A BAKING SUCCESS
WHICH YOU CAN DUPLICATE IN YOUR HOME

WITH
BEAVER FLOUR

All this talk about Western wheat flours being "pastry" flours, is just plain talk. Anyone, who knows anything about wheat, knows that Western wheat flour cannot and does not, make as good Pastry as "Beaver" Flour.

Western wheat has what the bakers call strength. It makes a big loaf of bread—but the bread is spongy and lacks flavor. Ontario wheat, blended with spring wheat, makes the ideal bread and pastry flour.

The bakers of Toronto and London—the experts at the agricultural colleges—and thousands of homes in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces—have proved that "Beaver" Flour is superior to any Western wheat flour, and is equally good for Bread and Pastry. Try it. DEALERS—Write us for prices on Feed, Coarse Grains and Cereals.

Beautiful Cynthia;

OR

Victory After Many Defeats.

CHAPTER I. THE BOY HERO.

"You're uppish to-day, Cynthia," he said tauntingly; "got a temper on you, I suppose, because you've been kept in. Give me hold of the bag and come along; you're late already, and you've got to get the tea, for you don't keep a servant, not a regular one, do you?" he added, with a sneer.

"Yes, I am late," said Cynthia, quietly enough, but with a flash of her grey eyes, "so please move off the bridge and let me pass."

"What'll you give me if I do?" he said, with an uneasy laugh. "I'll strike a bargain with you; you give me a kiss—of your own free will, mind!—and I'll let you go by."

The girl's face went white, then crimson, and her eyes darted lightning of indignation and loathing at his heavy face.

"I'd rather die," she said in a low voice. "I'd rather stay here till—till Doomsday than let you touch me, Sampson Burridge."

"Oh, we'll see about that," he said, reddening angrily under the scorn of her tone and eyes. "I'm going to kiss you, whether you like it or not, so there!"

He lumbered across the bridge toward her, and there was nothing for Cynthia to do but to turn and fly.

She had not much of a start, for he had moved toward her as he had uttered the threat, and had almost touched her; but she was fleet of foot than the ungainly boy, and would have been able to escape him if she had not tripped up on a turse root.

She did not actually fall, but the pause gave Sampson the advantage, and he was upon her and had flung his arms round her almost before she could utter the cry for help which she tried hard to suppress. At this psychological moment arrived on the scene a Perseus in the shape of a young lad riding a very beautiful pony.

They were coming down the opposite hill quickly, and the boy saw the two figures struggling, and heard the girl's cry; he did not shout in response; he drove the pony hard down the hill, ran it through the stream, and, before his presence had been realized by the other actors in the little tragedy, he was upon them, and with his hunting crop he dealt Sampson a good, practical blow on the back of his head.

Sampson dropped Cynthia like a hot coal and swung round. The newcomer had got off his pony and stood ready for him.

"Here, girl!" he cried. "Hold my horse. I'll settle with this chap for you!"

The command was issued in the tone of one who was accustomed to obedience. Mechanically Cynthia clutched at the reins with one hand, while she thrust the hair from her face with the other, and, panting and trembling, awaited results.

The two boys looked at each other the lad with the pony with a cool and critical gaze, Sampson with a cover and cautious eye.

He saw that the boy who had so unwarrantably interfered with his amusement was smaller than himself, not shorter, but more slightly built, and Sampson, who was fully sensible of the advantage of weight and muscle, left off rubbing the back of his head, and, eyeing his opponent vindictively, began to take off his coat, muttering with sullen ferocity:

"I'll teach you to hit me!"

"You want to fight?" said the other lad scornfully, but cheerfully. "I'm

NEW DISCOVERY QUICKLY CURES KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses Are Taken

If you are bothered with backache—or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that comes from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon, no matter what else may have failed to cure you.

It is a positive fact that the new discovery, Croxone, promptly overcomes such diseases. It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for ridding the system of uric acid, removing the cause and curing the troubles. It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter, and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder; and puts the kidneys and urinary organs in a clean, strong, healthy condition.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate long standing cases, while it cures the most severe forms of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism in a surprisingly short time. You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle at any first class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

glad to hear it. You're a brute and a bully, and if you hadn't been ready to fight I'd have given you a jolly good whipping."

He threw down his hunting crop and took off his coat; then, as if he had suddenly remembered her, he turned to Cynthia and said:

"Girl! you take the pony round the hill there, where you can't see. I'll come for it when I've finished with him."

"When I've finished with you, you won't be able to ride no pony," said Master Sampson, with a sneer.

"We shall see," said the lad. "Go away, girl."

But Cynthia shook her head. Now that her rescuer had got his jacket off, he looked, to her, very slight indeed beside his heavily built opponent.

"Don't fight him!" she said, in a low voice. "And it isn't fair. If you'll stay here while I get away—"

"Oh, she ain't going to save you, don't you fear," cried Sampson tauntingly. "Come on, if you're going to fight. But I expect you're in a blue funk."

The other lad contradicted this assertion in the most emphatic way by striking the first blow, which landed smartly on Sampson's pug nose. This was the beginning of the battle. It was a good fight, and it was a pity there was not a larger audience and a more appreciative one, for it was in a sense, a first-rate set-to completely wasted.

Sampson possessed weight and strength, but, though he did his best, he could not box. His opponent would, and while he evaded Sampson's heavily aimed blows, every now and then planted in one of his own which took good effect.

Then, again, he was as light and springy on his feet as the pony he rode; he was here, there, and everywhere at once, distributing blows on Sampson's head, face, and chest, with a rapidity and directness which were extremely disconcerting to the sufferer from them.

Cynthia and the pony looked on with varied emotions. The pony was at first startled, and tried to make a bolt for it, but Cynthia gripped the reins tightly and managed to hold him. Her face was very white, but her lips were parted, her breath labored, and painful.

Every now and then Sampson contrived to get in a blow; blood was streaming down her rescuer's face—so it was down Sampson's also; but she only shuddered for that on the other lad's.

Suddenly the slighter lad slipped on the close turf, Sampson caught his opportunity, closed with and hugged his opponent with the grip of a bear, and forced him back, so that it seemed as if the other one must go down and Sampson would be victorious but, as Cynthia bit her lip to prevent herself from crying out, he champion, in some marvelous way with some movement of his leg, managed not only to recover his position but to throw Sampson on his back.

It really was a dexterous throw, and delivered with such force and suddenness that Sampson lay prone and gasping like a porpoise.

The victor was breathing hard all so, and it was some seconds before he could demand of Sampson whether he wanted any more. Apparently, Sampson was quite satisfied, for he got up slowly and stiffly and picked up his coat.

"Oh, all right," remarked the rescuer cheerfully, as he also went for his coat. "It was a fair fight, and I hope you aren't much hurt, though, now I come to think of it, you deserved a jolly good hiding for bullying a girl and if ever I hear of you doing it again I'll give you another one."

He made this encouraging assertion pleasantly enough, for a decent boy or man always feels friendly toward his beaten foe; but it was not in Sampson's nature to respond, and as he strove to wipe the blood from his swollen face he glowered with his small eyes vindictively at the victor, and muttered sullenly:

"I'll make you pay for this. I'll be even with you some way or other. I don't know who you are, and I don't care. My name's Sampson Burridge, and my father will make you suffer for this."

"My name is Frayne, Darrel Frayne," said the other lad, "and I shan't tell my father anything about it. And he wouldn't worry you if I did."

As he spoke Cynthia's eyes went instinctively to a clump of trees on the brow of the hill, in the midst of which stood the stately mansion of the squire of the place, Sir Anson Frayne. Sampson seemed impressed by the name, and, still muttering threats of future vengeance, he slouched off.

CHAPTER II.

A PHILOSOPHIC FATHER.

With his coat on his arm and his handkerchief wiping at his face, young Frayne turned to the pony and Cynthia.

"I hope you haven't been frightened," he said, with the inoffensive condescension of the superior male. "I told you to go out of sight, but you wouldn't, you know. You'd much better have done so."

Cynthia was still white, still trembling a little, her eyes were downcast and when she raised them and they fell on his face she shuddered and caught her breath, for it must be confessed that at that moment the lad was an appalling sight. His lip was cut and bleeding freely; one eye was closing rapidly and was displaying several of the more prominent colors of the rainbow. Also his cheek was swollen.

"He's hurt you badly," she said with acute dismay.

"Not at all; it's nothing," he assured her as he dabbed away with his handkerchief. "He's cut my lip—I know when he did it. He broke down my guard—and I think I've got a black eye. But they don't matter. I shall put a bit of steak on the eye and it will be all right in no time; nothing like steak; we always use it at school."

"You've fought before—you seem to like it!" remarked Cynthia, with feminine surprise and a reluctant admiration.

"Oh, I don't mind," he responded boyishly. "You've got to sometimes, you know. You didn't suppose I was going to stand by and see that hulking chap bullying you! What did he do it for? What did he want? Had you been checking him? girls will sometimes?"

Automobilists, Watch These Don'ts.

He who aspires to become a motorist will find himself from the very beginning on a small island of possibility, completely surrounded by a sea of "don'ts." No other sport presents so many problems for the solution of the neophyte as does motoring. The solution of some of these are obvious enough, while others can only be arrived at through the bitter teaching of experience, or the advice of those who have been through the mill.

Even before you become possessed of the first requisite of the motorist, a car, the most serious problem of all presents itself.

Thus we come to the first "don't." Don't be gulled into buying a second-hand car without taking expert and unprejudiced advice in the matter. While the judicious buyer of a second-hand car can get more than his money's worth, the man who rashly buys a used machine more often than not finds himself in possession of something fit only for the scrap heap. Put it down as an axiom: Never buy a second-hand car without first taking it down. If you cannot perform the operation yourself, and a few cab, pay some one whom you can trust absolutely to do it for you. You will never regret spending the money. Even after you are sure that the used machine is in good condition; be sure that you are getting something besides the bare car. Remember that while the price may seem low, by the time you have purchased essential accessories, to put the car in running order, you will have added a tidy sum to the first cost.

On the other hand, if you eschew the second-hand car and go direct to the agents for a new machine, don't be in a hurry.

Don't, if there are only two in your family, while the man next door has seven children, buy a seven-seated touring car.

Don't select a car by the color of its enamel.

Don't forget to ask questions and don't let the salesman answer them in blank verse. Pin him down to facts.

Don't be too proud to accept the advice of a well-posted friend. On the other hand, don't allow advice to smother your own judgment.

After you have purchased the car—Don't imagine that it is possessed of a chrome steel constitution and absolute immortality.

Don't forget that what castor oil is to a baby, lubricating oil is to a car. Learn to know the voice of your motor as a mother understands the cry of her baby, also inject the remedial oil.

Don't begrudge a hard-working motorist plenty of fodder—be it pardon, gas, in exact proportion to the work returned will be the consumption of gasoline.

Don't despise a tiny gasoline leak. Trace it to its source as you would

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and an enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

follow the footprints of a man who has stolen your last dollar.

Don't be carelessly familiar with your gas tank. After the gasoline has been drawn out, a highly inflammable gas remains that often blows up the unwary tinkerer with a leaking tank.

Don't use the same funnel for giving your motor a drink of water and a "feed" of gasoline. Disaster lies that way.

Don't use a dirty funnel. If it has accumulated a layer of oil, take a minute to clean it out thoroughly.

Don't run away with the idea that the most plentiful supply of gas can do its work without a good ignition system.

Don't forget that while electricity can circle the globe in a second, it balks at a bad joint in the wiring of your ignition.

Don't, unless you are past master, motorist, monkey with your ignition system. You might as well go into a hospital without training and try to operate on unfortunate patients.

Don't make your car a museum for a display of antique accessories.

Don't forget that shoes will make up by far the largest item of your upkeep bill. The man who has any desire to spare his pocketbook will treat his tires with the same respect and solicitude that he bestows on his feet.

Don't fall into the common error of washing tires off with kerosene. Oil of any sort bears about the same relation to rubber that strychnine does to the human stomach.

Don't think that after you have washed your tires you have done your whole duty by them.

Don't fail to remember that insignificant cuts on the surface of a tire are simply the outline sketch of a set of deep gashes, which use will rapidly turn into a completed picture.

Don't think that filling in the little cuts in the tire surface ends the job. Unless the material is vulcanized afterward, the operation has simply been writing on water.

Don't forget that the most enjoyable part of motoring lies in the touring.

Don't think that the man who goes tearing around the country at thirty or forty miles an hour is touring. He is simply risking his own life, which is a small matter, and teaching outsiders to hate motorists and motoring, which is a pity.

Don't assume that the rules of the road are wholly iniquitous; they are formulated for your protection as well as control. The man who is eternally berating road regulations is generally the very road hog whom they were meant to reach.

Don't think that the higher powers have decreed that you should have a divine right to the centre of the road, while the farmers must thankfully accept the gutter.

Don't talk of "hard luck" if you insist on driving fifty miles an hour and your machine insists on climbing a telegraph pole.

Don't take a vacation after getting home from a muddy drive. Give the car a bath first, then take your own.

Don't forget in making up the balance sheet of your car's cost that there is a credit item which far outweighs any expenditure that you have made. You have spent some money on the car, but the car has taken you out into the sweetness and light of God's out-of-doors; has filled your lungs with good, clean air; has browned your cheeks with the caress of the sun; has steadied your nerves; has added twenty years to your life, and by the same token has made every minute of the time better worth living.

Government in Hay and Oats Business.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—We quite understand that the "Daily News" has proven to its own satisfaction, that Sir E. P. Morris has performed and brought to fruition the various promises made to the electors in his manifesto—except that the "two-blade grass" did not root well, and the order for those "sheep" miscarried, and our hills are still bare of flocks, although the Shepherds are still under full pay.

Well, Sir, I just want to inform you and incidentally the "taxpayers" as well, that "one" of those "Shepherds" of Sir E. P. struck this town to-day, and what do you think was his role? He carried a capacious leather hand-bag and canvassed the dealers here offering hay and oats which were being imported by the St. John's Agricultural Society. So that the Government is now into the Hay and Oats business.

What have our friends; the jobbers and wholesalers in that line, to say to this?

Sir E. P. Morris collects our taxes hands back our money to an Agricultural Society and then sends out travellers or drummers to sell this stuff in competition with regular dealers who provided the funds to pay for the stock.

Feel Bully? Take Cascarets Tonight.

A 10-cent box will keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh for months.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels clean and regular for months.

Approach of Spring

The spring will soon be here; the snow will disappear; the hens will cluck, the colts will buck, as will the joyous steer. How sweet an April morn'g! The whole world seems a reborn; and ancient men with a lit'z round their eyes and hair, and their teeth to scorn. And grave and sober dames forsake their quilting frames, and cut up rough, play blind man's bluff, and kindred cheerful games. The pastors hate to preach; the teachers hate to teach; they'd like to play baseball all day, or on the bleachers bleach. The lawyer fires of law; they'd fain forget the toil and sweat, and play among the straw. The spring's the time for play; let's put our work away, with joyous spits kick up our heels, even though we're old and gray. You see old Dobbin trot around the barnyard lot, with flashing eye and tail on high; his burdens all forgot. You see the muley cow that's old and feeble now, turn somersaults and prance and waltz, and stand upon her' brows. The rooster, old is he, and crippled as can be, yet on his toes he stands and crows "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Shall we impudic gossips have less style than the brutes? Oh, let us rise and fill the skies with echoing toe-toots.

Mrs. John McKellar, 11 Barton street east, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was injured some years ago, and that left me with a broken-down nervous system. I could not sleep, and suffered from twitching of the nerves and disagreeable nervous sensations. It then began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that I never used any medicine that did me so much good; in fact, I am entirely cured of my old trouble. The Nerve Food not only strengthened the nerves, but also built up my system in every way." Under date of Aug. 29, 1912, Mrs. McKellar writes, confirming her cure, and states that she has had inquiries from many people who had heard of the great benefits she obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. ### Notes and Comments.

We thank the Hon. P. T. McGrath and the Hon. J. A. Robinson for their warm felicitations in their journals at our recovery from a serious illness. We hope soon to get in touch with the present doings in politics and to take a man's part in them.

We have had a fine opportunity of watching the working of one of the wards of the General Hospital, and we take it that this ward, the Carson Ward, is typical of the other five.

While the working of the hospital has been handicapped by the illness and absence of the General Superintendent Dr. Keegan and the lecturing and warning of the nurses somewhat retarded, the efficient working of the hospital has been rendered possible by Dr. Anderson taking general charge of two wards, Dr. Fraser of another two, and Dr. Cowperthwaite of the remaining two, the keen attention of the house surgeon Dr. Knight, and the real excellence and devotion of the nursing staff.

No words of ours are necessary to tell of the skill and ability of Dr. Anderson. They are too well known. But we have had the benefit of these qualities. But a word is not out of place for the younger medical practitioner, who is acting as locum tenens for Dr. Keegan. Not only have we benefited by the care and skill of Dr. Knight, but for almost a month we had the opportunity of noting the care and attention, consideration and skill with which he did his duty in Carson Ward.

For the nursing staff it is not possible to speak in too high terms. Miss Southcott is to be congratulated on the training which has given the General Hospital such an efficient nursing staff. "Si monumentum requirunt circumspice," which may be rendered for the occasion as "If you seek her monument, look at the nursing staff."

Not only are they being well trained for their special work, but they are

That Report About Confederation.

Yesterday we drew attention to a statement published in the Westminster Gazette of the 22nd that something was being done between the Ministry of Newfoundland and the Dominion in the way of confederation. We especially directed the attention of Prime Minister Morris to it. He has responded, and the 'Daily News' this morning on his authority declares there's nothing in it. Our morning contemporary suggests we should look nearer home for the little Confederation nest. Thanks for the hint. It is most instructive, coming as it does from the Morrison organ. But it will not prevent us keeping our eyes on the Hon. Donald Morrison. We have not forgotten 1902, and the big nest that was built then for the Confederation eggs, which, however, failed to hatch. It is most refreshing to read in the Morrison organ that Newfoundland can padlock her own canoe and keep well in front of the race. Our contemporary has forgotten the weights of the Morris loan which handicap the canoe, and the additional loans which the Morris policy will entail.

Tobasco's Rough Trip.

The s.s. Tobasco, Capt. Yeomans, sixteen days from Liverpool, arrived this morning with a full freight and a large mail. The trip was a long and stormy one. Bolsterous weather was experienced during the voyage, especially the last week at sea. Gale succeeded gale and the ship's decks were constantly swept, but the Tobasco came through without mishap. On Saturday last the steamer passed much ice.

To Be Dethroned Do Not Be Fooled

This morning the champion of Mr. Mott, tries to get off a sneer at Mr. Clapp and his appeal for better treatment of his constituents in the way of steamer accommodation. The sneer is out of place, and will be resented by Mr. Clapp's constituents, but the outburst of feeling at the thought of dethronement is doubtless genuine. But a few months and the Morris party will be dethroned by an outraged electorate, who have been expressing their disgust in the strongest terms. The places that know them now, will know them no more, and the leaves and fishes will no longer feed the mouths that feast on them now. It is hard to be dethroned, says the 'Daily News'; the prospect of dethronement is indeed hard.

The FRASER KEROSENE ADAPTER is not an experiment but has been thoroughly tested and tried, and is the only adapter of its kind ever invented. It has resulted in hundreds of engine makers all over the United States and Canada requesting the FRASER people to sell them the right to use it. DO NOT BE FOOLED. No gasolene engine will work satisfactory on kerosene without this patent. Some engine-sellers will say you can use kerosene in their ordinary gasolene engines. We think too much of our reputation to make any such claim. What we do say is that no gasolene engine can be run satisfactorily on kerosene without a special attachment such as the FRASER has, and no other engine has it. It is FRASER'S patent and FRASER'S only. Ask for catalogue.

Lord Curzon and Charles I.

Lord Curzon investigates in the Nineteenth Century the question as to which window at the Banqueting Hall in Whitehall was the one from which Charles I. stepped to his execution.

"The dispute is one which I do not presume to solve, though I am not deterred by Lord Beaconsfield's alleged witicism from stating its conditions," says Lord Curzon. "He is reported to have given the following advice to a young man about to enter society: 'Never ask who wrote the Letters of Junius or on which side of Whitehall Charles I. was beheaded. Neither of the questions here posed is any longer acute, for the identity of Junius scarcely admits of doubt, and the puzzle at Whitehall is not on which side the river Charles I. was executed—for it is absolutely certain that the scaffold was erected in Whitehall directly facing what was then the Titl Yard and is now the Horse Guards—but out of what part of the building he stepped on to the scaffold, after resting for a while in the interior of the palace."

"Sir Thomas Herbert, his gentleman of the bedchamber, who attended him in his walk across the Park and to the scaffold, and who carried off his dead body to be embalmed, says that there was a passage broken through the wall by which the King passed into the scaffold. Excluding inadmissible suggestions, the alternatives are practically limited to two, either the middle window on the lower tier of the Banqueting House was broken through—these windows were at all times unglazed and were built up of masonry—so that the king might step straight out on to the scaffold or, after walking through the Banqueting Hall he passed into a little annex or building which then projected from the northern or Charing Cross end corresponding to the present outer entrance into the Royal United Service Museum and stepped through a window on the Whitehall face of this building—where is now the end of the scaffold, which extends along the face of the Banqueting House towards Westminster. In this case the passage broken through the wall would be either a passage through the Hall to the annex—corresponding fairly to the present inner doorway of the Museum—or the window which may have been enlarged for the purpose."

"Personally I incline to the theory that it was from the window in the annex that King Charles stepped forth to his doom. Another controversy arises out of the same incident—viz: whether the King knelt with his head on a block of the customary size and shape or whether he lay prone on the ground."

How The Kaiser Reads the World's News

"The Kaiser as he is" is the title of an article by Murray's Magazine by Baron von Döberlein which describes the Emperor's habitual energetic plunge into the day's work: "With true Prussian punctiliousness he gets up at six o'clock sharp every morning, rain or shine. The only exception to this iron rule is when he rises at four o'clock, or even earlier, to attend a military review or similar function, and when he travels by rail the rising hour then being set for seven o'clock."

"Before his Ministers call to present a survey of the days political outlook the Kaiser has put in more than an hour's reading of the principal German and foreign newspapers. Of course he cannot read all the papers but in order not to miss anything of vital interest he maintains a small staff of trained readers who operate in seven languages under the arching eye of a Prussian officer with specific instructions to clip the essential news appertaining to questions and issues in which the monarch is specially interested. The cuttings are pasted on large cards and inserted in a loose-leaf portfolio of morocco leather bearing the imperial arms."

"At precisely seven o'clock the officer presents the portfolio from which the Kaiser proceeds to draw information making blue-pencil remarks in the margins as he goes along criticising or approving the selections made. If a vital foreign article is encountered in a language not known to the Emperor—who by the way speaks English and French like a native—it is translated on the spot and pasted in the portfolio."

"By this systematising and selecting his newspaper and magazine which comprises technical and scientific problems as well as political, military, naval and art topics, the Kaiser has reached a point where he is easily the best informed and best technically trained monarch on any throne."

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mack, infant son of Selby and Bertha Nosworthy, died on Monday last, aged 2 months, and on Saturday last, Hedley, aged 8 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ash, of Noad Street.

Death has been particularly busy the past week, and on Thursday night the dread summons came to Mrs. Pynn, wife of Mr. Geo. W. Pynn. Mrs. Pynn had been a sufferer for a long time to consumption, but fought the battle bravely. She leaves besides an aged father and husband, three little children to mourn the loss of an affectionate mother. Deceased was in her 26th year.

Mr. Leander Parsons, for a number of years past, acting tinner at the jail here, who we reported some time ago as suffering from a serious stomach trouble, passed away this morning, aged 45 years. Mr. Parsons leaves a widow and several sons and daughters to mourn their loss. He was a quiet, thoughtful man, and his death will be regretted by a large number of friends and acquaintances.

A thoughtful little girl of the West End, who held a ticket for the event of the season, the Masonic Festival, to be held this evening, found herself not sufficiently recovered from an attack of illness, to attend, so she proved she was not selfish, by sending the ticket to a friend with the request that she go in her stead. Such thoughtfulness and kindness is a worthy pattern for many of the older folks.

A disgraceful scene occurred near Rannerman Street, yesterday (Sunday) when two hitherto friends, with apparently little or no provocation, commenced to pummel each other unmercifully. So long and severe was the battle, that at its finish one at least had to be carried home with blood flowing from his head, and one of his eyes permanently injured. No need to shudder, gentle reader, the fight was only between two roosters, one a Plymouth Rock, the other a Brown Leghorn.

The King Edward Brigade held its first Church parade yesterday and attended the morning service at the Methodist Church. The Band of the Brigade took its place at the head of the parade for the first time, and discoursed sacred music on the parade. Twenty-one instruments in all are in the Band. Mr. Collis, the teacher, has accomplished excellent work during the past six weeks, and he and his lady, as well as Colonel Rogers, and the other officers of the Brigade, are to be congratulated on the excellent turn out. The service in the Church by Rev. Mr. Darby, was very hearty and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. We hope soon to see the sister Brigade, C.C.C., commencing its regular Sunday Church parades.

Mrs. John L. Oke returned from St. John's on Tuesday last, after a few days pleasantly spent with friends.

The 'Daily News' tells us that a couple of cases of smallpox were lately reported at Haystack, and surmises that it was brought from Barren Island. From a letter lately received from that place, we hear that two cases of a mild type are under quarantine at Haystack and one at Spencer's Cove, and it is thought the disease was taken while at a boarding house at Placentia. This should be investigated, as we have not heard of any cases at the latter place.

NEW YORK, To-Day.

Declined in mid-Atlantic, with all hands starving, with seven other vessels in sight but unable to give help, was the condition in which the steamer Hartlein found the Norwegian barque Rimao, according to Hartlein's officers who brought the ship to port. The Hartlein left Celtic early in March and sighted a becalmed fleet of vessels on March 17. The Rimao was flying urgent distress signals. She hailed the Hartlein and said she was 152 days out from Liqueque for Falmouth with a cargo of nitrate and that all hands on board were starving. A boat load of provisions was sent her from the steamer. Light winds and calms delayed the Rimao.

LONDON, To-Day.

Martin Donohue and Adamead Bartlett will send the Chronicle and Telegraph respectively an account of their visit to Turkish headquarters at Hamdekel, Turkish commanders having practically raised restrictions as to war correspondents going to the front. Both these writers say the Turkish army has undergone a wonderful change since they last saw it. Notwithstanding the terrible severe winter, an immense amount of work has been done strengthening their lines and preparing for a general advance. Donohue says that somebody has worked wonders: order and organization has been made out of the most hopeless chaos. Food is no longer a rare luxury, soldiers are well clad and housed, overdue pay has been made good, useless men weeded out, and there are now more than 120,000 seasoned efficient along the lines.

The advanced posts which went forward from Tchatalja are in continual touch with the enemy. Bartlett describes the stories of desperate fighting as weak nonsense. It was the general advance outposts who discovered the enemies' position. Surprising information has been obtained with only 310 casualties. Reconnaissance disclosed the fact that there were two complete Bulgarian armies between Tchatalja and the enemy's supposed main line of resistance. Bulgarians hold Kadikou, a village where there has been sharp fighting. Bartlett continues that the discovery of the enemy's unexpected strength led to a suspension of all forward movements, almost seems as if the Turks have abandoned their intention of marching to the relief of Adrianople.

OMAHA, To-Day.

Storm appeared to have started at Fifty-Fourth and Center Streets, from there travelled north, veered slightly east on Leavenworth Street, then took northerly course to Fourth Farnam Streets, swooping through everything. Still travelling a little east. Covered course from Fortieth Street East to Thirty-Fourth street, a distance of six blocks, striking Bemis Park, where the homes of well-to-do Omahas were located. The storm turned sharply east, passed along Parker and Blonde streets and went down Fourth Street, where its path was six blocks wide. Latter section of damage completed. Finally, Fourteenth Spencer Street. Storm swept over bluffs high above the Missouri River, demolished the Missouri Pacific round house, levelled the big trestle of the Illinois Central Railroad over Carter Lake, wrecked a number of buildings near the Rod and Gun Club, a fashionable outing place, and disappeared to the northeast. Estimates of value of property demolished by the storm vary between $5,000,000 and $12,000,000. Some of the most substantial houses can be partially rebuilt, but the number is small. Where buildings have not been torn asunder they have been so twisted that even the material is useless for rebuilding. Five public schools are out of commission at Omaha, ten churches partly wrecked, one private school for girls a total wreck, although the students escaped. Rest of the loss is homes.

LONDON, To-Day.

The Powers have come to an agreement regarding the boundaries of Northern Northeastern Albania, Jakova to Lake Ochrida. Their decision will be made known collectively to the allies, who at the same time will be informed that as Europe has settled the question there will be no further need of military operations. Result of which would not in any way affect the Powers' agreement. Ambassadors will now take in hand the question of southern limits of Albania. A Sofia despatch says that sharp fighting took place to-day both in Adriatic and Tchatalja, but details are lacking. Sam McVey and Sam Langford fought 29 rounds to a draw in Brisbane, Australia, yesterday. In their previous meeting Langford won by a knockout.

High Jinks

at Rossley's.

Last night the pantomime at the Star Theatre drew capacity houses and everybody said it is the very best yet, and Mrs. Rossley well deserves the high compliments she is receiving, and it seems incredible for a woman alone to handle so large a crowd of children and train them to such a state of perfection. Every one was enraptured with the little ones dressed as coons in their plantation song and dance. But the butterfly dance tore down the house, with the beautiful mechanical and spectacular finish when from out of the butterfly wings comes England, Ireland, Scotland and Newfoundland. It is certainly one of the daintiest and most novel sights seen here. One of Mrs. Rossley's pupils also sings a duet, dressed as a boy, with Miss Bonnie, which called for several encores; this dainty little Miss possesses a very fine voice. The acting of Joe Burkhardt, as the village school teacher, was funny, his singing pilgrims had the house in roars. Percy Orth was very good as the Inspector. The orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Ryall, was delightful. The show should draw great houses, as it certainly is one of the best.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 24. Dr. Elliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, has declined the British Embassy, for financial, not health, reasons.

LONDON, March 24. The incendiaries marauded Beckenham, a southeast London suburb, to-day, before dawn, setting fire to homes under construction. The women were disturbed by a passing policeman, and escaped. Very little damage was done.

AMOY, March 24. The destruction of the opium crops by the Government, is being carried out energetically. A force of 300 troops was despatched from here to-day to Tung Lan, where the farmers resisted the efforts of the authorities to destroy their poppy plants.

MANCHESTER, March 24. Suffragettes to-day bolted, barred and chained the doors of a hall where the annual conference of the Labor Party was proceeding. The matter was not discovered until lunch time, and the chains had to be filed through before they could leave the hall.

ROME, March 24. Pope, his physicians decided this morning that it would be impossible for His Holiness to hold the audience he had arranged for to-morrow. No further audiences will be held until April 3rd. The Pope is much depressed by the death on Saturday, of Cardinal Respighi.

LONDON, March 24. The Commons to-day, for the first time within living memory, sat on Easter Monday. Premier Asquith explained that the innovation was due to the necessity of passing the financial votes before the close of the fiscal year on March 31st, and to clear the way for a re-visit of the Home Rule fight. Many members stayed away in protest.

BERLIN, March 24. The assassination of King George of Greece has resulted in the institution of more stringent precautions for the protection of the Kaiser. Germany's numerous socialist and anarchist societies are not inclined toward violence, but the sudden impulse of some unbalanced person, who has been inspired by the successful assassination of King George, is feared. The King's death may affect the wedding of Princess Victoria Louise and Prince Ernest of Cumberland, scheduled for May 24th, confining it to almost a private affair. No official announcement has yet been made.

BREST, March 24. A resolution, calling on France and Germany to agree to proportionate disarmament, was adopted to-day by the French National Congress of United Socialists, sitting here. The resolution declares that the present rivalry of arms in the name of peace is provocative of war, and can only be prevented by a treaty to reduce armaments simultaneously.

OMAHA, March 24. The latest lists give 150 killed and 400 injured. The problem of housing the thousands of homeless, is being faced. The destroyed buildings number 1,200, property loss many millions. Similar reports of death and destruction are coming from all quarters. Hospitals are filled, many of the victims being unidentified, owing to the death or injury of their friends. Troops are patrolling the stricken section. Governor Morehead taking personal charge. There has been little or no looting, business men cooperating in every way. Omaha hotels have thrown their doors open to the injured. Scores of physicians have come to the city from nearby towns, and also hundreds of people from nearby towns who have friends here.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 24. With a known death-list of 16, reports brought by messengers on horseback from the south part of Vigo county, reported that the toll from a tornado would probably reach 50. It may be some days before the exact number is known, as many are believed to be buried in the ruins of their homes. The property loss exceeds $5,000,000, in addition to the destruction of 300 homes in the south part of Terre Haute. Princeton, a small town, 6 miles south, was destroyed, and the intervening territory devastated. Omaha suffered most severely. Whole blocks of houses were dashed into shapeless masses; street cars were hurled from the tracks. A moving picture show was destroyed, in which were about 50 people at the time, most of whom are buried in the debris, from which 8 bodies have so far been recovered. Bemis Park, the finest residential district, is razed to the ground. Among the show places destroyed, was Joslyn Castle, whose roof was torn off, and the trees and shrubbery uprooted.

Remarkable Escape from Starvation off Cape Horn

Extract of letter from D. V. JAMES (Master), of the late barque "Golarica," of Glasgow.

"Having lost our ship on Staten Island, on the 5th of July, and having saved neither ourselves nor our cargo, we were compelled to travel on the island for ten days, subsisting on nothing but seal fish and seaweed. On the 19th of July we came across another shipwrecked party of seventeen, the surviving part of the crew of the British ship "Dunkeld," of Glasgow, fourteen having perished through exposure. How the ship was lost on the 24th of June, and a lot of the cargo, consisting of Epps' Cocoa, was washed ashore out of the wreck. There was nothing saved except the Cocoa, and we, numbering twenty-five men, were kept alive and warm for 6 weeks on this barren island, situated in a region of perpetual ice and snow."

Want The Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The people here would like to know why they cannot buy the Evening Telegram on the evening train, now, as well as they could all the winter. I may say that the Telegram is the popular paper here, and when that paper can be procured the people buy it, but we are disagreeably surprised to find that the newsboy either has not got the Telegram, or else for some reason will not sell it. Now we would like very much for this state of affairs to cease, and permit us to obtain our choice in the shape of a newspaper, at least.

We have been wondering if the old Tory trick of intercepting the Telegram is being practiced again, for we still remember how in 1908-09, when the last campaigns were being fought, that in accordance with the many other cowardly and contemptible tactics practiced by that party of supreme bluffers, they always had a squad of hide-bound heeled, whose ignoble duty it was to buy up all the Liberal papers which were sent out on the trains and burn them, so as to prevent as far as possible, the truth, and their exposure becoming circulated amongst the electors. But we are determined that these miserable little tricks won't work this time, Mr. Tory, for you will be made to take your medicine more like men, whether you like it or lump it. Trusting that the trouble complained of above, may be speedily remedied and the People's Paper placed within the reach of the people.

I am, Sir,

The Masked Ball.

Dear Sir,—Through the columns of your esteemed paper I should like to make a suggestion in regard to the Masked Ball to be held April 15th. I believe it is the intention of the good ladies of the Alexandra Workers to make the affair as enjoyable as possible and to hold the masquerade in thoroughly carnival fashion. It is the custom in all dances to provide programmes whereupon to list the names of different partners and thus avoid confusion; but if in this case (Masked Ball) programmes are provided, and every one is mingling incognito, how is it possible to list names when the dancers are, or should be, masked? Will not everyone drift hopelessly away from the original intention and dance with those only known to him or her and thus mar the whole affair?

The despair of the modern St. John's hostess is the rather bewildering overflow of ladies and the alarming shortage of men—rather nice for the men by the way. But meeting a terrible state of anxiety for match-making manas—and of course this overflow necessitates a large number of "excuse me, ladies, but I am doing it or you." Now, as I said before, the enjoyment of all is hoped for and of course we want every lady to be included. Therefore I suggest no programmes.

Each lady, though she may be seemingly "slow" and "solid," but oftentimes the rare jewel shining softly and tenderly in the lonely and unfriendly darkness, would then have an equal chance with the reigning belle, whose programme is "filled" upon her glorious entrance into the ballroom made clamorous by the rush of many men because she "entertains." That absurd and hollow snobishness so prevalent among Society (some of it Heaven help us!) here and righteously condemned by all true hearted ladies and gentlemen would be for once done away with. Gentlemen who are gentlemen, and not absurd, frivolous youngsters, would ask a dance of a laughing milkmaid or a bewitching egypt, whose costume and charming manner attracted him, regardless of the mighty, social bar and would, if kind fortune favoured him, be accepted.

If this suggestion of no programme were carried out I think everyone would enjoy themselves to the full and the confusion bound to ensue if programmes be used would be avoided. At any rate I commend the idea to the good ladies of the Alexandra Workers. I might add that the Gymkhana was somewhat marred by some of the gentlemen not carrying out the original idea and we do not want this to spoil the "Bal Masque."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space. I am,
"DANCER."

Note From Mr. Miller.

Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of Saturday's date a Special to the "Evening Telegram," from St. Lawrence, saying one Miller, of St. Pierre, alleged to be Crobie's Agent at work on the schr. "Lucy House." In fair play to Mr. Crobie I wish to say that he has not employed me to work on this vessel, but I am employed by Messrs. Bowring Brothers, Lloyds' Agents.

Yours very truly,

The Power of Matter Over Mind.

We have had enough talk and enough books written about the power of mind over matter to fill all the foolish houses in the world.

It is a pity we haven't a larger library of the Power of Matter over Mind.

If sufficient data could be obtained we should probably find that the mind is more deeply influenced by the material things around it than by other minds.

The offices in which you work, the streets down which you walk, or better still the very clothes you wear all are making their deep impression upon your mind.

If you don't believe this go and change the pictures upon your walls, or walk down a new street, or make any material thing in your life different, and you will make your mind different.

The man with a new suit of clothes doesn't think the same as he did when he had an old suit. He doesn't even act the same, and he certainly doesn't feel the same.

"If I were out of a position to-day," said a business man, "I wouldn't look first for a new position; I would look first for a new suit of clothes."

"If I had a difficult problem to solve, I wouldn't go first at the problem; I'd concentrate every ounce of my attention on getting a new pair of shoes, or I'd look over a bundle of new neckties, or even take a woman's measure in hunting up a new spring hat. And when I got back to my problem, my very new clothes would bring a new mind to bear upon it."

This isn't Tom-foolery, its mighty hard sense.

Two-thirds of you men are mentally stale to-day, because you are still wearing old clothes in this new spring.

If you put something new on your bodies you'd get something new in your minds.

And you men who are working on salaries and wages, it is more important for you to have new clothes than anyone else. Because your success depends so much on how you look at things. And how you look at things, depends so much in turn on how others look at you.

Better take this to heart and turn now to the advertising to see what the stores in this paper are offering to-day.

Put new clothes on your body and on will put new thoughts in your mind.

A Wonderful Picture.

AT THE CASINO.

The Casino Theatre was the centre of attraction last evening and thither thousands of ladies and gentlemen wended their way. It was a record attendance for the Hall, as we are informed that never before were there such "houses." There were three shows and the seats at each were occupied while many were not able to gain admittance until the last show was on. The programme was splendid and all came away delighted. "The Four Daredavils" which was the principal picture surpassed anything seen here before. It is one of the most sensational tragedies seen in moving pictures. It is highly exciting and the spectator is held spell bound. In the final scene, the "Fall to Death" when two of the acrobats fall and are killed is most impressive. It is a picture which will long be remembered and none should fail to witness it. There are also two funny comedies: "The Fickle Spaniard" and "The Leading Man." Miss Garden sang "The Green Grass Grows all Round" and "At the Yiddish Ball" and charmed her hearers; she is a very clever artist, and considering that she only finished an eight day trip, yesterday afternoon and appeared without a single rehearsal, made a great hit. Miss Guerin did not appear as her baggage did not arrive. It will be here by the next express and she will be heard on Wednesday. The programme will be repeated this evening and none should miss it.

FOR HEALTH TRIP.—Mr. Percy Jardine, of Bowring Brothers, will leave here on the schooner Freedom to-day for Pernambuco. He goes on the round trip and hopes that his health which has been impaired will improve thereby.

A Quality Women Lack.

By RUTH CAMERON.

MISS ZUBERT AND BABE.

It is supposed to be an understood fact that the ability to keep a secret is a rare thing in a woman. Myself, I have my doubts about that. I rather think that delusion arose because a good many women keep their secrets so well that the other sex doesn't even guess they exist.

However, that's beside the point. What I started to say was this. That I think I know one ability which is rarer in a woman even than secretiveness is supposed to be. And that is the ability to make up her mind what she can afford to spend for any article, and to stick to it.

A friend of mine went shopping for a suit the other day. Before she went she told me she would like to get it for $25; she might have to pay $27 or $28, but she simply couldn't afford to go over $30.

She came back from her trip to town, enthusiastic over her purchase. It was a wonderful bargain, she said, marked from $50 to $35. "Wasn't that more than you expected to pay?" I asked. She looked almost hurt at this suggestion. "Only $5," she said, "and what is that in a suit I shall wear two years?"

This is the sort of thing this woman is continually doing, and yet she is always wondering how she manages to spend her allowance so quickly. Even as you and I!

A great many women are even worse than that. They buy by arithmetical progression, as it were. For instance, a woman of this type goes to town to buy a hat. She intends to pay not more than $10. At the first shop she is shown a becoming model at $12. That is only $2 more than she intended to pay and so she places it among the possibilities to be held in mind while she looks a little further.

At the next place she admires a $15 hat and she says to herself, "Well, that's only $3 more than the other, and $3 isn't much when you're spending $15." If she finally stops at $18 or $20 her husband may consider himself lucky.

Christmas presents are my bete noir in this matter. Last year I was fully persuaded that I had lost $10 when I came home from my last afternoon of Christmas shopping. Fortunately, before advertising my loss, I sat down and figured for a few minutes. I found that $10 in the "just a little mores" over my estimate for each gift, that I had spent.

A neighbour of mine who for many years was in a position to cultivate a taste for nice things, now has to live within a very limited income, and this is the ingenious way in which she helps herself to do this. "I always tell the clerk just what I can afford to pay," says she, "and I ask her not to show me anything more expensive, because I know that will spoil the cheaper things for me."

And don't you admire the strength of mind that indicates?

I do, too.

I do, too.

WOMAN'S WISDOM.

The worried mother wakes up to hear her baby's heavy breathing—a little cough—perhaps the croup or whooping cough. She does not want to send for the doctor when perhaps the trouble does not amount to much. Finally she thinks of that medical book her father gave her, The Common Sense Medical Adviser, by R. V. Pierce, M. D. She says "I just thought I had out what is the matter with the little dear." Two million households in this country own one—and it's to be had for only 31c. in stamps—1,000 pages in splendid cloth binding. A good family adviser in any emergency. It is for either sex. This is what many women write Dr. Pierce—in respect to his "Favorite Prescription," a remedy which has made thousands of melancholy and miserable women cheerful and happy, by curing the painful womanly diseases which undermine a woman's health and strength.

"My desire is to write a few lines to let you know that your valuable medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. M. A. ZUBERT, 222 E. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md. "Before the doctor came to our house I was a very sick woman. I wrote you for advice which was kindly given and which made me a different woman in a short time. After taking the first bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' I began improving so that I hardly knew I was in such a condition. I did my own housework—washing and ironing, cooking, sewing, and the worst of all nursed three children who had whooping cough. I hardly knew of the advent ten minutes before—so easy was it. The baby is as fat as a butter-bell. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine for any woman to take when in this condition. I recommend it to all my friends."

Equal parts of milk and lukewarm water is excellent for sponging palms.

A torn umbrella can sometimes be mended by using black adhesive plaster.

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes 18 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a 16-ounce bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite, and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, croup, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—I see by your paper of the 16th inst., how the Minister of Customs told Mr. Clift in the House of Assembly, that the Bruce and the Invermore paid no fees at Port aux Basques for entering or clearing out of office hours or on Sundays. Now, if that is so, I want to know why these steamers should not obey the law as well as every other steamer that wants to do business with the customs, after hours or on Sundays, has got to pay for it, and if it is right for them why not for the Reids? I understand the after hours fees go to the collector, and it seems to me to be pretty mean to try and do him out of his rights. I have often heard of officials in St. John's, being paid good fat fees for working overtime, and I think it is only just and fair that our port officials should be treated straight. But there, I guess the collector at Port aux Basques is able to mind his own business without my meddling in. But what I would like to have explained is why the Reids boats should not pay the lawful fee for work done after hours, as well as every other boat, schooner or steamer in the country. Hoping some writer who likes to see fair play, will take up this matter.

I remain, yours truly,

The Chair Car.

BY H. L. RANN.

The chair car is a palace on wheels, which carries a human freight, feet and lost sleep. The person who invented the chair car equipped it with everything except ventilation, which is usually secured by throwing open both doors and allowing an Arctic blast to seize the passengers around the ankles.

The chair car was designed for the express benefit of people who cannot rest in a Pullman sleeper without curling up in the form of a letter S. It has often been remarked that a man who stands 6 feet 4 inches tall can unwind himself with perfect ease in a chair car and present a picture of how-legged composure that causes envy to arise in the breasts of his fellow passengers.

The chair car has adjustable seats, which are worked by a secret combination and a hidden spring which nobody can locate but the porter. When a man sits down in one of these chairs and begins to feel around nervously for the springs, he will be watched with great interest by everybody in the car until the back of the seat flies out from under him and tips him up in a playful manner. The easiest way to adjust one of these seats is to give the porter two bits.

One of the most pleasant features of life in a chair car is the free and unrestrained order of conversation which permeates its precincts from ten o'clock at night until the following morning. The only people who can sleep in a chair car are those who are so deaf that Gabriel will have to talk on his fingers in order to secure their attention. Just about the time everybody in the car has settled down for a nap somebody with a telescope grip and a violent nose will come in and start a debate about the proper method of curing Timothy hay. By the time he reaches his station, two free-spoken neighbor women, who have not seen each other since yesterday, will get on and fill the car with family history. On this account, the chair car breeds more insomnias than the piano player in the Hat above.

Replies to "Looker-On."

Dear Sir,—I would feel obliged to you if you can find space in your esteemed paper for the following letter in reply to one "Looker-On." As "Looker-On" had written to the "News," I thought it but fair to him and to that paper that I reply to him through the same medium. The "News" has refused publicity to my letter, which is unfair, the more so as I am writing over my own signature, and ask no paper to assume any responsibility for my words by adopting a non-deplume, as "Looker-On." "Looker-On" insinuates that I am seeking notoriety by giving my name for publication. I may say to "Looker-On" that I am doing just what I have always contended, that men should speak out their convictions, and always in the open. I seek no reward, I seek no notoriety, and by making the mean insinuation "Looker-On" is but confirming my opinion of him, that he is biased, he is prejudiced. He condemns in others, just what he has not the malice to do himself. He confesses prejudice in regard to Mr. McGrath, when he says he did not read "Newfoundland in 1911," because McGrath had written it. In the same breath he maintains that the work is an excellent one, for the late W. T. Stead had praised it. And because Stead had praised it, it was impossible for me to have refuted its claim. What does "Looker-On" know of me or my ability? I will leave the answer to "Looker-On." I will let "Looker-On" know nothing whatever of me, although he says I have not the ability to criticize McGrath's book.

ARTHUR ENGLISH.

Editor Daily News.
Dear Sir,—I had forgotten that I had taken Mr. "Looker-On" to task till taking up the "News" this morning.

brag of driving the author from the field of controversy, an absolute impossibility for such a writer as Mr. Arthur English. What more convincing proof is needed of "Looker-On's" bias and prejudice. He has neither read the book itself nor my criticism, but a short review of it by W. T. Stead, and at once concludes that for Arthur English to drive McGrath from the field of controversy, is an impossibility. That I did drive McGrath completely into silence, is admitted by all who followed my writing. His only attempt at defence was by adopting abuse. He advanced no clean argument, but introduced irrelevant personalities from the start which disgusted even his friends. Mr. McGrath's bubble of fame has been dispelled like the mist of the morning before the rising sun.

Again, "Looker-On" convicts himself of being unreasonable when he objects to my advice to clean up at home. He takes that to himself in a personal way, when the context proves that I meant the camp in which he chose to stand as a defender. I have not accused the poor simple fellow of mud slinging either, though he thinks I have. It is but another evidence that you are not logical, Mr. "Looker-On."

A further evidence of "Looker-On's" sincerity, is in the whole tenor of his miserable juggling with the language. The whole letter is a tissue of abuse and lying, though doubtless he does not see it, so undeveloped is his power of discernment. I have no intention of engaging myself in a wrangle with one who is so incapable of putting a proper construction on the plain and simple words of another. Mr. "Looker-On" cannot produce one sentence from anything that I have ever written, which would show that mud-slinging has ever been in my line.

Until you will have learned to reason and to abstain from foul language yourself, Mr. "Looker-On," I will advise you as I advised Mr. McGrath last year to go into retirement. Read some, study some works on logic, and let the books you read be suffused with Christian charity. You must know that however much you may desire a better tone to the press, your patry and abusive letters are not conducive to that desirable end.

ARTHUR ENGLISH.

Murder Was Political.

LONDON, March 24.
The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, says that the murder of General Sung, former Minister of Agriculture, was political, and may have disastrous effects. He and General Hsiang, former Commander-in-Chief, represented the militant element of the South, who have 386 out of 546 members in the coming Parliament, who stand for the party of Provincial Rights, against President Yuan Shi Kai's idea of Peking dictatorship. The correspondent seems to indicate that President Yuan had something to do with the murder. He adds that blindest pessimism reigns in diplomatic quarters.

President Coaker in Fogo District.

DOTING COVE.
via MUSGRAVE HR.,
March 24.

Special Evening Telegram.
On Thursday President Coaker arrived at Carmanville, having been met by Unionists numbering upwards of 200 three miles from Carmanville. The great parade marched to Carmanville amidst volleys of musketry, which continued throughout the whole march. Arches were erected at Noggin's Cove, bearing mottoes painted by the residents such as "Sink or Swim with Coaker," "The F. P. U. Forever," "The Graballs Must Go," and "Welcome to our President." At Carmanville the District Council met, holding two sessions. A large number of delegates representing every Council but one were present. On Thursday night the ladies tendered a grand banquet to the President and delegates, which was a grand success. The banquet was held at the new school building. At 8 o'clock the President delivered a speech in the Orange Hall which was packed to its fullest capacity. The speech was two and a half hours long and nothing equal to it is ever heard at Carmanville before. The enthusiasm was wonderful and the speaker was cheered repeatedly throughout the speech. The minister was present on the platform and Warmly Congratulated the President, expressing the great pleasure it gave him to be present and his thanks for the great speech. The District Council opened again after the public meeting and sat until 3 a.m. on Friday morning. Another great demonstration was tendered the President as he left for Lads Cove. At Lads Cove, three splendid arches, similar to the Bonavista arches, were erected along the road the President was to pass. The ladies gathered with the men and cheered, although it was raining heavily. At White Point, three miles from Doting Cove, the Unionists of Musgrave and Doting Cove had gathered, and had been waiting several hours for the President. When the President left the ferry-boat, the reports from 60 joyful hearts gathered with the President greeted him. The cheering was wonderful. The parade, under the direction of friend Peter White-way, marched to Musgrave and all around Doting Cove. The rain continued to fall, but almost every man, woman and child was in the street. Musketry, such as was never before heard, belted forth their welcome all along the route. Old men, over 70 years, were in the parade.

Upwards of 250 men marched. Three splendid arches with the usual stirring mottoes, had been erected by friends at Musgrave. "Looker-On" has been forgotten. Several non-Unionists fired joy guns and decorated their places with bunting. At Doting Cove five great arches had been erected bearing some new and novel mottoes. One of them had a room on either side equal to a home, where the girls gathered and sang the grand old hymns "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Rescue the Perishing." The women and girls of Doting Cove numbered about 100, and joined the parade on the return march from the South side of Doting Cove, and cheering the men responded in reply. The whole route was decorated with bunting. Almost every home had a flag flying to the breeze. The members of the Union then entered Doting Cove Union Hall, and were addressed by the President. In the afternoon, a Union meeting was held. At 8 Saturday night, the President opened a great mass meeting at Wesley Hall, Carmanville. Every possible inch of space was clinched. The crowd was so large that the audience were prevented from stamping, owing to the Great Weight of the Audience.

The Musgrave Union Chairman, friend James Goodyear, presided. The President delivered a brilliant address occupying 2½ hours. It was the best speech of all he delivered on the Strait Shore. The people were held spell-bound by the brilliant address. The applause was deafening; hand clapping only being permitted. The Rev. Mr. Morer and lady were present. Never before did such an audience gather. Never before was such a speech heard. The audience did cheer and every person showed their appreciation of the President's speech at the close. The cheering was wonderful. Cheers were given for President Coaker, the F. P. U. and Sir Robert Bond. Nothing like the Union feeling prevailing now was ever known here. The non-Union men openly stated that they intended to vote for Coaker. The District Council reports show that out of 1,900 votes, 1,400 is sure for Coaker. From Victoria Cove to Doting Cove, the President's tour has been a triumphal one, every settlement receiving him as a Prince, firing powder guns, walking in parade and cheering as they never did before. Arches were erected throughout the district, one settlement trying to out-do the other in the shape of workmanship and mottoes of the arches. President Coaker is hailed joyfully by men, women and children in the district. His speeches are like sermons. He touches every part. He convinces the most hardened opponent. All opposition disappear before the eloquence of his addresses. Yesterday the clergymen spoke of his speeches in their sermons. Union politics appeal to the people as nothing political ever before did. The people inform President Coaker that they need not trouble about Fogo District next fall, but to visit places where no union exists, as wherever a Council is established there is no fear of the outcome. The President left for Indian Islands to-day. He will have a hard tramp overland as there is no driving, but he does not mind a 20 mile tramp every day. We will "Sink or Swim with Coaker." Why does not the Government send the Stella Maria to our harbours. We want feed for cattle and other goods, and ask Sir Edward to see that the Stella Maria call at the Fogo ports of call. She passes our doors, but seeing her is our portion of her. We pay her subsidy and we demand her service.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LINCOLN, Oregon, March 24.
A hundred are dead and 200 injured by a tornado, which devastated Omaha and its surroundings last night, demoralizing the telephone and telegraph service and cutting Omaha off from the outside world. The property loss was heavy. The tornado swept from south-west to north-east, over residences in the city, leaving destruction and carnage from two to four blocks wide. Fires added to the horror, and so numerous were they that the firemen could not respond in many cases. The police were unable to protect the district, and soldiers were called out from Fort Omaha. The tornado zone is now under martial law.

Weights and Measures Question.

The question of want of uniformity in weights and measures and the irregularities existing at present in the trade were discussed at the Board of Trade rooms last evening by a large number of city dealers. The old-time method of gauging molasses and the system of measuring casks were criticized. It was indicated clearly where the dealer suffers loss owing to the prevailing system in measuring. The recommendations to be forwarded to the Government are not as yet drawn up.

Tailors Celebrate.

The Tailors' Annual Dance, which was the first Easter social event, took place in the British Hall last night under favourable conditions, and it was the most successful event yet held by that body. Over two hundred people participated. The ballroom was prettily decorated. At nine o'clock dancing commenced, the music being supplied by Messrs. Myron O'Grady and Bailey. At midnight there was the customary interval when a short concert was given. Dancing was continued until 3 o'clock this morning when the company dispersed.

The Highlanders Ball.

The Officers of the Newfoundland Highlanders will hold their annual ball in the British Hall to-morrow (Wednesday) night. The hall is being very handsomely decorated and a very enjoyable time is assured those who attend. The decorations will be left in position for the warrant and non-coms dance to be held Friday night. The C. C. C. band will furnish the dance music.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, March 25, 1913.
At this time of year, many children exhibit the symptoms of worms. These symptoms—variable appetite, restlessness at night, itching of the nose, dark circles under the eyes, foul breath—should not be ignored. The difficulty that many mothers have to get their children to take medicine for worms, can easily be gotten over by the use of McMurdo's Worm Syrup, which no child will refuse to take, and which is beside, one of the most effective remedies for intestinal parasites. Price 25 cents a bottle.
Mazerine's English Cure for Carrh is a soothing, healing and anti-septic cream which quickly relieves irritation of the nasal passages, stoppage of the nose, cold in the head, offensive droppings into the throat, and other results of catarrh. It has been found particularly good this season, when sudden changes of weather have made throat and head trouble more than usually prevalent. Price 50 cents a crock.

Benefit Night.

The attendance at the Prince's rink last night was large despite the lateness of the season. The proceeds were for the Ice-men. A spirited and interesting hockey match took place between the City and a team of Bankers. The game resulted in a victory for the former by nine goals to eight. The players were—City—Thomas, goal; G. Herder, point; Tobin, cover; Higgins, rover; Churchill, left; R. Herder, centre; Brien, right.
Bankers—N. Vinnicombe, goal; Morison, point; Ford, cover; Joy, rover; White, left; Lilly, centre; Stick, right.

The following message was received to-day from Capt. Connors, of the s.s. Prospero:
"Jammed off Hermitage; bay full of ice; twisted rudder same as before; temporary repairs made; got to handle carefully the rest of the trip."

Stabbed At By Sailor.

Yesterday about one o'clock a young man was stabbed at by an unknown person on Gover Street and came near being badly injured. The former is a teamster and was accosted by a man who was identified as a sailor and who was intoxicated. The sailor brandished a sharp knife and without any provocation plunged it at the passing citizen. The weapon took him in the left side, cut through his clothing, but fortunately did not harm the flesh. The police should get after such dangerous characters as they should not be allowed at large.

Not Heard From.

The two men, Maurice and Edward Michael, who are missing at Woody Islands as reported by us yesterday, are Syrians and brothers. Maurice, who is 30 years old, is married, and Edward is single. They left Woody Island two weeks ago to walk to York Harbour and were overtaken in a snow storm which set in shortly after they left. Mr. Joseph Murphy, of this city, wired for particulars yesterday and found that a search party had set out to look for them yesterday morning.
