Brighten up!

That's my advice to you. You've seen it in the pages of the leading magazines. Now you see it here. It means paint and varnish and every thing that makes the home bright—outside and inside. It means spring and cheerfulness and boost, and finally

Sherwin-Williams Paints and Varnishes "The Real Brighten Up Stuff"

Spring brings a desire to Brighten Up things about the house, both inside and out. This is a wearisome task unless paint and varnish be used, and an uncertain task unless you use the best. The Sherwin-Williams Co. make a finish for every surface in your house—a piano or a chair—a floor or a picture frame. A little time and money spent this Spring on "Brighten Up" stuff will greatly lessen your work and add very much to the appearance of your house.

Come in and Talk the Matter Over!

J. SUTTON CLARK, - St. George, N. B.

A Touching Incident

An incident of a peculiar touching occurred yesterday in one of the elevated railroad trains, that brought tears to the eyes of the passengers, and an old gray-haired gentleman got up and gave his seat to the two. The big brother, who was about eleven years old, tenderly lifted up the little blind boy and placed him on his knee.

First Names of Greatness

Former Senator Call of Florida, who immortalized himself by taking off a tight shoe in the Senate chamber one day and hoisting a huge foot, clad in a blue yarn sock, onto his desk, heard from other senators, early in his term, that Superintendent Smith, of the Botanic Gardens, gave palms and potted plants to statesmen he liked, says the "Saturday Evening Post."

Don't Make Your Boys Cowards

Have you ever noticed how many women are busy making their boys cowards? They are doing so unconsciously of course, but they do it all the same, these doting mothers and aunts and petted little boys.

Effect of Cigarette Smoking

"You smoke thirty cigarettes a day?" "Yes, on the average." "You don't blame them for your run-down condition?" "Not in the least. I blame my hard work."

A Corner for Interesting Information

The biggest trees in the world are the mammoth trees of California. One of a grove in Tulare County, according to measurement made by members of the State Geological Survey, was shown to be 276 feet high, 106 feet in circumference at base, and 76 feet at a point 12 feet above the ground.

CATARH OF STOMACH RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA

DR. JOSEPH BEAUDOIN. "I can say for myself, and I can say for many others, that I have been cured of catarrh of the stomach by the use of Pe-Ru-Na. It is a wonderful medicine for indigestion, and it is the only one that I have found to be effective. It is a natural product, and it is perfectly safe. It is the only one that I have found to be effective. It is a natural product, and it is perfectly safe."

Forest Protection Along Railways

Before the advent of the railway, a beautiful green forest; after the railway is built, only a blackened waste. Such has often been the case during the construction of a railway; that there is no necessity for such to happen has been proved by actual experience. The Canadian Atlantic Railway runs through what was one of the most valuable forests in Canada. Its builder, Mr. John R. Booth, was himself a lumberman of long experience, and he placed on his contractors restrictions as to burning brush and setting fires generally, such that no forest fire of importance occurred in the whole course of the building of the railway.

Good Rules for Employees

Be on time at your post of duty. Be respectful to your employers. Be neat about all matters passing through your hands. Be silent about all office business; let others do their own work.

Today Alive; Tomorrow Drowned

A death by drowning from a canoe is as dimly as the season of water accidents is here. It can be said with certainty that a dozen or more persons that are today alive and in good health will be dead from similar boating accidents before the season ends.

A Source of Revenue

British Columbia receives $345,000 as her share of the $690,000 collected on Chinese immigrants. The Provinces get half the tax, and Ontario is credited with only one Chinaman. The eastern Provinces may agitate for the charging of a rental instead of an admission fee.

Murderess Discredited

Jeanne Weber, Strangler of Children, Makes Her Testimony Ridiculous. Paris, May 23.—Expert medical testimony has been discredited in the strange case of Jeanne Weber, the strangler, just as the Dreyfus case succeeded in discrediting handwriting experts.

Social Life in Italy

No matter how poor a fashionable Italian family may be, no outward sign of their lack of means will ever be observable. They may live in the meanest of apartments, they may even go without proper food, but they will always appear in expensive clothing, the head of the house will frequent the most fashionable cafes, and when milady shows herself in the park in the afternoon it is in her own carriage with two smartly liveried servants on a box.

If a woman of position cannot afford a carriage she will remain at home. The Italian's object in owning a carriage is not so much the convenience of getting about as the necessity for showing oneself in the park at a fashionable hour.

The Italian cares little for the comfort or beauty of his home.

A large part of his life is passed out of his house, on the streets, at the cafe, the club, or the theater, and hence he has slight inclination to spend either time or money in making his home comfortable or pleasant.

Do Your Ears Ring?

This is the beginning of Chronic Catarrh. If not checked, the result is deafness. A simple remedy that many physicians advise is to slowly inhale "Catarrhozone" a few times each day. The soothing vapor of Catarrhozone cures the Catarrhal condition and hearing improves at once. Head noises, buzzing ears are cured. For Catarrhal deafness, throat, nose and lung catarrh there is probably no remedy so efficient.

An official return recently issued by the Board of Trade shows that the total number of persons killed on railways in the United Kingdom in the course of public traffic during the whole year 1907 as reported to the Board of Trade was 1,117, showing a decrease of 52 compared with the previous year, and the number injured 8,794, an increase of 1,582. The number of passengers killed was 120, a decrease of 46 compared with the preceding year, and the number of passengers injured was 3,653, an increase of 83. With regard to the servants of railway companies or contractors, the number killed was 454, an increase of 16 and the number injured 5,804, an increase of 1,439. Trespassers (including suicides) accounted for 447 deaths, compared with 455 in the previous year, and 133 cases of injury, compared with 106.

Wanted---A Boy

Wanted---a boy. A brave, courageous manly, hopeful boy; one who is not afraid of the truth; one who scorns a lie; one who hates deceit; one who loves his mother; one who does not know more than his parents; one who has the courage to say "no" and stick to it; one who is willing to begin at the bottom of the ladder and work upwards; one who thinks an education is worth striving for; one who is willing to obey his superiors; one who knows his name is better than the street; one who doesn't believe the marvelous tales told in the story papers, and will not read the vile stuff; one who won't cheat in a fair game; one who won't be a sneak, and do a mean act when unseen; one who won't spend every penny he earns or gets; one who thinks he should respect himself, and keep himself in decent appearance; one who doesn't want to attack an old man because he is feeble and defenceless; one who won't torture dumb animals; one who won't steal; one who won't swear; one who won't listen to or repeat nasty stories; one who won't revile and jeer at drunken persons on the street; one who won't do a dirty act for another boy who is too cowardly to do his own meanness; one who loves to do right because it is right. Wanted---a boy; a whole-souled, earnest, honorable, square boy. Where can he be found? Does he live in your neighborhood? Is he a member of your family? Do you know him?

An Ideal House

The ideal twentieth century home has just been completed at Carrollton, Ill., says the Cement Age. The house is constructed of concrete and there is not a sign of a chimney, although the building is supplied with an abundance of artificial light and heat. Neither is there any fire in the house, nor coal, nor ashes, nor dangerous gases. While this wonderful residence is the first of its kind in the world, it is beyond a doubt a good example of what the average American home will be in a few years from now when both wood and coal have become too expensive for common use. This model home is two stories high, with attic, and basement, and has eight rooms on the main floors.

In building this dwelling, Edison's idea of a concrete house to be poured in one big mold was not carried out, yet the foundation and walls are on concrete blocks. The concrete was mixed on the site and molded into the building blocks as required. There was no waste of building material. The floors are of wood and the interior is finished in plaster and oak. The style of architecture is of the plain, substantial mission type. The idea is carried out in the interior decorations as well. The building is fronted by a large porch, 8 by 32 feet, and cost less than $3500.

Perhaps the most novel feature about this wonderful residence is the fact that it is heated by steam from a central

It Wasn't

The customs of military service require officers to visit the kitchens during cooking hours to see that the soldiers' food is properly prepared. One old colonel, who let it be pretty generally known that his orders must be obeyed without question or explanation, once stopped two soldiers who were carrying a soap kettle out of a kitchen.

"Here, you," he growled, "give me a taste of that."

One of the soldiers ran and fetched a

The Value of Education

The president of the minor colleges was sauntering down a shady lane one day in the early summer when he met a tall handsome youth.

This youth had just been graduated. He was very poor and very intelligent. In all his courses he had taken honors, and in athletics also great honors had been his.

"Well, Allen," said the president, "through at last, eh?"

"Yes, sir," said the young man, smiling and blushing.

"And now what are you going to do?"

"I hardly know yet, sir, I have had to offers."

"Two? Wonderful!"

Yes, sir. One is from a scientific society offering me a secretaryship at $5 a week and the other is from a baseball magnate offering a five years' contract to pitch at $5,000 a season--Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Remember in Cooking

Vegetables

That most vegetables should be put on to cook in freshly boiling water.

That salt should be added when they are about two-thirds done.

That lying in very cold water for an hour or more will partially restore to wilted vegetables quality and freshness.

That every green vegetable should be cooked rapidly and uncovered, to retain its color.

That if the water is very hard, a tiny bit of soda added, no larger than a pea, will make the vegetables cooked in it tender and of better color. Ordinary water does not require such addition.

That when salt water is used the salt must be in from the first to prevent loss of flavor and substance.

That cooking a vegetable after it is done toughens, darkens and detracts from its flavor.

That the best dressing for vegetables at their perfection is butter, pepper and salt--canniflower and, perhaps, asparagus excepted.

That older or staler vegetables are improved by a cream or butter sauce--the basis for the latter being the reduced liquid left when the cooking is finished.

Station

There is no noisy, dusty furnace in the basement demanding daily attention all the long winter months. Instead the steam, which usually goes to waste, about small electric plants, is carried to the house by small underground pipes. This steam-pipe enters the house in the basement and is carried to the rooms just the same as the steam from an ordinary furnace. The rooms are heated with steam radiators. Of course some special arrangement had to be supplied to furnish hot water for the bath-room. Near the ceiling, in the bath-room, is located a water-tank which is kept constantly hot by a number of small pipes through which a continual flow of hot steam is maintained. This tank supplies hot water for the bath and to wash-bowls located in two of the upstairs bedrooms. Of course the house is also wired for electric heat in case anything should happen to the steam-heating system.

Crossing Bridges

No doubt that bridge will be safe and strong.

When you reach it, so do not fear, just keep up your smiles, and the cherry song.

It will carry you over, my dear.

For half life's trouble and grief and loss is dreading the bridges we never cross.

So keep your eyes on the shining way, beyond, it is fair and clear.

And enjoy the trees and flowers gay, that bloom on your path my dear,

For the thought will come with a thrill of pain,

That we 'may not pass this way again.'

But stop if you meet with a burdened soul

And give just a word of cheer,

While looking above to the final goal,

Help others to reach it, my dear,

And who can tell? That "bridge" may be a blessing disguised both for you and me.

THE CASH SYSTEM.

At least one of our merchants has adopted the cash system, and it is meeting with favor. Indeed wherever the system has been introduced it is growing in popularity, and in some communities it is becoming the rule, and those who have tried will not entertain the thought of going back to the credit system. When one considers the expense and labor involved in bookkeeping, in addition to the losses from bad debts and the anxiety and loss through having capital locked up, instead of being available to benefit by discounts and other opportunities to purchase to advantage, the wonder is that the change does not become universal. When this change is brought about think of the energy then let loose in other directions that is now put into collections and financing.

It means economy to both seller and buyer. Who is it that runs an account does not almost invariably find the bill larger than he expected when he comes to pay it? The cash system affords a wholesome check upon the buying of articles not actually needed, and in that way, as well as in the lower prices charged for goods, the purchaser is benefited. In fact, everybody admits the superiority of cash payments over credit, and those who are wise are adopting the good old motto, "Pay as you go."

HON. H. R. EMMERSON

Much to the consternation of his political enemies, at the Liberal Convention for Westmorland, held on June 1st, Hon. H. R. Emmerson was again unanimously nominated to be their representative. Few men have suffered at the hands of his enemies, as has he. They thought they had killed him, but men of such calibre as he, do not die by such weapons as were used.

Westmorland will continue to rally around him and when election day comes you may look for a 2000 majority over his opponent.

In his address in accepting the nomination, Mr. Emmerson in part said: "I hope the day will never come when I will be driven to accept any position under the government, honorable though it may be. I am not an applicant for such position and do not want it. I do not want the government at Ottawa to understand that because the people of Westmorland are at my back that I want a government position. I believe that I can serve the interests not only of this constituency but the whole of the Maritime Provinces, the Dominion of Canada and especially the interests of the I. C. R. by one more election. I think my greatest enemy will admit that I have the interest of the I. C. R. at heart and I think that the Liberal party is a friend of the I. C. R. and that the Conservative party is its enemy, and I feel that the day must come in the not distant future when the policy under the Liberal government of Canada will not only be the expansion of the I. C. R. through the absorption of the branch lines, but by its extension to the great lakes and the centres of our great Western country. I feel that by accepting this nomination I may expedite the adoption of that policy."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

In an address delivered at the Liberal Convention in Moncton, when Hon. H. R. Emmerson was again unanimously chosen to represent Westmorland, Mr. Legere made the following statement, which is worthy of thoughtful consideration: "Probably no party in the history of the province had passed more vicious and unfair legislation than has been done by the Hagen government in the short space of four weeks. They have taxed the people not only on both ends but on the four corners by doubling the taxes and lowering wages, increasing expenditure, which they boasted they would reduce and reducing the grant to agriculturists by five thousand dollars. If they were to appeal to the people tomorrow they would be wiped out of existence, and not one of them would save his deposit."

The ice cream social held in the Baptist church vestry on Monday evening was a decided success. The financial result was very gratifying to the promoters of the affair.

BY THE WAY

The robins and tax assessors have appeared.

Crazy patch work don't improve the streets much.

The Federal election rumor looks familiar. It will probably be substantiated later on.

Granite workers and fishermen are excluded from the Workmen's Compensation Act. Why?

Written notices are posted on telephone poles around town asking for tenders for building annex to school building. "Don't send your orders out of town."

When does the band expect to open the season? This is an institution in which our citizens always took great pride, and were always willing to help.

It is reported that the strike means an increase in the price of tombstones. Let us all get together now and try as long as possible, to get along without tombstones.

The weather of which we talk so much, and know so little, is the chief topic of discussion in all the loafing places.

Town Cynic: I don't like th' way they're doin' business over in our court house.

Friend: Why?
"Tom Simmonds, the court-crier, tells me that someone stole the court Bible more'n a month ago, an' since then he's been swearin' th' witnesses on th' town directory."—The Bohemian.

Town Council

The monthly meeting of the Council was held Monday evening. In the absence of the Mayor, Ald. Dewar presided. Several bills were presented and referred to the Finance Committee. After some discussion over one or two matters of minor importance the Council adjourned.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: Knowing that St. George folks are always interested in their home boys, and of the progress they are making in the world, I want to mention one in particular, who deserves great credit, W. S. Johnson who by his own efforts and hard earnings, has just completed a four years course at Stanford University, and is now a full fledged Electrical Engineer. Among the many friends who had the pleasure of congratulating Mr. Johnson in person, I saw Miss Lavinia of St. Stephen, who is spending the winter in California, and enjoying herself very much, Dr. Harriet Gillespie who has many friends in Charlotte Co. who will be pleased to hear that she has made quite a name for herself in her profession, Mary and Kate O'Neill, who since the earthquake have resided across the Bay. In conclusion I want to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Johnson as they have every reason to be proud of their boy. Thanking you for your courtesy I remain,

Sincerely yours,
A SUBSCRIBER.

LIBERALS CARRY QUEBEC 58 TO 16

BOURASSA ELECTED IN ST. JAMES DIVISION. — CONSERVATIVES CARRY ONTARIO ABOUT SAME MAJORITY AS BEFORE

The feature of the returns is unquestionably the notable victory of Mr. Bourassa over Premier Gouin in St. James' division of Montreal. From his temporary eclipse, after his defeat by Hon. Mr. Turgeon, the Nationalist leader emerges with renewed prestige and power. What this may mean for Dominion politics it is difficult to foresee. Mr. Bourassa has undoubtedly great ability and great influence over his compatriots, particularly the younger element, and if he keeps his head may go far. But in provincial politics his capture of the opposition leadership means complications boding danger and disaster to the Conservatives. They are for the present at least, delivered body and baggage into his hands, and though he has quarrelled personally with certain Liberal leaders, he holds himself still as a Liberal of the Liberals and is traditionally and instinctively separated from Conservatism by an impassable gulf. The situation which his triumph has created is one which the Liberals of Canada can well afford to watch with complacent interest and some amusement.

The Martin - Senour 100 per cent PURE PAINT

Investigate Before You Buy In these days of sharp competition, it is well to know that you get what you pay for. There are so many brands of house paints on the market, now-a-days, advertised as "pure" (but little better than "dope") that a man ought to investigate what he intends to buy.

We suggest to those about to paint to make a practical test and convince themselves. Buy a small can of the Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint and one of any other brand with which you may have been favorably impressed, selecting about the same colors, and paint a few feet. Carefully measure the paint, so that you use no more of one than the other. Thus with the conditions the same, you can determine for yourself which paint has the better body or covering capacity; which is the easier brushing out and has the better finish. If you do not decide in favor of the Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint, our agent will return the money you paid for the can of Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint used in the experiment, and we will credit the same to him.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

The Quebec Battlefields

An Appeal to History. Issued Under the Authority of the Quebec Battlefields Association

The Plains of Abraham stand alone among the world's immortal battlefields, as the place where an empire was lost and won in the first clash of arms, the balance of victory was redressed in the second, and the honor of each army was heightened in both. Famous as they are, however, the Plains are not the only battlefield at Quebec, nor even the only one that is a source of pride to the French and English-speaking peoples. In less than a century Americans, British, French and French-Canadians took part in four sieges and five battles. There were decisive actions; but the losing side was never disgraced, and the winning side was always composed of allied forces who shared the triumph among them. American Rangers accompanied Wolfe, and French-Canadians helped Carleton to save the future Dominion; while French and French-Canadians together won the day under Frontenac, under Montcalm at Montmorency, and under Levis at Ste. Foy.

There is no record known—nor does any legend in tradition—of so many such momentous feats of arms performed, on land and water, by fleets and armies of so many different peoples, with so much alternate victory and such honor in defeat, and all within a single scene. And so it is no exaggeration of this commemorative hour, but the lasting, well-authenticated truth to say that, take them for all in all, the fields of battle at Quebec are quite unique in universal history.

And is not today also unique as an opportunity to take occasion by the hand, to set this priceless ground apart from the catalogue of common things, and preserve it as an Anglo-French heirloom for all time to come? An appeal to history would be most appropriate to any year within the final decade of the Hundred Years' Peace between the once contending powers of France, the British Empire and the United States. But 1908 is by far the best year among the ten; for it marks the 300th birthday of the Canada which has become the senior of all the oversea self-governing dominions of the King—and under what king could we more fitly celebrate this imperishable entente cordiale d'honneur?

The secret instructions sent out from France in 1759 were the death-warrant of Montcalm: La guerre est le tombeau des Montcalm... it is indispensable to keep a foothold... The King counts upon your zeal, courage and tenacity." Montcalm replied: "I shall do everything to save this unhappy colony, or die." And he kept his word. He had a ready done splendid service in a losing cause; stemming the enemy's advance by three desperate rearguard victories in three successive years. Now he stood at bay for the last time. The country was starving. The corrupt Intendant and his minions were still preying on all that was left of its resources. The army had numbers enough, and French and Canadian gallantry to spare. But the governor added spiteful interference to the other distractions of a divided command. The mail that brought the final orders was the first for eight months; and Old France and New were completely separated by a thousand leagues of hostile sea, in whose invisible, constricting grasp Quebec had long been held.

In June Admiral Saunders led up the St. Lawrence the greatest fleet in any part of the world. Saunders was a star of the service even among the galaxy then renowned at sea. With him were the future Lord St. Vincent, the future Captain Cook, who made the first British chart of the River, and several more who rose to high distinction. His fleet comprised a quarter of the whole Royal Navy; and, with its convoy, numbered 277 sail of every kind. Splendidly navigated by twice as many seamen as Wolfe's 9,000 soldiers the fleet and convoy made the besiegers an amphibious force at Quebec, while also holding the River eastward against all comers.

Wolfe, worn out, half-despairing, twice repulsed, at last saw his chance—the only one he might have. He knew that disease was wasting him away, and that he was about to stake his whole reputation on a most daring venture. And he must have felt the full poignancy of the now famous line "The paths of glory lead but to the grave," when he repeated Gray's Elegy to the officers in his reconnoitring boat off Sillery Point the day before the battle. But he was a profoundly apt master of the art of war; and his undaunted spirit soared with the hope of death in victory. Planning and acting entirely on his own initiative, he crowned three nights and days of finely combined manoeuvres, on land and water, over a front of thirty miles, by the consummate stratagem which placed the first of all two-deep thin red lines across the Plains of Abraham exactly at the favorable moment. And who that knows battle and battlefield knows of another scene and setting like this one on that 13th morning of September?

"All Nature contains no scene more fit for mighty deeds than the stupendous amphitheatre in the midst of which Wolfe was waiting to play the hero's part. For the top of the promontory made a giant stage, where his army now stood between the stronghold of New France and the whole dominion of the West. Immediately before him lay his chosen battlefield; beyond that, Quebec. To his left lay the northern theatre, gradually rising and widening, through out all its magnificent expanse, until the far-ranging Laurentians closed in the view with their rampart-like blue semi-circle of eighty miles. To his right, the southern theatre, where league upon league of undulating upland rolled outward to a still farther-off horizon, whose wider semi-circle, curving in to overlap its northern counterpart, made the vast mountain-range complete. While, east and west, across the arena where he was about to contend for the prize of half a continent, the majestic River, full-charged with the right-hand force of Britain, ebbed and flowed, through gates of empire, on its uniting course between Earth's greatest Lakes and greatest Ocean. And here, too, at these Narrows of Quebec, lay the fit meeting place of the Old World with the New. For the westward river gate led on to the labyrinthine waterways of all America, while the eastward stood more open still—flung wide to all the Seven Seas."

Meanwhile, Montcalm had done all he could against false friends and open enemies. He had repulsed Wolfe's assault at Montmorency and checked every move he could devise through the nearly impenetrable screen of the British fleet. A week before the battle he had sent a regiment to guard the Heights of Abraham; and, on the very eve of it, had ordered back the same regiment to watch the path up which Wolfe came next morning. But the Governor again counter-ordered. There they are where they have no right to be!—and Montcalm spurred on to reconnoitre the red wall that had so suddenly sprung up across the Plains. He had no choice but instant action, "... he rode down the front of his line of battle, stopping to say a few stirring words to each regiment as he passed. Whenever he asked the men if they were tired, they said they were never tired before a battle; and all ranks showed as much eagerness to come to close quarters as the British did themselves. Montcalm towered aloft and alone—the last great Frenchman of the Western World... he never stood higher in all manly minds than on that fatal day. And, as he rode before his men there, his presence seemed to call them on like a drapeau vivant of France herself." He fought like a general and died like a hero.

Never was stouter champions than those two leaders and their six brigadiers. "Let us remember how, on the victorious side, the young commander was killed in the forefront of the fight; how his successor was wounded at the head of his brigade; and how the command-in-chief passed from hand to hand, with bewildering rapidity, till each of the four British Generals had held it in turn during the space of one short half hour; then how the devotion of the four Generals on the other side was even more conspicuous, since every single one of these brave men laid down his life to save the day for France; and, above all, let us remember how lasting the twin renown of Wolfe and Montcalm themselves should be, when the one was so consummate in his victory, and the other so truly glorious in defeat."

The next year saw the second battle of the Plains, when Levis marched down from Montreal, over the almost impassible spring roads, and beat back Murray within the walls, after a most desperate and bloody fight. At the propitious moment Levis rode along his line, with his hat on the point of his sword as the signal for a general charge, in which the French-Canadians greatly distinguished themselves. He quickly invested the town and drove the siege home to the utmost. "At nine o'clock on the night of the 15th of May three men-of-war came in together. The officer commanding at Beauport immediately sent Levis a dispatch to say the French ships had just arrived. But the messenger was stopped by Murray's outposts. Levis himself was meanwhile preparing to advance on Quebec in force; when a prisoner, who had just been taken, told him these vessels were the vanguard of the British fleet! Of course, he raised the siege at once. But he retired unquarrelled; and Vanquelin covered his line of retreat by water as gallantly as he had made his own advance by land. Thus France left Quebec with all the honors of war.

There's the call of the blood—of the best of our living, pulsing, quickening blood today—a call to every French and English ear—from this one ground alone—and therefore an irresistible appeal from all the Battlefields together. The causes of strife are long since outworn and cast aside; only its chivalry remains. The meager passions, jealousies, and schemes, arose and flourished most in courts, and parliaments, and mobs, of different countries, far asunder. But the finer essence of the fatherlands was in the men who actually met in arms. And here, now and forever, are the field, the memory and the inspiration of all that is most heroic in the contending races.

From Champlain to Carleton, in many troublous times during 167 years, Quebec was the scene of fatal action for Iroquois and Huron; for French of every quarter, from Normandy and Brittany to Languedoc and Roussillon; for the French-Canadians of the whole long waterway to the St. Lawrence and Atlantic; for Americans from their thirteen colonies for all the kindred of the British Isles—English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh, Channel Islanders and Orcadians, and the forerunners of the United Empire Loyalists.

Champlain, in 1608, first built his Abitacion against the menace of the wilderness. In 1629 the Kirkes sailed up and took his fort St. Louis in the name of Charles I, who granted the unconquered trifle of "The Lordship and County of Canada" to his good friend, Sir William Alexander. But in 1650 the summons of Sir William Phips was victoriously answered by Frontenac—from the mouth of my cannon. In 1759, Montcalm won his fourth victory by repulsing Wolfe at Montmorency; then both died on the plains, where Levis and Murphy fought again next year. Finally, on the last day of 1775, French and English first stood together as the British defence of Canada, under Carleton, against Montgomery and Arnold. This is our true wonder-tale of war; and we have nothing to fear for the truth.

It is to be thought of that we should fail to dedicate what our forefathers have so consecrated as the one field of glory common to us all! There is no question of barring modern progress—the energy for which we inherit from these very ancestors; and no town should ever be made a mere "show place," devoted to the pettier kinds of tourist and dilettante antiquarian delights. But Quebec has room to set aside the most typical spots for commemoration, and this on the sound business principle of putting every sight to its most efficient use. So there remains nothing beyond the time and trouble and expense of making what will become The Quebec Battlefields Park. This will include the best of every other centre of action that can be preserved in whole, or only in souvenir by means of a tablet. Appropriate places within these limits could be chosen to commemorate the means of eleven historic characters: Champlain, who founded Canada; Montcalm, Wolfe, Levis, Murray, Saunders and Vanquelin, who fought for her; Cook and Bougainville, the circumnavigators, who did her yeoman service; and Frontenac and Carleton, who saved her in different ways, to the same end.

But no historic sites will be obscured, much less obliterated—and no incongruous features of a park will mar the appeal which the battlefields make to the historic imagination. One distinctive name is required to include the Plains and every other great warland-mark round Quebec. Wolfe's quarters were seven miles below the Plains, the point where Vanquelin made his last stand is twenty miles above. What other single name could cover all three, The Quebec Battlefields, which is both self-explaining and unique? The word Park is a mere official designation of an administrative entity; it will never live in history or literature or everyday talk. And The Plains of Abraham will no more lose their name and identity in a Battlefields Park than Quebec has lost either name or identity in the Dominion of Canada. Instead, their identity will last its full extent, which will be an open book for all who come to read the story of their two hero-making fights. And, as for their own familiar name—this being immortal, can never suffer change.

High above all, on a calm central summit of that field of double victory and fourfold glory, the Angel of Peace will stand in benediction of the scene. In her best presence the heirs of a fame told round the world in French and English speech can dwell upon a bounteous view that has long forgotten the strange, grim face of war. But remember—the statue rests on a field of battle, and their own peace rests on ancestral prowess. The very ground reminds them of supreme ordeals. And though, in mere size, it is no more, to the whole vast bulk of Canada, than the flag is to a man-of-war, yet, like the flag it is the sign and symbol of a people's soul.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring of early summer, they call it Spring Fever. But there is no fever—usually, it is the after effect of your winter habits. The nerves are moody at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot." Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by All Dealers.

Canada's Great Herd of Buffalo

The buffalo head which is corralled near Lamont, Alberta, has wintered well, and since the round-up commenced in Montana last year, less than one and a half per cent have been lost.

Arrangements are being made to bring up another 300 head. Michael Pablo is getting them together on his ranch in Montana. Pablo has built a fence twenty-three miles long from the mountains to his home, and the buffalo are driven along the fence into the corral. Last year he had 185 horses and 63 men on the range for three weeks, but he found this too expensive and has adopted the new plan for getting the remainder of the herd. The 400 head brought to Canada last year were shipped by freight trains, but several were killed in loading and unloading, and the feeding and watering were accomplished under difficulties. This year an attempt will be made to drive the herd up from Montana to this place a distance of more than 80 miles. Imagine an eighty-mile drive of 300 wild buffaloes across land. It will be one of the greatest undertakings in the history of cowpunching.

These buffalo have been fed on hay all winter, about seven tons being used daily, but the mild winter made it possible for them to forage for themselves. Those in the preserves here are in the best of condition and at least a hundred calves are expected during the next few weeks. The government is now calling for tenders for a wire fence around the preserve, which will be more than seventy miles long and will cost approximately $80,000.

The preserve is so arranged that for eight miles the railroad runs along one side of the park, giving passengers a chance to see the herd, thus adding another attraction to Western Canada. This is now said to be the largest herd of buffalo in the world; with the arrival of the other herd it will be doubled; and before the end of the year the herd will number close to a thousand, with a profitable net increase of full twenty-five per cent. annually.

There is an eclipse of the sun on June 28, visible throughout the United States and Canada as a partial eclipse. In the line of central eclipse, where the moon appears exactly in front of the sun, the annular phase may be seen. At this time the sun, whose apparent diameter is greater than the moon's, sticks out at a narrow ring all around the latter. This phase is visible from the city of Mexico, Tampa, Fla and Bermuda.

In the northern United States a large partial eclipse will be observed, the fraction of the sun's diameter covered by the moon ranging from about one-third for observers in Washington and Oregon to almost the whole in the Gulf States. At Washington, D. C., the eclipse begins at 9:27 A. M. and ends at 12:41, and about three-fourths of the sun's disk is hidden, at the maximum phase. This eclipse, while of little importance to the professional astronomer, since the sun will not be completely hidden and the corona cannot be seen, will be of much interest to the amateur observer. A piece of smoked glass is all that is required to observe it. Princeton University Observatory.

Thoughts of a Great Man

These few thoughts give a vivid idea of what kind of a man Abraham Lincoln was:

"Let none falter who thinks he is right."

"It is no pleasure for me to triumph over anyone."

"Come what will, I will keep my faith with friend or foe."

"All that I am, all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother."

"Suspicion and jealousy never helped any man in any situation."

"Gold is good in its place, but living brave and patriotic men are better than gold."

"The reasonable man has long since agreed that intemperance is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of all evils among mankind."

Impure Blood

Clogs the Kidneys
Slows the Heart
Fogs the Brain

Weakens Every Part of the Body. Causes Organic Diseases

Just as strength is the natural outcome of pure blood, so is debility and sickness the result of impure blood. To know how quickly how surely Ferruzone cures, to see how it rebuilds and restores, you have only to read the following letters—read them carefully—see if the symptoms resemble yours.

Miss Evelyn M. Gaetz of Kingston, writes: "I have had an attack of blood impurities, they were ugly and disgusting blotches that ruined the appearance of my face. I tried all sorts of medicine, but the pimples didn't leave. I was recommended Ferruzone and gave it a trial. I noticed an improvement after the second box, and kept up the treatment which finally cleared my skin. As the result of Ferruzone I have a clear healthy complexion and can recommend it to all other young women similarly affected."

Another young lady well known in society circles of Springfield, who derived exceptional benefit from Ferruzone, says: "I felt it my duty to make known the value of Ferruzone. My trouble was poor weak blood, and as a consequence my lips were pallid, and my cheeks had no color. I wasn't at all strong, and required a bracing tonic. Ferruzone soon brought color to my cheeks, improved my appetite and made me stronger than I had been in years. I favor Ferruzone because it is so simple to take and works so quickly."

No blood remedy exists that has the power to cure, to heal, to restore like Ferruzone; try it, 50c per box at any drugstore.

Advertising Makes the Town Grow

A writer in Printer's Ink makes an interesting diagnosis of the reason why some towns are 'slow.' He says: Anybody who has had experience travelling among the small cities and towns of the country knows that wide differences are seen between places of the same population, and in much the same locality, and enjoying what would seem to be equal opportunities for trade. One place of 10,000 people, for instance, will be thoroughly alive, its shops bright, its people brisk, and prosperity apparently on every hand. Another, perhaps but 25 miles away, will be thoroughly dead, its stores deserted, dull, dusty, its people given to the habit of cracker-box conversation. In one town it is a pleasure to step off a train and look for business, while in the second an experienced travelling man has no sooner alighted than he wants to know the time of the next train out.

The diagnosis is ridiculously simple. In one, the newspapers encourage like advertising by charging a rate which includes setting up new ads, as often as the merchant cares to change. In the other an antiquated rate system is in vogue, making a low charge for space and an extra charge for every change of advertisement.

It's just worth while considering what good, live advertising by the merchant does for a town and its trade. From the Canadian Grocer, August 23, 1907.

Apply This to Your own Town

Rev. Mr. Philip, pastor of the Arnprior Methodist Church, in a sermon recently delivered from his pulpit on the question of shopping out of your own town, is reported in the Carleton Place Central Canadian as saying: "The question has often come to us, 'Is a man an honest man who lives in one place and deals almost exclusively in another?' It may be at times that a man cannot obtain what he really needs without going outside. We deal with principles and lay down no rules to which there may not be some exception, but it occurs to us that there is something too selfish to be honest in the man say who lives in Arnprior, breathes its salubrious air, walks its granoliths, mingles in its genial society, earns his living here and yet deals in Ottawa or Toronto. He not only lacks in public spirit, in love for his neighbors except he be far away, but owes to the town a debt he is unwilling to pay. A man in honor is just as much bound to deal where he lives as he is to pay his taxes if he could help it. When it comes to a man boasting of how he lives in Arnprior and then goes and sends elsewhere for what he buys he has lost his sense of shame and his emigration from the place would be in the public interest."

How to Take Exercise

A little exercise regularly is good; a great deal of violent exertion all at once, and almost none of the rest of the time, is positively harmful. Where excessive exercise is indulged in, the first organ to suffer is the heart, and if the mistake is persisted in fainting fits or heart failure may occur. The lungs also become congested, and rupture of a blood vessel or hemorrhage are to be feared. It writes gives the following rules for healthy physique:
 (1) All exercise should be done gradually, and sudden exertion must be avoided.
 (2) No competitive or severe exercise should be undertaken without previous training.
 (3) No training should be commenced without a previous medical examination. Compliance with this rule will not only prevent disappointment, but avoid the risk of contracting a new disease or of aggravating an existing one.
 (4) Exercise should never be taken soon after meals, and care must be taken that the clothes are loose and do not interfere with the movements of the chest and limbs.
 (5) After exercise avoid the sudden

The Young Man in Public Life

It was recently pointed out by the London correspondent of a New York newspaper a remarkable feature of the Asquith Ministry is the comparative youthfulness of many of its members. Thus, Lord Lucas is 32, Winston Churchill, 33, Mr. Adair 34, Mr. Masterman 35, Mr. Runciman, 38, and Col. Seely 40. Mr. Kinnon Wood, the most venerable of the Ministers, is 53 years old, while Sir Edward Grey and Mr. Lloyd-George are, respectively, 46 and 45. Now, to the English public, this is no great novelty. There has been a tradition of youth in the House of Commons for two centuries and Englishmen are always ready to see a young man forge ahead on his merits. Moreover, the English Parliamentary system affords opportunity to ambitious youth desiring to rise rapidly to high office.

The classic example is, of course, William Pitt, whose acceptance of the premiership was received in the House of Commons with "derivative laughter," he being then but 24. His father had not entered the Cabinet until he was 48, and did not become Prime Minister until ten years later. Charles James Fox first took his seat in the Cabinet at Winston Churchill's age, and Gladstone was a year older, or 34, as was Robert Peel when he first received a portfolio. Palmerston probably attained this honor younger and became Secretary for War at 25. Lord John Russell became Home Secretary at 43, while Lords Salisbury and Rosebery entered the Cabinet at 36 and 39 years, respectively. Undoubtedly many of these who have become distinguished in early years owed it in part, as did Pitt, to family prestige, they fairly earned their honors. High office cannot be retained in England unless its occupant has ability and brains; with these essentials the path to distinction lies open to men of high and low estate.

This is well illustrated in the Asquith Ministry. Besides John Burns, the workingman, Mr. Lloyd-George and Dr. Macnamara are both men of humble ancestry. The latter was born at the barracks at Montreal, where his father was a regimental sergeant. Their ages, too, prove that the man from the ranks is not kept too long in tutelage. Mr. Runciman whose family have long been wealthy shipowners in Liverpool, stands in a marked degree for the commercial life of the country. The universities are represented among the new men by Lord Lucas and Mr. Masterman. Indeed, one cannot run over the list without feeling that the British Cabinet is more representative than is our own in the Dominion of Canada.

Mrs. Bob Stuart of Houlton Me. is the guest of Sheriff and Mrs. R. A. Stuart.

Mrs. Chas. Mowatt and her daughter will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney MacMaster, for the summer months.

Messrs. Charles Epps and Henry Meeting of St. George, were in St. Andrews on Wednesday last.

Rev. Mr. Mahon has been critically ill, but is slowly improving, and every one is very glad to know it.

Miss Gwen Jack entertained a few friends on Tuesday evening, music was the principal feature of the evening's enjoyment.

Eddie Mallory is home from South Africa, bringing with him his wife and two children. St. Andrews was gaily decorated with bunting. The station platform was crowded with welcoming friends, and the children of the town schools sang "Soldiers of the King."

Rarely has a civilian met with such an enthusiastic reception.

The young ladies of the High School held a very successful sale of home made candies on Saturday last.

It would be interesting to know from how many little wilderness stations in the North there goes each spring, to eager business and professional men in the large cities, the message that the ice is out. If one could measure and sum up all the pleasure of those who take the message for their marching-orders, and all the increment of health and strength that comes to them by virtue of their annual fishing trips, it would make the world seem a very cheerful place.

The charm of fishing, for the normal man, is so deeply rooted that it can be accounted for only by regarding it as a reawakening of primal instinct. When a fly bobs across the rapids or a worm drops into the hole below the big boulder, a racial memory older than history comes to light, and the cashier of the First National becomes blood-brother to the skin clad savage who made the first hook from a bone or piece of shell.

To the savage, fishing was earning a livelihood, getting a dinner. The fish he caught was the wages he received for working at his job. To his dependant of today, "fishing" is far more. It is a return, for a time, to natural conditions, where the sun touches the skin and the water wets the feet, and clothes are friends which serve, not masters to be considered. The fish himself is not the most important thing in the world; it is a return, for a time, to natural conditions, where the sun touches the skin and the water wets the feet, and clothes are friends which serve, not masters to be considered.

A Hair Dressing

If you wish a high-class hair dressing, we are sure Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, will greatly please you. It keeps the hair soft and smooth, makes it look rich and luxuriant, prevents splitting at the ends. And it keeps the scalp free from dandruff.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Permit me with each bottle show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Ayer's

At the same time the new Ayer's Hair Vigor is a strong hair tonic, promoting the growth of the hair, keeping all the tissues of the hair and scalp in a healthy condition. The hair stops falling, dandruff disappears. A splendid dressing.

The wholesome sentiment which would protect all animal life from cruelty has lately been showing a tendency to lapse into unwholesome sentimentality.

There are those who regard all fishermen as monsters, and look upon a school of mackerel as an educational institution. Alas for the boys of to-morrow if this creed spreads!
