Report of Shooting Accident Startled People Town Truro.

Said to Have Happened at North River And That Popular Young Truro Man Was The Victim.

Investigating Parties Went Out and Were Overjoyed To Find Him Alive And Well.—Looks Like A Hoax.

If Hud Smith, the popular young English Street barber, could have secluded himself somewhere on the "Strand" that part of Prince Street between Inglis and Walker Streets Thursday afternoon he would have heard many nice things said about himself, all of which we believe were true, for Hud is well liked by all who know him. Men were standing about in groups discussing a report that Hud had been shot, if not dead then mortally wounded, in the North River forest. It would seem the news was brought to town by Mr. Munroe McCallum, one of North River's most respectable and reliable citizens. Mr. McCallum said that while driving to town he met a young man running with coat and vest off who asked him the way to the nearest house. He said that he and two others were moose hunting away back there in the woods, that they had come upon a yard. They were separated and when one of them saw a bush moving in the yard he fired, thinking it was a moose, with the result that he shot one of his companions through the chest, and that he was mortally wounded. He said the young man's name was Smith, a son of James Smith, Truro. It was known that Parker McKenzie, Hud Smith and Lawson Hiltz had left for North River the night previous to hunt partridge. It was this caused the conclusion to be reached that Hud was the victim. Telephone connection was had with points on the North River, but those communicated with had heard nothing of the matter. Surprise was also expressed as time wore on that neither Parker McKenzie nor Lawson Hiltz had returned with the news, the wounded or dead man, or for a doctor.

This led some to the belief that perhaps there was a mistake, that the supposed victim might be a son of Mr. James Smith, Harmony, but while this was being discussed a son of that gentleman came along and in answer to enquiries said none of his family were hunting that day.

About that time Mr. Maynard McKenzie drove off in the direction of North River. En route, at or near Stewart's Bridge he met a man who told him the story was true, and that Parker McKenzie was bringing the body home. Mr. McKenzie drove on, expecting every minute to meet his brother and Lawson Hiltz with the lifeless body of their companion. He did meet them, but there was no dead man in the bunch. All three were

Bass River Chairs For Far Away South Africa

The Dominion Chair Company Pushing Its Excellent Products to Markets Far Across the Seas.—Good Work, Square Dealing and Push Brings Reward.

The Dominion Chair Company's factory at Bass River, Colchester County, which was destroyed by fire last winter, has been rebuilt, is again in operation, and the company has just made a shipment of chairs to South Africa. There is enterprise for you. This concern has a splendid reputation for good work and square dealing, hence a ready market for its products. In addition to the South African market the company also sells in the West Indies and in Ireland.

A Colchester Boy.

Rev. C. P. Wilson, of Gibson, N. B., has taken possession of his property on Main Street, Antigonish, which he recently purchased from Rev. M. P. Freeman.—Kesterville Advertiser.

Rev. Mr. Wilson is a Colchester boy, a native of Belmont. Rev. M. P. Freeman was formerly Baptist minister at Great Village and Upper Londonderry.

The Boosters Club.

A meeting of those who have signified their desire to form a BOOSTER, BIGGER, BETTER Truro Club will be held Monday night, Oct. 31st, at 8 o'clock. The place of meeting has not yet been decided on. Announcement will be made in that connection next week. Every person interested in the movement is cordially invited to attend and put their shoulder to the wheel in an effort to give the old town a BOOST. Truro expects all her citizens to do their duty.

Saw White Fox.

Mr. Freeman Tully, barber, Outram Street, and Mr. James Johnson, of the I. R. C., completed a three days hunting trip Wednesday evening, Monday they walked across the mountain from DeBert River to New Annan, fifteen miles. They shot twenty partridge in all, ten each.

At New Annan they saw a white fox, but it was too far away to get a shot at it. This fox has been seen by several. One man fired at it, but missed. White foxes are rare. Mr. Tully and Mr. Johnson saw lots of moose tracks while crossing the mountain.

To Shubenacadie.

Mr. F. E. Pentz, our mayor and former druggist, has purchased a drug business in Shubenacadie, and left for there on Friday evening to take charge of his newly purchased property. We are sorry to lose Mr. Pentz from among us, for he was a good reliable citizen, a man of thrift and good business capacity, and we congratulate Shubenacadie on her acquisition. What is our loss is Shubenacadie's gain.—Hantsport Advance, 19th.

A Truro Farmer's Good Wheat Crop.

Mr. James McKenzie, Clearmount, Got Thirty Bushels From The Acre.—Big Yield Also At Salmon River.

Mr. James McKenzie, Clearmount, Truro, has just cleaned up a crop of wheat that he is quite proud of. He got twenty bushels for every one sown, or thirty bushels to the acre. Mr. James Albert Johnson, Salmon River, also harvested a good crop.

It is now confidently stated by many that wheat can be very successfully raised in these parts again. Time was when the wheat destroyed the crops, but it is now said that this pest has disappeared.

A Rich Mine.

Miss Bessie Dunbrack, Nova Scotia's famous woman miner, is making good in her silver and lead mine at Musquodibit. It is reported to be developing up in a splendid way. Lots of ore and rich. The ore is being shipped to Swansea, Wales, for treatment.

The Chimook Mining Company, whose property joins Miss Dunbrack's, are not carrying on development work at present, but will make a move in the near future. This property is said to be also very rich.

Yes, Dangerous.

Chatham World—A young woman near Sackville was struck in the leg by a bullet last Thursday, and another bullet passed close to her and her father. It is supposed that the bullets had been fired at her by hunters in the woods. The long-range modern rifles are dangerous things to use within a mile of highways or human habitations. Now we do not propose to set these facts up as a justification for him violating the law. We hold that the physically afflicted are as amenable to the law as the physically whole. That physical affliction is not a justification for law violation.

New Quarters.

Mr. Edson Graham, photographer, of Windsor and Wolfville, having moved in both towns, has recently moved into the Acadian in Wolfville, which the Acadian says is of the best in the province. A number of changes have been made, it further adds, all of which add to its convenience and ability to turn out first class work.

Mr. Graham is a native of DeBert River and a former much respected citizen of Truro.

Buried in Halifax.

The remains of Mrs. B. I. Fraser, who died quite suddenly in Halifax on the 14th, were interred in Fairview Cemetery, near that city, last Sunday afternoon. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Dr. John McMillan, a former pastor of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Truro. There were many beautiful floral offerings. Several went from Truro to attend the funeral.

Widowed Moose.

According to a recent poem there are a lot of widowed moose in the Nova Scotia forests.

Here's A Chance For Practical Christian Work.

This Afflicted Man is Serving Second Term This Year For Violation of the Nova Scotia Temperance Law.

At End of First Term Tried To Get Legitimate Work But Met No Encouragement.—What Next?

It is not the policy of this paper to trade in other people's misfortunes in a gossipy way, for the mere sake of publishing what is termed "news." The unfortunate ones named from the house tops, so to speak.

Of course there are cases where in the interest of society and good citizenship it is the duty of newspapers to enter into details as a warning to others.

However, there are cases in which lessons of another character, that is, aside from warning, can be drawn from, and it is one of the purposes of this paper to refer to in this issue of the Citizen without mentioning names. We can serve our purpose without doing that. The case in this, or these are the facts:

This week a young man was sent to jail for sixty days in lieu of a fine imposed for conviction under the Nova Scotia Temperance Law. This is the second time he has been incarcerated this year for the same kind of offence. The young man is nearly blind, and partially lame. Now we do not propose to set these facts up as a justification for him violating the law. We hold that the physically afflicted are as amenable to the law as the physically whole. That physical affliction is not a justification for law violation.

Looking to Truro.

That live newspaper, the Pictou Advocate, in last week's issue, quoted in full what appeared in The Citizen two weeks ago respecting permanent street-making in Truro. The Advocate is an ardent supporter of good streets, and suggests that members of the Pictou Town Council visit Truro and look into the system being tried here. It says Truro's council had enterprise enough to send representatives to Boston to get pointers.

Rev. Mr. Jost III.

Rev. Roland M. Jost, pastor of Providence Methodist Church, Yarmouth, who has been spending a month's leave of absence at Bridge town and Halifax, returned home last week Mr. Jost has been advised by his physician in Halifax to consult a specialist in Boston, and he leaves for that city this week.—Bridgetown Monitor.

Rev. Mr. Jost was at one time stationed at Truro and North River. Mrs. Jost is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Tupper, formerly much respected citizens of Truro but now residing in California. Mrs. G. H. Leaman is a sister.

Fancy Price.

Partridge are selling, or were a few days ago, for sixty cents a pair in Truro.

I. R. C. Employee Got Check For One Cent.

After Deducting Board Bill And Insurance That Was The Balance Due Him For His Month of September Services.

There was a disappointed and chagrined man at the I. R. C. station yesterday morning. He was an extra employee, and the pay check arrived this week. He was sent for to go to the ticket office, as there was a check there for him. He promptly responded, signed the pay bill, and was handed a check for one cent. This was the balance due him for the month of September. He had earned $21. Under the extra employe system the board bill is stopped at Moncton. This charge against him was $20.55. Then there was fourteen cents for insurance, leaving the balance above mentioned.

Wellman Failed.

Walter Wellman and several companions, of New York, attempted to cross the ocean in a great balloon air ship. They travelled 1,000 miles, then their five were partially disabled. They escaped by aid of their life boat, were picked up by the Royal Mail steamer Trent and carried back to New York. They certainly had a thrilling time of it. The air ship was equipped with wireless. They purpose trying again.

Three Generations.

Three generations, or representatives of three generations, sat down to dinner at the Grand Central Thursday. Mr. George W. Graham, his son, Mr. William Graham and the latter's little son, all of DeBert River. It is doubtful if their combined ages totalled 90 years.

Nominated.

At a meeting of the electors of Middle Stewards one night recently Councillor John H. McKenzie gave an account of his stewardship and so well were the people satisfied with it that they nominated him for another term.

Are Wondering.

Now that the assessors are making their rounds, people are wondering and guessing what will happen.

Took A Tumble.

The I. R. C. management has at last taken a tumble. Engineers were at work yesterday surveying with a view to getting clear of that pond of stagnant water on the Esplanade, referred to by The Citizen several times. It is understood a trench will be made to a nearby surface drain catch basin and the water run off in that way. Well, the management is entitled to the credit of acting after attention was called to the nuisance.

Looks Like Election.

It is reported the proposed railway from Windsor to Chester is to be surveyed.—Preliminary.

Has Leased Royal.

Mr. Alexander McKenzie, formerly of the I. R. C., has leased the Royal Hotel, Railway Esplanade, and will conduct it.

"Bobs" Is A Wee Doggie But Hard To Do Him Up.

Spent Many Hours in a Fox Snare out in the Mountains, but Gained his Liberty and Appeared at his Home After Being Given up for Dead.

When Mr. Parker McKenzie started out on that famous hunting trip Wednesday night he took his little black and white dog "Bobs" along with him. At 10 o'clock Thursday morning the little chap was missing and although Mr. McKenzie and his companions called, whistled and searched, they could get no tidings of him. Mr. McKenzie finally gave him up, concluding that he had become entangled in a fox snare. Speaking to a Citizen reporter Thursday evening Mr. McKenzie said he would not have taken twenty-five dollars for the dog but judge of his surprise when two hours after the fellow appeared at his master's stable on Prince Street with a fox snare drawn tightly about his neck, so much so that he could scarcely breathe. He bore evidence of having had a terrible struggle, and was near to the point of utter collapse. It is estimated that the poor brute was eight or nine hours battling for freedom and life.

Moose Visited Mill.

At Mr. A. A. Sutherland's camp, Mount Thom, Wednesday while Mr. J. W. Louthier and a number of men were putting water in the boiler of the engine a large moose came close to them. At first they thought the noise it made going through the bush was caused by some person falling a tree. One of the men said it was a moose, and investigation proved that he was right. It was a moose, and a large one too.

Death Mrs. Bell.

The remains of Mrs. C. F. W. Bell arrived in Truro Tuesday night from Detroit, U. S., where she died somewhat suddenly while visiting her daughter. The funeral took place Wednesday from St. John's Church of England to Terrace Hill cemetery. Mr. Bell returned to his home in Massachusetts by Wednesday's night train. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were for many years residents of Truro. Mr. Bell was at one time I. R. C. train dispatcher here and afterward engaged in the drygoods business on Inglis Street, in the building now occupied by A. F. Ross & Co. His many old friends in Truro deeply sympathize with him in the death of his estimable wife.

Has Leased Royal.

Mr. Alexander McKenzie, formerly of the I. R. C., has leased the Royal Hotel, Railway Esplanade, and will conduct it.

If Big Trans-Atlantic Boats Laid Inland Freight Down At Halifax Doubtful Road Could Handle It.

Policy of The Ontario Minister of Railways Cutting Down Mechanical Staff Halifax and Truro a Bad One.

Halifax wants the trans-Atlantic steamers, the C. P. R., the Allan and Great Northern lines to land freight there, that is, freight for the road; for inland. It is a laudable desire on the part of Halifax, one that, if granted, would be a good thing for Truro, for Moncton, for the I. R. C. generally, because it would mean more traffic, consequently more trains and more men employed. But does Halifax understand that if the desire was granted, that is, if the steamers landed the freight, there is grave doubt, reasonable doubt, if the I. R. C. under existing conditions could successfully carry it inland, this because of the policy of the Ontario minister of railways—making a surplus by starving the rolling stock, particularly locomotives.

It is no secret that the condition of the locomotives is a cause for much anxiety on the part of those responsible for power sufficient to move the traffic of the road. They are meeting with much difficulty even now, but what will it be when the road is in the grasp of winter? It is scandalous to place men in a position of that kind. Little wonder there are rumors of discontent among officials of that kind, officials who are willing and can do their duty but who are prevented from doing so because of the starvation policy of the Ontario minister of railways and his right-hand man, the man who is administering that policy, Mr. F. P. Brady. The Moncton Transcript says there are rumors that Mr. Joughins, the superintendent of motive power, has resigned. Mr. Joughins interviewed and refused to either affirm or deny the rumor. If Mr. Joughins really has resigned, or intends to resign, it is safe to say it will be found that it is because of the present I. R. C. policy in respect to maintaining the rolling stock of the road.

One thing that has to a large extent brought about the present unsatisfactory state of affairs in respect to I. R. C. rolling stock on the Halifax and St. John division was the cutting down of the mechanical staffs at Halifax and Truro to almost the vanishing point. This was done with a view to having repair work other than the very lightest performed at Moncton. Moncton is nearly two hundred miles distant from Halifax, and one hundred and twenty-five distant from Truro. In view of these facts is it not reasonable to believe that traffic would be more expeditiously handled by having necessary repairs to locomotives running in and out of those points made at those points.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

FROM SHAKESPEARE

(Copr. 1909 by Bradley Garretson, Ltd.)

The Truro Publishing Co. have purchased the right to use these sermons in The Sun and The Citizen.

And of all my lands Is nothing left me but my body's length.

Henry VI., Part III., Act V., Sc. 2

Warwick, in the battle of Barnet, had received his death wound. He was the wealthiest nobleman in England and the most powerful. He had been the "Proud setter-up and pulled-down of kings." In his dying moments what a weak thing he was, how powerless was his wealth to save him. He realised that his ambitions and successful schemes and plots had left him absolute owner of just as much land as would hold his body's length. A solemn thought that! The greedy hoarder, the land-grabber should take it to heart. Man's chief end is evidently not to hoard and possess. He must have a higher destiny or else life is a failure and not worth living.

It was natural that Shakespeare should make Warwick speak of his wealth in terms of land. England in the fifteenth century was an agricultural country. The ideal life for every Englishman was one spent, save when he was engaged in war, on his broad estates. He was a king in little; his retainers and his tenants were his subjects. He was proud of his broad fields, his parks with oak and chestnut shade. It was the ideal of the nation. Even an actor and play-wright like Shakespeare found his highest satisfaction in returning to his early home in Warwickshire and taking up the life of a country gentleman. It is easy to kill the body and bury it deep out of sight. Spirit it is impossible to kill. The nations, which while ever-anxious about their earthly possessions, at the same time disregard a soul's life, have immortality. Ponder this well! A man might own a whole state or province; he might possess factories by hundreds and control armies of workmen; he might be a Croesus in wealth, yet when his death hour arrives he might be forced to cry out as did Warwick: "Why, what is pomp, rule, reign, but earth and dust?" If he cultivate his lands to give work and food to earth's millions; if he set the wheels of his factories in motion with a creator's instinct for the good of humanity, he could leave this fair earth with no regrets.

"Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither," said Job. He was speaking merely of the flesh. His material possessions he could not carry beyond the grave. Wordsworth's words are nearer the mark regarding the spirit: "Trailing clouds of glory do we come From God, who is our home." Every child is born into the world with infinite spiritual possibilities for good or evil. There is a potentially perfect being in every cradle.

Land hunger is as strong in the twentieth century as it was in the fifteenth; at a block of land he opened up for settlement in Montana or Saskatchewan and there is a mad stampede for possession. It is something to own a portion of the earth; to that extent are men kings. They have their sleep and their cattle, their men-servants and their maid-servants, they command and are obeyed.

Despite the fact that Shakespeare was himself a land-owner he, in a way, despised wealth. It was so much "dirt" to him. He "prized not quantity of dirty lands" for itself. It was to him a means to an end. The wealth and leisure it brought him enabled him to develop his higher nature.

Nations are as fond of the possession of territory as individuals. Tyre and Sidon, Palestine, Carthage, ancient Greece and Rome, were notorious land-grabbers, ever broadening their territory. Where are they? Their greatness is buried in the soil on which they stood. They possess just so much land as holds their graves. Yet some of these have immortality. Church, Greece and Rome are alive and at work among the nations. Their gigantic possessions, their glorious battles by sea and by land, have left but little influence behind; but the spiritual conquests they made, the spiritual efforts they put forth can never perish. That great library of Jewish literature, the Bible, is still the main factor in the moral development of the human race; the poetry and philosophy of Greece and Rome still have a refining and uplifting influence. When the man who has lived a righteous life faces the grim conqueror death he can do so realising that, in so far as he is wrought to bring about the brotherhood of man, in so far as he has cultivated a lofty spiritual life, he can never die. Dust unto dust was never spoken of the soul. There are many graves in the world; millions upon millions of mounds that tell that they who lie beneath had to leave their broad fields and hoarded wealth. Their names are lost. But there are a few shrines; the grave of Shakespeare, the son of an illiterate glover, and the grave of Lincoln, the son of a more illiterate backwoodsman, attract the feet of many pilgrims. Their spirits still preach to humanity. Every man has in him immortal possibilities. He may possess, when he passes away, but six feet of land, or he may be a part of the Infinite, his words and deeds still at work for the uplifting of mankind.

DADDY'S BEDTIME STORY

Bunny Cottontail and the Easter Egg.

"Do you like eggs, Jack?" asked daddy just before bedtime. "Yes, I can eat three for breakfast," said Jack. "He always wants one of mine," said Evelyn. "Very well, then," said daddy. "I'll tell you a story about the Easter egg and the rabbit. Master Bunny Cottontail was a little white rabbit who belonged to little Miss Mary Ann McFudge. He lived in a box with a nice soft old sofa pillow for a bed, and Mary Ann was very fond of him. Bunny was so tame that she could let him out to run around the yard.

One day just before Easter Sunday Bunny Cottontail ran under the woodshed and got caught so he couldn't get out. He was gone so long that Mary Ann was worried, and she said to Mamma McFudge: "I'm afraid I won't have any Easter egg, mamma. You know you told me that the rabbits lay the Easter eggs." "Well, my dear," said Mamma McFudge, "don't you worry. Maybe Bunny will bring us an Easter egg in time."

There was a big yellow legged chicken, Mrs. Buff Cochin Hen, who lived in the upstairs part of the woodshed. When she looked out and saw that Bunny Cottontail had left his nice bed she squinted around and saw nobody was looking, so she stepped down and went into Bunny's box. That sofa pillow was a mighty nice soft bed. It was just like a hen's nest, and Mrs. Hen sat down on it for quite awhile. When she got up she was feeling so good that she cackled out loud.

"Then Mrs. Hen went back to her woodshed home, and after a while Bunny got loose from the right place under the shed and went back to his own home. He went to sleep on his own bed, and in the morning Mary Ann went to wake him up and feed him his breakfast of turnip tops and lettuce. She was glad to find that he had a fine white egg under him, and she ran and said to her mamma: "Oh, come and look! Bunny has brought me an Easter egg!"

"Old Mrs. Hen, who was proud of her eggs, heard this." She got down from her perch in the shed and stepped right out into the yard and began to make a great fuss. She went right up to Bunny Cottontail's house while he was outside eating, and she went in and sat down on his bed again. In a little while she got up and cackled. There was another nice white egg in Bunny's bed.

"I do believe," said Mamma McFudge, "that Mrs. Hen says these Easter eggs herself and not Bunny Cottontail. What do you think, kiddies?"

Why Not Get Rid of That Catarrh?

There are few people in this extreme and changeable climate who have not at least a touch of nasal catarrh. Yet because in itself it is not very dangerous most people put up with it, in its first stages, as a matter of course, until some day they wake up to the fact that the trouble has crept down to the lungs, or perhaps, through swallowing the phlegm, to the stomach.

Besides being dangerous in this way, catarrh is most disagreeable to oneself and others.

Father Morrissey's No. 26

is a combined internal and external treatment that has cured, and will cure, the most stubborn cases. The tablets, taken three or four times a day, purify the blood and help to throw off the disease, while the antiseptic, healing salve, applied up the nostrils, cleanses the diseased parts, heals, and completes the cure.

Now is the very best time to get No. 26 and start to get rid of that catarrh.

Their Use.

"What cute little envelopes!" "Yes, aren't they nice?" "I should say so. They are made of heavy satin paper too." "The very best of Truro. In a recent issue of your valuable paper you noted the advantages that the merchants, boardinghouse keepers and hence the citizens generally were receiving as a direct result of the influx of the student body to Truro. You at the same time called attention to the indirect benefits. In your paper in almost every issue there is found some article calling upon the town fathers to be progressive. Usually your requests for more progress refer to those lines in which at the present time not much advance has been made. It is not proper also, that there should be no retrogression along the lines in which there has been greatest progress!

Even now there is an apparent tendency toward making progress backward in connection with the schools. It is certainly very gratifying to know of the large attendance at the County Academy. This is gratifying to the citizens of Truro as well as to those men who, in the School Board and on the Academy staff have controlled the destiny of this institution until now it needs take second place to none. Such men who, like the chairman of the board, R. J. Traig, and Commissioner R. T. Cairn, have had a considerable number of years of experience in the business of caring for the schools may be trusted to see that no backward step is made. While they yield to none in their efforts to have the town's money well expended, yet they are aware that no money can be more wisely spent than that which is used in keeping up the efficiency of the schools. There are other members of the board, who have not served so long but who nevertheless are quite as eager to step upward and upward even if the aggregate cost is greater. They appreciate that the aggregate revenue is each year much greater when the aggregate attendance at the schools is great. This, however, does not complete the list of types of school commissioners. There is unfortunately a type, who are ever armed with a white and a pairing knife and whenever an expenditure is to be considered, the only question raised is how it can be lessened. The matter of the results of the expenditure is not regarded. This is not as it should be. The efficiency of the money expended should be the ultimate test of the propriety of voting it. If this is the test, then the Board of School Commissioners should see to it that the staff of the County Academy is so increased that the efficiency of the instruction there given be increased rather than suffer it to be diminished. Another lady teacher is required at once to take charge of some of the lower classes. This will cost each citizen of Truro at the most ten cents a year. Who among us will permit any loss of efficiency when this is the price? D. E. E.

REV. MR. McLEOD ACCEPTS.

At a meeting of the Truro Presbytery Tuesday for the purpose of considering the call from the church at Cornwall, Ontario, to Rev. A. B. McLeod, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Truro, the reverend gentleman accepted. A strong commission from St. Andrew's was present and earnestly opposed the call to their talented and beloved pastor.

Dartmouth was also about to give Rev. Mr. McLeod a call. Rev. Dr. P. A. McLeod was appointed interim moderator of St. Andrew's.

Visited The West.

(From the Crossfield Alberta Chronicle.)

On Tuesday Mr. Arthur T. Parker paid a last visit to the Chronicle office and gave the following report on Crossfield and district: "For the last two years, at least, I have received letters from my brother, Mr. F. R. Parker, who has been living in Crossfield and vicinity to come out west and visit the country, especially Crossfield. I seriously gave the matter a thought, and a little over a month ago, arrived in Crossfield, and found that things were really better in general than had been explained to me. I stayed in the town for a few days and then began my journey to go about the province, visiting a number of the towns, and also the two cities, Calgary and Edmonton. This, of course, took up about two weeks of my time.

Since then I have visited both in and about the country of Crossfield, for many miles east and west, and taking things from a general standpoint, can find no place which can compare with it. About a week ago I came up from Calgary with my brother, Mr. F. R. Parker, and then drove over to the village of Acme, which is so much talked of. Things seemed fairly good around that part of the country. Not only did the crops look fairly good, but cattle and horses and everything one can speak of, were in fine condition, considering the year which the people have had to contend with. However, I made this trip for more of an inspection of the country than for anything else, though, to get acquainted as well.

Since returning from Acme I have become personally acquainted with a large number of Crossfield residents, whom I shall never forget, and also with a large number of the farmers, whom I have visited when out on shooting trips.

Speaking the truth, I will state that the Nova Scotia crops cannot beat the Alberta grain harvest around Crossfield.

On Friday evening last I was up to a dance held here, and can say that I could not have enjoyed myself better; finding people very sociable and jovial. On Saturday, however, I felt the effects of a good time, but, which will make one always remember the days when I was in Crossfield."

Mr. Parker expects to leave Alberta about the 10th of this month for his home in Shubenacadie, N. S., stopping off at Winnipeg, Man., a short while.

Bishop Opposed to Teaching Two Languages.

Ontario has a school fess. Bishop Fallon, of London, is opposed to bi-lingual schools, and for the reasons has been much attacked by the extreme wing of the English-Canadian press in Quebec. Recently Bishop Fallon and Hon. Mr. Hanna, provincial secretary, had a conversation respecting the matter. Hon. Mr. Hanna sent notes in this conversation to Hon. Dr. Reaume, minister of education, who is of French descent. These notes were taken from Hon. Mr. Hanna's private file and shortly afterwards appeared in French-Canadian papers hostile to the bishop, who is of Irish descent. He expressed the inference that a French Canadian clerk in the office of Hon. Dr. Reaume in a long published statement Bishop Fallon exonerates Hon. Mr. Hanna and praises the premier, Sir James Whitney, for his prompt action in the matter, who on learning what took place caused the dismissal of the clerk who took the notes and gave them to the press. He does not, however, exonerate Hon. Dr. Reaume. In his statement Bishop Fallon has the teaching of French in the schools:

"Bilingual System a Failure.
"But on the main issue Mr. Hanna stated my views with absolute exactness, and I desire now to reaffirm them. The alleged bilingual system of education as it prevails in certain parts of the province of Ontario is absolutely futile as concerning the teaching of either English or French, and utterly hostile to the best interests of the children of both English and French. Let me cite a few facts culled from a multitude that I collected on my tour through the diocese of London.

"The French-Canadian parishes of Belle River, Big Point, French Settlement, McGregor, Ruscombe, Staples, Stoney Point, Faincourt and Tilbury, with upwards of two thousand children on the roll, passed a total of ten pupils in the recent entrance examinations. It is the loudest noise comes regarding my insistence that these conditions are a disgrace. If the separate schools in these districts are bad, the public schools, also under the alleged bi-lingual system are worse.

"For the above-mentioned nine districts, the public schools succeeded in getting seven children through the entrance examinations, of which Tilbury furnished four, McGregor, Big Point and Faincourt each one, and the others none. And I could cite many other instances of equal efficiency. All these facts have been supplied by the pastors of the parishes I have named.

"The fault is not with the children or with the teachers. It is with the system, and it is against the system, and the threatened extension of it that I protest. I have my protest on the right of children to an education that will give them a standing in the community in which they are to live, and that will open up to them the avenues of success. As things stand now, these children will either remain where they are, and then they will be moved to Quebec, or they will move to Quebec, to be classed as renegades because they do not know French, or they will go elsewhere to be hewers of wood and drawers of water because they do not know English.

"Education in Essex Backward.
"Essex stands lowest educationally among the nine counties that constitute the diocese of London. Everything flourishes there except education. The land is heavy with rich harvests, choice fruits, a generation of uneducated children. One would almost be inclined to believe in the existence of a well-contrived conspiracy among the enemies of the French-Canadian people to prevent them in a position of self-perpetuating intellectual inferiority.

"To the contention that language is the guardian of faith, I reply that it is a strange faith that would be preserved by the kind of English and French that is taught in the alleged bi-lingual school of Essex. Catholicity and ignorance are convertible terms.

"No better proof can be offered than this that this deplorable condition is attributable to the bi-lingual system than a brief consideration of the results of the entrance examination in the separate schools of a few other sections of the diocese of London. In the little town of Godrich, from which I am sending out this letter, the separate school, which has fewer than 70 pupils on its roll, passed seven children at the present year; Dublin, with 73 children passed six; Ingersoll, an equal number; Sarnia passed eleven with one boy heading the list for the county of Lambton; St. Thomas passed twenty; Stratford, eighteen, Woodstock five and one of its pupils took first place in North Oxford, and City of London with six hundred pupils in its separate schools passed 41.

Wedding Bells.

Smith-Purdy.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Purdy, of Halifax, Cumberland Co., was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, Oct. 12th, when their eldest daughter, Annie Beatrice, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick W. Smith. The bride was becomingly attired in white silk with lace and chiffon trimmings, wearing a bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of roses. The bridegroom wore a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Indoe, the bridal couple standing under a large floral arch and bell. The groom was attended by Mr. D. B. Stewart, cousin of the bride. After a sumptuous tea, a very pleasant evening was spent and amid showers of rice and confetti the happy couple for their home at Westchester. The bride received many pretty and useful presents. The following is the list:—
Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Purdy, cash; Mr. Laurie and Miss Myra Purdy, cut glass punch bowl; Mr. W. J. and Marion Purdy, asbestos iron; Miss Alice J. Purdy, cushion top; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Smith, cash; Mr. Russell and Percy Smith, hall lamp; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Smith, silver tea set; Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Payzant, silver berry spoon; Mr. and Mrs. James Purdy, cash; Mr. and Mrs. Lou Hill, cash; Miss Julia Purdy, towels; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Purdy, chocolate set; Mrs. Ruby Carter, cash; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Stewart, half dozen silver knives and forks; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stewart, silver butter dish and hand worked centerpiece; Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Jackson, glass berry set; Master Ewart P. Jackson, silver berry spoon; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Jackson, silver berry tray; Miss Grace Jackson, silver berry spoon; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Williams, half dozen tea spoons; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Giles, cash; Mr. and Mrs. T. Stewart, silver top syrup jug; Mr. D. B. Stewart, half doz. silver tea spoons; Mr. J. A. Stewart, silver top marmalade jar; Mrs. Marjorie McKim, vase; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Purdy, table cloth; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wood, half doz. silver tea spoons; Mr. F. Johnson, glass water set; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bragg, pair blankets and burnt-work cushion top; Mr. Walter and Miss Lillie Ryan, four piece china set; Mrs. Ruth Deane, lamp; Mr. and Mrs. N. S. L. Legge, carving set; Miss Flora Thompson, hand worked centerpiece; Mr. and Mrs. Noble Wood, cash.

NECK RESISTS FOUR TONS.
Truck Runs Over Lad; He Gets Up and Walks Away.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 21.
Ten-year-old Charles Feinel, while playing in front of his home, slipped and fell in front of a four-ton truck used for transporting structural steel. A front wheel passed over his neck. He got up and walked away as if nothing had happened. Physicians who examined him could find no injury—not even a bruise.

HUNGRY WIFE RUINING HIM.
Asks Divorce from Woman Who Eats Six Pounds of Beef Daily.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 21.
Saying that his wife, Christine, ate six pounds of beef a day and about fifteen pounds of vegetables, Alec Sanderson, a burly Norwegian, went to Superior Court Judge Tallman and asked for a divorce. Mrs. Sanderson is twenty-six years of age, six feet high, and weighs 350 pounds. She has a wonderful appetite, and according to her husband, it costs him more to feed her than he is able to earn. He has watched her eat up all the beef, steak, potatoes and bread and still be hungry so many times that his own form has dwindled to 124 pounds. Sanderson is a bricklayer by trade and earns about $100 a month the year around, but his meat bill is $75 a month.

MARITIME HORSES LOWERED RECORDS.

Peter Carroll of Halifax led the drivers in total winnings in the 7 days meet at the N. S. Provincial Exhibition, his horses having won $912.50. Frank Boutlier came next with $815. The total amount paid out in premiums was $8,907.50, less about $3,007.50 paid in entrance fees. Nova Scotia leads in winnings with $2,292.50, of which $1,772.50 was won in Halifax.

During the meeting 35 mile heats were trotted or paced, 20 of which were in 2:20 or better; 30 in 2:30 or better, one in 2:41.1 and one in 2:43.1.2. The 2-year-old colt record for the Maritime Provinces was lowered to 2:30 by Achilles 4-6-Great, and the 4-year-old record for a stallion bred in the province was lowered by P. K. to 2:19.1.4. Three horses were in the 2:20 list, and three got in the 2:30 list—Exchange.

PEARL LIKE WOMAN'S FOOT.

Freah Gem is Found in a Wisconsin Clam Bed.
LA CROSSE, Wis., Oct. 21.—William Scherrer, a local pearl hunter, has found in a clam shell a pearl-slug which is an exact reproduction of a woman's foot, showing the five perfectly formed toes, and even a small corn on the little toe. Clarence Johnson, a professional clam and pearl hunter, declares the clam beds of the Mississippi River in this section have been practically ruined by the operations of thousands of people who sought pearls, owing to the availability of the clams during the extremely low water. He declares it may take several years to restore the beds to their normal condition.

DEATH OF HUGH JACKSON.

Word comes from the West, from away out about Rat Portage, that conductor, had passed away. He entered the service of the old Nova Scotia Railway about 45 years ago and ran one of the first way-tons. When the road was opened north of Moncton in 1876 he was transferred to the northern division, but resigned and went West about sixteen years ago. For a time he conducted a hotel at Rat Portage.

CON. FRED DAVIDSON III.

The very many friends of Conductor Fred Davidson regret his illness. He has been confined to his house for some days, but is better. Freddie, as he is familiarly called, is one of the good old guard. He began his railway career fully forty years ago with the Nova Scotia. When the road opened under construction through Nova Scotia. When the road opened he entered the train service, and a few years later ran on Nos. 1 and 2 between Truro and Moncton with the late Conductor G. O. Donkin. Mr. W. J. Dickson, now Conductor Dickson, was his mate. It was all hand breaking those days. For the last fifteen or sixteen years he has run what is known as the Truro local. It is interesting to note that during the last forty years this train has been in charge, barring of course, occasional layoffs, of but three conductors, namely the late James Geldert, the late W. H. Donkin, and Mr. Davidson.

THE ASSESSORS.

The assessors were doing business in ward three this week.

Veterans of The Rail.

Another tie that bound us to the past in railway life in Nova Scotia, particularly the I. R. C., has been severed. Conductor William Gunn's career in that respect could be told in the daily toil, and incidents of forty years on the rail. If we are not mistaken Mr. Gunn three years after Confederation, and three years before the old Nova Scotia Railway, Halifax to Truro (and Pictou Landing), and can, St. John to Point Du Chateau, were merged into the I. R. C. by the opening up of the missing link between Truro and Painesic Junction.

"Billy" Gunn, as he was familiarly called, was a first class railway man. No squarer man ever wore the "blue" or carried the "funch" on the I. R. C. His men always got a square deal, but he would not stand for shirking. He insisted on every man doing his share, and when there was more than they took hold with a vim. We speak from experience. He has well earned his rest, and The Citizen joins with his hosts of friends in the wish that he may be long spared to enjoy it.

FOR DRESSING HOGS.

Hog raising has become such an important branch of the farmer's work, he wanted so well to note care for the hogs—because of legal provisions—now demand that the lungs, liver and heart of the animal should be left with the carcass, preclude disease if any may exist. And they are willing to pay for it from a letter from a city buyer to a local purchaser will be self-explanatory.

"After the 17th inst., I will not be able to take any hogs unless they are dressed for inspection, heart left attached to the carcass and by the natural fat attachments. It carefully to the farmers about this, as I will be compelled to refuse shipments if they do not comply with this. When dressing the hog, the farmer can loosen these organs without cutting the natural attachments, he can wash the neck out of the carcass. When hogs are hung up after dressing, it will be best to have the organs hanging beside the chine, so that the neck and shoulders will get a chance to cool.

"It may be a little bother to get the farmers to dress their hogs this way at first, but I am prepared to pay full price on the gross weight to get them for a time, in order to get an advanced price from 25¢ to 40¢ per 100, and as it is of no more trouble for the farmer to dress the way, I should think you would have no difficulty whatever in getting the hogs dressed the way we want them."—Pictou Advocate.

A Simple Request.

Backward, turn backward, O Time, Make me a boy again, just for tonight. Give me a go at the food that they fry. Let me make bold with a green apple pie, and with my innocent rest. Then let me sink to what I digest. Free from all care as to what I eat. Confident, even in moments of pain, That mustard or ginger will soothe me again. Fain would I seek with a juvenile zest. The cupboard instead of the medicine chest. And drink from the spring where the germs roam at will, Instead of from crystal, drafts foam ing or still. Give me not wealth nor the badge of the proud, Nor a place on the platform, high over the crowd. But give me, or give me my old appetite, Make me a boy again just for tonight! —Washington Star.

The above are natural questions to ask the "B. B. B." Club, and fortunately they are not very hard to answer, at least in part.

"Dedage" Makes Declaration of Faith.

(By Dedage.) The statement made by Rev. Father Vaughn, one of the leading Roman Catholic clergymen of England, during a sermon preached by him in Montreal in connection with the great Eucharist Congress there, "Protestantism is a soulless religion" has stirred up much heart burnings, especially in Protestant circles. So far as I am concerned, Father Vaughn has a perfect right to his opinion, and a perfect right to express them. I do not have to accept them.

I yield in my Protestantism to no person, and in holding to that belief I do not care what opinions others may hold in respect to the matter. With me it is a question of conscience. So long as that inward monitor harmonizes with that belief I am satisfied, for by that I know I am at least honest in the belief. I have a perfect right to my beliefs and I concede to others the right to their beliefs in that respect, but I do not want them to try and force their beliefs on me, nor do I wish to force my beliefs on them.

I believe in God, and in Christ, His Son. That Christ is the great example, and that if I believe in Him as an example my religion cannot be soulless. I may err in my practical belief by not following His example to the utmost of my ability, and in fact I do err in that respect. Perhaps there is not much creed about the above, but then I am not strong on creed. It to my mind, is not the fundamental principle of Christianity, and a condemning creed. It is essential instead of dragging them to and from Moncton, a distance of nearly two hundred miles. We understand that heavy repairs, general overhauling must be done at Moncton in the near and up to date shops. With sufficient mechanical help at Halifax and Truro many repairs could be made that are now passed over because the engines cannot be spared to go to Moncton. No we should not pass over, but make shift repairs, patching done, just to tide over an emergency. The best possible is done under the circumstances. But there is limit to that sort of repairing, and it will be reached sooner or later, culminating perhaps in loss of life or maiming. We know that the employees in the shops at Halifax and Truro are doing all in their power to keep the locomotives moving, but they cannot perform miracles.

It is a question, with the I. R. C. has become a party question. It has become a party question, the people of the Maritime Provinces and a part of the Province of Quebec. They should rise as one people, irrespective of politics, and demand a change of policy in that respect. If there are representatives at Ottawa from these provinces who are afraid of embarrassing the government by standing up in their places and demanding a change, then they are not representing their constituencies. They should resign and give the people a chance to send men there who are not afraid to demand justice. The time has arrived to cease fooling, trifling with this question of the I. R. C.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE TO OTHER MOTHERS.

Mrs. Nicholas Bream, Rogersville, N. B., writes: "I can highly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers whose little ones are constipated. I gave my little girl the Tablets and they regulated her bowels and now she sleeps well, eats well, is fat and good all the time. I am really delighted with the Tablets and I always keep them in the house and as soon as my little girl becomes troubled or feverish I give her the Tablets and she is soon well again. Please send me another box for they are the very best medicine I know of for little ones." The Tablets are sold under a guarantee to contain nothing injurious to even the youngest child. Sold at 25 cents a box by all medicine dealers, or from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Here's A Chance For Practical Christian Work

(Continued from first page.) After this unfortunate young man was released from his term in jail earlier in the year he came to the living and asked him if he could do something for him by way of getting him legitimate work. He stated that he did not wish to engage in the liquor business. We were not able to offer him employment, but we spoke to others in his behalf, but none of those spoken to either could not offer him employment or were not sufficiently interested to use their influence with others to do so, with the result that he did not get employment, and having to earn a living he drifted back into the old business, and as a result it is again in the toils.

He is an intelligent young man and a graduate of a certain well known institution in which he learned the willow work and brush making arts. These trades, he told the writer on several occasions, he would follow if he could secure sufficient funds to start him in business. He comes of poor but honest parents. His father, well advanced in years, is a hard working man. Some time ago while engaged at his daily toil he met with an accident by which he lost the sight of one of his eyes, but having recovered he is again about his daily work. A daughter is partially crippled. There are those better able to work a charge on the town. But not her. With honest independence she is earning her living.

But to return to the young man. Is this not a case of much law and little if any gospel? We are not excusing his violation of the laws of his country; have no intention of doing so. By and by he will be released again. Shall he go back to the old way of earning a living, or will he join with the writer in helping him to a better way? Opportunity to do some practical work in the name of the Master is at your door. Think it over.

FROM SIERRA LEONE TO CANADA WITHOUT ADDRESS

National Drug Co. Receive Unusual and Amusing Letter.

The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, have just received a letter from the West Coast of Africa which reached its proper destination although addressed in an extremely vague manner. The writer was evidently a native with an imperfect knowledge of English. The letter was written by a member of the 2nd West India Regiment and is as follows: Sierra Leone, West Africa.

Dear Sir,—With congratulations, I address you these few lines. May it find you enjoying good time and health at present. Sir, I have received your letter. I notice the contents. Please send me one box of your Gin Pills, 2-ld. I want try it and if do me good, I will back very early. While I am yours truly same.

A. O. GREEN,
B. Company, 2 W.I.R.

The envelope bears only the following inscription: National Drug & Co. of Canada, Ltd., 27-29 Wellington St., West.

There is no town, city or country mentioned in the letter, and it was sent from the postoffice in Sierra Leone to England, as shown by the postmark, and forwarded to Plymouth, thence to Montreal, reaching this city on August 31st, only twenty-one days after being written in West Africa.

THOMAS WADE DEAD AT AGE OF 102 YEARS.

The death occurred on Tuesday night, at his residence, Coburn Road, near Winsor Junction, of Thomas Wade, of the ripe old age of 102. He was born in Dartmouth, N. S., in 1808, and when about 13 years of age left for Musquodoboit Valley, where he spent 50 years in farming.

He then married and lived on the Fall River Road for thirty years. His wife passed away in 1885, and in 1900 he married a Mrs. Smith, a widow, who still survives to mourn her loss. The deceased was a law-abiding citizen, and spent the latter part of his life as a hunter and guide, at which he was very well known.

In 1902 he united with the Baptist Church, and until his death he remained a very loyal Christian, his highest desires being to see the work of the church progressing.

The funeral takes place from his late residence this afternoon, at 2.30. Interment at the Baptist cemetery.—Morning Chronicle, 20th.

The editor of this paper pleasantly associates with his boyhood days many memories of this good old colored man.

Wish Him Success.
Mr. John Deull, in the office of Mr. H. A. Dickie this town for some time, and who was recently admitted to the bar of Nova Scotia, has opened up an office in the Bank of New Brunswick building, New Glasgow. While in Truro Mr. Deull made many friends, who wish him every success in his profession.

Couldn't Pay His Fare, Poor Man

Hon. George P. Graham, Canada's minister of railways, is known all over the Dominion as a man who loves a joke, and there was little jest at his own expense the other day that nobody enjoyed more than the minister himself.

Mr. Graham was travelling from Ottawa to Toronto, and was chatting with the minister of railways, when the conductor came along. Tickets were collected all round and the conductor came to the minister of railways. Of course he was quite unaware of that gentleman's identity, but it didn't make any difference, even when he was enlightened.

Mr. Graham felt in his pocket for his railway pass. It wasn't there. Again he made the search of his pockets, while the conductor stood impatiently before him. In vain. The minister of railways informed the conductor that he was the minister of railways of all canals.

No use. "It makes no difference to me who you are," said the official. "You must give me a ticket or show me a pass."

Committed Suicide.

The body of Louis G. Restelli, the Italian who murdered his mother and Henry E. Hardwick, in Quincy, Mass., July 29, and afterwards made such a laughing stock of North Sydney's police, was found in Merrymount quarry at Quincy, Friday. The Merrymount quarry, where the body was found, was owned formerly by Andrew Ericson. It is at the end of Carroll's lane, about half a mile away from the office of the Hardwick Brothers. The fact that Restelli had with two bundles, was seen going in the direction of the quarry the day before the tragedies, led the police to drag the quarry. The body when found had a bullet hole in the neck. A belt around the waist contained two 32-calibre revolvers and a dirk knife. The wrists were handcuffed, and a temporary bush hammer. It is supposed that the articles for weighting his body were taken to the quarry by Restelli in the bundles which he was seen to have the day before.

It was the fact that hardly an hour passed for two weeks after the shooting but that someone reported, having seen the Italian somewhere in New England or New York state, and he was followed, as far away as Cape Breton, where the self-constituted "detective" who claimed to have tracked Restelli was later found with his throat cut.—Ex.

The man that Mr. Warnock, of Boston, en route to Tatamouche to look after some mining property thought he had as a fellow passenger. As a result of Mr. Warnock's suspicion the Truro police searched the Ocean Limited on its arrival here that day.

THE SPEEDY ONES.

The Truro long distance runners are doing stunts these days getting in form for the Herald's Thanksgiving Day race at Halifax, Monday, October 31st. Having yesterday afternoon did the Onslow circuit in record time. A stiff wind was blowing and the roads after Thursday night's rain were in anything but good condition.

OCTOBER ROD AND GUN.

Big game hunting is to be fore in the October issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. V. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont. and sportsmen intending to try their fortunes in the woods this season will find the number particularly attractive. Moose, deer, grizzlies, mountain lions and other animals are all told about and both stories and illustrations are bound to find responsive echoes with all hunters. In each case the experiences related are personal and therefore far more interesting than any imaginary tales. In addition to big game stories there are numerous attractive papers dealing with other phases of outdoor life and both the east and west of Canada receive attention in this way. A finely illustrated account of the Dominion trap-shooting meet at Montreal is included. Canadian sportsmen may take up this issue, confident of finding within its pages something to interest them whatever may be their particular inclination in matters of sport. The variety of ground covered is remarkable and probably accounts for the continued and wide interest around by the Magazine in the sporting advantages and possibilities of Canada.

FOR MUNICIPAL CHURCH.

Winnipeg Speaker Advocated the Idea Before Ministerial Association.
WINNIPEG, October 21.—At the Ministerial Association session, which opened here Monday, Mr. T. D. Patton, in a paper entitled, "The Municipal Church," quoted the Lutheran idea that the community should be Christian and its organizations also. The church should take up all the work for the betterment of humanity now carried on by charitable agencies. Mr. Patton also advocated an employment bureau in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association.

DEATH QUERY HOW LATE.

"Are You Dead Yet?" is Inscription on Postcard.

DUBLIN, Ind., Oct. 21.—"Are you dead yet?" was the inquiry written on a postcard addressed to John W. Mart at Marion. The card arrived just one hour after the death of Mart. It was sent by Carl McPherson of South Bend, an old friend. The two had not met for some time. Mart was a conductor employed by the Indiana Union Traction Company.

PREFERS LION TO WIFE.

Henpecked Trainer Seeks Refuge in Animal Den.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 21.—Rather than face his angry spouse when he came back to their tent at the State fair intoxicated, James Swenson, a lion tamer, crawled into the cage with one of his lions, slept all night, his head poked out of the cage. In the morning Mrs. Swenson instigated a search for her recalcitrant spouse with a tent stake. With a job of the stake she awakened the animal tamer. "Forward," she hissed at him, as he snuggled up to the lion out of reach of the stick.

WEDDING, THEN FUNERAL.

Preacher Ties Pair White on Way to Cemetery.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 21.—On the way to the cemetery from the church where he had just officiated at funeral obsequies, the Rev. B. W. Mercer left the procession for the purpose of marrying a couple who were in a hurry. The happy couple was W. W. Davis, aged eighty, of Nicholson, and Mrs. Lucinda Kidwell, aged forty, of Athens. It was the fourth plunge into matrimonial seas for the bridegroom and the second for the bride. The preacher left the funeral cortege when he reached the post-office, went in, married the couple in three minutes, and then getting back into his carriage, followed the funeral procession at a rapid pace, catching up with it just before it reached the cemetery.

INCOME $10,000,000 SHORT.

Germany's Revenue Will Compel Rigid Economy.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—According to the Lokalanzeiger, as a result of Ministerial conferences it has been decided not to introduce new Imperial taxation before the elections next autumn, and for the present the government will trust to rigorous economy in all departments to make expenditure and revenue balance. The Journal considers the possibility of this, however, to be highly problematical, and adds that from statistical returns published here it appears probable, judging by the first five months of the fiscal year, that the revenue from the new taxes in 1909 will fall short of the estimates by $10,750,000.

FATHER SELLS BOY FOR $25.

Deal May Stand, as Purchaser Wants to Adopt Child.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 21.—Joseph Kaninski, four years old, was sold recently by his father to August Schrimo, Kaninski's employer, for $25. The sale may stand. Mrs. Schrimo displayed the bill of sale in court and asked to make a legal adoption. As Kaninski is often in jail, Mrs. Schrimo explained that she first took charge of the boy when the father was serving a jail sentence.

CAT MEAT IS CALLED FINE.

Has a Flavor Found in No Other Animal.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21.—A little more than two weeks ago Edward Sanders, No. 5712 Hamlet Ave., bought a big Tom cat for twenty-five cents. Today Sanders would have to pay $1 for the same cat. Young men of the neighborhood of East Sixteenth street and Hinds avenue organized a secret society called the Cats Jammers. Headquarters are at No. 3402 East Sixty-sixth Street. "After you have once overcome aversion to the meat you can relish it more than venison or squab."

TRIES TO STOP BAPTISM.

Husband-Thrives into Pond, but Woman is Immersed.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The baptism of a woman in the village pond of Downham by the minister was interrupted in an unexpected manner by the woman's husband. A large crowd had assembled to witness the ceremony, but the name of the candidate had been withheld, and when the wife of a well known man in the village followed the minister into the water there was general surprise. Apparently no one was more surprised than the woman's husband, who was standing in his garden, which runs almost down to the edge of the pond. Exclaiming that he would not allow the ceremony, he climbed the fence and entered the pond, but too late to prevent the minister immersing his wife. He continued to protest, while the three stood in the water. He was induced to depart by his brother and a constable.

SKIRTS WIDER.

That is the problem of Women in Fashion Centres.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The problem to be decided is that of the proper width of skirts. The general belief is that they will be wider. Some of the newest winter models, not yet seen by the public generally, show this effect. One smart tailor made of deep red-wine color, and which, by the way, is to be a comparatively speaking wide skirt. It measured one and one-half yards around. The jacket was time ago, for wet during the coming winter, was seen in the folds and pippings of velvet of a deeper tone, and which is to replace the braidings so long in use.

LARGEST ICE CAVE.

Nearly Mile and Half Long, With Great 700-Foot Walls.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—An ice cave, which turned out to be the largest in the world, has been discovered within the last few days in the Hohe Tauern Mountains, near Obertraun, on the lake of Hallstatt. Scientific investigation has been made, and the cave is found to be nearly a mile and a half in length. It consists of an upper and lower group of grottoes, the largest of which is about two and one-half miles in length. Many interesting prehistoric objects have also been found.

RESTORE PALACE.

Memory of King Edward May Thus Be Honored.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 21.—This city has suggested that as a memorial to King Edward the ascendant Stuart Palace of Holyrood, so closely associated with the unhappy Queen of Scots, should be completely restored and made habitable. There is every reason to believe that both the King and the Queen would be willing to spend a week every year at Edinburgh and hold a court or ball in its interesting old palace, if it were properly restored. A representative committee with Lord Rosebery at its head, has already been formed and the Edinburgh society women are already talking breathlessly of brilliant court functions.

TOWN SELLS ITS JAIL.

Buyer Has it Moved to His Back Yard for Chicken Coop.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Oct. 21.—So law-abiding have the people of Greene, Butler county, become that they have no more use for the city jail. Senator Wade of the State Board of Control was a visitor at Greene on Friday and while there saw a tractor engine puffing through the streets pulling behind it the city jail, which had been placed on trucks.

TOWN SELLS ITS JAIL.

Buyer Has it Moved to His Back Yard for Chicken Coop.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Oct. 21.—So law-abiding have the people of Greene, Butler county, become that they have no more use for the city jail. Senator Wade of the State Board of Control was a visitor at Greene on Friday and while there saw a tractor engine puffing through the streets pulling behind it the city jail, which had been placed on trucks. "That was a spectacle," a person doesn't see very often," a person observed the Senator. "I inquired what they were going to do with the building, and they told me that some enterprising citizen had purchased it from the city for a chicken house. For department I suppose Greene deserves the medal."

TREED 2 HOURS BY MOOSE.

Fisherman Takes to Timber, and Angry Bull Keeps Vigil.

CODY, Wyo., Oct. 21.—Chased by an angry bull moose while returning from the National Park, Ralph Judson of this place, sought refuge in a tree, and was held a prisoner two hours. "Knowing the moose's dangerous disposition at this season, Judson made for the timber and climbed a tree to safety. After waiting at the foot of the tree for two hours the moose finally disappeared. Owing to the closed season on moose these animals are becoming numerous in this region."

GIRL BEARS BODY HOME.

Hunting Victim in Wheelbarrow, She Trudges Miles.

TRaverse CITY, Mich., Oct. 21.—When the twelve-year-old son of Adam Lockhart, a farmer, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting, Alice Nugent, Front, a young girl, placed his body in a wheelbarrow and trudged several miles to the home of the boy's parents.

Goes Hunting at Age of 103.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Two men who are believed to be the oldest hunters in the State have taken out hunting licenses at the office of City Clerk Taylor here. They are James Nicholas Vann, of Mount Hope, 103 years of age, and Theodor Hill of Pine Bush, who is 83.

Worthy The Name of Sir Knight.

(By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.) Sir Knight of the world's oldest order. You have crossed the strange mystical border. The ground floor of truth you have trod; You have entered the sanctum sanctorum. Which leads to the temple above; Where you come as a stone, and a Christ-omen one, In the Kingdom of Friendship and Love.

To live for a cause; to endeavor To make your deeds grace it; to try And uphold its precepts forever. Is harder by far than to die. For the battle of life is unending. The enemy, Self, never tires, And the true Knight must slay that self every day. Ere he reaches the heights he desires.

As you stand in this new realm of beauty, Where each man you meet is your friend. Think not that your promise of duty, In hall, or asylum, shall end. Outside, in the great world of pleasure, Beyond in the clamor of trade, In the battle of life and its coarse daily strife, Remember the vows you have made.

Sir Knight, have you pondered the meaning Of all you have heard and been told? Have you strengthened your heart for its weaning From vices and faults loved of old? Will you honor, in hours of temptation, Your promise noble and grand? Will your spirit be strong to do battle with wrong, And, having done all, to stand?

Your service, majestic and solemn. Your symbols, suggestive and sweet. Your uniformed phalanx in column In gala days marching the street; Your sword and your plume and your helmet, Your "secrets" hid from the world's sight; These things are the small, lesser parts of the all Which are needed to form the true Knight.

The world's battlefield is before you. Let wisdom walk close by your side. Let faith spread her snowy wings o'er you, Let Truth be your comrade and guide. Let Fortitude, Justice and Mercy Direct all your conduct aright, And let each word and act tell to men the proud fact, That you are worthy the name of "Sir Knight."

HYPOCHLORITE TREATMENT OF WATER AT CHICAGO. (Issued by direction of the committee on Press and Co-operating Organizations, Commission of Conservation, Ottawa. Bulletin No. 62, Oct. 10, 1910.) The attention of the public, as well as health and municipal authorities, has been directed during the past few months to the purification of water by means of the addition of small, very small quantities of hypochlorite of calcium, otherwise known as chloride of lime. We have been led to believe the process is a very simple one; indeed so simple that a child might almost direct the treatment. It is true that in case of emergency, municipal and health authorities may, under the direction of a sanitary engineer, improvise the means for the application of the hypochlorite and thus prevent outbreaks of typhoid fever when the water is sewage polluted; but for the proper and scientific installation, as well as for the oversight and management, expert services give the best results, and where a municipality will pay for the services of an expert, the expenditure is more than compensated for by the results obtained. These facts are clearly shown by the work and operation of what is known as the Bubbly Creek Water Purification Plant of the Union Stock Yard and Transit Co. at Chicago, which has been in operation for nearly two years. The following information, description of it is taken from the report of C. A. Jennings, chief chemist and superintendent of filtration. First, as to the class of water. Bubbly Creek receives the sewage of some 350,000 people, the population of the city of Montreal, and a larger population than the city of Toronto. The normal size of the creek is not given but the bacterial results, for a period of twelve months show the maximum to have been 2,350,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter (about 18 drops), while the minimum was 30,000—the average being 394,000 per cubic centimeter. Without entering into the details, it may be said that the plant consists of pumps, a canal, two parts of the sedimentation system, two parts of settling basins and mechanical filters. From these latter the treated water flows into the clear-water well and from thence it is supplied to the stock yards. Consequently upon the close and intelligent oversight maintained, various changes have been made both in the operation of the plant and in the chemicals used in the treatment of the water. These can be learned in detail by reference to the "Engineering Record" of September 24th, 1910. At the present time, the coagulant used is sulphate of alumina, a solution of a strength of 3.3 per cent. being used. Subsequently hypochlorite solution of the strength of 1.2 per cent. is added, after which the water passes through the filters and is then ready for use.

SLEEP IS ONE BEST MEDICINES.

BY GRAHAM HOOD.

THERE are those who affirm that sleep is to so great an extent a habit that one can break himself of the practice of spending more than a limited number of hours in bed. They will attempt to prove their assertions by pointing to the few men of eminence who have been able to get along very nicely with but a few hours' sleep in each twenty-four, but if you are wise you will not be deluded by such sophistry.

It may be possible to sleep too much, but—except in cases of the sleeping sickness—I have yet to hear of such an authentic case. The human body needs a certain amount of rest, and when it has had enough it is very ready to say so. For example, if you have been economizing somewhat in the matter of sleep—have been staying up so late at night that there was no opportunity to secure the usual amount of sleep before the rising bell in the morning—it is possible that you might go to bed very early for several nights and sleep right through until the usual time for waking. At last, however, the time will come when your sleep has been made up. Then nature will attend to the matter herself. She will wake you earlier than usual and will insist that you do not go to sleep again. The simple fact is that you have had sleep enough for the time being, and can now adjust yourself to regular habits once more.

Those who sleep eight hours in each twenty-four live longer and keep their health better than those who sleep only six or seven hours. Seven hours might do in an emergency, but six hours is too short a period for sleep. Eight hours is best, but insist upon having at least seven. Anything less than that means the accumulation of conditions that are certain to result in disaster sooner or later. If you are feeling ill, or even "out of sorts," sleep all you can. If you can take a day at home it is the height of wisdom to spend it in bed, sleeping just as often and for as long a time as nature will permit. Good physicians realize that sleep is one of the greatest of remedial forces, and they give strict orders that the patient shall not be wakened, even to receive medicine. They realize that the healing power of sleep is greater than that of any drug that is known to the modern system of medicine, and as long as the sick person can sleep naturally they have hope for his recovery.

The quickest way to cure a bold jay to spend a day in bed. The easiest way to recover from any ail is to let sleep supply the remedy. Help nature all you can—with hot baths and the right sorts of food and drink—but let sleep be the master physician, and recovery will not be long delayed. One of the youngest old men I ever knew made it a rule of life to devote a few minutes to sleep every afternoon. Not all of us are so situated that we can carry this rule into practice, but where it is possible it is a good habit to acquire. The man to whom I refer closes the door of his private office at a certain hour each afternoon, and for fifteen minutes he is not "at home" to anybody. They may wait for him if they like, but not one of his office men would dream of interrupting his daily nap. He assures me that his ability to ward off the ravages of old age is due to the fact that he has always taken a nap during the day. I have no doubt that there is a basis of truth in the theory, for even the briefest period of sleep has a recuperative effect that cannot be attained in any other way.

Those who know President Taft most intimately assert that the reason why he never gets tired is that he has learned the value of sleep. He has the ability to go to sleep easily, and he exercises it at every opportunity. Whenever he gets a chance he takes a nap, and though he may sleep but a minute or two he derives much strength from the brief repose. All this goes to show that there is little reason why we should be afraid of sleeping too much, but that there is every reason why we should strive not to sleep too little. The man who gets into such a condition that he can't sleep is the man who needs looking after, not the man who can put in eight hours or more of healthful sleep each night and who is still able to take a fifteen minute nap during the day.

THE BIGGEST ELEVATORS IN THE WORLD. It is really astonishing to read about the way the wheat crop of Western Canada is poured each fall through the elevators of the Twin Cities on Lake Superior—Fort William and Port Arthur. Last year 43,000,000 bushels out of a crop of 125,000,000 bushels, went through the big terminal elevators in eighty days. The real significance of this is made clear by T. M. Ralston in the course of a remarkable article in October Busy Man's entitled "Pouring Grain through the Big Funnel." He points out that during the past year eighty-nine million bushels were handled by the Twin City elevators, that it required eighty-nine thousand cars to hold this quantity, and that this involved the despatching from Winnipeg of thirteen thousand trains of seventy cars each. The manner of handling the grain is described in interesting fashion, and a description of the mammoth elevators—the largest in the world—is given.

Bolting Our Food. Dr. Henry C. Ferris, recording secretary of the New York State Dental Society, recently presented an illuminating report showing the effects of the bolting of food. Dr. Ferris addressed a letter to one hundred and fifty of the prominent medical men of this country in which he asked them if they considered imperfect chewing and salivating of food an aetiological factor in diseases of the stomach and intestines, and if so, what pathological conditions resulted from such neglect? Out of the hundred and fifty replies that Dr. Ferris received 98 per cent. of these physicians said that chewing of food was an important factor toward good health and that the bolting of food frequently caused cancer, catarrh of the stomach and gastric ulcers. If food is not thoroughly chewed and is permitted to reach the stomach in large lumps or masses, there is no question that it must injure the soft lining of this organ, producing many of the cases of ulcers and catarrh that need careful and consistent medical attention. Some further comments on this question are to be found in the course of a review in October Busy Man's.

Political Notes and Comments.

The rumpus in the Province of Quebec between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his one-time supporter, Mr. Henri Bourassa, grows more intense, interesting and exciting as the hands move around the dial plate. It is becoming very apparent that Bourassa is dividing the forces in the Liberal stronghold.

The latest attack on Sir Wilfrid by Mr. Bourassa is a strong insinuation that their chieftain was once mixed up with Lafontaine, Mercier, Tard and Paquet in an annexation movement. It is certainly Sir Wilfrid's move.

By the way, have you noticed how continually Mr. R. L. Borden is keeping away from Quebec. He does not seem to have a French-Canadian lieutenant, or even supporter, and the most peculiar thing of all is that he does not seem to be worrying over the situation. Evidently Mr. Borden is looking to the English-speaking provinces for his support. Well, if Sir Wilfrid because he is French-Canadian, why should not Mr. Borden because he is an English-speaking Canadian, have the support of English-speaking Canadians?

A Montreal Liberal paper had a pipe dream to the effect that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper had a conference with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and that he would join the Liberal party. Here is Sir Charles' reply: "The day I am seen working with Sir Wilfrid Laurier," said Sir Charles, "for the benefit of the Liberal party you may look for the end of the world."

The expected has happened. Hon. James Drummond McGregor, of New Glasgow, has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia. Governor McGregor is a splendid type of man, of the old school, and we have no doubt the appointment will prove a popular one.

A Liberal friend remarks that the vacancy in the senate caused by the appointment of Hon. Mr. McGregor to the governorship will not, if indeed it does at all, go to Premier Murray. He says Mr. Murray will remain at the head of Provincial affairs, till after the Provincial elections.

The Glace Bay Gazette persists in the statement that there is a tug-of-war going on between Hon. A. K. McLean and Mr. D. D. McKenzie, M. P., for Premier Murray's official shoes when he casts them off. That will be one of the difficulties Hon. Mr. McLean will meet with. So many who think they are as much, if not more, entitled to the premiership than he is. The most serious phase of the matter is: Even if he succeeds to the premiership, will the other aspirants be true to him in a contest? There has been such a thing as "leaders being quietly dropped by their supposed followers."

RICH POLICEMAN QUITS. No Time to Walk Beat and Guard His Fortunes, Too.

PASTOR PAYS A DIME. Campaign Expense in Governorship Race is Only Ten Cents.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 21.—F. W. Peterson, known as the "millionaire policeman," has resigned because his duties as an officer interfered with the care of his health. Nobody knows just how much Peter is worth, but it runs into six figures.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Oct. 21.—The Rev. George I. Wright of this city, Prohibition candidate for governor, holds the record for having made a cheap campaign.

It is said he made most of it by shrewd real estate trades. Peterson had just returned from a fifteen days' vacation, and asked Chief Cox for a leave of absence, so that he might attend to business matters in Kansas City. He was refused, and immediately turned in his star. Peterson has long been able to live in luxury without working, but preferred to walk a beat.

He was also required to file his expense account. This shows that he expended 10 cents for street car fare riding from the Lincoln depot to the Capitol building and back. His railroad fare to Lincoln did not count, as he had to go there on other business.

Hoare and Murray. As intimated in last Saturday's Citizen, Mr. Joseph Hoare and Mr. William Murray will try conclusions for honors in the North River district.

Whiskers

Man shaves with all his might, and keeps the lather flowing; he shaves by day and night, and whiskers keep on growing. The comb may wilt and die in hot winds that are blowing beneath a brazen sky, but whiskers keep on growing. The crop of wheat may fail, the oats may make now showing, while ruined farmers wail, but whiskers keep on growing. I've lost my crop of beans, there are no peas surviving, but still my whiskers are flourishing and thriving. The plants that give us man, all kinds of care are needed; we labor in the sun, at hoeing and at weeding; when shipped they bring us dough to pay us for their crating; and still our whiskers grow, and need no cultivating. We do not sprinkle them with Paris green and water, the crop of peas of stem of bugs that gnaw and slaughter; we do not set up rages between the rows of whiskers, or set our traps for moles, field mice and other friskers. Our whiskers need no care, no chemicals to nourish; they rear their fronds in air like island palms and flourish. But in the marketplace, where people buy and barter, the whiskers on your face won't bring a bogus quarter, and that's the way things go throughout the world, my neighbor, the things that bring us dough are fruits of care and labor.

A Wild Cat That Decided To Live a Domestic Life.

For several days last week the family of Mr. James Bruce, Hilden, especially the younger members, thought they were entertaining a cat that had been living in the woods and had become wild. It hung about the premises, chiefly the wood house, lapped milk from a saucer and even ate meat, taking it from a fork or the end of a stick. One day, however, George, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, about fourteen years of age, got his eye on the strange animal for the first time, and at once pronounced it a genuine wild cat, quickly got his gun and killed it, and genuine wild cat it turned out to be. Just why the cat left the forest and attempted to take up its residence at the Bruce homestead is the strangest part of the strange affair. George is proud of his capture and has been offered $5 for the pelt.

MR. CARNEGIE'S SPELLING.

Unrewarded Devotion to a Last Cause.

Ardent in his devotion to the cause of a reformed orthography, Mr. Andrew Carnegie's only reward in an unsympathetic world is the accused of spelling badly.

The American Ambassador's amusing reference, in his speech at Luncheon on Saturday, to Mr. Carnegie's "deplorable spelling" was not, as it may have seemed to many, a thrust at any carelessness or ignorance on the part of his friend, but a pleasantry at the expense of the lost cause of the "no spell" which Mr. Carnegie still cherishes.

It will be remembered that Mr. Roosevelt, when President, was stirred by a similar enthusiasm, and ordered the United States official printers to use a document, when he was reminded that by a law of the land Webster's Dictionary was the official standard of orthography. Spelling reform seemed thus to have received its death-blow in America. But Mr. Carnegie, who financed the American Simplified Spelling Board, still clings affectionately to the "an" style, and frequently uses it when addressing intimate correspondents.—London Daily Mail.

CHEAPER LIVING IN SIGHT.

President of Meat Packers' Association Predicts Lower Prices.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 21.—The high cost of living will be one of the chief topics at the annual meeting of the American Meat Packers' Association, which begins its three days' session here in his address, President Chas. Rolle will say: "Young hogs are again plentiful, cheap hogs are again in sight, and the prices of products will be reduced to normal basis, and that means reduction in present high cost of living."

Crease-Keith.

A fashionable wedding took place in Park Street Presbyterian Church, Halifax, Wednesday evening last, the contracting parties being Miss Mattie V. Keith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keith, 12 Carleton Street, that city, and Mr. Archibald Crease, a prominent young business man, also of Halifax. For a number of years Miss Keith held an important position in the business office of the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail. She was prominent in Christian work and much liked by all who have the pleasure of her acquaintance. From the fact that the bride is a native of Truro the affair occasioned a great deal of interest here. She is a niece of Mr. J. K. Fraser, manager of Oak Hall, Inglis Street. The presents were numerous, costly and handsome. Mr. and Mrs. Crease passed through Truro Wednesday night on No. 9 on their wedding tour, which includes New York and Boston. The Citizen joins with Truro friends in best wishes.

Ancients.

I love the good old sayings. That the ancients used to say. They case the busy straying. Of this our busy modern day. Yet with them all I'm not in chime. With prices on the wing. I cannot find the "sitch in time" Will save me anything.

That one about the Birdies— "One in hand"—you know the one. A saying most absurd is. When the whole is said and done. Two canvas backs in any bush. Are worth, in any land. Three times as much as any trush You ever had in hand.

Then there's the one on duty— "Don't put off what you can do today"—that is a beauty. For sheer nonsense through and through. There's lots of things that one can do. Today that I recall. By waiting for tomorrow you Won't have to do at all.

"The long lane has no turning— Well that proverb makes me laugh. One doesn't need much learning To discern that it is chaff. The truth is really otherwise— The lane of that queer sort To anyone with open eyes Is almost always short.

And then that one on "Mother. And the Cradle—Oh, dear me. It's mad as any other. In the copy-book we see, Indeed, it goes by contraries. Our mothers have unfurled The hand that rocks the cradle is The hand that rules the world."

BAD ROADS.

Two gentlemen who recently made an automobile trip from St. John to Halifax and return have publicly declared that the roads of New Brunswick are fifty per cent. better than those of Nova Scotia, and yet the Conservative government in that province has only been in power two years. In New Brunswick under the Hazen administration system the county committees have to do with the expenditure of the road grants.

The KITCHEN CABINET

WHEN MOTHER WAVES GOOD-BYE

OOD-BYE, son; got your rubbers on? Good-bye, take care of your mother's hat. No, don't run, sister; lots of time: It's only half past eight. We hear this, sis and I. When mother waves good-bye. "What! you forget your spelling book? And, son, there is the note! Excusing sister's absence 'till Friday, with some 'throat'."

Each day she waves good-bye. And we wave, sis and I. "Good-bye, be nice, sweet children. And do you understand? That you must come straight home from school?" Kate, take your brother's hand."

Once, I saw mother cry: "And when I asked her why? 'I shall not have my babies long.' She said, 'Good-bye, good-bye!'"

A Bay-Leaf. So many recipes contain this: "Add a bay-leaf," and yet many a cook has never seen one, and considers it a tad of the cook-book writer, and leaves it out. This is as silly as it is unnecessary. The bay leaf is a real advantage to any stew or soup. It imparts a country tang which nothing else will do. Not a spice, not a strong flavor, just a hint of the herb. It is cheap, easily obtained at any grocer's the year round, and should be in every pantry.

Shrimp in Gelatine. A pretty salad for an occasion where pink is the predominant color, is made of shrimps stiffened in pink gelatine. Before the gelatine is firm, add the shrimps. Serve with cold lettuce with mayonnaise. The gelatine with no fruit flavor is best.

Pepper. Shall we let the children eat pepper? The consensus of opinion by physicians and authorities on diet knowers is: They say that pepper retards digestion, due to the unwelcome stimulant acting on the sensitive glands of the stomach.

Angel-Child Cookies. Two eggs, one cup sugar and a half cup butter. Beat well. Add a half spoon vanilla flavoring, two spoons baking powder and flour to make a soft batter. Cut thin, and bake quickly.

There were many successful bird hunters came in on the trains from the East and North, Wednesday evening. Two boarded the train at Riversdale with five partridges each, one at Union with three, and two at Wentworth with ten each.
