MANY persons are puzzled to understand what the terms "four penny," "six penny," "ten penny," means as applied to nails. "Four penny" means four pounds to the thousand nails, and "six penny" means six pounds to the thousand nails, and so on. It is an English term and meant at first "tenpounds" nails, (the thousand being understood) but the English clipped it to "ten puns," and from that it has degenerated until penny was substituted for pounds. was substituted for pounds.

This is the time of Agricultural Fairs and although some may not see any good in them, one has but to ponder over the matter intelligently to see that enormous good is accomplished by the holding of these fairs. It helps to develop a spirit of competition for the production of a higher grade of produce, giving an incentive to more intelligent effort at the same time proving an education fraught with great consequences to those engaging in it and also to those whom it touches. Then, again, these fairs bring the people together if only for a few hours and in the intercourse provided people living together in a community but probably seldom meeting get to know each other better. Further they help to show what the other fellow is doing. It is a wise move to foster such fairs and the good that they will do and do do is not to be calculated in dollars and cents alone. runaway on Main street about two o'clock Saturday afternoon, which happily ter-minated without any serious results. A team attached to a heavy wagon, owned by James Patterson and driven by his son Isaac, got frightened while coming from the south and started up street at a brisk pace. When in front of the Wagor brisk pace. When in front of the Wagon Works it swerved to the right and ran into another team and heavy wagon owned by Wm, Reid and driven by his son Harry, both of whom were in the wagon, and in a moment both wagons were overturned and the teams badly mixed up on the sidewalk. Freed of its lead the Patterson team continued north. load the Patterson team continued north, followed by the now frightened Reid team, which dragged the front wheels of the wagon and young Harry with them for a couple of rods before he let go the lines. The Patterson team turned up Simcoe street towards the Park, while the Reid team continued up to the Presysterian hill one of them being found in byterian hill, one of them being found in the shed and the other in an adjacent corn field. The wagon wheels and tongue were dropped at the corner of Erie street. Although many people were in the neighborhood at the time no one seems to know exactly how the two wagons came together. When they collided Patterson was thrown out, and his team got loose, Reid's wagon was overturned and the loose boards and several bags of oats were jumbled up with Harry and his father underneath, but the plucky boy held on to the lines for a short time at the risk of his life, and was dragged out of the wreck. Just as the Patterson team came in front of the livery stable Robt. Auld was backing out an auto, the mud guard of which got dented by the passing wagon. Fortunately outside of a few nasty cuts on one of Reid's horses through it falling on the sidewalk, and a bruise on the forehead of Harry Reid, the damage was slight, but those who witnessed the accident marvel that the young man was not killed.

A VERY sad death occurred here on Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. John W. Hamilton, of Sarnia, passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. How-Hamilton, of Sarnia, passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Howden, Erie street. Mr. Hamilton and his wife came here on Saturday, August 16th, to spend a few days with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Howden. On the night after their arrival, Mr. Hamilton suddenly fell ill. Medical aid was called but the patient did not improve and the illness developed into appendicitis, and on Saturday last an operation was decided on, which was performed on Saturday night. The patient did not rally to any extent and his complaint developed into peritonitis to which he succumbed on Tuesday afternoon. Deceased's brother, Mr. Robert Hamilton, and his daughter, Miss Florence, came last week to be with him, and remained until the end. Everything that medical skill and careful nursing could do for the patient was done, and the same attention paid to him as if he had been a loved member of the family where he was visiting, but all this failed to ward off the sad end. The remains were taken to Sarnia on iting, but all this failed to ward off the sad end. The remains were taken to Sarnia on Wednesday morning and the funeral will took place there Thursday. Mr. Hamilton was a well-known and highly respected resident of the county town, having been Water Commissioner and Tax Collector for over twenty years. He was fifty-three years old. The Sarnia Observer says:—"Saturday Mr. Hamilton was taken ill with a severe attack of appendicitis. He was attended by Dr. Brandon, of Watford. Later Dr. Merrison, of Sarnia, was called and after a consultation Dr. Wishart, of London, was summoned. The Sarnia Canadian says:—"The late Mr. Hamilton was one of the best known and most respected residents of Sarnia. He became collector of taxes in 1890, succeeding Mr. Wm. Luscombe, and his discharge of his duties in that position was most admirable. He served for many years as secretary of the board of education, was a member of the library board, and prominently connected with the Royal Arcanum and other fraternal orders. He was appointed a justice of orders. He was appointed a justice of the peace several years ago. He leaves a wife, one son and one daughter to mourn his loss.''

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Ontario is to be the country of the next twenty years. Buy a farm in Ontario, improve it, live on it if you can. Clear the land, stone it, drain it, keep it clean, treat it well; get good roads through the townships; it will pay you back many times over. The best place to raise grain and stock is in Ontario, but you've got to be in earnest when you are doing it, and you should do it right. Ontario is too good a place for any further slip-shod methods.

That Canada should send over to England in 1914 a Canadian brigade to the divisional and army manoeuvers is the proposition being urged all parts of the Dominion upon Col. Sam. Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence. The brigade would be under the command of the militia minister himself. A staff of distinguished Canadian officers is also part of the plan urged. The scheme suggests that this brigade should consist of four batallions of infantry and a composite corps of cavalry, artillery, army service corps, etc.

A beautiful writer has said: here be a pleasure on earth which ngels cannot enjoy and which they night almost envy man the possesion of, it is the power of relieving distress. Every kindly act we do but inclines us more and more toward such deeds, and we become ness done to others in our daily walks advances us nearer those great souls which make the age they live in memorable.

Unusual interest is being displayed just now by prominent Japanese, who are believed to represent the Mikado's Government, in an investigation of how the Orientals who live in the vicinity of Vancouver are getting along, how they are being treated by Canadian citizens and the Government, and how they are succeeding in certain commercial pursuits. British Columbia laws prohibit Japanese labor in logging camps, on Government licensed timber, and the brown men are also legislated against as salmon fishermen. To extend the anti-Japanese feeling, boards of trade in the farming sections are now taking up the question, and at the next session the Legislature will be bomparded with demands for the enactment of an act based on the California measure to entirely prohibit

The deadliest error that can mislead a young man is that in order to know the world he must disregard home restrictions and sow wild oats. The son who sows wild oats will compel his father and mother to reap with him and be sharers of his shame. Every son needs to be careful of his character. It is the capital with which he enters business or begins a professional career. If it is shoddy or spotted the best men will shun him as a deadly poison.

Pride and Pride

Pride is a good thing in its place. Pride in a man's good name, or in what he has been able to accomplish with his hands or brain is pardonable, but the sort that goes around with a chip on its shoulder and its nose up in the air makes angels weep and devils hold their sides. There are people who would not carry a parcel up street or be seen shovelling the snow from the housefront whose fathers carried the hod or shovelled coal at a dollar and a half a day. There is a kind of pride, too, that leads a man pretty near to the penitentiary door and sometimes through it. This "keeping up ap-pearances" keeps many a family

The Measure of a Man

The place to take a true man's neasure is not in the market place or in the amen corner, nor in the forum or the field, but by his own fireside. There he lays aside his mask and you may learn whether he is imp or angel, king or cur, hero or readier to do the same again and world says of him — whether they with more enjoyment. Every kind-crown him or pelt him with bad eggs; we care not a copper what his reputation or religion may be; if his babies dread his coming home; if his better half swallows her heart every time she asks him for a five dollar bill, he's a fraud of the firstwater, even though he prays night and morn until he is black in the face and howls hallelujah until he shakes the eternal hills. But if his children rush to the gate to greet him, and love's sunshine illumines the face of his wife when she hears his footsteps you can take it for granted that he is true gold, for his home is a heaven and the humbug never gets that near the great white throne of God.

A Helptul Word

Give the young and struggling word of encouragement when you can. You would not leave those plants in your window boxes with out water nor refuse to open the shutters that the sunlight might fall Chinese and Japanese ownership of on them; but you would leave some human flower to suffer from want to appreciation or the sunlight of encouragement. There are a few degenerate as the State of New York | hardy souls that can struggle along on stony soil-shrubs that can wait ish, but he is not entirely devoid of for the dews and sunbeams, vines redeeming traits. We used to be told that drinking much water at meal time was very bad for the health, though probably some of us persisted in the habit, notwithstanding the warning. But now we are strongly advised to continue it or, if we have not followed it, to do so at once.

A professor in the university of Illinois has been carrying on an elaborate series of experiments with students and he has found that drinking at all meals is a great help to digestion, increasing the assimilative power to such an extent as to make a noticeable improvement in the general health of the students experimented with.

Willie's Long Pants

He holds his head up in the air and whistles as he goes;
There's not a prouder boy to-day in this land, I suppose.
He's grown two inches over night; you'd know it at a glance;
Yes, Willie's quite important now that he is in long pants.

For months he had been teasing to appear in grown man's style, But mother wanted him a boy, and made him wait awhile;

But now her baby's disappeared, he's taken an advance;
To man's estate he's grown at last.
Yes, Willie's in long pants.

How Willie holds his head up as he travels down the street,
Ignoring all the joshing of the playmates he may meet, He's complimented by the girls, his uncles and his aunts,
They say that Willie's quite a lad since he has donued long pants.

He struts about with haughty mien, as lotty as you please;
He doesn't seem to care a bit if we start in to tease, But out the door he calmly goes in blissful ignorance, Of what the world may say or do, since he has donned long pants. Then let come trouble, pestilence, disease or anything, Our Willie boy won't worry; he's as happy as a king;

He's always sighed to be a man, and now he has the chance, The trail to Boyland's disappeared, since Willie's donned long pants.

The new minister in a Georgia church was delivering his first sermon. The negro janitor was a critical listener from a back corner of the church. The min-ister's sermon was eloquent, and his prayers seemed to cover the whole category of human wants.

An Irishman was in the habit of getting drunk. His wife told him that he must not come home when he was drunk. One night he became intoxicated, and remembered his wife's command. To appease her he bought some chrysanthemums. When he reached the bottom of the stairs she called out: "Have you been drinking?" "No," he answered, "I have been buying you some chrys—chrys—" and could go no further. "Oh," he murmured, "why didn't I get roses?"

Electricity Makes the Chickens Grow

London, Aug. 19.—A long succession of ingenious experiments have been privately made in the effect of electricity upon the growth both of plants and animals, and, according to The London Daily Mail to-day, it is now possible to say, with some approach of confidence, that startling results have been reached in one direction. Beyond all question, young poultry respond to electric stimulus applied in a particular way, with astounding rapidity. They surpass the best on record in the speed of growth at this time of the year, and they keep their health in crowded conditions.

In the south of England, on the biggest poultry farm in the world, an experiment of this nature has just been completed. Of eight hundred chickens in two equal groups, 400 were nurtured on the intensive system—that is, in flats, almost

Musical Humor

(From Woman's World.)

A famous musician called Bottesini was in New York and folks were in raptures over his playing. A Fifth avenue hostess, famous for her social gatherings, turned to a young man beside her and said, "Oh, don't you love Bottesini?" The young man tugged at his moustache. "Well," he said, "to tell the truth, I have always preferred red wines." Then the "wise" man came along, gripped his young friend by the arm, pulling him forcefully away from the hostess, and muttering in his ear: "My dear fellow, don't make an ass of yourself. Bottesini isn't a wine; it's a cheese." (From Woman's World.)

SIX MORE DEATHS TO-DAY

Consumption the Cause

Six people die every day in Ontario from Tuberculosis—at the rate of one person every four hours—a total of over 2300 deaths every year—equivalent to the wiping out and loss to the community of a good sized town.

An appalling loss of life. The dreadful pity is that this continual sacrifice is quite unnecessary. These lives, or most of them, might be saved.

Pioneer work in the Crusade against Consumption has been done by the National Sanitarium Association. The hospitals at Muskoka and Weston are to-day standing evidence of the magnificent achievements of the Association.

One branch of the Association work—a free Illustrated Lecture with one hundred lantern view—is delivered by Mr. J. B. Watson, the Field Secretary of the Association.

This lecture will be given on Tuesday

This lecture will be given on Tuesday

This lecture will be given on Tuesday evening, September 2nd, at 8 o'clock, in the Methodist Church. A collection will be taken up at the close.

"The amount of information which Mr. Watson was able to convey to his hearers in a short time was marvellous. His style of delivery was excellent."

"Those who heard Mr. Watson's lecture were interested, informed and pleased."

"The wonderful lecturer gave most pleased."

"The wonderful lecturer gave most valuable information in a manner most thoroughly entertaining."

"Admirably practical and instructive."

"A speaker of unusaul ability."

"A most thrilling lecturer."

Such is the chorus of praise, without any note of dissent, which has greeted Mr. Watson's lecture during the past Watson's lecture during the past eighteen months.

The lecture explains in a simple, interesting, and complete way exactly what the disease is, how to avoid it, and what the disease is, how to avoid it, and how to treat it.

Parents especially should know how to protect themselves and their children. Every private individual—man, woman, and child—is in danger and should know how to combat it.

It is not too much to say that this lecture has been the means of saying lecture has been the means of saving many lives. It answers questions everybody is anxious to know. It is simplicity itself—a child can understand.

To attend the lecture is a privilege. We heartily commend it to our readers.

Sarnia Man Beats Wife

Sarnia, Aug. 21.—Albert Williamson, a well-known resident, beat his wife and family last night, it is alleged, and is locked up in Jail. Williamson started on the warpath in the approved style, and succeeded so well that he drove the family out into the street in a terror-stricken condition. One of the daughters ran all the way down to the police station and notified the officers, who hastened to the scene and placed the man under arrest. Williamson is an elderly man, and this is the first time he has been brought to the attention of the police. It is believed he was intoxicated at the time. He was given two months in jail. The frequency of fatal accidents to the women who use gasoline and oil stoves is surprising. Carelessness is invariably the cause of these accidents and it appears useless to try to impress upon the women the importance of following closely the directions for the use and care of these modern improvements. Neither gasoline or oil stoves should be refilled when there is any fire in the room, and the burners should be allowed to thoroughly cool off before any oil or gasoline is put into the tanks. These stoves are comparatively safe if ordinary care is excercised in their management, and women who use them should handle them as directed by the makers and experts who have made them a study. A person may digress from the written directions and escape any serious consequences for a time, but sooner or later will pay the penalty for taking the foolbardy chances. It's a great deal better to consume the necessary time to attend to the stove properly than to have sorrowing relatives and friends gathering around the bier and recount the good qualities of the deceased.

Newspaper advertising is to lower the cost of living according to the consensus of opinion voiced by speakers at the luncheon given by the Hawkeye Fellowship Club in Chicago. If it were not for advertising the public would be bankrupt as the result of soaring prices, it was asserted. The revelation of newspape advertising to the high cost of living was summarized by the speakers as follows: It decreases living expenses. It increases the volume of sale. It increases sales to the consumer, lower prices. Advertisements tell people where to buy cheapest. Bargains would go begging were it not for advertising. Advertisements are cheaper than high salaried drummers.

The gas or gasoline engine going a long way toward making up for the scarcity of labor. people begin to realize the amount of work that can be done and the small expense in connection with the running of an engine, then its use will become more general. Those who think they do not know enough about machinery to take care of an engine should quickly get rid of that idea as gas or gasoline engines are now so simple that any one with the smallest amount of common sense can soon understand them.

Built in Spain and exhibited at the world's fair, the ships have been lying off Chicago since 1892. An army of carpenters is working to put on copper bottoms and make the ships ready for an early start, so the St. Lawrence river may be reached before the tall storms.

The project of taking the tiny caravels on the long sea voyage to the 1915-exposition was inaugurated by Charles Stephenson, assistant coach of the Harvard university crews, who was appointed commander of the fleet. A. J. Kaul, Boston, millionaire, agreed to finance the expedition.

Much of the equipment and practically all armaments of twe ships are the originals used by Columbus. Muskets with baynots attached, arrows, cannons with stone cannon balls, and old folding chairs seen on the duplicate ships were all taken by the Spanish government from the ancient earavels.

Toronto, August 26.—Receipts at the Union stockyards to-day were 166 loads, with 3,076 cattle, 388 calves, 1,262 hogs and 1,398 sheep and lambs.

There was more life and activity in to-day's market than on any day last week. The fact that a large number of exhibition visitors were at the market, together with a slight improvement in the demand for butchers' cattle, gave an appearance of more business doing, even though prices were very slow to show corresponding strength. ### FEEDING VALUE OF CEREALS COMPARED farm for feeding purposes are oats, corn, barley and occasionally wheat and rye, says the Iowa Homestead The feeding value of these feeds for dairy cows largely lies in their protein content, because protein is scarce and high in price. Too much stress, of course, cannot be laid on protein simply because it is high in price, for there are other things coming in which ma terially affect the feeding value besides scarcity.

There must be considered palatabil ity, digestibility and the general effect on the animal's body. Of the three feeds first mentioned (corn. oats and barley) they stand in relation to each other for milk production about as follows: Oats rank first, each hundred pounds containing nine pounds of pro tein and sixty pounds of carbohydrates and fat. Barley would come in second with nine parts protein and seventy pounds carbohydrates and fat, while Tuebia Pieterje Carren Fidessa, the pure bred Holstein heifer here-with illustrated, has a remarkable milk and butter record for so young an animal. She was bred and is owned by the University of Neva-da, situated at Reno. At the Sac-ramento fair, November, 1912, she won the milking contest in her class. In seven days she gay she 235.5 class. In seven days she gave 326.5 pounds of milk, containing fourteen pounds of butter fat. Her age at the time of the test was one year, eight months and sixteen days.

corn has six pounds protein and seventy pounds carbohydrates and fat. It would appear at first thought that bar lev would be the better feed, as it contains the same amount of protein as oats, with the added advantage of pos-sessing a higher fat content, but oats come nearer approaching a balance, while they furnish a roughage so much needed by the animal and which is very palatable. Bran is a byproduct, not, strictly speaking, a farm product, but it is a most excellent feed for dairy cows. It is a much better feed for milk production, especially when fed in con-nection with other feeds, for variety, than ground wheat. Whole wheat contains 10.2 pounds of protein, while CREAM SEPARATORS contains 10.2 pounds of protein, while bran contains 12.6 pounds protein per 100 pounds. Bran is more bulky, less concentrated and pasty and aids materially in carrying other feeds through the manifold and alimentary tract and absorbs the juices of the stomach. causing the animal to take heavy drafts of water so essential to the production of large quantities of milk. A consistent ration for cows in full flow and heavy producers is 1.6-that is, one part protein to six parts carbo hydrates. Light milkers will do very vell on a ration of 1.7, but it should not be widened beyond this.

Corn stover has a nutritive ratio of about 1.23, depending somewhat on the quality of the feed. Binder corn or corn fodder has a ratio of 1.14.

Clover Bloat.

The chief symptom of bloating is a sudden distension in the left flank, which swells up and appears as tight as a drumhead when thumped with the finger. Relief must be immediate if suffocation is to be avoided and consists in providing an artificial outlet for the gas by "tapping" the animal. This is best accomplished by inserting a trocar and canula into the most prominent portion of the swelling. To prevent further gas formation administer a drench of two ounces of turpen tine in a pint of raw linseed oil or a quart of new milk. As a prevention avoid turning the cattle out into clover or alfalfa until the dew or rain has dried off. In addition, giving a full feed of dry roughage, such as the animals are accustomed to, just before turning them out will be found helpful in pre venting this trouble.-Bulletin Kansas Experiment Station.

Salt For Live Stock. Salt is very necessary to the digestive processes of all animals and especially of those living on a green veg-etable ration. The action of the salt in the digestive organs helps to make quicker the assimilation of foods, and animals that are without salt for any length of time in summer immediately begin to lose fiesh. Their condition may be recognized almost at a glance.

keep salt continuously before all ani-In summer it is an easy matter to buy a couple of hundred pounds of ordinary rock salt and leave a few chunks of it around the watering place where the cattle, sheep, horses and hogs can reach it any time they happen to feel the craving.

Ringing a Bull. A bull calf seven months old should have a ring put in his nose and be taught to lead with it. The opening in the nose is made by the use of a trocar. Copper is the common substance used in making rings but some are made of iron covered with tin. ******************

****************** WORK THE STALLION.

Fat Animals of Either Sex Are Likely to Be Shy Breeders.

Noting an article recently as to care of stallions prompted me to give a bit of my experience, writes J. C. Sidle in the Rural New Yorker. Years ago, with horses a drug on the market, a very good one not being worth over $100, I thought I saw in the future of the horse business money for the man who laid a good foundation from a breeding standpoint. I started with this idea to procure the nicest, best brood mares obtainable; gave a local horse buyer an order for a pair of the best mares he could get in Iowa. They came, good ones, nice looking, attractive animals. The best, nicest looking, fattest stallion was selected as the sire of my future money makers. As to results, there were no results. One mare would not breed; the other would not carry her foal to maturity. Not discouraged, I went to the same source for another pair of breeding animals, procured them and had slightly better results, but as long as I kept the dams hog fat and bred to sires in the same condition without exercise the rule was to bury the offspring until I had a veritable colt gravevard upon my farm.

I changed my base, selected the best home bred mares I could get, paid attention to their ancestry as to raising

For size, style, quickness of movement and ability and willingness to put shoulders into the collar the Percheron horse is hard to beat. Of course there are other good breeds, several of them, and they make splendid drafters. The Percherons, however, are the most numerous of the heavy draft animals in the United States, and they are justly prized for their fine qualities. Draft horses are in big demand—in fact, the demand exceeds the supply—so it behoeves the farmer to raise a few good ones. The Percheron mare shown is owned by the University of Tennessee agricultural experiment station.

colts, bought a stallion of my own, put him in the team, made him earn his keep outside the stud and have today my third stallion along this line. The exception today is to bury the colt, the rule to raise them. The same principle holds good with both sire and dam. Both should be kept in good, hard flesh and thin, exercised or worked daily, and the sire becomes as tractable in the hands of a master as the dam. Notice the word master. Not every one is capable of working a stallion, and he should not be trusted in the hands of any one but a master. The principles involved in above took many years to work out, and had the writer started on the same basis upon which he works today he would be several thousand dollars better off.

Skin Troubles of Horses. When a horse commences to rui its tail and mane it should be fed lightly and worked freely if treatment is to be effective. The horse must also be cleaned thoroughly and kept clean, while the hair and skin at the tail and mane should be scrubbed with soap and hot water. The washed parts should then be dried thoroughly with sawdust and a healing lotion applied to control the itching and soothe the inflamed skin. Flowers of sulphur and sweet oil, mixed to the consistency of cream, with an ounce of a coal tar dip added to each pint of the mixture, is a simple and excellent application.

This lotion should be rubbed well into the roots of the hair. It should not be washed off, but repeated every three days.

Obstructed Teat. The induration at the end of the teat should be cut through in four different directions by means of a sterilized teat bistoury. Then strip out a stream of milk several times a day while the wounds are healing.

TAMED THE MONARCH.

The Part a Silver Inkstand Played In a National Crisis.

The pages of history record many intances in which trivial incidents have shaped the destinies of nations. According to a story in the New York Tribune, a small silver inkstand and the quick wit of a prime minister once played an important part in the history of the Netherlands.

William III., king of the Netherlands. was a man of violent and ungovernable temper. Although in general a clever statesman, he was inclined, for some reason or other, to involve Holland in the trouble that was brewing between France and Germany in 1870. He was deaf to the appeals of his ministers. who foresaw the ruin to the country that war would bring. Thorbecke, the prime minister, resolved to make one last attempt to change his soverign's resolution. On entering the royal presence Thorbecke was greeted with a rough "Good morn- Court Lorne, No. 17, C.O.F. ing! What's the news?"

"Nothing particular, your majesty.

man, "The Haguers declare that your majesty has become stark, staring mad!" Before he could utter another word King William, his face purple with fury, jumped up and seized a heavy silver inkstand, with the intention of hurling it at the head of the premier. Fortunately a projecting angle of the inkstand caught in the tablecloth and dragged it off the table with everything upon it. In the confusion

the discharge of the missile was delay ed for a moment. "Sire," exclaimed Thorbecke quietly, "if your majesty hurls that beautiful inkstand at my head The Haguers will have much reason for their assertion!" For a minute the angry king gazed in silence at his minister. Then he gradually lowered his arm and replaced the inkstand on the table. He walked to one of the windows and stood looking out for a few minutes. Returning to the table, he resumed his seat and said, as if nothing had happened:

THE WESTERN FAIR

As a Dairy Exhibition SEPTEMBER 5th TO 13th

SEPTEMBER 5th TO 13th

It is a well-known fact that the Dairy Industry is one of the best assets of the farmers of Ontario to-day. Realizing this fact the management of the Western Fair have given a good deal of thought and attention to this department. In addition to their splendid building, whose only fault is its size, they have installed a cold storage system for both Cheese and Butter. Exhibitors may rest assured their goods will be properly cared for while at the Exhibition. The prize list has been changed considerably this year, instead of showing two cheese as in the past, the sections have been divided, and one cheese of each month's make, June, July and August, of both colored and white are asked for. The prize money is liberal and is extended to sixth place, giving more exhibitors a chance to win. Sections are also made for Canadian Flats and Stilton Cheese. In addition to the regular prizes, several local firms have kindly donated cash specials and silver cups to this department, making it very attractive. The buttermaking competition will be carried on every day of the Exhibition, and as there is a large Auditorium with plenty of good seating accommodation, this is a popular building. Prize Lists and all information from the Secretary, General Offices, Dominion Savings Building, London, Ontario.

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to suffer from the raveges of worms is unwise and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

B. B. Van Tuyl has been appointed general manager of Brewster's, Petrolea. Miss Nina Whitehead, Strathroy, died st week after an illness extending over twenty years.

Messrs. J. H. Anderson, Oil Springs, Warden of the County, C. O. Fairbank, Petrolea, and H. J. Pettypiece, Forest, representing the County of Lambton, will meet delegates from most other counties of Ontario in Toronto this autumn, and discuss the great question of Railway Taxation.

The case with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendations. It seldom fails.

The third well on the farm of Mr. Geo. Anderson, townline, P. & E., being the last contracted for, resulted in an ample supply of gas being found. Oil was hoped for as more gas than can be utilized flows from the first well. It is expected that another attempt to secure oil pected that another attempt to secure oil vill be made at a later date

A meeting was held in Toronto at which the organization of the Central Co-operative Fruit Growers Association for Ontario, was completed. The name is to be "The Co-operative Fruit Growers of Ontario, Limited." The following local associations have already joined:—Forest, Tilsonburg, Pelham, Durham, Oshawa, Walpole, Orono, St. Catharines, Brant, Oakville, Petrolea and Owen Sound. This organization expects to have from 35,000 barrels of apples to dispose of this year. pose of this year.

IT WILL, PREVENT ULCERATED THROAT.—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have made themselves immune to attack.

At a meeting of the Forest Fruit Growers' Association reports were presented from the different growers on the probable crop. Apples will be much lighter than was expected, there being possibly not more than 5,000 barrels suitable for shipping. In peaches and plums however, the prospects are that 20,000 baskets of the former and 30,000 of the latter will be shipped from that point, there being a bumper crop. Tomatoes will also be shipped in large quantities before the canning commences.

James L. McHattie, general agent for the Englewood union passenger station, Chicago, and a son of Mrs. John McHattie, of Petrolea, has been missing since Thursday, July 31st. This was the day Mr. McHattie returned from leave of absence granted him by the railroad, he leaving the station again almost immediately, complaining of lameness in one of his feet. He went home after going out, which was the last seen of him, his wite notifying the police, who are making every effort to locate him, when he failed to return. The accounts of the missing man are reported correct by the railway company and his record good. James L. McHattie, general agent for

NERVOUS CHILDREN Carried. McKercher-Doan, that we adjourn.

Are Often in the Early Stages of . St. Vitus Dance

They Need a Tonic to Strengthen the Weak Nerves and Restore
Them to Natural Health

Many a child has been called awkward, has been punished in school for not keeping still, or for dropping things when the child is not really at fault, as the trouble is really St. Vitus dance in its earlier stages. So common is this nervous disease in childhood that in some schools one-fifth of all the pupils have been found suffering from it in one form or another. Before the presence of the disease is betrayed there is usually a disturbance of the general health. The child shows listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless, and twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that urgs of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that cures St. Vites dance and cures it so thoroughly that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make the new blood necessary to feed the starv-ing nerves and gives them the nourishing nerves and gives them the nourishment they demand.

Mrs. Hiram Barnhart, Scotia Junction, Out., says: "About two years ago my oldest daughter, Mabel, then ten years of age, was stricken with St. Vitus dance. She could not keep still for half a minute no matter how hard she tried. Her limbs would jerk and twitch and every little thing would start her crying. I gave her several bottles of medicine said to be good for the nerves, but instead of helping her she was steadily growing worse. Her voice would change so that we could hardly understand her, and her was the subject for discussion and Sandy worse. Her voice would change so that we could hardly understand her, and her face became twitched until she did not look like the same child. I had used for Williams' Pink Pills myself when run down, and finally decided to give her these. When she had taken two boxes I could notice an improvement, and by the time she had used five boxes she was fully cured. However, I was determined for wears ago. Watford is always Watrun down, and finally declided to give her these. When she had taken two boxes I could notice an improvement, and by the time she had used five boxes she was fully cured. However, I was determined to make the cure permanent if possible, and I gave her two boxes more and I can truthfully say that she has never had a symptom of the trouble since. ymptom of the trouble since, and is now as bright and active as any child of her age. MANY children are born with a defect of vision. Unless it is very great the child does not particularly suffer until the school period. Then the young mind becomes intent upon study and any defect of vision becomes a direct strain upon the brain. To relieve this the child will squint, or turn the head, in many cases using only one eye. This habit grows until we almost have a deformity of the eye.

Parents; do not let this be the experience of your child. We will gladly and thoroughly examine your child's eyes, and tell you truthfully how best to remedy it. See to it now.
