CHAPTER XXII
IN WHICH MR. HURST MAKES AN AWKWARD DISCOVERY.

How all—Sydney exulted over this! "Wasn't it the very thing poor Mr. Alwyn would have done if money had come to him before he died?—for he wasn't the man to injure a soul willingly." And he showed her letters of blundering orthography, but unmistakable gratitude, and described his poor, hard-pressed landlady's outburst of joy; how she had refused her share till assured none came out of his, Jacob's, pocket; and how, when convinced her fortune had come back in a golden lump, she had insisted on embracing Mr. Cheene, and poured out her blessings on her such self-obloquy at having overstepped the bounds of justice in the matter of her lodger's "leavings," as confessed Jacob, smoothing his shaggy eyebrows, "made a simpton of me, Miss Sydney, though I hadn't felt so happy for fifteen years."

And he told, too, of poor John Lewis; how his old cottage would be free at Michaelmas, and he was to get back to it; and how, with Nurse's money and his own poverty would never hang about their door again. Sydney's eyes overflowed with that. "If only dear old Taffy could have had her share! You put what I told you for her, Jacob?"

"Yes," he answered, "it's there. Her grave won't be forgotten now. But I felt I hardly ought to let you do it, Miss Sydney. You've left yourself poorest of all."

"Poor!" She looked up, a light in her beautiful eyes which prosperity could never have kindled. "Jacob, I never felt so rich! But I still am in debt. There is interest on interest. Shall I ever be able to pay it?"

"And I wonder," said Mr. Cheene, "if ever you will get anything for yourself. Money burns holes in your pockets, Miss Sydney."

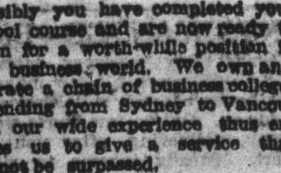

She laughed, though tears twinkled on her long lashes. "It's little gets the chance! And if I were as rich as Croesus, there are people I couldn't pay. You, for example."

"That's nothing, Miss Sydney, seeing what I owed your father."

"Ah! you say that to ease me."

"No, I say it to take what you might feel a burden of off your shoulders. For I'll tell you the truth, as no one on earth knows it. You take hold of me; that helps me, just as your father did when he'd come up and down High Street with his arm through mine. Miss Sydney, when I was a lad, and your father was just head of the office, I got into ill company. I'd joined a gloom club, as they called it; but our evenings that began with glasses ended with too. And I lost at that, and—"

"Oh, Jacob, dear! don't tell me this. It doesn't matter now."

R. H. Flewelling, Principal.

Miss Grey got back. But gentlemen were cold. She supposed he preferred the company of his own thoughts. They were thoughts Gilbert Hurst loomed, with all the throes of despair, to be rid of; thoughts of a tender, throbbing touch that still seemed lying in his own broad grasp—a touch waking a joy and an anguish that must needs run side by side till death extinguished them.

CHAPTER XXII THE FRIENDS SHE LEFT BEHIND HER.

Mr. Drayton never came to St. Clair's that summer to be received kindly for his own or anybody's else's sake, and all that happened in the village between hay cutting and harvest only added to the perplexity which began and the depression which increased with Sydney's departure.

Too loyal to the absent girl to attempt searching out her secret by comparison of notes among her fare-well to each, the rector and Mary Dece could only join voices in regret that she was gone. That Mrs. Alwyn's sudden adieu was connected with the earlier ones of her daughter many might suspect, but none knew certainly. People in general very soon tired of speculating upon what might never be confirmed. Sydney's mother and sister passed out of mind with a speed that unflatteringly matched their bodily removal, and it was but herself who was lamented long by Patty Peggs, and others of her kind and condition.

But even the poor folks ceased to peester the doctor's daughter with questions about her friend and theirs when they found she knew as little as themselves, and Mary named her now to few, since it was a pang to confess ignorance of one whom she missed more sorely every day. For that ugly presence, "gentle George," was asserting itself more obtrusively than ever at the Gate House as the warm weeks rolled by. Paying patients sidled off to the active young Edinburgh M. D., who diagnosed simple maladies in the mysterious phraseology of science, drove a tall vehicle with a boy in button at his side, and literally, as well as figuratively, soon left his old-fashioned rival far behind in the race to heel—Funch, the Dece's old cob, having expired through over-exertion in a night gallop to a pauper invalid, and his place, for want of funds, being left vacant still.

So the old doctor limped about among the few who still required his attendance. It awaited—rarely enough—far afield a neighboring baker supplied a steed on consideration of his wife being physicked gratis. All the shifts the household had endured cheerfully so many years barely sufficed now to preserve a decent professional front. And the cheerfulness grew grievously difficult. Mrs. Dacie fretted for her husband.

TROOPS FOR SILESIA.

BERLIN, Aug. 28. The French and Italian Ambassadors have informed Germany of the terms of their Governments to send troops into Upper Silesia. They have been asked by the Allies to make the necessary arrangements for the transport of reinforcements.

THE CRITICAL STAGE.

LONDON, Aug. 28. Negotiations now have reached a critical stage, in the British view, and by a great majority of opinion, including those previous supporters of Home Rule, and those Liberal newspapers such as the Daily News and Manchester Guardian, which in the past have gone as far as Sinn Fein. They have declared that the time has come for dropping declarations of principles, and down to the business of armistice. If Sinn Fein proposes to accept the proposals which the British Government has put forth in detail, the belief expressed is that De Valera, having said all that was necessary to assure Irish Sinn Fein's theoretical standpoint, will do this. The outstanding proposition of the Irish Government is that both Lloyd George and De Valera ended their last notes with a desire or willingness to continue discussions.

CONDITIONS BUT NO CONCESSION.

LONDON, Aug. 28. It cannot be permitted to withdraw from the British Empire. This is the outstanding feature of the note Dublin yesterday by Premier George, following consideration of the Cabinet of the whole Irish Government. Mr. Lloyd George declared he will be glad to continue negotiations with De Valera, but the Irish leaders that need prolongation of the conversation wreck the chance of an armistice and terminate the truce. The Premier's reply, and expression of the fact that Mr. Lloyd George declared he was willing to continue negotiations.

THE MALABAR REVOLT.

LONDON, Aug. 28. The Daily Telegraph understands that the serious character of the Malabar riots in India, and the possibility of a general spread of these disorders, has been discussed by the Government of India, with the concurrence of Hon. Edward Spencer Montagu, Secretary of State for India, has decided to take action against prominent persons held responsible for the greater part of the Oriental troubles in India. It is felt that the limit of patience has been reached by the Indian Government.

IN MALABAR.

MADRAS, Aug. 28. Concentration of necessary troops in the disturbed areas of South India has been completed, says an official communication issued here, and those sections have been occupied by the military are quiet. The total number of military casualties since the outbreak are given as one officer killed and two other ranks missing. The steamer Mawab was expected to arrive at Calcutta from Bombay with supplies.

MARTIAL LAW IN CALCUTTA.

LONDON, Aug. 28. The India Office reports that the entire disturbed area of Malabar is now threatened with famine. Martial law has been applied to the Waiyand, Ponnani, Ertad, Calicut, Wytaad and Kurambrad districts. A party from the British warship Comus has been landed at Calicut.

BAD REVERSES FOR GREEKS.

PARIS, Aug. 28. The right wing of the Greek army, which was attacking the Turks along the Sakaria River, in Asia Minor, has met with disaster and is completely severed from the main body of the Greek troops, according to information at Constantinople. The despatch adds that the entire Greek army is thus placed in a most difficult strategic position. The Turks are attacking and seem to have plenty of ammunition.

LACK OF WATER ALLEGED CAUSE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 28. After three days of fighting the Turks have forced the Greeks to retire across the Sakaria River, in Asia Minor. The Greeks lost many prisoners, much material and cannon and transport wagons. The entire plan of campaign, formulated by the Greeks, has been temporarily held up. The Greeks are said to have been defeated in reality by the salt desert, lack of water and many men stricken with malaria.

STRUCTURAL DEFECT.

HULL, Aug. 28. Flight Lieut. Mann, who was in command of Dirigible ZR-2 when it took the fatal plunge into the Humber River, told the police yesterday that he believed the accident was caused by a weak structural part of the airship, which broke in two pieces, although he could not say which part it was.

TONG WAR ON SHIPBOARD.

Minister Discusses Wife's Troubles in Public Statement

Think It Only Short Time Before Mrs. Sykes Will Be Fully Restored.

Rev. A. H. Sykes, former pastor of the Walker Park Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., says: "After seeing what Tanlac has accomplished in my wife's case, I am convinced that it is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything to give such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes had been in delicate health for ten months, suffering from stomach trouble and nervous breakdowns. I frequently sought medical advice but Tanlac is the only thing that gave her any relief. After taking the medicine only a short time, she was able to sit up and help with the household duties. I think it only a short time until her health will be fully restored." "Tanlac is sold by leading druggist everywhere."

THE CHINESE CREW.

The Chinese crew of 20 lay dead with revolver shots in the back; one man died later from two bullet holes in his chest; another man was shot in the back, and another wounded in the arm. Rushing forward Captain B. F. Griffiths and his officers on entering the men's quarters, saw the tragedy, but could find no trace of the mutiny party. All the rest of the crew, with the exception of one man, speak no English, and that one would say nothing to throw any light on the case of wholesale killing.

THE MOORISH WAR.

MADRID, Aug. 28. Native Moroccan villages along the coast, southeast of Melilla, have been destroyed by bombardment, by the Spanish warship Bonifaz, according to a message from Chafinas Island, off the Moroccan Coast, yesterday. Fire from the warship, besides starting flames which burned the villages, caused numerous casualties and forced more to flee into the interior.

TRADES AND LABOUR CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28. The thirty-seventh convention of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada concluded its work at 1.30 yesterday afternoon and was adjourned by President Tom Moore to meet next year in Montreal. "The testing time of the labour movement is not yet passed," said the President in his closing words, "We are not yet through the troubled waters."

CANADIAN IMPORTER'S DOOM.

SEATTLE, Aug. 28. The doom of the Canadian Government freighter Canadian Importer, disabled for more than a week, apparently was spelled by lumber floating about the surface of her reported position, according to a radiogram from the Canadian Winner, which has gone to the aid of the wrecked vessel. The message said that the Canadian Winner had been searching all day and was continuing the search to-night. The coastguard cutter Gonbomiss wirelessly that she was speeding to the scene of the wreck in the hope of picking up survivors.

BRITISH FOOTBALL.

LONDON, Aug. 28. The English and Scottish football season opened yesterday. The present indications are that the season will be a record one, if popular opinion can be accepted as a criterion.

GOLF FINALS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28. The Canadian Golf Championship stays in the east. The victory of Frank Thomson, of Toronto, in a final on Saturday afternoon decided this, but the decision was a belated one, as Chas. Hague of Calgary, carried the young Toronto crack to the thirty eighth hole before losing one up after the most stirring finish ever seen in any golf final.

BIRTHDAYS.

I hope we'll never grow so cold that we shall pass their birthday by. So few the festivals of home, so swiftly from us do they fly. That when there comes a glad event, when we may celebrate a bit And fill the home with merriment, we want to make the most of it.

Sometimes I think the birthdays are the most important days we know. They are the milestones of our lives erected in the long-ago. On such a date was Grandma born, on such a date came smiling Jane, and oh, we pray they'll both be here when those glad days come back again.

The birthdays mean a lot to us, not one of them we'd ever slight. We want the decorated cake with every candle gleaming bright; To us it is no small event that one we love has older grown. With gifts and kisses all around we want to make our gladness known.

I hope we'll never grow so cold that we shall pass their birthday by. There are so many common days that Come and go and leave a sigh. That when there comes a happy day when we may celebrate a bit. We want to fill the home with love and truly make the most of it.

The Sailing Ship Still Lives.

Most people have believed that the day of the sailing vessel was nearing its end, but such appears not to be the case. There are more sailing vessels on the seas to-day than in the recent past, and more are being built. British ship owners scout the idea that the time will come when there will be no windjammers on the sea and are laying the keels of many future bark and full-rigged ships. On our own Pacific coast there has been a slight increase in the number of sailing ships. The sailing vessel is still far from passing out.—San Francisco Call.

DO YOU SELL SUGAR?

We say that if you retail sugar out of a barrel you should figure 1 cent per pound to cover cost of bags, twine, time, tear and wear on your scales, loss of 2 or 3 ounces here and there.

If your clerks are human they will make mistakes, they will waste a bag or two now and then, they will waste a little sugar here and there. Why, even you make mistakes.

Tell your clerks to weigh up 30-1 lb. bags, 30-2 lb. bags, 30-7 lb. bags; see how long they take to do this, count the bags spoiled, figure on the twine used, note what other work is being held up whilst the weighing and parcelling is being done.

Note how many customers leave your store because your clerks are too busy to serve them. Compare the weight turned out with the weight you paid for. You'll agree that 1 cent per lb. is a fair estimate of your loss in retailing sugar out of a barrel.

Lantic Sugar in yellow packages costs you less than 1 cent per lb. over the price in barrels and you don't have to guess at your cost. You know it.

The Right Way Out.

The Employers and Labor Unions have settled their difficulties in a manner creditable to both sides, and from to-day, let us hope, a new era in the relations between both parties will have been ushered in. Both sides were obviously sincere in their declarations, and to their credit be it said, all negotiations were carried out in a diplomatic and tactful manner, without violent recriminations or unjust charges preferred by one against the other. Same counsels have prevailed and the future can be faced without fear. For we believe that the present settlement will be lasting, and that better and closer relations will be fostered between employer and employee. And that is as it should be. In tugs of war with Labor on the one end and Capital on the other, the rope being the rate of wages, victory is not always going to remain with either side. Sometimes one will win; sometimes the other; but if the rope should part in the centre, there is no advantage to either, yet in the draw Labor suffers. For it is a well known axiom of economics that Labor and Capital must work hand in hand. They are interdependent. The prosperity of the nation is in their hands. Let there be disagreements and the land pays the penalty. Production is impeded, and progress made impossible. The slogan of the hour is Mutual Co-operation. Strikes may or may not be justifiable according to circumstances, but this much can be said that carried to extremes, neither striking by the employees nor obstinacy on the part of employers is going to make for prosperity. That the recent dispute is at an end will be received with relief everywhere. The thing to do now is to act so that similar occurrences in the future will not be necessary. Both parties must work together for the common good. Capital must have respect for labor no less than Labor for Capital. Better understanding between employers and employees will not take away the dignity of one or the other. A mutual confidence must have the effect of clearing up whatever difficulties in the past prevented the coming together of the man who works and the man who engages him. Conditions to-day are radically different from what they were a few years ago, and all glasses owe it to the state to pull together in order that the wheels of the machinery of industry may not be stopped, nor production diminished. The millennium may not have arrived yet, but the settlement of the wages question on Saturday night by the parties involved, coupled with the guarantee of bona fides on both sides, will be a step along the road toward the goal which all desire to achieve.

Express Passengers.

The following passengers arrived on the incoming express from Fort aux Basques at 1 p.m. to-day: H. S. Brouse, W. P. Penney, F. A. Watson, J. J. Penny, Geo. Bialista, W. J. and Mrs. Stansford, W. T. Noble, W. G. Pittman, W. N. Stevenson, S. Marsden, F. and Mrs. French, J. Hayes, E. J. and Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. E. Gould, L. Leggo, W. and Mrs. Horwood, T. S. Fitzgerald.

Must the Blind Be Pauperized?

Major Howley, in his third article on Newfoundland and its Blind, strikes the right note when he appeals to the Government to provide some means by which those who have attended the Halifax School for the Blind need not have to rely upon pauper relief as they now have. It seems the height of absurdity that the Government should go to the expense of sending some of our blind to receive a training whereby they may be of some productive use whilst they permit them to return home to find they have no means of putting their training to any practical advantage. If they are not to be afforded a means of living by their training, then why should these people be sent away at all? The cure, of course, lies in the formation of an Industrial School where education could be taken of the training obtained at the School for the Blind. The Blind no more want to be a burden on the community, than the community wants to offer them pauper relief. The idea of the School for the Blind is to train those who have been so unfortunate as to lose their sight, in some sphere of usefulness. But, those who go from here receive this special training and then find that in spite of all, they must be pauperized for they cannot turn their training into the proper avenues of industry. This state of affairs must be remedied. Numerous reforms are needed throughout the country, and this is not by any means the least. It is to be hoped that the Government will attend to this matter within the near future.

Reduced Wage Accepted

MAYOR'S SERVICES APPRECIATED. After several conferences with the Employers, and general discussions amongst the Union members, the L.S.P.U. have decided to accept the reduced scale of wages which will come into effect to-day. After this decision had been reached by the Union, the meeting placed on record its appreciation of the services of Mayor Morris, who so ably presented both sides of the question at Friday night's meeting. On Saturday forenoon a two and a half hour conference between the Union's deputation and the Employers' Association was held in the Board of Trade rooms. At the conference the men's representatives informed the meeting that they were prepared to meet the Employers' half way, in order that an amicable settlement might be reached. Considerable discussion arose on this point, and the Employers finally decided to make the rate for general work 30 cents per hour, but they were unable to do anything further with regard to the scale for steambark work. They felt that to keep the already small steamship tonnage out of port, and would be detrimental to both the country's and men's interest. The deputation reported the result of their interview at a special meeting of the Union held at 8.30 p.m. Saturday. The meeting was very largely attended, and a general discussion of the question ensued, the whole outlook being carefully considered and explained. The men realized the seriousness of the situation, and felt that under the circumstances all possible had been done. After a two hours' discussion the men unanimously decided to accept the terms offered at the morning conference, and all work to-day will be at the new scale, which amounts on an average to 15 per cent. reduction on the old wages.

Runaway Hits Car.

A horse which was being driven by Mr. John Duff ran amuck yesterday afternoon, threw its driver, and hit a motor car before it could be stopped. The horse was being driven along Freshwater Road when it suddenly took fright and bolted down Long's Hill. Near the Methodist College it threw Mr. Duff clear off the wagon, causing him to receive a severe shaking and some bad bruises. After running into Queen's Road the runaway hit a motor car belonging to Mr. A. Duff, and was finally stopped near Dick's Square.

A Dangerous Road.

Complaints have been made by residents of the Portugal Cove Road that the men who repaired the road between Stott's Bridge and Bryn Mawr left it in a most disgraceful condition. Heaps of stones have been left in the centre of the road, whilst holes abound everywhere, and are a danger to passing traffic.

The body was found on the track shortly after the train had passed, but the train hands knew nothing about it until they arrived at Carbonear. Great Trade Possibilities

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—The letter from Mr. S. Frehlich published in Saturday's Telegram, is a valuable contribution to the discussion on the Russian fish market and shows the great possibilities of placing our herring in Russia. This market, if properly developed, would make our herring industry a valuable asset, instead of a liability as it has been for the past two years. The best answer to Mr. Frehlich's contention re codfish is the offer of the Russian Embassy to purchase 400,000 quintals if price and terms are satisfactory. In reference to the method to be employed in finalizing the deal, I wish to say that the manager of one of the leading banks called me on the phone and stated that he heartily endorsed my letter to the Trade Review, containing the suggestion that "the Nfd. Government ask all fish holders to pool their interests," and also that "the British Government should be asked to advise on the terms offered. Possibly some method of guaranteeing Russian Bonds may be advised and the terms of payment may be made more attractive with the assistance of the British Government." An energetic and persistent policy should be pursued to bring this deal to a successful conclusion. Yours truly, WM. WHITE.

Physical Development

And its Bearing on Health and Strength.

(By GEE.)

Now that the Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association has made its bow, and is already a recognized factor in the community, I desire to give readers of The Evening Telegram, a series of articles on Physical Exercise and Culture and its bearing on Health and strength.

This is the pick of a collection made during the past twelve years, and should prove invaluable to the younger reader. As I am not desirous of encroaching on your space, here beneath the first instalment:

GENERAL INFLUENCE OF EXERCISE.

Heart and Blood.—While the heart, the hollow muscle which propels the blood to all parts of the system, is constantly in operation during life, exercise can most powerfully modify its action. One can see for himself that exercise drives the blood more forcibly to the skin. The cheeks redden because more blood flows through the capillary network, seen in the figure. The heart of the body is increased, and the appetite improved, indicating that new blood constituents are required.

Effect of Muscular Pressure.—Contraction of the muscles, especially of the arms and legs exercise a powerful pressure on the blood vessels. In the arteries it promotes the flow of blood onward toward the capillaries. In the veins it has a powerful effect in promoting the return of the blood toward the heart. Moreover, limb movements alternately lengthen and shorten the extensible veins and thus operate as a kind of sucking force within.

Special Results of Exercise.—It is further possible to regulate by bodily movements the supply of blood to each particular organ. Influx of blood to a particular organ, when super-abundant might prove dangerous, can be relieved by movements calculated to carry it to parts where no harm can come. This is particularly useful in certain forms of heart disease.

EFFECT OF EXERCISE ON THE LUNGS.

Importance of Respiration.—The importance of full and free respiration, by which an ample supply of fresh, pure air, rich in oxygen, is taken into the lungs, and much waste matter carried away, cannot be overestimated. Deep and calm is preferable to rapid and superficial breathing. The former indicates healthy lungs, the latter weakness.

Exercise and Respiration.—During and after exercise respiration is both frequent and deep. The increased quantity of air inhaled and exhaled carries to the lungs an increased supply of oxygen, and carries away carbonic acid and other waste products.

Effect on the Chest.—A wide, deep and mobile chest is a sign of strength in the respiratory organs. This chest is seen in soldiers, sailors, laborers, and in all who use gymnastics in a national manner. It contrasts most favorably with the narrow, hollow and almost motionless chest of those of sedentary habits, or who neglect exercise.

Respiration and Blood Circulation.—Respiration also contributes proper blood circulation. The lungs, by their great elasticity, react on the air inside of them and shrink from their surroundings. This diminishes the pressure of air in the lungs upon the arteries and great blood-vessels, and consequently produces a suction in the large veins toward the heart. This diminished pressure powerfully promotes the rapid emptying of the blood from the veins into the heart. In a word then, exercise develops the muscles of respiration, and by the energetic action of these strengthened muscles the entire circulation is invigorated and a more active interchange between the inhaled and exhaled air is brought about.

Next Article.—Influence of Exercise on Digestion.

Rev. H. Gordon at St. Thomas's.

The preacher at St. Thomas's Church last evening was the Rev. Henry Gordon, who has lately arrived from the Labrador. The preacher gave a very interesting sermon, touching on the work amongst the Esquimaux, of Hamilton Inlet. The Rev. gentleman leaves for the North again in a few days to resume his good work. The people of St. Thomas's will hold a Garden Party on Wednesday, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the Labrador Public School, one of the great benefits which Mr. Gordon has procured for the people of Hamilton Inlet.

Obituary.

PATRICK J. O'LEARY.

A wire from Glace Bay on Saturday, August 27 to Mr. John O'Leary of Torbay Road, conveyed the sad intelligence of the death of his brother, Patrick J. O'Leary at the age of 54. The late Mr. O'Leary left Hr. Grace many years ago and resided in Little Bay when the mines were in full swing at that place. He conducted a very successful smithy store there for many years, and was deservedly popular with both the business people and miners. He filled the responsible position of Deputy Sheriff there for many years, and his tact and ability while in that position brought the regard of his superiors, as well as the good will of his neighbours. As a citizen of Little Bay he was held in the highest esteem. When the work ceased there and he decided to move to Glace Bay, it was to the regret of many warm friends and admirers he made during his residence there. He resided at Glace Bay for about eight years, where his sterling qualities won him a high place. He leaves surviving him his aged mother, now residing in Boston, a wife and one daughter in Glace Bay, a sister and two brothers in Boston, and a brother Mr. John O'Leary, residing on Torbay Road, St. John's. The Telegram joins with his many friends in the prayer that his soul may rest in peace.—W.J.C.

A Mormon Leader.

In 1860 an armed expedition was sent by the United States against Brigham Young and his followers, never dreaming that the Mormons would take the offensive. They waited until the foremost team reached a convenient spot for ambushing, and then attacked the troops at dead of night, inflicting a severe defeat on them. Commander Johnson, realizing the huge task of reaching Salt Lake City, went into winter quarters, and this gave Young the opportunity of preparing to resist the Federals to the last gasp. In the spring the advance guard of the Federals marched through Emigrant Canon, and saw the city of the Saints lying at their feet, beautiful, and bathed in sunshine. The Mormons threatened to blow up their city if he advanced, and negotiations were opened up with Young, with the result that the Mormons agreed to recognize the authority of the United States Government. But the Governors who were sent to rule at Salt Lake City were mere puppets in the hands of Young, and who betided any who happened to offend him. Some were assassinated, none knew why or by whom. One governor tried to escape, but was captured, and horribly mutilated. Of course, such horrors as these could not have been perpetrated with impunity if the Federal Government had not been engaged in a life-and-death struggle with the Southern States. It is probable that Young would eventually have been put on his trial when peace was restored, but in the summer of 1877 cholera invaded the valley, and the Mormon leader was one of its first victims. He died on August 29, 1877, in his house at Salt Lake City, leaving a fortune of $400,000 to be divided between his nineteen wives and fifty-six children.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)
Codfish.—The export of dry codfish to foreign markets this week totalled 1,871 quintals as follows:—

From Outports.—By schooner "Rebecca" 4,025 quintals from P. Thompson & Co., Bonavista to Gibraltar on orders.

From St. John's.—By schooner "Gordon" 3,428 quintals, from Bowring Bros. Ltd., to Bahia; by schr. "E. Parks" from the Monroe Export Co., 2,787 quintals to Baltimore; by the S.S. "Rosalind" 2,823 quintals to New York, chiefly for re-shipment, from Messrs. A. S. Renwick & Co., C. F. Bennett, Hickman's, Terra Nova Co., Bowring Bros., Ltd., Mc. Baird, Ltd., Monroe Export Co., John Johnson & Co., Harvey & Co., and the Newfoundland Atlantic Fish-ery.

Cod Oil.—The Common Cod Oil market is looking better and sales of No. 1 were made this week at $60. The course this was for a limited quantity to make up a shipment, and may be continued. The general price was $58. As the shore codfishery is short, the output of cod oil this season will be in proportion.

Crude Oil.—The market is showing an improvement and trade was better so far in this article. The output this season in Newfoundland will probably be the lowest on record, from this circumstance there is reason to believe that the scarcity of refined oil at the close of the season, when the fact is realized, is bound to improve the demand.

Labelers.—The demand in the United States is improved somewhat, so that purchasers here are offering $1.50 per case, of 48 lbs. tins for good label. The Fishery Report now published says that the catch of this year (1921) was 14,488½ cases as against 11,425½ cases the previous year. This year's catch is not likely to reach 10,000 cases.

Pork.—The market is inactive, but very steady, according to latest cable news from Chicago, are somewhat similar to those reported last week. This is the season of the smallest demand, and as the importers see that the market remains firm, and they are contracting for fall supplies in the reasonable expectation that prices will not be lower for the balance of the season. Quotations are same as last week.

Beef.—Market dull, but steady. It is believed by dealers that the bottom has been reached in prices for this season, and that any fluctuations during the next few weeks will be confined in narrow limits. Boneless Beef is just now difficult to obtain on account of the latest advances in that article's quality. Any changes in prices of other qualities are almost certain to be upward.

Sugar.—The market is strong at the present United States advance in price. The local quotations as yet show no change, but with the exhaustion of the present stocks in hand there will, no doubt, be a rise in price to correspond with the United States quotation. The present local price is 12½ cents wholesale (lots), and 12½ cents for smaller quantities.

Molasses.—A further advance is reported from Barbados, and there is to be a very limited quantity available, especially of Choice Molasses. The schooner "Gaspé" now here, presumably will take a cargo, and the "James O'Neill" (W. A. O'Neill), is 19 days out to Newfoundland. It is likely that this will be the last of the season, which will show a total for St. John's of about 5,000 puncheons. Prices are still 75 and 70 cents wholesale.

Potatoes.—The local Potatoes are being brought into town in increased quantities day by day. Some farmers are asking as $8.00 per barrel. This, however, is not warranted, and very few are inclined to buy at this price as the crop is good. By the St. John's several consignments arrived and are selling at $6.50 to $6.75 per barrel, after paying freight and other expenses. The local grown potatoes are selling at 30 cents a gallon.

Wool.—No change in the local market this week. We notice by Canadian trade papers, however, that there is an advance of $2.00 per ton since last week. This latest advance is not in evidence here yet, as the season advances no doubt the local price will be increased on parity with this. The quotations for 10-day are, $48.00 to $50.00 for 100 lbs., and at the rate of $54.00 to $56 for single bales.

Wool.—The market is strong, but probably higher. Latest advices from Bay Exporters in Canada are to effect that prices will be higher. Information from P.E.I. this week indicates that there will be very little wool for export from Charlottetown in the coming fall. Taking this into account, it is safe to predict a further advance. At the present time Mixed Wools are $2.50 to $4.00, White $4.00 to $5.00. No Black obtainable.

CITY WINS FOOTBALL GAME.
 A very large number of spectators were present at the football game played in St. George's Field on Saturday night when the City defeated the combined team from H.M.S. Victoria and H.M.S. Briton by 3 goals to 0. Play was excellent throughout and the ball was kept continuously in play. The City scored twice in the first half, Walter Callahan doing the needful each time in the second half Quirk obtained the only goal.
 Mr. E. Churchill was referee and the line-up was:—
 City.—Goal, Walsh; backs, Tait, Churchill; half backs, Burke Drover, Galgay; forwards, Young, Quick, E. Phelan, W. Callahan, Ewing.

House Obstructs Traffic.
 Great excitement prevailed throughout Kelligrews on Thursday and Friday last, when the whole populace, visitors and residents, turned out to help a neighbor who was moving his house from its original site to a spot about half a mile distant. The house was placed on rollers and over 200 people were at times, pulling on the hauling ropes. During the time the house was being moved all traffic was held up on the main road. Motorists and others who passed that way on Thursday night must have thought that they had lost their sense of direction when they came upon a house resting in what they had hitherto believed to be the centre of the road.

HOLYROOD GARDEN PARTY A GREAT SUCCESS.
 Several hundred people from town and from the head of Conception Bay attended the Garden Party held yesterday at Holyrood. The visitors included several of the clergy from the head of the Bay. An interesting Sports Programme was gone through during the afternoon, the boat races in particular, causing great excitement. The Dory race which was won by North Arm was especially interesting. The Junior and senior boat races were won by the South Side crews. Tests of an excellent quality, were served by the ladies of the parish and in the evening a most enjoyable dance, the music for which was provided by the City Band, was held in the Star Hall. Great credit is due Rev. Fr. Finn and his energetic committee upon the success of the Garden Party.

Who is the Leader?

A POLITICAL COMEDY IN ONE VERY SHORT ACT.

Scene.—The Council Chamber.
Dramatis Personae.—The Executive Council.

The members of the Council are scuffling about the room in various attitudes.

All seem greatly engrossed.

The first to break silence is Mr. Coaker, who, from his position on the hearthrug where, with his back to the fire (it is mid-August), he is effectually keeping all the heat from the other occupants of the room, says:—

"In case you don't know why you're here I'd better tell you.

"It's to elect an acting Premier. And one who will not sell you. So now you'd better choose a chairman."

"Who'll prove in all things quite a fair man?"

Mr. Warren stops in the act of removing a chocolate from a paper bag and says from the depths of his comfortable chair.

"I say, you know, as before very long I'm going away on a lengthy sojourn. Don't you think that as chairman you'd better have me?"

"For you chaps I'll do it and not ask a fee."

A short consultation follows. Mr. Warren's generous offer and he is finally elected chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Warren: "Now as chairman I'm elected I must see there is selected for a temporary leader. One who is not such a speaker as the Minister of Marine who put us in the soup to-day."

Mr. Coaker (Hotly): "Here Warren this won't do at all. You say too much for you so small."

Mr. Warren (ignoring interruption): "I've want a man who'll hold the reins firmly, yet sees that Squires retains the leadership. Now you'll all agree the right man for the job is—"

All (except Mr. Halfyard who with-out attention is either rhyme or reason cries "Coaker.")

"HE."

Mr. Warren: "If that's the way that you all feel there is no need for further spiel. On my part. All that I can do is let each state his claim to lead."

And then, if you are all agreed I'll say who, in my mind's the one to take the job, and then 'tis done."

After further discussion all are of the opinion that this is the best way out of the difficulty and they agree to abide by the Chairman's decision.

Mr. Coaker now rises to state his claim. He strikes his favourite Napoleonic attitude, rubs the back of his head, and says:—

"If anyone should have this post—Then it is I. Of backing I have got the most. Who'll say I lie? The North is with me to a man. Now who is better fitted than me for this post?"

All (except Mr. Halfyard): "A rotten boast."

Mr. Coaker (Unheeding): "Am I not suited for this job? Don't you all know I'm the Nabob within this land. Now here I stand claiming only what is my due. Do I not win?"

All But One: "What rot, pooh, pooh."

The One (Who happens to be Mr. Halfyard): "Belov'd chief, you do, you do."

Mr. Warren: "Your own opinion of your fame is not backed, Coaker. Who's next to claim?"

Mr. Coaker, feeling hurt, retires in high dudgeon, slamming the door behind him with such force that the flowers on the wall paper immediately lose all their petals and the coals in the coal scuttle shake audibly.

Mr. Halfyard: "If Coaker goes, then I go too. But, mark my words, this day you'll rue."

He follows Mr. Coaker out and all present heave audible sighs of relief. Dr. Campbell daintily removing the paper from a stick of chewing gum, and closing the book "How to Waste Money on Bulls" which he has been perusing, next states his claim.

"I've done nothing but 'spend money since I joined the Government. And although it may sound funny I've got naught for what I've spent. And this is the claim on which I base my right to lead. There is my case."

Mr. Warren: "I'm sorry Campbell you won't do. Your present job, I think, suits you."

Dr. Campbell takes the decision cheerfully and continues his reading.

Dr. Barnes now modestly comes forward and states his case as follows:—

"As I'm an intellectual I think that I ought to lead. I'd make a most efficient Leader. I'm sure you're agreed."

Mr. Warren: "Barnes, you are far too modest. That's why as leader you are 'non est'."

Mr. Foote, with his hands in his trousers pockets is the next to come forward. He begins

"I have been a silent man since this Government began. For I've never got the chance I really should have."

Now I see there is great need for me to assume the lead. And then I'll do what off I've wished I could have."

Mr. Warren: "I have made my choice at last. He is one who has no past and will not be led astray. He is Councillor GEORGE SHEA."

All gaze blankly at one another and some start to protest, when

THE CURTAIN FALLS.

Fish Regulations in a New Guise.

We have rarely read a more impracticable speech than that about nationalizing the exportation of our fish. One would think, in view of past experience, that Mr. Coaker would not dare to make such a proposition, especially at this juncture when the foreign buyers of Newfoundland fish have so fresh in their memories the treatment accorded them during the past three years.

Nationalizing of codfish exports is only another name for the same old Fish Regulations that were taken off the Statute Books last session of the House. In fact, the proposed Nationalization is worse than the Fish Regulations, because it takes the exporting of fish out of the hands of the Fish Merchants altogether. It kills all enterprise and all individual initiative, and reduces our merchants to the status of servile barter-barter men, who may spend all their money and risk all they have in outfitting and buying fish; but shuts them out from selling where, when and to whom they may like.

We do not think that the merchants are going to submit to this treatment and certainly the representatives of the South West Coast will not tolerate it if they have any consideration for their constituents. If Hon. Mr. Coaker wants this as an election slogan, by all means let him have it, but there ought to be enough sane people in Newfoundland not to allow him to ruin the trade of the country for the sake of his political aspirations.—Trade Review.

Newfoundland and Its Blind.

(By J. M. Howley.)
Article III.
THE BLIND HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

In the present article I find it necessary to present an amount of statistical information regarding the care of the blind. Realizing that figures are apt to be uninteresting, I have endeavoured to restrict their use as far as possible, with the object of creating interest without boredom; and if I have made use of a seeming surfeit of statistics, I crave the indulgence of my readers. The information I have gleaned is not always up to the minute, but it is sufficient to show that other countries have adopted the right spirit in regard to what is undoubtedly a great national question to each of them. Comparisons are odious. But when comparison incites effort to emulation or betterment of status may well be overlooked. It is with this idea in mind that I propose to give my readers a short resume of what, in my opinion, is the condition of the blind in our island home, and in those other countries of the world, concerning which I have in a short time been able to obtain definite facts.

As far as the blind in Newfoundland are concerned, beyond the opportunity of fitting themselves to take their place, side by side with their seeing fellow men in the great struggle of life, which has been afforded to some few through the medium of the Halifax School for the Blind, little or nothing has been done for them. This resolves itself into the claim made in a previous article to the effect that their condition is due to neglect to provide means for the blind to receive the benefit of their training after having graduated from Halifax. The time has come for our rulers and our people to erase the stain of past omissions by interesting themselves in and helping along the cause of the blind.

The following statistics will tend to prove the truth of the statement here made for the second time. In the year 1897 Newfoundland decided to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the School for the Blind at Halifax, and in that year two Newfoundlanders entered the institution. Our country has since that date maintained annually an increasing number of our blind at Halifax—the total in recent years reaching eighteen. I understand that provision is made for twenty and the annual cost to the colony at the present time is three hundred dollars for each student. In the past thirty four years sixty five of our blind have entered the Halifax institution for training. Of this number thirty seven are men and women to make their way in the world. Of these, nine have left the country and are supporting themselves in other lands; seven are known to be self supporting in their island home; while twenty one are not self supporting. It is natural to enquire why. The only reason which they have not the means to put into practice the training they have received. They are not in the position, as are seeing men and women, of placing themselves in employment, or of obtaining the requisites for working at their trades in their homes.

Here is where the neglect comes in, and where the establishment of the Newfoundland Institution for the Training and Employment of the Blind will show its worth.

Each blind person has cost the country for training, approximately one thousand dollars. Seventy five per cent of those who should be capable of making a good return for this investment, are unfortunately not in a position to do so. And perhaps the saddest feature is that of the twenty one who comprise this seventy five per cent, SOME ARE RECEIVING ELAUBER RELIEF. Where, then, does the benefit of training appear? And what is the excuse for the waste of money expended on training? Far be it from me to deplore the action of spending money for the training of the blind. In no way, to my mind, could expenditure be better justified. But the absence of after care, as is made apparent by the figures I have quoted, is certainly deplorable. I wonder, if, as a people, we think it is the consummation of our duty to train the blind and then to provide that I wonder if the red-blooded men and women of Newfoundland think that the condition of the twenty one is a fair return for the investment made on their account. I wonder how long it will be before we all realize that this estate of affairs is not good enough.

To the present I have only dealt with those who have had the opportunity of training, numbering sixty five. As previously stated, there are at least three times as many who are eligible for training. And with the facilities afforded by the School for the Blind at Halifax, it will be long years before these cases can have the consideration they deserve. And whilst these are being attended to other cases will arise, for the census shows an average increase in the number of our blind of about six per year. How the existing state can be overcome, I hope to be able to show in a later article. Quere, come it should be, and at the earliest possible opportunity. And the Newfoundland Institution for the Training and Employment of the Blind is the most feasible means to that end. For the present Newfoundland's case rests here. I have not endeavoured to paint a gloomy picture, but have merely quoted undeniable facts, which taken in their entirety do not reflect to our credit as an up-to-date civilized country. Following I shall endeavour to give my readers an account of what has been done in other countries, leaving to them the obvious conclusion as to our duty to the blind.

"Laugh and grow fat" is an old axiom. We advise the use of a good tonic, named "Briek's Tasteless". Price $1.00; postage 20c. extra.—ast

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

SAFER HIGHWAYS.

Someone who's a driver who has a reputation for finding fault with the other guy with a n automobile fast driving.

"I wouldn't go with him for anything," said the critic. "Why he went up town in 50 minutes the other night, and you know perfectly well that means you have to keep up an outrageous speed."

"Just the same," said the Author, "I would rather go 40 miles with him than 35 miles an hour with some people I know."

And I agreed.

Parlor Riding With Him.

For the man in question has driven for about 12 years and has all the skill that 12 years should connote.

Moreover he makes his speed by driving an open stretches of road, but he is exceedingly careful in congested districts, and in regard to corners and crossroads.

He never cuts in ahead of another car around corners.

He always slows up and blows his horn before coming to a blind crossroad.

He says strict attention to what he is doing when he is driving.

He is never under the influence of drink, with the resultant loosening of inhibitions, and recklessness.

He always keeps well to his side of the road.

He is careful to wet skiddy pavements to use chains and to avoid, if possible, putting himself where he will have to throw his brakes suddenly.

And I would rather drive 40 miles an hour with a person who observes these rules than 35 miles with one who is careless about them.

A law has been proposed in a certain state legislature that all machines shall have a device on them which will make it impossible for them to exceed more than 18 miles an hour.

The result that this, or any such restriction of speed would have on traffic already congested in many places, you can well imagine.

Ninety per cent of auto drivers would fight such a law.

But they have no right to fight it unless they are willing to encourage legislation against the recklessness that is more dangerous than speed.

Rules I Should Like.

Can't we have such vigorous legislation against cutting in around corners against going without brakes in perfect conditions, against the road who goes slow and the speed when someone tries to pass him, doubling the hazards for everyone concerned (the driver referred to considers that this should be a criminal offense); against being on the side of the road, against cutting in at crossroads, that people want to pass him?

It is funny to ignore them!

Can't we bear so hard on the tender who gets into trouble for recklessness, such as these, that we throw a scare into the hearts of would-be offenders? Can't we have strict laws about the granting of licenses and some sort of speed restriction for beginners?

Something has got to be done to make the highways safer. The tender who seems to take to himself by the automobile method has got to be restrained, and far more restrained, than that, people who want to use highway as pedestrians do, and who are in a reasonable, sane way, have got to be protected from the

The Postal Service Protected.

How old is the Postal Branch of the Civil Service in this country? I just dunno, but as old as it is, it is one with an eternal grievance of the officials from time immemorial—poor pay, overlooked services, parasites in authority, whilst the rank and file do the work. That's the story of the Post Office in this country in a nutshell.

I know a thing or two about the pay sheet of Postal offices in other countries, and the difference is so vast that it borders on the ludicrous, with the laughs on us. What's the matter with our several Governments that they have never attempted to do justice to this important branch of the Civil Service? In England the Postal servants are the best paid officials in the Civil Service. In Canada the Post office employee gets double and in many cases three times as much wage as is paid in Newfoundland. In the United States the same official gets not only a splendid salary, but according to his office, a bonus and perquisites that total so valuable a recognition as would give some of our thin-skinned politicians heart disease if I were to quote figuratively.

Here in Newfoundland the Post Office pay sheet is a joke, and one of the Civil Service forces. How and why? Just this. To pay a man who has been from 35 to 45 years in the service $90.00 a month, is a farce. To ask officials to do responsible work—work that means recourse to the most honest principles, and to hand him from $50.00 to $60.00 per month is simply worse. To expect men to handle the most trusted and private affairs of the public, to act for that public, and to become as it were the custodians of public confidence, and all for the rotten emolument that seems so large in the eyes of a niggardly Government, is the greatest absurdity and joke of all.

Same administration would pay the Postal employees. It would be only just. An administration gone lunatic in contumacy has cut the Postal employees. It is time the whole Civil Service, and the Postal branch of it particularly, woke up and looked for and got what the admirable President of the F.P.U. is pleased to admire in the happy motto that reads, "To every man his own." SIMMERING SUMMER.

Again the summer is at hand, when talk of crops will find the farmer, with a gloomy frown, will grumble when he goes to town, and say the weather then on deck is ruinous to him, by heck. And if I greet him with a smile, and say, "Such weather's worth our while," he'll look upon the smiling morn, and say, "It's killing all the corn. If we don't soon have lots of rain, our season's toil will be in vain." And if I praise the passing wind, he shows how grievously it's sinned. "That zipping, everlasting breeze has spoiled my crop of early peas. Doggone the wind, that never stops; we need calm weather for the crops." "There was a heavy dew last night," perchance I'll say, with weird delight; "and when I looked around at dawn it seemed that diamonds strewed the lawn." Whereat the farmer makes reply, "The summer nights should all be dry. The dew that makes you feel so gay has spoiled for me nine tons of hay. Said hay was drenched, as though by rain; the sight of it gives me a pain." And thus all summer do we hear the husbandman's predictions drear; whatever, weather is on tap gives willies to the mournful chap; and yet when autumn comes along his bank account is good and strong, his barns are full of priceless oats, and he has corn to fatten hogs, and all his hens are laying eggs, and he should dance on buoyant legs.

Suicide Wave.

Since the first of the year a suicide wave has swept over the United States. During the first six months there were reported 6,509 suicides, of whom 4,527 were males and 1,982 females. In the first half of 1920, 2,771 suicides were reported in the United States—1,810 males and 961 females. The average age of the male suicide is 43 years. Unsettled economic conditions, with loss of employment and business failures, are blamed. The most dreadful phase is the pitiful fact that, while 225 children ended their lives in the first half of 1920, the number has more than doubled this year. Of these latter, 214 were boys and 230 were girls, a total of 444. The average age is: Boys, 13; girls, 15. A large percentage of the girls took poison, and most of the boys shot themselves.

World War Ends September 1.

The date for the official termination of the war except with Turkey will be September 1. Under the "Termination of the Present War Act," the war could not be declared officially ended for Great Britain until all the peace treaties had been ratified, but it has been decided that the treaty with Turkey might be ignored. The last of the other treaties, that with Hungary, was ratified in Paris on Tuesday last. The setting of the date for the official end of the war will pave the way for the settlement of financial transactions outstanding between the Bank of England and the Stock Exchange, and will mean much to certain lines of business.

Music Hath Charms.

Music in early Biblical times was used with having not only the charm, but also with the power to cure. History records a former Spanish king was subjected to violent fits of melancholy, and an effort was made to cure him that he withdrew to a dark room and nothing could induce him to leave the seclusion nor to receive an interest in the life around him. In despair the king's medical adviser decided to try the effect of music upon him. Thereupon a noted singer was ordered to sing in the adjoining room. Through at first no apparent effect was visible, tears came into the monarch's eyes, he commanded his door to be opened. The great singer with his singing melodies had brought order and calmness to the king's disturbed mind, and so he became his natural self again.
