

ALL FOR RICHES.

CHAPTER XXIV. THE MIDNIGHT MEETING. (Concluded.)

'Yes; cold and sick. Let us return to the house.'

Half an hour later this brother and sister returned to the mansion, having agreed to write to each other and meet as often as possible.

'He cannot help me to gain possession of my boy,' sighed Mrs. Grant, after Jean had admitted her once more to her room.

'Did you speak to me?' asked the maid.

'No; I was speaking my thoughts. Did Major Grant call at the door during my absence?'

'Yes. He came softly to the door and asked in a whisper if you were asleep. I told him that you would soon be asleep if nothing occurred to disturb you, and he went disconsolately away. I heard him close the door leading to his own private bedroom a moment after.'

'I wish to caution you once more in regard to secrecy about to-night's adventure,' slowly said Mrs. Grant.

'I have been lady's maid for fifteen years,' was the significant reply.

'And hold many family secrets,' responded Mrs. Grant.

'If you only knew what I know,' cried the little maid.

Mrs. Grant held her hands before her as if the very thought of secrets was like the coming of evil, and the maid went on:

'I serve my employers. It is not my business to ask if they do well or ill. You command me to keep the secret of your visit to the old willow to-night. No torture could force me to speak of it to any person.'

'And yet it was only the meeting of two long-separated relatives,' was the half-audible reply.

Jane glanced half incredulously across the table before which her mistress sat.

She had been lady's maid too long to believe that relatives met by stealth after midnight. But it mattered little to her; women of wealth and position would have secrets, and it was no business of hers to pry into them.

There was a general inquiry for Mrs. Grant at the breakfast-table the following morning, and Major Grant assured the family that she was rapidly recovering from the attack of the previous evening.

After breakfast, Mr. Mellen, counselor and attorney at law, took his departure from Laurel Glade.

Mrs. Whitney begged the loan of the carriage in which to accompany her brother to the station.

Major Grant graciously assured her that her wish had been anticipated, and the horses were already in the carriage.

Determined to make the most of this opportunity to see her brother along, Mrs. Whitney hastened their departure, lest Mrs. Grant should suddenly appear and wish to ride with them, or her husband decide to accompany his brother-in-law as far as the railroad station.

Grant Whitney was too indolent to exert himself in the morning, and Mrs. Major Grant felt ill-inclined to meet her brother this morning, and so they departed alone for the station.

HEALTH RESTORED TO THIS FAMILY

Wife's experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food led to husband's cure.

'Since childhood I was afflicted with biliousness and sick headache,' writes Mr. A. K. Van Wyck, Park Hill, Ont., 'and as all the doctors' medicines and prescriptions failed to do me any permanent good, I had lost faith in all medicines. It was by accident that I came to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for I had been recommended for Mrs. Van Wyck and did her so much good that she wished me to try it.'

'I did so, and was surprised at the results. It is now three years since I discontinued the medicine and I have not had an attack of the old trouble. I hope that others may benefit by my experience.'

The cure effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was lasting because it builds up the system and removes the cause of trouble. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50; at all dealers, or Ed. Anderson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CHAPTER XXV. THE SUMMONS.

There had been a change for the worst in the health of Mr. Mellen. Doctor Brown had been called, and he candidly informed the patient watcher beside her father's couch, of suffering that his days were numbered.

'Farmer Mellen can live but a few days at the most,' he said to May, after a careful examination of his patient.

The gentle girl had been so long expecting this announcement that she had thought herself prepared for it; but after all it came like a sudden shock to her.

After Doctor Brown had taken his departure, May went to her little writing desk and wrote two letters, one directed to Mrs. Grant Whitney bearing only these words:

'Father is almost gone. Doctor Brown says he can live but a few days.'

The other, addressed to Christopher Mellen, was a faithful outpouring of her bleeding heart, and covered four pages. This letter (Christy found waiting for him upon his return from Laurel Glade.

During the ride from that place to the station, Mrs. Whitney had brought all her evidence to bear to prove to her brother that Major Grant's wife was their sister.

Had Christopher been other than a shrewd lawyer that he was, he would never have been able to convince her that she was totally at fault, and that Mrs. Major Grant had never been Goldie Mellen.

The power it creates, its purity and wholesomeness are Nature's greatest aid in overcoming disease.

ALL DRUGGISTS

Yet he did this; and Mrs. Whitney rode back to Laurel Glade with a half-penitent feeling because of her steady persecution of the Major's wife, and for a while hostilities ceased, although Mrs. Grant firmly persisted in ruling her household.

The next morning after the departure of Christy, the mail brought two important letters to Major Grant's mansion. One was from the South, from a dearly loved friend of Major Grant's school days.

The friend was dying, and his son had been requested to write to his father's nearest and dearest friend outside of his own family, and asked him to come to his home.

Added to the father's request was an urgent note from the son, who was well known to Major Grant.

After reading this letter in silence, Major Grant passed it across the table to his wife, who glanced down its page and absently asked:

'Shall you go?'

'I cannot refuse this last request of my old friend, although I regret being obliged to leave you for a few days. You will not miss me much, eh?'

'Indeed I shall. You must take me with you,' replied Mrs. Grant, now quite recovered from her slight illness.

'Not to the house of death,' gravely responded her husband.

'I should have known better than to have thought of such a thing. But you will be soon home again?'

'Probably less than a week will suffice for my journey, was the reply.

A slight scream from Mrs. Whitney attracted all attention to her. She had received a letter by the morning's mail, and had delayed opening it until this moment. 'It was the letter from May, and for an instant Mrs. Whitney was thrilled with remorse for her long neglect of her kind father.

Then came the thought that she would use this letter as a final test to determine whether Mrs. Grant had any interest in the name of Mellen.

'What is it, Belle?' asked Grant Whitney, extending his hand for the letter.

'My father is dying!' she replied, in a thrilling tone, at the same time fixing her eyes upon Mrs. Grant's face.

That lady bore the penetrating glance well, and as no one made any reply, she said:

'Of course you will go to him at once, and I shall be left almost alone, I will assist you in getting ready, Belle.'

Her voice was calm and passionless as she spoke, and that had never called Mrs. Whitney by her christian name before.

'I know that Christopher was right and I was wrong,' thought Mrs. Whitney, as she left the room. Pausing in the doorway, she said: 'I must go out to the farm this afternoon. Will you go with me, Grant?'

Grant Whitney shifted his feet from one position to another before he replied:

'Can't possibly, Belle. Should be glad to do so; but you see, if the Major goes South, somebody must be here to look after the place. I'll carry you over to depot, and meet you there when you return if you let me know.'

'Enough! I thought you might like to go. I can get along as well without you.'

'If you insist upon it, Belle.'

'No, indeed! Now I think of it, my brother told me that father was excited by the presence of strangers. I could not consent to take you there if your presence would be likely to cause trouble. I will go alone.'

With these words Mrs. Whitney went out and closed the door.

That afternoon saw Major Grant and Mrs. Whitney start from Laurel Glade—the one for the sunny South, the other for the humble home of her birth and the deathbed of her father who had been so cruelly neglected.

Christy and Winnie were in the same train with Mrs. Whitney. They were going to the farm in answer to the summons from May.

A hurried exclamation, a rustling of silks, a waft of perfume, and Mrs. Grant Whitney floated down the steps of the car, and stood upon the platform at Riverbrook, with one of Christopher's hands and one of Winnie's in her own.

'You are going there?' she asked.

'Yes. Did May write you?'

'She did. Do you think we shall be in season?'

'It would have been better to have gone two years ago, Belle; but I hope God will restore his reason to him long enough for him to know that we stand beside him,' replied the lawyer.

Mrs. Whitney made no answer to the remark, but said to Winnie: (To be continued.)

The Evening Chit-Chat
 By RUTH CAMERON

The other day I chanced to be in a certain business man's office, when the subject of a paper for a wedding present to one of his co-workers was brought around. He put his name down for two dollars—the largest amount subscribed. After we left the office, I spoke highly of his generosity. My companion happened to be an intimate friend of the family. Her lip curled. "Were you ever at his house?" she asked. "No." "You might feel differently if you had been." "I mean that instead of being generous he is one of the most selfish men living," she said. And then, in answer to my request for an explanation, she told me how, despite the fact that he had a fairly good salary, his poor little wife was always scrimp and pinched for money, never went anywhere, had to constantly be trying to make one dollar do the work of two or three, and hadn't a new gown for two years. And all the while he goes about lavishly letting money for little things dribble through his fingers and grandly playing the munificent gentleman. Such generosity is the rankiest kind of selfishness. It's like stealing a blind man's pen-knives in order to make a big contribu-

Fortune Telling
 Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross. Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This Prescription has, for over 30 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to delicate examinations and offensive repugnant examinations. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Puzos's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 50 stamps.

Household Notes.
 Milk is better than eggs for moistening fish before rolling in crumbs.
 Flannel and linen for blouses should be shrunk before the material is cut.
 A level teaspoonful of salt will give flavor to a quart of soup, sauce or vegetables.
 Flatirons will heat better on a gas stove if they are kept covered with a dishpan.
 To apply any lotion to the scalp without making the hair wet use a medicine dropper.
 Rice will absorb three times its measure of water and a larger quantity of milk or stock.
 One cup of sugar will sweeten a quart of any mixture to be served chilled or frozen.
 Fingers roughened by sewing should be well washed in warm water and then gently rubbed with pumice.

When You Feel Cross
 And are worried and irritated you can get the liver right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Life is too short to be cross and grouchy. You not only make yourself miserable, but also those about you. Don't blame others. Blame yourself for not keeping the liver right. There is nothing in the world which will more promptly afford you relief than Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This statement is true. A trial will convince you. Mr. Theo. Bedard, Lac aux Saibles, Portneuf County, Que., writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the best treatment obtainable for indigestion and impure blood. They cured me of indigestion, from which I suffered for four years. A trial will convince you." "This certificate is given without solicitation, so that others may not waste their money buying medicines of no value when they can get Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I am convinced are the best." DRY SACK Sherry
 The choicest product of the famous Sherry district—Spain.
 Welcome to our guest with a bit of cut and a glass of Dry Sack Sherry— it's a graceful, old-time custom now coming into favour. In bottles only— of all good dealers.
 D. O. ROBLIN, Canadian Agent, Toronto. JOHN YACKSON, Resident Agent.

I have often been displeased by a slightly different, yet basically identical, species of that generosity which lavishly gives away what belongs to other people. This is the hospitality of the man who is perpetually inviting guests to his home, despite the fact that his wife has no maid and finds the steady stream of company too heavy a tax on her slender vitality. The many who do not understand, admire this man for his ready hospitality and his cordial manner, and think his wife ungracious when she fails to second his invitations so eagerly. The few who understand realize that he is unwarrantably giving away her strength and time in order to win undeserved praise and liking for himself. There is one thing, I'd love to know about this matter: Do you suppose it's possible that these selfishly liberal folks really believe they are being fine and generous? I wonder.

Fire Alarms Yesterday.
 Boys ran to the Central Station at 3:45 p.m. yesterday and reported a fire at Mr. H. Blatch's residence, Long's Hill. Taking a hose wagon, chemical engine and ladder truck the men responded, found the chimney blazing up and climbing to the roof quenched the blaze with a few buckets of water.
 At 6 p.m. an alarm was turned in for a fire in the basement of the Bank of Montreal, bringing the Central and Western men quickly to the scene. A lot of billets left drying near the furnace ignited and set fire to some waste paper causing a flare up. A few buckets of water thrown on it by the firemen effectually quenched the flames.

THE TEA PENALTY.
 A Strong Man's Experience.
 Writing from a busy railroad town the wife of an employee of one of the great roads says: "My husband is a railroad man who has been so much benefited by the use of Postum that he wishes me to express his thanks to you for the good it has done him. His waking hours are taken up with his work, and he has no time to write himself. "He has been a great tea drinker all his life and has always liked it strong. "Ten has, of late years, acted on him like morphine does upon most people. At first it soothed him, but only for an hour or so, then it began to affect his nerves to such an extent that he could not sleep at night, and he would go to his work in the morning wretched and miserable from the loss of rest. This condition grew constantly worse, until his friends persuaded him to quit tea and use Postum. "At first he used Postum only for breakfast, but as he liked the taste of it, and it somehow seemed to do him good, he added it to his evening meal. Then, as he grew better, he began to drink it for his noon meal, and now he will drink nothing else at table. "His condition is so wonderfully improved that he could not be hired to give up Postum and go back to tea. His nerves have become steady and reliable once more, and his sleep is easy, natural and refreshing. "He owes all this to Postum for he has taken no medicine and made no other change in his diet. "His brother who was very nervous from coffee drinking, was persuaded by us to give up the coffee and use Postum and he also has recovered his health and strength." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

How Very Shocking.

We observe that the editor of the Daily News declares that Mr. McGrath was in such a bad temper on Saturday that his reply to him was "hopelessly unintelligible," and that him about his "splendid self-abnegation and self-sacrificing spirit." It is really too bad of our morning contemporary to make sport of his esteemed brother for the delectation of the multitude. If Mr. McGrath lost his temper with the Daily News, what was the state of his mind when he objected to the Evening Telegram quoting his gratuitous advertisement of our influence with the Bond Administration? He is uncertain whether our action was dictated by effrontery or stupidity, but he inclines to the latter belief. Our respected friend is in error. It was dictated by neither the one nor the other. It was provoked purely by the complexities of the situation, which were enough to provide laughter for all the sons of men.

Mr. McGrath expresses concern that the Evening Telegram was unable to put its editor in the House of Assembly, while utterly oblivious of the fact he sent a Tory editor twice to perdition in Burin, another editor twice to defeat in St. John's East, an ex-editor twice to oblivion in St. Barbe, and a political writer twice to defeat in St. John's East. His concern about us is as funny as his pose "self-abnegation" when candidates for constituencies had to be found and his present desire for "self-effacement" in the Legislative Council.

He is hurt also at the painful necessity of constraining our publication of his editorials as an admission that we are "on the make." How his sensitive soul must shrink from the frequent "insults" he receives in the shape of pay and perquisites as Clerk of the Assembly, Bell Island taxation negotiator, Festival of Empire pamphleteer, local message compiler, and how his Dropped Dead.

By to-day's express we get the news of the sudden death of Baptiste Maxima, of St. Pierre. He went to Sydney a few days ago and got work at Florence, in the coal mines. He had obtained lodgings in one of the shacks there, and fell down suddenly dead of heart failure. The French Consul has arranged to have the body sent to St. Pierre. He was 41 years old.

A druggist can obtain an imitation of MINARD'S LINIMENT from a Toronto house at a very low price, and have it labeled his own product.

This greasy imitation is the poorest one we have yet seen of the many that every Tom, Dick and Harry has tried to introduce.

As for MINARD'S and you will get it.

The Harmony Here.

The s.s. Harmony, Capt. Jackson, arrived here this morning from the Moravian settlements on northern Labrador. She was down as far as Ramah, and visited Okak, Hebron, Makovik, Nain and Hopedale. After leaving Makovik she had fine weather and made the run to St. John's in 7 1/2 days. She has a cargo comprising codfish, trout, salmon, herring, furs, seal skins and seal oil, and brought up these passengers: Messrs. F. C. Hinchley, W. McCallum, A. McNeil, M. Lawlor and Rd. Irving, of Medaperville, Quebec. These men were cruising lumber properties for the Anglo-American Development Co., and had a successful summer.

DEATH OF OLD LADY.—Mrs. Penny, of North Arm, Holyrood, died yesterday in her 79th year. The funeral took place yesterday.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.

LONDON, To-day.

A cyclone has swept the British Isles doing great damage, unroofing houses and destroying shipping.

HERRING BUYERS ARRIVE.—The American schooners Willard, Athlete, Flirt and King have entered at Woods' Island for herring cargoes, and the Arthur James has arrived at Curling.

HIS CONDITION IMPROVED.—Mr. Lloyd Chaplin had a wire to-day from his father saying that Dr. Chaplin was then in a far better condition than when he left Hospital. The message was sent from Summerside, P.E.I.

HERRING IN GREEN BAY.—At Green Bay, especially around Little Bay Island, S. W. Arm and The Arms, large schools of herring made their appearance last week. The fish are of fine size and quality and the people get from 3 to 7 barrels in their nets in a haul.

Ask your Druggist for SERRAVALLO'S TONIC (Bark and Iron Wine). Cures: ANAEMIA, CHLOROSIS, DEBILITY. Delightful taste.

WHAT OF THE FIONA?—Interested persons in the city are to-day asking about the cruiser Fiona. She was reported to be cooling at Harbor Breton last week, and the question asked is, "Is she still there, and is the 'picnic' still on or has she been ordered to China to take part in the suppression of the rebellion now on there?" Perhaps the Premier will enlighten the anxious ones.

Mrs. Connors, 80 years of age, Signal Hill Road, was knocked down by Angel & Co.'s horse while crossing from J. D. Ryan's store this forenoon. The horse stood on her foot and crushed it. Inspector Collins and others including the driver who ran her down assisted the old lady into Rankin's store where Mr. J. Mulcahey helped to examine her wounds. They then sent for a cab and had her driven home.

THE NEWMAN CASE.—The doctrine we laid down in connection with the Casey St. widening was general. If a Councillor has interests in a matter discussed in Council he should disclose it. We do not know that Councillor Mully had any interest whatever in the matter discussed last Friday. No doubt Councillor Mully will make his position clear, as it has been called in question by "Taxpayer" in the Daily News this morning.

Distribution of Prizes at North River.

The annual entertainment of the pupils of North River, and Hall's Town Schools was held in All Hallows High School, North River, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, October 24th and 25th. The programme, which consisted of action songs, solos, recitations and dances, was followed by a very pretty operetta, entitled, "The Fairy Chain," rendered by the pupils with a success that reflects great credit on the teachers. Miss Mary Casey, Principal, and Miss Ethel Cummings, assistant teacher, "All Hallows and Miss Katherine Casey, teacher of Hall's Town school. Owing to the inclemency of the weather on Tuesday evening fear was felt that many would be prevented attending, and the distribution of prizes which was to take place that night was postponed until the next night. But the popularity of these annual entertainments, together with the great success attained by the pupils in their former efforts drew even the most timid from their homes and made one, on gazing around the Hall, forget that outside Jarvis Finlay was at his busiest. At 8:15 Master Walter Aspell announced the first item on the programme. Chorus: "The Flower Gatherers." Immediately after the curtain rose on as pretty a picture as the eye could wish to see. Some 70 or 80 children ranging from the tiny tots of 3 and 4 years in the front row, to the more mature pupils of 16 and 17 in the rear, with smiling faces, bright garments and many-hued ribbons made a regular kaleidoscope of color which was again repeated in the Chorus, "Newfoundland." The action songs, school-room exercises, "The Tall Top Hat" and "Little Washerwoman" were all well rendered and loudly applauded. The recitations by Master Patrick Mahoney, Master Thomas Mahoney, Miss Winnie Hall, Master Gus Hanlon and Miss Josephine Hurley showed each to be possessed of no small share of histrionic ability. The solos by Master Walter Aspell, Master Mark St. Clair, Miss Maggie Brien, Miss May Hall and Miss Rose Hanlon were well rendered as was shown by the loud applause received by each and to which they willingly responded. Miss Bridget Neville, in the Highland Fling, showed herself to be thoroughly "at home" as a graceful stamper. Though it would be hard to single out any one, where all were so good, still the palm must be given to little Rose Hanlon, a tot of five years, who gave an exhibition of dancing for which she was repeatedly encored. In the Operetta, "The Fairy Chain," which made up the second part of the evening's entertainment, Miss Laura Mahoney, as the "Fairy Queen" with her attendants, Misses Annie Cummings and May Hall; Miss Bridget Neville, as the "Princess"; Master John Ashford and Master Walter Stevenson, as the "Prince" and "Ogre," respectively, showed careful training and a thorough grasp of the story which they were portraying; while Master Ronald Neville, as the sprite attendant on the Ogre, was all that we could expect a mischievous spirit to be. The marches and choruses by the other faries in attendance were well rendered as they formed many pretty pictures during the scenes.

After the performance the Rev. Dr. Whelan addressed the pupils and audience on the value of education, and his remarks will, no doubt, sink deep in the hearts of the parents present especially, whose duty and responsibility it is to see that their children are properly prepared for the battle of life. There is no excuse now for not receiving an education, for throughout the Parish schools are scattered, while at North River there is to-day a High School as well equipped and staffed as any of its class in the Island. The prizes, medals, watches and gold crosses, were then presented to the lucky ones with some hearty words of congratulation by Dr. Whelan and were received by them amid the hearty hand-clapping of a well pleased audience.

OBITUARY.

MR. GEORGE BUDGEN.
It is with regret that we record to-day the death of Mr. George Budgen, which sad event occurred at his late residence, 23 Cookstown Road, at 11 o'clock last night. Deceased was stricken with paralysis about twenty months ago and never seemed to have recovered from it to such a degree as would give hope of his ultimate recovery. In September he was taken seriously ill and suffered intensely nearly all the time till relieved of his sufferings by death. He was in his 72nd year, and for a number of years occupied the responsible position of salesman with the Horwood Lumber Co. A widow, two sons and two daughters are left to mourn their sad loss; to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy.

Robbery on Schooner

One of the crew of the schr. Annie C. Hall, lying at Horwood's wharf, says that he had $100 stolen from his trunk on Saturday night. The theft was a bold one. While the skipper and crew were asleep the burglar got on board selected one of the trunks in the cabin and brought it on deck to the wharf where it was found broken open in the morning. Only the money was taken. The case was reported to the police and the Inspector General sent Sergeant Byrne to investigate. He went to the schooner and made strict enquiries of the crew as to the person who visited the vessel during the day. He found out nothing that would help him in making an arrest. The loss to the poor man is a heavy one. He had the money to purchase his winter supplies. Inspector General Sullivan took extreme care this fall to warn the fishermen about strangers visiting their schooners, and went to the trouble to distribute printed notices on board the vessels. No doubt this had a good effect, as this is only the second robbery of the kind so far this fall, whereas last autumn they were of almost daily occurrence.

Indigestion is Ended Forever.

No Heartburn, Gas, Dypesia or Headache five minutes later.
Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.
Eat what your stomach craves without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, Belching, Gas on Stomach, Heartburn, Headaches from stomach, Nausea, Bad Breath, Water Brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes.
If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or Sleepless nights or Headache or Stomach misery all the next day; and besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.
Pape's Diapepsin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of indigestion or Dypesia. There is nothing better for Gas on the Stomach or sour odors from the Stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.
You couldn't keep a fatter or more useful article in the house.

A Timely Sermon.

At last Mass in St. Patrick's Church yesterday which was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Kelly, Rev. Fr. McDermott preached a very timely and forceful sermon on the responsibility of parents and the immorality prevalent at present amongst the youth of the city. He deprecated the sin of drunkenness of which we now hear so much and designated the man a fool who was given to it because he not alone jeopardized his eternal salvation, an awful fact to contemplate, but destroyed his worldly prospects. There were, however, grosser crimes and greater evils and he deplored the fact that young boys and girls are allowed by their parents to wander the streets at all hours of the night, with the result that before their natural guardians are aware of it their offspring have taken the downward grade and enter upon a life of crime. Mothers frequently complain to the clergy of the conduct of their sons but not frequently of that of their daughters whom they should be most careful of. He warned parents against the evil of allowing children to remain on the streets at night, and warned them that God would hold them responsible for the soul of those they had brought into the world.

Juvenile Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Juvenile T. A. Society was held yesterday afternoon when five new members were enrolled and one lad was transferred to the adult society. Next meeting several others will be sent up to the parent society. The President of the senior society, Mayor W. J. Ellis, and Secretary, Mr. Geo. Coughlan, were present at the meeting and were introduced to the members by Mr. Jas. J. Norris, Chairman of Guardians. Mr. Ellis addressed the boys and announced that singing classes would be formed under the direction of Mr. Chas. Hutton. This was received with much satisfaction by the lads. A meeting will be held to-night to make arrangements for the formation of the classes.

MORE POLICE RESERVISTS.—Three able young men—Brown, Fitzgibbon and Sparrow—entered the police force last week, and were on duty for the first time Saturday. They are attached to the Western Station.

At R. C. Cahedra's.

His Grace Archbishop Howley preached at Vespers at the Cathedral last night to a very large congregation. The subject of the discourse was "Immoral Books and Pictures." About two years ago the Archbishop preached a strong sermon on the soul-destroying effects of reading bad books and viewing the pictures against them. A Vigilance Committee of the Priests was formed on that occasion to combat the sale and importation of immoral books and pictures, and their work had not been in vain. In Pagan times there were frightful orgies practised openly reducing human beings to the level of the brute. The art of printing, since invented, has given depraved humanity greater facilities for spreading the vices that poison the soul and corrupt the mind. Printing is a great art and has done much good in the world, but it is regrettable that trends in human shape have employed it to do incalculable evil. The printed immoral book is bad enough but the printed picture is a thousand times worse for it appeals directly to the minds of all those who cannot read as well as those who can. The ingenuity employed by those who prepare these beastial pictures is diabolical in the extreme. In travelling in Italy His Grace had visited the unearthly city of Pompeii. It was destroyed about 2,000 years ago by an eruption of Mount Vesuvius, and having been unearthed about 30 years ago, the streets and dwellings, temples, shops of the city as revealed are exactly in the same condition as they were 2,000 years ago. On every hand there were evidences of the grossest immorality on the part of the inhabitants. The signs of their bestial practices were displayed over their doors and on the walls of the houses. In the very midst of the orgies of their sensual lives they were burned in a living grave by the vengeance of God. The pictures that had been discovered in this city of St. John's recently were a thousand times worse than anything found in the ruins of Pompeii. They indicated that the Devil was in our midst, and now it was the duty of all who valued Christian morality to help to root Satan out. It was incumbent on every good citizen to expose the dealers in immoral books and pictures. They should not stand on a code of "honour" with such people for honour was not violated in exposing them. There should be no talk of honour when dealing with Satan. It was the duty of every citizen to give information against those who had in their possession such books and pictures. The city of Pompeii was destroyed in the height of its immorality. Let us pray that the vengeance of God will not fall on our own city where such diabolical works as the distribution of soul-destroying books and pictures is prevalent. All should assist the police in their crusade against the traffic and also pray that God would change the hearts of those who were doing this devilish work, that he would visit them with His mercy and cause them to see the enormity of their crime.

Klark-Urban Co.

CROWDED HOUSES SATURDAY.
Saturday afternoon the Klark-Urban Co. again produced "The Girl From Out Yonder" to a crowded house. So many were present that the aisles were filled, and the piece was presented in the company's usual excellent manner. Saturday night there was a reproduction of "The Little Grey Lady," and again the company was greeted by a capacity audience. The play was admirably rendered and the performers sustained their varied roles with credit to themselves and great satisfaction to the audience. The specialties were of the usual high order, the musical department being very entertaining and winning for the Schreiber brothers great applause. To-night the company will play "His Last Dollar," one of the most interesting dramas in their repertoire.

The Cacouna Here.

The s.s. Cacouna arrived here yesterday afternoon from Montreal via Sydney and Charlottetown, making the run down in 11 days. She took in a large portion of the full freight she has on board at Charlottetown and Sydney. This consists of hay, oats, etc., and 125 head of cattle, 200 sheep, pigs and other live stock. She was detained at Sydney for two days on the run here, met much fog, though the weather was calm.

Had Hand Crushed.

A man named Walsh of St. Joseph's wharf at work on the Southern Shore Railway, had his hand crushed on Saturday by some rails which fell on it. His fingers were badly smashed, and it is likely one or more will have to be amputated. He came to town on Saturday for treatment.

Mission Has a Narrow Escape.

HANKOW, To-Day.
Special to Evening Telegram.
The fire during the last few days devastated an area two miles long and half a mile wide. It is evident that the imperialists are determined to destroy the city. They have burned a tremendous store of shells, small arms and ammunition abandoned by the rebels. The damage by fire amounts to many millions. Some British river boats, including the gunboat Woodcock, were struck by shots during the fighting, but nobody was wounded. The Rev. Mr. Islington of the American Church Mission, entered a strong protest against the execution of Manchou women and children declaring such action would alienate the sympathy of the civilized nations. The revolutionary leaders replied they had been compelled to authorize the execution in order to placate the soldiers and the rebels, but they promised that no more executions should take place. The members of the Wesleyan Mission, the patients in the women's hospital, and the blind boys under the care of the mission, escaped death by a narrow margin in a fire which destroyed a large part of the native city at Hankow yesterday. The inmates of the mission spent the night on the lawn. The fire swept down on the Mission so close that some of the fugitives who huddled together on the grass were scorched and gave up all hope of rescue. They are all now housed in the London Mission.

Gone Deer Shooting.

Messrs. Turnbull, John Day and Chief Ford Windsor, of the Fire Department, left here for the Gaff Top-salls deer stalking Saturday. A special car was placed at their disposal by Mr. W. D. Reid, whose kindly act the men highly appreciated. Mr. Windsor is especially at home in the woods, where he formerly ranged in his early lumbering days, and may be looked upon in that section of the country as was the great Daniel Boone in the wilds of Kentucky in the days of the early settlers.

Episcopal Consecration

Special to Evening Telegram:
Mr. Mathew yesterday consecrated the first Bishop of the new diocese of Regina.

The Clyde Floated.

The Reid Nfld. Co. received word this morning from Little Bay by telegraph saying that the s.s. Clyde had been successfully floated by the help of H.M.S. Brilliant, Capt. Woolcombe, who arrived there at 5 this morning and had the Clyde afloat at 7.30. The Clyde was found to be making no water and resumed her route at 10 o'clock. The Reid Nfld. Co. highly appreciate the kindness of the commander of H. M. S. Brilliant, as well as that of His Excellency the Governor and the Premier, who held a conference with the result that Capt. Woolcombe lost no time in going to the rescue. The ship left here at 9 last night and on arrival at Little Bay this morning the two anchors were dropped and cables put around the bows of the Clyde. The twin screws of the warship were then set going with her donkey winches at the same time at a signal blast from the warship, while the Clyde's engines were set full speed astern. This immense combined power brought the ship off the rocks the first pull. Whilst she is not leaking, it is believed that her bottom is bulged by the rocks.

Parsons' Photographic Studio.

A visit to S. H. Parsons Studio, Water Street, east, at the present time, will certainly interest the public. Here can be seen some very handsome specimens of water colors, consisting of portraits, many of them of local ladies and gentlemen. Mr. Wm. Parsons, who recently arrived here, after spending 10 years in London, took lessons there from a French artist of renown in this city, and has executed some very beautiful work in portrait on opal. He is making a specialty of portraits in water colors of monograms, and those he has executed to date are receiving much attention. Mr. Parsons will be having St. John's for England after the Christmas season.

News From Whalers.

The whaler Cahot, Capt. Bull, arrived here this morning from Snook's Arm, having given up the voyage for the season. She secured 27 whales down there and 22 at Balena, making 59 in all.
Messrs. Hearn & Co. had news this morning by the Stella Maris that the whaler Cacholot, operating at Hawke's Harbor, caught 13 whales since last report, making in all, as far as numbers are concerned, 24 fish to date, which is equal to 55, as the vessel has to her credit 5 fine sperms. The average for past years has been 75 fish.

St. Bon's Council.

A meeting of the Council of St. Bonaventure's ex-Pupils Association was held at the College, Rev. Bro. Cullane, President of the College, invited Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, President of the Association, to take the chair. After the financial prospects of the College were discussed and plans suggested for the reduction of the debt on the new building, a pleasing event took place, viz. the presentation by the Chairman, of a handsome gold medal to Mr. J. F. McGrath, the Secretary, in recognition of his services to the Association. The Premier in handing over the gift to Mr. McGrath, said some very complimentary words about his unselfish labours and enthusiasm. On behalf of the college, Rev. Bro. Cullane eulogized all that Sir Edward had said. Mr. McGrath was deeply touched by the gift and made a suitable reply, every word having the ring of sincerity. His concluding sentence was a beautiful sentiment gem that should not be lost and we believe it original. Here it is: "If we can retain the affection of all those who shared our morning days, it is in our manhood's life a greater power than any other that the world can possibly bestow upon us." The medal is a work of art, is attached to a gold and blue ribbon, a college color, and bears the college coat of arms on one side and the Christian Bros. motto on the obverse.

Heavily Fined.

Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, the Sub-Collector of Customs, to-day had a wire from Bay of Islands, stating that Capt. Miller, Davauld, of the H.M.S. Schr. Arcadia, was charged Saturday before Magistrate March with a breach of the Customs Laws in presenting a false invoice at the Customs there. He was convicted and fined $200.

To Float Off the Clyde.

Saturday afternoon Capt. Kean in the s.s. Prospero went to the assistance of the s.s. Clyde, now on the rocks at Little Bay. After working for several hours in an attempt to tow her off Capt. Kean had to give up the job as hopeless. The ship is not leaking and is in no danger of being damaged by the sea, as the water there is very calm, being only about 20 yards from the public wharf. Saturday the Reid Nfld. Co. made arrangements to have H.M.S. Brilliant sent down to tow the Clyde off. She sailed at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Capt. Delaney, the R. N. Co's ships' husband, is gone in the Brilliant. It is expected that the job will be successfully done to-day. The Clyde is not insured and if refloated the loss would be a heavy one to the R. N. Co.

Gave Him Good Time.

Const. E. O'Flaherty arrived here from Fermuse yesterday and resumed duty to-day. He had 10 days leave to visit his relatives and before he left there an enjoyable "time" was given in his honor in Mr. Jas. Ryan's residence. A supper was served after which a concert was held during which songs were rendered by Mess. James Jackman and Murphy and Misses Bride O'Neill and Mary Staugh-Cassey and Miss J. Reddy, school teacher. After this a very enjoyable dance was held and was kept up till the wee sma' hours.

Wedding Bells.

On the 25th October, a very pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. James Noseworthy, Parade Street. The contracting parties were Mr. Edward Downton and Miss Gertrude Noseworthy. After partaking of a sumptuous repast, games and music were then left up till midnight. The presents were numerous and costly. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Downton many happy years of wedded life. R. M. P.

THE B. P. O. E.

The B. P. O. E. is a close corporation of carefree gentlemen commonly known as Elks. The ceremony of initiation is very simple consisting of a check in three figures and a whispered consultation with the Head Moose. It is easier to join the Elks than it is to get into the Methodist church, but the requirements are somewhat different. There is no goat in an Elks lodge except the candidate, and his mind is so taken up trying to sidestep a violent and unpremeditated demise that there are no tee-bes left in his system. After a man has tittered past the inner guard in a moment of reckless daring and a bright new union suit, his appetite for blithe and sparkling repartee will yield to a consuming desire to lean up against the Supreme High Tankyero, roils with an axe helve. Nobody works in an Elks lodge after eleven o'clock except the janitor and the semi-annual dues, and he goes on forever. There is no grand halling sign of distress among the Elks, either, for every member carries a roll that you couldn't throw through a horse collar. The Elk whose table manners are above par has the entrée to our most exclusive social circles, the sole exception being the W. C. T. U. At that, we would rather trust to the mercies of a benevolent Elk than have any loose coin in the immediate vicinity of a crooked deacon.

Want Unconditional Abdication

Special to Evening Telegram.
SHANGHAI, To-Day.
The first night after the capitulation of the city to the revolutionaries passed uneventfully. Perfect calm was maintained in Shanghai and outlying districts which constituted the remarkable feature of the present moment. Li Ping Shun, the responsible head of the new administration of a native city and the suburbs is engaged in completing his organization. He informed a correspondent that he recognized only the "Republic of Han," and would guarantee only the only disorderly elements in China, he said, were former officials, their supporters and Manchou troops who would never be permitted to be control again. He believed the revolutionary sentiment throughout the south strongly favours the unconditional abdication of the entire empire. The establishment of an entirely new regime.

The New Encyclo

11th is the work of leading department

"It is the general judgement of the world that the most complete, precise statements of facts up to the one for which Cambridge to the world."

—Dr. Whitlaw K.

In these words, the American Ambassador described the Encyclopaedia, of which the new 11th edition has been published by the Cambridge University Press.

This reputation, embodied in the general judgment of scholars and investigators of the world, and gained by the edition of the past, was based chiefly on this, that the Encyclopaedia Britannica has always contributed each on his own special branch of knowledge those writers who were universally recognized as leading authorities.

In the past the volumes were made illustrious by the names of Sir Walter Scott, Sir Humphrey Davy, Lord Macaulay, the great French scientists, Arago and Biot; later by Huxley and Freeman, Clerk Maxwell, Robertson Smith, Edwin Hubble, and many others. The new edition worthily sustains the reputation of the past in the standing of its contributors, the names, 90 only out of the 1,500, appended in the accompanying table will afford some guarantee.

The list of ninety names printed in this announcement comprises, for many excuses, were its fragmentary nature less evident. Not only does it mention but one name out of 17, but also it completely ignores a number of subjects no less important than those it mentions. Nothing is said here of the distinguished authorities who have dealt with the ancient civilizations of Egypt and Assyria, with Islam, with the various countries of the world, with languages and literatures, with biography, with philosophy, with sports and games. But considerations of space permit no more than the mention of a few representative names in certain fields, and, as it is this collection of names certainly represents distinction and eminence enough in a variety of fields.

This list will also serve to suggest certain things that are important in connection with the writing of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Unlike the purely national encyclopaedias produced in other countries, the Encyclopaedia Britannica shows a truly British liberality of spirit in this, that it turns for its contributors, wherever direction the demands of scholarship dictate. Thus among the 90 names here printed will be found representatives of the literatures of America, of France, of Germany and of Holland. Again, the distinction of its contributors affords an explanation of the fact that the Encyclopaedia Britannica is referred to, not merely as a repository of sound information, but also as, to a great extent, an original source. It is a medium through which the specialist willingly speaks to the world at large upon the results of his investigations, results which, in many cases, have as yet taken shape in no book. Thus, the new edition is full of information that is in advance of the times, the material of books yet to be written. It is a library reading, and not merely of reference, that the Encyclopaedia has become the common meeting ground upon which distinguished specialists come together from every quarter of the world of knowledge.

Leading to the new conditions under which it was prepared, the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, to an extent unknown in previous editions, the work itself of its eminent contributors, their knowledge enters into the very structure and arrangement of the work as a whole.

There was no dividing line between the editorial staff and contributors. Plans of treatment, connected schemes for articles, were evolved and elaborated conjointly. Specialists in a given field, forming themselves into a collegium for the treatment of their subject in all its aspects, planned and wrote to a whole series of articles which should afford the reader the desired information under any heading to which he could reasonably refer. In every case, through the medium of the editorial staff, the contributor wrote with a knowledge of what others were doing. Thus it may properly be said that the distinguished contributors to the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, not only wrote for the book; they collaborated, in its creation.

The New Encyclopaedia Britannica

is the work of leading authorities in every department of knowledge.

"It is the general judgement of the scholars and the investigators of the world that the one book to which they can go for the most complete, comprehensive, thorough and absolutely precise statements of facts upon every subject of human interest is the one for which Cambridge is henceforth to be responsible to the world."

—Dr. Whitelaw Reid, United States Ambassador in London.

In these words, the American Ambassador described the Encyclopaedia, of which the new 11th edition has been published by the Cambridge University Press.

This reputation, embodied in the general judgement of the world, and gained by the edition of the past, was based chiefly on this, that to the Encyclopaedia Britannica have always contributed each on his own special branch of knowledge those writers who were universally recognized as leading authorities.

In the past the volumes were made illustrious by the names of Sir Walter Scott, Sir Humphrey Davy, Lord Macaulay, the great French scientists of the 19th century, later by Huxley and by Freeman, Clerk Maxwell, Robertson Smith, Swinburne and Keble. That the new edition worthy sustains the reputation of the past is the standing of its contributors, the names, 90 only out of the body of 1,500, appended in the accompanying table will afford some guarantee.

The list of ninety names printed in this announcement would call for many excuses, were its fragmentary nature less evident. Not only does it mention but one name out of it, but also it completely ignores a number of subjects no less important than those it mentions. Nothing is said here of the distinguished authorities who have dealt with the ancient civilizations of Egypt and Assyria, with Islam, with the various countries of the world, with economics and sociology, with languages and literatures, with biography, with philosophy, with sports and games. But considerations of space permit no more than the mention of a few representative names in certain fields, and, as it is, this collection of names certainly represents distinction and eminence enough in a variety of fields.

This list will also serve to suggest certain things that are important in connection with the writing of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Unlike the purely national encyclopaedias produced in other countries, the Encyclopaedia Britannica shows a truly British liberality of spirit in this, that it turns for its contributors in whatever direction the demands of scholarship dictate. Thus among the 90 names here printed will be found representatives of the learning of America, of France, of Germany and of Holland. Again, the distinction of its contributors affords an explanation of the fact that the Encyclopaedia Britannica is referred to, not merely as a repository of sound information, but also as, to a great extent, an original source. It is a medium through which the specialist willingly speaks to the world at large upon the results of his investigations, results which, in many cases, have not yet taken shape in a book. Thus the new edition is full of information that is in advance of the times, the material of books still to be written. It is a library of reading, and not merely of reference, that the Encyclopaedia has become the common meeting ground upon which distinguished specialists come together from every quarter of the world of knowledge.

Lastly, owing to the new conditions under which it was prepared, this, the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is, to an extent unknown in previous editions, the work itself of its eminent contributors. Their knowledge enters into the very structure and arrangement of the work as a whole.

There was no dividing line between the editorial staff and contributors. Plans of treatment, connected schemes for articles, were evolved and elaborated conjointly. Specialists in a given field, forming themselves into a collegium for the treatment of their subject in all its aspects, planned and wrote a whole series of articles which should afford the reader the desired information under any heading to which he could reasonably refer. In every case, through the medium of the editorial staff, the contributor wrote with a knowledge of what others were doing. Thus it may properly be said that the distinguished contributors to the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, not only wrote for the book; they collaborated, in its creation.

HANKOW, Nov. 5. Almost the whole native city of Hankow is on fire. It is feared that the Wesleyan Mission, near the Han River, in which are 50 blind boys and 150 wounded persons, who, with the staff of the Mission, make up a total of 300 persons, will be destroyed. The Head of the Mission asked the Imperialists to grant an armistice of two hours to permit removal from the Mission premises, but the firing ceased for only half an hour. The Red Cross steamer which attempted to rescue the inmates of the Mission was driven back by shells from a rebel fort. The shells riddled a steamer. When the vessel was compelled to turn back, the Mission was still standing, but the position was hopeless, flames being within 200 yards of the building.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Nov. 5. The Times' Shanghai despatches say the situation in Hankow is reported to be of a most serious nature. The city is half burned, and it is feared a large number of wounded are buried in the ruins. Massacring innocent parties has begun, apparently on both sides, and there is danger of reprisals in other quarters; thus changing the whole character of the revolution. The Times' Pekin correspondent sends a despatch, saying that feeling there is more hopeful; but that there are still immense difficulties to be overcome, which won't be lessened if the stories of the massacre at Hankow prove to be true.

Special Evening Telegram.

BERLIN, Nov. 5. The Berlin newspaper comment on the Government, concerning the agreement reached between Germany and France over Morocco, is couched in most unfavourable terms. The Post regards the agreement as a cup of care, sorrow and shame for the Germans, without drawing a sword, allows France to occupy the last bit of earth not belonging to a great Colonial Power. Lieber Rundschau says that France receives an extraordinary accession of power, while Germany gets the illusion of an economic guarantee, which only has an existence on paper. The Tage Zeitung thinks the treaty shows that the Foreign Minister has worked painstakingly and successfully to secure effective guarantees against the Tunisian of Morocco.

BERLIN, Nov. 5. The Tripoli correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, says that Italy's losses in Tripoli since October 23rd, amount to 1,500, 250 killed, and 87 suffering from cholera.

In State of Starvation.

Saturday some neighbours who had done all they could reported to Mr. T. J. Foran, of the News reportorial staff, that a woman named Quinton who lives in a house on Simms Streets with her two little boys, aged 3 and 5, respectively, and a newly born infant, were in a state of absolute starvation. Mr. Foran went to the house from his own residence and found neither fuel, light or food in the residence. The poor woman said that she had had no kind of nourishing food since the child was born. Mrs. Quinton earned enough to keep body and soul together by doing a little sewing, but latterly owing to her condition could not even avail of this for the support of herself and children. Her husband left here several months ago for Sydney, and when last she heard from him he was dangerously ill in St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Foran immediately procured necessaries such as food and fuel, and appealing to several persons for aid received substantial assistance from Mr. Otto Oppelt and other good-hearted gentlemen connected with the Reid Nid. Co. The woman will now have enough to support herself and family until she can get about again, and other charitably disposed persons will look after her later.

Want Unconditional Abdication

Special to Evening Telegram.

SHANGHAI, To-day. The first night after the capture of the city to the revolutionaries passed uneventfully. Perfect order was maintained in Shanghai as the revolutionaries, which constitute the remarkable feature of the movement. Li Ping Shu, the responsible head of the new administration of the native city and the suburbs is engaged in completing his organization. He informed a correspondent that he recognized only the "Republic of Han," and would guarantee order only if the disorderly elements now in China, he said, were former officials, their supporters and Manchurian troops who would never be permitted to hold control again. He believed the revolutionary sentiment throughout the south strongly favours the unconditional abdication of the Emperor and the establishment of an entirely new regime.

Marie Corelli Talks "Right Up"

To the Rev. R. J. Campbell of "The New Theology" fame, in what she considers an unfair attack on her new book, "The Life Everlasting," Miss Corelli says, "That while preaching in the City Temple, London, he deliberately slanders both myself and my work without compassion. He says there is a certain strain of hard, bitter and intolerant depravity running all the way through it, and I challenged him to prove it. Far from any hard or unsympathetic feeling towards human depravity, I endeavour to show how it may be lessened and finally overcome by one's own noble effort when once we realize the eternal law—that evil is always repaid by evil and good by good. . . . Every person interested in good fiction and in the social conditions of the people should read "The Life Everlasting." Paper, 50c.; cloth, 75c. Postpaid on receipt of price.
