A few months ago I might have been prone to prophesy, but it is rather dangerous after all in the world of fashion even though one happens to be very much of an insider. At any rate, I should have been tempted to say that dresses would be very good, as it is said in the "trade." But I rather doubt if anyone ever thought said in the "trade." But I rather doubt I that dresses would be universally in favor.

In the first place they are popular because they are pretty. And again, because they are practical. And still again, because one can wear a long, graceful coat with them, be comfortable and always well dressed. Serge is the popular material, with satins and georgette combinations much worn for the main dressing garments. One must have a dress-one, two, three or even more dresses in their wardrobe outside of their evening dresses.

A BEAR HUNT

By John Noble. In days of yore, bears and wolves lominated the almost unbroken forest. Bruin was located, in a casual way, going his ebbullitions in quest of dessert. The news was heralded among the sparsely deposited inhabitants anent the visitation of Bruin. A hunting campaign was duly installed, supplemented with blunderbusses and bludgeons, practically now obsolete. Bruin was quickly rounded up by a host of canines. When Bruin was confronted with such an ole force he climbed a tree to elude his pursuers. A council of the convocations of nimrods decided absolutely on a fusillade from the crude weapons of warfare, whereupon it was leemed prudent for each man of chase to climb a tree, save one, as Bruin was

There was once an old eastern monarch who offered a fabulous sum to the man who would tell him a story that would never end. The story-teller was found. His tale was about a high tower filled with grain, into which a cloud of locusts had found entrance, one by one, and the story ran thus:

"Then another locust went in and took out another grain of wheat; and another locust went in and took out another locust went in the fact that nearly letter and it was great, but please army. out another grain of wheat; and another grain of wheat; and another locust went in and took out another grain of wheat," etc., until the surfeited monarch was offering the story-teller the fabulous sum to make him stop.

The ladies at Hyman Hall have just such a tale, which you may hear repeated day after day, and week after week, and it runs thus: "We want more socks, we want more socks, we want more socks," It is likely it won't last forever, like the eastern story, but it is probable it will be chanted the surfect of the s

The newspaper expresses the opinion that the federal reserve board, which, it says, is new in its duties, is unable clearly to grasp the position, and adds:

changes also in the board of admiralty. The decision involving the appointments of Admirals Jellicoe, Beatty and Jackson was taken some time ago, Mr. Balfour said, but for military reasons from Boston with a cargo of phosphite, along the Turn Dobrudy is proceeding."

To render its attitude at all intelligible it must be presumed that it is the desire of the highest financial authorities in America to actually restrict the business activity of that country—a somewhat extraordinary supposition—because what would be announced in the admiralty meant other changes in higher commands, Mr. Balfour replied that undoubtedly there would be changes, which would be announced in the admiralty meant other changes in latitude 40.49, longitude 95.27. SHOCK OPENS THROTTLE, CAUSES SECOND CRASH

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—A peculiar accident occurred today by which two Grand Trunk Railway engines were badly damaged. A string of freight cars broke away between Bathurst street and Parkdale, and crashed into an engine standing in the former yard. The crew jumped at the time. The shock, besides wrecking some of the cars, opened the throttle of the engine, which raced through the Union station and along the Esplanade, finally colliding with another engine at Parliament street. The crew of both engines had a narrow escape.

NUXATED IRON

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Shoes are up 80% to 100% in price-and going higher. Rubbers cost practically the same as before the war. A good pair of shoes runs away with as much money as five to ten pairs of equally good rubbers.

Yet one of these pairs of rubbers, worn when needed, will make a pair of shoes last half as long again-perhaps twice as longfor nothing destroys shoe-leather like getting wet.

So the money spent in rubbers is returned several times over in the saving of shoes alone, and again in the prevention of colds and worse, with the attendant expense and danger.

Beyond these personal advantages, wearing rubbers is a patriotic duty. Leather is growing scarcer, while its need for the soldiers is as great or greater than ever. Every pair of shoes we save, by releasing that much leather, helps a bit toward winning the war.

the proud Queen Walburga to renounce her crown and become a religieuse. She later aids St. Boniface in converting the state of Thuringia to Christianity. Fair-ies, witches and nymphs are left aside when the light of Christianity comes in. The young ladies took their respective parts extremely well, and the drama proved to be one of the best entertainments of the season.

The scene of act one is laid in a park near the royal castle, West Saxony.

Act two is at Winburn Abbey, while Dear Sir,—I wish to bring to the nolice of the people of London some facts
