THE WORK OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER

Which the Yukon Council Will Summarially Deal With.

MUST REFRAIN FROM SNEERING

At British and Canadian Institutions and Stop Trying to Stir up Racial Trouble.

The Yukon council met last evening, and as a result of one of the matters coming before it, Dawson, or, to make a distinction, the all night Dawson, was deeply stirred because it felt that it had received almost, if not quite, a body blow that would probably put it out of business permanently. The matter referred to it was contained in a few brief words from Major Wood, who, after the business of listening to petitions, accounts and different communications had been received, stated that another case of robbery in one of the theater boxes had been reported and that he had considered it high time to put a stop to such affairs, and had taken the responsibility of ordering that all women be kept out of the private boxes in theaters. He asked what action if any, the council was prepared to take in the matter, and the feeling was unanimous among the members that the police commander had taken the right course of action in the matter, and that the council as a whole would sustain his action. After a few minutes spent in the discussion of the matter, Justice Dugas said that while they were on the matter of asking questions, etc., there was a matter on his mind which he wanted to speak of, and at the same time he did not want to be misunderstood. "There is a publication here," he said, "which for a long time has been decrying and sneering at everything British or Canadian, and now it is trying to incite trouble and strife between different sections; in short making effort to stir up ill-feeling among ourselves.

"These people came among us and have been well received and well treated; have enjoyed all the privileges and benefits of the country, which they repay in this way."

Justice Dugas then went on to say that while he did not care to mention any names, he would say that there had been a meeting held by citizens during the day, and that the consequences of recently published matter in which certain very uncomplimentary things had been said relative to a large portion of Canada's population was discussed and condemned, and that the result would probably be much more far reaching than the paper referred to guessed.

He desired to bring the matter before the council, and requested that some action be taken in the matter.

Commissioner Ogilvie suggested that the matter could best be handled by a committee appointed for the purpose, and asked the justice if he would serve on the committee and received the reply that he was ready to act.

The committee decided upon to further investigate the matter and see what protection can be had against that class of published matter were Justice Dugas, Gold Commissioner Senkler and Commissioner Ogilvie.

The public school matter came before the council and, because of the pressing needs of the situation, owing to the terribly crowded condition of the schools, the question of more room and teachers was discussed at great length. Gov. Ogilvie said that he had been looking for a suitable building and was sorry to have to report that there was no building centrally located which would meet the requirements and which could be had at anything short of an enormous rental.

It was finally decided that one of the buildings available, probably Fraternal hall, should be rented as a temporary school room, and that Commissioner Ogilvie should ascertain the price of three lots in the proper location upon one of which it was proposed to build a school house at once. Justice Dugas brought forward the proposition to build at once instead of paying rent for a building not situated where it should be, and this view was generally coincided in.

The new school building will probably be located on Third avenue between Third and Fourth streets, and be built on the middle one of three lots, leaving the lot on either side for a play ground.

Susie Vernon, the witness in the recent murder trial, has been sent to St. Mary's hospital, as last evening she applied to Justice Dugas for assistance, as she is on the verge of nervous prostration and it is thought to be in some danger of becoming insane.

In speaking of the matter Justice Dugas said that she was in need of protection from people who insisted upon questioning her concerning the recent affair in which she has borne such a prominent part.

Altogether the meeting was one of much importance and public interest, although the actual business coming before it in the matter of accounts, petitions, etc., was comparatively small.

Won By A. E. Team

Another exciting hockey match took place last night at the big skating rink on Fourth avenue. The contestants represented the A. E. Co. and the N. W. M. P., the former winning a victory by a score of 3 to 0. The teams were lined up as follows:

A. E. Co.—Marsden, Baldwin, Barclay, Bruce, Hagel, Miller, Kennedy.
N. W. M. P.—Timmins, Bell, Marshall, Crosby, Arnaud, Thomas, Mewi.
E. E. Tiffin acted as referee.

In spite of the cold weather a good crowd was in attendance and the interest in the game did not slack until the close.

The game started promptly at 8 o'clock as advertised. The play was uniformly good though there was a noticeable lack of combination play, resulting from the fact that neither team has as yet had sufficient opportunity for practice. On account of the extreme cold, quarters of 15 minutes duration were played instead of the usual 30 minute halves. In the first quarter the play was loose, the combination work being very poor.

During the second quarter both sides pulled themselves together and good fast play was the result. There was little or no rough play which added to the pleasure of the spectators. Kennedy of the A. E. team made the first score, the second and third being made by Barclay of the same team, who played a splendid game throughout.

For the N. W. M. P. Timmins did very effective work and is considered the best goal man in town.

Public interest in the hockey tournament is increasing steadily and as the matches progress this interest continues to grow. Considerable money will change hands at the completion of the tournament, which fact in itself is centering attention on the game. Some surprises are looked for in the near future.

Challenge to Play Whist.

Editor Daily Nugget:
Y and Z, two business men of the city, hereby challenge any other two men, not professional gamblers, in Dawson to a game of whist to be played at any place on which all parties may mutually agree and at any time within the next two weeks. Address us, care of the Nugget office, after which arrangements for a game may be made.

Winter Sledding

While he is not so engaged these days, the time was when Frank Phiscator would attach himself to a sled and mush a few hundred pounds of freight from Dawson out to the creeks and think nothing of it. Frank was in a reminiscent mood at the McDonald hotel last night, which mood was doubtless superinduced by the fact that Boreas was reigning in the old-fashioned way and air white with frost was rushing in through every aperture and crevice.

"This," said he, "is the kind of weather that makes it hard for freighters for the reason that, with the mercury as low as it is now they can not haul more than half the load they can when it is about zero or a few degrees above."

When asked in what respect the cold effects the matter of sledding Mr. Phiscator said:

"The smooth steel surface of a sled runner when the mercury is very low adheres to everything it touches even to the snow. The runners appear to freeze to the snow as they pass over it. Before the days of horses in this country and when freight was hauled by men for the reason that very few of us could afford dogs, we learned to our sorrow that freighting in very cold weather was attended with great difficulty. It was then that I learned that 200 pounds pulled more heavily with the mercury at 30° or 40° below than did 400 pounds when the thermometer marked only zero."

And Frank actually shivered as recollections of his early day experiences in this country flitted over his mind.

The Montana Millionaire Is Dead and Was Buried in New York City.

FUNERAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED.

Jeffries and Sharkey Matched For Championship

WILL MEET EARLY IN MAY.

Liberals Win in New Foundland—Census of Alaska Completed—The Czar Has Typhoid.

New York, Nov. 15, via Skagway, Nov. 23.—The funeral of Marcus Daly, of Montana, who died here recently, was held this morning in St. Patrick's cathedral and was very largely attended. The body was placed in the John W. Mackey mausoleum in Greenwood cemetery until the Daly mausoleum can be built in that cemetery.

Big Firm Fails.

New York, Nov. 17, via Skagway, Nov. 23.—The dry goods firm of the late ex-Mayor W. L. Strong has failed with liabilities of $6,000,000. It is not yet known if the firm was embarrassed at the time of Strong's death, or whether or not it will yet prove solvent.

Jeffries and Sharkey.

New York, Nov. 17, via Skagway, Nov. 23.—A match has been made between Jeffries and Sharkey, the winner to take the entire purse and the fight to take place next May before the club offering the greatest inducement. Each man has deposited $2500. It is agreed that in case Jeffries makes a match with Fitzsimmons or Ruhlín, such contest shall be decided before the one with Sharkey.

Liberal Majorities.

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 16, via Skagway, Nov. 23.—The Liberals win in Trinity district by a majority of 691. The result shows a most decided change of sentiment as at the previous election the Conservatives carried the same district by 1400 majority.

Alaska's Census.

Washington, Nov. 17, via Skagway, Nov. 23.—Alaska's census is complete and gives the northern district 12,652 people on the first of June. Nome's permanent white population is 6700. During the summer 18,000 people landed at Nome, 2500 of whom were from Dawson.

Wells Succeeds Turner.

OUR PRIZE STORY.

A correspondent desires to know if the story which wins the prize of $50 offered by the Nugget for the best contribution to our special holiday issue, is to be published over the signature of the author.

We will answer the query decidedly in the affirmative. The condition of the contest requiring that all manuscripts be signed by a nom de plume, was laid down merely in order that no knowledge of the actual authorship of the various contributions may be had until the prize is awarded.

It is required also that an envelope containing both nom de plume and actual name of the author accompany each manuscript and when the prize is awarded announcement to that effect will be made, together with the name of the successful contestant over whose signature the story will be published in the holiday number.

The remaining condition limits the number of words to 4000 which allows sufficient scope for the development of a story of some magnitude. It is not necessary that the entire 4000 words be used, that number being the outside limit. The contest will close upon December 5, upon which date all manuscripts must be in the Nugget office.

We are pleased to note the interest which has already been manifested in the contest, which, from present indications, bids fair to develop a surprisingly large amount of literary talent. As has been stated before in these columns we are quite aware of the fact that there is no lack of such talent in the Klondike, the only reason that it has heretofore been kept in the background being lack of occasion to bring it to public notice. The Nugget has furnished the required occasion and we anticipate a ready response from our local story writers.

Considering the fact that the News is owned by a Canadian, it must be said that it has pursued a most un-Canadian policy. Why any paper should attempt at this time to stir up racial discord between the component factors of which the population of Canada is made up it is difficult to conceive. There must be a hidden motive behind it all which sooner or later will be brought to the light of day. It would be charity to attribute the whole matter to the dense ignorance of the News which is manifested on so many occasions, but in this particular affair, the plea of ignorance will scarcely be considered admissible. It is a trite but true saying that murder will out, and there can be no doubt that in the end the reason for the News' implied slander upon the French Canadians will appear upon the surface.

The service now given by the local telephone company is highly satisfactory. As the lines have been extended and new territory embraced the value of the service has proportionately increased. The system of communication with important creek points is most valuable, as it has served to bring Dawson into close touch with all the centers of the mining industry. It has required indefatigable labor upon the part of the promoters of the telephone company to reach the present degree of efficiency for which they are entitled to no small degree of acknowledgment.

Hockey playing when the thermometer is toying in the neighborhood of 40 degrees below zero is rather chilly sport, but it did not in any way serve to lessen the interest of local athletic enthusiasts who turned out well last evening and witnessed the second in the series of match games. Dawson certainly has its full share of devotees of manly sports.

Custer Indian Attack.

The late Charles Osborn, the New York broker, and General Custer were intimate friends, and Osborn annually visited the general at his camp on the plains. During one of the Indian campaigns he invited Osborn and a party of friends out to Kansas and, after giving them a buffalo hunt, arranged a novel experience in the way of an Indian scare. As Osborn was lying in his tent one night firing was heard at the outposts and the rapid riding of pickets. "Boots and saddles!" was the order in the disturbed atmosphere of the night, and Custer appeared to Osborn loaded with rifle, two revolvers, a saber and a scalping knife.

"Charles," he said in his quick nervous way, "you must defend yourself. Sitting Bull and Flea-In-Your-Boots, with Wiggle-Tail-Jim and Scalp-Lock-Skowheban, are on us in force. I did not want to alarm you before, but the safety of my command is my first duty. Things look serious. If we don't meet again, God bless you!"

The broker fell on his knees. "Custer," he cried, "only get me out of this! I'll carry 1,000,000 shares of Western Union for you into the firm to get me home. Only save me!"

But Custer was gone, and the camp, by shrewd arrangement, burst into a blaze, and shots, oaths and warhoops were intermixed until suddenly a painted object loomed on Osborn's sight, and something was flung into his face—a human scalp. He dropped to the ground, said the Lord's prayer backward and sideways until the noise died away and there was exposed a lighted supper table with this explanation on a transparency:

"Osborn's treat!"—Chicago Record.

Return Postponed.

London, Oct. 19.—The mayor of Liverpool has received a dispatch from Lord Roberts saying that he is unable to attend to receive the freedom of the city before January.

Commenting upon the activity of the Boers and the statement from Capetown that Lord Roberts has postponed his home-coming, the Standard says: "There are certain indications pointing to the conclusion that unexpected difficulties have arisen which Lord Roberts considers grave enough to demand his presence for some time to come. All the facts suggest that it is impossible yet to denude South Africa of any substantial portion of the large army now engaged in dominating a sullen and recalcitrant population."

The editorial finally calls for the severest measures against irreconcilable Boers, for a prompt and ruthless punishment of every insurgent burgher caught in delicto.

The editorial concludes with the statement: "The imperial government has the country's mandate, and need not be afraid to act vigorously."

A New Use for Balloons.

M. Letorey, a French architect, has applied the captive balloon to the cleaning or decorating of cupolas, high roofs, towers and monuments. The balloon can be raised or lowered from a wagon by a windlass, and it can be steadied by stays from the side of the envelope. It has two platforms, or "nacelles," one on the top, the other underneath, and these communicate by a ladder up a central tube. The "balloon scaffold," as it is called, might be useful and safe in many operations, such as now require steeple jacks; for example, the wreathing of Nelson's column, and also in wireless telegraphy as an aerial station.—London Globe.

A Change all Around.

"There goes a party that will be heard from," said Smith, pointing to a young man who was going down the street. "He has managed to keep his head in love and financial matters, and they are the two great tests."

"Two months ago he was a young man with all the world before him and with no prospects ahead of him except a determination to fight life's battles."

"He was in love with a young lady living in this city, but his financial condition prevented him from declaring his passion; besides he was not sure that the young lady in question cared for him."

"But by one of those curious turns of the wheel of fortune an old aunt, that he had never seen, died and left him a large sum of money. Without delay he called upon the young lady and asked her to marry him, saying nothing about the fortune that had been left him. He met with a point blank refusal.

"Two days later the girl heard of his unexpected windfall and wrote him a note saying, 'I've chagned my mind.' "His answer was just as short. It said:

"'So have I.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Buying a Fan.

Miss Katharine Lee Bates, who spent some months in Spain last year, declares that the darkeyed damsels of the fan and lace mantilla are quite as charming as tradition has pictured them. Ignorant they commonly are, their education being of the most meager, but they are not dull. They are quick-witted, high spirited and affectionate, and are possessed of a grace of speech and manner which rarely deserts them. Nor do they reserve their pretty ways only for the ballroom or the parlor; even ordinary shopping is lifted into a scene of elegant comedy by the manner in which it is transacted. This is how a Spanish senorita bargains for her fan:

There is nothing sordid about it. Her haggling is a social condescension that at once puts the blackeyed young salesman at her mercy.

"But the fan seems to me the least bit dear, senior!"

"Ah, senorita! You do not see how beautiful the work is. I am giving it away at six pesetas." She lifts her eyebrows half-credulously, all bewitching.

"At five pesetas, senior."

He runs his hand through his black hair in chivalrous distress.

"But the peerless work, senorita! And this other, too. I sacrifice it at four pesetas."

She touches both fans lightly.

"You will let me have the two at seven pesetas, senior?"

Her eyes dance over his confusion. He catches the gleam, laugh back, throws up his hands.

"Bueno, senorita! At what you please!"

And the senorita-trips away contented with a sharp bargain, although—for Spanish gallantry, even when genuine, goes farther on the lips than otherwise—the price was probably not much more remote from what pleased the smooth-tongued clerk than from what she pleased.—Ex.

All for Teddy.

An Arizona delegate, tall, strongly built, wearing a huge sombrero and with a voice like the roll of a snare drum, climbed up on the telegraph desk at the Lafayette in Philadelphia the night before the Republican convention. He lurched unsteadily for a moment and then roared out: "We have come from Arizona, that great and grand state, to tell you benighted dwellers in this City of Brotherly Love that 'Teddy' is all right. 'Teddy' is Arizona's choice. 'Teddy' is the limit and a side bet. In this glorious city, where the spiders spin webs from the cars while in rapid motion to the trees, we declare ourselves. In this beautiful city, where you spent $3,000,000 for a penholder—and that's the only joke you have got here—we declare for 'Teddy.' Get in line. Join Arizona! Wake up! Yell for 'Teddy!' Hurrah! Hurrah!" And he tumbled off the desk.—Ex.

He Wanted It Fumigated.

"Disinfect the house thor-r-roughly, me b'y," said Mr. O'Toole, when the negotiations for renting the cottage had been completed, "and wel' move in to onct."

"Why do you wish it disinfected?" inquired the agent. "The place is perfectly clean."

"Shure," replied Mr. O'Toole, as expressive of great shrewdness, "the last fam'ly that lived in it had tr-rip-lits."—Judge.

THE EFFECT ON THEATRES

Of the Order Keeping Women Out of the Boxes.

Will Be a Death Blow to That Business Say the Managers—Other Results Predicted.

In view of action taken by Major Wood in the matter of prohibiting women from drinking in the boxes of theaters an interview was sought with the proprietors of the Standard and Savoy theaters last night Mr. Eggert of the Standard being the first found.

When the news was told him and he was asked what effect the enforcement of the order would have, he said:

"Practically it amounts to an order to close my doors, as without the revenue derived from the boxes, no show house in Dawson can be made to pay expenses.

"This is exactly the situation. My stage salaries alone foot up $3000 a week, and the best weeks business I have ever had from door receipts was $600.

"Besides the salaries to actors to whom I pay from $75 to $125 per week, I have to pay the expenses of the production of scenery, advertising, music, salaries to bar tenders, and a lot of people besides; so you can see where I would get off if the girls are to be kept out of the boxes."

Later Steve O'Brien, of the Savoy, was seen and had practically the same statement to make as that made by Mr. Eggert.

"Oh, I guess it means that we will have to close," he said. "It will be impossible to keep the house open under such conditions, and there's no use trying."

"The result is one which must be felt in all lines of business, and it is a mistake to suppose for a moment that the girls and theater people are the only ones who will suffer from it."

"It will be impossible to suddenly withdraw any business from the community which circulates as much money as we do every month without more or less serious results to all other branches of business."

"Another matter which we have to consider in this is: what effect will this action have upon our contracts with our people? Some of them have under contract to us for the entire winter, and all have contracts for a greater or less period. The question is a very large one, and its effects cannot be seen or stated without due time for consideration."

"So far we have received no notice of the order, and this is the first I have heard of its existence."

Bird Cries Saved the Ship.

One of the most curious stories ever told in the port of Philadelphia was that related by Capt. Henreksen, of the Norwegian steamer Panan, which arrived from New York in ballast to load Havana. The Panan came to New York from Cape Breton, and it was on that voyage, generally so fraught with perils during the winter season, that she was saved from utter destruction by birds, whose chirping warned the crew of their danger.

Capt. Henreksen gave an interesting and thrilling account of his novel experience to a Times reporter, who boarded the Panan shortly after she dropped anchor in the stream. Substantially it was as follows:

"We loaded coal at Cape Breton, one of the wildest and most inhospitable spots in North America, I suppose, and on a coast strewn with wreckage for hundreds of miles. While we were in port there a fearful storm was raging and we were compelled to remain, fearing to venture out."

"We finally weighed anchor and steamed slowly out to sea in the face of weather conditions which, to say the least, were alarming. The gale increased in fury until it blew at the rate of 60 miles an hour."

"Its direction changed also, to make matters worse, and blew on shore. This part of the Atlantic coast has been long imperfectly surveyed, and almost as soon as night closed in we were in doubt as to our exact location. The lead was cast for several hours and varying depths were recorded. Toward eight bells we were in 70 fathoms, ample room under the keel, and, concluding that we were off the shoals, the speed was increased."

"While moving along at an eight knot speed on a course west by south-west, and with the assurance that the land was no more to oppose us, the man on the lookout forward suddenly heard a confusion of sounds resembling the humming of millions of bees."

"The headway of the vessel was at once checked and then the noise resolved itself into the voices of birds. It was an immense volume of chirping and rustling of wings, which could be heard distinctly above the roar of the storm. In the succeeding moments of fear and doubt the Panan was allowed to drift, while we sought anxiously to pierce the intense gloom of the night. Then the motion became easier and the anchor was dropped."

"When morning broke an astonishing spectacle was recalled to the Panan's crew. Directly in front of them, scarcely a quarter of a mile away, was an immense towering rock, which, had the vessel struck, would have dashed her to fragments in an instant.

Stranger than all the vast granite pile was inhabited by myriads of white birds, which reposed on its barren pinnacles and fluttered about the lonely apex. It was their warning cries, resounding through the black night, which had saved the steamer, and heartfelt thanks went up to them from the latter's grateful crew."

One of the sailors would have tried a shot at them, but the captain would not permit it, simply as a matter of sentiment. He recognized the birds as of the species termed bossum, which in great numbers frequent the rocky Newfoundland headlands in the winter season, and are noted for the peculiar resonance of their vocal sounds.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Something Worth Striving For.

"What," asked the lady who believes in the eternal rights of women, as she set down the glass from which she had moistened her throat, and looked defiantly at her hearers, "What has the little girl to look forward to in this country? What possible glory is there to fire her with ambition? The poorest boy that is born in our land today," she shouted, shaking a fat forefinger at a baldheaded man who sat near the stage, and looked as if he was sorry that he had come, "may aspire to an office which carries with it more power than is wielded by any prince or king or emperor on earth. There is something for him to live for, to strive for. There is always the glorious incentive that makes for greatness. However humble his surroundings, there is the ever-present possibility that he may some day stand in the fierce white light of publicity with the destiny of the nation in his hands."

"But for the fair haired girl who plays with him, what glorious hope is there? What dreams of future greatness are there for her to dream? What does the future hold for her, that she should consecrate herself to the achievement of the sublime? Degraded at the very threshold of life, what aspirations may find lodgement in her soul?"

She paused for breath, and also to permit the ladies present to applaud her eloquence.

"I repeat," she shouted, after the storm of approval had died away, "what glory does the future hold for her?"

"Well," said the baldheaded man, "she might strive to become worthy of one of those cornhusk bonnets that the Kansas people are giving away."

The meeting then broke up in confusion.—Chicago Herald.

Widow's Choice in China.

In China when a woman's husband dies she has the choice of a second husband—that is, if she can get one—or of a widow's arch at her death, says a correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. A few take the antedeadth prize, but many of them prefer the beautifully carved gateway.

A widow's arch is a very common sight in China. It matters not what part of the celestial empire one visits, these "works of art" are noticeable many times in large numbers. They are found in the streets, near the gates of a city or out in the open field. The object of erecting the structures is to show reverence or esteem for the departed. Sometimes they are erected to other than the widows who refuse to marry again. Distinguished men are allowed to rear them to themselves. No man, however, can build one without the permission of the emperor. When such permission is granted, a note of it is made in Chinese characters on the top part of the arch, and the man's name becomes famous from that time.

The arch to the memory of a widow is usually built by friends. As in the case of burial, the elaborateness depends upon the wealth of the relatives to a great extent. The difference in a great measure is noticeable in the carving, especially in the number of carved characters placed thereon. It is seldom that an arch more than 25 feet in height is found. These arches are built of either wood or stone.

Lions Stop a Train.

Speaking in the house of lords of the progress of the Uganda railway, Lord Salisbury mentioned that among the unexpected difficulties encountered were a pair of man-eating lions, which stopped the works for three weeks before they were shot. As some five thousand men were at work on the line, their intimidation by two lions seems almost incredible. Yet it is a fact that so dreadful was the pressure exercised by the constant attacks of this pair of man-devouring wild beasts, and so cumulative the fear caused among the Indian laborers by the sight and sound of their comrades being carried off and devoured, that hundreds of these industrious workmen, trained on similar duties under the service of the government of India, abandoned their employment and pay, and crying out that they agreed to work for wages, not to be food for lions or devils, rushed to the line as the trains for the coast were approaching and flinging themselves across the metals gave the engine drivers the choice either of passing over their bodies or of stopping to take them up and carry them back to Mombasa. Many of these men were not timid Hindus, but sturdy Sikhs. Yet the circumstances were so unique, and the scenes witnessed from week to week so bloody and appalling, that their panic and desperation are no matter for surprise. Lord Salisbury understands the facts.

Though the works were stopped for three weeks, the lion's campaign lasted, with intervals of quiet when one or other had been wounded, from March till the end of December. In this time they killed and ate 28 Indians, and it is believed at least twice this number of natives, Swahills and the like, besides wounding and attacking others. They attacked white engineers, doctors, soldiers and military officers, armed Abyssinian askaris, sepoys, bunniah, coolies and porters. Some they clawed, some they devoured, some they carried off and left sticking in thorn fences because they could not drag them through. At first they were contented to take one man between them. Before the end of their career they would take a man apiece on the same night, sometimes from the same hut or campfire. J. H. Patterson, one of the engineers of the line, after months of effort and personal risk, succeeded in breaking the spell and killing both lions, which the natives had come to regard as "devils;" that is, as equivalent to were-wolves, and guided by the local demons.—London Spectator.

Will Race Again.

London, Oct. 16.—It is reported here that a challenge from Sir Thomas Lipton for another series of races for the America's cup reached the New York Yacht Club this morning.

At the office of Sir Thomas Lipton today the report that his challenge had reached New York was denied. It appears, however, that it was recently mailed, or that it is about to be sent to New York.

Sir Thomas Lipton, later in the day, informed a representative of the Associated Press that his challenge is on board the White Star steamer Germanic, due at New York Thursday, and that he prefers that all information as to its contents be given out by the New York Yacht Club. The letter challenging contains a suggestion as to the date of the race, which it is understood, will be in August. It is reported that the Challenger yacht will be built on the Thames and that she will be named Shamrock.

According to rumor, Robert Wringe, one of the commanders of the old Shamrock, will command the new racer.

British Ship Overdue.

San Francisco, Oct. 19.—The British ship Lansing, which left Port Blakely on June 1st, bound for Port Pirie, Australia, is now out 136 days, and 20 per cent reinsurance has been offered on her. She has a cargo of nearly 3,000,000 feet of lumber.

The story is current in shipping circles that the crew has mutinied, killed Capt. Chapman, and located on Bonham island, in the South seas, after wrecking the vessel, but the reports lack verification.

COMING AND GOING.

Many cases of cold feet were noticeable at the rink last night, even if it was a hot game.

J. R. McGovern went to the Forks yesterday as a starter for a proposed general visit to all the creeks before starting for the outside.

Orr & Tukey are moving many tons of freight to the creeks daily. A great deal of this is machinery.

A telegram has been received from Superintendent Primrose at Whitehorse asking the council for the $600 promised on the completion of the public hospital there.

A citizen of Grand Forks has sent a communication to the council asking that he be paid $330 for unauthorized street work.

A Weary Time.

Mrs. Walter McNabb, the lady who will be remembered as having broken one of her legs by falling in the open, unguarded and unlighted ditch at the corner of Fourth avenue and Sixth street on a dark night about the middle of September, and who has since been cared for at the Sister's hospital, is this week able to sit up for the first time since her injury, having lain on her back with the injured limb swathed in bandages and plaster casts for more than two months.

A Winter Industry.

Realizing that with each succeeding year the price of wood for fuel in Dawson is bound to advance, unless superceded by coal, which is very probable, a number of dealers now have men at work up the river getting out large quantities of wood which will be rafted down the river to this place next season. The wood business in Dawson is like skinning bedrock without the expense of sinking down to it.

No Window Gazing.

In a round trip between the Nugget and telegraph offices this forenoon the only woman seen was a passenger on Honnen's stage from the Forks, who, on alighting, turned out to be a ruddy faced boy dressed in a fur parky.

VIOLENCE BARELY AVERTED

As the Result of Insults Offered to Citizens

By a Newspaper Which May Be Prosecuted — Mr. Justice Dugas and Others Speak.

The matter recently published in a daily paper, other than the Nugget, which was the subject of the discussion and subsequent action by the council at its meeting last evening, has by no means lost its power to create thus far silent, but none the less great, excitement by the lapse of another day's time.

It is pretty generally known about town today that at an informal meeting yesterday the excitement raised by the publication of the matter referred to, ran so high that it was only by the weight of the advice of some of the more cool-headed and far-seeing citizens present that a raid on the office of the paper was prevented.

Of course, had this been done the gravest results would, in all human probability have followed. That the gentlemen upon whose advice and exertions in the interests of law and order the affair turned, were present was a most fortunate circumstance.

It must not be supposed, however, that because these wise counsellors prevailed yesterday that they are less indignant than those whose impulsiveness would have led them to immediate violence in the redress of what they considered a gratuitous insult. On the contrary, they are equally aroused and just as determined to see the matter through to the bitter end, and unless all signs fail the end is not yet.

Mr. Justice Dugas was seen this morning and asked if he cared to say anything for publication concerning the matter with which he, as a member of the council's committee has to deal, and he replied:

"I said what I had to say last evening. Did I not speak plainly?"

"It was thought that perhaps you might state what action the committee will take in dealing with the matter," was said, to which the Justice replied:

"I will say that I will take any measure provided by the law to prevent such things, even if it is necessary to destroy that paper.

"People who had been insulted wanted to go there and smash the windows and possibly someone would have been killed. Had this been done then we should have had to bear the consequences afterwards.

"This kind of thing must be stopped."

Attorney Noel was seen and asked whether he cared to make any public statement concerning the affair of yesterday, and the causes which led to it, and replied:

"As to what occurred yesterday I know nothing whatever. Concerning future action in the matter—well, there is a criminal law under which the management of the newspaper can be prosecuted."

Mr. Girouard was found pacing his office, and when the subject was mentioned to him it was seen that it was not one calculated to put him in a pleasant frame of mind. In speaking of the action taken by the council, he said:

"Yes, that is the best way; much the best way. It is a shame that such a thing should have been published, and it makes no difference who the guilty party is; whether he is Canadian, American or French, he should be punished, and most likely will be.

"It is too bad that a paper should come here and not be able to refrain from insulting the citizens of the country where they make their living.

"I am not in favor of violence, but I cannot blame the people for being incensed."

First Over the Ice.

Two of Dick Brown's teams of four horses each got in yesterday evening from Reindeer with freight, each team bringing 7000 pounds. This is the first freight to arrive over the ice this year. Brown's drivers report the trail as being in splendid condition for heavy hauling.

For St. Paul's Church.

Next Tuesday night under the management of Mrs. F. C. Wade and Mr. Arthur Boyle an entertainment in aid of St. Paul's church will be given in McDonald hall commencing at 8 o'clock. All the best amateur talent in the city has been secured and the occasion is bound to be an enjoyable one. Among those who will do their share in making the affair a success are: Mrs. F. C. Wade, Mrs. D. B. Olson, Miss Emma Allen, Messrs. McPherson, Boyle, Craig, Johnson, McConnell and others. Tickets are now on sale at Reid's drug store at $1 each.

Big Load of Coal.

The A. E. Co. yesterday received its first load of coal over the ice for this winter, four and a half tons having been brought down from Rock creek on the frozen bosom of the Klondike. Three tons makes a good sized load for a team of four horses, but the extra ton and a half brought in yesterday evening was picked up where it had been previously left along the route. The company expects to bring down a large amount of its mine's output over the ice.

Skagway, Nov. 23.—The steamer Ruth arrived today, the first boat in seven days.

The City of Seattle's passengers are reported to be still in quarantine at Vancouver and the Topeka in quarantine at Port Townsend. Of the Topeka's first-class passengers 78 were allowed to proceed on another steamer.

The one case of smallpox at Whitehorse caused great excitement here. The council appointed a health officer and ordered everybody vaccinated.

Henry Villard Dead.

New York, Nov. 15, via Skagway, Nov. 23.—Henry Villard, at one time president of the Northern Pacific railway, is dead and was buried here today.

Bowling Contest.

The first thirty-game team championship series was bowled this week and ended yesterday at the Reception alleys. The contest was between Alex Schwarz and Herman Knappe vs. Rainbow and Harwood, and was won by Knappe and Harwood in a very close and exciting finish, the scores being as follows:

First ten games.	Schwarz	Knappe	Rainbow	Harwood
270	288	296	270
274	346	360	327
309	279	321	346
Total	963	908	977	943

Grand team total, Schwarz and Knappe, 1861; Rainbow and Harwood, 1920; Rainbow and Harwood winning by 59 points. A return series is expected next week.

More Mail Coming.

A consignment of Dawson-bound mail was reported as having passed Selkirk yesterday forenoon, but up to noon today had not been reported as having reached Selwyn. It will not probably reach here in time for distribution before Monday.

The Weather.

To those who desire information regarding the weather as it actually is Sergeant Major Tucker says the mercury last night registered 39.5 below zero; but those who delight in very cold weather were informed that it was 52 below.

The officer has four accurate instruments which, when equally exposed, do not vary a fraction of a degree, and it is from their indications that the official records are kept. In addition to these he has a prize chewing gum package thermometer which can trot right away from the official instruments in either rise or fall. The sergeant keeps this instrument for the accommodation of his weather customers who prefer it from 70 to 100 degrees below zero.

At Bennett this morning it was 25 below, varying from that to 40 below at intermediate points.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In the session of the police court yesterday, afternoon C. W. Thebo was fined $25 and costs for allowing debris to accumulate about his premises.

C. A. Johnson, a restaurant keeper, likewise paid $25 on the same charge.

Forty degrees below is too many for Antone Smith, who last night applied stomach fuel in the way of stark-naked whisky until he became so warm as to be a disturbing grain of sand on the great beach of humanity. The member of the family on which the sun never sets paid $10 and costs this morning.

Andrew Hill and James Holland were arrested on Third street by the Bank cafe for fighting last night. Hill was convicted and paid $10 and costs; but as there was evidence that Holland had acted only in self-defence, he was allowed until this afternoon to procure vindicating evidence.

Yesterday afternoon the case in which Postrom, who had a waiter at the Standard theater arrested on the charge of theft, was dismissed, as there was not sufficient evidence to sustain the charge.

Will Take Effect Tonight.

Major Wood was seen this morning and asked when the new order concerning the exclusion of women from the boxes would take effect, and replied that it would take effect at once.

"I gave the order yesterday," he said, "and tonight no women will be allowed in the theater boxes."

Death of E. Bartlett.

Mr. E. Bartlett died Wednesday evening at St. Mary's hospital in this city from the effects of typhoid-pneumonia. Two weeks ago and while stopping at the Aurora No. 3 on Bonanza he was taken sick. After a week, there being no apparent improvement in his condition, Landlord Jack Crowley brought him to the hospital with the result as above stated. The body is now at Undertaker Green's. Mr. Bartlett came to the Klondike in '97 from Puyallup, Wash., where his wife and children now reside and where he, at one time, was a prominent and prosperous citizen.
