Success Coming to the TRAINED MAN

If you want success you must train for it. Wealth, position, fame and prosperity do not come to the man who continues in the same old rut every day, minding everybody's business but his own.

The time that most young people spend in idle, fruitless amusements if properly devoted to technical training, would mean a larger salary, a bigger business, greater success, position and prosperity.

The C. B. C. offers a grand opportunity for those who wish practical training that will put them ahead of the common crowd. There's no better recommendation any person could have—no better any one could wish for—than a diploma from the C. B. C.

If you wish to study shorthand, typewriting, book-keeping, penmanship, banking, office practice, business correspondence, English branches, engineering and navigation, you will find the C. B. C. is the one place where you get satisfactory training.

Write for our free prospectus, folders and C. B. C. blotters.

Pulpit, Press and Platform

Among the reminiscences published by the Chicago Tribune on the fortieth anniversary of Chicago's "great fire," Oct. 9, 1871, is the following interesting story of a great missionary's vow. The incident is one well remembered by old-timers of Father Damen's home parish, the Holy Family, in Chicago.

"About the revered edifice known to three generations of west siders as Holy Family Catholic church centers a romance which had its inception at the time of the great fire. Built in 1857 by the Rev. Father Arnold Damen, S. J., the church and some of the oldest members of the original congregation have seen the great west side spring up around it.

Father Damen, who was the first Jesuit missionary to enter the field of Chicago after Father Marquette, established the Holy Family parish in 1852. He was the pastor of St. Ignace college, now Loyola university, and his original parish comprised all that part of Chicago west of the Chicago river as far as the present North avenue, and extending south into the prairie that fringed the young city. In an obscure corner of the gray old church which has stood for fifty-four years is a niche which shelters a statue of the Blessed Virgin. "Our Lady of Perpetual Help" is the symbolic title the image bears, and before it is a triangular candle-stick, in which seven burning candles are placed.

The story of "Father Damen's Pledge" has its fountain head in that tragical array of lights before which hundreds offer daily orisons to the madonnas above. Pious old Irish women of May street have watched its flickering gleam for forty years, and in telling their children or grandchildren the story of Father Damen bear witness to the fact that the candles never have gone out.

On October 9, 1871, the great Chicago fire started in a little old cowshed on De Koven street near Jefferson street. Early in the morning terrified women and children rushed to the shrine of the Madonnas. The fire was headed in the direction of their parish, and the church of the Holy Family was directly in its path.

Father Arnold Damen was in New York conducting a mission. He was sent a telegram telling of the peril that threatened Chicago and his own little world, the Holy Family Parish. Before the altar of St. Michael's, in Brooklyn, he prayed that his parish might be spared, and vowed a sanctuary light would be kept forever burning before the image of Our Lady of Perpetual Help if his prayers were answered.

Back in the gloomy church the women before the shrine saw the flames advance until but a hundred yards separated them from the onrushing houses of the parish. Then the course of the fire was turned and the flames swept back over the downtown district. Not a house in Holy Family parish was burned, and when Father Damen returned the next day the story of the miraculous escape was told.

SEPTEMBER 29, 1911.

Your Lordships: On different occasions complaints have been made by various persons to this Delegation of the custom existing in some places as to the demand made at the doors of the church for money contributions to be given by those who are entering for the purpose of assisting at Mass or at other religious services.

It was also said that in some localities tickets for entrance to the church for the same purposes were previously sold, and especially on the occasion of Christmas, Easter, etc., and were then demanded at the door of the church.

The necessary investigation having been made, it was found to be only too true that these practices really exist in some of the parishes of the various dioceses, and I did not fail to call the attention of the ordinaries to the matter.

Since there is here a question of a practice really reprehensible and already condemned, a practice, moreover, which could easily spread, and thus give still greater scandal both to Catholics and non-Catholics, I have deemed it my duty to make the subject of a circular letter.

It has been long known to all how strongly the Holy See has reprobated all practices of this kind, their explicit condemnation having been made by Pius IX in the year 1862. Not less explicit are the provisions of the Second and the Third Plenary Councils of Baltimore concerning this matter. (Cir. Conc. Plen. Balt. II. No. 397, and Con. P. Balt. III. No. 288.) To these should be added the fact that the S. O. of the Propaganda addressed to all the Bishops of the United States a letter dated 15 August, 1869, which contained the following: "Præsumimus exigendi ad fores ecclesiarum ad fideles ingredi passim, et divinis mysteriis adire, quædam eliminari oportet, quædam adhiberi non debent, ut omnium curam conferat, et forte in aliquibus locis diocesis locis consuetudinem hanc esse: i. e. venditiæ, quædam christifidelibus, in ecclesiam ingrediuntur, quædam mysteriis adire, vel verbis Dei audire possint, ad eorum ecclesiarum fides ponantur."

I also wish to add that so recently as the 22nd of May, 1909, His Eminence, the Cardinal Prefect of the Propaganda, having received complaints concerning this matter, directed me to take measures to prevent the repetition of abuses of this kind, and I accordingly called the attention of the Bishop in whose diocese the abuse was verified to the matter.

After all that I have here set forth, Your Lordship, to whom ecclesiastical decorum and the good of souls is above all other considerations, will, I am sure, be more than ever convinced of the necessity of completely eliminating all evils of this kind. I therefore request you to command all rectors of churches in your diocese to discontinue all these practices, if they have already been introduced, and by no means to permit them to be established, if they do not already exist.

THE CLOUDS WERE VERY HEAVY OVER BALTIMORE ON SUNDAY, OCTOBER 15, THE DAY OF THE CARDINAL'S JUBILEE, BUT, FORTUNATELY, NO RAIN FELL.

The clouds were very heavy over Baltimore on Sunday, October 15, the day of the Cardinal's Jubilee, but, fortunately, no rain fell. Besides the Apostolic Delegate, there were bishops not only from the various parts of the United States, but from Mexico and Canada, and even South Africa had its representative.

The procession that started from Calvert Hall and wound around the venerable cathedral seemed endless, with its seminarians and monks and friars, and secular priests and professors of the Catholic University, and monsignori and bishops and archbishops, the illustrious Jubilar himself, accompanied by Papal chamberlains in blaring red uniforms, closing the line.

The sacred edifice was already crowded when the ecclesiastical entered, and then some few of the waiting throng outside were admitted. The sermon of the occasion was preached by the Most Reverend Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis, though the local press had him down for Washington, D. C. There was a banquet in the afternoon at the Seminary for some of the visiting clergy. At Vespers in the evening the sermon was preached by Archbishop Blank of New Orleans.

On Monday morning the Knights of Columbus presented to His Eminence a rosary made up of nuggets of gold. A nun of Newfoundland had received it as a present from a miner. She, to gain money for a charitable institution, sold it to the Knights, and they in turn availed themselves of this occasion to present it to the Cardinal as an expression of their affection and esteem.

An hour before that ceremony a Congress of the Holy Name Society from the whole country opened its sessions. It was a national convention, but there were also delegates present from Canada. In the afternoon there was a parade through the principal streets of the city of between 30,000 and 30,000 men, among whom were representatives of various clubs from Washington, New York, Boston and Chicago. At Vespers in the evening the preacher was the eloquent Bishop of Wheeling, P. J. Donabue, D. D. The jubilee is celebrated in the celebration, for as all the world knows, the Cardinal is canonized in the heart of Baltimore. Singularly enough, the Jubilee is a double one. It commemorates not only His Eminence's fiftieth year of priesthood, but the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the Cardinalate. He has seen wonderful changes in the United States during that period. How he himself was a prominent factor in their making was the theme of the distinguished prelate who spoke at the Jubilee Mass on Sunday morning.

The handsome silver service bought for Cardinal Gibbons by a citizens' committee of Baltimore, shortly after the civic demonstration in his honor on June 6, was formally presented at the City Hall on October 7. Mayor Preston presided as chairman of the committee appointed to secure a testimonial for the Cardinal from the people of Baltimore, irrespective of creed, marking the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the Cardinalate. The presentation was attended by men high in the social, political, ecclesiastical and business life of the city and State.

When it fails to liquefy, as has happened occasionally, the Neapolitans look for some terrible disaster. Its realization also is accompanied by some signal blessing in favor of the city.

The Terrible Pains of INDIGESTION

Mr. W. E. McEwen, Mount Vernon, N. H., writes:—"For more than a year I suffered with all the terrible pains of indigestion, and my life was one of the greatest misery. I did not seem to make any difference whether I ate or not, the pains were always there, accompanied by severe bloating and a belching of wind. I did not even get relief at night, and sometimes hardly got a bit of sleep. In my misery I tried many remedies said to cure indigestion, but they did me not one particle of good, and I fully expected that I would always be afflicted in this way. At this time my brother came home on a visit, and urged me to try MILBURN'S LAX-LIVER PILLS, and get me a few vials. By the time I had taken one vial I began to improve and could eat with some relief. I was greatly cheered, and continued taking the pills until all traces of the trouble had disappeared, and I could now eat any kind of food without the slightest inconvenience. I am now fully recovered, and my health is as good as ever. I have no hesitation in recommending them."

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are 25c. per vial, or five for $1.00, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Had a Weak Aching Back and a Nasty Sick Headache

Mr. W. R. Dodge, Fielding, Sask., writes:—"A few lines lately recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. For this last year I have been troubled very much with nasty sick headaches, and a weak aching back which caused me much misery, for I could not work, and had no ambition for anything. My kidneys were very badly out of order and kept me from sleeping at nights. I tried many kinds of pills and medicines but it seemed almost in vain. I began to give up in despair of ever being well and strong again when a kind neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and am thankful for the relief I obtained from them for now I am never troubled with a sore back or sick headaches. I will always say Doan's Kidney Pills for mine and can highly recommend them to any sufferer."

Provincial Finances.

In its attempt to deceive the people regarding our Provincial finances, the Patriot presents some extraordinary statements. As usual, that venerable chestnut, the $200,000 withdrawn from capital, is trotted out. What would the Patriot and its friends do if they did not have this chapter from ancient history to fall back upon?

It should be borne in mind that the Conservatives of those days added $20,000 a year to our annual subsidy from Ottawa; so that if the withdrawal of $200,000 from capital reduced our annual revenue from that source, we were still left $10,000 a year better off than when our Conservative friends assumed power in this Province. These are facts with which the electors of this Province have long been familiar. As a matter of fact they are part of our ancient political history, and our Liberal friends must be reduced to sore straits for election ammunition when they find themselves under the necessity of resurrecting them at this date.

The Patriot is forced to admit that the debt of the Province, according to the Government's own official reports, was $887,356.82 on the 30th of September, 1910. Of course we may be sure that the Provincial debt was a good deal more than this; but even the Government's statement constitutes an arraignment sufficiently strong to condemn any administration beyond the power of political redemption.

While admitting the Government's statement of the debt at the end of September, 1910, the Patriot makes no demand for the financial statement for 1911. The financial year closed a month ago, and we should now have an official statement of the receipts and expenditures for the year ended September 30, 1911. How much did the Government add to the Provincial debt during the last fiscal year? That is what the electors of Belfast and Fort Augustus would like to know before they are asked to cast their votes on the 15th inst. That is what the people should ask the representatives of the rump Liberal Government to explain, when they come looking for votes or to address the people at public meetings.

Instead of explaining to its readers the process by which the Provincial Liberal Government initiated, expanded and piled up our public debt, the Patriot compiles a jumble of figures intended to confuse and deceive; a jumble of figures for which no sane man should assume responsibility. They are so silly that the person responsible for their serious presentation presumes, on an extraordinary extent, on the credulity of those whom he addresses.

When Mr. Frederick Peters asked the Legislature, in 1891, for power to issue debentures amounting to $185,000, it was for the purpose of paying off the total floating debt of the Province and making some repairs to the Provincial Building. It was on the strength of this declaration and with the understanding that the proceeds were to be applied for the purposes stated, that the first debenture act went through the Legislature. Mr. Frederick Peters, Leader of the Government, in the course of his speech on that occasion, emphatically declared that once the floating debt then existing, should be funded by the proceeds of the debentures under consideration, there would be no more debt. Revenue and expenditure were henceforth to meet. We were to have, in his own words, "a clean sheet" from that time forward. This was the beginning of the great and improved system of Liberal financing of which the Patriot boasts. Let us see how it has worked out.

The debt of the Province at that time was but $128,000, and with all the liabilities the Liberal Government's royal commission managed to add thereto, it did not exceed $170,000. So as to leave no room for argument or contention, we will take the last named amount, without admitting its correctness, and will hold the previous Conservative Provincial Government responsible for it. This debt was now funded and set aside by the issue of debentures. The responsibility of the Liberals for our Provincial financing began at this point and according to the solemn declaration of the Leader of the Government, we were to have no more debt; no more deficits; we were to have a clean sheet; revenue and expenditure were henceforth to meet.

The Liberals have had charge of the finances of our Province ever since the solemn promise was given, twenty years ago, to make revenue and expenditure meet, and their apologists, and their organ are obliged to confess that the Provincial debt had grown, a year ago, to $877,356.82. How much has been added to the debt in the last twelve months we do not know, and the Government will not tell. At any rate we have the admission of the Government, their organ and their apologists, that the minimum debt of the Province, a year ago, was $877,356.82.

In round numbers, the figures admitted by the Government, their organ and their apologists, show an addition to the debt, in twenty years, of $707,000. This has been done by the Government and the party that promised to make revenue and expenditure meet; to have no more deficits, and henceforward to have a clean sheet. What do the electors think of them?

The Patriot seems to think it was quite improper for the Conservatives during their twelve years of office to collect $88,000 in taxes; but has no complaint against the Liberal Government for taxing the people to the tune of $1,105,000. These are the dimensions of our tax contributions according to the Patriot's own figures. It says the average annual amounts collected by the Liberal Government in taxes of various kinds is $63,000. That sum multiplied by the number of years they have collected taxes gives $1,105,000. How is that for a Government that declared the day of taxation was far off?

When all is said the Patriot declares the Province is not in debt at all, as we have assets at Ottawa amounting to $893,389.50. Well, well! So it is all right to sink the Province in debt to the amount of the capital to our credit at Ottawa. Is that the Patriot's idea of financing? If that is so, then its whining about the withdrawal of the $200,000 by the Conservatives is the most arrant hypocrisy; for at the time of that withdrawal we had to our credit in the Federal Treasury an amount equal to about five times our total debt. The Patriot imposes upon itself the hypocritical task of magnifying into a political crime the incurring of a trifling debt and the withdrawal of one fifth of our capital from Ottawa, by the Conservatives; and at the same time holding up for commendation the scandalous conduct of the Liberals in running our debt up to almost a million dollars, and justifying it on the ground that our capital at Ottawa is about equal to the debt. The assumption is that this capital should be withdrawn at any time and the debt wiped out. The attempt to simultaneously convince the public of these two contradictory statements is about as easy as trying to ride, at the same time, two horses going in opposite directions.

The Conservative Provincial Government, during their term of office, collected according to the Patriot, only $88,000 in taxes. According to the rate of taxation in vogue when they came into office, they left $360,000 in the people's pockets, that would have been paid into the treasury, had they continued the tax. The people were that much better off, and they left a Provincial debt of only $128,000.

The Liberals, on the other hand, after assuming power on the promise of making revenue and expenditure meet, and declaring that the day of taxation was far off, have added about $800,000 to our Provincial debt and have collected in various kinds of taxes $1,105,000 from the people. Which of the two records is the best?

All the Federal Cabinet Ministers who were up for by-elections on Friday were returned by acclamation. Hon. W. T. White, Finance Minister, goes to Leeds County, Ont., for election in place of George Taylor, M. P., who makes way for him. Hon. Frank Cochrane will represent Nipissing in place of George Gordon, M. P., who steps aside. Mr. White will be nominated on November 6th, and Mr. Cochrane on November 8th.

During the first seven months of 1911, Canadians bought 3,724,000 bicycles from the United States. While the average price has declined from $2,000, three years ago, to less than $1.100 at the present time, still these figures mean a business of about $4,000,000 lost to our own manufacturers in little over half a year. The protection given the Canadian manufacturer is 35 per cent. This should be ample. Indeed the presumption is that the Canadians can do much better by buying at home than by paying an additional one-third of a custom's tax. Ottawa Jour.

There is no need for clocks on the Aegean Sea any day when the sun is shining. There nature has arranged the only timepiece, one that does not vary though the centuries pass. This natural time marker is the largest sun dial in the world. Projecting into the blue waters of the sea is a large promontory which lifts its head three thousand feet above the waves. As the sun swings round, the pointed shadow of the mountain just touches one after the other a number of small islands, which are at exact distances apart, and act as hour marks on the great dial. —London Globe.

If it is a fact that 1,500 Canadian girls disappeared last year, having fallen victims to the "white slave" traffic, it behooves the W. C. T. U. to concentrate its whole energies on this one problem, and leave the matter of cigarette smoking over for future consideration. —Mail and Empire.

There is this satisfaction about it; that if an enquiry is ordered into the various departments at Ottawa, there will be no Dark Lantern Brigade to head it off. —Kingston Standard.

Some of the defeated Liberal candidates from Ontario are coming West to a more congenial political atmosphere. If they all come they will be numerous enough to found quite a large colony. —Edmonton Bulletin.

An Industrial Council

The British Government has, in recognition of some suggestions put forward by Sir Charles Macara some months ago, decided to establish forthwith an industrial council which will be presided over by a man of experience and judicial mind under the title of "Chief Industrial Commissioner." The council is to be a special government department with an advisory body composed of a few well known men with the widest experience, representing both capital and labor to whom disputes are to be referred before the stage of a lockout or strike is reached. The main object of this industrial council is to deal with those quarrels between labor and capital that have become so frequent of late in England, and from which, whatever the result, the unfortunate public always suffers.

On the first of these councils Sir Charles Macara, Sir Hugh Bell and other well known men in the great industries will serve, and on the side of labor representatives of the older and newer schools of trade unionism—men of the stamp of Mr. Thomas Burt, M. P., and men like Mr. J. E. Williams of railway strike notoriety. The members of the council are to hold office for one year.

The British Government has given this council its blessing, and sent it on its way rejoicing. But the success of the new departure depends largely on the spirit in which both sides approach the tribunal. Efficient machinery for the settlement of disputes is an excellent thing, but no plan devised by the ingenuity of man can meet cases in which reason and moderation are the badge of one side only. This innovation on the part of the British Government looks like a serious attempt to counteract much of the industrial unrest of the year in the old country. —St. John Standard.

War News.

Rome, Oct. 28.—A despatch from Tripoli of current date, says that in the early morning hours, small forces of the enemy made three successive attacks. These were chiefly directed against the Italians guarding the Bonmeliana Wells, but the Turks were easily repulsed. Reconnoissance by the aeroplanes disclosed an oasis on the left of the Italian position still occupied by the enemy. It is now stated that it was the Turkish general's chief of staff and not the general who was killed in the fight on Thursday. A despatch from Tobruk reports that an Italian force sent out to examine the telegraph lines was attacked by 200 Arab horsemen, who were driven off after the Italians were reinforced.

Military critics here are of the opinion that when a signalling system from the aeroplanes has been perfected the real direction of engagements will devolve upon officers in these machines. According to further official reports the Turks have resorted to all methods of opposing the invaders, including the poisoning of wells. This, however, has failed of its object, as in compliance with the orders of General Canova, which have been strictly enforced, nobody is allowed to touch water without it first having been scientifically examined.

Tripoli, Oct. 29.—Turkish forces yesterday attacked the town of Homs, not far from Tripoli, but were repulsed with heavy losses. The Italians had two killed and two wounded.

Rome, Oct. 29.—Official reports from Tripoli describe the great value of the aeroplanes in the war. By their reconnoissances it has been possible to learn several hours in advance the movements and strength and sometimes the efficiency of the enemy. In this way the Italian commander has been able to distribute his troops in such a manner as to make almost certain the repulse of an attack from any direction whatever.

The Chinese Revolution

Peking, Oct. 28.—The report of an imperialist victory in the vicinity of Hankow, which has been received from the Minister of War, General Tin Tchang, has revived the drooping spirits of the administration. An additional source of comfort has been found in the conclusion of a loan agreement which Chinese officials say, has just been arranged with a Belgian syndicate, having French and British connections. The loan, is for $18,000,000, the price being 96, with six per cent interest. The syndicate receives four per cent commission. The financial groups representing the four nations interested in the railway loan United States, Great Britain, France and Germany, took under advisement a proposition for a loan of $8,000,000 but the United States financiers decided that the present was an inopportune moment. The diplomatic body held a meeting this afternoon and considered a request from the viceroy of the province of Chi Li for permission to police Tien Tsin with troops which is contrary to the international protocol of 1902. The ministers, however, decided to permit the viceroy to do so, owing to the serious conditions which prevail. The ministers decided also to authorize the consuls at Hankow to deal temporarily with all questions cropping up, but the seizure of foreign ships carrying anything which may be called contraband of war, as threatened by the rebel leader, General Li Yuan Heng, cannot be permitted.

Regarding the appeal of Shanghai business men through the consuls that a thirty mile zone around Shang had to be declared neutral, the ministers declined to consent on the ground that it was a matter for decision by the powers. Certain ministers consider that foreigners have no right to ask authority over such an extent of territory.

Panic prevails at Peking. Both Manchus and Chinese families are taking precautionary measures against immediate disturbances. The Chinese are alarmed owing to a report that the Manchu garrison intend to begin a massacre if they meet with reverse at the hands of the rebels in the south. The Manchus are said also to be in fear of a massacre on the part of the Chinese. Both continue to desert the capital. Wagon loads of furniture are moving into the country; all trains are crowded and the foreign banks are receiving deposits and lumps of silver and gold.

The Naval Department at Ottawa has ordered a Court Martial in connection with the stranding of the Niobe, off Cape Sable in July. On that day an array of counsel including some of the most brilliant legal lights in America will formally appear before the court at Trenton, in which the Government dissolution suit was brought. It was expressed at Pittsburgh that the suit against the Steel Trust will seriously affect the institutions depending for support on the proceeds of the Steel Bonds given by Carnegie.

St. Dunstan's College football team visited Nova Scotia last week and met two of the crack teams of that Province and vanquished both of them. On Thursday they played the team of St. Francis Xavier College, at Antigonish, and won after a stubborn contest by a score of 9 to 8. On their way home on Friday they tried conclusions with the strong team of New Glasgow and defeated them by a score of three to nothing. All will admit that the boys from St. Dunstan's have given a good account of themselves.

Speaking before the Glasgow Conservative Club Lord Balfour referred to Canada's decision on the question of reciprocity, which he regarded as of imperial importance. "Are you certain," he asked, "the event isn't one whereon depends the future of the Empire as well as its influence in the position among the nations of the world?" He ventured to prophesy that 1911 would be remembered among the great anniversaries of the Empire, and that generations to come would regard the Canadian elections as the event which settled for all time the future course of the Empire. We now must live up to a high ideal, showing our selves worthy of the trust the children have placed in us.

"Please Stop My"—Times are hard, money is scarce, business is dull, retrenchment is duty—please stop my whisky? Oh, no; times are not hard enough for that. But there is something else that costs me a large amount every year which I wish to save. Please stop my ribbons, jewelry, ornaments and trinkets? No, no, not those, but I must retrench somewhere. Please stop my tobacco, cigars, snuff? Not these at all, but I believe I can see a way to effect quite a saving in another direction. Please stop my tea, coffee and unhealthy luxuries? No, no, not these. I must think of something else. Ah, I have it now. My paper costs $1.00 a year. Please stop my paper. That will carry me through the year easily. I believe in retrenchment and economy, especially in brain—Er.

Advice from Tacoma, Washington, says: September and October earthquakes in South Western Alaska shook up the earth and glaciers along the coast to such an extent as to expose what miners say are the world's richest gold quartz veins. Excitement similar to that of the Klondyke strike in 1897 prevails at Valdez, Cordova and other Southern Alaska towns. Quartz samples from Port Valdez show a grade of Valdez, assay over 2400 per ton, one eighth of the total weight of the rock being pure gold.

Henry Fisher, who had been employed as night watchman by Carvell Bros. for the night on Pownall wharf, in this city, was drowned shortly after midnight this morning. He had been engaged until about 8 o'clock last night loading the steamer Cascapedia. He was then engaged to watch on the wharf for the night and cast off the lines of the steamer when she would be ready to leave port. He was called by those on the steamer at about 12:15 to cast off the lines. He responded; but in some way the unfortunate man, while standing beside a post, fell over the wharf before he cast off any lines. Officers and men from the steamer came onto the wharf and threw life lines to him; but he did not catch any of these, and is supposed to have sunk immediately. The unfortunate man was about forty years of age, and leaves a widow and family.

A motor boat was found high and dry on the shore at White Sands Monday morning and in the boat was made the gasty discovery of the dead bodies of two men. They had left New Glasgow Sunday morning and were coming over on a visit to Darby's father. It is supposed something went wrong with the machinery and that they died from exposure. At any rate an inquest was held Monday night and a verdict of "Deaths from Exposure" was pronounced. Darby was a man 38 years of age and had been living in New Glasgow for some time.

Having seen the road in the making, and being aware of the high standard set up, I was prepared for a good road, and was not disappointed, for we rode as smoothly as between Montreal and Toronto. The sleeping cars are models of comfort, and the service on the line as well as the dining cars, couldn't be better. The Grand Trunk are getting the pace for general excellence in Western Canada."

MAYMEYS FROM CUBA.

There is nothing new in this. It has all been done before. But tell me what is new? Does the sapirring and perspiring summer radeville artist flatter himself that his stuff is going big? Then does the stout man with the oyster-colored eyeglasses in the first row, left, turn his bead on his fat-creased neck to remark huskily to his companion: 'The hook for him, R-r-rotten! That last one was old Webber's Fields' gag. They discarded it back in '91. Say, the good ones is all dead, anyhow. Take old Salvin, now, and Dan Rice. Them was actors. Come on out and have something.'

Does the short story writer felicitate himself upon having discovered a rare species in humanity's garden? The black reader flips the magazine pages between his fingers, yawns, stretches and remarks to his wife: 'That's a clean lift from Kipling—or is it Conan Doyle? Anyway, I've read something just like it before. Say, kid, guess what these magazine guys get for a full page ad? Nix. That's just like a woman. Three thousand straight. Fact.'

To anticipate the deliver into the past it may be stated that the plot of this one originally appeared in the 'Eccentric Best Seller' under the heading 'He Asked You for Bread, and Ye Gave Him a Stone.'

There may be those who could not have traced my plagiarism to its source.

Although the book has had an unprecedentedly large run, it is said to be less widely read than of yore.

Even with this preparation, I hesitate to confess that this is the story of a hungry girl in a big city. Well, now, wait a minute. Conceding that it has been done by every scribbler from tyro to best seller expert, you will acknowledge 'that there is the possibility of a fresh viewpoint—twist what is it in the sporting editors call it? Oh, yes—elant. This is the possibility of getting a new slant on an old idea. That may serve to deflect the line of the deadly parallel.

Just off State Street there is a fruiterer and importer who ought to be arrested for cruelty. His window is the most fascinating and, indeed, the most heartless in Chicago. A line of open-mouthed wide-eyed gazers is always found before it. Despair, wonder, envy and rebellion smolder in the eyes of those gazers. No shop window show should be so diabolically set forth as to arouse such sensations in the breast of the beholder. It is a work of art, that window; a breeder of anarchy, a destroyer of contentment, a second feast of Tantalus. It boasts peaches, downy and golden, when peaches have no right to be; plumb, purple bunches of English hothouse grapes are there to tempt the tender a week clerk whose sick wife should be in the hospital; strawberries glow therein when shortsake is a last summer's memory, and forced cucumbers remind us that we are taking ours in the form of dill pickles. There is, perhaps, a choice head of cauliflower, so exquisite in its ivory and green perfection as to be fit for a bride's bouquet; there are apples so flawless that if the garden of Eden grew any as perfect, it is no wonder that Eve fell for them. There are fresh mushrooms, and jumbo coconuts, and green asparagus; costly things in beds of cotton next to strange and marvellous things in these wrappings. Oh, that window is no place for the hungry, the diseased, or the man out of a job. When the air is filled with snow there is that in the sight of mask melons which incites crime.

Quickly enough, the gazers before that window foot up the same year. It is and year out, something after this fashion: Item: One little aemie milliner's apprentice in coat and shoes that even her hat can't redeem.

Item: One sandy haired, grumpy complexioned man, with a drooping ragged mustache, a tin dinner bucket, and lime on his boots.

Item: One thin mail carrier, with an empty mail sack, gaunt cheeks, and an habitual droop to his left shoulder.

Item: One errand boy troubled with a chronic sniffle, a shrill piping whistle, and a great deal of shuffing foot-work.

Item: One negro wearing a spotted tan top-coat, frayed trousers and no collar. His eyes seem all whites as he gazes.

Enough of the window. But bear it in mind while we turn to Jennie. Jennie's real name was Janet, and she was Scotch. Can't you see, or why should she have been hungry and out of a job in January?

Jennie stood in the row before the window and stared. The longer she stared the sharper grew the lines that fright and under-feeding had etched about her nose, and mouth and eyes. When, four feet tall, she was an eighteen-hour memory, and when that memory has only near-coffee and a roll to dwell on, there is something in the sight of January peaches and great strawberries carelessly spilling out of a tipped box, just like they do in the fruit picture on the dining room

Itching Skin

Distress by day and night—That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They can't. The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

"I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Max. J. E. Ward, Cove Point, Md.

rids the blood of all impurities and cures all eruptions.

well, that is apt to carve sharp lines in the corner of the face.

The tragic line dwindled, going about its business. The man with the dinner pail and the lime on his boots spat, drew the back of his hand across his mouth, and turned away with an ugly look. (Pork was up to $14.25, dressed.)

The errand boy's blithe whistle died down to a mournful dirge. He was window-wishing. His choice hovered between the juicy peaches and the foreign-looking red things that looked like oranges, and weevil!

One hand went into his coat pocket, extracting an apple that was to have formed the piece de resistance of his noonday lunch. Now he regarded it with a sort of pitying disgust, and bit into it with the malediction of the morning contempt that it deserved.

The mail carrier pushed back his cap and reflectively scratched his head. How much over his month's wages would that green basket piled high with exotic fruit come to?

Jennie stood and stared after they had left, and another line had formed. If you could have followed her gaze with dotted lines, as they do in the cartoons, you would have seen that it was not the peaches, or the prickly pears, or the strawberries, or the mask melons or even the grapes that held her eye. In the center of that wonderful window was an oddly woven basket. In the basket were brown things that looked like sweet potatoes. One knew that they were not. A sign over the basket informed the puzzled gazer that these were maymeys from Cuba.

Maymeys from Cuba. The humor of it might have struck Jennie if she had not been so Scotch, and so hungry. As it was, a slow, sullen, heavy Scotch wrath rose in her breast. Maymeys from Cuba! The wantonness of it. Peaches? Yes. Grapes, even, and pears, and cherries in snow time: But maymeys from Cuba—why, one did not even know if they were to be eaten with butter, or with vinegar, or in the hand, like an apple. Who wanted maymeys from Cuba? They had gone all these hundreds of miles to get a fruit, or vegetable thing—a thing so luxurious, so out of all reason that one did not know whether it was to be baked, or eaten raw. There they lay, in their foreign-looking basket, taunting Jennie who needed a quarter.

Have I told you how Jennie happened to be hungry and jobless? Well, then, I shall. It doesn't really matter, anyhow. The fact is enough. If you really demand to know, you might inquire of Mr. Felix Klein. You will find him in a mahogany office on the sixth floor. The door is marked manager. It was his idea to import Scotch lassies from Daemerville for his Scotch linen department. The idea was more fetching than feasible.

There are people who will tell you that no girl possessing a grain of common sense and a little nerve need go hungry, no matter how great the city. Don't you believe them. The city has heard the cry of wolf often that it refuses to listen when he is snarling at the door, particularly when the door is next door.

Where did we leave Jennie? Still standing on the sidewalk before the fruit and fancy goods shop, gazing at the maymeys from Cuba. Finally her Scotch bump of curiosity could stand it no longer. She dug her elbow into the arm of the person standing next in line.

"What are those?" she asked. The next in line happened to be a man. He was a man without an overcoat, and with his thin sunken cheeks deep into his collar, and his hands thrust deep down into his pockets. It looked as though he were trying to crawl inside himself for warmth. "Those? That sign says they're maymeys from Cuba."

"I know," persisted Jennie, 'but what are they?' "Sarcob me. Say, I ain't bothering about maymeys from Cuba. A couple of hot murphies from Ireland, served with a lump of butter, would look good enough for me."

"Do you suppose anyone buys them?" marveled Jennie. "Sarcob thing you know. Some rich dame coming by here, wondering what she can have for dinner to tempt the jaded palates of her dear ones, sez? She sees them Cuban maymeys. 'The very thing! she says. 'I'll have 'em served just before the salad.' And she sails in and buys a pound or two. I wonder, now, do you eat 'em with a spoon?" Jennie took one last look at the wicker basket with its foreign contents. Then she moved on slowly. She had been moving on for hours—weeks.

Most people have acquired a habit of eating three meals a day. In a city of some few millions the habit has made necessary the establishing of eating places. Jennie would have told you that there were billions of them. To her the world seemed composed of one huge, glittering restaurant, with myriads of windows through which one caught maddening glimpses of ketchup bottles and nickle coffee heaters, and piles of doughnuts, and scurrying waiters in white, and people critically studying menu cards. She walked in a maze of restaurants, cafes, eating houses, tables and diners loomed up at every turn, on every street, from Michigan avenue's rose-shaded Louis the Something palaces, where every waiter owns his man, to the white tile mansuoles, where every man is his own waiter. Everywhere there were windows full of lemon cream pies, and pans of baked apples swimming in lakes of golden syrup, and pots of baked beans with the pink and crispy slices of pork just breaking through the crust. Every dairy lunch mocked one with the sign of 'wheat cakes with maple syrup and country sausage, 20 cents.'

There are those who will say that for cases like Jennie's there are soup kitchens, Y. W. C. A.'s relief associations, policemen, and things like that. And so there are. Unfortunately the people who need them are not up on them. Try it. Plant yourself, penniless, on the middle of State street on a busy day, dive into the howling scrambling, pushing, maelstrom that hurls itself against the mountainous and impregnable form of the crossing policeman, and see what you'll get out of it, provided you have the courage.

Desperation gave Jennie a false courage. On the strength of it she made two false starts. The third time she reached the arm of the crossing policeman and touched it. That imposing giant removed the whistle from his mouth, and a sardoniously inclined his head, without turning his gaze upon Jennie, one eye being fixed on a red automobile that was showing signs of sulking at its enforced pause, the other being busy with a crossing drayman who was having an argument with his off horse.

Jennie mumbled her question. Said the crossing policeman: "Getcher car on Washab, ride to 'umpty-second, transfer, get off at Blank street, and walk three blocks south."

Then he put the whistle back in his mouth, blew two shrill blasts, and the horde of men, women, motors, drays, trucks, cars, and horses swept over him, through him, past him, leaving him miraculously untouched. Jennie landed on the opposite curbing, breathing hard. What was that street? Umpty-what? Well, it did not matter, anyway. She hadn't the nickel for car fare.

What did you do next? You begged from people on the street. Jennie selected a middle-aged, prosperous, motherly looking woman. She framed her plea with stiff lips. Before she had finished her sentence she found herself addressing empty air. The middle aged, prosperous, motherly looking woman had hurried on.

"Well, then, you tried a man. You had to be careful there. He mustn't be the wrong kind. Just an ordinary looking family man would be the best. Ordinary looking family men are strangely in the minority. There are so many more bull-necked, tan-shoed ones. Finally Jennie's eyes, grown sharp with want, saw one. Not too well dressed, kind-faced, middle-aged.

Suffered From Her Heart, Could Not Stand Hard Work

Mrs. Harry Smith, 31 Eagle Ave., Bradford, Ont., writes—"I have suffered with my heart a great deal, and could not stand any hard work. I was doctoring with the Doctor and he told me I had to stop doing anything, but, however, a friend told me about your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I got a box and tried them. I had to take several boxes before I felt any benefit, but after doing so I found they were beginning to help me so I continued their use and am now in a position to do all my own work, which I felt I would have to give up."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all weak run down women, whether troubled with their heart or nerves, and if you will only give them a trial we can assure you that they will have the desired effect.

Price 50c. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25. Write for a free trial on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A too convivially inclined young clubman was introduced at a reception last week to a clever society woman whom he understood in some hazy fashion to be a great artist. She was not an artist, nor had she ever made any attempt to be. But the young man, whose wife were apt to go wool gathering at times, thought she was. And he was very anxious to make a sufficiently pretty speech to her.

He murmured the usual conventionalities when he was presented, and you paint, don't you? So many people have told me about it! he then said ingratiatingly.

The young woman stared at him, looked him severely in the eyes, let her glance fall on every feature of his perplexed face, gazed her indignation and then she spoke: "If I do," she remarked icily, 'at least I don't make a mistake and put it on my nose.'—Philadelphia Times.

W. H. Wilkinson, Stratford, Ont., says—"It affords me much pleasure to say that I experienced great relief from Muscular Rheumatism by using two boxes of Milburn's Rheumatic Pills. Price a box 50c."

I said she looked, like Venus, rising from the sea. But when I told her of it she was much vexed with me. Not that she was so modest, as she observed, but, shoo! It seemed I hadn't noticed her stylish bathing suit!

"I tell you," said Farmer Cornstossel, 'bein' a sheriff around here is a mighty hard job.'

"You never arrest anybody?" "No, but there's an awful lot of false alarms. Every time one of these summer girls sees a caterpillar or thinks there's murder bein' committed."—Washington Star.

Friend—What about the rent of a place like this? I suppose the landlord asks a lot for it? Hardup—Yes, rather. He's always asking for it.—London Opinion.
