"HORSE SENSE."

"The boy has horse sense. I never knew him to spend a dollar foolishly in his life." This terse statement, somewhat unusual in its simplicity, constituted the whole of a letter of recommendation once given by a man well known in the public life of Michigan as an introduction for a boy who was seeking a bank position in one of the larger cities of the State.

It rightly. Cultivate horse sense—it can be cultivated. When you undertake a thing think about it; look on all sides of it; strip it of all glamour and give it honest inspection. This isn't wasting time; it is simply knowing your ground as any wise general does when he plans a campaign.

Do they know that "Romish" Poland, "Popish" Spain and "papist" France, Sent their ships to aid our struggle—warlike men with gleaming lance? Have they heard of great Pulaski, Rochambeau and Lafayette, The immortal Kosciuszko, whose fame's sun shall never set.

The Coronation Declaration

The Duke of Norfolk intends to repeat this year the demonstration against the Coronation declaration. The Duke of Norfolk has now given notice to move "that whereas, under the Bill of Rights and the Act of Settlement, the Sovereign is required to join in communion with the Church of England, as by law established, and ample securities are provided to secure the Protestant succession to the Crown; and whereas, in addition to these securities the Sovereign is required, immediately after his accession, to make a declaration commonly called the declaration against transubstantiation, which is deeply and needlessly offensive to many millions of loyal subjects of His Majesty, this House is of opinion that the declaration aforesaid ought to be amended so as not to include the condemnation or repudiation of specific doctrines, which form part of the conscientious beliefs of any of His Majesty's subjects."

Children's Corner

A YOUNG M.D. Mr. Burbank stood in the front hall drawing on his gloves, preparatory to going out in the storm. His face was very grave, and as he patted Danny Small's brown head he said: "We can't be too careful, Mr. Small; do what we will, it means a hard pull for this lad's mother. She needs absolute quiet and a mind free from worry. The children must be so many mice; and Danny, here, is going to do his part—be my assistant."

REMEMBER—THE LITTLE MEMBER!

You may keep your feet from slipping And your hands from evil deeds, But to guard your tongue from tripping— What unceasing care it needs! Be you old or be you young, Oh, beware, Take good care Of the tittle-tattle, telltale tongue!

THE RHEUMATIC WONDER OF THE AGE BENEDICTINE SALVE

This Salve Cures RHEUMATISM, PILES, FELONS or BLOOD POISONING. It is a Sure Remedy for any of these Diseases.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS RHEUMATISM

What S. PRICE, Esq., the well-known Dairyman, says: 212 King street east. Toronto, Sept. 18, 1903. DEAR SIR,—I wish to testify to the merits of Benedictine Salve as a cure for rheumatism. I had been a sufferer from rheumatism for some time and after having used Benedictine Salve for a few days was completely cured.

12 Bright Street, Toronto, Jan. 15, 1902. DEAR SIR,—It is with pleasure I write this word of testimony to the marvellous merits of Benedictine Salve as a certain cure for Rheumatism. There is such a multitude of alleged Rheumatic cures advertised that one is inclined to be skeptical of the merits of any new preparation.

PILES

7 Laurier Avenue, Toronto, December 16, 1901. DEAR SIR,—After suffering for over ten years with both forms of Piles, I was asked to try Benedictine Salve. From the first application I got instant relief, and before using one box was thoroughly cured. I can strongly recommend Benedictine Salve to any one suffering with piles.

BLOOD POISONING

Toronto, April 16th, 1902. DEAR SIR,—It gives me the greatest pleasure to be able to testify to the curative powers of your Benedictine Salve. For a month back my hand was so badly swollen that I was unable to work, and the pain was so intense as to be almost unbearable. Three days after using your Salve as directed, I am able to go to work, and I cannot thank you enough.

John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR,—I write unsolicited to say that your Benedictine Salve has cured me of the worst form of Bleeding Itching Piles. I have been a sufferer for thirty years, during which time I tried every advertised remedy I could get, but got no more than temporary relief. I suffered at times intense agony and lost all hope of a cure.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER'S SPEECH.

The tolerance, good temper and patriotism of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech on the Dundonald affair will silence the race cry of the partisans.

OLOGUES GR'R'S.

The closing of the schools brings the annual crop of complaints against the educational methods of the day.

It is distressing to think where it may all end. But without professing any technical or special knowledge, and drawing only upon what the newspapers publish, we imagine the remedy must be sought for at the beginning of the educational career of the modern child.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Balfour's Cabinet is threatened with disaster. The strongest political party of modern times is drifting on the rocks and the tide of public favor is fast ebbing away.

CHURCH MUSIC.

An English Catholic makes a protest in the Nineteenth Century against the edict of Pope Pius X. on Church music.

makes the strongest possible case in support of the Pope's action. It is not only with Pope Pius he is dissatisfied, however.

"Does the Holy Father realize," asks our British friend, "the British love for long services accompanied by good and varied music."

Italy and England will feel the insult most keenly. In Italy it has been no uncommon thing to hear the brindisi from La Traviata during the Elevation and in one of the most fashionable churches in London, where the seats are at a shilling, High Mass has been sung to music adapted from Bizet's L'Arlésienne.

Three orations were delivered by members of the graduating class. Mr. G. Kieper spoke on "Education Before the Reformation".

Then the Rev. Father Feherbach made a short address in which he expressed satisfaction with the year's work.

Next came the address to the graduates by Attorney W. J. J. Lee, of Toronto, who said: "Gentlemen of the Graduating Class of 1904:

Your Alumni have been kind enough to do me the honor of asking me to assist at your Commencement Exercises to-day and to speak a few words of advice to you before you sever the ties which bind you to this noble and famed seat of learning.

By the presence here this morning of His Lordship, the Bishop of Hamilton is shown to the Catholics of this diocese the strong and kindly interest which your good Bishop takes in your college, and his presence upon occasions of this kind, serves to perpetuate the great interest which our Holy Mother Church takes in her educational institutions throughout the world.

CHURCHILL FOR HOME RULE.

Lord Randolph Churchill earned the reputation of being the most outspoken man in England. It was he who said of the extremes of rich and poor in his country that their common immorality was the only link between them.

Young Winston Churchill has the family bluntness of speech. He is becoming a Home Ruler and is more than an off-set to Lord Rosebury.

"I say the policy we must pursue towards Ireland is a policy of administrative Home Rule. I say, as my father said in 1890, I do not look forward to the day when there shall be created a separate Parliament in Ireland to be a rival of, and perhaps an enemy of, the central Parliament here at home, but I do most earnestly look forward to the day—I hope I may do something to accelerate it—when Irishmen shall feel themselves free, as they are not now free, when a wise and liberal and sympathetic policy applied to Ireland shall have made Ireland free, as England, Scotland, and Wales are free, when our young men who have to look far out into the future will in the years that are to come turn to each other and ask how it was that through so many years of anxiety and trouble Ireland was a source of danger and weakness to the Empire."

Mr. Balfour's Cabinet is threatened with disaster. The strongest political party of modern times is drifting on the rocks and the tide of public favor is fast ebbing away.

You are also, I have no doubt, building castles in the air of the success which each of you may meet in the different walks to which you are bending all your energies, and for which your college course has been but a probation, an ascent of the first rung of the ladder, upon which at the top you see emblazoned in letters of gold the words "Success" the summit of your earthly ambitions.

EIGHT GRADUATES OF ST. JEROME'S

Annual Commencement Exercises of the College held in the Basement of St. Mary's Church.

Berlin, June 21.—In St. Mary's Hall this morning the annual commencement exercises of St. Jerome's College were held, when the conferring of diplomas, certificates, etc., took place.

There was a good attendance of friends of the college Alumni Union, and of members of the Alumni Union. A good programme of music was furnished by Starnaman's orchestra.

The salutatory was delivered by Mr. William Goodrow, in a capable manner.

Three orations were delivered by members of the graduating class. Mr. G. Kieper spoke on "Education Before the Reformation".

Then the Rev. Father Feherbach made a short address in which he expressed satisfaction with the year's work.

Next came the address to the graduates by Attorney W. J. J. Lee, of Toronto, who said: "Gentlemen of the Graduating Class of 1904:

Your Alumni have been kind enough to do me the honor of asking me to assist at your Commencement Exercises to-day and to speak a few words of advice to you before you sever the ties which bind you to this noble and famed seat of learning.

By the presence here this morning of His Lordship, the Bishop of Hamilton is shown to the Catholics of this diocese the strong and kindly interest which your good Bishop takes in your college, and his presence upon occasions of this kind, serves to perpetuate the great interest which our Holy Mother Church takes in her educational institutions throughout the world.

Upon listening with feelings of surprise to the eloquent addresses just delivered, I have been confirmed in my resolution that a few practical words of advice would be more appropriate upon such an occasion as this, than any attempt to reach the oratorical.

No words of praise from me are needed to supplement the plaudits of your associates or the congratulations of your professors, and the proud satisfaction of your parents and friends, and my duty is to add the final chapter of "musts" and "don'ts."

You go forth to-day from your Alma Mater brightened by the idea that your many years of study of the arts and sciences has equipped you sufficiently for the fight which is about to begin, and that you are now well on your way to the successful callings which each has mapped out for himself.

You leave your Alma Mater to-day laden with sorrow that you are losing so many old and kind associations which helped, during your college career, to lighten the burden of your studies, delighted with the hope that though commencing the battle with the world, you may again on future occasions return to renew the old associations which are so dear to you.

You are also, I have no doubt, building castles in the air of the success which each of you may meet in the different walks to which you are bending all your energies, and for which your college course has been but a probation, an ascent of the first rung of the ladder, upon which at the top you see emblazoned in letters of gold the words "Success" the summit of your earthly ambitions.

You are imbued with lofty ideals; with grand Catholic sentiments; You have been brought up nurtured and matured in the bosom of a great Catholic Institution, whose graduates, like you, have gone forth year after year to labor, and have achieved. But how can you achieve success you may ask, and my answer will be by striving to avoid pitfalls, the mortals and mires which others as bright as you, and as well equipped, have sunk.

You can judge the future by the past, and judging your future by others past, you can succeed. But how to be successful it is necessary, in my opinion, that you must have ambition, for the man without ambition, is like a ship at sea without a rudder, tossed by every storm, buffeted by every wave, looking for a friendly port, but never finding it, and in the end dashed upon the rocks and wrecked, going down amidst the waters of life, perhaps feeling that his early years of study and battle at college have been to him of little avail.

Of course it is unnecessary for me to say, gentlemen, that this ambition must be a laudable one and must have an honorable purpose to produce an honorable result.

You must have an object in life which must be constantly before your eyes, your hand must be upon the lever directing your energies and best effort in every honorable way to achieve the object, directing your course and shaping your policy, so to speak, towards its accomplishment.

No man ever became great in the Church or in the State without work. It is the keystone and foundation of success. Honest effort only applied can, has and will overcome the greatest obstacle.

Now, having these attributes of ambition, an objective and work, a young man starts out on his career. What is necessary for him to do, and what must he avoid?

You must be honest, and in this I am not speaking of honesty to others, but to yourself, and honesty to yourself is best shown by honesty to others.

Honesty to your employer and to those who entrust their affairs to you, striving at all times to do your work and accomplish your task in the best possible manner, for it is a trite saying, but a true one, that what is worth doing is worth doing well.

You must be courteous at all times, never giving an insult, and slow in resenting one. Always bear in mind that he is no less a gentleman who refuses to unsheath the sword who is a true Catholic, and you must try to exercise in your conversation and demeanor that charity of thought, word and action, taking your cue from our great Creator, so that the world may learn by your example that you are a true type of a Catholic gentleman, and above all when in doubt remember that you should "Do unto others as you would like to be done unto."

You must be manly and straightforward, gentlemanly in your conduct towards others, showing by your every act the seal and stamp of that true Catholic education which you received within these walls, repaying by your lives the honest effort, the unceasing toil and great labor of the President and professors of your Alma Mater who labor without hope of reward, but in the world to come to fit you for the great battle of life.

There was a time in the history of England when a man was not considered a gentleman who could dine without partaking of the flowing bowl, and draining it to the dregs. To-day a man is not considered a gentleman who partakes of the flowing bowl to the extent of being guilty of intemperance.

So mould your lives that when this earthly mission is over, you may lay down the sceptre of a life well spent and your associations and the world at large may say Palmalm qui meruit ferat, and that those who come after you may point with pride to the long list of noble graduates in the different walks of life, of this institution, who may have done honor to their Alma Mater and your Alumni.

The diplomas and certificates were awarded as follows: Diplomas—Cornelius Donovan, Geo. Fisher, Magnus Schumacher, John Winterhalt.

Certificates—John Cwiosk, Daniel O'Shea, Albert Soska, Andrew Szastakowski. Commercial Diplomas were awarded to—Edgar Bauer, Walter Fischer, Stephen Forster, Joseph Hudiel, Herbert Kuntz, Henry Long, Arthur McKeever, Joseph Padden, Leo Stives, Edgar Schlosser, Albert Steffan, Alfred Wintermeyer, Frank McCann.

After the exercises lunch was served at the College refectory.

Dr. Joseph Loftus, formerly of 198 Spadina Ave., Toronto, has opened up a dental office in St. Catharines at 114 St. Paul street, nearly opposite James street. Telephone 466.

WIFE AND MOTHER-IN-LAW

I told you how it would be, John, before we were married. I knew quite well that it would not last long. The house is not big enough to hold your mother and me, and one of us has got to find other quarters. She's your mother, and I haven't a word to say against her; we don't get on together, and that's the whole truth of the matter."

Strengthened all will be for the trials of our common human lot, fortified as they are against temptation, and the faith of all is refreshed and increased.

THE LOVE OF ALISON BARNARD

BY MARINE TYNAN

The Handsome Branded, &c.

CHAPTER XXIV

Miss Rodney lingered in the castle... She had a way sense of humor... She was always glad to see the ladies from Castle...

That she was about to hear? That the children of the French wife lived? Why, if that was so, she was free of Castle Barnard and the mill-stone trust for ever...

When Alison reached home there were yet some hours before the carriage was to meet the train from Cork which was to bring back Tessa and her escorts...

At the thought of her father Alison's head went up. "I am the child of my father's repentance," Anthony Barnard had said...

As she thought of it the evening sun flooded the western rooms of Castle Barnard with a transfiguration of light. It was like an omen for the future...

She remembered how her sweetie, Kitty Donegan, now Kitty Sweeney, had told her once that she had the name of being the proudest lady in the country...
