LADY IRIS' MISTAKE; Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XXVIII. From Lady Iris' face, when at length he saw it, he could glean nothing; there was no gleam to her decision. He was startled by her pallor, but remembered that she had been ill. She was deathly pale, even her lips were white, and the violet eyes were so shadowed as to look almost black. There was something solemn in her aspect, as of one who had passed through a terrible ordeal and had the memory of it clinging to her still. He went forward to meet her, and she held out her hand to him. "You are first, Allan," she said, with a gentle plying smile. "I hope you have not waited long for me."

"I have not thought of time," he replied. "I would stand for hours if I could but see you for one moment!" "She did not smile as she had been wont to do at such loving words, but she laid her hand on his with a light caressing touch. "Poor Allan!" she murmured; and then his heart sank. "My doom is coming," he said. "Let me bear it bravely."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT
GERALD S. DOYLS, Distributor.

"It must be so, Allan, I have thought it over; I could not marry you, dear, now that I know— You understand. I should not like it. The Faynes, when they have married, have never cast even the faintest shadow on their name. It has been held with honor, and so it must remain."

"You think I could not hold it with honor, Iris?" "We will not discuss that, Allan. You yourself are one of the noblest of men. The difficulty has reference to your birth. I tell you frankly that I cannot give into the hands of a tradesman's son all the glories of my house and name."

"I am answered," he said, proudly. "I submit to my fate. I do not complain; a day may come when you will see more clearly." His face flushed, and his eyes flashed. "I will tell you what your words incite me to do, Lady Iris. The son of a tradesman, to whom you could not intrust your name, shall make one for himself, one that all England shall honor—all save you!" To his amazement she put her arms round his neck, and her face, wet with tears, was hidden on his breast.

"Then, my darling, if it distresses you so greatly," he said, "why do it?" "I must," she replied. "There is no help for it, Allan. I love you well, but I cannot be untrue to my whole life. Oh, Allan, do not tempt me—you must see that my whole heart is tortured; I should never be happy, even if I could bring my mind to marry you; I should repent it directly. I know myself, Allan, and I can judge."

Iris, if it be greater than your love!" he said. "Yes, it is great; it is not only pride, but it is the habit of my life, and I cannot change it now, Allan. I should be most miserable if I married you; and when you saw that I was not happy, you would be the same. I shall go to my grave unmarried, Allan, since I cannot marry you. Now, my dear lost love, we must part!"

He clasped her to his breast and kissed her passionately, while his tears fell like rain upon her face. She had never seemed to him so beautiful or so tender as in this hour when he had to leave her. She raised her face to his, all wet with tears. "It is like dying," she said. "If you were lying in your coffin, Allan, I should kiss you and say, 'Farewell, beautiful eyes, that have always looked kindly on me; farewell, sweet lips, that have stolen my heart from me by kisses and tender words; farewell, gentle hands, that will never touch mine!' I should kiss—as I kiss now, the forehead, the lips, and the hands, and I should cover the face of my dead—Ah, Heaven, my heart will break. Let me die!"

She dropped upon the mossy grass, crying as if her heart would break. He bent over her. "Iris," he said gently, "it is madness for you to send me from you when you love me so well; you will kill yourself and me too!" "Even that," she cried, "would be better than to lower the dignity of the Faynes! Oh, Allan, Allan, go now—leave me!"

"Let me give you one kiss, Iris," he entreated—"one that pledges my truth to you, although you send me away and we may never meet again—one that pledges my love to you and to no other for evermore!" He raised her from the grass, and kissed her lips, not once, but many times, with all the passion of his love, and the force of his despair.

"It must be," she said, despairingly. "Oh, Allan, kiss me once more! Let it be the pledge of this time of love that will never die, and a farewell! Do not speak to me after that; but let me always remember the pledge! Go while I have the strength to bear it!"

He knew that further entreaties would be vain; he saw that even if she killed herself in doing it she would leave him. He kissed her once more; and then he left her. He knew not whether he wandered or what he did. The sky seemed to have darkened and a gloom to have overspread everything; there was nothing left for him in life—no hope, no love. He wandered through the woods; and, when the darkness of night fell over the earth, he was still alone in his desolation.

Decisive Crimean Battle.
The Battle of Inkerman, fought November 5, 1854, was the most important encounter in the Crimean War, and the losses on both sides were very heavy in proportion to the numbers concerned. But those of the Russians were by far the greatest. Altogether they lost 12,000 men, four times as many as that of the troops with which the English Second Division met the attack. The English lost 597 killed, 1,360 wounded; the French 143 men killed and 786 wounded. The victory, however, was worth the cost to the allies. For them, with nothing behind them except the sea cliffs, or the difficulties leading to the narrow harbours, defeat would have been absolute and ruinous; and behind such defeat lay national dishonor. On the other hand, as Sir E. Hamley points out, when the crisis was past, the fate of Sevastopol really was decided. It is true that the besiegers' misfortunes grew worse, and that six weeks later most of the horses were rotting in a sea of mud, most of the men who fought at Inkerman, filling hospitals at Scutari or graves on the plain. The extraordinary misery that the besieging armies endured is indeed the outstanding fact of the campaign. But when Inkerman showed that the Russians could not beat the invaders in battle, the latter were certain to win because it was impossible for them to embark in the face of the enemy. They could do nothing else but keep their hold, and that kept it was demonstrable that the Powers commanding the sea must prevail over the Power whose theatre of war was separated by roadless deserts from its resources. Such were the consequences that hung in the balance each time that the Russian columns came crowding on, while their long lines of artillery swept the ridge; and it was due to the constancy and steadfastness of the outnumbered battalions at Inkerman that the invasion of the Crimea did not prove the most disastrous expedition in our history.

English Girls Turn to Simple Weddings.
LONDON.—Old fashioned weddings at church with lavish decorations, gaily bedecked brides and bridesmaids, bells ringing and elaborate ceremonies, are gradually giving way to more sombre and quicker weddings at registry offices. Statistics show that twenty-five per cent. of the total marriages in this country during the year have been performed at registry offices. In London alone of 50,000 marriages, 15,000 were conducted by the registrar; and throughout the country the number of civil ceremonies has grown from 30,000 in 1896 to three times that number. Among many reasons given for favoring the civil marriage is the desire to avoid publicity by contracting parties, particularly in the case of divorcees, theatrical stars and other prominent persons when marrying. English brides of the past generation would have been aghast at the thought of marrying without the proverbial orange blossom wreath and the redness of bridesmaids, but broadening ideas in the days of intimate salves, complicated gowns, and all that goes to make the happy secret today is ironed, washed, and pressed, but is yet ironed, which is a substance all by itself. There is only one FRONZEE YEAST in all the world. Sold at all drug stores at 1 lb. in packages and containing 50 tablets, each tablet containing one of the FRONZEE yeast. Harold F. Allies Ordered Out of Constantinople.

London, Nov. 5. The landing of Allied or United States sailors from warships will not be permitted, unless by special permission of the Ankara Government. This pronouncement was made in one of the two additional notes which Hamid Bey handed to the Allied Commissioners tonight. The first note deals with the visit to Kemalist ports of eight Allied or United States warships, and declares the port authorities have been instructed not to permit the landing. In accordance with maritime laws the Turks require these vessels to salute the Turkish flag. The other note sets up a claim for the immediate handing over to the Ankara Government of the Turkish Railways in Europe and Asia, which are under temporary Allied control.

ALLIED SAILORS MUSTN'T LAND.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5. The Sultan's Ministry resigned on Tuesday evening and Rafel Pasha, representative of the Ankara National Government assumed power and issued a manifesto which declared from noon on Nov. 4th, the admission of the great National Assembly of Turkey, was established in Constantinople.

ALLIES ARE AGGRESSIVE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5. The Turks have torn up the Mudanya Convention and Gendarmes are being sent into the areas known as neutral zones. Turkish gendarmes are advancing into British Chanak and the Kemalists have established administration at Berjaz. Hamid Bey, representative of the Ankara Government, in a note to the Entente demands the withdrawal of Allied troops from Constantinople.

ALLIES REFUSE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5. The Allied Extraordinary Council decided tonight to refuse categorically the Nationalist demand for the military evacuation of Constantinople by the Allies.

ARMISTICE CONVENTION TORN UP.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5. The Nationalist Government is in Constantinople. Rafel Pasha, the new Governor, and Hamid Bey, representative of the Ankara Government, has ordered the Allied forces to evacuate the city. In a note to the Entente Hamid Bey demands the withdrawal of Allied troops from Constantinople. The Turks have torn up the Mudanya Convention and are advancing into the British Chanak and other zones. Since noon on Saturday a Nationalist Administration is reported to have been established and the celebration, masses of excited people have been engaged in such demonstrations that it became necessary to call in the police to fire on them. Christians the and wounded Christians throughout the city. On Saturday night were a shelter from what they fear would develop into a Turkish massacre. Today, however, the Government authorities issued orders that disturbances should be rigorously suppressed. The Allied High Commissioners accepted the new regime and was left for the Sultan's Ministry resignation from office. Pasha, Grand Vizier, realizing the danger had disappeared, despatched messages to representatives of the Allies. Pasha in various capitals counter their Ankara Government. The radical forces would gain the hand. The Sultan was denouncing the Monarchy and Kemal Pasha acclaimed "President." It became necessary to throw guards around the Sultan's Palace within which Mohammed Ali Pasha only, is spending his hours.

THE TURKISH NOTE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5. The note presented by Hamid Bey to the Allies at Constantinople this morning says: "After the abolition of the old regime the Turkish population of Constantinople spontaneously and enthusiastically proclaimed its allegiance to the Ankara Government. Orders have been issued to take all necessary measures for the establishment of the National Assembly of the Great National Assembly of Turkey. Inter-Ally occupation of Constantinople is therefore not only useless but also a source of embarrassment to the Ankara Government. The Great National Assembly of Turkey has no intention of allowing the military bands fixed by the Mudanya Convention, but if it is necessary to point out that the members of troops must be withdrawn from the maintenance of order as already arranged for. We hope the Allied Powers will accept favorably this demand."

L.G. STRESSES MIDDLE GROUND POLICY.

LONDON, Nov. 5. Former Premier Lloyd George stressed the middle ground policy he is advocating, denouncing both revolution and reaction, in his speech to the friendly cheering crowd of Londoners who jammed the big motion picture theatre yesterday to hear him. He urged the necessity for a group of men in Parliament "strong enough to insist upon a middle course free from all extremes." The ex-Premier got a tremendous greeting and held his grip of the audience throughout.

PLEA FOR A CENTRE PARTY.

LONDON, Nov. 4. The speech of the ex-Premier is interpreted by political experts as a plea for a creation of a Centre Party in the new Parliament. He said where there was a pact between Conservatives and Liberals, in any constituency, he hoped voters would stand by it honorably. In districts where no such non-opposition agreements had been reached, he suggested that candidates be carefully questioned whether they were prepared to place the interests of the nation before the interests of any party. He said it was vital that socialist attacks be emphatically repelled, although the municipal elections had shown this danger not so great or imminent as had been apprehended. Answering Bonar Law's allusion to him as a drummer boy who had served the usual purpose during the war, because he had done drumming better than anyone else, but was no longer needed unless the drumsticks were taken away from him, the former Premier said he was proud of this characterization and that Germany lost the war because she had no drummer boy. He declared the Conservatives' watchword of tranquility was not a policy but a "yawn," and dangerous. "Avoid the extremes of socialism, but do let us also avoid the extreme of standstillism," he said.

RUSSIAN REFUGEES DROWNED.

TOKYO, Nov. 5. One hundred and thirty-five Russian refugees from Vladivostok, were drowned to-day when two steamers foundered, according to a despatch from Seoul.

57 ACCLAMATIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 5. Final nominations for the general elections, according to the Weekly Despatch, include 57 members of Parliament returned unopposed, divided as follows: Conservatives 32, Irish Unionists 10, Liberals 5, National Liberals 5, Labour 4, Nationalist 1; leaving 1266 candidates for the contest on November fifteenth. The contesting candidates comprise the following: Conservatives, 416; National Liberals, 105; Liberals, 252; Labour, 322; Independent Conservatives, 12; Conservative Democrats, 2; Independents, 21; Independent Labor, 2; Ulster Unionists, 13; Co-operationists, 5; Anti Waste, 1; Agriculturists, 3; Socialist 1; Communists, 5; Nationalists, 3; Sinn Fein, 1.

EX-KAISER MARRIED.

DOON, Nov. 5. The marriage of former Emperor William to Princess Hermine, of Reuss, took place to-day.

PROBABLY A MISTAKE.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters have received no report as to the murder of two constables on North Hershel Island, as reported from Vancouver. The murders are believed to be those of Sergt. Doak and a Hudson Bay man, reported officially some time ago. The Lady Kindersley, the steamer bringing the report, may have visited Three Rivers and members of the crew, carried the report from there to Vancouver.

"O Woman in Our Hours of Ease." (Written for the Evening Telegram.) O woman in our hours of ease You couldn't to the Poll Booth squeeze To-day how things should be done. But when Mars put on his war-paint, And Freedom's self waxed deadly faint, You did to our rescue run. You nursed the sick and wounded lads, And shamed the lazy, coward cads By working like a slave At home, in factory, at front, You were up to every good hard "stunt," You life and vigor gave. And Britain said, and Uncle Sam: Behold the lion and the lamb In woman finely one. She's fit to take an equal share, In making war-wrecked countries fair. The vote she's nobly won. But Terra Nova's ruling heads (As fathers using hookless seeds) Withhold the women's right. And say in louder than mere talk: Our rule is poor, don't you us balk, Keep cravenly out of sight. But how can women guard the home, How will leave all "neath blue sky's" dome Entirely to the men, When the call comes from God Himself To do their share in poor times, Make bad things good again. For woman sure can do her part Right wise and sound and smart In things of public weal. She need not so neglect her work Or more than man her duty shirk. Re laundry, school, or meal. There's very much now to "put to rights," To engage hand and thought both days and nights 'Tis up to her to do it. Don't let her think she won't suffer sore If she do not strive for "the open door"— JUSTICIA.

Oct. 28, 1858—Oct. 27, 1921.

These are the things that have eternal youth: Calm marble temples that for years have stood, Proving their simple grandeur firm and good; And noble thoughts, from every age and place, That weave a veil for Time's disfiguring face; And kindly deeds that lend their eager hands To guide blind travelers through life's scorching sands. And even men may have eternal youth: Those who have dreamed, then labored, for the truth; Those who have lived to keep God's gift of life Aloof from sin, unstained by hate or strife, And then have gone unhurt to walk with Death. Willing to others with their failing breath The beauty and the richness they have felt— Men in their souls akin to Roosevelt. These are the men that have eternal youth! VIOLET ALLEYN STOREY.

Prominent Methodist Clergyman Dead.

TONONTO, Nov. 4.—Rev. Dr. William Briggs, former Steward of the Methodist Book Room, died at his home here to-day.

Few men in Canadian Methodism were as well known as Rev. Dr. William Briggs, Toronto, preacher and publisher. His kindly smile and warm hand-shake, backed up by a serene disposition and heartening wholesomeness, made warm and lasting friendships for him throughout Canada. The passing of William Briggs will be genuinely mourned from one end of the Dominion to the other. Not only was Dr. Briggs possessed of a nature that made and kept friends; he was an eloquent preacher, and a man of business. His many years of service as Book Steward and Publisher in the Methodist Book Room, Toronto, brought him into contact with Church people in every section of the country, and in his later years of usefulness he was probably better known as the Book Steward than as a preacher. When, owing to his advanced age, Dr. Briggs retired from this office a few years before his death, he also gave up preaching though for some years previously he had occupied but comparatively few pulpits, and then only on certain special occasions. For many years he was a much sought-for preacher at Church Anniversaries in various parts of the country, and an announcement that Rev. Dr. Briggs was to preach was invariably followed by a crowded church. Of Irish and Scottish descent, William Briggs was born at Banbridge, County Down, Ireland on September 9, 1836. He was educated in England at Liverpool, where he graduated from the Collegiate Institute. He afterwards acquired a commercial training in Liverpool. He came to Canada while still a young man. Mr. Briggs was received "on trial" in the Methodist Church at Durham, Province of Quebec, in 1859, and was there ordained as a minister in 1863. In the course of his career as a Methodist pastor he was stationed at Oshawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal, London, Ont., and Belleville, and again at Toronto, the Metropolitan Church here being his last important charge. The special abilities of Dr. Briggs in church matters were recognized by the Conference in which he was at various times stationed, and he was secretary of several of them. He was President of the Toronto General Conferences while he was in the active pastorate. He was a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States in 1882. He was a delegate to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in Washington, D.C., in 1891, and to the Ecumenical Conference in London, England, in 1901. Dr. Briggs was first elected Book Steward of the Methodist Book and Publishing House, Toronto, in 1879. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Victoria University in 1886. He was a member of the committee of the Twentieth Century

Thanksgiving Fund, 1898; a member of the Committee of the Conference on Church Union in 1906; a member of the Board of Regents of Victoria University in 1906 and 1907; a member of the Joint Committee which reported on the Japanese Methodist Church in 1906; and Vice-Chairman of the local Executive Committee on the 4th Ecumenical Conference, 1911. In the course of his busy life Dr. Briggs served as President of the Methodist Social Union of Toronto, and was also President of the Master Printers' and Bookbinders' Association. He married Rosalie Marian Clark, of Melbourne, Australia, in 1865. She predeceased him by several years. Alfred W. Briggs, K.C., of Toronto, is a son of the deceased.

NORTHERN CIRCUIT COURT:—The Supreme Court on Northern Circuit opens at Carboquear on the 21st inst. Mr. Justice Johnson will preside. Court will also be held at Carboquear and Harbor Grace.

The Humber Deal.

Indication and reports point to the fact that the Humber Deal has been launched upon the country for its betterment should its development lead to the providing of labor and the opening up of the water-power of the Humber and the manufacture of pulp and kindred industries, or for the harnessing of the Colony of a heavy liability should its activities prove unprofitable. The principle of a guarantee to the investors is not generally approved of, neither is it sound in principle. Any industry should of itself and in itself prove and work out its own financial end. At the present time our people in the face of the unprofitable prosecution of the Colony's staple industry, need employment, and the future to them is of little concern—they are interested and will consider only present needs and demands. "In a way they cannot be blamed overmuch for their conclusions. Either it is a matter of providing employment in the Colony or the seeking of it elsewhere in the same way that hundreds of our young folks have done and are doing to-day. Such being the case, the majority of the people are ready to take that which is at hand rather than to trust to what the future may bring forth—the demand of the immediate present is of more concern to them than what the future has in store for them and the colony.

It will not be a surprise to us to see an election in the Spring, the appeal for confidence being based on the question of the Humber Deal. The position will then simply be an appeal to the working men on the matter of employment, and the result will no doubt be an answer that will rightly or wrongly, commit the Colony to the obligations, real or unreal, of the Humber Deal.

New sources of employment are needed if we are to hold our people in the Colony. The people are the shapers of the Colony's future. If they commit themselves to a policy they will have to abide by the result. It is for those in authority to see that the Colony's interests are protected in every way possible, and it is for them to protect and conserve the people's part of the undertaking.

As yet nothing is definitely known as to the real facts of the Deal; it is understood that the Deal has been put through, but what the conditions of the agreement are, if there is a guarantee string to it, or not, is not certain. Until the terms and conditions of the whole scheme are set forth, no stand can be taken either for or against the proposition. That the deal has been finalized is shown

Settings of Great Beauty

DISTINGUISH DEMILLE FILM
LAW OF CONTRASTS OBSERVED BY PRODUCER IN "SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT"

Stage settings of unusual beauty are assured in any photoplay bearing Cecil B. De Mille's name and "Something to Think About," the Paramount picture which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre to-day, easily reaches the high standard set by previous De Mille productions.

The story offers a great opportunity for contrast and due advantage has been taken of every opportunity. In this production, has been supplied a humble blacksmith's home, his work shop and the poverty-stricken apartment wherein some of the most important action of the story transpires.

Against this background Cecil B. De Mille placed a home of exquisite beauty. By thus contrasting the two surroundings, they have emphasized the realism of one and the artistic perfection of the other.

Notable examples of this decorative lavishness are to be found in the Oriental living room, library and music room which comprises one portion of the residence in question. Another striking example of the ultra-modern influence in interior decoration is in the dining room of the same dwelling. A bonafide of striking beauty completes this household.

Mr. F. P. Raynham

WINS DAILY MAIL PRIZE.
Many friends of Mr. F. P. Raynham, who made an unsuccessful attempt to fly across the Atlantic in a Hardeyde aeroplane, with Mr. Raynham as pilot in May, 1919, will be glad to hear of his success in a recent flight at South Downs, London, England.

BRITISH GLIDING CONTEST.

The gliding competition promoted by the Daily Mail and organized by the Royal Aero Club, began at Itford, near Lewes, Sussex, on Monday, Oct. 16, to be continued for the week. The condition laid down for the first prize £1,000 (for a competitor who should remain in the air for at least thirty minutes and fly to a post within 800 yards of a hill) were fulfilled on the 17th by Mr. Anthony Fokker, the Dutch aeroplane designer. He accomplished a glide of 6 sec. He was never more than a mile from his starting point and at one time rose to a height of 200 ft. It remained to be seen whether he or anyone else would win during the rest of the contest and would gain the prize. At the moment of writing the gliding contest is held by Herr Hentzen, a German, for a duration flight of 3 min. and 10 min. On the first day of the contest Mr. F. P. Raynham made a glide of 11 min. 23 sec. in a Hardeyde monoplane, from the top of Beacon, and thus secured the £50 offered by Lieut.-Col. Fokker to the British competitor. The British machine who remained longest time in the air on the 17th, the minimum to be one minute. Raynham's success was the most creditable as the meeting was the experience of gliding. His Hardeyde monoplane produced a glide of 11 min. 23 sec. and was only the second he had made a glide. On the second day of the contest the gliding was completed in 1 hour 53 min. There were several foreigners, and many British spectators.

After a motorless aeroplane had flown for 1 hour and 53 min., and it was a rudder for steering side to side and control by which the pilot causes the plane to ascend or descend and to balance it if it tilts sideways. Overseas. Daily Mail.

Raynham glided above Frieze for 1 hour and 53 min., and flew about 400 yards from his starting point. He then completely won the contest, beating Mr. Anthony Fokker's 37 min. utes glide. Mr. Raynham's plane was a Hardeyde monoplane. Mr. Raynham's achievement is thus only one hour and 17 min. under the record of 3 hours 10 min. established by Herr Hentzen in the Rhon district of Germany last August.

GREAT SPECTACLE.

Mr. Raynham used a plane designed and built in two weeks. He had been in the air with it only five times.

It was a raw, cold morning, and the wind, blowing from the E.N.E., had increased to about 20 miles an hour.

He flew well into the wind along the stretch of the hills at a height varying from 100 to 200 feet above the Beacon. For ten minutes he felt his way in the air, all the way keeping the nose of the plane into the easterly up-current. He seemed to be getting too far from his starting point, but fears that he might not land with the 800 yards limit were soon dispelled when he came back at a terrific rate and then set off again on his battle with the easterly winds. By this time the hope that Mr. Raynham would beat Mr. Fokker's 37 minutes became very certain. At the end of the half hour the horn of a motor car told him he was getting to his first point. Eight tense minutes followed, and then great shouts went up for the glider man and a cry of delight came from the spectators. Now began a still more wonderful flight. Gliding with delightful assurance Mr. Raynham turned to the north, found himself again on the right track, and soared his way north-east by east like a seagull. His manoeuvres for the next hour were thrilling and spectacular. Time after time he dipped before the crest. The end came suddenly. The wind had begun to drop, and one very daring swoop took him too low. He could not recover, and still gallantly fighting, he fell lower and lower until he made a beautiful landing on a green down 400 yards from his starting point.

Bootlegging Methods.

IN BERMUDIAN WATERS.

Hamilton, Bermuda.—This is how some marine bootleggers are believed to operate in Bermudian waters. Such a man comes to Hamilton and engages a steamer of small dimensions, or a motor boat. Then he buys whiskey ashore, and loads his ship to the rails with the product of the Scotch distillers. He clears for a Canadian port and puts to sea. Within a day or so, sometimes within 24 hours, the vessel is back in Hamilton, but without her cargo. Were he pressed for an explanation the bootlegger doubtless would say, with a smile, that he was caught in a storm which washed away his deck load; and that he had even to throw overboard the cases below decks to lighten the ship. Ships entering American ports may not be permitted to carry liquor, but with this law the man with a local charter does not necessarily concern himself. His interest is limited to these waters. He has been known to talk of latter day pirates, but he does not seem particularly to fear them. A "pirate" with a desire to sell a bottle for $12.00 what he can lift at sea for nothing, perhaps, sails from an American port and heads for Bermuda. He lays off and on until he meets a victim in the shape of a small motor boat. He overhauls her, and with a display of force sufficient to warrant a recital on the docks when the motor boat gets back to Hamilton, he transfers the cargo he desires.

Newspapers Protest Killing of Mexicans.

MEXICO CITY.—Local newspapers have made much of the fact that, according to figures published by the department of foreign relations, during the past year only fourteen Americans have met violent death in Mexico compared to twenty-one Mexicans killed in the United States, including thirteen in the state of Texas. The newspapers assert these figures prove that the United States government is not justified in its demands for protection of the lives of its nationals here. It is also reported that during the past few months the Mexican foreign office has made frequent representations regarding alleged killings of Mexicans in the United States.

the magic of the mascot

In a very interesting and copiously illustrated article in "Pearson's Magazine," "The Magic of the Mascot" is discussed by Ignatius Phayre. He writes: "The tremendous upheaval of a world-war certainly accounts for a vogue in mascots and charms which has become a sort of new cult, or quasi-religion. Who does not remember the cross-legged "Touchwood," an imp of oak, with arms and legs of gold or silver, with a service khaki cap and odd sparkling eyes, which our soldiers declared could see deadly peril coming, and turn it aside from the lucky wearer of the charm? Mr. H. Brandon, the original designer of "Touchwood," sold upwards of 1,600,000 of the amulets during the first two years of war.

"The famous fountain pen with which he signed the Peace of Versailles and still greater triumph—the Peace with Ireland is a symbol of good fortune to Mr. Lloyd George. "Like our Prime Minister, the novelist Mr. William Le Queux looks with reverence upon the fountain pen. With this he has written twenty more of these successful books and the pen has carried on many an adventurous tour through Europe, Asia, and Africa. Children are Charles Chaplin's mascots, as they are of a good many football, shooting and other sporting teams.

"Our own Queen Alexandra values as a talisman a certain nugget of gold surmounted by a little hunchback in green enamel. This nugget is hollow; it opens at the touch of a secret spring, revealing a heart-shaped ornament of New Zealand jade. This singular mascot was given to his mother by the late Duke of Clarence. There is hardly a royal personage in Europe who does not possess an amulet.

A Courageous Governor

At Buffalo some disorderly radicals in his audience drew from Governor Miller substantially the same declaration that he made at Hornet ten days ago of his determination to enforce the laws and prevent violence without regard to the political consequences to himself. To Buffalo, as to Hornet, he had to send State police to stop the lawlessness that followed on the car strikes.

Yes, I want the police. The people of Buffalo knew they were there. Order was restored. Rioting ceased. The lesson was learned and those who are booting have not repeated those acts of disorder. Incendiarism is not to be stopped by saying "Please," but by commanding respect for the law. So long as I am Governor that will be done. To those who do not want that done, and some of them are here tonight, I say do not vote for me, for as long as I am Governor it will be done.

The great audience cheered. The Governor's contempt for votes that can be won by disregard of his first public duty, the preservation of order, has earned him votes all over the State. In a political world composed largely of "duskytooters" courage is the quality least frequent and most admired in public men. Governor Miller has it in as high a degree as Grover Cleveland had. Joined to his intellectual power, his strength of will, his energy, his gift of leadership, his ability to make the members of his party in the Legislature co-operate with his policies, this absolute courage in fulfillment of his functions as Governor of the State, bound to consider the general good and refusing to be bulldozed by the representatives of any interest, group or class, ranks him with the greatest Governors New York has had.—New York Times.

The Coming of the Fishermen.

The men of the Northern Bays who are now in town, and those who will be coming so soon as opportunity and weather offer, are in a position to know best just how their movement for higher prices for their catch has grown and expanded. They are not likely to be diverted from their purpose by the sneers of the newspaper which has no use for any fishermen of this Colony unless they are allied to the cause of Mr. Coaker. The fishermen themselves are the best judges of the attitude they have adopted, and the stand they have taken. They come to proffer reasonable requests. They come in a body to give strength to their undertaking. They are not seeking wealth at the expense of any other class. All they ask, all they are in search of is a fair remuneration for their fish and fish products, so that, when their voyages are put off, there will be enough returns to meet current expenditures and provide the means for laying in winter supplies. Surely nothing can be more fair, more reasonable. Their meetings North have been with this sole purpose, yet they have been characterized as gatherings at which political propaganda has been proclaimed. Apparently from the tone of a section of the city press these men have no rights. They have been severely criticised for looking for their god-given right to live, and all manner of inuendo has been given to their motive. Warships have not only been brought into the discussion, and used with varying degrees of argument, but one is already in the harbor, and has been anchored here for a considerable period. The men coming through the Narrows in their schooners can see this ship for themselves. Why is she here? What is her particular mission? Not so many months ago, a ship of the navy was rushed from Bermuda at short notice, when the local laborers were seeking the right to live under the flag which has ever stood for freedom. To-day another fighting machine is swinging at anchor, for what? Those in authority can answer the question. Not that there is, or will be, any necessity for a display of naval force. The men from the North are not coming to do violence, unless it may be to the feelings of those who do not want to see them here. They are coming for a peaceful object, and one which is perfectly legitimate. All they ask, all they seek is a fair compensation for their summer's work. Anything out of the way about that? Anything that should have caused all the fiery language used by those who pose as the real friends of the fishermen? Squeezed in every conceivable way by outrageous and unjust taxation, the men from Trinity, Bonavista and Green Bays are only seeking their reasonable rights. Whatever is the outcome of their visit here will be noted keenly by the toilers of other places, who are thoroughly in sympathy with this modern crusade. Let us then hope that something will develop from this peaceful invasion of the capital, and that no misunderstandings will mar whatever negotiations are in progress. The issue is too large for spiteful mischief makers to prevent a rapprochement of the parties most directly concerned, and the generally expressed sentiment of the citizens of St. John's is that the result of whatever conferences may be carried on should be satisfactory to all who are interested, which may be said to be the whole population of the island.

Last Night's Sacred Concert.

DELIGHTED LARGE AUDIENCE. The sacred concert held last night at the Nickel Theatre under the auspices of the Benevolent Irish Society was largely patronized. His Grace Archbishop Roche, under whose patronage the concert took place, attended, accompanied by Rev. Monsignor McDermott, and a number of parish priests. His Grace and suite were received by a squad of the C.C.C., who, standing at the salute, lined the yardway from the entrance gate to the door of the Theatre, and were there met by Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., the President of the Society, who escorted them to seats while the Band played the Pope's March. The concert opened with a selection "The Gloria" by the C.C.C. Band, under the conductorship of Mr. Frank Bradshaw. Two other selections were given by the Band, the second being "The Heavens Are Telling" (from the "Creation" by Haydn). The last, which closed the programme was the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah. The sacred solos which interspersed were choice selections and faithfully rendered, the accompanists being Messrs. Gordon Christian and F. J. King. The following is the programme:— Selection—"The Gloria" (From Mozart's Twelfth Mass)—C.C.C. Band. Solo—"Trusting in Thee"—Miss Krentzlin. Solo—"Abide With Me"—Mr. Karl Trapnell. Quartette—Ave Verum—Misses Ryan, Krentzlin; Messrs. Bradshaw, Sullivan. Solo—"The Better Part"—Miss M. Ryan. Selection—"The Heavens are Telling" (From the Creation)—Haydn—C.C.C. Band. Song—"Vox Clamantis"—Miss Marjorie Hutchings. Solo—"Hear Thou My Cry"—Mr. Ruggles. Solo—"Consider the Lilies"—Mr. Tucker. Selection—"Hallelujah Chorus" (From Handel's Messiah)—C.C.C. Band. The concert programme occupied about one hour, but it was an hour of perfect enjoyment that would well bear repetition.

Procession at Anglican Cathedral.

Last evening's service at the Anglican Cathedral was largely attended. Being the 21st Sunday after Trinity, and in the octave of the festival of All Saints, the order of evensong had specially arranged psalms and hymns. His Lordship the Bishop took the office and read the second lesson, the first lesson being read by Canon Jeeves. Second prayers were said by Rev. J. Brinton. The psalms and canticles were sung from settings by Stamford. Canon Jeeves, the Rector, preached a very timely sermon from the text "Remember the days of old." His discourse had particular reference to the progress of the church since the days when its history became inseparable from that of the British nation. After the offertory had been taken and presented, a procession of choir and clergy preceded by the crucifer via the North aisle, returning through the Nave, was held, the Bishop then pronouncing the Benediction.

Poppy Day Arrangements Well Under Way

Splendid working Committees have been organized for Remembrance Day November 11th, and the preliminary work is well under way. The sale of poppies will be conducted under the auspices of the G.W.V.A., with the cooperation of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The two great objects of wearing a Poppy on Armistice Day should be constantly impressed upon the public. The first of these is to keep for ever fresh the memory of those comrades who form the eternal guard in the battlefields of Flanders and France, and in the deep sea wastes which grid our Empire. The second, to create a fund to alleviate distress among veterans and dependents. In this connection the mandate of a famous General can be used to advantage—"Remember the dead by helping the living." Mrs. W. B. Fraser, 101 Gower Street has undertaken the organization of the city sale of poppies. Ladies who would be agreeable to assist, are asked to communicate with this lady immediately.

Dance for Orphans.

C.C.C. HALL TO-NIGHT. A dance arranged by Misses G. Wiseman and H. Noonan takes place in the C.C.C. Hall to-night. The C.C.C. Band will be in attendance. Some 200 couples have been invited for the occasion the proceeds of which will go towards the Church of England Orphanage Fund. A large attendance will no doubt be present to help along this worthy cause.

Laborers Leaving for Bermuda.

SECOND CONTINGENT FOR HAMILTON. Some fifteen men are leaving by S. S. Digby, sailing to-night, enroute to Bermuda, where they will be engaged on construction work in connection with the building of the new hotel there. This is the second contingent that has left here within the last two weeks, and it is not unlikely that a similar number will be engaged for the same purpose before the end of the month. Mr. John Robinson, the well known "chef" is amongst the number leaving here to-day, and will take charge of the commissariat department.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Rosalind left New York at 11 a.m. Saturday and is due at Halifax to-day. S.S. Sachem is due here from Halifax at 8 o'clock to-night. S.S. Digby sails for Halifax at 8 o'clock to-night. S.S. Particulars of Drowning

SEAMAN KNOCKED OVERBOARD. Further particulars of the loss of seaman Pomeroy is contained in the following message received to-day "From Magistrate O'Reilly, Piacentia:—"Paul Wilson, master of boat Flossie of Morastean, reports loss of Wm. Pomeroy whilst shaking out reefs of mainsail, when off Point Latine. Deceased leaves a wife and two children who reside at Morastean."

Chinese Murder Trial.

WO FEN GAME PLEADS NOT GUILTY—COURT INTERPRETER APPOINTED.

The Supreme Court was through this morning with spectators eager to get a glimpse of the Chinese, Wo Fen Game, who was up for arraignment on a triple murder charge, and also one of wounding with intent to kill. At about 11.30 the prisoner was placed in the dock between two constables. He leaped his right arm on the dock rail, with his hand under his face. In this position he remained throughout the proceedings, apparently frightened and occasionally taking furtive glances at the crowd. FULL BENCH PRESENT. The full bench was present. The Chief Justice, announcing the arraignment, said that Mr. L. Edward Emerson had been assigned by the Court to defend the prisoner. Deputy Minister of Justice Summers moving for arraignment introduced Mr. Alfred Hart as interpreter. On being put in the witness box he said that he was Chief Interpreter of the Department of Colonization for Chinese at Ottawa. He was British born and could converse in the Cantonese dialect, and he had acted as court interpreter in several minor cases in British Columbia. He said he had been examining Chinese emigrants in Canada during 1920 and 21 and in 1916 to 1917 was employed at the Custom House in Canton, China. SPECIAL INTERPRETER FROM CANADA. He informed the Court that he could not read, print or write the Canton dialect but from a conversation with the prisoner he was assured they could understand each other. The witness was thereupon sworn as official interpreter for the Court during the trial. CHARGES READ. The first charge that of killing Hong Loen on May 3rd last being read in English by Registrar Sir W. F. Lloyd, was translated by the interpreter. The accused did not answer, but shook his head. The interpreter replied to the Court that he pleaded not guilty. On the charges of murdering Hung Kim Hui and So Ho Ki, the prisoner answered similarly, and did the same on the last charge, that of wounding with intent to kill one Hong Wing. Deputy Minister of Justice Summers asked that trial be set for November 20th before a special jury—double panel. It was ordered accordingly. WHO HART IS. Mr. George Alfred Hart who has been appointed official interpreter for the Court, was sent here on the recommendation of the Department of Justice of Canada. He was born in Australia and spent 10 years in China. He has been connected with the Chinese Immigration Department in Vancouver for over two years. He is a young man, apparently about very little over 30 years. At the concluding of to-days proceedings, Kim Lee, one of the leaders of the local Chinese colony congratulated him, saying that they could understand his interpretation all right.

Amber in U. S.

The world's greatest source of amber is the shores of the Baltic Sea. Amber is the fossilized resin of several species of pine trees. In small quantities it has been found in various parts of the globe including the United States, but up to within a comparatively recent period no American deposit of amber extensive enough to be of commercial value has been discovered. Not so long ago however, amber was found at Cape Sable, on the Magogy River, in Maryland, and this arouses the hope that it may yet be discovered in paying quantities in this country. The deposit at Cape Sable has been known since 1821, but only lately has a careful investigation of it been made. The fossil tree trunks in which bits of amber are embedded are not, like those of the Baltic region, pines, but are believed by their discoverer to be specimens of the sequoia—Washington Star.

AT HOME.—Mrs. W. E. Campbell will be "At Home" to her friends on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 7th and 8th, from 3 p.m. to 5, at her residence, No. 123 Cornwall Ave.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)
Codfish—Owing to the unfavorable weather very little was handled in the past week and nearly all that was discharged from schooners was shore fish. Bonavista Bay and other schras. are due early next week, about 150 in all with over 10,000 quintals of Shore and Labrador and great activity is expected. The total exports to all markets from St. John's, Outports and Labrador since the last issue of this paper was 55,465 quintals as follows:

From Labrador and Outports—By schooner Neta from Atlantic Fisheries Co., Park's Pt., Labrador to Liverpool 2998 quintals; by schr. Review from Farquhar and Co., Bonne Bay, 1428 quintals to Halifax; by S.S. Margot from J. W. Hiscock Smokey, Labrador, 20,000 quintals to Malaga; by S.S. Kong Inge from J. W. Hiscock, Dark Tickle, Labrador, 18,800 quintals also to Malaga and S.S. Stella Maria from Farquhar, 610 quintals to Halifax.

From St. John's—By schr. Helma Pauline from Messrs. Job Bros. and A. E. Hickman Co., 1914 quintals to Barbadoes; by schooner Russel Zinck from A. E. Hickman Co., 922 quintals to Kingston, Jamaica; by S.S. Rosalind to New York, for transshipment to West Indies from Messrs. Baine Johnston and Co., Bevering Bros., Jas. Baird Ltd., Harvey & Co., A. H. Murray, R. F. Goodridge, C. F. Bennett & Co., A. Kean, E. Bidel, A. Hearn E. Chafe, T. Hallett, Campbell & McKay, Tor's Cove Trading Co., Renew's Trading Co., and Williams and Co. The Oporto market is in an overstocked condition with 68,297 quintals on hand this week and only 2115 quintals consumption.

Cod Oil—The shipments of Cod Oil continued active this week when 36-140 gallons were shipped to the New England markets. The S.S. Rosalind took out 13,257 gallons to New York from Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., and A. E. Ebsary. S.S. Belvernon's cargo to Boston included 22,183 gallons from Messrs. Baine Johnston and Co., Monroe Export Co., G. M. Barr and J. B. Orr; and Farquhar's ships took 720 gallons from the West Coast. The St. John's price per ton is $125 to $127.50 according to quantity.

Cod Liver Oil—The demand shows no improvement worth while although there are few enquiries that would indicate better business later in the season. Norway has been keeping the New England markets going the past four months at a price that gives them poor returns and their supply of 1922 oil will soon be exhausted. It is confidently expected by the trade that whenever the report of Prof. Zilva who visited here last summer, is published and the superiority of our Cod Liver Oil made known to the world, there will follow a boom in Newfoundland Cod Liver Oil and that next season will see better prices.

Flour—The market is strong this week with a decided upward tendency. When the price advanced five cents at Winnipeg on Monday. There is a marked scarcity of flour in the local market. Importation held off from buying on a falling market since August with the result that the supply ran short and every shipment is absorbed as soon as it arrives. Delays in transport in the past six weeks have aggravated the situation. Flour shipments are expected to come forward more abundantly this month which is fortunate, as the output demand will be at its highest point. Leading brands advanced from $8.50 to $8.60 per barrel this week.

Pork—There is no alteration in the pork market this week. Ham Butt contingents scarce and is still quoted at $32.50 per barrel wholesale. S. S. Belvernon brought in 150 barrels and S.S. Rosalind 615 barrels. The demand is quiet for the season but a brisk movement is expected as soon as the fish laden schooners have discharged their cargoes. The local prices to-day are $28.50 for Fat Back and S.C. Clear, $38. Grocers Family, $25.50, Spare Ribs $32, Morris Family and $31.25 for Regular Plate.

Beef—The market is practically unchanged, with quotations the same as last week. Box Flank $21.50; Extra Family $20.50; Family Special $17.50; New York Boneless $17.25 per barrel wholesale. S. S. Rosalind and S. S. Belvernon brought 1034 barrels to St. John's last trip which, together with what is due this week will give an ample supply to fill the fishermen's and other requirements. The imports to St. John's are about 9000 barrels in excess of last year to date.

Sugar—The sugar market has stiffened up and in the local market the advance has been 55 cents a hundred pounds the past month for white American granulated. The price is likely to maintain this firmness all the Fall and towards New Year experts predict a decline. The Montreal quotation this week is $7 to $7.10 per 100 pounds. The European Beet crop has been very good this season and holders of this product are willing to sell at to-day's prices, a factor which may prevent further advance. The present price is $11.50 to $11.75 according to quality.

Molasses—The quotation at Barbadoes this week is 45 cents per wine gallon for Fancy which is now practically cleaned up. A local importer received a cable this week from the Island offering 200 puncheons which the sender said was the last available of the 1922 Fancy. Choice is all gone and there is very little of it here in this market, all held by three firms. The price on Choice is therefore likely to advance to the same price as Fancy before the end of the year. The quotations to-day here are 72 cents for Choice and 80 cents for Fancy wholesale in the puncheons.

Potatoes—The market is steady and buyers seem to be in no hurry to lay in winter supplies. The Montreal quotations range from 85 cents to $1.00 per sack of 90 pounds this week, according to quality in car lots. F.E.I. has a good crop, but their prices are somewhat higher and the Islanders are no longer looking to make any sales worth while in Newfoundland except via Western schooners who go there for small cargoes. The Harbor Grace Standard this week complains that the crop there is below the average. The local price is $2 to $3 per barrel.

Hay—The hay market continues easy and dealers in Canada are counting on lower prices in the near future owing to the limited demand from all sources. Car lots of No. 2 Timothy in Montreal sold for $17 this week. The exports from Canada were never lower at this time of the year and consist of a few small lots to the United Kingdom and unless the price recedes the export will fall off entirely. There is a big crop of hay in Canada and the farmers are making every effort to keep up the price while buyers are holding off in expectation of an inevitable decline. The local price is $39 to $40 a ton.

Oats—The market is firmer on improved demand from England where No. 2 Canadian sold last week for 22 shillings and 9d. per quarter. At Montreal the price this week is 64 to 65 cents per bushel for No. 2 Western from car lots on the track. In the local market white oats are still quoted at $2.25 per sack and mixed $2.45 which figures are reworked by most dealers as the bottom prices for the season. Heavy consignments are coming forward from Quebec province this month and also some from P.E.I. Apples—The city market was slack this week till the arrival of the S.S. Silvia with 430 barrels. S.S. Sachem is due on Monday next from Halifax with large consignments of Fall apples. The market is getting stronger as winter approaches and Kings advanced from $6.25 to $6.50 per barrel here this week.

Onions—the market is steady. Valencia onions are $6.50 per case and Southern States $3.75 to $4 per sack, to arrive.

Grapes—To arrive will be higher than October price.

Cornish Fishermen. WATCH 14 YEARS FOR MENHADEN. ST. IVES, Cornwall.—For 14 years two garled, hawk-eyed fishermen, perched upon a precipitous cliff at St.

Ives overlooking the Atlantic, have watched for the return of the pilchard to the Cornish seas. This fish goes by the name of menhaden in the United States. William Noall and Edward Cothey keep their vigil from dawn until sunset. They never have their meals together—one eats while the other watches for the return of the fish to the Bay which was formerly the pilchard's favorite haunt. Fourteen years ago there was the greatest catch of pilchards ever known, and wealth came to the local fishermen, but since then the fish have only frequented the bay once. On that occasion they came to within two miles of the shore, but the whistling of an engine frightened them away, and possible fortunes were lost.

Heavily Jeweled Handbags Tempt Paris Thieves.

PARIS.—The latest handbags being carried by ultra fashionable women in French society are well worth the attention given them by the skilled purse snatcher. One seen at the Casino at Daville recently was made of fine platinum chain work crossed by eleven parallel rows of diamonds, the frames being heavily set with large diamonds. Platinum or gold frames, with large emeralds or rubies for clasps, are common, and all have costly fittings monogrammed in jewels. One model seen was of black moire silk with wide platinum frame incrustured with brilliants, a very large pearl forming the clasp.

Menace From Mines Still Present at Sea.

STOCKHOLM.—All ships leaving ports on the Baltic Sea have been warned of the renewed danger of mines, many of which have been found in various parts of the sea during the last month. The latest casualty laid to mines is the loss of the Finnish lightship Storbotten, which was blown up by a mine off Aland in September. Five of the crew of ten were lost. The loss of many vessels since the war is believed to have been caused by the mines. The sea was reported to be mine free after German boats had been sent to clear the waters last summer. It is now alleged that this job was not well done, and that there is still much danger from these floating derelicts.

Eczema Covered Arms of This Healthy Child

Mrs. Alex. Marshall, Sprucedale, Ont., writes— "When my little son was three months old he broke out in sores on his chest and arms. We did all we could to heal those terrible sores, but nothing did him much good. Finally I ventured on a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and kept on using it. At last we were rewarded by the steady healing of the sores, and finally he was completely relieved of them. He is now three years old, and has had no return of the trouble since."

THE SUCCESSFUL MOTHER-IN-LAW.

A Letter Friend who is about to become a mother-in-law by the marriage of her son, and who is to live with the young folks asked me if I thought it possible to be a successful mother-in-law.

Keep up interests outside the home so that she will not be dependent on the young people's companionship. Whenever possible, she should go out to meals and give the young folks a chance for a meal tete a tete.

Can They Shackle This Most Terrible Arm on Earth?

Whether or not you read the sporting pages—whether or not you approve of boxing—you probably know that Jack Dempsey is the heavy-weight champion of the world.

Your grandmother knows it. Your little boy knows it—just as he knows that George Washington was the first President and that Columbus discovered America.

The fact became a matter of universal knowledge—and interest—when the Dempsey-Carpenter battle "spilled over" from the sporting pages onto the front page of every newspaper.

You couldn't miss it—and if you had a normal curiosity, no matter what your ethical views on boxing may be, you must have said to yourself, "I wonder who the man is who will beat Jack Dempsey in turn, and take the title from him?"

And now there has emerged from comparative obscurity another man who believes he can beat Dempsey—who has challenged Dempsey and had the challenge accepted—and who, some people believe, may become the next world champion—if he is given the chance.

But will he ever be given the chance? Here is the interesting complication:

This boxer who has challenged Dempsey is a colored man. It chances that he is not black. He is brown. But he is a member of the negro race, a former stevedore from New Orleans, and in the United States there have come to light powerful sentiments opposed to fighting negro against white in the championship ring.

Harry Wills, this negro challenger, is believed to have "the most terrible arm on earth." Some experts believe he has the only arm that might "knock out" Dempsey.

Wills wants to fight. Dempsey says he is ready to meet him. The signed and accepted challenge is on record. But the forces which are opposed to a fight between black and white are powerfully at work to prevent the battle from ever taking place on American soil.

Several dates have been set—only to be "postponed." It is regarded as certain that the fight will not take place this year. Will it take place in 1923? Will it ever take place? Will this negro fighter ever be given an opportunity to use "the most terrible arm on earth" in an effort to win the world championship, or will the opposing forces succeed in shackling this arm so that it can never be used against the champion?

Why do they call Wills' arm the "most terrible arm on earth"? You will be interested in the explanation, even if you are not a close follower of the boxing "game."

A short time ago Harry Wills, after knocking out various other heavy-weight fighters in a more or less conventional manner, met a fighter named "Tut" Jackson at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. He knocked out "Tut" Jackson, too, but he knocked him out in an amazing new way!

The usual knockout blow—the blow that falls a man to the floor and prevents him from rising for ten seconds—is believed either on the chin, or over the heart, or in the solar plexus—that is, in the centre of the body, high above the "belt," but lower than the heavy chest muscles.

But the knockout blow that finished "Tut" Jackson was delivered to none of these points. It was a "kidney blow," a blow which crashed into the fighter's back! These kidney blows, these smashes when going into a clinch that beat away at the back of an opponent, are a recognized part of boxing, and are regarded as an absolutely fair part of the game—when fairly delivered. They have been used before, thousands of times, but never before has a fighter been knocked unconscious by such a blow.

"My favorite starting point is the ribs on the left side over the heart, which is easy to get at with a right-hand punch. Or if I find it handier to use the left I get him somewhere along the edge of the ribs and perhaps on the solar plexus."

"I got Fulton that way. The first left in the body was a knockout, and the left and right on the chin before he could fall were only insurance against his getting up again."

"The first punch I hit Willard was over the heart, and that punch beat him, although he was so strong and game that it took a lot of socking to finish him when I had him started."

Knocked out cold by a blow to the back! It was extraordinary. It was unheard of. It was so extraordinary that friends of Jackson raised a cry of "foul," claiming that Wills must have delivered the blow with the hard part of his arm and not with the padded glove. But the claim of foul was not substantiated, and the fact remained that for the first time in ring

John P. Murray Is Enthused Over Result

"Before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac I was beginning to feel fine, and was praising it so highly that I guess everybody in my family was using it," declared John P. Murray, well-known wheelwright of 340 Prince St., Truro, N.S.

"I hadn't been feeling just right for a long time—wasn't downright sick, but getting so I'd be just about all fagged out after a big day's work. My stomach began to go back on me too, and I was bothered with constipation all the time. My food soured on my stomach and I was badly distressed with gas."

"I was in an awfully run-down condition when a friend of mine who was taking Tanlac for the backache told me all about it and I started taking it. I can say it has built me right up. I can do the biggest day's work and still feel fresh at quitting time. My stomach is perfectly sound. I have a fine appetite and am simply in the shape all around. I am glad to recommend Tanlac to anybody looking for a stomach medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

History a man had been knocked out foul," said the sporting experts, "this brown giant from New Orleans has the most terrible arm on earth."

That's how the phrase originated and that's why it has "stuck."

This arm has knocked out many a good fighter—and some who were not so good. It has knocked out Bill Tate, Ray Johnson, Jeff Clark, "Gun-boss" Smith, Ray Bennett, "Kid" Norfolk and a number of other pugilists—men whose names are not important, except for sporting page statistics. It knocked out Fred Fulton with one punch.

Will it ever get a chance at Dempsey and the world title? Or will the commissions and reformers succeed in keeping it shackled so far as the championship is concerned? Here is what has happened up to now:

In the early summer it was announced that a fight was being arranged between Wills and Dempsey, and that it would be staged by "Tex" Rickard in the great wooden arena at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, where the Dempsey-Carpenter fight had taken place.

Immediately there were violent protests from various individuals and organizations which were opposed to letting a colored man compete for the championship. They recalled the disgraceful conduct of the Negro Jack Johnson after he had become world champion, and were loud in their opposition to anything that might be any remote possibility might lead to a repetition of the unsavory chapter in the sporting annals.

Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, was appealed to. He said, "There is nothing in the law covering boxing in New Jersey to prevent a meeting between Dempsey and Wills. It is legal, and in case the public wishes to see the champion and Wills in the same ring I will sanction the contest."

But the New Jersey boxing commission took a different attitude. "The public is generally opposed to such a match," said Robert H. Doherty, and indicated that the opposition shared in this feeling of opposition.

Then there was talk of staging the fight in New York. On June 14 Wills challenged Dempsey officially in New York and posted a money forfeit with the State athletic commission. This meant, theoretically, that Dempsey must accept the challenge within five months or that his title of world champion would be void in the State of New York. It became then not exactly the duty of the commission to see that the fight took place, but to see that the fight was voided if Dempsey failed to fight.

Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, said: "Dempsey is ready to fight at any time and place. The only stipulation is that the permission of the authorities be obtained and that we are guaranteed from interference."

It looked as if the fight would take place this year. On July 11, the managers for Dempsey and Wills signed mutually the formal agreement to fight.

Then came the series of evasions and postponements that has ended by raising the public question as to whether Wills will ever be allowed to meet Dempsey in the United States.

Precisely what influences are responsible is a tangled story. One version is that the New York boxing commission wanted to maintain a neutral attitude until after election without declaring itself outright and brought pressure to bear on Dempsey himself to "lie low" and seem to sanction postponement. It looked for a while as if Dempsey was playing a "postponement" game. He began to be criticized publicly, and on Labor Day he cut the tangle—if there was a tangle—by publicly announcing that he was ready and willing to fight Wills within a month.

Yet the fight hasn't come off. There is talk now of holding it next year. Will it ever take place in this country? Will it ever take place at all? If they succeed in keeping Wills "shackled" in the United States, will the fight take place in Cuba, or Mexico, or Canada? The whole sporting world is wondering.

IDLE RICH.

WALT MATH.

My lot is cast where millions are as thick as they can be, and, grouch as so many bears, they sit beside the sea; and every moment a o n e swears — their weird is hard to dream. Oh, every moment one sighs, and wishes he were dead, for he is tired of swatting flies, of eating daily bread; he's tired of swatting futile flies concerning days long sped. These rich men never learned to play, or loaf the long hours through; when in their prime each busy day showed some one they could no; some other rich men they might say were evermore in view. They never learned in all their days the use of useless things, like arguing with idle boys of cabbage and kings, or finding out, in fifty ways, the joy that loafing brings. They never learned to play vain tricks that do not bring in kale, to make top houses out of bricks, or read an Old Slueth tale; and so they file their weary kicks, and say that life is stale. Oh, parents, teach your sons to play and have a bully time, and do not let them break away that they may nail a dime, or haply, when they're old and gray, they'll say that life's a crime.

THE VICTIM—10 PARTS.
The big attraction for tonight is the sensational picture "THE VICTIM" produced by the Geobel Pictures Corporation, in ten parts, with the eminent actor Robert T. Haines in the role of Father Gostrow, assisted by a special picked cast. Throughout the picture are many pathetic scenes, particularly so in that, in which the aged mother in her home, surrounded by her daughter and grand children of dying, "Five minutes more and my boy will be sent to his Maker." For this part of the programme, Miss Hilda Krentzlin will sing "NEARER MY GOD TO THEE," and during the scenes depicting the execution on MOUNT CALVARY, there will also be sung "THE ROSARY." This scene is the most realistic yet produced on the screen, and will bring tears to many eyes. The picture is one that is entirely different from the regular pictures, shown from time to time, and it has with it a story that cannot fail to please everyone. The first performance begins at 7.15 and the admission fee is the regular one, twenty cents. The management would like all who can to come early and secure seats.—Adv.

Obituary.

GUSTAVUS H. DICKINSON.
It is with feelings of profound regret that the Telegram chronicles today the passing of one of our most prominent citizens, in the person of Mr. Gustavus Dickinson, who died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Earl S. Pinesat at 2 p.m. yesterday, after an illness of only ten days duration. The deceased who had reached the allotted span of three score years and ten, was for many years prominently identified in the trade of this country, having, until the year 1892, carried on an extensive business, founded by his father, the late Henry King Dickinson. He retired from the business life of the community only a few years ago, having conducted a Commission Agency on Water Street. The late Mr. Dickinson received his early schooling at Newton-Abbott College, and on returning to his native land entered the office of Walter Grievie & Co., subsequently joining his father. His mother was a native of Waterford, Ireland, and his father, a Lieut.-Col. of the Newfoundland Volunteers. His wife, who predeceased him several years ago, was a sister of the late Hon. J. S. Pitts. There survive, one son, Mr. Harry Dickinson, principal of the firm of H. W. Dickinson & Co., and two daughters, Mrs. Peter Duff and Mrs. Earl S. Pinesat, besides four grandchildren. The memory of Miss Ethel Dickinson, a daughter, whose devoted courage and sacrificial service, has been held in admiration and gratitude, stands perpetuated in the monument which has been erected to her heroic service in time of stress. Deceased was well known in athletic circles, and in his younger days was a walker of repute, whilst at swimming and rifle shooting he had few superiors. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Earl Pinesat, Circular Road.

IN GOLDWYN PICTURE, "PARDON MY FRENCH."

The story is brief, is that of a young actress who, unable to obtain work, is forced to become a maid in the household of a newly-rich family. Part of her duty is to guard the etiquette of the nouveau riche household but as she says at one point, "I was hired to teach you manners, but that is impossible. The plot is complicated by the entrance of a fake count and countess, who are after the wealth of the family that Polly is serving, and the attempt also of the ill-bred son to make love to the chic Polly. There is also an additional element in the situation in the presence of a neighbour known as Mac, a famous actor, who in the end makes Polly his leading lady for life. Right here we wish to call the attention of readers to the fact that "The Sign On The Door," Norma Talmage's greatest picture to date will be seen at this theatre very shortly.

Mrs. Walter Parsons will receive on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, 8th and 9th inst, from 3 to 6 o'clock, at her residence, 15 LeMarchant Road.

Complaint From Conception Bay.

(Hr. Grace Standard.)
The steamer "Senef" left St. John's direct for Labrador on Monday. Last Friday it was reported that she would make another trip to the coast, and advertisements in the daily papers on Saturday stated that she was to leave that evening on the trip. The trip will take in the North East Coast and Labrador, her trip to Labrador closing steamer connections for this year. Several Labrador dealers here and a number of others had freight and mail to send to the coast ready, on the supposition that she would call here, but the authorities did not consider the convenience nor the need of touching at any port south of Cook's Harbor. A quantity of freight, food and perishable articles was left here, and those who have been inconvenienced by her not calling are aggrieved and are expressing their dissatisfaction. Had notice of the steamer's going direct from St. John's been given, the mail and freight could have been dispatched to St. John's in time to reach here, the steamer being held a few hours for it if necessary. Evidently those responsible for the steamer's passing ports between St. John's and Cook's Harbor did not consider the needs of the other places, and their action is criticized. The Labrador trade is not altogether centered in St. John's, there are other places that have trade relations with the people on the coast. It may be a small thing to comment upon—this passing over of the needs and requirements of others outside of St. John's should be given, at least, a little consideration part of the time.

Mr. Pepy's Writes.

MAY CONTINUE HIS DIARY.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Sir—I hear from divers sources of the great desolation which the absence of my journal from your sheet has caused to many that did read it, and despite the unwillingness of my wife that I should so do, being that she would not have her private affairs noticed abroad, it doth seem like that I shall publish it again.
 You have told me, Sir, how many of those that write you have desired to know why it is that I do no longer edit my journal, and, indeed, Sir, I see in late issues of your sheet, how your scribbles from Salvage and Whitbourne, so make mention of me, and all this doth so please my vanitie, as to make me to brave my wife's anger, almost.
 As my official under the Navy Office of this country, as was my great ancestor, Samuel Pepys of the British Admiralty, I must soon take a journey to raise a fleet that will combat the anticipated invasion of our towns, but upon my return, Sir, perhaps it may be that I shall once more send you my journal. And indeed, Sir, should I do this then shall I request you that you call it "Pepy's Behind the Scenes," a suggestion which a lady that is well known in this town did make to me. And so, Sir, I shall now bid you farewell and would ask you that you be so kind as to call me to the minds of your readers. I am, Sir,
 Your most humble, obedient servant,
 SAMUEL PEPEY.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

WHEN I WOULD REST.

At times when night has settled down
 And shut away the noisy town,
 I take it in my head to look
 And ramble through an ancient book,
 A restful hour thus spending.
 But surely as I settle there
 In comfort in my easy chair,
 There comes this order ringing clear:
 "I wish you'd go at once, my dear,
 The furnace fire needs 'tending!"
 If I should lie me down to doze,
 And snatch a little sweet repose,
 To lose myself to pain and strife,
 The barter and the trade of life
 And all its hate offending;
 The moment that I close my eyes
 I then am called upon to rise
 And she will whisper sitting there:
 "I wouldn't go to sleep, my dear,
 The furnace fire needs 'tending!"
 From ere October unto May
 The furnace runs the live-long day
 Unseen; unhelped by mortal hand
 It does its work to heat the band
 And keeps the heat ascending;
 It seems to need no touch of care
 Until I find my easy chair
 And settle down, and then I hear
 Her one insistent cry: "My dear,
 The furnace fire needs 'tending!"
 There is no perfect peace, they say,
 No one untroubled lives his day
 Life's irritations catch us all,
 The rich and poor, the great and small,
 From which there's no defending.
 Yet why, I wonder, should it be
 One restless hour's denied to me,
 Why must this always interfere?

Healthful Throat is a Winter Joy

(Monday... Health Talk No. 8)

(By Wm. H. MacPherson, D.C., Ph.C.)

People who are subject to throat troubles sometimes called tonsillitis, laryngitis, and just plain sore throat, look forward to winter with dread. The weakness which causes cold to settle in the throat is directly traceable to pressure on nerves at the spine.

Because the throat is so easily reached with gargles and swabs, the first thought in throat troubles is usually of such remedies as this, with little idea that the cause is pinching pressure on spinal nerves emitting from the spine in the lower neck region. The Chiropractor readily locates the pinch and by his skill makes the necessary adjustments. There is always the danger in throat ailments of diphtheria developing and prompt and efficient attention is necessary.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:
 "I'm sorry, you can die rich if you'll find a way to change blackheads and pimples into smiles and dimples."

Osteopath's Son Gets Chiropractic.

The son of Dr. R. D. Grant was taken sick while his father was away from home. An M.D. quarantined the house. Dr. Grant was called home and sent for a chiropractor who was formerly an osteopath. And by chiropractic spinal adjustments the boy became convalescent in three days and on the fourth took an automobile ride. Case report in the Chiropractic Research Bureau file. Statement No. 1000.

S.S. Bethlehem Still At Port aux Basques.

CAPTAIN SUFFERS INJURIES.

The disabled s.s. Bethlehem, which was conveyed by s.s. Kyle into Port aux Basques some ten days ago, having been picked up three miles off

Channel Head, still remains in the same position. The ship is leaking badly, having a big list to port. Nothing has been decided upon as yet re a statement of claim that had been forwarded by the Redts to the agents. Word has been received by mail from Channel that Capt. Llewellyn Bragg, while effecting repairs to the damaged rudder head, at the time of the accident to the steering quadrant met with a very painful injury to his right hand, having one finger completely torn from its socket, while the hand itself is left in an almost helpless condition. Captain Bragg is a son of Mr. M. Bragg of H.M. Customs, Port aux Basques.

Digby from Liverpool.

HAD A STORMY PASSAGE.

S.S. Digby, Capt Chambers, arrived in port at 7 a.m. yesterday after a somewhat stormy passage of 8 days. Variable winds and heavy seas were encountered all the way across. The Digby picked up the Canadian Seignour's distress call on Thursday last for about 150 miles. Later, however, word that the Meigs was going to her assistance was received and the Digby continued to port. The ship brought a part cargo and the following passengers:—L. Blackstad, Mrs. J. S. Caldwell, Miss M. Curtin, A. L. Elliot, A. P. Lidstrom, Miss H. A. Lilly, H. LeMessurier, W. H. Quantrell, R. G. and Mrs. Winter.

Gale Severely Felt.

SCHR. LOST AT COACHMAN'S COVE.
 Mr. B. Norris received a message on Saturday stating that the recent gale was severely felt on the North East Coast, the sea being the worst seen in years, and much damage to lakes and fishing gear was caused. The schooner C.C.C. owned by Jas. Norris & Sons, was driven ashore at Coachman's Cove and became a total wreck, the crew, however, getting safely ashore in their boat.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service—The Evening Telegram

Resumption of Anglo-American Cable Letter and Week-End Letter Services.

The Anglo-American Telegraph Co. announces the resumption on November 1st of the Cable Letter and Week-End Letter Services to Great Britain and Ireland.
Cable Letters may be filed at any time and are delivered the following day. Week-End Letters may be filed at any time prior to midnight on Saturday and are delivered on Monday morning.

The rate for a Cable Letter to London and Liverpool is one-third the regular cable rate, and the rate for a Week-End letter one-quarter of the regular cable rate, in each case with a minimum of twenty words including the necessary prefix placed before the address to indicate the class of service. To places in the United Kingdom other than London and Liverpool there is an added charge of two cents per word in both classes of service to cover the landline transmission on the other side.

Both forms of service are designed for plain language business and social communications which do not require instantaneous transmission but are still of sufficient urgency that they should not be subjected to the delay incident to the carriage by trans-ocean mail. Each has its own peculiar field of usefulness, the Cable Letter serving for such correspondence as is not of immediate urgency but should still be disposed of within a day or two and the Week-End Letter for communications of perhaps still less urgency but nevertheless sufficiently important to require their transmission in quicker time than can be done by the overseas mail. Thus each in its own way supplies a distinct convenience of which the cable using public will no doubt be quick to take advantage.
