BLANCHARD-SENECAL

Recorder: At the parsonage on Monday evening, nuptials which united in bonds of wedlock two well known young residents of Leeds county, Mr. Harold B. Blanchard, son of Mr. Frank Blanchard, of Mallorytown, and Miss Nettie V. Senecal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Senecal, of Grenadier Island. The ceremony was performed at nine o'clock, and was extremely quiet, both the bride and groom being unattended. The bride, who is a popular young lady with all her acquaintances, looked neat and smart in a travelling costume of green ladies' cloth with silk shirt waist to match. She also wore a large black hat trimmed with ostrich plumes. The young couple took the midnight train for a honeymoon trip to Toronto and other western cities, returning from which they will take up their residence at Alexandria Bay for the summer. The groom in this event is a medical student at McGill University, having just finished his season's exams. At the conclusion of the holidays he will again resume his studies there. In the vicinity of Mallorytown, his home, he is a general favorite with all classes.

Travelling Swindlers

The Cornwall papers tell of a scheme that a couple of strangers worked there whereby a number of citizens were victimized to the extent of from $2 to $5 each. The strangers represented themselves to be travelling salesmen for a Toronto tailoring house making both men's and women's clothing. They had a lot of samples of fine grades of cloth with them, and offered to sell suits and costumes at tempting prices. They took the measure of their victims and were to have the articles made and delivered in the course of a few days. A deposit was of course made in each case and it is stated that the aggregate sum collected in Cornwall amounted to several hundred dollars. After doing a rushing business for a week or so the strangers suddenly disappeared leaving their hotel bills unpaid.

Lawn Tennis Club

The members of the lawn tennis club met on Wednesday evening last to reorganize and discuss business for the coming season. The following officers were elected:—
Hon. Pres.—A. E. Donovan.

Vice-Pres.—K. C. Berney.
Sec.—Treas.—Roy C. Knowlton.
Com.—D. A. Forneri, Dr. Lillie, Rev. I. N. Beckstedt.
It is expected a number of young ladies will be among the members this season. The committee are making arrangements to have the grounds fitted up and will lay out two courts. They have every reason to believe the club will be a great success this season. The membership fee is gentle men $1 and ladies 50c.

Shasta, Portland Oregon, Seattle, Spokane, and home through St. Paul and Minneapolis. The trip will occupy about thirty days, ten days being spent on the Pacific coast.

The price for the round trip, including railroad fare, Pullman tourist sleeping cars, all meals in the dining car, hotels, side trips, etc., is $165.50 from Quebec or $160.50 from Montreal and $150.00 from Toronto. #### Lord's Day Alliance

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance held in the Baptist church on Monday evening. The president, Mr. N. L. Massey, occupied the chair. After the opening services of song and prayer, Rev. T. Albert Moore, secretary of the society, gave a very interesting address upon the work of the Alliance and why it should be supported by every one. The following officers were then elected for the present year.

President—N. L. Massey.

Cardinal Local Option

The appeal of Messrs. Dillon and Mahoney, the two Cardinal hotel-keepers, against the decision of Mr. Justice Magee, was settled at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Thursday, before Chief Justice Falconbridge, Justices Anglin and Britton. Following is their judgment:

Re Dillon and village of Cardinal.—Judgment (oral) on appeal by applicants from order of Magee, J. (5, O. W. R., 653), dismissing application to quash a local option by-law of the village on the ground of irregularities before, at and after the close of the poll, in relation to the taking of the vote of the electors upon the by-law. The court was of the opinion that the judgment was entirely right. Per Falconbridge, C. J., that it was immaterial whether the onus was on the applicants or the respondents under the saving clause, sec. 204 of the Municipal Act, because it was abundantly shown that the irregularities did not affect the election. Appeal dismissed with costs. G. H. Watson, K.C., for appellants, W. E. Middleton for village corporation.

Don't Do It

There are nine ways you can hurt your town. The following are well worth the thoughtful consideration of every citizen:—Oppose improvements, mistrust our public men, run down the town in presence of strangers, go to some other town to do your trading, refuse to advertise in your home paper, be careful to discredit the motives of public spirited men who are working for the interests of the town, lengthen your face when strangers speak of locating here and tell them its the worst place on earth. If a man wants to buy your property charge him two prices for it. It will be the last chance you will have to give the town a dig; refuse to see merit in any scheme that does not benefit you or yours.

The schoolboy was asked to write a composition on Russia, and wrote as follows:—"Rooshy is a country bounded on the north by ice, on the east by trouble, on the south by mobs and on the west by England and Kipling. At the present time the country has cold feet and the impurer has cold chills running down his back and is afraid some one is after him with knives and bombs—they throw lots of bombs in Rooshy."

Why Italians Stay in Cities.

One impelling reason for the settlement of Italians and other immigrants from Europe and New York and other large cities of the east is that when they reach this country they are compelled to find work at once, and the daily wage offered being so much in excess of anything they have known they settle easily in the city.

The spider has a tremendous appetite and his voraciousness defies all human competition. A scientist who carefully noted a spider's consumption of food in twenty-four hours, concluded that if the spider were built proportionately to the human scale he would eat at day-break (approximately) a small alligator, by 11 a.m., a lamb, by nine a.m., a young camelopard, by one o'clock a sheep and would finish up with a lark pie in which there were 120 birds.

HUNDREDS KILLED BY TORNADO IN OKLAHOMA.

Town of Snyder Swept by Terrific Tornado and Partly Destroyed.

Between Three and Four Hundred Persons Lost Their Lives in the Disaster.

Relief Trains Sent to the Scene From Neighboring Towns.

Further Particulars. A Guthrie, O. T., report: News has been received from the Frisco station agent at Mountain Park, Kiowa County, a neighboring town of Snyder, to the effect that the town is only partially destroyed, but that the dead will total something between three and four hundred. This agent made a personal visit to Snyder, where he observed the details of the calamity.

Relief trains sent out from Hobart have not yet reached or returned. The intention is to send out another train from that place. Chickasha has so far no intelligence of the relief trains sent from that town. Rumors to the effect that other towns in southwestern Oklahoma were destroyed are declared by the telephone exchanges to be incorrect.

Snyder is a town of about 2,500 inhabitants in Kiowa County, Oklahoma, in the Kiowa and Comanche Indian country, opened to white settlement in 1901. The town was laid out largely by the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway, and the company erected important buildings there. Snyder is the division point for the Quanah division of the road. The town was named for Bryan Snyder, passenger traffic manager of the system.

From 200 to 300 killed. A St. Louis report: At the general office of the Frisco Railroad here a brief report from the division superintendent at Sapulpa, I. T., received at 9 o'clock stated that it was estimated that from 200 to 300 persons lost their lives in the tornado at Snyder, Oklahoma. Details are yet lacking. It is believed that a large number of the injured will die. In a number of cases entire families were killed and almost every family in town some member was injured.

Every house in the town except six are said to have been either badly wrecked or demolished, many of them being blown entirely away. The havoc wrought is most complete. The business portion is reported entirely destroyed. The Mayors of Guthrie, Oklahoma City and some other towns have issued calls for mass meetings for the injured, and early in the day special trains bearing physicians, nurses and clothing were started for Snyder.

At least one other town in Oklahoma, Quintan, a small place in Woodward County, was struck by the tornado, and the course of their dispute called the other a liar. The young man acted with promptness, and before the Yankee agent realized what had happened to him he had been knocked down twice by the outgoing Britishers, who then put back to Canada to avoid arrest.

IGNORING THE STRIKE. So Small as to be Unimportant, Say G. T. R. Officials. Toronto, May 15.—The situation arising out of the machinists' strike is unchanged, and according to the statement of a Grand Trunk official yesterday afternoon, the trouble is now considered of such small consequence that little attention is being paid to it. From Chicago to Portland, it is declared, there are only five roundhouses on the system where any men quit work—at London, York, Stratford, St. Thomas and Toronto. The four men who struck at the Stratford roundhouse had not returned to work yesterday, and if they do not report to-day four men will be sent up to fill their places.

MAN AND GIRL ROBBED. Strange Adventures of a Couple Driving Near Kingston. Kingston, May 15.—To-day an Ottawa girl of attractive appearance, who boards at a local hotel, complained to the police of having been robbed by a highwayman. She had been introduced to a strange young man, who represented himself as a traveller. They went for a drive, and when three miles west of the city were held up at the point of a pistol by a masked man, who demanded their money. Her companion, she said, handed over his "wad," which he claimed contained $75. The desperado she alleged, then turned his attention to her. She denied having any money, and after some parley, he commenced to search for which he was rewarded by discovering a roll of $115 secreted in her garments. The pair were then ordered to drive back to the city without looking back, which they did.

TROUBLE AT THE BRIDGE. How Canadian Travellers Are Treated by United States Officials. St. Catharines, May 15.—Reports of the meanness of United States officials come from Niagara Falls almost daily. A lady from Stratford, with two small children, on her way to join her husband at Newport News, Virginia, was held up at the bridge by the United States customs officials for the $2 tax per head which the United States Government charge the people entering the land of the free. Not having more than enough money to make the journey, the lady was forced to return to this side and wait 24 hours until her husband could telegraph the required amount.

A young Englishman got even with a United States official at the Bridge recently. He told the immigration official that he had been a resident of Canada for 22 years and had crossed the bridge frequently. The official did not believe him, and the young man appealed to the ticket seller, who corroborated his statement. Still the official was not satisfied, and finally in

The permission was granted, and the Diana started for the open sea, in an attempt to escape. She was only prevented by a threat to fire on her. When she returned the essential parts of her machinery were removed. The correspondent gives no date for the incident.

ABOUT THIRTY PERSONS KILLED IN A COLLISION.

An Express on the Pennsylvania Road Crashed Into a Wrecked Freight.

The Passengers in the Pullman Car Were Burned to Ashes.

Over a Hundred Injured, Ten of Whom it is Believed Will Die.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 15.—At least twenty-five persons were killed and more than one hundred others injured in a collision on the Pennsylvania Railroad south of Harrisburg a few minutes before 2 o'clock this morning, caused by the second section of the Cleveland and Cincinnati express, west-bound, crashing into a wrecked freight train. The dead who have been identified are: Mrs. Robert Daugherty, 1,205 South 24th street, Philadelphia; Harry K. Thomas, of Philadelphia, engineer of the passenger train. Jacob F. Silverman, of Bridgeton, N. J., is also believed to have been killed. There are at least two bodies under the wreck. Among the injured were Mr. and Mrs. Tindell, the latter a daughter of U. S. Senator Knox, who were on their way to Pittsburg from New York. They were able to walk to Steelton, from where Mr. Tindell telephoned to Governor Pennypacker, who sent Private Secretary Wharton to bring them to the executive mansion. Here they were given medical attendance and clothing.

The Harrisburg Hospital is crowded with the most seriously injured. Others of the injured are at the hotels, and will be able to resume their journey during the day. The railroad company is doing everything possible for the relief of the injured, many of whom escaped from the wreck in their night clothes, and lost all their clothing and other belongings. The passenger train of nine cars and locomotive was wrecked. It was estimated that the dead numbered between 25 and 30.

One hundred and twenty-five received treatment for injuries at the Harrisburg Hospital, most of whom remained at the institution. Ten of these may die. Only three dead have been positively identified, so completely were the bodies cremated. The known dead are: H. K. Thomas, engineer of the passenger locomotive; Philadelphia, head blown off when boiler exploded; Mrs. Robert Daugherty, Philadelphia; Jacob F. Silverman, Bridgeton, N. J., burned to a crisp in his berth; identified by a Masonic emblem on his coat. At 2:30 o'clock this morning none of the tracks had been cleared, but the wrecking crews, three in number, the two originals on the scene having been augmented by the Columbia crew, began throwing the debris over the bank into the Susquehanna River. At this time the fire in the two last Pullman cars was extinguished. The contents of these, where it is believed a number of bodies were burned, were so completely burned that it was not possible to tell whether there were any bodies there or not. If there were they were reduced to powdered ashes. It is unofficially estimated that the financial loss will amount to fully $300,000. This includes $15,000 for cash, jewelry and other personal effects of the passengers that were destroyed.

Newspaper Man's Story. The first intimation I had of the wreck," said John B. Reynolds, of Pittsburg, a newspaper man, who was going home from New York, and who escaped with slight injuries, "was when I heard an awful crash and was thrown out into the aisle of the car. I was dazed for a little time and only regained my position and what had happened when I felt a woman grabbing me and screaming 'for God's sake, help me! I pushed her out of the window and a fellow passenger handed out a child which belonged to her. He then left the train and called to me to jump through the window. Just then there was a terrific explosion. As I dropped to the ground a missile struck and knocked me down. I don't know how long I lay there, but when I recovered my senses, I crawled across the tracks under a freight train and rolled down the embankment on one side. I was in my night clothes and all my other clothing and belongings were lost.

"I never want to witness such a sight as that which followed the collision, women were screaming, children were crying, strong men were wandering about dazed and helpless. The tracks were strewn in all directions with half naked men and women, some of whom were dead and others seriously injured. On this same train was Sam Shubert, the motive Philadelphia, head blown off when boiler exploded; Mrs. Robert Daugherty, Philadelphia; Jacob F. Silverman, Bridgeton, N. J., burned to a crisp in his berth; identified by a Masonic emblem on his coat. At 2:30 o'clock this morning none of the tracks had been cleared, but the wrecking crews, three in number, the two originals on the scene having been augmented by the Columbia crew, began throwing the debris over the bank into the Susquehanna River. Admitted by France. A Paris cable: The Matin admits that there is a Marquis Bastelary, who is a holder of a commission at Kamranh Bay, from the French Government, in conjunction with Mons. Portales. It also admits that the Russians had a coaling depot on the island of Mekong, near Saigon, from which the Russians' colliers receive their holds. The Matin states that the only precise complaint that can be made is that the Russians entered French territorial waters, and with the knowledge of the French Government. When this story once, when Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet, entered Kamranh Bay.

A Few Facts for Women

About Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets. These tablets are the prescription of a distinguished specialist in women's diseases.

They are compounded for the special needs of women alone. They embody the results of the very latest medical discoveries.

They contain ingredients recently discovered that no other remedy contains. They are a compound remedy, that is, they contain something for every organ of the female system.

They are purely vegetable, and unlike the liquid preparations contain neither alcohol nor opium.

There are six dozen tablets in one box, enough for an extended treatment.

They Make Healthy Women.

TEACHERS' STORIES.

Amusing Examples of Humor From 31 British Schoolmasters With One or Two From Out of Doors.

A large and amusing selection of examples of humor from the schoolroom, says the Schoolmaster, has been collected by Dr. Macnamara, to whom the anecdotes were sent by teachers in all parts of the British Isles. Their authenticity is guaranteed by their senders, and Dr. Macnamara has kept everything out of which is not new.

One of the gems of the collection is a reply to the question: "Who is Mr. Chamberlain?" The answer was: "A man who broke out among other people." Another boy said: "Mr. Chamberlain has a glass and keeps a shop called John Bull's store."

The following, although not from the schoolroom, is delicious in its suggestion of reform: "Please sur, Jonnie was kept home to-day. I have had a sharp cold. It shant occur again. Yours truly, Mrs. Smith."

It must have been a Scotch boy who explained David's preference to be a doorkeeper in the House of the Lord by saying: "Because he could walk about outside while the sermon was being preached."

Occasionally a word which to the childish ear sounds similar to the proper one gives a very humorous turn to an otherwise bald statement of fact. "The marriage customs of the ancient Greeks were that a man had only one wife and it was called monotomy," said one child.

"Thou shalt not kick a ducky," was a four-year-old child's version of the Seventh Commandment. "It was promised for you in your baptism," said a school inspector, "that you would fight against three great evils. Tell me what they are."

"My godfellow and godmothers," was the reply of one youth. "Now, my dear children," said an archdeacon, "I will ask you a few questions in your catechism. Which of you can tell me the two necessary things in baptism?"

"Quite right, 'water.' Water is one thing, and what is the other? What! Can none of you think what else is necessary? Well, little girl what do you say?"

"Little girl: 'Please, sir, a baby.' Teacher (after class had read of St. Paul's adventures among the barbarians of Melita): "What is a barbarian?"

Pupil: "A man who cuts hair, sir!" Surely it was an Irish child who explained that under the Salic law no woman could become a king. Another definition which will not appeal to every post is: "Poetry is when every line begins with a capital letter."

"Oliver Goldsmith was one of the greatest poets in Ireland and his father was a clergyman. He wrote the Deserted Village, the Unauthorized Virgin, and many others." A Standard V. boy, gives the following information about the pig: "A pig when living has four legs, but when you kill it the butcher says it only has two, because he calls the front legs shoulders and the back legs are called hams. Ham tastes nice and they boil it to eat at a wedding. The missis sprinkles little bits of toast on it to make it look pretty."

The hare is dealt with by a youthful author in Standard III. in the following manner: "Young Hairs are called leveretts. Hairs sleep much. They always sleep with their eyes open. Hairs have no eyelashes. Their four legs are shorter than their hind legs. Their ear-ring is remarkably good. Hairs pass their lives in solitude and silents. They are often hunted on horseback and by hounds."

A natural history tyro has quaint ideas about the camel. "It's nest," he says, "is a very mean one made of twigs leaves, etc. It has a large body and is able to carry it full of water. It has two humps of fat on its back on which it is able to feed when it is hungry. Its feet are webbed, in which it is able to cross the desert. Its air is used to make brushes which are used for painting. It also lays eggs. It eats worms."

The following incident occurred a few weeks ago. Scene—History lesson to Standard III. on the "Loss of the White Ship."

Teacher—"It is said that after King Henry heard of the death of his son he never smiled again." Boy (who has been deeply interested in the story)—"Please, miss, what did he do when they tickled him?"

The following answer to a physiology question was written by a boy who evidently tried to "make the most of it."

Q. What are the lungs? Where are they placed? What are they used for? A. The lungs are in number; they are organs of the body; they are "bee-hived" in shape; they are situated in the abdomen and are used for thinking purposes.

"A short time ago," says a teacher, "I was taking a lesson on the use of the hyphen. Having written a number of examples on the black-board, the first of which was 'bird-cage,' I asked the boys to give a reason for putting the hyphen between 'bird' and 'cage.' After a short silence one boy who is among the dunces held up his hand and said, 'It is for the bird to perch on, sir.'"

"Please excuse little Mary from attending school this afternoon, as she has an illustrated throat, with glaciers on both sides," was a note sent to a teacher.

It was plexitime. Wordy warfare was being waged between two cherubic little brothers of four or five summers "as I drew near," says the teacher:

"Please, can Stanley play on my harp?" cried the bigger.

"Yes, I shall; yes, I shall!" taunted little Stanley, dancing with mischievous joy.

WHAT PUZZLES HIM.

Andrew Lang in Difficulties About the Ghostly Appearances and Disings of These phant in the Flesh.

That the phantasms of the living may "walk" just as ghosts do I take to be certain, and give examples. A few weeks ago a lady of my kin, say, Miss FitzAllan, dressed very early for dinner (she was tastefully frocked in pink), and went into the drawing room, where she sat writing letters. As she wrote she thought more than once of going to visit a sick friend in an establishment about a hundred yards distant. For an ordinary domestic reason she did not go. To her enter a lady, resident in the aforesaid establishment, who had been invited to dinner. The lady gaped on her in amazement. As she left the door of the place where she lived, she explained, she had seen in front of her Miss FitzAllan, dressed in gray, walking in the direction whither she was going. She was about to say, "May you will be late for dinner," but, having only a back view of the appearance, she waited till they should come to the first corner. If the appearance in gray turned to the right at the corner she must be Miss FitzAllan, for that route led only to her front door. By the time they reached the corner the guest was within touch of the appearance, which did go round the corner. Being thus certain that the appearance was indeed Miss FitzAllan, the other lady put forth her hand to touch her on the shoulder. Personal! There was no body, no appearance, any more. The phantasm of Miss FitzAllan had been "walking" like a ghost where she herself merely thought of going.

I could add largely to these anecdotes of the living who "walk;" indeed, I have seen three of them, of whom only one was dying when I viewed him, a hundred miles away from his death bed. The two others (one of them was merely normal) were not aware that they had been thinking of me, or of the places in which I saw them, my guest in one case; in the other, the hall of an ancient house. What does puzzle me is the question—How do these appearances open doors, as they certainly seem to do? Is the door really shut, and is its opening part of the hallucination? A lady of my friends, who is much too familiar with appearances to trouble herself about them, tells me that, when staying at an English country house, she saw "the funniest ghost I ever saw. I was standing at my dressing table, and looked round. The ghost was an ugly little flabby ghost, crumpled loose in a chair beside the fire. Now, the funniest thing is that the chair was a ghost, too. There was not any chair in that part of the room."

Perhaps the opening door is the ghost, too," or the opening of it is, for the door is there, all right.

If we admit, then, that "the spirits of the living" can thus impress themselves on us, as if they were the actual people whom we know, may we not attribute similar impressions of the presence of the dead to the agency of the spirits of the dead? In speaking of "spirits" I was flying in the face of science, of course, but I use the word because it is part of our language, and without prejudice. One cannot say that the "consciousness" of the living is the agency which produces on us these false impressions of the actual presence of the living, because the living are not usually conscious that they are producing any such effects at all. They may think, or dream, or go to sleep, or have been at a place, where they did not go, and you or I may suppose ourselves to see them there, but they are not conscious of it. Consequently, if you or I see a person at a given place, a phantasm of a person unknown to us, coming out from our description that the person did exist, but is dead it does not follow that the dead man's consciousness is aware, any more than the living persons who appear are aware, usually, that their appearance have been "walking," or have been observed. This is rather a comfort, I think. The dead man may be at ease in his consciousness, though his phantasm is seen haunting some scene with which, in life, he was familiar. At most he may give the place a thought as Miss FitzAllan thought of going in the place where her appearance was seen.—Andrew Lang, in The Country Gentleman.

Told by a Finger Print.

The Sydney, New South Wales, courts have just demonstrated the importance of the finger-print system as a means of identifying a criminal. A young man charged with burglary has been found guilty in a case where the Crown relied solely upon the evidence of finger-prints. The burglar, in gaining entry to the building broke the glass of a window and left the impression of his hand in the dust. This was photographed and the exhibit was produced in court. The jury returned a verdict in a few minutes of guilty.

This was the first case of the kind in the Commonwealth. But it was quickly followed by another. The accused, who was charged with breaking and entering, left the impression of his hand on a newly-painted door. This was photographed, and found to correspond with an impress of the hand of the prisoner. In this case also a verdict of guilty was quickly reached.

Senior Sergeant Childs, the officer in charge of the finger-print department at Sydney, says he considers the system almost infallible. The cases were watched with the greatest interest by the police, jail and justice department officials.

Human Sacrifices in India.

A startling instance of human sacrifice performed by Hindus is reported from Dacca. The victims, who consisted of one man and thirteen women, were killed with great ceremony at one of the shrines to appease their deity, who had stricken the place with great misfortune. The custodians of a wealthy shrine in Western India have been murdered by Dacoits and the treasure looted,

Foresters' Orphans Home

The Foresters' Orphans Home on Foresters' Island, Deseronto, erected for the care and education of orphaned children of members of the Independent Order of Foresters was dedicated 27th August, 1904, and arrangements are being made to open it for its great work in July next. The benefits of the Home are intended for orphans of the I.O.F. in all jurisdictions and in all lands. Irrespective of race, creed or climate, its doors will open to them, and a hearty sympathetic welcome will await them. Another movement initiated by the S.C.R. is the erection of a Home for sick and aged members, where they may enjoy the balmy breezes of the Pacific and rest free from care. The order itself was founded in 1874 and has enjoyed an uninterrupted career of prosperity, until from an infant it has grown to be a giant among fraternal orders, having a membership of 230,000, with a reserve on hand of nine million dollars. This is financially the strongest fraternal insurance order in this continent, having a considerably larger reserve pro rata to the thousand of insurance than any other society; as may be seen by reference to the latest government reports.

LESS DISPUTES THAN IN FORMER YEARS—Fatalities and Their Causes.

The Labor Gazette for January, in addition to its usual monthly survey of conditions of employment, trade disputes, immigration returns, industrial accidents, etc., contains a series of special reviews, dealing with the calendar year of 1904 from an industrial and labor standpoint.

The leading article gives a detailed account of the general condition of industry throughout Canada. The year on the whole shows a somewhat lower degree of activity than was reported under the usual conditions of expansion which prevailed during 1903, though in the great majority of the branches a very favorable advance occurred in several localities, notably in Western Canada. The wages movement, as compared with 1903, was practically stationary, though farm and unskilled labor received higher remuneration than ever before. Prices of staple commodities were on the whole higher than in 1903, rents in particular showing a marked increase.

In the number of strikes and lock-outs, the year showed a great improvement as compared with 1903, the total number of disputes in existence being 103 as compared with 160 in the preceding year, and 123 in 1902. The number of workmen involved in strikes during 1904 was 15,965, and the loss of time in working days approximately, 278,956.

A review deals with the industrial accidents which were reported as occurring in Canada during 1904, this being the first return of the kind ever presented in the Dominion. These statistics are carefully analyzed from various points of view. The railway service with a total of 243 fatalities was shown to involve the greatest amount of personal danger to employees, though heavy returns were also shown under the heading of mining with 106 fatal accidents, general transport with 100 fatal accidents and the lumbering and saw-milling industry with 69 fatal accidents. Comparatively few fatalities were reported in the other branches of employment. Among the branches reporting accidents which did not result fatally the metal trades stood first with 492, the railway service following with 391. Under general transport 169 accidents of this class were reported, in the building trades 153, in the agricultural industry 137, and amongst unskilled laborers 121. A large number of the fatal accidents reported to agriculturists are shown to have been the result of farmers being struck by trains while marketing their produce. In the lumbering industry the largest number of fatal accidents were caused by falling trees. In mining, explosions caused the greatest loss of life. In the building trades the largest number of fatalities resulted from workmen falling from buildings. In the metal, woodworking, food and tobacco preparation and leather trades the great majority of the injuries, fatal and otherwise, were received by workmen while employed about machinery.

"Raffles" Stories in The Mail and Empire

Mr. E. W. Hornung's stories of "Raffles: the Amateur Cracksman" are universally admitted to be the most fascinating tales of criminal adventure ever written. The character of Raffles, the gentleman burglar and jewel-robber, is one new to fiction; the story of his exploits excel in vigor and thrilling interest the work of any other modern writer. The Mail and Empire will begin publication in the Daily on May 13th and Weekly edition on May 18 of Mr. Hornung's new series of "Amateur Cracksman" tales, which have never before appeared in periodical form.

The first of these tales, "The Ides of March," introduces Raffles and his faithful companion, "Bunny," in their first and most exciting burglary of the great jewel store. One of these new tales will appear every Saturday in The Daily Mail and Empire, as well as in the Weekly edition for the next three months.

Orders taken at the office of this paper for The Weekly Mail and Empire and Athens Reporter to be mailed to any address in Canada, Great Britain or the United States from now until Jan. 1st, 1906, for 75 cents.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. 1X MAY 22TH, 1905.

The Crucifixion—John 19: 17-30.

Commentary.—I. The journey to Calvary (v. 17). 17. Bearing His cross—All the preparations having been made, the sad procession started. In advance was a soldier carrying a board on which was written the nature of the crime. Then came four soldiers, under a centurion with the hammer and nails, guarding Jesus, who bore, as always in such cases, the cross on which He was to suffer. Then came two robbers, each bearing his cross and guarded by four soldiers. As they went forth into the streets they were followed by a great multitude—many with eager curiosity, priests exulting over their enemies, Jesus' mother, with other women, weeping—Lange. On the way to the place of crucifixion it is evident that Jesus became exhausted, because of what He had undergone during the night, and sank under the weight of His cross, which He was carrying. The soldiers then compelled a man, from Africa, Simon of Cyrene, who was coming into the city, to assist Jesus. Went forth—He now goes "even unto death" (Phil. ii. 8). A skull—A bold, round, skull-like hillock, probably the ordinary spot for executions—Golgotha—Golgotha is the Hebrew word and Calvary the Latin word for the same meaning. It was without the gate (Heb. xii. 12). Christ died as a sin-offering, and sin-offerings were burnt "without the camp." II. The crucifixion (v. 18). 18. They crucified Him—It was nine o'clock in the morning, the hour of the usual morning sacrifice of which Jesus, the Lamb of God, was the great Antitype. Jesus was probably nailed to the cross before it was raised. "The cross was not so lofty and large as in most medieval pictures. The feet of the sufferer were only a foot or two above the ground—a fact of some weight, as showing that Jesus suffered in the midst of His persecutors, and not looking down from above their heads."—Schaff. It was at this time that they offered Christ "wine mingled with myrrh" with a view to producing stupefaction. He tasted it but refused to drink, as it would obscure the clearness of His faculties (Matt. xxvii. 34). Two other with Him—The two thieves crucified with Him may have belonged to the band with Barrabas. They evidently knew something about Christ. One mocked, the other repented. III. The title of the cross (v. 19-22). 19. Pilate wrote a title—"It was the common custom to affix a label to the cross giving a statement of the crime for which the person suffered." In this case Pilate himself affixed the title. King of the Jews—Although written by a wicked Roman ruler, probably as an expression of contempt for the Jews it is not for Jesus, yet it told the exact truth—Jesus was the King of Kings. 20. Written in Hebrew—For the Jews. Greek—For the foreigners and visitors. Latin—For the Romans. "Power, culture and piety in their noblest forms pay homage at the feet of Jesus." 21. Then said the chief priests—"The chief priests and their masters were being insulted by the Roman governor. But that he said—But Jesus never said this in the sense in which they here accuse him (see chap. xviii. 33-37). "They thought this would shift the guilt, making it appear that Jesus was crucified for usurping a title to which he legally had no claim."—Ryle. 22. What I have written—"I will not alter what I have written." The Roman laws forbade the sentence to be altered when once pronounced. IV. Christ's garments divided (v. 23, 24). 23. The soldiers—"They were Romans, four in number. They probably knew nothing about Jesus and were acting merely as executioners. Look His garments—"The clothes of executed criminals were the prerogatives of the soldiers on duty.—Cam. Bib. His garments consisted of His tunic, outer robe, head-dress, girdle, sandals, coat—The tunic or undergarment was made of their own free will, but in doing what they did they unconsciously fulfilled the Scriptures. "God does not control free will, but he uses it."—Peloubet. During the forenoon, from nine o'clock till noon, the crowd which gathered and the rulers of the Jews, the soldiers, mocked him, and one of the robbers crucified with Him railed on Him. But toward noon, while the crowd was mocking, the other robber asked for and received pardon, and was promised an immediate entrance into Paradise. There were seven sayings of Christ spoken from the cross. His first saying was a prayer for His enemies (Luke xxiii. 34). His second saying was spoken to the dying malefactor at His side (Luke xxiii. 43). V. Jesus provides for His mother (v. 25-27). 25. His mother—"It is generally supposed that she was a widow at this time. She was there watching her Son and suffering with Him. Mother's sister, etc.—It is uncertain whether there are three or four women referred to here. If this clause is in apposition to "Mary the wife of Cleopas," there are only two women mentioned, there are four; and the Greek, like the English, leaves us in doubt. If four women are intended then "His mother's sister" must refer to Salome, the wife of Zebedee and mother of John, the author of this gospel. This would make John a first cousin of Jesus. Wife of Cleopas—Called also Alphaeus (Matt. x. 3); not the same as the "Cleopas" of Luke xxiv. 18. This Mary was the mother of James the less and Jesus (Mark xv. 40). Mary Magdalene, a woman of Magdala, she was the first to see Jesus after His resurrection. 26. Saw His mother—"He saw and recognized His mother and arranged for her future. Dismissed—He told—This was John, the author of this Gospel. Woman—This was a customary form of address, and was not spoken with any lack of love. Thy son—Accept from him the care and protection that a mother would expect from a son. 27. "My mother

BA, BA-A-A IS MEAL CALL. Foolish Society Women Bring Up Lambs With Nursing Bottles.

Winsted, Conn., May 15.—Baby lambs to the number of a score are being brought up on nursing bottles by society women. The lambs seem to like it.

Every druggist in town has a patent lamb food for baby lambs, and each bottle goes a guarantee that the lamb will thrive better on it than upon the original mother's milk. The mothers of the lambs are young women and they are taking great interest in their charges.

BA-a, BA-a-a-a-a is the meal call and is sufficient to cause the widest excitement in the homes in which the lambs are temporarily boarding.

Everybody has forsown eating lamb chops or spring lamb, for fear that they may consume their neighbor's pet. The lambs were made motherless, until their adoption, by dogs raiding a flock of sheep owned by B. B. Moore and killing about thirty. Out of the thirty killed, twenty five lambs were left destitute of supplies.

INCUBATOR BABIES.

Two Wealthy Toronto Families Hit on Scheme of Adopting Them.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Attorney Donovan, who during the Fair, had charge of the incubator exhibit, today said that a deed and all the necessary papers of adoption had been applied for by two wealthy families of Toronto, Canada, for a boy and girl kept alive and developed by the incubator.

This was one of the most popular features of the exposition. Mr. Donovan says that he pledged himself to the utmost secrecy as to the identity of the person by whom these children will be cared for, but admitted that they were very wealthy, and that both families had been life-long friends.

Neither having any bodily heirs to leave their property to, and not wanting their money to be scattered, they agreed upon this plan, depending, of course, to a certain extent, upon their ability to bring about a union with those young folk when they have reached their majority.

The laws of Missouri in relation to adoption are the same as in real estate or any commercial deal. The main requisite is that those who are taking a child must have a reputable name, with sufficient means to educate and maintain the charge upon a respectable plan.

The cause for Mr. Donovan's secrecy is for the sake of those adopting the children, as the circumstances attending upon their adoption might, if published, work greatly to their embarrassment and humiliation when the youngsters are grown. A deed of transfer makes it impossible for their parents to resume charge of the children.

VLADIVOSTOCK FLEET.

Believed to be Piloting a Way for Rojestvensky's Ships.

A St. Petersburg cable: The admiral's decision to divulge any information which it has about the ships of the Vladivostok division which are reported to be off the coast of Japan, but the impression prevails in naval circles that acting under the instructions of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky they have passed through Tugaur Strait into the Pacific on a reconnaissance to ascertain if the passage is free of mines and feasible for Rojestvensky's squadron, and also to threaten Japanese commerce.

All the Russian naval division now in the far east are acting under Rojestvensky's orders. M. Yronski, the military expert of the Novoe Vremya, explains that the failure of Field Marshal Oyama to undertake an advance as well as the failure of the Japanese to send an expedition to the island of Sakhalin are due to the appearance of Rojestvensky's squadron in Chinese waters.

"In his hands now is the destiny of the far east," the paper says, "May God grant him success."

The fleet approaches the imperial guard for not going to the front, saying: "This place is on the battlefield. In all Russia's wars the guard has won glory. It is composed of the picked men of the empire and should show the world what Russia can do."

THE ROONEY MURDER CASE.

Relatives of Miss Lowry Give Evidence.

Dr. Guest Explains the Result of the Post-mortem.

Conflicting Stories Told by Mrs. Covell.

A Rodney report: The adjourned preliminary investigation into the charges against Alex. Willis and Mrs. Benjamin Covell of murdering Eliza Lowry was opened in McCollum Hall at 10 a.m. The first witness was Dr. Guest, St. Thomas, who, with Dr. Patterson, of Rodney, made a post-mortem examination of the remains of deceased. They found bruises on the face, on the forehead and chin, and the point of the nose, which was pressed to the right. After removing the top of the head they found the outer covering healthy, and removing this found an effusion of blood at the base and left lobe of the brain. They found an external injury to the left temporal region. The skull was not fractured.

There was also evidence of the deceased having been injured about the body, which could not have been naturally produced. Had the cherry-stick found been used it would have produced similar injuries. The poker found in Eliza Lowry's room could have produced the injuries found. He found evidence of attempt to wantonly assault the deceased. After receiving the wounds the deceased would have lived about four hours.

James Lowry, of Rodney, brother of the murdered woman, said that she was at his home nine days before the murder. He was at the Covell house the morning after the murder and spoke to Mrs. Covell, who was seated on a chair. He could not repeat what she said more than that a party came to the door about 12 o'clock and that she and witness sister looked out of the window and saw a man. The man broke the door in and said he wanted money and more than that. She said she gave the man the pocketbooks. He related the story as told by Mrs. Covell to numerous parties. She told witness she had a good view of the man's face, that she had never seen him before, and that she could recognize him if she saw him again.

John Lowry, farmer, of Rodney, a nephew of the deceased, said she lived with him and paid nothing for her keep, and that he had seen her at the Covell house off and on for four or five weeks before the murder. Witness said that he saw the mark of the ball of a foot at the cherry tree from which the limb had been taken. A pair of rubbers found in the house were produced and witness said that he did not think the rubbers produced would make the foot mark that he had seen.

William Cole, farmer, near the Covell house, testified to seeing the prisoner Willis, passing his house about 7 o'clock on the morning of the murder. He wore a yellowish coat and witness identified the coat found by Detective Rogers at the Willis house as the coat Willis wore that morning.

Bella Jane Cole, the eleven-year-old adopted daughter of the former witness, corroborated the evidence as to seeing Willis pass her father's house that morning.

A. J. Leiber, undertaker, Rodney, conducted the funeral of Eliza Lowry. He saw Willis that Wednesday and he had an injury on his face and head, and he told witness it was caused by a knife and by being hit with a stick. She told him that she had seen the man quite plainly and could identify him.

Justice Miscarried. NAN'S TRIAL WAS BY NEWSPAPER, NOT BY JURY.

New York, May 12.—Nan Patterson, at one time a Florida girl, was released from the Tombs prison, after almost a year within its walls, before determination of the charge that she had murdered Caesar Young, a race track bookmaker. She will leave for Washington this afternoon. Her release was made at the instance of District Attorney Jerome, who said he did not believe another trial would result other than a disagreement. At the same time he declared that there has been a serious miscarriage of justice. He said many of the newspapers had labored to create sympathy for the girl, and that this case had "caused one more step in this country towards trial by newspaper rather than trial by jury." He approved of all his assistant, Mr. Rand, had done or said, in conducting the case, and added: "The people for whom I care approve our action. From the sane part of the community we have received nothing but fairness. I have information that admits of no doubt that there was unanimity in the jury room on three points: First, Morgan Smith bought the pistol; second, Nan Patterson took the pistol in the fist with her; third, Caesar Young did not commit suicide. I ask that the prisoner be discharged on her own recognizance."

As Miss Patterson left the criminal court room she was met at the threshold by her father, who threw his arms around her, and exclaimed, "Thank God, my daughter!"

Morgan Smith and his wife, Mrs. Julia Smith, Nan Patterson's sister, were discharged from custody by Judge Foster in the court of general sessions to-day.

Bradstreet's on Trade. Montreal trade reports to Bradstreet's say: The quieter tone reported last week as existing in trade generally here still continues to be felt in nearly all lines.

The arrival of the first ocean vessels and the consequent opening of navigation has helped this improvement. There is still a fair movement of seasonable goods, and trade generally has a fairly healthy tone, and the volume of goods moving by water and rail is fairly heavy.

Complaints are being heard in the matter of remittances and the number of renewals being asked for is increasing. Values of commodities generally are steady to firm.

Toronto advises to Bradstreet's say: Wholesale trade here generally has a seasonably quiet tone. Stocks of summer goods are not moving any too well.

Retailers, both of the city and country, have placed fairly generous orders with the wholesalers, but there is no sign of alarm on this account. There is a fair business doing in groceries, and the hardware trade is exceedingly busy.

Prices in these lines have generally a firm tone. The backward spring has given a quieter tone to the demand for dry goods. Collections from all parts of the province are coming in fairly well, but from the Northwest they are still slow.

At Quebec there is a fair volume of business being done in the several lines, especially hardware. Local industries appear to be well employed, and conditions, generally, are reported satisfactory. Collections show improvement, and the outlook is favorable.

Reports from Winnipeg say: There is a fairly good wholesale trade moving for the time of the year, although the country merchants are well supplied with spring and summer goods. There is perhaps a feeling that the dealers have rather overstocked in some lines. Heavy goods are coming in well, following the opening of navigation. The farmers are finishing seedling operations, after which there should be a better tone to country trade.

Victoria and Vancouver reports say: Warmer weather has given a more active air to general business conditions here. Collections are fairly improving.

"IT SAVED MY LIFE"

PRAISE FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Just In Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words."

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money on medicines besides, but all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain, with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, my monthly periods started; I am regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day."

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

LOVE AND A TITLE

Mr. Lambton is a little man, very round, and rather inclined to fatness. His one great ambition is to figure as a country squire, and accordingly he dresses for the part, blue coat, Melton cord, gaiters, all complete. But, alas, the cockney accent in his speech, the cockney shrewdness in his face, betray him, and he is as unlike an old English squire as a lion in the den of the Zoological Gardens is unlike the monarch of the forest.

many colonies, a large and ever-increasing commerce—but no climate." That French geographer wringed us. We have every climate. It is the charming, then "English temperature should be the most charming temperature under the sun. It is not unusual for us to have winter in spring and spring in winter; one day roads may be hard with frost, and the sky heavy with snow; the next we walk through slush, and the sky is an Italian blue. Yes, the French historian is wrong. We have a dozen climates that a week after the park skating party there is a most resolute thaw—the roads are slushy, the sky is blue and genial, and King Frost seems so long dead as never to have reigned.

I saw it there," and she points to the wet canvas. "I saw you from above, and came down. Do you know that it is nearly dusk—nearly blind-man's holiday? Wait, you finish for to-day!" Hal jumps up and closes his eyes. Vernon Vane leans back and stares at his canvas. "Where have you been, Jen?" asks Hal. "At the Park," answers Jeanne. "Always at the Park," retorts Hal; "you nearly live there."

NATURAL AND ARTIFICIAL INCUBATING AND BROODING.

While the artificial incubation of eggs and the artificial rearing of chickens are now in common practice, by far the greater part of the poultry raised throughout the country is hatched and reared by the mother fowl, and we shall, therefore, give first, as briefly as may be, a few directions for the management of clucking hens and young chicks, touching further down on artificial methods of rearing.

BEER OF THE ROYAL BREW. SAVED THE BABY.

The royal family of Bavaria has from time immemorial been known to favor the principal brewery of all Germany. The famous Hofbrau house, or royal brewery, was established in September, 1589, by Duke William of Bavaria, and has become one of the national institutions of the country. No one who has not been in Munich can form any idea of the grim, dingy tavern in which the royal beer has been sold at retail for the last 300 years, and which forms part of the ancient palace of the Dukes of Bavaria.

NATIONAL RECORDS.

The efforts made by the leading stockmen of Canada, with the encouragement of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, for a national system of recording purebred live stock were successfully culminated at Ottawa last week, when leading stock breeders from throughout Canada, representing various breeds, signed an agreement with the Minister of Agriculture for the co-operation of his department and appointed a National Record Committee, to take the responsibility of managing matters of common interest to the various record societies.

RUSSIA'S ROYAL TOMB.

The uprisings in Russia, with the many desperate attempts on the lives of the royal family, have attracted attention to the remarkable tomb where Russia's royalty is buried. Tourists who are accustomed to the monuments that adorn the tombs of Western rulers of ancient and modern times will be amazed to find that nothing so big and bold as the marble marks the spot beneath which lie an emperor or an empress, a grand duke or a grand duchess of Russia.

A SO-CALLED VIRTUE.

Restoration is all right only when every other expedient has failed. The woman who loses six children out of seven and sits down and weeps, saying, "The Lord liveth, the Lord liveth away," is generally the woman who doesn't know enough to feel her children are really hers. Time Lord took them away, when all the time it was the cake, candy and pie she allowed them to eat. To say "It is for the best," and to fold hands, is sometimes a coward's subtlety; often a matter of indifference; in many cases a lack of individuality. Time enough to think it is for the best when we find it is truly inevitable. And the inevitable things of the world are mighty few.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

POOR, WATERY BLOOD.

Poor, watery blood—pale blood—is the cause of every pale complexion. Bad blood, filled with poisonous impurities—is the cause of every bad complexion. Bad blood is responsible for eruptions and pimples, and torturing, burning, itching eczema. These troubles can only be cured through the blood, and the only medicine that actually makes new blood—rich, pure, health-giving blood—is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The new blood which these pills make reaches every organ and part of the body. It clears the complexion, banishes pimples, cures eczema, and brings health, strength and happiness. Miss Lizzie Lobsinger, Carlsruhe, Ont., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the best medicine I know of for cleaning the blood of impurities. My blood was in a bad condition, and as a result I was not only weak and run down, but was troubled with pimples and eruptions. I tried several medicines, but they did not help me. Then I was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these soon relieved me of all my troubles. I can recommend the pills to any one suffering from bad blood."

How the Czar Spends the Day.

The Czar gets up at 7 o'clock and breakfasts on tea and toast. After working two hours he waits for an hour in his park. In the afternoon he takes a drive, and then works hard till 11 o'clock at night. He is usually invited to his dinner, which is French and children he usually conducts in French or English to prevent the students from understanding them.
