clear out the balance of our winter stock of Ladies and Officer's Knit-ted Underwear, we will give you your choice of the lob on Friday and Saturday Eve moved toward him. She moved slowly, as if half afraid. Many emotions stirred her-distrust, uncertainty and a carious half dominant, half suppressed questioning that it was difficult to define. Loder remembered her shrinking coldness, her reluctant tolerance on the night of his first coming, and his individuality, his certainty of power, kindled afresh. Never had he been so vehemently himself; never had chilctots seemed so complete a shadow.

As Eve seated herself he moved forward and leaned over the back of his chair. The impulse that had filled him in his interview with Renwick, that had goaded him as he drove to the reception, was dominant again. Eve moved toward him. She moved 20 p. c. off e piece, 33 inch width; White Notting ham Lace Curtain Not. Regular 35c. On Friday and Saturday, price. 25c. yard Cretonnes, Cretonnes.

had goaded him as he drove to the re-ception, was dominant again.
"I tried to say something as we drove to the Bramfells' tonight," he began. Like many men who possess eloquence for an impersonal cause, he was brusque, even blunt, in the stating of his own case. "May, I hark back, and go on from where I broke off?"

Eve half, turned. Her face was still puzzled and questioning. "Of course." She sat forward again, clasping her hands. **

He looked thoughtfully at the back set her head, at the slim outline of her shoulders, the glitter of the diamonds about her neck.

"Do you remember the day, three weeks ago, that we talked together in this room—the day a great many things

This time she did not look round. She kept her gaze upon the fire. "Do you remember?" he persisted quietly. In his college days men who heard that tone of quiet persistence had been wont to lose heart. Eve heard it now for the first time and, heard it now for the first time and, without being aware, answered to it.

"Yes, I remember," she said.

"On that day you believed in me." In his earnestness he no longer simulated Chilcots; he spoke with his own steady reliance. He saw Eve stir, unclasp and clasp her hands, but he went steadily on. "On that day you saw me in a new light. You acknowledged me." He emphasized the slightly peculiar word. "But since that day"—his voice quickened—"since that day your feelings have changed, your day" his voice quickened—"since that day your feelings have changed, your faith in me has fallen away." He watched her closely, but she made no sign, save to lean still nearer to the fire. He crossed his arms over the back of her chair. "You were justified," he said suddenly. "I've not been myest since that day." As he said the words his coolness forsook him slightly. He loathed the necessary lie, yet his egotism clamored for vindication. "All men have their lapses," he went on. "There are times—there are days and weeks when I—when my"—

The word "nerves" touched his tongue, hung upon it, then died away unspoken.

Your then the the silence that followed Loder lived through a century of suggestion and indecision. His first clear thought was for Chilecte and their contractions. Very quietly, almost without sound, Eve had risen and turned to-ward him. She was standing very straight, her face a little pale, the hand that rested on the arm of her chair trembling slightly.

"John," she said quickly, "don't say that word! Don't say that hideous word 'nerves!" I don't feel that I can bear it tonight-not just tonight. Can you understand?" Loder stepped back. Without comprehending, he felt suddenly and strangely at a loss. Something in her face struck him silent and perplexed. It seemed that without preparation he had stepped upon dangerous ground.

With an undefined apprehension, he waited, looking at her.
"I can't explain it," she went on with nervous haste. "I can't give any reasons, but quite suddenly the the farce has grown unbearable i used not to think—used not even to care—but suc lenly things have changed-or I have changed." She paused, confused and distressed. "Why should it be? Why should things change?" She asked the question sharply, as if in appeal question sharply, as it is against her own incredulity.

Loder turned aside. He was afraid of the triumph, voicanic and irrepressible, that her admission roused, "Why?" she said again.

He turned slowly back. "You forget that I'm not a magician," he said gently. "I hardly know what you are speaking of." For a moment she was silent, but in that moment her eyes spoke. Pain, distress, pride, all strove for expression; then at last her lips parted.

"Do you say that in seriousness?" she asked. It was no moment for fencing, and Loder knew it. "In seriousness," he replied shortly.

"Then I shall speak seriously too." Ier voice shook slightly and the color ame back into her face, but the hand on the arm of the chair ceased to trem-ble. "For more than four years I have known that you take drugs-for n your deceptions in your mean-There was an instant's silence. Then oder stepped forward.

"You know—for four years?" he said,

"Tou knew—for four years?" he said, very slowly. For the first time that night he remembered Chilcote and forgot himself.

Eve lifted her head with a quick seature, as if, in flinging off discretion and silence, she appreciated to the full the new relief of speech.

"Yes, I knew. Perhaps I should have spoken when I first surprised the secret, but it's all so past that it's useless to speculate now. It was fate, I suppose. I was very young, you were very unapproachable, and—and we lad no love to make the way easy." For a second her glance faltered and she second her giance faltered and she looked away. "A woman's—a girl's—disillusioning is a very sad comedy—it should never have an audience." She laughed a little bitterly as she looked back again. "I saw all the deceits, all the subterfuges, all the—lies." She said the word deliberately, meeting his

"I saw it all. I lived with it all till "I saw & al. I lived with it all this grew hard and indifferent—till I acquiesced in your 'nerves' as readily as the rest of the world that hadn't suspected and didn't know." Again she laughed nervously. "And I thought the indifference would last forever. If one lives in a groove for years, one gets traven up. I never feet more frozen. frozen up. I never felt mere frozen than on the night Mr. Fraide spoke to me of you—asked me to use my influ-ence; then, on that night"—
"Yes. On that night?" Loder's voice

"That night you found me changed?" Loder was insistent. "Changed-and vet not changed." She spoke reluctantly, with averted head.

"And what did you think?" Again she was silent. Then again a faint excitement tinged her cheeks.

"I thought"— she began. "It seemsa"— Once more she paused, hampersad by her own uncertainty, her own sense of puzzling incongruity. "I don't know why I speak like this," she went on at last, as if in justification of herself, "or why I want to speak. But a teeling—an extraordinary, incomprehensible feeling seems to urge me on. The same feeling that came to me on the day we had tea together—the feeling that made me—that almost made Again she was silent. Then again a

"Believe what?" The words escaped him without volition.

At sound of his voice she turned. "Believe that a miracle happened," she said; "that you had found strength,

"From morphia. In the silence that followed Loder He stood, metaphorically, on a stone in the middle of a stream, balancing on one foot, then on the other; looking to the right bank, then to the left. At last as it always did, inspiration came to him slowly. He realized that by one plungs be might save both Chil-cote and himself. cote and himself.

He crossed quickly to the fireplace and stood by Eve. "You were right in your belief," he said. "For all that time, from the night you spoke to me of Fraide to the day you had tea in this room. I never touched a drug." She moved suddenly, and he saw her face. "John," she said unsteadily, "you—I—I have known you to lie to me about other things." With a hasty movement he averted his head. The doubt, the appeal in her words, shocked him. The whole isolation of her life seemed summed up in the one short sentence. For the instant e forgot Chilcote. With a reaction of "Look at me!" he said brusquely. She raised her eyes.

"Do you believe I'm speaking the ruth?" She searched his eyes intently, the doubt and hesitancy still struggling in reluctantly. "How can you ask me to believe?" believe?"

He had expected this and he met it steadily enough. Nevertheless his courage faltered. To deceive this roman, even to justify himself, had in the last half hour become something sacrilegious.

"The last three weeks must be buried," he said hurriedly. "No man could free himself suddenly from—from a vice." He broke off abruptly. He hated Chilcote; he hated himself.

Then Eve's face, raised in distressed appeal, overshadowed all scruples.
"You have been silent and patient for "You have been silent and pareint for years," be said suddenly. "Can you be patient and silent a little longer?" He spoke without consideration. He was conscious of no selfshness be-neath his words. In the first exercise of conscious strength the primitive de-sire to reduce all elements to his own sovereignty submerged every other emotion. "I can't enter into the thing," he said; "like you, I give no explanations. I can only tell you that on the day we talked together in this room I was myself—in the full pos-session of my reason, the full knowl-edge of my own capacities. The man you have known in the last three weeks, the man you have imagined in the last four years, is a shadow, an unreality—a weakness in human form. There is a new Chilcote—if you will mly see him."

Eve was trembling as he ceased; her face was flushed; there was a strange brightness in her eyes. She was moved beyond herself.

"But the other you—the old you?"

"You must be patient?" He looked down into the line. The last three waks will come again—must come again, they are inevitable. When they de come, you must shut your eyes—you must blind yourself. You must ignore them—and me. Is it a compact?" He still avoided her eyes. She turned to him guietty. "Yes—

He was conscious of her glance, but he dared not meet it. He felt sich at the part he was playing, yet he held to it fenectously.

American income tax. The income tax proposed by the new Wilson Tariff Bill is graduated in a somewhat complicated fashion. An American contemporary explains its provisions in

According to the present bill every person, except State and federal office-holders, receiving more than $4,000 a year, whether from earnings, salaries, fee or investments, is to pay 1 per cent. tax or $10 on each $1,000 of income over $4,000 a year An additional tax of 1 per cent. is to be levied on all incomes over $20,000 a year and less than $50,000; an additional tax of 2 per cent. on all incomes exceeding $50.000 annually up to $100,000, and an additional tax of 3 per cent. on all incomes of more than $100,000 a year.

Everyone receiving $5,500 a year or more will have to make, a sworn statement to the United States internal revenue collector each year, stating all the sources of his income. Only incomes above $4,000, however, will be taxed.

If he earns $30,000 he would pay 1 per cent. on $16,000 and 2 per cent on $10,000, thus making his annual tax $300.

The person with a $50,000 income would pay 1 per cent. on $16,000 and 2 per cent. on $30,000 and 3 per cent. on $30,000 and 3 per cent. on $50,000 which would be $15.00, bring ing his total income tax to $2,200.

The individual with a net income of $1,000,000 will have $2,200 on his first $100.000, and in addition he would pay 4 per cent. on $900,000, which would bring his total tax to $39,200.

The bill also would re-enact the present corporation tax on the earnings of corporations, stock companies, insurance companies and the like, but it would exempt partnerships. This is a fist tax, therefore the property of the statement of the present on graduated scale as the earnings increase.

A few years ago, Hon. Winston Churchill wrote a life of his celebrated father. Lord Randolph Churchill. British shipbuilding and put money into the pockets of European armament makers. Does he realize that the introduction of the closure in Canada means a continuous and bitter Parliamentary battle on almost every matter of importance which may hereafter come up for consideration? Since he has advised Mr., Borden in regard to Naval matters, perhaps he might wisely supplement this by advising him in regard to the question of the "gag."

The "gag" adopted.

The party which prides itself on its alleged loyalty, the party whose leaders profess to be more British than the people of the British Isles, the party which is forever waving the flag and-beating the drum, selected the day of England's Patron Saint—St. George's Day—to perpetrate the infamy of garrotting free speech in one of the Legislatures of the British Empire. While in a thousand cities and villages throughout Canada and the rest of the Empire, eloquent words were being spoken, moving songs were being sung, and toosts enthusiastically drunk in honour of the proud claims of Englishmen as first in peace and war, first in constitutional freedom and individual liberty, the men at Ottawa who are louder than the loudest in their declaration of love and admiration for that freedom, were engaged in the delectable occupation of putting a muzzle on British free speech in this country. Without any of the conditions which may possibly have to some extent justified stringent action in other countries, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irres, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irres, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irres, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irres, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irres, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irres. which may possibly have to some extent justified stringent action in other countries, without an unwieldy membership in the Commons, without any large and irreconcilable body of Independents ready to join either party at a moment's notice and make or unmake governments, without an over burden of legislative work to do without even the excuse that the general business of the country is being interfered with, without any of the reasons which may have necessitated action elsewhere, Government or the people, has been abolished in this country and the arbitrary, unchecked, not to be criticized government by a mere party machine, substituted. A revolution in the direction of absolutism has been accomplished while St. George for Merrie England and English liberty of thought and speech were being tosated and sung from Londou to Melbourne and from Halifax to Vancouver. But the end is not yet. The batter must go on, and the cause of free speech once more vindicated. Upon the Liberals of Cansda resis this responsibility and they must shoulder it fearlessly and unhealtatingly.

I Will Abolish The Dust Nuisance.

In the making of the Better, Brighter and Bigger Halifax, the dust nuisance must be considered. I stand betwee you and the dust. If I am elected to the Board of Control, I will grapple with the dust problem at once. I believe the tram system can be used to a great measure, and with an improved control of the streets not traversed by system on the streets not traversed by the tram cars, there is no reason why the dust nuisance should continue.

OTTAWA, April 24.—The House of Commons, on a vote of 108 to 73, adopted the closure. The first division was on Mr. Hazen's motion, "That the question be now put." It was carried by 108 to 73. The vote on the resolution was then called and the division was taken at 12.35 a. m.

Mr. Carroll, Cape Breton, resumed the debate in the afternoon. "When the Minister of Justice says there is a popular clamor for such injugitous messures," said Mr. Carroll, "he may be speaking for the millionaires of Montreal and the millionaires of Montreal and the millionaires of Toronto. But he has no mandate from the great working classes of the country, who have only one way of bringing their grievances before parliament, and that way is through their representatives who are now threatened with the "gag," Mr. Carroll suggested that a clause should be put in the Naval Bill referring it to the people before it should become law. That course would remove the opposition to the measure.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

At Cincinnati, Chicago and Cincinnati played a tie, the game being called at the end of the ninth inning. Cincinnati tied the score in the ninth when Bates knocked out a home run bringing in a runner ahead of him. Brooklyn did some timely batting, and aided by errors defeated Boston 7 to 2. Rucker held the Bostons scoreless until the ninth inning. A triple play in the third by Pittsburg was a feature of the game. the third by Pittsburg was a reature of the game.

At St. Louis, Mathewson was in superb form, and his fine pitching enabled New York to beat Philadelphia 3 to 1. Mathewson allowed two hits in each of the first-and second innings, and a fifth hit in the fourth. In the last five innings he did not permit a man to reach first. Chalmers was very effective, but Merkle hit him for a home run in the eighth.

Sr. Petesseurg, April 24.—The capture of Scutari has caused great anxiety and activity in diplomatic circles here. The Hassian Foreign Minister, Sergius Sazonofi, is busy conferring with Ambasadors and exchanging telegrams with the European Chancellories.

It is understood this Russian diplomacy prefers to seave the initiative to Great Britain and France, and it is believed that neither will countenance any form of coercion with respect to Montenegro. Bussia herself cannot do so without straining to the breaking point the fedings of her Sisophile ruling classes. OUR MINES

Our Greatest Source Of Revenue!

Deprived of the Royalties now received from our Coal Mines, our Provincial Government would find it a difficult matter to 'make both ends meet.' Of these Royalties, so necessary for our Provincial Housekeeping, the DOMINION COAL COMPANY, LIMITED, contributes the largest amount. With numerous collieries in different parts of Cape Breton County, their out-put has increased tremendously since the Company's formation. They mine the celebrated RESERVE Coal, which is so well-known and so largely used in Halifax for every purpose for which Coal CAN be used As a domestic fuel, it is a "best seller," while for steam pur poses it has a world-wide reputation. Steamers of all Nations have been bunkered by the Dominion Coal Company, Limited, with Cape Breton Coal at their Coaling Piers in Cape Breton, and by their Halifax Agency, with Reserve or Springhill.

We carry full stocks of RESERVE at all times.

New Ideas in Draperies!

Newness predominates just now all over our Drapery Department, as we are showing for the first time many entirely new ideas in Scrims, Voiles, Madras Muslins, Fish Nets, Cathedral Nets and Cretonnes. If you are looking for something new and pretty, something out of the ordinary, for draping your windows and doors, you will find it in the magnificent stock we are now showing. COME IN AND LOOK THEM OVER.

DARTMOUTH ITEMS.

Lodge Dartmouth, Sons of England, held

Lodge Dartmouth, Sons of England, held an oyster supper at their rooms last evening in celebration of St. George's Day. There were a large number of members present and a very enjoyable time was speni. Ald Mosher, president of the lodge, was chairman. Speeches were made by a number of members which added not a little to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mayor Williams launched two more patrel boats which he built for the Dominion Government, yesterday morning. Mr. Williams has built several of these boats during the past two years, which are being used at different points along the shore.

On Tuesday night the streets were in total darkness for a time, owing to a derangement in the machinery at the electric light plant. Repairs were effected and the lights put on shortly before 10 o'clock.

Much comment was heard to-day regarding the irregular ferry service during the fog early this morning. Numbers of persons were late in reaching their employment in Halifax after waiting for its house.

Alil. Tobin was able to be out yesterday after being confined to the house for a few days with an attack of la grippe.

The Plebiscite Bill.

In the House of Assembly yesterday afternoon the second Tramway Bill presented by the City of Halifax was introduced by the City of Halifax was introduced by Hon. G. E. Faulkner. The Bill asks for permission to hold a plebiscite to obtain an expression of opinion of the people as regards the expropriation of the property and franchise at a price fixed by arbitration. It also asks that the Act passed last year restraining for one year, the Tram Co. from increasing its capital be amended to further debar them from such increase for another year. The rules of the House were suspended to allow Mr. Faulkner to move the second reading of the Bill, which was then referred to the committee on Railways and Municipalities. The House went into supply about four o'clock and at midnightaojourned without one ttem having been passed. The discusion was in reference to Crown Lands. The Plebiscite Bill.

profied the mine. Eighteen bodies had been brought to the mouth of the principal oppning this morning.

It will be impossible to determine the exact extent of the estactrophe until the mines of Main and Cross entries have been explored, a difficult task when it is known that these are choked with fallen timbers and rooks. Many men, working with feverish haste, are building brattices to carry the fresh air through the gas fill ed galleries.

The bodies found were not far from the extrance, among them being that of a miner named McCollough, who bad volunteered for resous work and was known as one of the best and most careful miners in the district. He was among the first to enter the mine after the explosion, and advancing farther than his associates, became lost. He is believed to have been killed by a failling roof, as he was provided with a helmest and was in no danger from gas.

R stoters this morning reported that the bodies of twenty-one nuise had been seen, the majority of them having been killed by the explosion. Latest estimates of the dead are near the hundred mark.

One often hears people say that they wish they could save money and invest it. Most of them are under the impression that in order to invest, it is necessary to save at least several hundred dollars. This was the case a few years ago. Since large concerns have been established, calling for large by one person or a few individuals, there has arisen a great demand for money from investors.

Thus, a person with a few dollars to invest may become a partner in a country's greatest enterprises. And the partnership liability is limited to the extent of the money so invested.

Now, the man who can save a few dollars a week or month, may become an investor. Don't wish you were an investor-become one. We shall be glad to tell how you may become an investor although your savings may amount to but a few dollars a Frenchingher education has not received one cent yet, nor is it likely it ever will; the higher education establishments do not get any money at present.

We find that while English education was a brilleast success, if we look at French education bast it has a deplorable history. While the Acadians came to this country that brought their faith, their hopes, "cotrage and loyalty." When they came back from their exile in the Stokes they came back without prieses back from their exile in the Stokes they came back without prieses the time of the French revolution, and after remained in the United States; and action remained in the United States; and settled wherever they could be a state of the Unite British Government; and it is to-day the oldest institution of learning in British

When we come to this chamber are supposed to throw our political feelings, and our political partizanship, outside the door, and come inside this outside the door, and come inside this House to give justice to whom justice is due. I think, after all, I am justified in referring to a charge which has been made against Mr. Murray in for other place by a gentleman from other place by a gentleman from the extreme east of the Province. We may say political winds don't change the mind of the Prenchman. But if a Frenchman starts for a port he is going to get there. If the wind changes, if he cannot beat to windward, he does not turn his coat over; he will haul off his coat and put it on the bottom of the boat; he hauls down his sail, and with courage and muscle

PATRICK'S,

Monday, 21st April, 1918.—(Con.)

Hon. Mr. Robichau, speaking in regard to the report of the Superintendent of Education, said:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to thank him for the trouble and the interest he has taken during the last year in regard to the advancement of French education. For the first time in the history of French education I am able to give the number of children attending school in the lower grades of the common school of the common school.

I find in Antigonish they have 189 in the common school and 336 in the higher grade. They made a splendid gain last year of 100 attending the higher grade. There were 346 in the higher grade in French and only 95 studying English.

In Diethy County we have 1800 in the common school lower grade, and only 80 in the higher grade; we made a small gain last year of 15. We have 156 studying English in the higher grade.
Guysboro has 52 in the common school lower grade and 90 in the higher grade; they have made a gain of 20 studying French during last year. They have 162 in the higher grade in the English.
Inverness County has 25

Inverness County has 909 in the lower grade and 106 in the higher grade studying French, and they made a gain last year of 57. They have in the English higher grade 278. Richmond has 761 in the lower grade, and 95 in the higher grade, studying French; a decrease on last year of 4; on the English higher grade.

tioned employing French teachers, there are 5,211, and in the other coun-trast to French education. English education was not born in this country; it did not require to be rocked and nursed by its mother; it was never brought in its infancy, but it was brought here in full growth of manhood in 1749. When this country was settled by the people that came from the best educated country in the world, they brought their ministers, their doctors and their lawyers; and what has been the history since? Education has made such growth that it was found necessary in 1808 to establish a college for higher education and at 80 in the English higher grade.

The County of Yarmouth had a decrease in French of 52 during the previous five years. I find that it has 1,500 in the lower grade, and 206 in the higher grade, studying French, a gain over last year of 134. They only have 52 in the higher grade studying English.

ties 198 studying French, making a total of 5,409, learning French in the lower grades, and 1,013 in the higher grades, and 823 in the English higher grade, studying English. I find a gain in the other counties that have no French teachers, and I am glad to find there is a large increase in the number of those who were studying French.
I find one obstacle in the way of

I find one obstacle in the way of learning French; there are lots of our people who are of the opinion that French education is not what we want; we want English education. I do not pretend to be against English education, I want our people to learn French first, so that they can learn English.

It is impossible for a man, a Frenchman especially, if he does not know his own language first, to make progress with his studies. He must learn his own language first to be educated. I think it is an avful mistake for the French people not to teach their children French in the common school lower grades. I find that Lunenburg has a population of 2181 French and I am told that there is not a single man that can speak a word of French in that County.

I find the County of Cumberland has that can speak a word of French in that County.

I find the County of Cumberland has 2407-of a French population, and I see that during the last year one pupil was learning French in the lower grade, and one teacher in that county. Those people who think we do not want French education put me in mind of a young Frenchman who received a letter from his best girl; but he could not read a word of French, and so he went to his friend and asked him to read it for him. Before he allowed him to read it, however, he said to his friend, "I do not want you to know what is in it so you must put your fingers in your ears while you are reading it to me, so you can t hear what you say." Who says that we don't want French education after that?

I would like to say a few words in regard to English education in contrast to French education. English education was not born in this country; it did not require to be rocked and nursed by its mother. It was never
