Join James Wardrobe, Toronto.

An unknown tramp, about 50 years of age, was killed this morning shortly after 8 o'clock, by the collapse of a pile of railroad ties, about a mile west of the city on the C. P. R., under which he and two companions were sleeping.

His head was badly crushed and he lived only a few minutes.

His chums, John James Wardrobe and James Coleston, of Toronto, were pinned under the ties, but escaped with a few bruises.

Only for the prompt assistance of two other tramps, Jos. McTear and William Brooks, they, too, would have been killed.

All Were Tramps.

According to the story told by the two closest friends of the deceased, Wardrobe and Coleston, the three had been spending the day in the city, and last night went west on the C. P. R. tracks.

While going along the track they met McTear and Brooks.

The party went about a mile west of the city, where there were several piles of railroad ties.

They chatted until about 10 o'clock when the party went to sleep. The unknown man, Wardrobe and Coleston slept under one pile, while Brooks and McTear slept under another.

Brooks and McTear arose before 7 o'clock this morning, and were seated on the bank.

They waited until the others would come out, intending to take a freight out of the city.

Pile of Ties Fell.

They were chatting, when suddenly without warning the pile of ties under which the others were sleeping fell in.

There was a scream from the imprisoned men and Brooks and McTear rushed to their aid.

In a few seconds they had the ties off the men.

The old man was pinned across the head by a heavy tie and blood was spurting from his mouth, nose and ears.

Coleston was pinned across the chest and was breathing with great difficulty.

Wardrobe's upper body was protected by a tie, but his legs were jammed.

Wardrobe was the first freed and was soon all right.

Coleston was got out and fainted.

Summoned Assistance.

They laid him on the embankment and turned their attention to the old man. It was seen at a glance that the tramp was badly hurt, and he was looked after by the others.

Brooks ran to the home of Mr. W. T. Westby, West London, the nearest house, and telephoned for the ambulance.

McTear and Wardrobe did all they could for the old man, but he gasped a few times, and vomited blood. He died in a few minutes.

Coleston recovered from his injuries, and in a few minutes was all right.

The ambulance was soon on the scene with P. C. Fysh in charge. When it arrived the old man was dead.

Coroner Notified.

Coroner Ferguson was notified, and also High Constable Hughes, in whose territory the accident occurred.

County Constable Northgreaves took charge.

The four men, McTear, Brooks, Wardrobe and Coleston, were detained by Detectives Egelton and Nickle and P. C. Fysh, and will be interrogated by Crown Attorney McKillop.

Coleston's Story.

Coleston was interviewed by The Advertiser shortly after the accident.

"We met the old man on Friday morning in the C. P. R. yards," he said. "We had been sleeping in a caboose, and as we came out it met him. He said we should have come in Thursday, and we could have got away with the circus. We saw him several times around the yards, and we got quite chummy with him. Sunday we were with him nearly all day.

"In the evening he took us up north to a convent or orphan's home, and he got us something to eat. We did not know who he was, but he seemed to know the reverend mother in charge.

"Well, we finished our supper and went along the railroad west. We came to a pile of ties, which had been made into shanties, and after chatting for a while, we went to sleep.

FAMILY SLAYER SENT FOR TRIAL

Creighton, Strongly Guarded, Is Arraigned at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, June 6.—This afternoon James P. Creighton was formally committed by Police Magistrate Creaser to stand his trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction for the murder of his wife, Lily Eliza Creighton, and her daughters, Katherine Belle Chapman and Clara Louise Chapman.

The hearing took place in the county court room instead of at the police court room. The prisoner was brought into court under a strong guard of police.

There was a large attendance of spectators, and it was thought desirable, in view of the evidence, that any expression of feeling might be promptly suppressed.

The prisoner was neatly dressed and his features showed nothing of the self-inflicted wound on the face. As the terrible indictment was read he showed the first signs of strain under which he has suffered since he realized the enormity of his crime.

When the shoe string, the revolver and the knife were put in as exhibits, he seemed quite audibly.

The evidence of Dr. H. C. Cowper, Alex. Gilliland, William Hughes and George Wright, as to what transpired when the first indications of the crime were made known, were practically repetitions of the evidence given at the inquest, as was also that of D. A. Christie, from whom he obtained the revolver the day prior to the tragedy, and Dr. J. A. Hershey, as to the man's condition the night previous to his committing the horrible crime, and the commitment followed.

Mr. H. G. Tucker appeared for the prisoner and County Crown Attorney Armstrong for the crown.

Tested, but the D. R. O. said he was sworn to secrecy and had the right to examine ballots. There were several witnesses to the incident.

STANLEY MOORE SHOT IN HEAD WHILE SHOOTING IN WOODS

Accident Saturday Which Happily Did Not Have Fatal Consequences—As Usual the Revolver Went Off at the Wrong Time.

Stanley Moore, the 13-year-old son of Mr. W. E. Moore, of 416 Simcoe street, was accidentally shot in the head in Chelsea Green, at about 3:30 Saturday afternoon by a playmate, but was not seriously injured.

Moore, accompanied by five companions, all about his own age, started out for Frank's bush, south of the city limits, with a pocketful of ammunition and a twenty-two caliber revolver.

They had shot several times at blackbirds and other targets when Enoch Acher, who lives on Hill street, near Colborne, took his turn to shoot.

The revolver went wrong and he was unable to put the trigger in position. He tried several times to shoot into the air and was just bringing it down when the trigger slipped.

The boys took the wounded lad to a nearby farmhouse, where the lady of the house dressed the wound.

He was then able to walk to Victoria Hospital with the assistance of the other boys.

Dr. McPherson dressed and bandaged the wound.

Had the bullet gone an inch lower the result would probably have been serious, if not fatal.

The weapon was owned by Moore. It will be remembered that Roy Moore, Stanley's brother, was kicked in the head by a horse a few days ago, and was seriously injured.

Committed on Alleged Murder Threat John Pennicott in Serious Trouble

Insurance Policy Results in Old Offender Being in Court.

John Pennicott was committed for trial at the June sessions this morning by Magistrate Love on a charge of threatening to murder his wife, Emma Pennicott.

Pennicott was only released from the Central Prison a short time for making a similar threat, and his wife is living in constant fear of him.

Shortly after Pennicott was liberated he wanted to raise some money on an endorsement policy, that he has, and it was necessary for him to obtain his wife's signature.

This was given on condition that of the $300 he was to realize on the policy, she was to get $100.

When he got the money he gave her $100, but on Thursday evening last he went to the house, and it is alleged, demanded the $100 back, threatening to kill her and bury her if she didn't give it to him.

Mrs. Pennicott had him arrested. Pennicott will be given a hearing tomorrow morning.

Indications Point To Another Sweeping Victory By Liberals
of Quebec.

Montreal, June 7.—The Provincial campaign closed here on Saturday night with a monster meeting, held at St. James' Market by Premier Gouin.

In an interview he stated that he was confident of carrying the Province by his old majority. Speaking of St. James' division, where he is opposed by Mr. Henri Bourassa, Mr. Gouin declared that he would be returned by a big majority.

"The people who are working and cheering for Bourassa are irresponsible boys and discontents, and carry no weight in the division."

It was a significant thing that Premier Gouin's challenge to Mr. Bourassa to meet him on Saturday night at St. James' Market was not accepted by the Nationalist leader.

Instead of holding a joint meeting, Mr. Bourassa and his followers adjourned to the Champ de Mars, where they held a meeting.

A careful estimate, made by prominent public men, shows that Premier Gouin will be returned to power with almost his former majority.

At the very outside, only fifteen seats are conceded to the Conservatives, and many estimate that seven or eight will be all that they will win.

It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Bourassa will be defeated by Premier Gouin in St. James' division, this city. He is making desperate efforts, but has only succeeded in attracting the discontents to good advantage. The reeds did excellent work in this number. Mr. T. Walker played the French horn solo in the Revue Overture with excellent tone and perfect technique.

The fruit prospects in Essex County are splendid. Strawberries will be an abundant crop, and apples and peaches also promise well.

YOUNG MAN WAS FOUND DEAD UNDER PECULIAR CONDITIONS

Joseph H. Roberts, a Printer of Montreal, Discovered By a Number of Men Lying in a Lot on Sunday Morning—Coroner Is Investigating the Case.

Joseph H. Roberts, aged 24, son of Mr. John W. Roberts, of 39 Shuter street, Montreal, was found dead inside a fence on Price street, near Trafalgar street, East London, early yesterday morning with his neck broken.

Roberts' foot was entangled in the wire, and it is thought that while on his way to the home of his uncle, Mr. Thomas Roberts, of 463 Hamilton road, he tripped over the wire and came to his death. The body was seen early yesterday morning by many people who thought that the man was lying inside the fence drunk, and it was not until about a quarter to seven that Stuart Morrow went over and found that the man was dead.

Coroner Notified.

Mr. Charles Davis, of Price street, at once telephoned Coroner Ferguson.

Mr. Morrow stated to the coroner that when he went over to the body there was a handkerchief over the face, and the pockets were turned inside out.

There were also some marks about the throat, and the collar of the shirt was torn.

The only articles found on the body were a pipe, some picture postcards and a couple of letters, and it was by means of these that identification was established.

The police were called, but Coroner Ferguson was on the ground before them, and did not allow them to touch the body for some time.

Young Roberts was born in this city, but when his father went to Montreal about 15 years ago, he went to live with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Fawcett, of Palmerston.

Roberts was a printer and last Friday left Palmerston to come to London in search of work.

On Wednesday he went to Woodstock and returned the same night.

On Saturday evening he went out about 7 o'clock, and was not seen alive again by any of the members of the family.

Of Steady Habits.

His uncle, Mr. Thomas Roberts, stated to The Advertiser yesterday that his nephew had been ill not very long ago, but that he thought he was all right again.

As far as he knew, the young man was steady and he has no reason to believe that he was drunk when the accident occurred.

Roberts had no money; in fact, he had borrowed some from his uncle to pay his initiation into the Printers' Union.

Besides his father in Montreal, three sisters survive: Mrs. (Dr.) Jackson, of Kansas City; Mrs. (Dr.) Hobbs, of Guelph, and Mrs. W. H. Fawcett, of Palmerston.

The remains were taken to Ferguson's undertaking-rooms.

Despondent Woman Attempts Suicide Drank Laudanum in Drug Store

Prompt Action Probably Saved
Life of Mrs. Stanton on Saturday Night.

While despondent, Mrs. W. Stanton of No. 1 Hamilton road, attempted to commit suicide on Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock by taking laudanum.

Prompt measures were taken by the drug clerk, Mr. Joseph S. Horner, assisted by Mr. Talbot Hennessey, and the woman's life was saved.

She was taken to Victoria Hospital, but was discharged yesterday, having fully recovered from the effects of the poison.

Mrs. Stanton entered the drug store on Saturday night shortly after 7 o'clock and asked the clerk, Mr.

Harmer, for 5 cents worth of laudanum.

Mr. Harmer told her that the drug was sold only in ten cent quantities, and she ordered that amount.

The clerk prepared the drug and handing it up, laid it on the counter, asking the woman to sign the register as is the practice in such cases.

Drank the Poison.

She stepped up to the counter, but instead of signing the book she picked off the poison and stepping to the front part of the store she hastily took the wrapper, removed the cork and commenced to drink the poison.

Talbot Hennessey who was in the drug store with the clerk, made a rush for the woman and knocked the phial from her hands.

The two men then seized Mrs. Stanton and began walking her up and down, a third man, a stranger, followed.

City Engineer Holds Trump Cards War On With London St. Railway

Has the Company Where Hair Is Short Re New Transfer Rule.

City Engineer Graydon is again writing letters, and this morning sarcasm fairly dripped from his pen, as he wrote another series to Manager King of the London Street Railway Company. There were three letters in this latter, and every one decidedly warm.

For some time Manager King has been holding back the pavement on Dundas street.

A motion was passed at the last meeting of the council informing Mr. King that if the work was not commenced immediately, the city would take action against the company.

It was stated by Mr. King that the work would be commenced this morning, but this was not the case, and Mr. Graydon is very wrathful.

The Agreement.

With one hand he seized the bylaw governing the street railway agreement, and with the other he grabbed his pen.

In that agreement there is a clause which states that transfers must be given to passengers, under the direction of the city engineer. Now, Mr. Graydon was not consulted when the new transfer law went into operation, and Mr. Graydon intends using that fact as a club over the company's head.

"If the company does not commence work on the Dundas street pavement in earnest," said Mr. Graydon, "I will give it all the trouble it wants over the new transfer rule. That matter is under my control, and I will make the company do what I want or know the reason why."

The company has deliberately held up the pavement, and must stop. If it would lay the bricks on one side of the track only, so that the Barber Company could get to work on it, I would not mind. The Barbers have been waiting since the 1st of April on the street railway.

"The Barber Company has finished the Queen's avenue pavement and the Adelaide street pavement, and after Thursday the men will have nothing to do. I think it is an outrage to have the city held up in this manner. I am also notifying the street railway company that work must be commenced immediately or proceedings will be taken against it right away."

A June Wedding.

The wedding took place in Allenford on Friday afternoon of Mr. Walter Gibson, of Lucan, formerly of London, and Miss J. Wilson, daughter of Rev. A. Wilson, of that place. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will reside in Lucan.

DUMA REJECTS THE NAVAL BILL

Ministry Crushing Defeat
On the Building of Battleships.

St. Petersburg, June 7.—The Duma tonight, by a vote of 194 to 78, administered a crushing defeat to the ministry in rejecting the proposed expenditure of $5,500,000 to lay the keels of four new battleships. The overwhelming opposition of the Duma is tantamount to an expression of lack of confidence in the ministry. Wholesale resignations from the ministry of marine are expected.

Debate on the naval budget continued in the Duma all day. Premier Stolypin made a final effort to secure the appropriations, though he was obliged to acknowledge that he was speaking in a lost cause. M. Guchkoff, Octobrist, and the other party leaders supported the proposal that the appropriations be rejected.

Alexieff Called Evil Genius

M. Guchkoff, who was applauded by the Radicals and the Conservatives as well as by the Octobrists, attacked former Viceroy Alexieff by name, characterizing him as the evil genius who was mainly responsible for the disasters sustained in the Russo-Japanese war. Not only had he not been punished, M. Guchkoff said, but he was today a member of the council of the empire and had a voice in deciding naval questions. Continuing, M. Guchkoff alluded to the recent report that Alexieff was to be appointed minister of marine, saying he had been unable to obtain an unequivocal denial of this rumor. Reform in the ministry of marine had not yet been accomplished in spite of the orders issued by Emperor Nicholas and the lavish promises of the Government, and the refusal of funds to build battleships was the only means of forcing a liquidation of the affairs of the old naval regime.

Demands Inquiry of Admiralty

In conclusion M. Guchkoff demanded the appointment of a commission to investigate the conditions in the admiralty and the fleet and to report to the Emperor and the Duma.

Premier Stolypin made no attempt to palliate the offenses of the so-called "Tushima" ministry, but he said the higher personnel of the ministry had been entirely changed since the war and that a full reorganization of the department was soon to be executed. Thanks to the existence of the Duma, the old evils could not be repeated. The refusal of the appropriations, he said, would leave the country wholly defenseless at sea and deprive officers and men of an opportunity to get training on modern vessels, as well as paralyze all progress in the navy.

REFORMS FAR OFF

Socialist Victory Thought Unlikely to Better Evils.

Berlin, June 7.—The jubilation of the social democracy over the first breach in the Prussian Chamber is naturally great. The organs of conservative opinion affect to regard the return of the Socialists as an unwelcome but insignificant intrusion. The National Liberals' foreign satiation on the ground that the presence of half a dozen Socialists is calculated to act as a safety valve to remove the old reproach on the Prussian franchise because it was too conservative. 315,000 Conservative electors to return 150 members, while 320,000 Socialists electors were unable to return one. The Socialist success seems unlikely to further the prospects of any thorough reform of the franchise, for it has been gained at the expense of the Radicals, who have been reduced thereby to a frame of mind wherein they will be amenable to such considerations as the Conservatives may suggest in framing their proposals of reform.

BRITISH NAVAL WAR

Beresford and Scott Not on Speaking Terms—Admiralty May Interfere

London, June 7.—It is not generally known that there has been a sequel to the incident between Admiral Lord Charles Beresford and Sir Percy Scott when the former asked the admiralty to haul down Sir Percy's flag, which would mean ruin to the latter's career.

The admiralty declined to accede to Lord Charles' request, whereupon the admiral ordered Sir Percy to communicate with him in future in writing only.

It is stated now that it is a question in regard to the efficiency of the fleet under Lord Charles Beresford's command as to how much longer this state of affairs will be allowed to continue.

The storm was general through Fillmore, Webster, Franklin and Thayer counties, Nebraska, and reached over into Kansas, where reports are coming in slowly of great destruction. The towns of Carleton, Fairfield, Desplair, Shickley, Geneva, Franklin, Byron and Riverton, Nebraska, are among those visited by the storm.

At Carleton five residences and two churches were destroyed, while a new school building and 30 houses were partly wrecked.

At Geneva the storm wrought great destruction, and in the adjacent county claimed several victims, dead or injured.

At Fairfield more than 40 buildings were partly wrecked or demolished. The loss there will exceed $100,000.

Trains in all directions are abandoned and reports of washouts and destroyed roadbeds.

The storm has covered such a wide area, and been so destructive that hundreds of farmers drove into the towns last night and today seeking shelter, many of them being homeless.

Telephone communication was established with Chester. The postmaster reported ten deaths near Byron, but he could give little definite information. Following the tornado, rain soaked the homeless sufferers, making their lot doubly harsh.

The towns of Carleton, Fairfield, Desplair, Shickley, Geneva, Franklin, Byron and Riverton, Nebraska, are among those visited by the storm.

At Carleton five residences and two churches were destroyed, while a new school building and 30 houses were partly wrecked.

At Geneva the storm wrought great destruction, and in the adjacent county claimed several victims, dead or injured.

At Fairfield more than 40 buildings were partly wrecked or demolished. The loss there will exceed $100,000.

Trains in all directions are abandoned and reports of washouts and destroyed roadbeds.

The storm has covered such a wide area, and been so destructive that hundreds of farmers drove into the towns last night and today seeking shelter, many of them being homeless.

Telephone communication was established with Chester. The postmaster reported ten deaths near Byron, but he could give little definite information. Following the tornado, rain soaked the homeless sufferers, making their lot doubly harsh.

The storm was general through Fillmore, Webster, Franklin and Thayer counties, Nebraska, and reached over into Kansas, where reports are coming in slowly of great destruction. The towns of Carleton, Fairfield, Desplair, Shickley, Geneva, Franklin, Byron and Riverton, Nebraska, are among those visited by the storm.

Major Bertschinger Disclaims Responsibility for Disappearance.

Ottawa, June 6.—A peculiar situation has arisen in connection with the transfer of the command of the Second Field Battery, Ottawa, from Major Bertschinger to Major MacLaren. The former has declined to hand over the books of the corps to the new commanding officer, although ordered to do so by the militia department. Major Bertschinger is charged with certain shortages in equipment to the amount of between $300 and $400, for which he claims he is not responsible. The missing articles, he says, were lost at the time of the big "Streets of Paris" bazaar, held in the armories here last fall, and the major says that he is in no way responsible for their disappearance. In view of the fact that a caretaker was placed in charge, over whom he had no control. The militia department has handed the matter over to the justice department, and it is understood, a test case will be argued in court.

The following promotions are gazetted in the militia orders issued today:

Twenty-seventh Lambton Regiment—To be adjutant, Capt. F. Gorman, vice Mackenzie, resigned; to be captain, Lieut. W. S. B. Craig.

Twenty-eighth Perth Regiment—To be lieutenant-colonel and to command the regiment, Major G. T. Cooke, vice Lieut.-Col. W. G. Moscrip, transferred to the reserve of officers.

Thirty-fifth Simcoe Foresters—To be adjutant, Brevet Major D. H. MacLaren.

Boston Advertiser: Miss Elizabeth E. Cook, of Ithaca, N. Y., is a young woman who will bear watching by the public eye. She was a member of the Cornell team which debated against Columbia, in spite of the Columbia protest—and did exceedingly well. Now she has been unanimously awarded the $100 prize in oratory endowed by General Stewart L. Woodford and which is considered the highest public speaking honor within the reach of Cornell students. Her oration was entitled "Men, Women and Human Beings," and consisted of a plea for the breaking down of the barriers between men and women, and their developing together of the wide range of common human interests. Her interest in her subject may be understood to be more than merely academic.

Mr. Inkster dilated upon the characteristics of Campbell-Bannerman, among them being a sunny temperament, which was never discouraged by difficulties; a keen sense of humor; a passionate devotion to his wife, but for whom he admitted that he never would have become premier, and a strong religious nature.

Valentine lost $316; "Klondyke" L. Allenburg was relieved of $60, another of $75. Rod McMahon was shy $85, and various others lost like amounts. Many of these have developed a pessimistic view of Pinkerton police protection.

Not the Public, Dear Reader, But Just Plain Every-Day Pickpockets.

Toronto, June 6.—If ever there was a sore bunch it is the makers of the books who held the lawns at the Woodbine during the past week. A none too profitable meet, where the talent was only moderately stung, was had enough, but when a week ago today five expert American pickpockets waltzed down the line and lifted the cold cash in $100 and $200 chunks out of the bookies' satchels, it was too much.

About ten of the best artists were touched.

LONDON, MONDAY, JUNE 8.

TODAY'S BATTLE.

No Liberal is so sanguine as to predict the defeat of the Whitney Government in this election. In addition to its advantage of 40 majority to start with, the administration has stolen several Liberal seats by the gerrymander, and made itself a present of three or four more in the city of Toronto by a piece of electoral trickery. For the sin of the gerry-mander, if for nothing else, the Government deserves to be punished at the polls. No excuse for such legislation can be found; the motive behind it is entirely evil. The best that the supporters of Mr. MacKay can hope for is that there is a spirit of fair play in the Province sufficiently strong to rebuke
the Government by reducing its majority. The welfare of Liberalism will be served just as well by another term in Opposition as by a return to office at this juncture, but it is not desirable in the best interests of the Province, or of either party, that the Government should have the same numerical superiority in the next Legislature as in the last one.
A stronger Opposition would have prevented the gross abuse of power
by the administration as illustrated in the gerrymander and the spoils system. The Liberals and Independents who supported Mr. Whitney in 1935, upon his appeal for a non-partisan verdict, have been victims of treach-ery, and their return to the Liberal ranks should have some effect upon the result.

As for the city Mr. McEvoy will do surprisingly well, in spite of his splendid campaign, if he pulls down
Mr. Beck's majority, in view of the latter's imitation of the bread-and-circus methods of the ancient Roman emperors. People have been given to understand they will get something for nothing if Mr. Beck is elected. He has promised higher wages, two-cent railway fares and electricity in every home and cottage. As the financial liability of the whole scheme is to fall upon taxpayers, it is very easy to hold out such bait to non-taxpayers. Mr. Beck's promises will recoil on his own head before another election. He has not yet been found out.

FOSTER'S ATTACK ON SIR FRED-ERICK BORDEN.

Recently the Hon. Geo. E. Foster
made a fierce onslaught on the personal conduct of the Minister of Militia in regard to the granting of a subsidy to the New Brunswick Cold Storage of St. John, and suggested that he should resign.

It appears that the minister had taken part in the formation of the Canada Lands Produce and Cold Storage Company, but as the Government subsequently adopted a policy of aiding cold storage, his partners
did not proceed with the organization, but transferred their interests
to the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company. It was the minister's wish also that the company should be disbanded, because he knew that while he held a prominent interest in it, it could not, with propriety, apply for that aid which the merits of the undertaking entitled it to.

The minister's son-in-law became secretary-treasurer of the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company, but he himself abstained from any financial interest in it.

Mr. Foster tried to leave the impression that the New Brunswick company was really the Canada
Lands Produce and Cold Storage Company, and that the Minister of Militia had the same financial interest in the former that he had had in the latter. The charge, founded on this, was that the Minister of Militia had influenced his colleagues in the cabinet to give aid to cold storage,
and then formed a company to take
financial advantage of it.

The Government, as a matter of fact, did not adopt the policy of aiding cold storage on its own initiative,
but on the recommendation of parliament; and, as soon as it was provoked, the Minister of Militia surrendered all financial interest in cold storage, and caused his company to be disbanded.

The New Brunswick Cold Storage
Company was not the only applicant
for a subsidy in St. John. F. E. Williams, a prominent Liberal in the pork business there, also applied, and it was a question who should have the subsidy. The then Minister of Railways and Canals (the Hon. R.

Emmerson), supported Mr. Williams' application, while the Minister of Militia interested himself on behalf of the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company. Decision lay in the hands of the Minister of Agriculture. He came to the conclusion that the two applications must be decided on their merits; which applicant would give the best service to the public, being entitled to the subsidy. He, therefore, asked each of them to send plans and specifications of what buildings they proposed to put up. The New Brunswick Cold Storage Company did so;
but Mr. Williams declined to go to the expense, unless he had an assurance, which would have practically amounted to a promise, that the application supported by Sir Frederick Borden should not be considered. Mr. Williams was several times asked to send in plans and specifications; but he did not do so, and, after waiting six months, the Minister of Agriculture granted the application of
the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company.

Mr. Foster read the correspondence between Mr. Williams and the Government, and did his best to leave the impression that the Minister of Militia had been financially interested in getting the subsidy for the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company.
Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on the other hand, detailed the whole proceedings, and showed that Mr. Foster had gone out of his way to give a totally unfair interpretation of the matter, thus wantonly injuring the feelings of the Minister of Militia.

THE NEW UNITED STATES CUR-RENCY LAW.

Currency legislation was one of the foremost subjects before the United States Congress at the session just closed, and the result was the passage of a bill which promptly received the presidential signature. The chief features of the measure are that it provides for the organization of national currency associations, and enlarges
the basis upon which circulating notes may legally be issued by individual banks.

The chief section provides that ten or more national banks, each of them having an unimpaired capital and a surplus of not less than 20 per cent,
and whose aggregate capital and surplus shall be at least $5,000,000, may form a national currency association,
no more than one in one city, and any bank being a member of such an association, whose capital is unimpaired, which has a surplus of at least 20 per cent, and which has taken out circulation to the extent of at least 40 per cent of its capital stock, shall, upon the deposit of security, be entitled to receive additional circulation through the instrumentality of the currency association. This security
may consist either of state, city, town, county and other municipal bonds, upon which notes will be issued to the extent of 90 per cent of their market value, or of four months
two-name commercial paper, the note issue on which shall not exceed 75
per cent of its cash value, but in no case shall the issue on commercial paper exceed 30 per cent of the bank's unimpaired capital and surplus.

The banks constituting the currency associations through whose agency these issues are effected are made jointly and severally responsible for the redemption of the same and every such association is empowered to call for additional security in default to sell the collateral
in its possession on ten days' notice
at public sale and to deposit the proceeds with the treasurer of the United States to be applied to the redemption of the notes on account of which such collateral was deposited.

Commercial paper as security is discriminated against to the extent of 15 per cent, and its use is narrowly circumscribed. As the note issue on commercial paper is limited to 10 per cent of the bank's surplus and unimpaired capital, its volume must be comparatively small.

The bill imposes a tax on all notes
other than those secured by United States bonds of 5 per cent per annum on the average circulation for the first month and of an additional 1 per cent per annum for each succeeding month until a maximum of 10 per cent is reached; fixes the redemption of what may be called the normal circulation at a maximum of nine million dollars monthly; restricts the aggregate issue of emergency circulation to $500,000,000, and limits the life of the law to June 13, 1914.

The measure is designed to remedy
the great defect of the United States currency system—its inflexibility—but a tax of 5 per cent upon the note
issue of the banks is decidedly conservative, in comparison with the Canadian system.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

[The Bellman.]

Sir Andrew Clarke, while traveling in India, ascended a high tower one evening and found at the top another tower,
an Englishman. They chatted pleasantly for a few minutes, when suddenly the stranger seized Sir Andrew by the shoulders and said quietly: "I am going to throw you over." The man was a lunatic. The physician had only a moment in which to gather his thoughts, but that moment saved him. "Pooh!" he replied,
"unconcernedly, 'anybody can throw a man off the tower. If we were on the ground you could not throw me up. That would be too difficult." "Yes, I could," retorted the lunatic. "I could easily throw you up here from the ground. Let us go down and I will do it." The descent was accordingly made, during which Sir Andrew managed to secure help and release himself from his perilous situation.

SO THEY DID.

[Harper's Weekly.]

In a recent suit in a Cincinnati court a lawyer was cross-examining a German,
the point under inquiry being the relative position of the doors, windows and so forth, in a house in which a certain transaction was alleged to have occurred.
"And now, my good man," the lawyer
said, "will you be good enough to tell the court how the stairs run in your house?"
"The German looked dazed for a moment. 'How do they run?' he repeated.
"Yes, how do they run?"
"Well," continued the witness, "even I am upstairs deep run down, and even I am downstairs deep run up."

HOLDING HIS NOTES.

[Judge.]

"I hear that the new tenor is a great success—that he can hold one of his notes

"That's nothing. I've held one of my notes for over a year."

Which gave me no surprise.
In fact, they've worn man's garments on
But on the sheath skirt I protest—
They'll put on trousers next.

LIBERALISM AND SOCIALISM.

[Winston Churchill.]

Liberalism has its own history and its own traditions. Socialism has its own formulas and its own aims. Socialism seeks to pull down wealth. Liberalism seeks to raise poverty. Socialism would destroy private interests; Liberalism would preserve private interests in the only way in which they can be safely and justly preserved, namely, by reconciling them with public right. Socialism would kill enterprise; Liberalism would revitalize it. Socialism would strip the enterprise from the trammels of privilege and preference. Socialism assails the preference of the individual; Liberalism
exalts it. Socialism attacks capital;
Liberalism attacks monopoly.

NOT NECESSARY.

Jane—No, I didn't think it necessary
since the neighbors across the street moved

not unfitting that the descendant of a Calvinistic Church.

DIVORCE NO GOOD
LOSES $400,000A Romance With Scottish Characters, French Flavor and Canadian Setting.

London, June 7.—It used to be said that there was a railway station on the Nebraska border which bore the legend: "Strith stop, here ten minutes for divorces." These anecdotes have some justification, as a Canadian romance decided in Mr. Justice Swin-fen Eady's court in the chancery division shows.

The parties were uncle and nephew,
and the nephew was an "infant," and the question was who should have possession of estates in Scotland worth over eighty thousand pounds. Years ago a certain Mr. George Arbuthnot Smith, a young Scot from a Forfarshire manse, turned his steps to Canada. At Rat Portage he entered the service of a local land surveyor, married his daughter Evangeline, and went with his bride to British Columbia.

Here they became acquainted with Walter Stirling, also from bonnie Scotland, a man of means. He was likewise a man of taste and he admired Mrs. Smith. He came to live with the couple and joined the husband in a timber and mining business. All three were very friendly; but in the fullness of time Stirling (it was in the year 1894) quitted the Smith residence, leaving behind a note suggesting that Mrs.
Smith should follow him to a place some twenty miles away. This she did, after it was alleged, a quite friendly parting from her husband. It was said they even exchanged a farewell cannibal kiss, though on this delicate point the evidence was conflicting. According to some testimony what was said by Smith took the situation as if he had been a character in one of Mr.
Bernard Shaw's plays.

Instead of resorting to firearms, as they might have done south of the boundary, he went and talked it over with Stirling. It was Smith, it was suggested that at this meeting it was arranged for Smith to go to Dakota and get a divorce under the code of that accommodating state. To Dakota
at any rate he went, resided there briefly and to qualify as a legal domi-
cile, and then applied for and obtained a divorce. He did not accuse Evangeline of misconduct. He said her association with Smith had lacerated his feelings and made the neighbors gossip. Lacerated feelings are good enough for a Dakota court. Smith got his divorce—"divorce while you wait,"
said his lordship in the chancery division, with judicial jocularity. He went back to British Columbia and married again. And as Walter and Evangeline, they traveled to San Francisco,
where they married, and in the fullness of time a son Richard was born to them.

So far all went well with this little romance and nobody might have heard any more about the matrimonial adventures of the Stirlings and the Smiths but for that eighty-thousand-pound estate in Scotland. Walter Stirling is dead; his son Richard, the infant, it is claimed, is the only one of the Stirlings left. But his uncle, Walter's brother, disputes the claim,
on the ground that the Dakota divorce
was invalid, that Walter and Mrs.
Smith were therefore not married, and in this generation the divorce is considered null and void. The consequence is born in lawful wedlock.

Scottish Law Invoked.

It is what lawyers call a nice point;
because the Scottish marriage law has its peculiarities, also, and these had to be considered, it was alleged, for instance, that even if the Dakota divorce was not legal, yet Walter and Evangeline believed that it was, and cohabited under that belief, fully intending to live as man and wife, and thereby became man and wife under a well-known principle of the Scots law.
But Mr. Justice Swinfen Eady would not have it. He was backed on the romanche of fourteen years ago, and pointed to certain letters written by Walter Stirling, showing that he had admitted misconduct with Mrs. Smith, and was, in fact, a party to the legal proceedings whereby her marriage was sundered. That rendered the Dakota divorce collusive, and the English courts regard collusion in divorce with no indulgence whatsoever. His lordship held that this Dakota divorce was invalid, therefore that Walter Stirling was never legally married, that his son
was not born in wedlock; that he died without lawful issue. So the child Richard will have nothing, and his uncle becomes possessed of the lands and the income of the estate. Stirling vestments. From which it would appear that a Dakota divorce, cheap and expedient as it is, cannot always be relied upon to cross the ocean without damage.

WAS DREYFUS SHOT?

Friends of Gregori Say He Used Pellets for Bullets.

Paris, June 7.—The excitement produced by the attempt to kill Major Alfred Dreyfus last Thursday by Louis Gregori during the ceremonies attending the placing of the body of Emile Zola in the national pantheon is subsiding. It is now apparent that the Clemenceau Government does not intend to play into the hands of the Nationalists by reviving the old issue of which the country is weary, and the Republican press generally is cooperating with the Government by minimizing the importance of the outrage.

The doctors have not been able to locate the ball in Major Dreyfus' arm.
They are now convinced that it has been ejected by the action of the muscles. Friends of Gregori now advance the theory that he used wax pellets instead of bullets. These pellets were invented several years ago
and were practiced during the war.
When they are fired at a distance of twenty paces they produce an abrasion of the skin, but are otherwise harmless. Some newspapers today say that neither the revolver nor any cartridges were found after the shooting.

THE CONFERENCE
ON TEMPERANCEA Resolution Condemning the Three-Fifths Local Option Clause as Unjust.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Exeter, June 6.—At this morning's session of the London Methodist conference, Rev. Walter Russell, B. A., spoke of three great pictures of Christ. He said:

"They used to burn the Bible—now they cut it into pieces. The thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians may be divided into the competition, the constitution, the continuity and the consummation of love. Paul spoke of his past, his childhood of life." The speaker referred to the craze for modern amusement. Paul looks out toward the future—faith, hope and love abide forever.

Rev. Messrs. H. D. Moyer and W.
E. Millson sang a beautiful solo.

The superannuation fund report was received. Personal subscriptions amounted to $4,800; circuit assessments, $12,439; total, $17,239.

Temperance Resolution.

It was moved by Dr. Cook, and seconded by Dr. Gundy, "That as a conference we would place on record our appreciation of the efforts of the Ontario Government in the matter of enforcement of the liquor license law,
but at the same time we regret that in this year, 1938, while 41 contests took place looking toward the abolition of the bar, that out of 60
places, in which we gained a majority, only 31 municipalities were the temperance forces successful, because of the unjust three-fifths clause requirement.

"We, therefore, again enter our emphatic protest against the law as it exists, and call upon the Government to amend the liquor license law
so that the obnoxious clause may be eliminated, and a return to the simple majority vote be made."

The resolution was referred to the temperance committee.

General Conference Fund.

Rev. D. N. McCamus reported for the general conference fund, the amount raised being $2,075.

Rev. John Graham, D.D., general secretary of education, reported total amount raised for education fund by
the conference, $5,527.

A resolution of appreciation, moved by Rev. Jos. Philip, B. D., and seconded by Rev. G. N. Hazen, B. A., was carried.

Greetings were ordered to be sent to the Hamilton conference, the passage chosen being Second Thessalonians, II, 14 to 17.

Rev. W. B. Creighton, B. D., gave
the report as editor of the Christian Guardian. He held that our church paper underlined the general progress of the church. He emphasized the need of the ministry being enthusiastic as helpers to him in his work.

Laymen's Missionary Movement.

In the afternoon Mr. H. E. Rice, B.
A., of St. Marys, discussed the significance of the laymen's missionary movement from the standpoint of the laymen themselves. The church and the world. The movement looks toward the evangelization of the world in this generation. The address was sane, earnest and aggressive.

"My Share in the Movement," was the subject dealt with by Mr. C. E.
German, of London. Under two heads,
(1) My Share in the Evangelization of the World, (2) My Share in my Income. There are less than 13,000 missionaries in foreign lands, and the amount raised for missions last year was $2,450,000; $12,000 members in the Canadian Methodist Church, last year raised only $45,000. Mr. German went on to urge systematic giving to the work of God. Give God his share in the proposition. The address was enthusiastic and convincing.

A very helpful discussion followed in which Mr. James Irwin, Rev. Walter Russell, B. A.; Mr. C. B. Keenleyside,
B. A.; Mr. Ferguson, of Sarnia, Mr.
W. H. Kerr, of London, took part.

Saturday Evening.

The Theological Union met in the basement of Mann Street Methodist Church. The president, Rev. E. F.
Armstrong, D. D., in the chair. The lecturer was Rev. James Husar, M.
A., and his subject, "The Necessity of the Atonement." This important theme was dealt with from two standpoints, the philosophical and the scriptural. The lecture was able and scholarly.

Rev. Dr. Huson was elected president of the union for the ensuing year.

Sunday Morning Service.

The conference love-feast was conducted by the Rev. George Bugbin and opened at 9:30 a.m., and when the hour
of 11 o'clock arrived every available
spot in the spacious James Street Methodist Church was filled, people driving for eighteen or twenty miles.
A Methodist conference had not been held in Exeter for twenty years. Rev.
Dr. Gundy, of St. Thomas, announced the first hymn and led in the opening prayer. Rev. Joseph Philip, B. D., read the Scripture lesson and announced the second hymn.

Ordination Sermon and Service.

The ordination sermon was preached
by the retiring president, Rev. W. J.
Ford, LL.B., who took as the text,
Psalm, xxxvii, 3, in which he likened Jerusalem of old to the church of God. The sermon was a tender and beautiful gospel message.

The ordination service was conducted by Rev. A. H. Goings, president of the conference, when the following persons were ordained: Charles W.
Down, B. A.; Wm. L. Hiles, B. A.; J. W. J. Kilpatrick, B. A.; Clark F.
Logan, B. A.; Morley D. Madden, B.A.; Arthur S. Whitehall, S. T. L., and

Sunday School Session.

Rev. G. W. Rives, B.A., spoke to a mass meeting of Sabbath school children and workers at 2 p.m., taking as a text, "Follow Me," referring to Christ
as a guide.

Rev. F. J. Oaten, M.A., followed with an address on the subject of "Calling Things by Right Names," and pointed Catarrh a Germ Disease.

It Can Never Be Cured By Stomach
Dosing. It is the Breathing Organs
That Are Affected. Breathing
Hyomei Air Cures Catarrh.

The germs of Catarrh infest the air cells of the nose, throat, and lungs. Catarrh is taken on from the air you breathe. What, then, can be easier to understand than to im-pregnate that air with sure death to the germ life means cure, and that is just what Hyomei does. It brings to the breathing organs, the balsamic air of the Pine and Eucalyptus Forests, which means destruction to millions of germ life in a breath.

Mrs. I. Coon, of John street, Acton, Ont., says:
"I can give Hyomei a good recommendation. I had a swelling near my eyes, which was caused by catarrhal condition. I had to cough up the bad spirits that dropped into my throat. I felt as if a hard cold had attacked me in my head, nose and glands. A week's treatment of Hyomei relieved my trouble, and caused me to feel and look entirely different than before using this wonderful remedy. I am glad to endorse Hyomei."

General Mass Meeting.

At 4 p.m., a mass meeting, which

THE CRIMSON BLIND

BY FRED M. WHITE

CHAPTER XLII

A Delicate Errand.

It looked like being a long, dull evening for Steel if he were not going to the theatre or anything of that kind. He generally read till about 11 o'clock, after which he sat up for another couple of hours plotting out the day's task for tomorrow. Tonight he could only wander restlessly about his conservatory, shipping off a dead leaf here and there and wondering where the whole thing was going to end.

With a certain sense of relief David heard the front doorbell trill about 11 o'clock. Somebody was coming to see him, and it didn't matter much who in Steel's present state of mind. But he swept into the study with feelings of genuine pleasure as Hatherley Bell was announced.

"My dear fellow, I'm delighted to see you," he cried. "Take the big armchair. Let me give you a cigar and a whisky and soda and make you comfortable. That's better."

"I'm tired out," Bell said. "In London all day, and since six with Cross. Can you put me up for the night?"

"My bachelor bedroom is always ready, Bell."

"Thanks. I don't fancy you need be under any apprehension that anybody has spirited Van Sneek away. In the first place, Henson, who seems to have discovered what happened, is in a terrible state about it. He wanted very badly to remain at Littimer Castle, but when he heard that Van Sneek had left the hospital he came down here; in fact, we traveled together. Of course he said nothing whatever about Van Sneek, whom he is supposed to know nothing about, but I could see that he was terribly disturbed. The worst of it is that Cross was going to get me to operate on Van Sneek; and Hatherley, who seems wonderfully better, was going to assist."

"Is your unfortunate friend up to that kind of thing now?" David asked.

"Yes, so. Do you know that Hatherley used to have a fairly good practice near Littimer Castle? Lord Littimer knows him well. I want Hatherley to come into this. I want to get at the reason why Henson has been so confoundedly good to Hatherley. For years he has kept his eye upon him; for years he has practically provided him with a home at Palmer's. And when Hatherley mentions Henson's name he always does so with a kind of forced gratitude."

"I don't see," David said, "how Hatherley can be so good to Henson, who is not the worst part of it. Williams heard the dogs making a great noise by the gates, and went to see what was wrong. Some poor, demented fellow had climbed over the wall, and the dogs were holding him up. But Hatherley did not seem to be conscious of his danger, and as he stood still the hounds did him no harm. Williams was bound to put the intruder into the roads again, and Hatherley came up. And when he saw the poor, wandering tramp to be?"

"Bell pitched his cigar into the grate full of flowers and jumped to his feet. 'Van Sneek, for a million,' he cried. 'My head to you, if you don't get him. The same. They managed to get the poor fellow into the house before Williams brought Henson from the lodge, and he's in the stables now in a rather excited condition. Now, I quite agree with Miss Henson, that Hatherley must be kept in ignorance of the fact, also that Van Sneek must be got away without delay. To inform the hospital authorities would be to spoil everything and play into Henson's hands. But he must be got away tonight. 'Right you are. We'll go and fetch him. Et apres?'"

"Et apres he will stay here. He shall stay here, and you shall say that it is dangerous to remove him. Cross shall be told and Marley shall be told, and the public shall be discreetly kept in ignorance for the present. I'll go over there at once, as there is no time to be lost. Miss Henson suggests that I should come, and she tells me that Williams will wait at the lodge-gates for me. But you are going to stay here."

"Oh, indeed? And why am I going to stay here?"

"Because, my dear friend, I can easily manage the business single-handed, and because you must run no risk of meeting Henson yonder. You are not now supposed to know where the fellow is, nor are you supposed to take the faintest interest in him. Stay here and make yourself comfortable till I return. . . . Are you there? I will be at Longdean as soon as possible and bring Van Sneek here. No, I won't be over in less than an hour."

David hung up the receiver and proceeded to don a short covert coat and a cap. In the breast-pocket of the coat he placed a revolver.

"You think that Hatherley is going to be useful to us?"

"I fancy so. Mind you, it is only my idea—what I call intuition, for want of a better word—and what have you been doing lately?"

David proceeded to explain, giving the events of the afternoon in full detail. Bell followed the account with the deepest interest. Then he proceeded to tell his own story. David appeared to be fascinated with the tale of the man was the thumb-nail.

"So Miss Chris hopes to hypnotize the man with the thumb," he said. "You have seen more of her than I have, Bell. Does she strike you as she strikes me—a girl of wonderfully acute mind allied to a pluck and audacity absolutely brilliant?"

"She is that and more," Bell said, warmly. "Now that she is free to act she has developed wonderfully. Look at her Rembrandt business, how utterly she puzzled Henson, and how she helped me to get into Littimer's good books again without Henson even guessing at the reason. And now she has forced the confidence of that rascal Merritt. She has saved him from the gallows, which she might have thrown him at any moment, she has convinced him that she is something exceedingly brilliant in the way of an adventuress, with a great deal of head and a fine, hard-cutting tool she will find him."

"Where is Henson at the present moment?" David asked.

"I left him in London this afternoon," Bell replied. "But I haven't the slightest doubt in the world that he has made his way to Brighton by this time. In all probability he has gone to Longdean."

Bell paused as the telephone bell rang out shrilly. The new sound of it thrilled both of them with excitement. And what a useful thing the telephone had proved!

"Are you there?" came the quick, small whisper. "Is that you, Mr. Steel? I am Enid Hatherley."

There was a long pause, during which David was listening intently. Bell could see him growing rigid with the prospect of something keen, alert, and vigorous.

"Bell is here with me at this moment," he said. "Just wait a minute whilst I tell him. Don't go away, please. Under the circumstances it might be dangerous for me to ring you."

Just a moment. Here's a pretty mess."

"Well," Bell said, impatiently, "I'm only a mere man, after all."

"Henson is at Longdean; he turned up an hour ago, and at the present moment is shrilly shouting at the library before going to bed. But that is not the worst part of it. Williams heard the dogs making a great noise by the gates, and went to see what was wrong. Some poor, demented fellow had climbed over the wall, and the dogs were holding him up. But Hatherley did not seem to be conscious of his danger, and as he stood still the hounds did him no harm. Williams was bound to put the intruder into the roads again, and Hatherley came up. across the fields in the direction of Longdean. The place was perfectly quiet, the village was all in darkness as he approached the lodge-gates of the Grange. Beyond the drive and between the thick, dark firs that shielded the house he could see the crimson lights gleaming here and there. He could catch the rumble and scratch in the bushes, and ever again a dog whined. The big gate was closed as David peeped in searching for his guide.

"Williams," he whispered; "Williams, where are you?"

But no reply came. The silence was full of strange, rushing noises, the rush of blood in David's head. He called again and again, but no reply came. Then he heard the rustle and rustle of many feet, the cry of a pack of hounds, a melancholy cry, with a sadder joy in it. He saw a light gleaming fitfully in the belt of firs.

"No help for it," David muttered. "I must chance my luck. I never saw a dog yet that I was afraid of. Well, here goes."

He scrambled over the wall and dropped on the moist, clammy earth on the other side. He fumbled forward a few steps, and then stopped suddenly, brought up all standing by the weird scene which was being solemnly enacted under his astonished eyes.

CHAPTER XLIII.
Prince Rupert's Ring.

Whilst events were moving rapidly outside, time at Longdean Grange seemed to stand still. The dust and the gloom brooded like an evil spirit. And yet it was but the calm before the storm that was coming to banish the hoary old spectres for good.

Still, Enid felt the money to be as maddening as ever. There were times when she rebelled passionately against the solitude of the place. There were moments to her when it seemed that her mind couldn't stand the strain much longer.

But she had hope, that blessed legacy to the sanguine and the young. And there were times when she would creep out and see Ruth Gates, who found the Rottingdean Road very convenient for carrying just now. And there was always the anticipation of a telephone message from Chris. Originally the telephone had been established so that the household could be reached without the intrusion of tradesmen and other strangers. It had seemed a great anomaly at the time, but now Enid blessed it every moment of the day. And she was, perhaps, not quite so unhappy as she deemed herself to be. She had her lover back again now, with his character free from every imputation.

The sun straggled in through the dim, dusty panes; the monotonous voice of Mrs. Henson droned in the drawing-room. It was what Williams called one of the unhappy lady's "days." Sometimes she was quiet and reasonable, at other times the dark mood hung heavily upon her. She was pacing up and down the drawing-room, wringing her hands and whimpering to herself. Enid had slipped on the grounds for a little fresh air; the house oppressed her terribly today. The trim lawns and blazing flower-beds were a pleasant contrast to the misery and disorder within.

Enid passed on into the shadow of the plantation. A little farther on nearer the wall the dogs seemed to be excited about something. Williams' voice could be heard expostulating with some intruder who had pulled a man who, though fairly well dressed, looked as if he had slept in his garments for days. There was a dazed, puzzled, absent expression on his face.

"You might have been killed," Williams might have been killed. "If you hadn't stood still they dogs would have pulled you to pieces. How did you get here?"

"I've lost it," the stranger muttered. "I've lost it somewhere, and I shall have no rest till I find it."

"Well," Williams said, "in the road, Williams suggested, smoothly, 'No! Williams ever gets lost here. Just you hop over that wall and try your luck outside. Enid came forward. Evidently the intruder was no stranger to her. Williams started to explain volubly. But Enid cut him short at once.

"A most extraordinary thing has happened," she said. "It is amazing that this man should come here of all places. Williams, this is the man Van Sneek."

"What, the chap as was wounded in the hospital, miss?"

trive to get Mr. Henson into the drawing-room. Without delay you must smuggle Mr. Van Sneek into your apartments over the stable. You will be perfectly safe if you go down the back staircase. As soon as the drawing-room door closes, go."

Williams nodded. He was essentially a man of action rather than words. With all the coolness she could summon up Enid descended to the hall. She gave a little gesture of surprise and disdain as she caught sight of Henson.

"So you came down to welcome me?" Enid said, coldly.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It is quickly called attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the joints, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Mrs. J. A. Laliberte, of 34 Artilerie Street, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For six years I have been doctoring for female weakness, heart and nerves, liver and kidney trouble, but in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I can safely say I have found a cure."

"I was continually bothered with the most distressing backaches, headaches, and bearing down pains, and I kept growing more and more nervous."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of all these distressing symptoms and made me a well woman. I would advise all suffering women, young or old, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

There was no more scoring till the seventh when McMillan singled, a three-bagger, Finnemore singled, throwing McMillan home. Bradford bunted to center garden, but as Finnemore was riding on the ice wagon he was caught at second. Maxey went out on a foul fly, and Long went out to left.

Niagara Falls had a good chance to score in the sixth, but a double play upset the dope. Doremis made a hit, but was caught stealing second. McCabe made a two-bagger and Armstrong strong flow to pitcher, who threw to second before McCabe could get back. In the eighth the Yankees got their only run. Doremis made a triple bagger and came home on a wild throw to third by Connors.

COMMERCIALS END
FIRST SERIES

The first series of fifteen games in this league was completed Friday evening, when McClary defeated Young's in one of the best games of the series, by a score of 3-2.

Up to date the league has been conducted in a most efficient manner, Jack Bartlett, the secretary-treasurer, proving himself to be the right man in the right place. The work of the umpire, Alf. Gatefield, and the scorer, W. Hyslop, has been most satisfactory and impartial.

The greatest good fellowship prevails among the members of the teams, and the primary objects of the league, fresh air and fun, are being carried out to the letter.

On Monday night a postponed game in the first series between Chapman's and the Bank of British North America, will be played, the second series starting Tuesday night, with Hyman's, and Smallman & Ingram's as the contestants. The games are played Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 6:45, and the boys will be glad to have their friends come over to Tecumseh Park to see the games. The standing of the first series:

CHINESE BILLS MOST PECULIAR

Claims of an Unusual Nature Follow Recent Riot in Vancouver.

Vancouver, June 7.—As adversity brings strange bedfellows, so does a riot bring strange bills, such as for hack-driving for days after the disturbance; automobile hire for fetching in a suicide's body; fines for violating the country's laws; expensive cablegrams, and for printing leaflets.

At the inquiry into the Chinese claims before Mr. Mackenzie King, the justification for these bills was advanced, and much valuable information was given as to the combined wealth of Vancouver Chinese and the comparatively small number of Chinese in domestic service. The Chinese own property in Chinatown worth $2,000,000, and inside the Japanese quarter.

The Chinese board of trade asked $2,568 for expenditure during the recent riot. One of the items was for hack hire, journeys to the police station, and to the Japanese quarter to observe the damage there. It amounted to $51.50, and lasted from the time of the riot to Sept. 24.

"Do you want the Government to pay you for hack hire to go down to the Japanese quarter?" asked Mr. King. "We all wanted to consult together," said President Shum Moon.

"And you surely don't expect to be paid for hack hire used at other times than that of the riot?"

"It was all arising out of the riot," urged the witness.

"Yes, but though there might be reasonable justification for driving to see the police and city officials at the time of the riot, after the first week, to have been quiet, it does not seem to have been necessary," commented the commissioner. "Then here is an item of $7.50 for automobile hire. How about that?"

To Get Dead Body.

"Well, a dead body of a Chinaman was found hanging on the North Arm road and we went out an automobile for it," was the explanation.

"He had hanged himself?" queried Mr. King.

"I don't know whether he hanged himself or somebody hanged him," Shum Moon suggestively replied.

Mr. McEoy explained that the Chinese at the time were very restless and the Chinese board of trade thought it would be well to allay their fears about this man being murdered. They went out an automobile for the body, and printed leaflets. There was danger at the time of the Chinese running amuck.

Mr. King observed that though the items seemed large, discretion seemed to have been used. He had seen similar Government accounts that were heavier.

Cablegrams were pretty costly. One to Pekin telling the conditions and beseeching help cost $110.52; another to Pekin cost $21.50, and another to London, England, $38.55.

Mr. King—I think it seems natural and proper that you should have cabled to Pekin and London, and judging from the amounts I paid for cables to Japan last year, they don't seem excessive.

Another curious claim was for reconditioning the house for the fine of two Chinamen who were employed by them as watchmen and were found by the police carrying arms. Mr. King ruled it out.

LURED TO HIS DEATH

Young Nurse Kills a Doctor Whom She Declares Wronged Her.

New York, June 8.—Sarah Koten, the young trained nurse who lured Dr. Martin W. Auspitz to a house in Harlem last night with a false sick call by telephone and shot him to death after she had lain in wait for many hours, declared today that she had no regret for her act. "I shot him but I did not murder him," she said in a cell in the police station as she waited the summons to appear in court. "I killed him because he had wronged me and then refused to help me. I tried to punish him. He was the doctor of my father and mother. My father and mother are dead, so I had to protect my honor myself."

There seems little doubt that when the case against the girl goes to trial a jury once more will have an opportunity to pass upon "the unwritten law," or the justification of murder under certain circumstances.

DISLIKES THE TOMBS

Raymond Hitchcock Doesn't Know How He Can Stand It.

New York, June 8.—After three days in a cell in the Tombs Prison Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, appeared in the criminal branch of the supreme court today prepared for the resumption of his trial on indictments growing out of charges preferred by several young girls. An Hitchcock had been tried before on an indictment involving the same charges and the allegations in the case have been given considerable publicity it was believed that some difficulty would be experienced in getting a jury.

There was only one jurymen in the box when the trial was resumed before Justice Goff today. Hitchcock does not take kindly to his incarceration in the Tombs and his appearance in court today was proof of this. "It is an awful place," he declared. "I don't know how I am going to stand it, if this trial drags along for any length of time."

Jennie Horton, of Ottawa, was fined $22 for striking a boy with a pair of scissors.

Mr. J. W. Marshall, M. A., formerly of Windsor, has been appointed solicitor of the County of Kent, to succeed the late James M. Ball, M. A.

Charles Fisher was drowned yesterday at Windsor, while swimming in the river. Two companions were with him at the time, but they did not notice him go under the water.

HAMILTON HAD BALLOTS FOR SALE

Conservative Poll Clerk Alleged To Have "Approached" a Liberal Chairman.

Hamilton, June 8.—Documents and admitted facts indicate that Harry Dillabaugh, a poll clerk for Horace Tyler, one of the deputy returning officers appointed to conduct the election in West Hamilton, tried to see W. S. McLaughlin, a chairman of the Liberal party in the fifth ward, on Saturday, and offered to sell a package of 50 ballots bearing the stamp of the returning officer, Col. Moore, for $100. Mr. McLaughlin agreed to see him on Sunday, and at once notified the Liberal candidate of the corrupt offer made. He also notified the police of the proposed interview and its purpose, so that the law could be set in motion.

The chief of police appears on his own admission to have notified Col. Moore, the returning officer, who met Mr. McLaughlin and learned the details of the proposal. Subsequently he dismissed the deputy returning officer as well as Dillabaugh, and expressed regret to the Liberal leaders that the incident had occurred.

The dropping of 50 extra ballots in the boxes in West Hamilton, which was the particular knavery aimed at in the case under consideration, would have forced the election officials either to make an improper return or to admit that bogus ballots had been cast.

DESPOUND WOMAN

phoning for Dr. James D. Wilson. The woman struggled fiercely before the physician came.

"Let me die," she cried. "Let me die," she cried, but they kept her on the move.

Dr. Wilson Arrives.

Dr. James D. Wilson arrived about five minutes after the would-be suicide had taken the poison, and applied the stomach pump.

He succeeded in removing all the poison.

She was then taken to Victoria Hospital, where she recovered from the effects of the drug, though she was unconscious some of the time.

She went to her home yesterday afternoon.

Druggist's Story.

"The woman came in here shortly after 7:30 o'clock," said Mr. Harmer, "and asked for laudanum. I prepared the drug, and asked her to sign the register. She came up to it, but instead of signing she took the bottle and walked to the front part of the store, where she took the cork and drank some of the poison."

I ran to her and knocked the drug out of her hand. Then another man and I took hold of her and walked her up and down the stairs, and she died of the poison. She kicked and struggled, shouting all the time, 'Let me die, let me die.' We told her to be quiet and kept her moving."

In a minute she was unconscious and the stomach pump did the rest.

Second Attempt.

"She told us that this was her second attempt to commit suicide, but she would not tell us when the other attempt was made or anything about it."

"She did not tell us why she had tried to commit suicide this time. I should judge that she drank perhaps a spoonful of the drug before we got to her. It was not sufficient to have killed her, but we took no chances, but did what we could to prevent her committing suicide."

The Motive.

So far as can be learned there is no immediate motive for the suicide except despondency. Stuntin, the woman's husband, says he knows of no reason why she would commit suicide.

He says that he and his wife and daughter were taken to the hospital last night and had a few drinks in a hotel.

They were returning home, when Mrs. Stanton left them to go back and purchase a pair of stockings for the little girl.

He waited for her for some time, but she did not return. He went to search for her and was informed that she had been taken to the hospital. The Stantons are well-known in police circles.

KING'S VISIT PLEASES

Duma Leaders Say Nice Things About His Majesty.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—Premier Stolypin, M. Kalmayakoff, president of the Duma, and Professor Paul Milukoff, leader of the Constitutional Democrats, all express their unreserved pleasure at King Edward's approaching visit. The Premier said that a rapprochement between the two countries was mutually desirable, not only in the sphere of conventions but in the domain of trade, manufactures and commerce.

M. Kalmayakoff said that his sentiments of patriotic satisfaction at the visit of the King of England were shared by the Duma as a national body. M. Milukoff remarked that the visit was paid to Constitutional Russia and the royal seal of international recognition thereby was affixed to a new regime.

TOWNSMEN BATTLE

Okoloma Band Attempts to Seize Another Community Records.

Eufaula, Okla., June 8.—In a fight between fifteen Choctaw residents and citizens of Eufaula yesterday on the streets. F. M. Woods, deputy constable of this place, and Joseph Parmenor, who were shot, were probably killed. He was shot once through the body. Parmenor's wound is not serious. The trouble started when Constable Woods attempted to disarm Parmenor. About fifteen shots were fired in all.

With rifles and revolvers, the Choctaw men came to Eufaula to attempt to remove the county seat records by force. The county clerk is said to have furnished them the keys to the court house, but records were to be put in sacks and sent to Choctaw on a special train which was to arrive later. Eufaula citizens were armed to prevent the removal before a temporary injunction had been granted by the court.

Lady Tweedmouth, mother of Lady Aberdeen and of the present Lord
Tweedmouth, died in London recently.
Her ladyship's death broke up a brief
holiday which the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen were taking at Portrush,
"the breezy and bracing tourist resort
on the Atlantic coast, with the Giant's Causeway close by;" and they went at once to London. Lady Tweedmouth was a daughter of Sir James Hogk.
She was at one time a prominent figure in society, and had a great reputation as an excellent hostess, both in town and country. Lady Tweedmouth lived principally at Bath for about thirteen years after her husband's death. She interested herself actively in the local charities and in many philanthropic enterprises, and was a clever woman, with a considerable talent for practical business affairs, and a staunch Evangelical.

on one of its members, Mrs. Nutkins, who is leaving on Wednesday next

Nicholls-Taylor.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D.
Taylor, Ekfrid, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday,
June 3, when their youngest daughter,
Margaret, was united in marriage to Franklin W. Nicholls, of North Ekfrid, in the presence of about thirty immediate friends and relatives. At exactly 12 o'clock the wedding march,
played by Mrs. Ed. Laughton, pealed forth, and the bridal party took their places under an arch formed of maples and snowballs, and banked with ferns, where the Rev. Edward Olivant, of Appin, performed the impressive ceremony. The bride was becomingly dressed in silk mulle,
with silk lace and ribbon trimmings,
while Mr. Wm. Tricker was best man.
Little Margaret, Mahe, niece and namesake of the bride, made a dainty flower and ringbearer. The groom's present to the bride was a crescent of pearls; to the bridesmaid, a gold bracelet; and to the groomsmen a gold necktie pin.

Graydon had an interview with the joint committee of the county council
last week, and the committee agreed to pay the county's share of the pavement of Ridout street, from King

"That is a good piece of work," said City Engineer Graydon. "I am very

sible to get a pavement on this street
this summer."

The county council also agreed to pay its share for a curb and gutter

Feast of Pentecost Was Celebrated

The regular Pentecost services were conducted at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday.

Archbishop McEvay celebrated mass
at 8 o'clock, when the Blessed Sacrament was administered to eighty-one first communions.

Before mass the children assembled at St. Peter's school and marched in procession to the church.

Rev. Father Aylward congratulated
the children from the pulpit.

The 10 o'clock mass was celebrated
by Father O'Neill.

Pentecost services were also celebrated at St. Mary's Church.

Two first communions received the Blessed Sacrament.

The regular first communion class
received the sacrament on Corpus Christi, Sunday June 29.

Confirmation has been postponed,
owing to the appointment of Bishop McEvay to the Archbishopric of See of Toronto.

Individual Cups in St. Andrew's

The new individual communion cups
which it was decided some time ago
to use in connection with the com-

Church were used yesterday for the first time, and the members of the congregation express general satisfaction at the change.

Nearly six hundred persons took part in the communion services in the morning.

Rev. Dr. Ross preached an excellent sermon from the text, "We beheld his glory." In the evening Dr. Ross spoke on the subject, "Our Stewardship in the Gospel."

BANK WRECKER'S CASH GOES TO YOUNG WIDOW

Entanglements With Women Now Believed to Account for $125,000 Shortage.

Pittsburg, June 7.—The romance of Cashier "Billie" Montgomery, all-round sport, confirmed bachelor and rounder, who is now in the county jail
while the receiver of the Allegheny National Bank figures out how much more than $125,000 his accounts at the bank are short, seems likely to be told in its entirety, as a result of discoveries made in the investigation of the books of the wrecked bank.

Montgomery has been accused of gambling in mining stocks, of extravagance and of juggling campaign
bills, but he always has been thought free from entanglements with women.

Entries in his books, showing the payment of $50,000 within a few months of his arrest, and larger amounts during the year preceding, to a dashing young widow, well known in local society, led to inquiries by Receiver Lyon which brought out the story of what is probably Montgomery's
