news concerning the plague came in a letter written by Capt. Monteil at Kano, on Jan. 6 last year. He said he first observed the plague in the district of Liptako, west of the Niger River, and that he could say without exaggeration that not one animal in a thousand for 500 miles along his route to Sokoto escaped. He lost his baggage animals, and for a time was hardly able to advance

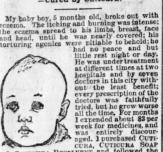

Capt. Lugard, who has recently returned to England, reports that the cattle-raising tribes between the Albert Nyanza and the Indian Ocean have suffered greatly from the plague. The Waniyka, north of the Usambara Mountains, within two or three days' march of the east coast, have lost all their cattle. Flocks of goats now form their only wealth. On the great Masa plateau, further west, 6,000 feet above the level of the sea, the warlike Masai, who have lived upon the milk and flesh of their herds, have lost their cattle. This mis fortune, Capt. Lugard says, has greatly tamed their arrogance. Usogo, north of Victoria Nyanza, formerly contained great herds of cattle, but now all are gone. The Wahuma, a people west of Usoga, were exclusively pastoral, living like the Masai upon their herds. Now that their cattle have been wholly wiped out, the people have died in great numbers, and those who are left are dependent upon the tillers of the soil near them for a scanty subsistence. "They are themselves learning slowly to cultivate the fields," says Capt. Lugard, "but vegetable food is unnatural to them. and their gaunt and half-starved frames, almost invariably covered with skir disease, attest the hardships they are undergoing.'

Thousands of lives among the pastora tribes would be saved if a remedy could be found for this disease But so far nothing has been devised. The tribes do not cooperate with each other as civilized nation; do, and so they permit the plague to continue. The symptoms are debility, rapid familiar figure in United States public life wasting away and refusal of all food. The epidemic has also practically exterminated nember of the Massachusetts House of all the buffaloes in regions where they once Representatives. At a later date, he roamed in great herds. It is reported to be still spreading north and south of its main route across the continent, and it may be that in self-defense the British settler in Natal and Cape Colony will be called upon to combat it. Whether they will be ated in 1856 in Cincinnati, a portion of the delegates reassembled at Baltimore, and conceded that never before has a calamity so great been known to fall upon the brute creation either in Africa or in western countries.

Much interest is taken in the new novel by W. E. Norris, just published by the United States Book Company, 5 and 7 United States Book Company, 5 and 7 East Sixteenth street, New York. This company seems to get hold of all the novels of famous authors as soon as they are written. "His Grace" is a story of British "upper tondom" of an interesting and exciting character. It will doubtless have a large circulation.

Twenty Fifth Annual Western Ontario Convention

Good Influences of Convention Reports and Traveling Dairies.

Hon. John Dryden and Other Premi-nent Agriculturists Address the Association in Victoria Hall.

The hour named to begin a three days' convention of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association was 1:30 p.m. yesterday. The number of delegates expected was about 300, but less than one-third of that number had enrolled themselves as delegates when President John Geary called the convention to order at 2:30 p.m., many whom the prevailing storm had delayed, being expected at the later sessions. On the platform were: C. E. Chadwick, Ingersoll, honorary secretary; Hon. John Dryden, Toronto; A. Patullo, Weedstock; Prof. Dean, Guelph; J. W. Wheaton, B.A., secretary, and others.

President Geary

Dean, Guelph; J. W. Wheaton, B.A., secretary, and others.

President Geary

Welcomed the delegates, but was sorry the inclemency of the weather had detained many who had promised to attend. He paid a high tribute to the worth of Hon. John Dryden, who had aided largely in prometing dairy interests. It had always been difficult to induce patrons to attend these conventions, and with a view to create greater entusiasm among cheesemen a secretary had been permanently engaged to visit the various localities where lectures were desired. The services of the new secretary, J. W. Wheaton, were already very highly appreciated. He had delivered sixteen or seventeen lectures, and was in receipt of many invitations to attend future meetings. His work will be a grand benefit to farmers and dairymen. Valuable information was given as to how to produce good milk and how best to convey it to the factory.

A PROPER ARTIGLE MUST BE SUPPLIED

A PROPER ARTICLE MUST BE SUPPLIED to cheesemakers if they are to be expected to make good cheesa. Both Governments had manifested a commendable interest in dairy work, and money had been provided to employ instructors and inspectors to establish a dairy school. In 1891 four instructors and one inspector had had more work than they were able to perform, and their services had resulted in the manufacture of a greater quantity and better quality of cheese. Last year only an inspector was employed, and this year the fees for membership in this association have been reduced to 50 cents from $1. Farmers are expected to take a greater interest in dairying since so much has been done to provide facilities for their work. To those who promoted this society 25 years ago great honor was due. Then very better cheese was made and disposed of while now $11,000 000 worth is sold annually and his amount. factory.

A PROPER ARTICLE MUST BE SUPPLIED very better cheese was made and disposed of while now $11,000 000 worth is sold annually and his amount may be more than doubled in a few years. The officers of the association are laboring diligently to promote its interests, receiving no salaries for their very valuable services.

Hen. John Bruden

Why doe this enthusiasm exist? Farmers Why does this enthusiasm exist? Farmers have had small crops and have realized low prices for their grain. They have been advised to raise stock, but have not always found it remunerative to do so. These are some reasons why attention has been directed to dairying, but there have also been innentives given by this and other similar associations. Since the introduction of dairying in Ontario the population has increased but little; yet cheese production has increased 36 per cent. since 1864, and very great praise is due to the pioneer cheesemen whose energies have done so heesemen whose energies have done so nuch to bring these associations into much to bring these associations into vigorous existence.

Another reason for the enthusiasm in dairy matters has been the DISSEMINATION OF DAIRY LITERATURE and reports. The best farmers are sure to attend the farmers' institutes, and previous to two years ago these reports were distributed through them; but now they go in the control of the control distributed through them; but now they go to 10,000 or 15,000 people annually, many of whom are not members of any farmers' organization. The reading of these reports must increase the interest felt by those receiving them.

A still stronger element to create enthusiasm has been the influence of the TRAVELING DAIRLES.

Some have opposed this work, but the speaker had every confidence in their efficacy in producing the best results. Discrete created, interest created.

cutaion is encouraged, interest created, enthusiasm felt, and people are thereby enabled to secure greater profits for their labors. WHAT ARE THE RESULTS OF THE DAIRY

A return of over $11,000,000 has been A return of over $11,000,000 has been secured annually, and these returns have not been enamodic, but regular, unlike the result when grain and stock are grown. Dairyinterests are now in the hands of more skillful men that any other branch of farm industry, and while dairying we are not destroying the fertility of the soil, but adding to it. There is lots of land that may be redeemed by greater attention to dairying.

Many men know practically allow to the work in factories, but they know nothing about why the work is done. This instruction is being provided at Guelph. It was decided to provide 50 chairs, and it was feared these might not all be taken; but 80 applications had been made and 30 applications were disappointed. of the legitimate functions of a government.

Comment on Mr. Dryden s Address.

President Geary felt very much cheered and encouraged by the address of the Minister of Agriculture, and specially commended his remarks about the growth of the home market. He had found little demand for cheese among his patrons when he commenced dairying about ten years ago, because previous to that only the cheese that had been improperly made was sold to them. Now. however, from two to three tons are consumed because none but the best is supplied to them.

E. Caswell, Lendon,

the best is supplied to them.

E. Caswell, Lendon,
Said it was very unfortunate that the home demand for cheese had been ruined by the mistaken policy of salesmen, who have placed culled cheese on the market everywhere throughout the Province. Since inspectors had been appointed fewer culls are made, and part of the difficulty is removed. He was satisfied consumption could be increased tenfold in a few years, if only good cheese were sold at home. The Americans have become a cheese-consuming people since they have commenced to use their best cheese.

A, Patulle, Woodstack.

said he had agitated for the use of the best product of factories in the home market. If this were done generally home consumption would be increased twofold in a short time. He instanced occasions when the demand in Woodstock was practically unlimited when good cheese was obtainable, as it very seldom is in grocery stores. The home consumption of cheese will keep up the price more effectually than any foreign demand can do, as is seen to be the case in the United States.

Pro essor Dean said the association should be congratuthe United States.

Procesor Dean
said the association should be congratulated because its president was a practical dairyman. The handsome programme for this convention was also a subject for commendation, and he was glad to hear that the advertisements had paid for its production. It was, doubtless, one evidence of the wisdom of engaging a practical man for secretary, and the association should gain largely after so doing. Farmers do not always take hold of new things, and it has been truly said that their conservatism in this matter is

THE MAINSTAY OF HE NATION.

When they know they are right they will fall into line. A new interest has been awakened by the traveling dairy, and the winter dairy course has resulted most satisfactorily. Already several applications have been made for positions next winter, when provision will also be made for lady cheesemakers. Among the needs of the daily industry is the need for more knowledge. We do not advertise our business enough. Milk and butter and cheese give the greatest nutriment to the human body. One gallon of milk is equal to three pounds of beef and costs only about two-thirds of the smount. We should make the superior qualities of dairy products known everywers. We should keep up the fertility of our farms. We must feed something if we desire to produce milk, and of the food 80 per cent, is returned to the soil on dairy THE MAINSTAY OF THE NATIONAL THE LEADING PAPERS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

They wanted the co-operation of the producer, manufacturer and consumer to get the best results. He deprecated the rivalry of cheese factories to get the highest prices; they should strive instead to make the best article. Speaking of the qualities of milk for cheese, he said, that the fat was the chief desideratum in milk. Anyone who had eaten skimmed milk cheese realized this. Fat was the milk cheese realized this. Fat was the most variable as well as valuable quality in milk. Prof. Dean concluded an able and practical address amid appiance.

The convention adjourned at 4:30 p.m. until the evening.

ports have increased during the last ten years fully 50,000,000 pounds. But why should not Canada herself be a cheese-eating country. We ought to use 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 pounds of cheese annually instead of about on-third of that amount, and the only reason why we do not is because the poor cheese is always sold at home. We would buy mofe cheese in our stores if we could get better cheese. With increased demands abroad and the possibilities of a home market, there is no danger that too great a quantity of cheese will be produced. The Ontario Government has no hesitation in continuing its assistance to dairy interests everywhere.

Many men know practically how to do the work in factories, but they know nothing about to outtermaking. He was a superimmense growth of cheesemaking.

A. Patullo.

Mr. Patullo, of Woodstock (president of the Oxford Dairymen's Association), gave a practical address on "Good roads in relation to the dairy interests." If the condition of roads was the standard of civilization he was afraid that Canada was in a state of semi-barbarism. There was no reasen why Canadian roads should not be superior. The art of road-making was an old one, applied to perfection in the days of the old Romans, and unlike that of embalming, had never been lost. He was not going to advocate the abolition of the statute labor system, but it had a defect in being placed in the hands of people entirely unskilled. No man could make proper roads unless he had studied the method. The farmers of Ontario were unsurpassed in energy, intelligence were ability but they did not know hands of people entirely unskilled. No man could make proper roads unless he had studied the method. The farmers of Ontario were unsurpassed in energy, intelligence and ability, but they did not know how to make good roads. While there were some of the pathmasters doing fairly good work, the generality of them did not because they were unskilled. Some pathmasters might do good work and an inexperienced successor undo it all in the next year. He had sought the ideas of many gentlemen connected with municipal institutions on the statute labor system, and the concensus of opinion was that it was radically inefficient and that better results would be attained by direct effort. In Oxford they made roads by dumping the gravel down so that the finer portion fell to the bottom and the course, heavy material stayed on top. They called that road-making, while in reality the men who did it should be arrested for obstructing the public highway. The grades should be uniform and a recognized standard should be laid down by competent authorities; the stones should be broken and the gravel rolled. They should be systematically and continuously repaired. The grades should be harder when the rainy season came. Mr. Pattullo instanced the splendid highways of Britain and said there was no reason Canada should not have them as good, as in Britain there was more rain. Canadian roads should be made of good gravel; the macadamized was too expensive. A stene crusher should be a permanent fixture in every township. The fact that there were so few sound horses was due to bad roads; any blacksmith shop afforded an object lesson on this. The farmers would save an immense amount in horses and conveyances by better roads. This matter greatly affected the dairy farmers. He saw that the cost of hauling milk to one factory in Oxford was $1,000 a year. With 1,000 factories this represented an annual expense of $1,000,000 in hauling milk to one factory in Oxford was $1,000 a year. With 1,000 factories this represented an annual expense of $1,000, must be educated up to the idea or superior roads before a law was made or it would not succeed. The speaker condemned narrow tires in favor of wide ones. He deprecated the idea promulgated in the United States—that the national Government take hold of road making. In this democratic age it was a matter for the neople.

omplimented Mr. Patullo upon his address. It was an important matter, closely identified with the interests of the cheese induorry. The Ontario Agricultural College had taken a step in the right direction by experimenting there. He thought that a practical readmaker should be placed judiciously to superintend the construction of roads. (Applause).

Mr. Morgan, of Adelaide, commended the idea of appointing practical men.

Hon. John Dryden. Hon. John Dryden said he agreed with Mr. Pattullo, that it was not so much the tault of the law as that it was not properly enforced. (Hear, hear.) There could be no revolution in this matter without greating disturbance. The people required education and the functions of Government were educational. He (Mr. Dryden) had prepared a special bulletin on this matter, prepared by a practical man, which he intended scattering breadcast over the Province. (Applanse.) There should be fewer pathmasters, and they should be experienced men. He could show them places where statute labor, properly directed, produced the best results possible. The appointment by the Government of a special commissioner would lead to a rivalry of claims for his services that would render them futile. This question should be thoroughly agi-Hon. John Dryden said he agreed with This question should be thoroughly agi-tated and the people educated before an tated and the people educated before an efficient principle could be evolved. He believed in wide tires, but they should get the good roads first. He had heard a doctor's experience related to the effect that in winter he had the snow to wade through, in spring the mud, and then just as the roads were becoming good in dry weather along came the patimaster and dumped great heaps of gravel on it, spoiling it all the year round. (Laughter.) It places where gravel was scarce clay, burnt into a baked brick, made excellent roads, though somewhat expenexcellent roads, though somewhat expen

He wanted to sound a note of werning against deficient cheesemakers, which deprived the factory maker of his full share of the profits, and placed his make on a lower par. There were three classes of cheesemakers; those who stove constantly to improve their article, those who made fairly good chaese and were satisfied as long as it secured market prices, and those who were so lazy and shiftless that they did not seem to care what the result was. The day would come when a choese and butter-maker would have to understand the principles that underlied his practice. Mr. Pearce enumerated the qualifications of the thorough maker, comprehensively. The price of cheese was regulated by the buyers, but the producers could control the cost.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.
LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 11.
WERKIY BEVIEW.

The market for the past two or three days has been very small, owing to heavy snow storms and drifted roads. During the first three days trade was quite brisk and the receptis were good, with an active demand for almost all commodities offered.
There does not seem to be any change in the grain situation either here or abroad.
Provisions were the leading characters of inBroad to be succeeded to the list.

MR. THACKERAY.

How He Held Up a Young American 1 ady in the Crystal Palace. How He Held Up a Young American I ady in the Crystal Palace.

A Scotchman who came to this country young, prospered here, married here, but has often visited the old country, making in all nearly 100 voyages, went abroad in 1851 with his young wife. That was the year of the great World's Fair, when the Crystal Palace dazzled the eyes of the visitors, whose wonderful tales spread the marvel far and wide. When the Scotchman reached London all the talk was of the coming opening of the Crystal Palace. The royalties were to be there in great force, to say nothing of mere celebrities. Only those were admitted who held season tickets, and season tickets cost something like £50. It seemed a big price to pay for a tingle sight of even so unusual a show, but the Scotchman was determined that his wife should not lose the chance—it might never come to her sgain. So he bought a ticket and sent her on opening day to the Crystal Palace with some English friends.

Great was the crowd, and the young American woman was a person of unlucky shortness of sature. Tiptoe her best, she could not see a thing over the mass of heads all turned in one direction. The procession of royalties swent in, but it was not for could not see a thing over the mass of heads all turned in one direction. The procession of royalties swept in, but it was not for her. Bitter tears of disappointment filled her eyes that, after so much cost and trouble, she was to be completely balked.

A big Englishman stood near her with the kindliest of eyes. He saw it all at a glance.

"Permit me, madam," the Englishman said, and with his strong hands he encircled her waist and lifted her up above the heads of everybody as seasily as if she had been a little girl. He held her there quite a time, his arms not seeming to know a tired feeling, telling her who everybody was —royalties and celebrities slike. When he at last put her down she had had a much better view than three-fourths of the tall people who were present. In reply to her thanks he simply said:

"It is always a special pleasure to do a favor for an American."

She was sure he was himself distin-

She was sure he was himself distinguished, but the friends who were with her did not know him. She described him to all the English people whom she met, but could get no clew to his identity. So she came back to America ignorant who the could get no clew to his identity. So she came back to America ignorant who the kind-hearted Englishman was.

Some years after, in Brooklyn, she went with her husband to Plymouth Church to hear a lecture by a celebrated Englishman. The moment he appeared on the stage she turned to her husband and exclaimed:

"That's he! That's my Crystal Palace Englishman!"

It was Thackeray. After the lecture the husband and wife had the pleasure of meeting him, again acknowledging their obligations and entertaining him at their own home.—[Christian Union.

There is something cruelly absurd in telling farmers that if they lived now as they lived 50 years age they would not find any difficulty in paying their way. What other classes of people live now as they lived 50 even 20 years age? Is a farmer never to be allowed to increase the comforts of his home? It may be quite true that if a farmer lives in a siantly, and drives an ox-team and makes his ewn boots and they increase the text of his home? It may be quite true that if a farmer lives in a siantly, and drives an ox-team and makes his ewn boots at the comforts of his home? It may be quite expenses will be lighter. Mr. Lanier Quine, his nephew by marrisge, who resided in the same house, started out in search of medical assistance. It was fully fifteen minutes before he could secure aid, and when he returned with Dr. Luce, the assistant of Dr. Bayne, the family physician, it was seen that the general was already in extremis. The doctor so informed his two nicces, Miss Stevens and Mrs. Dunn, who were at his bedside, and death ensued almost immediately. almost immediately.

AWFUL ACCIDENT!

Twenty-Seven Men Killed in a Colorado Mine,

Caused by a "Pust Explosion"-Only Eleven of the Number Recognizable.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 11.—Particulars of one of the worst mining accidents in this State have been received here. The Union Pacific Railway own and operate coal mines at King, four miles from Come, where they employed 200 miners. Yesterday afternoon a premature explosion occurred in one of the chambers where 28 miners were at work. A terrific explosion occurred—or, as the miners call it, a "dust explosion." The shock killed 27 of the men, only one escaping, he being nearly at the entrance. The bodies were not recovered until midnight, and on account of their blackened condition only DENVER, Col., Jan. 11 .- Particulars of count of their blackened condition only eleven of the 27 are recognizable.

ORIGIN OF CYCLONES.

Do the Creadful Storms Come From the Upper Air? (From the Youth's Companion)

The Upper Air 7
(From the Youths Companion)

There has been of late a tendency toward a change of view in regard to the origin of those widespread storms known as cycloses. M. Taye, the French astronomer, has long argued that they originate in the upper regions of the atmosphere, instead of at the surface of the earth.

Recently Mr. W. L. Dallas has announced, as the result of his studies of the cyclones of the Indian Ocean, that the probability seems to him to be that those whirling storms "descend from and refreat to the superior layers of the atmosphere."

Much more study will be required, however, to settle the question, but it is surely most interesting to think that storms should come to us in the way suggested. The atmosphere is a cort of ocean, at whose bottom we dwell, and if M. Faye's view is correct, the storms that which over us must first lash the air far above our heads, just as a whirl started in the water may bore its way down toward the bottom, and disas a whirl started in the water may bere its way down toward the bottom, and dis-turb the little fishes there.

Dolgeville, N. Y., Jan. 11.—The tracks of a panther were discovered a few days DOLOEVILLE, N. Y., Jan. II.—The tracke of a panther were discovered a few days ago in the woods about twelve miles north of this village, and a party of hunters who started out to capture the beast came near losing one of their number before the beast was killed. There were six in the party, all armed with rifles or shotguns, except one, who carried an axe.

The panther's tracks had been followed about two miles through the woods, and the man with the axe was about ten feet ahead of the others when he suddenly stopped, dropped his axe and ran back. Not ten feet ahead of him was the panther erouched down on its haunches, its tail wagging and just in the act of making a spring for the first man.

Harvey Doxtater was a few feet behind when the panther made the spring, and just as it was about descending on the nearest of the party he sent a bullet from his rifle through its skull and the animal fell dead at the heels of the axeman.

The panther mensured six feet from tail to tip of nose. Doxtater will receive the bounty and has sold the skin for $25. It was a $75 shot he made, besides saving one of his companions from being torn to pleeces.

This was the first panther seen in this vicinity for a great many years. The night after it was killed the scream of another panther was heard. The sound appeared to come from the mountains that run up from the bank of the lakes. Hunters are now out trying to capture it.

Shakespeare's Great Tragedy To-Night.
A successful engagement for Hanford's great production of "Julius Cæsar" to-night is assured. The Washington Star says: "The performance of 'Julius Cæsar' at the Academy of Music last night resulted in a positive ovation for Mr. Charles B. Hanford. It was plain from the rise of the curtain that he was among friends. There was, however, no occasion to depend upon the generosity of friendship. It was a performance that stood critical scrutiny remarkably well. Mr. Hanford's Marc Anthony stood out brilliantly amid surroundings that showed a praiseworthy regard for general effect. One of the most creditable features oth his work is the entire lack of labored effort. He never tears a passion to tatters, and yet his impersonation is full of the subtic, sympathetic force that makes words which seem flat in the mouths of mediocre actors thrill with flery meaning when pronounced by one who is naturally an artist. The 'mob' was a wonderfully well-drilled organization and seconded Mr. Hanford ably in the oration over Cæsar's body. E. R. Spencer, who assumed the role of Cassius, showed vigor and conscientious purpose and earned liberal applause. Bennett Matlack presented the part of Brutus in a capable manner."

Big Shipment of Horses.

A big shipment of 100 horses was made from this city yesterday via the G. T. R. on a special train drawn by four locomotives. They were bound for Portland, Maine, to be embarked on the steamship Labrador, which sails on Thursday for the England. In order to reach that part in time extreme measures had to be taken, and every effort will be made by the railbroad company to catch the steamer in time, which, owing to the snow blockade, is adoubtful. The shipment is one of the greatest importance, as it is the first of the kind ever attempted on so large as cale. The horses were raised on the leading ranches of Alberta, N. W. T., and the majority are of splendid breed. They were sent to Bothwell last summer to be broken for the English market, and about a fortnight ago were transferred to this city. They are if charge of Gilbert God. dard, of the Bow River Horse Ranch Company, and Mr. Ffoulke, a prominent English horse breeder. The result of the experiment will be awaited with great interest, as if it succeeds it will mark a new term in the horse trade.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

Notwithstanding the very unfavorable weather there was a good attendance of members at the regular monthly meeting in Somerset Hall yesterday afternoon, proving that the ladies are not in the least daunted by the recent so-called defeat of the temperance movement in this city. Mra. Evans led in the devotional exercises, and also gave an instructive talk on "Training the Young." Several ladies gave incidents and experiences in this work, and three requests for prayer were handed in. A long list of business was disposed of. Ten new members were nominated. This being crusade month, it is expected there will be a large addition in membership at the next meeting. A short time was spent in conversation about the recent campaigu, some giving very amusing and others rather unpleasant experiences, and all expressing the conviction that much good has been accomplished by the recent forward effort, even though the opposition claim the largest number of ballots.

A cable was received from Prof. Robertson, regreiting that he was unable to attend, as he had just salled from England. He had accomplished his mission.

PROF. MILLER.

Prof. Miller, Deputy Minister of Agricultive, spoke on "The darryman as a manufacturer." In the barbarous ages, when peeple lived by the chase and hunt alone, it required twenty square miles to custain one man; but in advanced civilization 0.000 people could be maintained on the same area. In England the average was 541 to a square mile; in manufacturing Lancashire it was 1,829 to the square mile, and in Middlesex the center of the world's commerce, it was 10,000. This meant that the population was largely centralized in certain places, and it was the day of the outside areas to supply them with food. The agriculturists centralized in certain places, and it was the daily of the outside areas to supply them with food. The agriculturists were herefore producers for these centers, and were in the highest and broadest sense manulacturers. There was invested in the Brovince $175,000, and exactly the same amount was invested in what was generally termed the manufacturing industries of the Province. Monufacturers were ever on the alert for improved machinery and other means by which the cost of production was lessened; the dairy manufacturers should do the same. In past years they heard a great deal of "waste product" in connection with manufacturers' in connection with manufacturers. of production was lessened; the dairy manufacturers should do the same. In past years they heard a great deal of "waste product" in connection with manufacturing, but now little was heard of it, because in this age of keen competition they were compelled to look at the economic side and utilize every portion of their raw material. So it should be with dairyment there should be no waste. Fear had been expressed that the dairy output from Canada and the States was becoming too large. There was no danger of this for 25 years at least, as if they studied the markets they would see that the demand was always ready for the first-class article. Everything depended upon the man himself. The slownly man would fall behind in the race.

Ex-Gov. Exard told a humorous story of a man in his locality who made $100,000 in 28 years by deing no work himself—he had the palsy. But he worked his mind and figured how he could employ as many men as possible instead of as few.

J. H. Wooley, Simcoe, said that farmers did not keep as much hired help in winter as they should, and consequently the help went to the Sistes.

Ex-Gov. Hoard.—Winter dairying would overcome that. (Applause.)

Ex-Gov. Hoard—Winter dairying would overcome that. (Applause.)

PROF. SAUNDERS.

Prof. Saunders said he had not expected to be present until a few days ago, but in Prof. Robertson's absence he had come to fill his place. Prof. Robertson's mission was to present the merits of Canadian cheese among the large consuming centers in England. The speaker was informed in a letter from him that he had already found a market for a large consignment of cheese. Canadian cheese held deservedly a high place in Britain; last year it advanced 9-10 of a cent more than the American article. Canadian butter as a whole, however, was not held in such high esteem. Some really first-class butter sent had realized the same prices as the best Danish make because its quality was good. Prof. Robertson had addressed the boards of trade in the leading cities and had endeavored to create a favorable opinion of Canadian butter, so that if a high grade native article were produced it would find an unlimited sale at good prices in the old country. Prof. Saunders referred to the big cheese of 22,000 pounds, which Canada would exhibit at the World's Fair. They had kept the fact from the knowledge of their American friends until it was too late for the latter to repeat the experiment on of instruction as to the proper use of manure, and drifted into a scientific discussion of two-rowed and six-rowed barley.

Rev. Mr. Clark, Guelph, asked the result of experiments on covered manure and also as to use of clover as a fertilizer.

Prof. Saunders said the experiments with covered manure were very limited. The proportion of animals kept at the experimental farm was 15 horses to 70 head of cattle and because of that they had not seen much advantage in covered manure. He found clover to be very useful as a fertilizer, though peas were easier handled. The farmer should keep his fields covered all the year round with something in under to retain the ammonia from rainfall. Salt had been used as a fertilizer advantageously in wheat and barley.

Rev. Mr. Clark condemned summer-fallowing as fighting nature, when all the time nature was trying to produce something on the surface to protect it. He pronounced clover to be the best thing for the purpose.

Ex-Gov. Heard said he had faund clover a

Every proud father in this happy land, remarks the N. Y. Sun, with a healthy boy, must take off his hat to Rochester. That must take off his hat to Rochester. That wide-awake city claims a citizen who has successfully solved the toughest problem in domestic economy that the modern world has had to grapple with. A Rochester man has invented a jacket and a pair of trousers to match, which patch themselves when respectively out at the elbows or in the teat or knees. It is not too much to say that the ingenious gentleman broke the record in supplying the champion long-felt want of the universe. All hail to the new bene factor of family life.
