There is nothing of paramount interest going on in Parliament just now; at all events, nothing that appears at all likely to peril the existence of the Whig Ministry—all is proceeding so far very quietly. So apparently lulled is political strife, that a superficial observer might almost conclude there was nothing left to fight about. Now that the question of Protection—as some people clude there was nothing left to fight about. Now that the question of Protection—as some people believe—is put on the shelf, as far as the present Session is concerned.—But this is far from being the actual state of affairs—the Whigs do not repose on a bed of roses—neither is their tenure of office very secure. It is true that they have large majorities in both Houses of Parliament; but these are made up of such curious combinations, that there is no knowing how soon they may be left to the mercy of their determined opponents; and there is little doubt that ce long questions will arise which must sever them from many of their supporters, when they must, of

What they are strong upon—if they are strong at all—is Free-Trade, in its various ranifications, for in this they have the support of the Manchester men, and also of the Feelites, which, combined, at present far out-vote the Protectionist Opposition.

It was rumored a little time since, that Sir Robert Peel had retired from Parliamentary leadership, and his having spoken on one occasion from one of the back benches, gave some color to the report. The truth is, that the expression from the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the works of the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the works of the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the protection of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the cocasion referred the structure of the cocasion referred, his speaking from the cocasion referred, his speaking f and arbitrarily dismissed from an office which for many years he had held with honor and credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of all with whom himself, and to the satisfaction of all with whom many years he had held with honor and credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of all with whom he had intercourse. Government put the best face they could upon the matter; it was deemed necessary that Lord Clarendon himself should appear in his seat, and he left Ireland for the purpose of making such a defence as his skill and ingenuity could invent. That his Lordship interest much tact cannot be denied; he had had abundant time for preparation. Six months have now elapsed since the affair transpired which led to the dismission, and it being well known at the time that the subject would give rise to a debate elsewhere, he ice twould give rise to a debate elsewhere, he can be denied in the subject would give rise to a debate elsewhere, he ice twould give rise to a debate elsewhere, he can be defined with the sort of defence which he choose to adopt. He did not on Monday offer the slightest justification for the insult offered to Lord Roden; he repeated his conviction that the dismissal was a just and proper one, and fell back upon the Irish Chancellor, who agreed to the recommendation for the dismissal. This is sheer nonsense; Lord Glarendon recommended the dismissal, solely with the view of conciliating the Irish Repealers and the Ribbournen, As with England, so it is in Ireland, the riotous and disorderly—

The application of the Edwarding principle to the Australasian Color the Governor and Council. The application of the Federative principle to the Australasian Colonies is an important feature. This group is to have the advantages of that common action which actual Federation alone can secure. An Assembly of their several Councils will have the power of framing a Tariff for the whole. The price of waste lands, instead of being fixed by the Minister in Downing Street, will also be determined by these Councils, who may be expected to take immediate advantage of this power. Of course the Cape and the Australasian group are not to be the sole participators of these concessions. It is dis-Cape and the Australasian group are not to be the sole participators of these concessions. It is distinctly avowed by Lord John Russell that similar institutions will be extended to all other. British Colonies, when they feel qualified to demand them. The proposition was favorably received by the House, many members, however, demanding two Chambers for the Australian Colonies, as in the case of the Cape of Good Hope. nition of the value of the Colonies, I do not entertain any very sanguine expectations of the successful working of the plan propounded. It is rarely that parchment constitutions have fulfilled the anticipations which were raised of their operation. France, Spain, Portiagal, Prinssia, and Pledmont, have followed our example in vain; for while our Constitution was the growth of ages, their's has been the mere existence of a document which possessed about as much value as the paper on which it was written. Nor can Colonial Constitutions be considered much more successful, while in Canada Annexation to the United States is gravely discussed, and while in Jamaica the Executive is almost at open war with the Legislative body.

Another notable Parliamentary event is the introduction, by Mr. Labouchere, of three measures for improving the condition of masters, mates, and

The latest accounts from the Manufacturing Districts are generally of a promising character. At Manchester, however, the market remains dull, and, though prices have receded, there is little increase of business.

The Funds have been somewhat depressed, in consequence of our little quarrel with Greece, and rumors of Continental restlessness.

The reduction in the Army is to amount to 3,820 rank and file, and is to be arrived at, it is stated, in the following manner:—8th Foot, from 1,200 to 750 rank and file; 20th, 36th, 42nd, 44th, 45th, 56th, 67th, 69th, and 76th Regiments, and 2nd Battalions of 1,200 men, are in future to have but 1,000 rank and file in each. The Depots of about 16 regiments (the Service Companies being in the Colonies) are also to be reduced by 20 rank and file each Depot. The 11th, 58th, and 66th Regiments, serving in New South Wales and New Zealand, and which now consist of 1,000 rank and file each are to be reduced to 750 rank and file. MARCH 14, 1860,

The Clerk of the Crown read the Coupon, appointing Judge Rolland and Judge Aylwin, Pussae Judges of the District of Montreal. John Ross, Gregoire, Vezina, Gagreau, dit Lafontaine, Anderson, Persull,, Roy, Robinson, Filion Pieddalu, Delande, Vendale.

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury,—It's usual to address a Charge to the Jury. It is true that the Jury are sufficiently aware of the duties they have to discharge. I regret to we are presented with one of those anomalies which cannot fail to arrest the attention of the most apathetic. It is to be presumed that the French Canadian members of the Cabinet, who presided over the birth of the Jury Law, could not fail to discern in its working the exclusive cast which it would impart to the criminal proceedings. As the law stands, the qualification for a Grand Juryman is £25 yearly value of real a Grand Juryman is £25 yearly value of real and process of the Grand Juryman is £25 yearly value of real and process of the grand proc a Grand Juryman is £25 yearly value of real property, or a tenantcy of £60. Having furnished these preliminary data, it is readily shown that the Jurors must necessarily increased. In vain do we enterm the hope of checking crune, if Juries be not convinced that in the faithful and spright discharge of their duty all depends. I will make one observation more: Grand Juries, by sometimes take upon them the office of Petit Juries, by the resulting shown that the Jurors must necessarily necessarily increased. it is readily shown that the Jurors must necessarily be selected from the French Canadian of the prisoner. Another feature in the law deserves notice, as blended with our social condition. The Anglo-Saxon farmers, from various causes, are almost invariably found to the causes a property qualification which places law deserves notice, as blended with our social possess a property qualification which places them calls for the attention and consideration of all good

Some of the Town Council were absent, which His Worship remarked was detrimental to the interests of the city and its inhabitants, who confide their affairs to the consideration of the Town Councilors. Comparative Statements of the Rates of Promium adopted by the various Life Assurance Companies transacting business in Canada have, from time to time, appeared in the public prints, placing the Colonial Company, in some instances, at an aspected diadvantage with other Companies. Lowness of Premium of itself is but a poor criterion of the stability or standing of a Life Assurance institution, or of the advantages to be derived by Assuring with it. The Statements, mostover, though attractive at first sight, ought not to go for much. The example selected for comparison is invariably taken at the Age and from the particular class of Rates must favorable to the Company advertising. Were an asserage of the Rates selected, the comparison would often show a very different result. Without meaning to attach much weight to the fact, asvertheless it may be remarked, in proof of the fallacy of these Comparative Statements, that the energy Rate of Previous on the Participation System, or which nearly four-fifths of the transactions of the Colonial Company are based, is lower than the average under a similar class of Rates of the great majority of Companies transacting business in this Country. The Rates of the Colonial Company have been most carefully framed from the best statistics that could be procured—(statistics which, it is believed, are fir more perfect than are in the sen most carefully irranses that could be procured—(statistics which, sieved, are far more perfect than are in the sieved, are far more perfect than are in the sieved, any other office.) They are as reals as present information justifies; and until good ground is afforded for making a change, for fuller statistical information than is at present in existence, or from an experience much more extended than that which has already been obtained, the Directors will rigidly adhere to them, being resolved not to enter into a dangerous competition for business by lowering their Rates, in order to outbid others, but to do either a safe business, or none at all.]
