

TRUE BILL AGAINST THOS. NOAH INDIAN CHARGED WITH MURDER

Case of McCabe Vs. C. P. R. Occupied Attention of Assizes This Morning and Afternoon—
Many Witnesses Testify.

The fall assizes, which opened here yesterday before Mr. Justice Teetzel, were entirely given over to the hearing of the McCabe vs. C. P. R. case this morning. Alexander McCabe is suing the railroad to recover $5,000 for injuries received last November at Tillsonburg.

According to the plaintiff's own testimony, he was employed as a brakeman for the defendant company, and was accustomed to running into Tillsonburg. On the day of the accident his train had pulled into the siding at that place, and he, in accordance with instructions from the conductor, had gone beneath the train to uncouple the air hose, when the train started, causing him to be dragged some distance, and inflicting serious injuries.

Conductor Grant, who had charge of the train testified that he had not given McCabe orders to go beneath the train. "At all events," said he, "if I did I have forgotten about it."

Engineer's Evidence.
Charles Hutton, the engineer of the train, testified that in his opinion the action of McCabe in going under the train was uncalled for, and that a man was taking his life in his hands when he did so, inasmuch as the train was then about to start or was already in motion. He had received a signal from the conductor on the caboose, and at the time had seen McCabe standing on the steps of one of the cars. He had not known that the man intended going under the cars.

Must Obey Orders.
Several other witnesses testified that in their opinions it was unnecessary to uncouple the air hose at the time McCabe attempted to do so. They admitted, however, that if a man was ordered by the conductor to go under the train while it was standing that it was his duty to obey orders. Even the evidence adduced it was learned that McCabe had been dragged perhaps two car lengths before the train was stopped in response to an emergency signal from the head brakeman, who had gone ahead to open the switch onto the main line.

A True Bill.
The grand jury this morning brought in a true bill against Thomas Noah who is charged with the murder of another Indian named Fox. Counsel for Noah is asking for a postponement of the trial. The jury was still considering the Burton case this afternoon.

Afternoon Session.
Yesterday afternoon's session of the assizes were chiefly given over to the hearing of arguments for postponement of actions, and the argument of counsel in the insurance case of Cole vs. Monahan.

The following cases were held over or settled out of court:
Settled:—
Palmer vs. McCormick—Purdum & Gibbons.
Gibbons vs. G. T. R.—W. C. Fitzgerald and W. H. Biggar.
Weaver vs. C. P. R.—J. C. Elliott and McMurchy.
Acme Can Works vs. London Canning Co.—Gibbons and W. H. Biggar.
Alister vs. G. T. R.—J. F. Pauls and W. H. Biggar.
Brooks vs. Geo. White & Sons—J. F. Pauls and W. G. Meredith.
Postponed:—
Renton vs. G. T. R.—Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons and W. H. Biggar.
Welch vs. Esperanza—T. H. Luscombe and Sutherland, Kennung & Co.

Komoka Bylaw Will Be Prepared The Vote Was a Tie in the Council

Mayor Voted For—Council Will Consider the Matter in Two Weeks.

A long and interesting discussion took place at last night's council meeting regarding the recommendation of the water commissioners that the council take action at once regarding the Komoka bylaw, so that the expected water shortage next summer may, if possible, be avoided.

Chairman Darch, who was present with Commissioner Saunders and Superintendent Moore, read the request, and stated that the commissioners had nothing further to offer the people. The report of Mr. Bell, of St. Thomas, practically agreed with that of Engineer Moore as to the available supply. Mr. Moore was satisfied the water was at Komoka. This, together with what could be obtained at Kilworth, would make at least 4,000,000 gallons available.

Ald. Stevely—What is the present daily supply estimated at?
Mr. Moore—Three million, five hundred thousand gallons.

Says It's a Fake.
Ald. Garratt—Where does the jump from 2,300,000 gallons up to 4,000,000 gallons come in? It seems to me it is all a fake to get the Komoka scheme through at any price.

Commissioner Saunders—There are a number of new springs, which, if collected will make that amount. There is no shortage this year is providential and inexplicable, and the supply is abundant.

Lightning Strikes Cynthia St. House Telephone Girl Faints During Storm

Lady Was Uninjured But Badly Frightened—House Damaged.

An electrical storm of uncommon severity passed over the city late yesterday afternoon, and did considerable damage. The storm seemed to be centered about the city, and for nearly an hour there was a heavy and almost continuous display of lightning, which at times was so close as to cause considerable alarm.

While the storm was at its height the house of Mrs. Jane Shannon, 7 Cynthia street, was struck, and a large hole was torn in the roof.

Fortunately Mrs. Shannon and her family were away and suffered no injury, but the furniture in the house was scattered about.

Only a Rumor.
There was a rumor that a child had been struck near Talbot street school, although both teachers and pupils were very much frightened when a tremendous crash, close at hand, made them think the school had been struck.

The high wind which accompanied the storm stripped the trees and in the park and along many of the city streets large quantities of leaves and branches are to be seen.

Operator Fainted.
About 40 telephone services were put out of business, and during the progress of the storm one of the Bell telephone operators, Miss Anderson, fainted.

It was feared that she had been struck by lightning, but in a few minutes she was revived and found to be uninjured.

No reports of serious damage in the surrounding country have been heard as yet.

"WILD" BILL AND OVERALL CLASH

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8.—The Detroit of the American League and Chicago of the National League clash today in the initial game of the series, which promises to be one of the greatest baseball combats ever fought for the world's championship. Both are wonderful teams, and every player is determined to fight to the last.

This afternoon's game will start at 2:30 o'clock, and a tremendous crowd of baseball lovers probably will be on hand. The weather is cool and clear, just about the proper condition to make both teams play the snappiest sort of game. Manager Hughie Jennings, of Detroit, and Manager Frank Chance, of Chicago, are both determined to win the opening game.

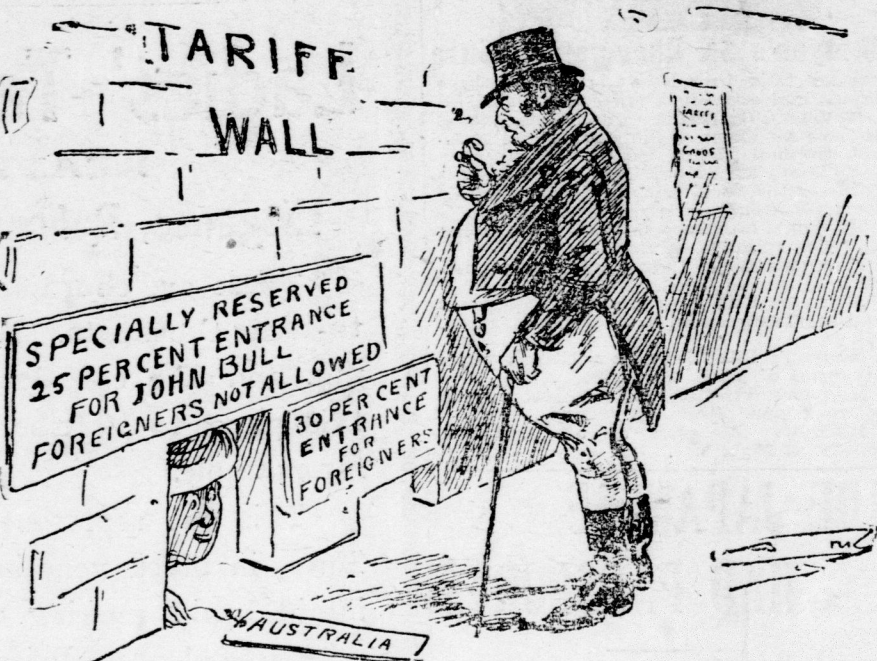

The effect of winning the first of a short series cannot be overestimated. Orval Overall and "Wild" Bill Donovan are the twisters announced for today. "Wild" Bill is the bright shipping star of the Detroit pitching staff. Donovan has shown wonderful control this season, and since joining Detroit in July he has been a steady and consistent winner.

Overall the giant Californian, who has been a consistent winner all year, will be the choice of Manager Chance, who has already dubbed Overall the "Christy Mathewson of the World's Series of 1907."

The leaders of both teams before play began expressed themselves as confident. The line up:
Chicago—Stagle, c.f.; Sheppard, l.f.; Chance, 1b.; Steinfeldt, 2b.; Kline, 3b.; Evers, 2b.; Schulte, r.f.; Tinker, s.s.; Overall, p.

Detroit—Jones, l.f.; Schaeffer, 2b.; Crawford, c.f.; Cobb, r.f.; Rossman, 1b.; Coughlin, 3b.; Schmidt, c.; O'Leary, s.s.; Donovan, p.
Umpires—Sheridan and O'Day.

YOUNG AUSTRALIA—VERY GLAD TO SEE YOU, FATHER! COME IN.
The Australians have followed up Mr. Deakin's "hands across the sea" histrionics by a tariff which is likely to kill the trade of Birmingham and Coventry with Australia. English-made machinery and machine tools, which were formerly admitted into Australia free of duty, have now been subjected to a tariff of 25 per cent by the Australians. What they call a "preference" is provided by putting 5 per cent more on foreign goods.—London, (Eng.) Leader.

MACDONALD IS A VERY LAZY MAN

But Says He Is Now Looking for a Job—Was Given a Chance.

Things were quiet at the police court this morning, and the bunch of prisoners in the cage were disposed of in about five minutes.

John MacDonald, who Governor Carter says is the laziest man whom he ever entertained, said he was looking for work, and had been promised a job this afternoon in the country. It is said that when in the county jail, where MacDonald usually spends his winter vacation, he will not do a thing but lie in bed. MacDonald promised to go to work if let go, and he was given a chance to make good.

Sidney Sare was up again for being drunk. After fining him $5, or 20 days, his worship decided to give Sare a chance, and let him go on a promise that he would pay the $5 within five days.

A Hebrew gentleman, with a name which neither he nor his brethren who accompanied him as interpreters could spell, was charged with engaging in the junk business without wearing a badge to show that he paid the license.

The interpreters explained that the man had the badge, but thought it was all right to keep it in his pocket. The badge was produced, and, after promising that in future he would wear the badge in his hat all the time so that everyone could see it he was let go.

George Hopper was charged with keeping a vicious dog, but as the animal has been destroyed the case was withdrawn.

LONDON DATES IN JUNIOR O.R.F.A.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Oct. 8.—The intermediate and junior O. R. F. U. schedules were issued this morning. The dates for No. 5 group are:

Oct. 12—Petrolia at London.
Oct. 19—London at Parkhill.
Oct. 26—Parkhill at London.
Oct. 31—London at Petrolia.
Nov. 3—Petrolia at Parkhill.
Nov. 16—Parkhill at Petrolia.

A SAILING MACHINE.
London, Oct. 8.—John Carrison, a prominent member of the Swedish Yacht Club, declared according to the Daily Mail that if the rules of the New York Yacht Club cannot be altered to permit a yacht of the cruiser type to contest for the America's cup, then a "sailing machine" will be built at Neglinge wharf, outside of Stockholm, as a challenger.

CONSERVATIVES GAIN BROCKVILLE

A. E. Donovan Elected to Fill
Vacancy in the Local Legislature.

Brockville, Oct. 7.—The battle of the ballots is over, and Mr. A. E. Donovan has been elected for the vacant seat of Brockville in the Legislature. Tonight an accurate majority could not be obtained, but it is expected that Mr. Donovan will have about two hundred when he takes his seat. In the town, where the Liberals have heretofore had a majority, Mr. Donovan had 105, and this will be increased when the full returns from Elizabethtown are known. In the village of Athens, Mr. Donovan's home, Mr. Lewis had a majority of one, but this is a decrease. Every ward in Brockville, with the exception of the south, gave Mr. Donovan a majority.

The new ballot, which the Government boasted as being so secret, is far from what it is claimed, and came in for a lot of censure from followers of both sides. The paper is so thin that Continued on page nine.

STILL IN HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Peters Injured in Reid Wreck Has Suffered Very Greatly.

Mrs. Peters, one of the victims of the Reid Crystal Hall disaster, is still in the hospital in a rather serious condition.

One of her legs was broken, and it has caused the physicians a great deal of trouble. It has been set and rest no less than five times.

This morning Dr. John D. Wilson had to remove a piece of the bone and wire the ends together in order to hasten the healing process. It is now hoped that the limb will get better. Mr. Peters is doing well, and is able to be up and around. It is thought that he will be able to leave the hospital shortly.

ROWDIES AT CAPITAL INSULT CHIEF JUSTICE

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Oct. 8.—While on his way to the Supreme Court, along the Lover's Walk, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada, was insulted by some parties who were acting in a disorderly manner. He at once complained to Dominion Constable Charron. This morning he appeared in the police court. James Tucker, Frank Wiggins, and two girls, Nagle and Roy, Constable Charron said that Miss Nagle lifted a rock, and threatened to strike him when he went to arrest them. She was fined $2 and costs, or a week in jail, and the others were allowed to go. Sir Charles is Deputy Governor-General.

ANGRY CROWD BEATS NITRIC ACID THROWER

New York, Oct. 8.—The American says: Benjamin Greenberg, a wealthy Brooklyn jeweler, is alleged by the police there, threw a half-pint of nitric acid down the back of his wife in Brooklyn, and then suffered a beating at the hands of an indignant crowd of 100 persons. Greenberg has been separated from his wife, Etta, for three years. Last evening she was passing her husband's place, and her husband dashed from his shop with a bottle of acid and flung it down her back. Mrs. Greenberg screamed with pain and fell to the street. Greenberg picked up the phial, the police say, and cast the rest of the liquid into the face of the writhing woman. The angry crowd beat Greenberg until the police came and placed him under arrest.

AGED MAN HURT

Fell at Dorchester and Broke His Arm.

An old man named Angus Cameron, whose home is supposed to be in Dorchester, fell yesterday afternoon in Dorchester, and broke his arm. Dr. Banghart attended him, and he was sent to Victoria Hospital.

Cameron is quite an old man, and is supposed to be a wanderer. No one knew him in Dorchester, and he is minus his right leg.

HAVE YOU SEEN THEM?

The Children's Aid Society Reports Two Runaways.

Two young lads, wards of the London Children's Aid Society, recently left their foster homes in Carleton Place. The eldest is 13 years of age, of slight build, and has brown hair, blue eyes, pale complexion and a very gentlemanly manner. The other is a couple of years younger, a broad, stout, little fellow, with brown hair, blue eyes and a round, full face. Mr. Sanders, the inspector of the society, will be glad to receive any information regarding these young runaways. He also wishes it to be understood that any person harboring these boys will be prosecuted according to law.

LAUGHED TOO HEARTILY

Kingston Man's Guffaws Resulted in Fractured Rib.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 7.—George G. Morton, a machinist residing on Russell street, has very sore ribs, and all because he laughed too heartily. He was thoroughly enjoying a joke played on a comrade with garden hose, and as he watched the sport from a window he laughed with great gusto, so much so that he was seized with pain and had to be helped to a seat. A medical man was called, and found that he had fractured a rib, and had torn away part of the lining about another rib.

Dastardly Assault Upon a Lady At the London Asylum for Insane

Girl Fought Bravely and Foiled Scoundrel Who Was Arrested.

One of the most dastardly attempts upon the honor of a young woman that has taken place in or about this city for a long time, occurred last night when William Tracy, an attendant at the London Asylum for the Insane, climbed over the transom leading into the room of a young lady, of this city, who was recently appointed a stenographer at the asylum, and attempted to assault her.

Petitions for Sunday Cars Presented About 6,000 Names on the Roll Request Goes to No. 1 Committee to Allow Counter-Petition to Come In.

A large number of citizens were present at the City Hall last night to take part in the movement for Sunday street cars.

A letter from J. J. Turner and others was read, submitting a petition signed by nearly six thousand people asking that the Sunday street car service be inaugurated as soon as possible.

No Soft Coal Vouchers Produced; Mr. Strong Reiterates Statements

Monday Night's Investigation Exposed Slip-Shod Methods Re School Coal.

The first round of the coal trouble is over, with the net result that the committee has declared that there was no wrong-doing on the part of the contractor, Mr. Buchanan.

There is still the question to be settled regarding the vouchers for more than one-half the coal delivered to the city schools this summer.

Last night vouchers were produced for all the hard coal with the exception of two car lots, containing perhaps seventy or seventy-five tons. As far as can be learned the total amount of hard coal to be delivered to the school was 500 tons. These two car lots total up approximately 15 per cent, quite a considerable amount, to say the least. For this

Death of Miss Geeson in England; A Well-Known Artist of London

Had Been Writing Articles for British Periodicals of Late—A Brilliant Career.

Miss Annie Geeson, of 222 King street, has received word that her sister, a well-known literary lady and art teacher, died on Friday morning at Leek Hospital in Staffordshire, England.

Miss Geeson lived in this city for nearly twenty years, leaving here to attend Alma College in St. Thomas, from which she graduated.

In 1903 she was appointed art teacher in the college and filled the position most capably until a short time ago, when her health gave way and she had to take a rest.

Recovering somewhat, she went to Toronto, where she did considerable art work. Mrs. John Turnbull of Komoka shown at exhibitions and winning prizes. She also became well known as a teacher of art.

Went to England.
In March last she was appointed by the Ontario Government to visit England and write for the British press accounts of Canada and the prospects for settlers coming here.

Miss Geeson's articles proved so acceptable that four of the largest Canadian newspapers engaged her to write special articles for them.

In June she went to Rome with the church delegates, and a most interesting account of her visit to Rome, illustrated by several photographs, in one of which she is taken with the delegates, appeared in the Saturday supplement of the Toronto Globe of June 28.

Undervalued Operation.
About two weeks ago her sister, Miss Annie Geeson, received a letter from her in England stating that she found it necessary to undergo an operation. Miss Geeson heard no more until she received the news of her sister's death this morning.

The late Miss Geeson was 39 years old and was born in London, England. Her father, the late William Geeson, came to this city with his wife and family about thirty years ago, when Miss Geeson was nine years old.

She grew up here and was well known to a number of the older residents of the city. Besides her sister in this city, she is survived by two sisters and one brother, Mrs. John Turnbull of Komoka, Mrs. William Preston, of New York, and Alfred who lives near White, Michigan.

The funeral will be held in Stafford, England.

Local Dealers and Sunday Papers

Reports have reached the Lord's Day Alliance that numbers of Sunday papers have been sold for some time on Sunday morning by certain local dealers.

It is stated that last Sunday one dealer alone disposed of over 150 copies of a Toronto Sunday paper before 12 o'clock noon.

Another dealer is said to have disposed of a large number.

The trade it is stated is a most profitable one, as the papers are sold for double the amount usually charged.

There is said to be such a demand for papers of this sort that it is no uncommon thing for passengers on the through trains to be accosted by young fellows who try to beg their papers from them.

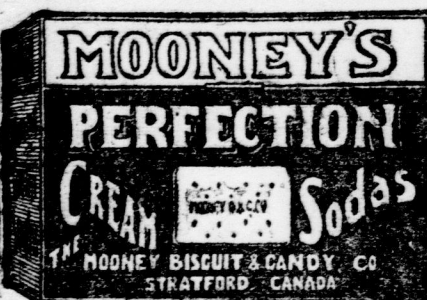

If this plan fails, they offer to buy

Food Value

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas are crisp squares of wholesome nourishment. They are the food that builds strength and muscle. They are as easily digested by the child and invalid as by the sturdy workman. They contain ALL the food properties of finest Canadian wheat flour, in a form that delights the appetite. Always fresh and crisp in the moisture-proof packages. At all grocers in their hygienic packages.

Health Insurance for Women.

"Woman's work is never done." There is always something to do—running up and down stairs, lifting, bending, straining—no wonder the kidneys become affected. That is why so many women suffer with headaches, lame back, dragging pains through the hips, nervousness, weak spells. When the kidneys are weakened or strained, the delicate female organs are disturbed and induce a train of female complaints.

BU-JU

The Gentle Kidney Pill

Insures health to women who work. Bu-Ju keeps the kidneys strong and healthy, purifies the blood supply, and acts as a gentle, strengthening tonic on the delicate female organs.

"I was not able to do my own work in the house, and was barely able to dress myself. My fingers and hands were all swollen up with pain. I think there is nothing like Bu-Ju. Am able to do my own work now with comfort, which I was not able to do before taking Bu-Ju."

Mrs. J. S. McKeown, a lady of 45, writes: "Bu-Ju is invaluable during pregnancy. All expectant mothers should take a Bu-Ju Pill at bedtime, to insure her own health and that of the child. 50c a large box. At all druggists, or from THE CLAFIN CHEMICAL CO., LIMITED WINDSOR, ONT."

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce; Compound Seltone, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary.

Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Seltone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

KOMOKA BYLAW PREPARED

ply is likely to be very short next year.

Ald. Beattie—What is the estimated shortage this year, including everything?

Mr. Moore—Approximately 1,000,000 gallons.

Ald. Rose: "What is the big hurry to get the bylaw at once? Why not wait till the January elections?"

Looking Ahead.

Chairman Darch explained that in case the proposed bylaw were defeated it would give the commissioners a chance to get another scheme in time for the election and if it carried Engineer Moore could be getting many things ready for the work.

Ald. Cooper: "Why do you want to go to Komoka when the White and Cronin springs are nearer and will flow to the city by gravity?"

Mr. Darch explained that after the water had reached the city a steam pumping plant would be necessary to force it into the mains against the present pressure.

Ald. Garratt maintained it was not fair to put up only one scheme. He suggested putting up two and doing whatever carried.

A Referendum.

Chairman Darch: "If a referendum is submitted either for filtration or spring water, how are the commissioners to proceed in regard to obtaining the debenture?"

No one knew, but it was suggested that a bylaw would have to be submitted.

Ald. Stevenson: "What amount of water is required under the present population, and is the estimate based on the per capita consumption required in other cities?"

Engineer Moore: "In the United States the consumption of water per meter is used varies from 35 gallons in the smaller cities, to 90 gallons in large cities where there are a great many big factories using the water. For a city like London, 60 gallons would be sufficient."

Ald. Matthews: "Mr. Moore says there is a shortage of 1,000,000 gallons, and with the present rapid growth the water of the Komoka scheme will not last long. The proposed drinking fountains will need a lot of water next year and with other drains upon it the supply will be most inadequate for fire protection. Besides, you are not certain of the supply and it is not fair to ask the citizens to spend $300,000 on a thought."

High-Pressure Wanted.

Ald. Gerry: "Everyone wants spring water. Chairman Darch has admitted that the city must eventually get an independent high-pressure fire-fighting system, and why not get it now? We have enough spring water to last for 25 years, if we were to use river water for fire-fighting and street watering."

Ald. Matthews: "Would you filter the water?"

Ald. Gerry: "No, there would be no need for that."

Ald. Gillean: "I believe the high-pressure system is the best thing. Toronto, Winnipeg, and all the growing cities are installing that means of fire fighting. The supply for London can come from the south branch. I would submit that scheme to the people at once, and am sure it would carry."

Chairman Darch said the proposed 20,000,000 gallon reservoir of the Komoka scheme was to be used for fire protection. He did not think they really needed the dam or hydroelectric machinery, but it would be a good investment for the city. It might be thought well, however, not to spend so much money during the present tight-money conditions.

Too Rapid.

Ald. Garratt: "Why not submit a bylaw for $500,000 now, and apply the money to whichever bylaw carried?"

Mayor Judd: "You can't have to stipulate what the money is for."

It was moved that the city solicitor be instructed to prepare the bylaw as submitted by the commission at the next meeting. The bylaw is divided into two parts, the first part providing for the gathering of all springs at Komoka, a pumping plant for bringing the water to the city, and the second part providing for a 20,000 gallon reservoir, and a dam at Komoka, the whole to cost $182,000.

$575,000 Wanted.

It was moved in amendment by Ald. Stevenson, seconded by Ald. Matthews, that the city solicitor prepare a bylaw for $575,000 to extend the present Springbank system and take in the Komoka scheme.

The vote on this amendment resulted in a tie, and the mayor voted "nay."

The original motion was then put, the vote again resulting in a tie, and the mayor voted "yea."

The bylaw will be submitted at the next meeting, when it will be changed to suit such requirements as the council deem wise.

To Buy Old Bridge.

Ald. Booth then moved, seconded by Ald. Gerry, that the council try to buy the old Port Stanley bridge, and place it across the river to join the Wharfedale road in South and West London. The bridge is said to be in first-class shape, and would have no center abutment. The motion was carried.

East End Fire Hall.

Ald. Gillean moved, seconded by Ald. Saunders, that a bylaw be submitted to build a fire hall in the north end, and to move and re-equip the East London station.

Ald. Gillean said the East End hall should be moved further south, as the factories were going that way. The motion was put and carried.

THE JAPANESE HAD PASSPORTS

Mikado's Government Living Up to Its Agreement With Canada.

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—Another telegram received by the Government from Dr. Munro says that the Japanese not only had passports heretofore, but it was recognized by the Japanese consul.

That was why he had notified steamship companies of the necessity of having passports, as the rule was being violated through importations from Honolulu.

Japanese coming direct from Japan still had passports, which shows that the Japanese Government is still recognizing the arrangements made with Japan as to restricted immigration, and therefore, a settlement of the whole difficulty ought to be tolerably easy once Mr. Lemieux meets the Mikado's Government. But for Honolulu shipments there would have been no difficulty.

SEVEN YEARS FOR FORGER

Heavy Sentence for Johnson, Arrested in This City.

Stratford, Oct. 7.—Forger Clyde Johnson was today sentenced to seven years at Kingston. He was convicted of two charges, one of issuing a forged check and one of theft.

He was sentenced on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently. Johnson had only been recently liberated from penitentiary, having been sentenced to three years in 1904 for horse stealing at Windsor.

Johnson was arrested at London during fair week and brought here for trial.

AGAINST HOME WORK

It May Be Cut Out of the Public and Separate Schools.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—It is reported that Hon. Dr. Pyne, minister of education, has under consideration several educational reforms which will be presented to the Legislature for approval at the coming session.

Among these will be a well-thought-out scheme, providing for the abolition of home work for the younger pupils.

The enactment will, it is anticipated, embrace all pupils of the public and separate schools. As regards the junior classes in the high schools, it is not thought improbable that certain restrictions may be adopted.

The evidence of the physicians consulted was unanimously against home work.

TURNED BACK BY U. S.

Aged Lady Not Permitted To Go To Her Daughter at Buffalo.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 7.—One of the saddest cases of hardship inflicted by the United States immigration laws on record occurred here on Saturday.

The victim was Mrs. King, an aged Scotch woman, whose home has been in Toronto. Mrs. King is 74 years of age and a woman of evident refinement and education. Financial misfortune impelled her to leave Toronto to take up her home with a daughter who lives in Buffalo, her daughter having agreed to meet her.

She had just enough money to pay her railway fare. When she reached this city she took an International Railway car from the Bridge street station to Niagara Falls, N. Y., terminal, intending to change there to a car for Buffalo, her daughter having agreed to meet her at the station in that city.

When the car crossed the upper arch bridge it was boarded by an inspector of the United States immigration service, who put some questions to the old lady in an offensive manner. He ordered her sent back, in spite of her protestations. The Canadian police took care of her.

HAD 22 STRIKES IN EIGHTEEN YEARS

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—Mackenzie King, deputy minister of labor, returned yesterday from Springhill, Nova Scotia, and is hopeful that if Mr. Cowens, manager of the collieries there, will but return to Springhill, the men will declare the strike off and return to work under the terms awarded them by the board of investigation, which looked into their case some weeks ago.

This is the 22nd strike which has occurred in Springhill mines in eighteen years. The present strike, which has lasted ten weeks, involves 1,400 workmen.

A SHOOTING FRACAS

Colored Followers of the Bangtails Engage in Gun Scrap.

Hamilton, Oct. 7.—There was a shooting fracas at the Hamilton Jockey Club's grounds yesterday, in which two followers of the bang-tails figured. They were King West and Red Bowman, both colored. West claimed that Bowman owed him some money, and he started out with a gun to collect it. When Bowman saw him coming, he ran, and West fired five shots at him. Fortunately his aim was not good. Bowman escaped uninjured. West was arrested on a charge of shooting with intent, and was found guilty in the police court this morning. He was remanded until tomorrow for sentence.

DIES ON THE STREET.

St. Thomas, Oct. 7.—A young Englishman, named Robert Ellis, 32 years of age, died in the street today. He had been ill for some time, and was seized with a hemorrhage while walking along Scott street.

NEW CONCERNS.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—The Ontario Gazette announces the incorporation of the following companies:

Glengarry Cobalt Mines Company, Haliburton, $600,000.

Northern Islands Pulpwood Company, Port Arthur, $100,000.

Dominion National Smoke Consumer Company, Hamilton, $50,000.

Shurley & Derrett, Toronto, $75,000.

P. Hyman Company, Berlin, $60,000.

Regal Shirt Company, Hamilton, $200,000.

Queen City Foundry, Toronto, $40,000.

Taylor-Anderson Company, Lucknow, $40,000.

St. Thomas Packing Company, Niagara Falls, $100,000.

Owing to the flue construction of most ranges it is a rather difficult feat to cook and bake successfully at the same time.

But the arrangement of the Pandora flues differs considerably from others. They are so constructed that the draft for baking is also the best for cooking, the heat circulating around the oven twice and under every pot hole before passing up the chimney.

The Pandora bakes and cooks perfectly at the same time. Do you know of another range that does? If your local dealer does not sell the Pandora write direct to us for Free Booklet.

SIR JAMES CRICHTON-BROWNE ON WHAT TO EAT.

The noted English physician and sanitary expert Sir James Crichton-Browne recently gave the members of the association of sanitary inspectors, of which he is president, his views on the question of the protection of food. He holds that if infant mortality is to be reduced, sickness and debility diminished, occasional outbreaks of infectious disease prevented and the race generally improved, there must be a complete reorganization of the whole milk trade. With a view to the improvement of butter, he urges that the importer be held responsible for the genuineness of the article he sells, and left to find his remedy against the foreign producer. He would make the registration of all butter factories compulsory and have such places subject to inspection. In order that the duties of sanitary inspectors might be thoroughly carried out throughout the country private slaughter houses should be abolished.

These suggestions are of course particularly applicable to conditions in Great Britain. It is when he addresses himself to the question of food consumption that Sir James' remarks are of more general interest. Against some of the fashionable doctrines of the day he declares war to the knife, and he is altogether out of sympathy with those faddists who make a hunting ground of the food field, and "are now brisling themselves in its covert and preserves." He entirely disagrees with those who advocate a purely vegetarian diet, and is a firm believer in the virtues of the mutton chop. Nothing would please him better than to see a sirloin of beef regularly on the Sunday dinner table of every family in the land. He ridicules "our kitchen monitors who tell us there are kinds of food which are undermining our British constitution." Pork, these people tell us, is productive of scrofula; tomatoes cause cancer; bananas are responsible for influenza, and oatmeal is a source of appendicitis.

One article after another is condemned by faddists and it is generally those articles for which people have a special predilection that are most strongly impugned. If, says Sir James, we listened to all the twaddle that is talked about food, we should soon be in the position of the man who was driven by the comments of passersby to carry his donkey. If we even gave ear only to the more plausible and quasi-scientific of the counsel that is being shouted around we should soon be in a piteous plight—healthy, perhaps, in a sense, but profoundly miserable, while cultivating infamy on lentils and distilled water. To the questions frequently put to him as to whether this or that is wholesome, Sir James has come to reply, in a combination of Byron and scripture, "Take the gifts the gods provide thee. Nothing is common or unclean."

Sir James roundly condemns what he declares to be a common practice among young women in England, of consuming large quantities of lemons, sometimes peel as well as pulp, for the prevention of obesity and for the preservation of a "delicate" appearance, and regrets the growing practice of eating sweets in which alcohol in some form is inclosed. He also deplores the formation among English working girls of clubs for the obtaining of intoxicating drinks. To his mind, however, one of the worst of evils is the growing practice of eating large quantities of so-called "lissed" liquorice and chlorodyne lozenges, placards advertising which may be found in English candy shops of the lower order, and which, he says, although first introduced as cough lozenges, are now swallowed in large quantities by those who have no cough to complain of, but who appreciate their narcotic and sedative effects; by women who find they can obtain the obfuscation they desire while avoiding the sense of shame that attends being seen entering a public house; by errand boys and shop girls, thus early introduced into the realms of inebriety, and even by school children, who, seeking a sweet, have discovered something in it which they cannot explain, but which becomes thrilling. The effect on women and children is to make them dull, drowsy, stupid and apathetic and to seriously impair the memory. Analysis shows that the lozenges contain chloroform in a slightly variable quantity, but in the quantities taken is clearly dangerous. The poison contained in the lozenges is slow and insidious, and even in minute doses frequently repeated cannot but be injurious to health and morals.

Sir James' conclusion is that the multifarious agencies that Christianity and philanthropy have set in motion for the benefit of the submerged masses can never be given fair play until they get a basis of sound sanitation. Tyndall defined dirt as "matter in the wrong place." Sir James Crichton-Browne regards vice as mind in the wrong place.

UNPATRIOTIC CRITICS.

The course of some Conservative newspapers, including our local contemporary, on the Japanese question, is not conceived in a patriotic spirit. The situation is most delicate and difficult; every move at Ottawa must be studied with reference to Westminster. It is not a purely Canadian, but an Imperial problem, and Canadian statesmen who have to deal with it must do so with a sense of Imperial responsibility. This is recognized by a sober and fair-minded section of the Conservative press and party in this country; but another section, taking its cue from Mr. Borden's loose talk on the Pacific coast, is bent only on making party capital and aggravating the difficulties of the Federal Government.

It is unjust to hold that these difficulties are of the Government's own making. The text of the Anglo-Japanese treaty lay on the table of the House of Commons for weeks for the scrutiny of members. The lynx-eyed critics of the Opposition were derelict in their duty if they failed to peruse carefully so important a document. At any rate the only comment they made when the treaty came up for ratification was that the Government had too long neglected the goodwill and commercial friendship of Japan. If any reproach lies against the Administration, it lies equally against the Opposition. But it is not a case where censure is merited by either party. The question of Japanese immigration was believed to be settled by the undertaking of the Tokyo Government to limit emigration from Japan to Canada. The influx of Japanese from Hawaii, which is a temporary effect of temporary causes, was not provided against, because it was not foreseen.

The immigration of Hindus is more serious than that of Japanese. Perhaps the enemies of the Government, who pretend to be concerned about Asiatic immigration, because of sympathy with white labor, will suggest wherein it is blameworthy for the influx of British subjects from India's coral strand.

A NEW "DOMINION."

The fact that the colony of New Zealand has been given the dignified appellation of "dominion" suggests the familiar question, "What's in a name?" Recently the colonial legislature adopted a resolution requesting the crown, through the Imperial Government, to confer on it this new title. The suggestion met with favor in England, the press endorsed it, and His Majesty, by advice of his ministers, has been graciously pleased to grant the request. Hereafter the Antipodean colony will be known as the Dominion of New Zealand.

Of course, as one of "His Majesty's dominions beyond the seas," the claim of New Zealand to the title cannot be questioned; but if it is the intention of the colony to assume equal dignity with Canada or Australia, confederations of formerly separate colonies, the case is materially different. Like Newfoundland, New Zealand has maintained an attitude of aloofness, preferring to pursue her own course alone rather than to join her neighbor colonies in the upbuilding of a great commonwealth. Enjoying as much autonomy as any of the self-governing colonies, she has taken full advantage of her privileges, and in the matter of sociological experiments has gone at a faster pace than any other colony. But that is all. She has done nothing to cement the outlying portions of the Empire.

It was an easy matter for the Imperial authorities to grant New Zealand's request, for the interests of no other colony and, what is generally of more importance to Downing street, of no other nation, were involved. At the same time the term "Dominion" will have a different meaning and far greater significance to Canadians than it has to New Zealanders.

The New York Yacht Club is more concerned about the trophy than the sportsmanship. The cup's the thing.

It would not be surprising if some members of the school board look after their private coal bills more systematically than after the public's.

A Russian mob at Odessa attacked the Jews in a cemetery, having no doubt chosen the spot through a generous desire to save the relatives of the victims funeral expenses.

I LOVE THEE.

(Thomas Hood.)

I love thee—I love thee!
Is all that I can say—
It is my vision in the night,
My dreaming in the day;
The very echo of my heart,
The blessing when I pray;
I love thee—I love thee!
Is all that I can say.

I love thee—I love thee!
Is ever on my tongue;
In all my proudest song,
That chorus still is sung.
It is the verdict of my eyes
Amidst the gay and young;
I love thee—I love thee!
A thousand maids among.

I love thee—I love thee!
Thy bright and hazel glance,
The mellow lute upon those lips
Whose tender tones entrance;
But most, dear heart of hearts, thy proofs,
That still these words enhance:
I love thee—I love thee!
Whatever be thy chance.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

(Toronto Star.)

Our tariff legislation is somewhat affected by that of the United States, and in the United States there is a very strong sentiment in favor of reduction. It may be a long time before this sentiment is expressed in legislation, for the constitution of the United States tends itself to delay and obstruction. But there is no doubt that protectionism in the United States is no longer an idol to be worshipped, that the people are getting out of humor with it, and that its champions are taking a defensive rather than an aggressive position. The probability is that all over the North American continent protection has reached high water mark, and any further changes will be in the direction of lower duties and freer trade.

But I've the stuff to make a bluff
And want the folks to know it.

Too big, indeed—more than I need,
The coat is simply stunning.
My flunkies rate me as a skate,
I guess; their actions show it.
But let 'em think; I've got the chink,
And want the folks to know it.

I've got a yacht, I like it—not;
I've an imported bubble;
I hate to ride, and then, beside,
The dinner at home is a trouble.
It's not much fun, all said and done,
But still I'm bound to go it.
I've got the cash and cut a dash
I must, so folks shall know it.

Mr. Graydon Will Prepare Figures For the Proposed Isolation Hospital

Council Thinks the City Engineer Is Capable of Doing the Work.

Considerable discussion took place at the council meeting last night in regard to having the city engineer draw up the specifications for the new isolation hospital.

Alderman Garratt objected, on the grounds that the engineer was not an architect, and had stated that he knew very little about modern architecture, as it was 20 years since he had studied it.

Alderman Saunders thought it better to pay some expert and have the work done properly. He thought all such work should be done in the engineer's office, but if they would, as was stated, have to work from five in the morning until late at night, and a lot of extras would be charged up, he thought it better to go outside and get it done.

Ald. Cooper thought if the present staff was not capable it was time they get people who were. He did not think the engineer could make any worse mistakes than had been made by architects on the present hospital.

Ald. Judd explained his position regarding the former plan, saying he had instructed the engineer to proceed in the matter, and he had let it out to another draughtsman. It had been stated that Mr. Mitchell had some conversation with Messrs. Scruton and Harris. The mayor knew nothing of it until a note for $300 was sent into the hospital board.

The charge seemed to him to be exorbitant, as the plans had practically been arranged by Superintendent Heard and Miss Stanley. It was a mistake to have the work done by outside parties, as it can and ought to be done in the engineer's office. He would suggest that the plans be prepared by the engineer at once, and if he can not do it, it is time to get some one who can.

A motion was put, and it was decided unanimously to send the matter to the engineer's office to be prepared.

Victor Mitchell submitted an account of $242 for the drawing of the plans of the new isolation buildings. Referred to No. 2.

George A. Griffith and others petitioned for a cement gutter on St. James street, between Maitland and William.

Manager King objected to the composition of the concrete and to the filler used at present for the brick pavement.

Mr. King stated that the bylaws call for crushed stone concrete, and he suggested that it be amended so as to read "crushed stone or pit gravel." York street was done with this material last year, and the results were excellent.

He objected strongly to the asphaltum filler on the brick pavements, as it makes the rails slippery and dangerous, and does not hold the brick so steadily as the gravel. The matter was referred to No. 2 committee.

Government Will Pay.
Hon. William E. Gieseler stating that in case the city decided to lay a permanent pavement on Queen's avenue, on the north side of the post-office, the department of public works would bear its proportionate share of the cost of the part along the public building in the same way as a private property-owner. No. 2.

Mr. A. H. Ewing, on behalf of the Canadian Horticultural Association, thanked the city for the use of the city hall during the annual meeting here.

John R. Hower and others petitioned for a cement sidewalk on Ingleside street. No. 2.

C. Lenz and others asked for a cement walk on the avenue between Adelaide and Elizabeth streets. No. 2.

The application of Cameron Brown for exemption from water rates for the establishment of a manufactory for inverted gas lights was referred to No. 3 committee.

Secretary Ellwood wrote stating that the water commissioners would pay one-half of the cost of repairing the culvert at the Cove. No. 2.

Mrs. Mary G. Bartram offered $49 for lot No. 6 on the south side of

Are You Bankrupt In Nerve Force?

If you spend three dollars a day and earn two you are sure to come to bankruptcy, unless, perchance, some rich friend comes to your assistance. And yet this is just what thousands of us are doing in regard to our health. By worry, overwork, anxiety or the disobedience of the laws of nature, the energy and vigor of the body is wasted more rapidly than it is built up, and the result is the bankruptcy of the health and the decay of the body.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food may be likened to the rich friend, for it supplies in condensed and easily-assimilated form the very ingredients from which nature constructs nervous energy and builds up the human system.

Sleeplessness, headaches, indigestion, loss of appetite, drowsiness, feelings, spells of weakness and despondency are some of the symptoms of exhaustion which point to the approach of nervous prostration, locomotor, aches and paralysis. The nervous system must be built up, and this can best be accomplished by use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cent a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Cheap Phones.

F. Page Wilson, secretary of the Canadian Independent Telephone Company, wrote asking the council to subscribe $5 to enable the company to carry on an energetic campaign for the introduction of cheap phones in every part of Canada. No. 2.

Mr. W. H. Bartram wrote suggesting that Cavendish street, between the Wharfedale road and Wilson avenue, be used as a dump. No. 2.

Messrs. Blackburn & Weekes, on behalf of F. C. Toon, wrote notifying the council that Mr. Toon's horse had been killed by falling into Ridout street sewer, owing to the defective state of the street. Flood copes will be sent to proper officers.

R. Gilmour, builder, 591 Piccadilly street, wrote applying for the position of building inspector. Harry Rymill and William Rain also presented applications for this position. No. 2.

S. H. Armstrong wrote stating that Deborah Armstrong, Harriett Regan, and Mary Wilkinson had been admitted to London Asylum. No. 1.

Mr. G. Collins wrote offering a piece of land on the corner of Saunby and Gunn streets for a dump. No. 2.

Proposed Industry.
Edwin Green, on behalf of F. P. Hummel, asked what London could offer as inducements, in assessment and water rates, for a company wishing to manufacture machinery. Referred to the manufacturers' committee.

A. P. McDougald wrote that William Johnson, of Ekfrid, was able to pay my expenses for which he was liable in connection with medical examination fees, and that the Ekfrid council were in no way liable for the amount asked.

Canadian Club Meeting.
S. F. Glass asked for the city hall for the use of the Canadian Club on Tuesday night. Granted.

Ellen Stanley asked the council to allow her to rent a room for her losing five months' rent upon houses which the council had intended to buy for hospital purposes. No. 1.

Dr. Eccles wrote asking that better roads and approaches be built to Victoria Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital with the $4,000 surplus of No. 3 committee. No. 2.

My Stobsky asked permission to remove a barn on Clarence street. No. 2 committee.

B. A. Schreiber requested the use of the city hall for a dance on Oct. 30. Granted.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN FORMED

In Connection With the King Street Presbyterian Church.

At a large and representative meeting of the men of King Street Presbyterian Church, held last evening in the lecture room, a Men's Association in connection with the church was organized. The meeting was addressed by Mr. E. R. secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who gave the new members many useful hints. Refreshments were served through the kindness of the pastor's wife, Mrs. Rollins, and a very pleasant evening was spent by all.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:
Honorary President—Mr. Elliott Grieve.
Honorary Vice-President—Mr. George H. Barr, Ottawa.
President—Mr. William Reid.
Vice-President—Mr. James Harlow.
Secretary—Mr. D. McEachern.
Executive Council—Mr. George Duncan, Mr. A. McMillan, Mr. John H. Anderson, Mr. Alex. Scott, Mr. Harry Robins.

Reliable Remedy for Epilepsy

Both sexes and all ages who have any symptoms of Epileptic Fits or any nervous twitching or trembling, should use Elixir Kosine at once, the only guaranteed specific for Epilepsy.

W. M. Federmann, the well-known druggist of Kansas City, Mo., writes: "Our experience with Elixir Kosine has been truly remarkable and beyond our most sanguine expectation. The many cases that have come under our personal observation and benefited, place us in a position to recognize a remedy of true merit."

"From a passive interest in this remarkable preparation, we have become very enthusiastic. We do not hesitate to give our personal guarantee to any one who is afflicted with this terrible disease, Epilepsy."

Elixir Kosine is free from alcohol, cocaine, morphine or opiates. It is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a guarantee. The price, $1.50, will be refunded by C. McCallum & Co. if not fully satisfied after using a bottle. This trial is given at our expense. Mail orders filled. The Kosine Company, Washington, D. C., or C. McCallum & Co., London, corner Dundas and Richmond streets.

At the little inn he went again, through the form, as he was rapidly beginning to feel it, of making inquiries. On this side of the hills, Stormont was not a name to conjure with, as it was far and near in Sir David's own country; but every one had heard of the missing girl, and the stout landlady's sympathy was quite sincere, if it were not so great as her curiosity. While Conyers struggled with some curious mutton, she stood over him, exclaiming and questioning, while he tried vainly to stem the flood with an occasional query of his own.

At last, as if struck by some sudden thought, she turned to a strapping servant-lad.

"Jean, was there a red-headed lassie with the gangster folk that gazed through the town yesterday?"

Conyers would probably at another time have tossed her head, as if she had time to heed a younger-lad's but the fact that the "young gentleman" was concerned in the answer put a different color upon it. She knitted her freckled brows.

"Deed, sir, I wouldna like to say just for certain, but I think there was one. She didna come here to the tap-room with the rest of the gangster folk, but I saw her sitting out-by when I gazed to the byre."

"Ye're richt, Jean, and that minds me noo, I thought she must be sick or silly, for she just sat staring frae her like a daff body, but Iosh, sir, what does it matter after all? A brave young lady like Miss Stormont, purr thing, wud n'er be tramping the country with a wheen randy gypsy folk!"

"We can't tell," said Conyers hastily. "She must have been ill or—under some delusion when she left home, or people like these gypsies may have got hold of her. Can you tell me anything more? What was the girl like, how was she dressed—in white?" hesitatingly.

"White! Odd that was a ferlie indeed among se folk. It wudna be white long. As far as I mind, she had on a bit dud o' an auld black frock, and as for what like she was, except that she had a lot of red hair hanging about her shoulders. I n'er gave it a thought, though I wish now I had done it. I canna even exactly say if she was fit the gypsies' avay, though she gazed after them."

"Which way did they go?" asked Conyers eagerly.

"Richt through the town, sir. There's a camping ground no sae far frae the Townend. They're maybe gaun no further seer the day's sae, but Iosh, sir, if ye're to gang after a red-headed folk—"

"I'll walk on and see if the gypsies are still there; it's not far, you say. You can send the trap on after me," said Conyers, rising and going out, while the landlady and Jean, and apparently every female in the place stared after him as he hurried down the empty wind-swept street.

The village and some scrappy outlying fields left behind, the country became more waste and open, stretches of boggy moorland sloping gradually up to bare frowning hills, the outposts of the central ridge, across which a rough road led to Duncaird, and branching from it another which led further up the valley to Stormont. Dusk seemed already falling, though it was still afternoon by the clock, when Basil reached the camping ground, a piece of flat swag, fouled by tramping feet, and defaced by the ashes of dead fires and the nameless litter left behind by its wandering tenants. At least it was not wholly vacant, for under the lee of a shelving bank, topped by a line of rugged, starveling firs, a couple of low, round tents were crouched, with the usual accompaniments of wild-eyed children, a crazy cart or two, and some lean, hobble horses, trying painfully to crop the coarse, trodden grass. Between the tents, black and shining with wet like a snail's back, a woman was trying to coax a sullen fire of sputtering green sticks to a flame. It was the seamy side of nomad life. Indeed, and as Conyers looked from the forlorn sweep of moorland, dim under the rain-clouds, to the miserable dripping squall around him, and the half-savage-looking figure huddling over the smoking sticks, his errand appeared to him for the moment, as it did apparently to most of his interlocutors, utter madness. And yet somehow the landlady's description stuck. Had he not seen Isabel sitting and gazing with dilated, unseeing eyes, starting when spoken to, and smiling her vague, wistful, apologetic smile, while Lady Stormont's description stuck. Had he not seen Isabel sitting and gazing with dilated, unseeing eyes, starting when spoken to, and smiling her vague, wistful, apologetic smile, while Lady Stormont's description stuck. Had he not seen Isabel sitting and gazing with dilated, unseeing eyes, starting when spoken to, and smiling her vague, wistful, apologetic smile, while Lady Stormont's description stuck.

A gust swept through the groaning firs, driving the smoke in an acrid, stinging cloud into Basil's eyes and throat. Involuntarily he coughed, and the woman looked up.

"And what can the poor gypsy do for the pretty gentleman?" she began, summoning up her professional whine after a moment of silent, staring surprise at such an unlooked for interruption. "He has the face for the pretty ladies, but let him cross the road gypsy's hand, and she'll have fine things to tell him."

She spoke with a strong Cockney accent, and was likely only one of a company of wandering vagrants without a trace of the old Romany blood or dialect.

"You can tell me all I want to know without that, although here's the means to do it," said Conyers, impatiently. "You need not be afraid to speak. I'm neither a policeman nor a health inspector. I don't mean you any harm. Is she still here? Has she been long with you? Can you tell me anything about her?"

"Not much, sir. She's a bit touched in the 'ead, I think. We came on her by the roadside two or three days ago. She was a-sittin' lookin' at 'er 'ands, as you would say, and when we came up she hout with some lingo, but the only word of sense in it was 'Duncaird.' We're for Duncaird, too," says I, but she sits still and falls a-starin' again; but hafter a bit we sees 'er follerin', and when by night she comes up with us she got the bit and sup with the kids and a corner to lie in; more than many would 'a' done, sir, for God knows, the pore gypsy 'as little enough to go round, and she might 'ave 'ad the fiver or the smallpox, and where would we 'ave been?" said the woman readily enough, but with a wheedling tone in the thick, throaty voice. She had shown the charity of the wretched to one even more miserable, but if this fine gentleman was interested in the "softy," why, then, he might as well know what she had done for her.

"Then, where is she?" asked Conyers, with a glance toward the tents, from the black mouths of which, in spite of the eddy gusts of moorland wind, came the reek of close-packed, unwashed humanity.

"Wish I knew, sir, if it's hantthink to you. You see, it was this wye. She never said a Christian word hall the time but Duncaird. Was she in a hurry there? we ast 'er; but, there, it was no good, we could make noth-ink hout of 'er, though 'er jabber was more like a babby tryin' to speak than a furrin' lingo, though God knows it might 'ave been that. But she was a pore day for trampin', and one o' the 'esses lane, and one o' the kids sick, which it's an 'ard life, sir, and when we didn't take the road she hup and hout without a 'by your leave,' or a 'thank ye,' and, o' course, we couldn't stop 'er."

"And where did she go?" asked Conyers, eagerly.

He must see this out. Likely it was only a case for the casual ward, but suppose that Isobel had wandered away, or had in some fashion been decoyed away; such things had happened. She might have been trying to find her way home again, and such an experience might well rob her for a time of speech or memory save for some stray word. Then he checked his galloping fancy by another glance round the encampment, and at the woman's coarse, weather-beaten face. Impossible, said common-sense again, but this time in a less absolute tone.

"Hout the road, sir, but I can't think she could 'ave the strength to go far—which I'd 'ave kep' 'er if I could, sir, but bless yer, she was hout, as I says, like a shadder, but there's hardly an 'ouse for miles, and wot's to appen to the pore thing—er, God bless ye, sir, for a kind 'eart and a noble sent; there's precious few think o' the pore gypsy. May ye 'ave the grand fortune and hall ye want come to 'appen."

The rest was lost in a rising shriek of the gale, as, thrusting some silver into the woman's ready hand, Conyers turned away, and, stooping against the wind, splashed along the road, which, gradually ascending the shallow glen, stretched far before him, a long, straight, yellow streak.

"All you want happen," (the wind whistling by sang the words in his ears. A comprehensive enough benediction surely. Well, he must find the girl—beyond that he would not look. If only she had kept to the road it would be easy enough; any moving speck upon all its empty length could be seen a mile off so long as the light lasted. But if she had left it? He cast a doubtful eye over the waste of bog and heather, where here and there a sullen peat pool glimmered wan in the fast-fading light. The trap overtook him, and he bade the driver go slowly, while he keenly scanned every clump of stunted bushes on the side of some hoary projecting boulder.

"There are some houses yonder," he exclaimed after a while, with an upleap of hope, seeing through the thickening dusk some low gray gables on a slope a little above the road.

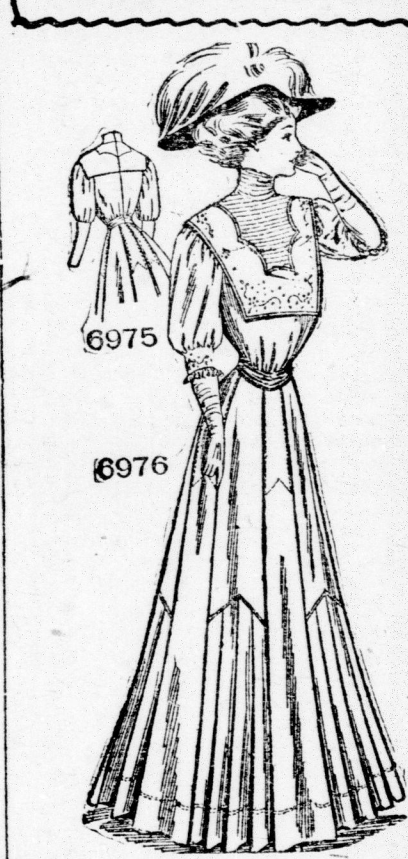

"What was hooses," said the driver rather grimly. "Weel I mind the day when there were bien folk and warm fire-ends yonder, but there's neither roof nor fire left in Achmoyle."

A few minutes showed that the poor then the smoke-blackened "cabers" or

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

6975, 6976—A CHARMING DEVELOPMENT IN BROADCLOTH.

The new materials afford a wide range of selection to the woman of taste, and the latest costumes have been designed with a view to their artistic development. The costume sketched is modeled in one of the fashionable broadcloths, with garlands of embroidery and soutache braid, though it would make up equally well in any soft wool fabric. The waist (6975) owes its chief distinction to the wide square bertha, which extends over the shoulders in a peculiarly smart effect, and at its scalloped, upper edge is adjusted over a removable chemisette. The skirt (6976) is a 9-gored model, showing a boxpleat effect at the front, back and sides, and having the side-gores lengthened by side-pleated sections. The result is a becoming slenderness at the hips combined with a stylish flare at the hem. To develop this costume in the medium size will demand 2½ yards of 44-inch goods for the waist, and 5½ yards of the same width for the skirt.

Two Patterns: 6975—6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure; 6976—7 sizes, 36 to 32 inches waist measure.

The price of these patterns is 20c, but either will be sent upon the receipt of 10c.

INGRAM GOES TO HARVARD

Bishop of London to Address Students at Famous University.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 7.—The second week of the triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church commenced today. The early morning hours in both the house of bishops and the house of deputies were devoted largely to routine work.

The Women's Auxiliary will have an all-day conference on diocesan offices. The men's thank-offering and the Sunday school mass-meetings are to be conducted with it. It is anticipated that the men's thank-offering will amount to $1,000,000, which fund will be used in some permanent work of the church, and not to pay current expenses. In the manner of Sunday schools some action will be taken as regards the different series of instruction.

The present condition is admitted by those most interested in the work to be chaotic, and there is strong sentiment in favor of graduated instruction similar to that in the public schools, but of modified form. "Tonight there will be a public mass-meeting in the auditorium, which will be addressed by the distinguished speakers."

The Lord Bishop of London left today for Harvard, where he has an appointment to give an address.

Increase for Collegiate Teachers Recommended by the Committee

No. 1 Thinks Those Employed in the Institute Are Worth More Money.

No. 1 committee of the board of education met yesterday afternoon and decided to recommend to the board that the salaries of the teachers in the Collegiate Institute be raised. A new schedule of salaries was arranged, calling for increases from $100 to $400 a year.

The question of the increase of public school teachers' salaries was brought up, but it was laid over for a special meeting of the board to consider.

Manual training was also brought to the attention of the committee, and Inspector Edwards laid the plan before the members of the committee, but it was decided to leave it over for further consideration. Other minor matters were discussed.

Increase to Teachers.

Trustee MacRobert brought up the matter of the increase in the salaries of the Collegiate teachers. He referred to the fact that the salaries were much larger in many other places, and such being the case it was impossible to get the best class of teachers to fill the vacancies. The present grade of salaries is as follows:

Heads of departments, from $1,200 to $1,400; assistants, from $1,100 to $1,200; non-graduates, $1,000 to $1,200; ladies, $800 to $900.

Trustee MacRobert moved that the salaries for heads of departments be increased from $1,200 to $1,400—$100 a year increase until the maximum is reached. He also moved that assistants' salaries be $1,100 to $1,200—a year increase until the maximum is reached.

Trustee Tillmann moved that the salaries of non-graduates be from $1,100 to $1,400—a year increase until the maximum is reached. Trustee MacRobert moved that the salaries of ladies (graduates) be $1,000 to $1,200, and for non-graduates $900 to $1,100—a year increase in each case until the maximum is reached.

All these recommendations carried without much discussion.

Public School Salaries.

The Women's Teaching Guild through its officers, Miss Stella Macklin, president; Miss Eliza Yeates and Miss Isabella Boon, vice-presidents, and Miss Jean R. Laidlaw, secretary-treasurer, brought the attention of the

Contractor Gives a Clean Sheet; Coal Muddle Was Investigated

Most of the Vouchers Were Produced But Some Were Not in Sight.

No. 2 committee of the board of education met last night, when the coal question was discussed at considerable length. Mr. James A. Hillen, chief clerk for Mr. William Buchanan, the coal dealer, was present, and presented the two affidavits as outlined in yesterday's Advertiser.

The secretary of the board produced vouchers signed by the city weigh scales clerk for all the hard coal delivered to the city schools with the exception of two car lots delivered early in the year to Chesley avenue school.

The invoices for these cars were produced. These were the cars spoken of by Trustee Teasdale, who gave Mr. Buchanan permission to deliver the cars, but had withdrawn that permission when he found that it was not according to the law.

No Vouchers.

All the soft coal was delivered off the cars, and there was not a voucher signed by the weigh scales clerk for them at all. This has been done on former occasions, although last year every ton of coal was weighed on the city scales and vouchers for it were produced. A clean bill of health was given to Mr. Buchanan, the committee deciding that there had been no wrongdoing on the part of himself, and decided that the coal had been delivered according to the contract.

Rumors on the Street.

Trustee Strong again made his position clear. He stated that he did not know, when the questions were asked, who was the contractor for the coal, but he was convinced by the rumors of the street that the matter should be taken up by the board and thoroughly investigated. He made no charges against any person. He was glad that Mr. Hillen had explained the situation thoroughly. From the beginning he was convinced that the rumor that coal had been delivered to one of the trustees was unfounded. He was also glad that the Tecumseh House matter had been explained satisfactorily.

Open to Censure.

Trustee Strong was insistent that the board be censured for its laxity in dealing with the situation. Not a bit of coal should be delivered to the schools that was not weighed on the city scales. During his term as chairman of the board he had insisted that this be done, and it was entirely satisfactory. Trustee Weekes moved that Mr. Buchanan be cleared of all imputations of wrongdoing, but left the matter of censure to a full meeting of the committee.

Mr. Buchanan's Side of It.

James A. Hillen, manager of the coal yards for Mr. Wm. Buchanan, appeared before the committee, and explained the coal situation. He referred to the fact that Mr. Buchanan had been out of the city since Aug. 1, and would not return for some time. His position in the matter was unenviable, as he had been manager of the firm since Mr. Buchanan's absence. Mr. Hillen said that if he had been asked about the Tecumseh House affair, he could have explained it without so much publicity. He then read his affidavit, and that of Robert Hempton, a teamster in the employ of Mr. Buchanan. Mr. Hillen had gone to the Aberdeen school, and had seen the junior. The latter declared the bins were much fuller this year than last, when the contract called for 75 tons. The school was billed for 79 tons, some odd pounds. The janitor was willing to swear that there was that quantity of coal in the bins.

Trustee Strong asked Mr. Hillen if Mr. Buchanan had not made an arrangement with Dr. Teasdale to deliver the coal from the car.

"Mr. Buchanan had an arrangement with one of the trustees, I don't know," said Mr. Hillen. "It would result in a considerable saving," continued Mr. Strong.

A Saving.

"About 20 cents a ton?" asked Mr. Strong. "Well, hardly that," said Mr. Hillen. "It costs about 30 cents to deliver a ton, so the saving to us would not be 20 cents a ton." "How many cars were delivered to the school from cars?" asked Mr. Strong.

"I don't know; our ledgers would show," said Mr. Hillen.

In Car Lots.

Mr. Hillen referred to the fact that Mr. Buchanan delivered coal to McCormick's and Wm. Gammage under contract, and other firms such as the Tecumseh House, C. S. Hyman & Co., and others in car lots. None of these had complained of short weight. In Mr. Hillen's experience, there had been little short weight. He had taken a record of 42 cars since May, and had found that three tons had been delivered more than ordered.

Some cars held more than others. C. P. R. cars held from 40 to 50 tons, and the P. M. about 30 tons.

Visited Schools.

Mr. Hillen had visited several of the schools, and estimated the coal in the basements, and had compared the estimates with the weight. He figured that the Collegiate appeared to be about a ton short, while in the other schools it appeared as if the weight was much above the weight contracted for.

The vouchers were then considered. Trustee Strong wanted to know whether or not Mr. Hillen had vouchers signed by all the janitors. Mr. Hillen replied that he had vouchers signed by all the janitors with the exception of one or two. Mr. Hillen said that the weigh scale checks were not signed by the janitors, and were returned to the contractor.

On City Scales.

"All the hard coal has been weighed on the city scales," asked Trustee Fitzgerald.

"All but two cars," answered Mr. Hillen. "These were delivered at the first of the season. The weight was not to do it, and we gave it up."

"In the case of the Lorne avenue school, Mr. Hutchinson, the janitor said that the coal was delivered on Saturday, and he was not there to check the loads," Mr. Hillen continued.

"We have not had any vouchers properly signed for coal delivered on that Saturday. It was one car lot," said Mr. Strong.

"Then why don't you prefer charges against the janitor?" asked Trustee McCormick.

"I am not making charges," continued Mr. Strong. "I want that understood. I am only finding fault with ourselves for the slovenly way of doing business."

Mr. Hillen explained that this was a car lot, and there was no need of any voucher. The way-bill was attached to the bill.

Six Lots Delivered.

Mr. Hillen explained that six car lots had been delivered to the Talbot street school. It was intended to wait until a coal dealer had ordered a teamster to take coal intended for one man and send it to another for the time.

A story was told by Alfred Smith, a teamster, that coal had been taken from a car lot intended for the Lorne avenue school, and had been delivered to D. S. Perry & Co. Mr. Hillen explained that the story was incorrect on its face, as Mr. Buchanan was not in the city in September, and therefore could not have given the order to Smith.

There was no coal delivered to Lorne avenue school in September. He might have been mixed in his dates. Even if it were true, there was nothing in the story, as Mr. Buchanan and every coal dealer has ordered a teamster to take coal intended for one man and send it to another for the time.

Produce Vouchers.

Trustee Strong asked that Secretary McElheran produce vouchers for coal delivered.

The Victoria school vouchers were produced, and were found signed by Mr. Bruce, the janitor. All weigh-scale clerk's vouchers for the hard coal were produced with the exception of two car lots delivered to the Chesley avenue school. All soft coal was delivered from cars and no weigh-scale vouchers were necessary for them. The invoice of the coal company delivered the coal was accepted for weight of coal on car.

Only His Word for It.

"We then have only Mr. Hillen's word for it that the coal was delivered according to the weights mentioned in the vouchers," declared Trustee Weekes.

"I do not mean to say that there is any dishonesty, but in the last analysis we have only his word for it. We can estimate by cubic measurement approximately what coal has been delivered. That is somewhat of a check."

Trustee McCormick said that the committee should make some report. So far as he could see no blame could be attached to Mr. Hillen, and he had delivered all the coal contracted for. Trustee McCormick was satisfied that there was nothing in the Tecumseh House and Quebec street rumors.

Slip-Shod Methods.

"I think the board should be censured for the slip-shod method of doing business," continued Trustee Strong. "I have not made any accusations against any person. There should be some better way of getting the coal. The coal should be weighed on the city scales, and absolute surety guaranteed that the coal contracted for was delivered."

"I cannot be so unbusinesslike," declared Trustee Fitzgerald, "when large business men such as Mr. McCormick and Mr. Gammage and others mentioned buy in car lots."

Secretary Indiscreet.

Secretary McElheran said, according to the press, that he could see no reason for the charges made by myself," continued Trustee Strong. "I want it clearly understood that I have made no charges. I don't think that the secretary has any right to say such things."

"But they were charges," retorted Trustee McCormick.

Mr. Hillen Wants Vindication.

Mr. Hillen was given an opportunity to speak for Mr. Buchanan. He declared that while he did not say that Mr. Strong made charges, the newspapers had made it appear that his statements were charges, and such statements had injured Mr. Buchanan's business, and a complete vindication should be given him. He considered the explanation as very satisfactory.

that Mr. Buchanan has done the right thing," declared Trustee Strong. "I had a right, in view of the rumors on the street, to ask the questions I did at the meeting of the board. Mr. Buchanan must vindicate himself, and I think he has."

Everything All Right.

Trustee Weekes moved that, as the committee has inquired into the correct delivery of coal to the city schools, and having heard the explanation of Mr. J. A. Hillen, Mr. Buchanan's manager, the committee is of the opinion that all such coal has been correctly and honestly delivered to the schools as per the accounts of Mr. Buchanan.

"The matter of the propriety of the system is yet to be taken up," explained Trustee Weekes.

"I still think that the board should be censured, and I intend to move in the matter," said Trustee Strong.

How Will the Big Battle Result? Both Teams Confident of Victory

ers and Leafs Represent Best in Major League—Well Matched.

The Cub or the Tiger? Will the smile be seen on the face of the Tiger when these Titans of the baseball world finish their mighty conflict, or will the jaws of the Cub be dripping in Tiger gore? One thing is certain, their death struggle has gripped the attention of the nation and the qualities of the rivals have become the live issue of the day.

The tilt, which begins today, will bring together teams of the highest merit and of well-matched strength. It depends which side of the fence you're on, whether you think Detroit will win or whether it will be a Chicago victory. Those of Cub persuasion can see a triumphant march to the highest honors of the baseball world for their heroes. Those who lean the other way have visions of the Tigers stalking roughshod over the forms of their opponents.

But to those astride of the fence it looks like an even proposition and a finish fight, which will awaken the fans as few others have. From a strictly Chicago standpoint the interest in the series may not reach the melting climax which the last series between the White Sox and Cubs furnished, but fandom at large is wrought up over the impending conflict as it was a year ago.

Former Historic Meeting.

A baseball battle between Chicago and Detroit brings with it tremendous interest on account of the historic battles waged between the two cities twenty years ago, when the Detroit won their first and only pennant with the "big four"—Brouthers, Richardson, Rowe and White. In 1886 the Chicagoans, with Anson, Clarkson, Kelly, Williamson and the other famous warriors in the line-up, had beaten the Detroit, but in '97 the Detroit, then captained by Ned Hanlon, were too strong. They came to Chicago with hands and feet, routing brigade of 300 people, paraded the streets with tiny roosters in their caps, and the Michigan contingent crowded most lustily when the last battle was over, for the great battery composed of "Lad" Baldwin and Charley Bennett had won the day. There were thrilling times in baseball, but the national game has outgrown those early days, and the thousands who watched the scores of the championship series twenty years ago are increased a hundred-fold today. A year the Cubs were a big favorite over the White Sox in the championship series, principally on account of having made such a spectacular race in the National League, winning more games than any team ever won before. This year the Tigers have been the baseball sensation by reason of their remarkable come-from-behind struggle to reach the top. They have been foremost in the public eye and the tales of their various deeds on the diamond may have given the public an exaggerated idea of their strength.

Are of Similar Qualities.

It so happens that the rivals are made up quite a bit the same. Both are teams of great dash and full of life. Of course, both are clever as fielders or they wouldn't have reached the top. The Tigers led their league in pounding the ball, and supplied the big hitting feats, still as amazing as the games in the last inning with home runs. In a series of "best four out of seven" the work of the pitchers counts for perhaps 50 per cent of the strength. And if they should fall down in this series the superior of Jennings' men as sluggers would not stand out so prominently.

Cobb and Crawford really put the team into first place, and in the closing days of the race held them there with their timely hits. They are a wonderful pair of left-handed batsmen, who hit any kind of pitching, have no weaknesses that American League pitchers have been able to locate, and hit for long drives to any part of the field. Both are fast on the bases, especially Cobb, whose speed is marvelous. Another big factor in the success of the Tigers was Donovan. His record of 27 victories and four defeats tells a big story. Last season he lost 60 per cent of his games, so it is easy to see the importance of his rejuvenation.

In fielding the two teams are not far apart, but the Cubs look a shade the best. As base runners the rivals again run neck and neck, with no appreciable difference between them.

That puts the battle up to the pitchers. Brown and Donovan, who probably will meet in the first game, are as good as pitchers can be when they are in the box. They are both right-handers, and both are good. Detroit has two left-handers in Killian and Siever who are available for the series, while Piester's ability to make good is uncertain. He probably will get a chance, but is hardly as good as either of the other fellows. Langren and Overall are first-class men, but no better than Mullin, when "Big George" is himself.

Hamilton Is Not Worrying Any

Hamilton, C. 8.—As a result of the action of the C. A. U. registration committee in professionalizing the members of the Argonaut and Montreal teams after Saturday's game at Montreal, the Tigers must now decide whether they will throw down the C. A. U. and become professionals, or go out of business for this season at least. A meeting of the executive of the local club will be held this evening to discuss the situation, and the chances are that the Tigers will follow the lead of the other two teams and play out the season drawn up by the interprovincial Union, which will mean that they will all be professionalized after the first game in which they participate, which will be next Saturday, when they will have Montreal as opponents.

The local players and the officers of the club would much have preferred to have seen the Argos stand by their guns and refuse to play against men whom the C. A. U. has refused to recognize as amateurs, but the Torontoans having severed their connection with the C. A. U., there is now nothing left for the Tigers to do but to follow suit. As few of the players take part in any other sport, they are not doing much worrying over the situation. The members of the executive would do well, however, to carefully consider the matter before taking any action which will bar all members of the team from participating in any amateur sport for all time to come.

Tips to the Wise and Unwise

The other title is "How to Get a Seat at the Big Series."

Set your alarm for 5 o'clock on the morning of the game. Be at the gate at 6 o'clock with your money in your hand. For the next eight hours do the best you can.

A man who sent his check to baseball headquarters in August has had it returned with a slip indicating that the box seats are already exhausted. The moral is: Pick your next year's winners and write now for your seats.

Desiring to give every man who gets into the grounds a chance to see all that happens, the management will not allow people to stand more than 50 deep on the field. This plan was adopted out of consideration for short men.

No drinks—hard drinks—will be sold on the grounds. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Ground rules will necessarily prevail. A batter will be given half-way to first on a hit into the crowd.

The entire population of Detroit will have to move on Battle Creek or Mount Clemens to recuperate. Nice thing to have the cures right at your door.

Muggsy McGraw says that from an artistic standpoint the Giants have not been a big success this season. He refers to a lack of manly art in the games played by the giants.

The end of the baseball season means some big shifts in the body commercial. For instance, a horde of baseball cartoonists will not hear the whistle blow some fine morning.

Among those who have seen the lights grow dim and the stars come out are the Senators, the Cardinals and Boston Bill.

It's fierce in San Francisco since the tidal wave of reform rolled in. Even a slum poor amateur can't make any money.

Here's one—if the Cubs lose the world's series who is the champion of Chicago? Being an expert on flying old flags, perhaps President Murphy might suggest that Comiskey claim the title as a hold-over.

According to the stories printed about Clark Griffith, he is the sort of a fellow who can glory in another team's losses without winning anything for himself. He has a reason, though.

Hank O'Day and Jack Sheridan have been chosen as umpires of the world's series. We hope we are bringing up no unpleasant thoughts by wishing them long lives.

Things are never just right. The Cubs have not had enough competition to put them on edge for the big series, and their opponents have had too much. If it's satisfactory all around we'll balance one with the other.

FACTS ABOUT DONOVAN, THE CHAMPION PITCHER

He won twenty-six games and lost four, one resulting in a seventeen-inning tie.

He struck out 122 batters, the largest number in one game being eleven.

He pitched four two-hit games, and the largest number of hits made off him in nine innings was fourteen.

He was born at Lawrence, Mass., but learned to play baseball in Philadelphia. Donovan joined the Detroit Club in 1903 after having played in six minor leagues and with the Brooklyn Club and the Washington Club, then of the National League.

He was in bad shape in the spring and was kept on the bench until warm weather. Donovan attributes his success this season to the judgment of Manager Jennings in keeping him out of the game until hot weather set in. He says that the club has supported him royally at the bat as well as in the field.

Donovan will be 31 years old on Oct. 13, and it is Jennings' present intention to allow him to pitch for the world's championship against the Chicago Cubs on that day.

OPINIONS OF THE LEADERS

MANAGER FRANK L. CHANCE, CUBS.

We have had the National League pennant clinched so long that it is not necessary for me to say anything about the sort of ball we have played, except that the general idea that we have been loafing is a mistake. Every man on the team has played fast ball whenever called upon, and every man on the team is in condition to play just as fast as if we had been in a race as close as Detroit.

I am glad we are going to play the Tigers, because the public, I think, picks that team as the most representative one in the American League, and we want to beat the best. Of course, every Cub player would have liked the White Sox to win, so we could get revenge, for losing the series to them last fall.

However, Detroit has a better team than the Sox, and we will beat Detroit all right, and everybody will be satisfied. I can't see where they have anything on us. Donovan is admittedly the Tigers' best pitcher, and everyone will say that he has won some mighty lucky games. For example, take the seven-entire-innings game with the Athletics. I believe Philadelphia got something like twenty hits, and any old time the Cubs get twenty hits we'll win two games.

I don't say we will win every game from Detroit. That's too much to expect from any team. Anyway, we'll win the series for sure, and in a way that will leave no room for argument.

MANAGER HUGH A. JENNINGS, TIGERS.

We have played a great game of ball this season. When I say we, I mean the men of the Detroit team. I have helped win, but no more than any other individual on the team. We have had an uphill fight.

When we play for the world's championship we will play the same sort of ball we have played against the American League teams, and that is good enough to win from any team in the world.

I'm not making any bets on the outcome of the series with the Cubs, because I never bet on baseball, but if my very best friend asked me what to do, I'd say, "I'd say, 'bet on Detroit and your money will never be in danger.'"

I'd like to go on and talk forever; the fans know I can keep up a good line of talk indefinitely.

The figures and playing show we are the goods, and that's all there is to it. I wish we could make a dash around the National League circuit and play each team in order. I'd like Cincinnati and Brooklyn and Pittsburgh to see the kind of ball the American League has to offer.

HARD BLOW TO THE CENTRAL Y. M. C. A. AFTER LONGBOAT

Toronto, Oct. 7.—George Barber, one of the men qualified by the C. A. U. for competing against Ernie Russell, the professional hockey player, on Saturday's Rugby game at Montreal, is the well-known Central Y. M. C. A. athlete. Barber is a champion runner and jumper, and he counted upon being a member of the Canadian Olympic team next year. His loss will be keenly felt by Central.

BUT LITTLE BETTING

Odde Are Even in New York, But Few Wagers Made.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 7.—There has been little betting on the result of the world series between the Tigers and the Cubs, and what betting has been done is at even odds. Among the fans of New York, the impression is that it is hard to pick the winner, those seen being about equally divided. Some of the most enthusiastic rooters argue that a team that fought as gamely as did the Tigers, coming from behind, as it were, and while fighting on foreign grounds took the lead from the Athletics, who were favored by home surroundings and rooting, is the real thing in baseball.

CY YOUNG WINS FIRST

Put It in Some Safe Place, for It May Come in Handy Some Day.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it:

Mild Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here in town is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

Neck, Breast and Hands Covered with Eczema

Miss Katherine M. Bartlett, of 73 McGill College Avenue, Montreal, has been cured of an obstinate case of dry eczema, of four years standing by the use of four other remedies failed to give her relief. She says:

"Four years ago my face broke out in rough, red blotches which burned, smarted and itched terribly. When the disease was at its worst my face, neck, breast and hands would swell terribly. I consulted doctors, but got no relief. A lady friend who saw my sad plight recommended Zam-Buk. I procured a supply and within a few weeks from commencing with Zam-Buk my skin was as smooth and white as before the dread eczema came to trouble me. I can hardly find words to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure made by Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures blood poisoning, cuts, bruises, old wounds, running sores, ulcers, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, eczema, itch, barber's rash, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases. Best cure for piles yet known. All druggists and stores at 50c a box, or from Zam-Buk Company, Toronto. Three boxes $1.25. Send 1 cent stamp for sample.

MAJOR DELMAR AND SWEET MARIE MATCHED

Eyes of fast harness-horse owners all over America will be turned toward Allentown, Pa., Wednesday, Oct. 16, when Major Delmar and Sweet Marie, the two fastest trotters in the world, will meet in best two out of three, mile heats. The purse is only $500 and the winner is to take all, but it is safe to say that thousands of dollars will be wagered on this race.

This will be Sweet Marie's last appearance on any track, it is said, and before the game little California mare retires to the stud her owner will make every effort to crown her active turf career with new owners. Major Delmar has been going great guns this season, which means that the race will be a corker.

WOMAN WINS LARGE SUM

Gets a Verdict for $4,000,000 in English Courts.

London, Oct. 4.—Justice Channell, in the King's bench division yesterday, granted to a Spanish woman the large award of $4,000,000 against a London company promoter.

Sir Edward Carson explained that he appeared for Mrs. Concepcion Benito do Bestegui, who lives in Paris, and the action was brought against Frank Leacroix Gardner to recover $4,000,000 which she had paid the defendant, who, until recently, carried on business in the city.

The grounds of the action were that there was a conspiracy entered into to procure from her money according to her from time to time under the pretense that it was to be invested and the profits, if any, divided between herself and Gardner.

The money was to be invested at Gardner's discretion.

Commencing in 1895, and down to 1903, she paid Gardner and her secretary large sums of money.

Attorney Rufus Isaacs, with other counsel at this stage entered the court and said he wished to intervene. He appeared for the defendant, who was not present, and he was not in a position to call him as a witness in the matter. What he proposed to do was to consent to judgment for the amount claimed.

He would consent to judgment for $4,000,000 odd without asking what it was for.

Sir Edward Carson also asked that certain agreements referred to in the statement of claim should be declared null and void. This was agreed to, and judgment was entered for the plaintiff accordingly.

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Thursday, Oct. 8.
The attendance at the market today was not as large as last week, but there was quite a brisk demand in all lines, and prices held up well at last week's advances.
Grain—There was an excellent demand for the half dozen loads of oats marketed; sales were made at $1.57 to $1.60 per cwt. Thirty loads of wheat were brought in, which sold at $1.61 per bu.
Hay and Straw—There were 10 loads of hay on the stand; sales were brisk and a larger number of loads could have been sold; prices were firm, at $16.50 to $17 per ton. No straw offered.
Butter and Eggs—Butter was scarce and in good demand; at 25c for crocks and 26c for pound rolls. Eggs sold quickly, as the supply was small, at 25c per dozen by the basket.
Vegetables and Fruits—Potatoes were scarce and a little higher, at 40c wholesale and 50c to $1 retail; tomatoes, 25c per basket; green tomatoes, 40c per basket; celery, 40c per dozen; cabbages, 40c to 50c; cauliflower, 50c to $1 per dozen; beets, 30c per bu; turnips, 25c per bu; sage and savory, 25c per cwt.
Fruit—Peaches sold at $1.25 per bu; grapes, 25c per basket; plums, at $1.25; apples, 25c to 30c per bu for common and 35c to $1.10 for snow apples; pears scarce, at $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel.
Dressed Hogs—The demand is good, at $8.50 per cwt.
Butcher's meats and poultry were in small supply; Saturday's prices were repeated today.
