CHATHAM WAS THE CENTRE OF A FIERCE TORNADO

The Destruction Caused by Terrific Cloudburst is Much Worse Than was First Reported--Several Towns and Cities Were Visited and Large Districts Were Devastated--Big Loss of Property

LOSS IN RURAL DISTRICTS OF KENT WAS HEAVY

The damage done by the cloudburst and hurricane in the city yesterday afternoon was fully covered to almost every detail in the report in last evening's Planet. In a short hour, intervening between the time when the storm ceased G. H. J. reporters were out over the ground and covered almost every incident of the disastrous tornado. The Planet has since been very highly complimented on its enterprise. Many exciting incidents of the storm are being related to-day. One man was driving along Victoria avenue when the storm struck town. A tree was blown down directly across the street in front of him, and he turned to go back, when another tree was felled across the street to his rear. He found himself penned up on the street right in the teeth of the storm. As he could not leave his horse and rig, he had to remain on the street during the tornado. A tree was twisted around and around on Emma street and the heart of it torn out of the trunk. It was lifted several feet in the air and placed in an erect position on the sidewalk.

A tree was struck by lightning near Ed. Cornhill's residence on St. Clair street. Mrs. Cornhill received a shock from this bolt. She was prostrated by the shock. She is reported to be somewhat improved to-day. Chairman Stone, of the Parks committee, says that men have been out to work clearing the fallen trees off Tecumseh and Victoria Parks. "The storm was a good thing for the parks in one sense," said Ald. Stone this morning, "as there were a few too many trees. At the same time we have lost a lot of valuable trees, and no one could help feeling a pang of deep regret, when after the storm they viewed those magnificent trees laid low all over our parks."

The Fire Chief was working on the fire alarm system this morning, and he had the system in working order at noon to-day. It is likely that all but a few boxes will be in shape by to-night. Most of the city streets are now in a passable condition. Last evening again a short time after the tea hour, big black, threatening-looking clouds loomed up in the westward, and many looked for a repetition of the tornado of the afternoon. The storm which did materialize was accompanied by severe thunder and lightning and a strong gale of wind, but little or no damage resulted. Edwin White's residence on Baxter street was badly damaged by the wind and he lost a number of large pear trees.

The people end of Park street Methodist church has been barricaded and the debris is being cleared away. Little damage has been done inside the church, only the back gallery being affected, and it is expected that services will be held to-morrow as usual. During the storm yesterday the smoke-stack of Drader's stove mill was blown down and other damage done. The roof of the heading mill was carried away by the wind. The Defiance Iron Works suffered heavily during yesterday's storm, a big sky light being blown in and the place flooded with the water which came through the break. Some little damage was done to the machinery. The Chaplin Wheel Works have closed down in consequence of the damage done by yesterday's storm. The windmill was wrecked and the blower was smashed to pieces, besides other minor damages.

The flag staff in front of Harrison Hall was bent by the wind, which carried away the flag in ribbons. Dr. Fleming, of this city, was caught in the storm and he drew into a farmer's barnyard in Raleigh, and while he was unhitching his horse to put it in the barn the barn collapsed. The horse was put in a shed instead. Postmaster S. Barfoot and Mrs. Barfoot were caught in the storm. They were returning home from Blenheim. Andrew Thomson was in Hamilton when the storm occurred. He said the damage there was quite heavy. The roofs were torn off several buildings and trees were blown down. The storm seemed to come from South down through the Western Peninsula and through to Niagara. One man was injured at Sheldon.

One man near St. Thomas was badly injured. St. Thomas suffered very materially. The Huronic was caught in the storm on Lake Huron but came through safely. At Oueph the damage was slight. Three men were blown down. At Detroit a small boy was blown off the Belle Isle bridge and drowned. Ald. Potter has notified all the factories to give fire alarms by sending out three rapid factory whistles and one short one. This is on account of the fact that the fire alarm system is out of working order. It will be repaired as speedily as possible. Ten minutes after the storm yesterday gangs of men were at work clearing off the streets. Every man who had a tree blown in front of his residence is requested to get out with his axe and clear the debris away. In return he may have the trees for firewood. The fire bell has been repaired and will now resume striking the hours.

GREAT DAMAGE IN THE COUNTRY. Harrowing scenes of devastation were left in the wake of yesterday's awful storm. From all over the surrounding country-side come thrilling tales of the terrible cyclone. Wind, hail and lightning did untold havoc to the farmers' crops, their barns and their orchards. Many horses which the owners were unable to get from the stables, were killed by the falling timbers. Whole barns were lifted from their foundations and crumpled into a mass of ruins by the storm king. There is hardly a roof left on a barn in the vicinity of Northwood, and in the Selton district in the township of Howard much the same conditions prevail. Hail-stones as large as marbles tore up the crops, orchards heavy with the promise of fruit were laid low, terrific peals of thunder terrorized the inhabitants, and intervening flashes of lightning wreaked their work of destruction.

NORTHWOOD DEMOLISHED. Out at Northwood the storm appeared to be at its worst. In that vicinity barns were laid low, orchards demolished and huge trees hurled in incredible distances. The people of that place thought the world was surely coming to an end. The roar of the storm was terrifying and the intermittent crash of rending and falling timbers was deafening at times. A huge tree was torn up by the roots and hurled up against Mrs. Doherty's boarding house. It struck the roof of the kitchen, where Mrs. Doherty was working at the time. The kitchen fell in a mass of ruins around her, and it was nothing short of a miracle that she was not killed. A Wabash passenger train had to be stopped at this point on account of the storm. Hail broke the windows in the coaches, and the terrific gale of wind which was thus admitted put the passengers in a panic. Women fainted, and men went down on their knees thinking that the end of the world had come. Summarized, the damage at Northwood, as far as can be ascertained, was as follows: Curtis' bank barn and drive-shed blown over and demolished. Reid's two big barns collapsed and a total loss. Patterson's barn demolished. Mrs. Doherty's boarding house partially demolished by a falling tree. V. Campbell's barns blown down. Two valuable horses and some young cattle belonging to Mr. Curtis killed by falling timber. Barn on the farm occupied by John Rumble blown down. Barn of Mr. Curtis, Jr., blown down.

HARWICH VISITED. From all over Harwich come details of costly destruction by the storm. Some of the damage resulting in this township is given below: Nat. Houston's barn blown over and wrecked. Whole orchards laid flat by the wind. Fruit trees torn out by the roots and hurled great distances. Fruit trees on Mrs. Wilson's place demolished. Doors wrenched off the barn of Charles Western. Barn was otherwise uninjured. Shade trees torn out by the roots and telegraph wires down. W. W. Everett's barn struck by lightning. Windmill on the Everitt farm bent double by the gale. Valuable horse belonging to Frank Wilson killed by falling tree. William Dick's barn on the sixth concession carried twelve feet off its posts. House and barn on the Scane farm, near the Creek bridge, struck by lightning. Huge hole torn in the kitchen of the house by the bolt. SELTON DISTRICT SCENE OF DESTRUCTION. In the Township of Howard the path of the tornado lay between McKay's Corners and Highgate. Crops and orchards all through this beautiful district were ruthlessly demolished by the cyclone. The hail which fell here is said to have been as big as a good-sized hen's egg. It tore up the crops and did immense damage in the way of breaking window panes etc. Barns were blown over, and the roofs taken off many buildings. Orchards also suffered considerably. The following damage has so far been reported: Immense damage at Highgate and McKay's Corners. Malcolm Campbell's barn collapsed and demolished. McTavish's barn blown over. Dick's barn unroofed and considerably damaged. Selton school house unroofed. Robert Wall's barn blown over and ruined. Bush on this farm was laid flat by the tempest. Not a tree has been left standing. Oddman's barn moved off its posts. HARWICH CROPS DESTROYED. In the Township of Harwich great destruction was done to the crops by the hail storm. The fall of rain was also very heavy, and assumed the proportions of a small cloudburst. The following damage is so far reported: McMullen's barn blown over. O'Brien's tobacco barns blown over. Orchards moved down like grass by the tempest.

OTHER TOWNSHIPS. O'Keefe & Drew's grain elevator on the 4th concession, Dover, was blown over. The elevator was fortunately empty, but the loss will amount to about $200. In Raleigh orchards were badly demolished. Two barns on the corner of Bloomfield sideroad and the 4th concession were blown over. Richard Allan's barn on the 4th concession was blown over, and the roof was blown off Fred. Dolsen's barn on the same concession. At Kent Bridge barns were blown over and cattle killed and injured. Barns and buildings were blown over in Thamesville and vicinity and many cattle were killed and injured by falling timber. The windows were blown out of Geo. Marshall's house four miles down the river, terrifying the occupants. Mr. Geo. McDonald, who was in from Ridgeway to-day, says that Ridgeway fortunately escaped the worst part of the storm, but that

THE BANNER CORRECTED

Yesterday morning County Solicitor Walker had something to say about a mistake which appeared in the Banner on Thursday evening concerning a remark he made at the County Council meeting on that day while the C. C. I. matter was being discussed.

Speaking to both the Planet and Banner reporters at yesterday morning's sitting Mr. Walker said that he had been reported in the Banner as having said that many people had been misled by the C. C. I. discussion which had appeared in the Planet, which was entirely wrong. "What I did say," said Mr. Walker, "was that only a few people had taken the trouble to study up the case and become conversant with the facts, and yet nearly everyone was ready to talk about it. I did not even mention The Planet."

The Planet report tallies exactly with Mr. Walker's statement.

What makes her so stuck up?
Oh, I really suppose it's those paste teeth diamonds.

Pink Lips, Like Velvet. Rough, Chapped or Cracked Lips, can be made as soft as velvet by applying at bedtime, a light coating of Dr. Shoop's Green Salve. The effect on the lips or skin of this excellent ointment is always immediate and certain. Dr. Shoop's Green Salve takes out completely the soreness of cuts, burns, bruises and all skin abrasions. It is surely a wonderful and most highly satisfactory healing ointment. In glass jars at 25c.

ALL GOOD THINGS

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: "It is indeed a marvellous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for."

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

SOMETHING ABOUT PROSPECTORS WHO HAUNT NORTH COUNTRY.

They Have a Hard Road to Travel in New Ontario's Mining Country, and Gains Are Not Always Commensurate With Work Done—How a Claim Is Located, Marked and Registered—Strict Regulations.

Until the coming into prominence of the Cobalt region, "prospector" was a term little known in Canada, at least in Ontario, writes H. R. H. in The Daily Planet. Now, however, the name "prospector" is claimed by nearly nine out of ten of the people one meets up here in this north country.

From the picturesque shores of Lake Temagami to the breezy plateau of the height of land and beyond the prospector is blazing his trail. Having procured his license, for which he contributes to the Provincial Treasury a fee of $10, he gathers together a outfit, which generally consists of the following articles:—A light canvas tent, a sheet-iron folding stove, the indispensable pork and beans, with flour, meal, salt, tea, coffee, and sugar. For meals, and for the ordinary attire are a corded hat, a canvas sash, bound by a tote strap, is used. A hand axe piles over his shoulder. A hand axe and six-shooter fastened to his belt, and a shining new prospector's pick in his right hand, complete his outfit.

"Hitting the Trail."

He then immediately proceeds to "hit the trail," and, with the recklessness of the "Rasselas," who tired of his happy valley and sighed for the free breezes of the hill tops, he keeps moving along. He invariably selects for his camping place a locality where likely

BUYS HOME ON PAYMENT PLAN

This was the Beginning of a Successful Business Career

OTHERS SHOULD FOLLOW

"I have been reading what The Planet has had to say lately about the importance of owning a home, and I want to bear testimony to the truth of what you have published along this line," said one of Chatham's solid business men to the writer last week.

"If I may be pardoned for alluding to a personal experience, I wish to recall, for the benefit of your readers, circumstances which first led me to become a property owner."

"As a youth I was somewhat of a spendthrift, having saved but little money up to the time when I reached my majority. I had chosen a help-meet and the day had been named for our wedding when I was approached by a local real estate dealer who induced me to buy a home on the monthly payment plan. At first it seemed rather hard to meet the regular payments, but I finally got my finances regulated so I could take care of the obligation. My wife and I soon began to take pride in our little real estate venture. The result was we were greatly surprised at the ease with which we secured a clear title to a snug little home."

"As I have intimated, the little home-buying undertaking was the beginning of my savings account and it was the real foundation of the modest little fortune which Mrs. P. and I have accumulated during our married life. I have engaged in many important business transactions during the last 20 years, nearly all of which I have brought to a successful issue, but I do not remember that any of them ever gave me one-half so much satisfaction as I felt when the last dollar was paid on that first little cottage."

THAT FORBES CERTIFICATE

Owner of Hotel at Cedar Springs Interviews The Planet

WHY WITHOLD NAMES?

License matters in East Kent are still quite warm, though there is nothing very new to be told. Clerk Rieborough still refuses to divulge the names of the voters stricken off the certificate for the license for the Forbes hotel at Cedar Springs. In a letter to the local press, Clerk Rieborough states that the Act does not bind him to divulge the names, and that he acted through-out according to the advice given him by Township Solicitor Matthew Wilson, K. C.

Hotel-keeper Forbes was in the city yesterday, and in a conversation with The Planet, said: "I visited Clerk Rieborough at his office in the township hall last Wednesday, and I had a conversation with him over the commissioners' meeting. I tried to get him to tell me the names of the voters stricken off the list, but he still refused to do so. He said that he would not give me the names; that it would hurt somebody's feelings, and that he had friends who didn't want him to give the names."

Mr. Forbes says that he still challenges the clerk to prove that more than six of the nine names stricken off the certificate were those of unqualified voters. There were only six names objected to by the Temperance people, with whom Mr. Rieborough was closely identified before he got his appointment as clerk of the township. When he came before the Commissioners with the other temperance men, the objection had been made to only six names on the certificate, and it is claimed that Mr. Rieborough had said that he had nothing to say about No. 5 division, in which the Forbes hotel is situated. The objection at that time made by him were with regard to the Walker petition.

The six names which were objected to by the temperance people when the Forbes certificate first came up were, Douglas Cameron, Jos. Clark, William Claus, Cecil Bond, Lucius Burritt and J. W. Post.

The first three were admitted to be unqualified voters up till April 1, and there was some dispute over the last three named, and they were left with the clerk to decide on. Bond is a railway man, and his route lies between Windsor and St. Thomas. He is an unmarried man, his parents live in No. 5 division and he is not enrolled on any other voter's list. He resides in No. 5 when he is at home. With regard to Capt. Post the question raised was as to his nationality, which was in dispute. The clerk had said that he would write a letter to Capt. Post to discover what his nationality was. Since that has been stated, so Mr. Forbes says, that he never got a letter from Capt. Post nor had he seen the captain personally. The clerk says that he got his information with regard to this voter from outside parties.

Lucius Burritt lives in No. 5 division and owns land there. He is on the voters' list, but his wife and child live in Blenheim. The question as to whether he was qualified to vote or not is just a question. These six disputed names were left with the clerk, who gave his decision that there were nine names on the certificate who were not entitled to vote. He will not say whether the said nine embraces the six names mentioned above or not. Mr. Forbes has no objection to the fourteen names struck off the voters' list by the clerk, as he says that he believes that there might possibly be fifteen on the list who were not men entitled to vote. What he makes objection to is the taking off of nine names from his petition.

What Mr. Forbes and his supporters would like to know is the additional three names stricken off the certificate, hence his challenge to Mr. Rieborough and Rev. Mr. Kennedy to prove that there are nine names on the certificate who are not those of qualified voters.

the damage done in the Selton district is immense.

At Elberts the storm was not so severe in the afternoon. The evening storm did most of the damage in this section. Trees were blown over, but very few buildings were injured.

The observatory reported that, "In Ontario and Quebec thunderstorms during the day were both numerous and of marked severity. An important damage in Toronto, which has been hovering over the Northwestern States for the past few days is gradually breaking up."

THE EAST KENT LICENSES

Mr. Riseborough has Something to say on the Forbes Case.

THE NAMES ARE WITHHELD

The following letter from Clerk Riseborough, of the Township of Harwich, has been received at this office. It is intended to explain Mr. Riseborough's position in reference to the decision recently given out by him in connection with the East Kent license trouble.

To the Editor of The Planet:

Dear Sir.—In justice to myself and to the public, I feel it my duty to reply to the statements reported in the press of your city as having been made by Mr. A. Forbes, hotel keeper, of Cedar Springs, before the East Kent License Commissioners at their meeting on Monday last.

Mr. Forbes takes exception to my decision on the matter referred to me by the Commissioners. Of course that is quite to be expected. Had I found a majority in his favor it is quite natural that he would have been pleased and satisfied.

Now, Sir, I reported the results as I found them, after careful and impartial consideration, keeping in mind the declaration of office that I took after receiving the appointment as Clerk, and before entering upon the duties of the same, namely, that I would "truly, and faithfully, and impartially, to the best of my knowledge and ability, execute the office of Clerk."

Let me say I did not undertake this task of certifying as required by the Liquor License Act without getting the advice of the Township's solicitor as to how to proceed in every particular, and further I followed that advice.

Mr. Forbes stated prior to my appointment that his certificate was insufficiently signed. That statement is untrue, for I was in no position to make any such assertion, as I had never seen such a certificate in question, and did not know the number of names upon it nor the number of eligible electors in his division at the time, nor did I as stated, go before the Commissioners against him or his certificate.

My presence was against the granting of a license in the other polling division in which I lived, namely, No. 3. As to my refusing to give my decision on the day of the meeting, it was agreed by both parties to leave the matter until after the meeting, and I presented all their objections and arguments, I was to make further inquiry, which I did. He claims there were only six names objected to on his certificate, and I take it upon my hands after the meeting, and I willfully cheating him. Let me say there were as many objected to by his opponents as I have removed and I had the privilege and was in duty bound to consider any other I knew of should whether either party objected to them or not. Because Mr. Forbes believed there were only six that could or were objected to does not make it so, the facts are that it is otherwise.

As to his challenge, I would simply say that I am not open to bids of any kind. No offer will induce me to do contrary to what I believe to be my duty in the matter.

My report was sent correct, as the law requires. The number of duly qualified electors who signed the certificate in question is 77, no matter what Mr. Forbes says to the contrary. Had there been more my report would have so stated.

He claims that I should give him the names, and I explained to him, I consider it would be very improper and unwise for me to do so to either of the contending parties. It could serve no good purpose other than to satisfy curiosity; would only be the names of continuing the dispute between the two parties, for the opponents of license would expect some to have been counted in the four answers, or not counted as the case might be, that the evidence before me would not warrant.

My decision would not convince either party I do not suppose as to the qualification of some of the electors. The Act does not require me to give out to the parties the names in my judgment ought to be counted, but simply the number, and I think it very prudent that it does not.

I have dealt honestly and squarely in the matter without fear or favor. I am fully persuaded in my own mind that I have taken the proper course in the matter. Because Mr. Forbes it appears has said hard things against me I do not wish to be other than a gentleman toward him. I do not complain because he has called on me for the names. It was his privilege to ask. There is no desire on my part to enter into newspaper controversy in the matter, but wish the public to have the facts as they are. A matter which two very prominent lawyers and others deeply interested spent the greater part of a day dealing with and arguing upon without agreeing could not be settled by me satisfactory to both.

In dealing with the matter we were endeavoring to get correct answers to the four questions given by the Liquor License Act for me to answer.

These I answered truthfully to the best of my ability in accordance with the advice given me by Mr. Matthew Wilson, K. C., the solicitor of the Township, who gave me full instructions. Mr. Forbes may question my integrity if he wishes; it matters little to me. I feel I have the confidence and respect of those who know me best and of those who had confidence in me to place me in this responsible position.

Trusting, Mr. Editor, you will be kind enough to give this equal prominence you gave the report of that meeting, and thanking you in advance,

I am, sincerely,
GEO. W. RISEBOROUGH,
Clerk of Harwich.

Blenheim, June 7, 1906.

THE ARCTIC SUPPLIES

Accounts Sometimes Wrong, But Firms Didn't Get Worsted.

Another Day's Probing by the Arctic Investigating Committee—A Witness Who Knew the Water He Was Swimming In—Facts About Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobacco Brought Out—Bennett Satisfied With Gregory.

Ottawa, June 8.—Yesterday morning J. V. Gregory, agent of the Marine Department at Quebec, was called before the Arctic Investigating Committee. He said he had been in the service of the Government for forty-two years and much of his work had been in connection with the certifying of prices and generally keeping track of them. His custom had been to obtain prices from friends of the administration. "From friends of the administration?" asked Mr. Carvell, in surprise. "Yes," the witness replied. "If they are not friends of the administration we do not buy from them."

"There has been no change by this Government from the practice followed by previous Governments?"

"No," nobody ever dared to make any change."

He had once bought from a Liberal when the Conservatives were in power and soon heard about it.

"You have had a good training," remarked Mr. Carvell.

Knew His Swimming Water.

"I have had a good training under Sir Hector Langevin. I could not have kept my situation for over 40 years if I had not known how to swim."

There were twelve or thirteen firms at Quebec that could buy from them. They divided up purchases as well as they could, and they tried to satisfy everybody, but generally ended by satisfying nobody. Mr. Gregory said that he got a good ten cent cigar for 6 1/2 cents, and a good five cent cigar for 3 1/2 cents.

Witness said the deck was piled "well up" with coal, barrels of meat and gasoline.

He was authorized to buy the cigars, and did the best he could for the money.

Mr. Northrup: "Whether or not do you consider that five thousand cigars were too many for forty men for one year?"

Mr. Gregory: "That is a matter for the department, and I have nothing whatever to do with it."

Pressed, however, to give an answer, he said that it was "a mighty small consumption." So, too, was the item of 5,000 cigarettes.

He thought 1,800 pounds of tobacco one year reasonable.

Discrepancy Discovered.

The supply of bovril was next considered. Mr. Northrup pointed out that there was an item for $50 for ettes, which was over and above the amount authorized by the department. Mr. Gregory said that probably Major Moodie had bought these for himself.

But he himself, said Gregory, had purchased the cigars and cigarettes, had not been tied down to a particular amount. His orders were to buy eight or ten thousand cigars and the Minister had also told him to purchase some delicacies that he had ordered.

Mistakes in Accounts.

The information sought dealt with accounts and that the firms had not been very careful about their additions in making up their accounts. It was curious that they carried on the right side for themselves. One account rendered for $1,677 was $410 too much, while another for $966 was $76 too much and so on.

Mr. Gregory said he and his clerks checked the accounts. Very often he checked the accounts sent back to be made up again. Mr. Bennett during his examination of these accounts for which Mr. Gregory was responsible said that no one could take exception to the manner in which his duties had been carried out. Mr. Gregory said he was relieved of his duties of scrutineer of goods for the Arctic on July 23. He had at that time an immense lot of work to do.

The delicacies included 500 Havana cigars and 5,000 cigarettes, which were ordered for Major Moodie because he did not consider the other good enough for the men.

Filled Like an Egg.

At the afternoon session Capt. Bernier told the chairman that the Arctic was "filled like an egg."

He described the goods were packed away. His own cabin was full and he had to sleep in the chart room. The second mate's cabin, the messroom and the passage way between the captain's and first mate's cabin were all crowded with goods.

In order to take on the mounted police supplies, it was necessary to discharge 30 tons of coal. He estimated that there were 750 tons of supplies on board, including the deck load. It was estimated that the hold of the vessel would accommodate 727 tons dead weight.

Capt. Bernier described the life on board. He said that playing cards and checker boards were necessary as it was highly important to keep the minds of the men occupied during the long nights. The men were allowed to play cards whenever they liked, but on Sundays two religious services were held—Roman Catholic and Protestant. He conducted the former and Major Moodie the latter.

Invited to Resign.

London, June 8.—Sir Edward Clarke, former Solicitor-General and one of the Conservative members of Parliament for the City of London, yesterday resigned his seat as the result of the action of the City of London Conservative Association, May 23, in inviting him to resign as the result of his attitude on the tariff reform movement.

Origin of Ox Tail Soup.

During the reign of terror in Paris in 1793 many of the nobility were reduced to starvation and beggary. The aristocrats sent their hides fresh to the tanneries without removing the tails, and in cleaning them the tails were thrown away. One of the noble house-garçons gave to him. He took it to his lodging and made (what is now famous) the first dish of ox tail soup. He told others of his good luck, and they annoyed the tanners so much that a price was put upon them.

ASTONISHED THE DOCTOR

Mrs. Eaton Recovering, Although Her Physician Said She Might Drop Dead at Any Time.

"The Doctor told me I had a bad disease and was liable to drop on the street at any time," says Mrs. Robert Eaton, of Dufferin, Ont.

"My trouble began four years ago with a weak heart. I was often afraid to draw my breath, it pained me so. I was bothered with nervousness, shortness of breath, dizziness, loss of appetite, and sinking spells, and I could not sleep."

"Sometimes a great weakness would seize me and I would have to lie down to keep from falling. My hands and feet would seem to go to sleep and a sort of numbness would come all over me and perhaps I would immediately after the blood would rush to my head and a series of hot flashes would envelop me."

"I took all kinds of medicines, but kept gradually growing worse until about eight weeks ago, when I began using Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill. From the start I improved until now my appetite has returned, I can sleep well, and have no nervousness, dizziness, palpitation, faintness or any of my other troubles. They have all entirely disappeared. I feel much stronger, look better, and altogether Anti-Pill has made a new woman of me."

"I am entirely cured and cannot say too much for this wonderful remedy. I would most heartily recommend Anti-Pill to anyone suffering as I did."

ROMAN MILLIONAIRES.

The Phenomenon of Mammoth Fortunes Not a New Thing.

While it is not a very tangible consolation to those of us who belong to the less favored class commercially, there is at least a sort of historic comfort in knowing that the phenomenon of mammoth fortunes is not a new thing.

A magazine writer goes back to ancient Rome, when there were no railroads or trusts or corporations, and gives some figures on the individual fortunes of that day which will look attractive even to some of our modern plutocrats.

Seneca, the philosopher and author, was worth $17,500,000; Lentulus, the angur, $16,000,000; Crassus, the politician who formed with Caesar and Pompey the first triumvirate, had a landed estate of more than $8,000,000; the emperor Tiberius left a fortune of $118,000,000, which the depraved Caligula got rid of in less than a year. A dozen others had possessions that ran into the millions.

It is true that these Romans did not "make" these fortunes in what we would call regular commercial operations. But they got the money, and they held on to it, which is about all that can safely be said of possessions that run into seven figures in any age or country.

And, speaking of campaign contributions and so forth, Julius Caesar once presented the consul Paulus with $200,000 merely as a token of esteem and coupled with the hope that Paulus would do the right thing in a certain political matter that was pending. The payment was effective with Paulus, and neither he nor Caesar suffered any in popularity.

There are many things under the sun that are not new.

NAILED TO THE CROSS.

The Two Thieves That Were Crucified With the Saviour.

In blue out of ten pictures of the crucifixion where Christ's two companions in death are represented they are pictured as having been fastened to the cross with thoughts or cords. The question naturally arises, Were the thieves in reality bound to their different instruments of torture while the blessed Saviour was nailed to his? And, if so, which mode of death was considered the more ignominious—binding or nailing? The remoteness of the event and the fact that in this case historical truth may have been sacrificed to pictorial effect make the above questions hard ones to answer. The early writers almost invariably refer to the thieves as having been nailed to the cross, while the early picture makers adhered to the general rule of representing them as having been tied or bound to their separate crosses.

If we are to give any credence to the story of the holy Empress Helen and her reputed discovery of the three crosses in the year 325 A. D., the two thieves were nailed to their crosses in a manner similar to that observed in the crucifixion of the Saviour. This conclusion has been settled upon for this reason: When the three crosses were disinterred from the mound in which tradition said they had been buried, that upon which Christ had suffered was only distinguished from the other two by the miracles it performed. This would certainly suffice to prove that all three of the instruments of torture bore similar nail marks and that the tradition of Christ being the only one nailed was not known at that time.

First Matrimonial Agency.

The title "Matrimonial Agencies and Advertisements" ought to attract attention in our time, when requests for marriage fall in the journals in the form of gross or fœcular and sometimes serious announcements. That may seem to be a new phenomenon of modern life, yet M. Henri d'Almeida in La Revue Hebdomadaire says the real originator of this industry was one Villame. In the last days of the empire he set up in Paris a sort of universal agency, which would supply furnished apartments, domestic, wives and husbands.—Journal de St. Petersburg.

The Tally Stick.

An old time way of proving one's right to the payment of money loaned was by tally sticks. A plain stick was used, and when a man loaned a sum a stick was broken, and the creditor and debtor each took a part. When the time for payment came the man who had the stick which fitted exactly to the stick held by the creditor received the money. Two sticks never break in exactly the same shape, so there was never any dispute about who had a right to the money.

Their Reward.

Dr. Strachan, bishop of Toronto, was waited upon by two churchwardens, who complained that their clergyman wearied his congregation by repeating the same sermon. He had preached it twelve times. The bishop asked for the text. Neither of the churchwardens could remember. "Go back," said the bishop sternly, "and ask your clergyman to preach the sermon once more and then come back and tell me the text."

Installments.

Bacon—Did you ever get anything on the installment system? Egbert—Yes; I got my wife, then her father and mother and now I'm getting her brothers and sisters.

Extreme views are never just. Something always turns up which disturbs the calculations founded on their data.—Tancred.

A HOME

The way to do it is to come out this afternoon or this evening, any time. Look us over (The Elms), pick out your Lot or Lots, make a small payment down or as much as you like, and a few dollars per month, then commence Saving to build you a home, and when you have that you can feel that you are a man among men.

LET IT EVER BE SO HUMBLE THERE IS NO PLACE LIKE HOME.

Special Terms of payment made to the Workingman and Mechanics. The Title to the property is perfect, for which we by permission refer to the Leading Lawyers in your city. All payments on the lots after sale is closed are to be made to The Merchants Bank, Chatham, who will be authorized to receive and receipt same.

Lots at $120, $160 and $240. and a few higher. As an investment you will make a mistake not to buy now. HE WHO HESITATES IS LOST. $10 or more down, $5 or more per month. Even easier terms than these will be given to the workingmen and mechanics.

THE LAST CALL!

This will be our last announcement before the great sale of our 150 Lots in Elms Subdivision at the West End of King Street opposite St. Joseph's Hospital. The Grounds and Entrance will be lit up by Electricity to-night and to-morrow night and every night (D. V.) until every lot is sold. Come out and see our Subdivision whether you buy or not. Your good word of this property is as good as selling you. EVERYONE CANNOT BUY, BUT EVERYONE WHO CAN WILL. If you will help us we will put that old monster shown above out of business, and help you to look like the opposite picture—a contented and happy man. We invite you, your wife, your children and your friends to come. All are welcome. If you have not had a copy of our Plat or our Investor, get one; it has a tale to unfold. We have no interest in the property other than being the salesmen. It is owned by enterprising citizens of your own city, who will derive the little profit there will be made in subdividing it up. A few jealous citizens who have an axe to grind or lots of their own to sell you at a much higher price, may try to prejudice your mind by saying an outsider has come among us to clean up some money. This is not the case. All we make out of it is our bare commission. Any profit, if any, goes to your own people and remains with you.

We are mistaken in the makeup of the citizens of Chatham if every lot is not sold in 10 days, if not the first day, Monday, 11th.
