Chapter VI.

"No, cherie, I am sure you are too tired to do anything of the kind," mademoiselle replies, with affectionate determination, as she runs off fleetly and gracefully, giving a look at herself in a mirror she passes and adjusting her coiffure.

She keeps very close to the open door in the moonlight while she dives behind the tubs of myrtle and laurels and moves the cane-seated chairs, until Dallas, quietly smoking and pacing up and down beneath the rustling vine leaves, perceives his attention arrested.

"Can I assist you? Have you lost anything?" he asks, removing his cigar and standing in the doorway. "I think I know a plant when I see one," he mutters to himself.

"But, yes, monsieur," answers mademoiselle, in a dismayed tone. "Mademoiselle Yolande has dropped her bouquet, and she recommends diving behind the shrubs and rustling the branches in an apparently indefatigable search, until she is hot and tired from stooping."

Captain Glynn meanwhile has deliberately turned up a gaslight and taken a survey from the opposite side of the hall.

"There is no handkerchief here," he says, decisively. "Miss Dormer has lost it elsewhere, mademoiselle," and he takes out another cigar.

"Ciel, what shall I do?" mademoiselle says, in increasing despair; and Dallas Glynn, though quite wide awake to the misadventures of the quondam Miss Bella Glover, puts his cigar down and draws near to sympathize or help.

"But yes! Here it is!" mademoiselle says the next minute, pouncing with a joyful little cry on the morsel of cambric an lace. "Voilà, monsieur!"—and she holds it up before Captain Glynn's eyes.

"I'd lay anybody fifty to one there was no handkerchief behind that big flower-pot half a minute ago," Dallas says to himself. "I can't quite see through mademoiselle's little game; but I don't believe Yolande has a hand in it." Aloud he says composedly, "Mademoiselle, I congratulate you on your keen vision and your bright eyes."

He says it in the purest Parisian French, and, bowing to her, turns on his heel and goes out into the courtyard to smoke again.

Mademoiselle resolutely represses an outburst of spleen, as she slowly retraces her steps through the hall. At the foot of the staircase she looks back at the dark, symmetrical outline of the young man standing in the doorway, with the moonlight on his fair, uncovered head. She does not "laugh a merry laugh of scorn," like the lord in the Tennysonian ballad, but a laugh of concentrated spitefulness.

"I'll put a spoke in your wheel you won't like, my haughty gentleman, to pay you out for your impertinence!" she mutters through her close-shut teeth. "I thought you weren't going in for the little chit in real earnest, even with all her money bags. Now, I'm sure of it. I'll give the Viscount the straight tip when I write to him."

And this speech, in decidedly slangy and idiomatic English for a young French lady, bears evidence, first, that Mademoiselle Gantier, for a demure instructress of youth, is familiar with very peculiar expressions, and, secondly, that while the ladies of the picnic party ignored and neglected the poor governess, that astute young woman was making hay while the sun shone, to the extent of establishing a confidential acquaintance with Viscount Glynn. True, she never saw the son of the Earl of Pen-treath before; but a clever young woman like Bella Glover, alias Isabelle Gantier, never loses an opportunity of getting on and getting up in the world.

The next morning Yolande, from the high road above the cliffs, stands to watch the English boat steaming out into mid-channel, with her wake of foam in two widening lines behind her.

"I'm glad I didn't go down on the pier—I'm very glad I kept away," she tells herself, with a piteous little smile and a choked sob or two. "It would have looked so bad; I'm sure he would have thought it—so forward and unladylike of me, when he bade me good-by last night and never said a word about hoping to see me in the morning. He thought it would be a liberty to ask me such a thing, I suppose; but—but—oh, I should like to have seen him just for one minute!"

She gazes and gazes through tear-filled eyes, and with a heaving breast aching intolerably with a new, keen pain of longing and desolation, until the outline of the rapidly receding steamer is all but invisible on the misty horizon; and then the girlish head drops upon her hands, and Yolande bursts into bitter weeping. She is quite alone, for just as they turned toward the cliff road mademoiselle left her and hurried back into the town, declaring she must get that book from the library which has been promised to them for days.

"If you will go on slowly, cherie," she said. "I will overtake you in ten minutes."

It is considerably nearer three times ten minutes when mademoiselle reappears, somewhat flushed and breathless, as if by natural, seeing that she has just hurried back from the Custom House quay, where she has not only seen the travelers off, but "had the good fortune," as she says prettily, "to be of some light service at the last minute to Viscount Glynn."

She has interviewed with her voluble French between the viscount's rather stupid valet and a thick-headed French porter in a difficulty about surplus baggage. She receives in return a very gracious handshake from the viscount, and a bow with his hat raised as the boat swings out from her moorings; but it is a very slight, stiff salutation she receives from Dallas Glynn; and this goes down at once in mademoiselle's mental score against the haughty young soldier. With sweet humility, mademoiselle returns alike the friendly and the frigid bow with her brightest smile and a deep and respectful inclination of the head and shoulders.

"A nice, intelligent, amiable girl, that governess of those Dormers," the viscount observes to his cousin.

"Don't like her," Dallas responds, curtly. "She is much too sweet to be wholesome, and she is a fascinating woman, or I'm—a fool."

The viscount laughs his slow, sniggering laugh.

PIERCE FINES.

What a w t n times! The daily crimes present a frightful story: the robbers steal the plunk and a wheel, the slayers' hands are gory. The sinful cranks are robbing banks, they're using guns and axes; the crime wave rolls and dawns our souls, as great or still it waxes. Each day I read of deadly deed, of gold and dainty bodies knocked out by wights who spend their nights consuming booties toddlers. The baffled cop can't make crime stop as up the town he sallies, and thieves and veges on busy legs are sprinting through the alleys. And toughs and bums infest the slums kidnaped maids are squealing; such grisly news I must peruse, it keeps my senses reeling! I read these tales, my spirit quails, while yet the wave advances; and it seems queer that year by year no evil to me chances. No robbers meet me on the street and tell me to deliver; no hand-dits bold bear off my gold or steal my priceless silver. My skull's intact, it's not been whacked with black-jack or with bludgeon; I've not been shot by gammaa hot, or other grim carnage. I stay at home, I do not roam by night in darkened places; home life enchants when one has aunts with many charms and graces. I read my book and Josh the cook and play a game of checkers, and so avoid the graft employed by slayers, thieves and wreckers.

CAMP DAYS AT MANUELS.

The day opened dull with occasional showers but the boys met it with a smile like true Scouts.

There are seventy boys on the roll. Everything in camp is running at its best and the boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost. The new comers in camp are W. Driscoll, R. Cook, Max Harris, A. Matthews, C. Newell, H. Bradley, H. Tizard, C. Baker and Troop Leader A. Stacey spent the week end at camp. Some very interesting side shows were witnessed on last Thursday, the Dempsey-Gibson fight and the Rock Shed, the wild man from Borneo, and the tribe of man-eating cannibals. The boys are looking forward to sports day with great interest. The tent inspection, shows every patrol up to the standard. Mr. W. H. Peters, Rev. H. Johnson and J. S. Currie are helping to make the camp a tremendous success. Scout Master Tizard and troop leaders Mayo and Stevens are doing all in their power to make the camp a record one. The boys are anxious to know who has the key of the cook-house lantern, and the cover of the pruned box. The boy's favorite dish is Manuel's Sandwich (a caplin between two beach rocks).

The camp was surprised on Saturday night by being turned out to put out a fire which proved to be a scouting game by Raspberry Mayo and Strawberry Stevens. The fire brigade, headed by Scoutmaster Tizard, put out the fire in true Scout style and captured Strawberry and Raspberry and punished them, the result being Strawberry going around the camp bandaged up ever since. Jobbie D. and the Fry Trio are stowing away a lot of grub lately. Hanna W. Ered, is ever on the alert for the cook-house call and does full justice to it. The Caplin Squad, headed by R. Eppham Cave, Flatfish Matthews, and Smoky Sid Maunders, are still at the same old job.

Two football games were played this afternoon, the Caribous vs. Panthers, Tigers vs. Eagles, which resulted in a win for the Caribous and Tigers.

By forest, stream, and musketry.
By lake and rocky vale,
By haunts of moose and caribou,
By ancient Indian trail,
We travelled with our instruments
For many a weary day;
Our purpose was to build a road
From the 'Soo' to Hudson Bay.

We fought mosquitoes in the swamp
And sand-flies in the hills;
We suffered from the 'Packer's Cramp'
And other kindred ills,
And as we travelled mile by mile
Towards the finished road,
The silence of the wilderness
Was added to our load.

We tramped through frozen snow-drifts
Beneath a winter sky;
We waded through the floods in spring.
We watched the summer die,
Day after day we laboured,
We waded after gains for all our pains;
And now our task is finished,
Our war of peace is fought.

Behind us came an army
To till the land we'd won;
To mine its hidden metals
And labour 'neath its sun,
Where yesterday the wild red deer
Was wont to drink their fill
Is heard the clang of hammers
About the new-built mill.

The trains are running night and day,
By day and night they run,
To where the ice-embattled shore
Lies 'neath the midnight sun,
And leaped against the reluctant bush
The towns and hamlets grow;
The dawnlights of prosperity
In New Ontario.

And we, who built this highway
That runs from south to north,
What woe our gains for all our pains?
What kudos brought we forth?
What was the spur that drove us
When weary of the fray?
What cheered us when our spirits
Were lowered?

What helped us day by day?
'Twas not the thanks of the future,
Nor yet the mobs acclaim;
'Twas not the fun or the cash we got;
'Twas not the fleeting fame,
But 'twas our love of the northland
That heartened us through the fight,
Love was the god that built the road--
Love made the work seem light.

Ernest Shipment Famous Production.

"CAMERON OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED" AT THE NICKEL.

The Nickel Theatre after waiting for a lengthy period, to-night presents to local movie fans Ernest Shipman's famous production of "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," which is the only genuine drama depicting the life of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police. Many noted screen stars and stage celebrities were enrolled in the filming of this picture, under the able direction of Henry MacRae. The entire story being photographed in the foothills and mountains of the Canadian Rockies, thus emphatically telling the truth in pictures.

Captain Glass (the screen's ideal leading man), hero of "Humoresque," "God's Crucible" and other screen successes, has again been entrusted with a leading role. Vivienne Osborne who plays juvenile him, is the well remembered juvenile lead of "Over the Hill." The plot is of the Canadian North West, dealing with the life of a young man who leaves his home in Scotland and joins the force of the Mounted Police. There is a girl in the story, of course, and a romance that will carry you back to the days of your own care-free youth. You will want to see this picture, with its fast-moving, colorful backgrounds and lure of the great outdoors.

Motor and Cab Collide.

Last evening, whilst one of the Royal Company's buses and a cab owned by Mr. T. Gibbs were proceeding to the Kilbride Garden Party, a collision occurred which resulted disastrously for the cab. One of the rear wheels of the cab was completely demolished.

A Thought for Our Dumb Friends.

While all of us are occupied for the most part in seeing to our own comfort and making every effort to better our own condition, may we not pause for a moment to give a passing thought to our Dumb Friends? Daily in the streets we see the horse performing, or trying to perform the work he is set to do. Often he is doing it under difficulties; sometimes he is set to do the impossible. At no time can he voice his protest, but is dependent upon his driver, merciful or otherwise, sensible or a fool.

Winter and summer the horse in this city works under many difficulties that do not exist to the same extent elsewhere. The hills are long and steep, and the heaviest loads have to be pulled against the gradient. He is impeded by heavy snow in winter, and in summer he suffers as intensely as we do ourselves by reason of the dust. Flies are to him a torture, and his only weapon of defence is his tail, which is often tied up or docked in such a manner as to render it useless. Anything that can be suggested to make his lot easier is deserving of support, and anyone who through sheer callousness makes his life a misery should be treated in a like manner himself. There is no need for mawkish sentiment in the matter. The horse is intended to be a beast of burden, and all that is expected is that he will be treated kindly by his master, that he is not overworked, that he is properly fed and watered, and comfortably housed.

What applies to the horse applies in equal measure to the other animals. Some of them are intended to supply us with food. If the methods adopted in the transport of these animals and in the slaughter house are humane, everything has been done for their welfare. Children through acts of thoughtlessness often inflict upon the smaller animals untold suffering, and too early a start cannot be made to impress upon them both at home and in school that animals have feelings as well as themselves. Instances are not unknown where persons whose age cannot be pleaded in defence of their actions, have been guilty of the grossest cruelty. Sentences imposed recently in English Courts in such cases have not erred on the side of leniency, nor have these sentences aroused much sympathy for the delinquents.

We have in our midst a branch of the Society which all over the world is caring for the welfare of the animals. They give their time freely and ungrudgingly. All they seek is the support and sympathy of the public and they have it in full.

H.M.S. Constance.

GIVING DANCE CADET HALL TO-MORROW NIGHT.

The officers and crew of the H.M.S. "Constance" now in port are giving a dance from 8.30 to 11 at the C.C.C. Hall, King's Beach, to-morrow night. It is a peculiar and rather regrettable fact that a seaport town such as ours does not possess any organization similar to the Navy League of Canada and kindred bodies in the United States whereby we could extend the hearty welcomes and entertainment we should like to the senior branch of the Service. The absence of such, however, has commendably prompted a number of our well known enthusiastic heads of patriotic and public committees to be responsible for a certain number of ladies being present—the only regret being that the short time at the disposal of the volunteer Welcome Committee precludes the possibility of personally addressing a formal invitation to each of the ladies who are being asked to attend.

The ship's orchestra will render a delightful programme of very latest English and American dance numbers, and the Hall is being tastefully decorated in the manner for which the Navy lads are noted. Some delightful new novelty dances will be introduced—similar to those now the vogue in England—and a delightful and most pleasant evening is assured to those who will have the good fortune to be present.

Yesterday's Outings.

GEORGE ST. CHURCH.—The annual Sunday School picnic of George St. Church was held yesterday afternoon at Mount Pearl. Upwards of 480 children, teachers and friends left the city by train at 11 o'clock and proceeded to the grounds. During the afternoon various games and sports were indulged in, and the supervision of Mr. Cyril Horwood were well contested and highly interesting. Tea was served by the ladies of the church at four o'clock and the appetites of all were fully satisfied. Return to town was made by train at 7 o'clock. The outing was a most pleasant one and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Wesley Picnic.

The annual Sunday School picnic of Wesley Church was held yesterday afternoon at McDougall's Field, Blackmarsh Road. The children were conveyed to the grounds by motor trucks and lorries kindly placed at their disposal. The usual games were indulged in, and in the afternoon and evening a special sports programme was run off, which proved very enjoyable. Return to town was made at 8 p.m., each and all voted the outing a decided success.

Congregational Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Queen's Road Congregational Church Sunday School was held yesterday afternoon at Smithville. The scholars with their teachers and friends were conveyed to the grounds by motor cars at noon hour, and from then until 6 p.m. a delightful time was spent amongst themselves in the various games. The supper was all that could be desired. The children returned to town at 8 p.m. feeling rather tired but happy after a most enjoyable day.

St. Bon's Association.

ANNUAL MEETING TO-NIGHT.—The annual meeting of the St. Bonaventure's Old Boys' Association takes place at the College after the football game to-night, when the election of officers for the coming year will take place. We understand President W. R. Howley, K.C., will not accept nomination, and a new President will be elected.

"A Stitch in Time."

"Here you see the waistcoat worn by Lord Nelson at the battle of Trafalgar," said the museum in his most impressive voice. "The bullet that ended his life went through this hole here." "Dear dear," exclaimed an old lady, "now that just proves the old proverb about a 'stitch in time.' If that hole had been mended at the proper time the bullet would not have gone through it, and dear Nelson would not have died."

Arrivals at Stag Bay.

Deputy Minister of Customs, H. W. LeMesurier, received a wireless message yesterday from Sub Collector Warwick Smith, who went to Stag Bay, Labrador, by S.S. Watchdog, reporting that the motor boat "Bonanza Creek," from Briggs, and the "Tribe B," from Hawke's Bay, had arrived, also Snow's vessel from Clarke's Beach. The Sylvia II. and the Nova Scotia vessels had not reached the scene, being evidently detained by ice further south.

Concert on Rosalind.

A very enjoyable concert held on board S. S. Rosalind last night was presided over by Capt. James. The programme consisted of recitations, solos, reading and community songs. The accompanists were Miss Marion Hutton and W. E. Coen. A collection in aid of the P.M.D. Fund was taken up and the handsome sum of eight dollars realized. The ship is giving a dance on board to-morrow night for the round trippers and their friends from the city.

Scarcity of Lime.

Farmers and other users of lime have great difficulty in securing a supply of the commodity and consequently the usual whitewashing proceedings are in many instances held up. If lime could be produced at a reasonable cost there is a good market here for it. At the present price $1.20 per bushel at the kiln it is prohibitive for agricultural purposes.

Senef Reported.

The Department of Shipping received a message from Capt. George Barbour of the S. S. Senef last night, as follows:—"Arrived at Holton, on the north of Indian Harbor; no sign of fish north of Pack's Her. Good sign of fish from Grandy to Cape Charles. No fishing vessels north of Emily Hr."

Investigating Medical Oil Industry.

Doctors Johnson and Quellan have been here for some time past looking over the manufactured cod-liver oil industry, are at present in Harbor Grace on a visit of inspection to the freezing plant there. On Monday they visited the factories at Bay Bulls operated by Messrs. Williams and Hearn. They took samples of the oil as well as samples of fresh livers. These visitors are prominently identified with the largest handlers of medicinal oil in the United States. Their investigations are being conducted on a scientific basis, somewhat after the system employed last year by Dr. Zilvia with the exception that they are bearing all the expenses. Chief Inspector E. G. Coyell has been very active showing the visitors over the different manufacturing plants. So far as they have gone they have been deeply impressed with "everything they have seen in connection with this industry. Lately there have been very many enquiries from foreign countries re our medicinal oil and the prospects for its future look bright.

Magistrates Court.

A 23-year-old laborer, residing on Lime Street, was charged with (1) using threatening language towards his father, and (2) refusing to obey a summons. The defendant, who was not asked to plead, was held on remand. A 30-year-old domestic, belonging to Tilt Cove, taken in by the police for safekeeping, will be looked after by the Court. A motorist for committing a breach of Section 5 of Order No. 3, under Street Traffic Regulations, was convicted and ordered to pay costs. A lady motorist was summoned to Court for driving a motor car at a speed dangerous to the public, also driving a car without first having obtained a license. In this case the defendant was ordered to pay costs, it being her first offence. A codtrap case between two fishermen of the Battery, occupied the attention of the Court up to 1 p.m. Fees was taken until 3 o'clock when the further hearing will be continued.

Orphanage Garden Party Great Success.

The annual Garden Party held in aid of the Church of England Orphanage at Shannon Munn Memorial Grounds yesterday proved an entire success. The weather was delightful and thousands from the city spent a most enjoyable evening amidst surroundings which had been gaily decorated for the occasion. One very notable feature was the order prevailing in the regulation of traffic. The different tents and tea tables were well stocked with eatables and a thriving trade was pushed by an energetic committee of ladies. The various side shows were also well patronized. The variety stalls, where books, flowers, candy and ice cream were sold added considerably to the revenue. The C. L. B. and Mount Cashel Bands were present and discoursed splendid music, which was thoroughly enjoyed. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardoe visited the grounds during the afternoon and were received by the management. A very fine sports programme was run off and occasioned considerable interest.

Admitted to Bail.

A city laborer, who was arrested about three weeks ago and charged with attempting to enter and steal from Moore's garage on the South Side, still held on remand, came up for hearing in the Magistrate's Court yesterday. After the charge had been given to the accused he was given the option of being tried by the lower court, to which he consented. The hearing of this case was postponed until a later date, the Crown not being ready to proceed. In the meantime the defendant was admitted to bail. He signed bonds amounting to $3,000 in his own behalf and secured two other securities at $1,000 each to appear when called upon.

Kilbride Garden Party.

A large gathering attended the Kilbride annual Garden Party held yesterday at Brien Farm. Amongst the visitors during the afternoon were Sir R. A. and Lady Squires, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McDermott and many members of the city clergy, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunt and many others. The different sideshows, including wheels of fortune, etc., did a rushing business, while the many tea tables were well patronized and the proceeds it will equal last year's. The big attraction of Kilbride Garden Party is the sports programme. This year it was full up to expectations. A detailed account of the events will be found in our Sports Column elsewhere in this issue.

L.W.W. START ON CRUSADE.

NEW YORK, July 19. Firmly believing in efficiency of direct action hundreds of men of I.W.W. are leaving here this morning on a crusade to Port Arthur, Texas, the object of which is the protection of I.W.W. constitution and rights of three "dobbles" said to have been kidnapped and severely beaten there. More than 20,000 men will cover 2300 miles on foot by freight and by sea.

END OF STRIKE NOT YET IN SIGHT.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 18. While four thousand striking miners at Glace Bay mass meeting to-night declared themselves in favor of remaining on strike in spite of the Lewis cancellation order revoking charter of their district organization only one lone miner voting loyalty to International. The miners of Westville quietly met at closed conference and declared to return to work on Friday morning. No responses being given to this first break in the on-strike, and complied with the sentiments voiced at Glace Bay when McLachlan said that if they came down to the last lot they would go back to work and recuperate for another strike, offers a first real hope of immediate peace. A Springfield despatch states that Robert Foster, personal representative of John L. Lewis, passed through that town this afternoon enroute on official business to Glace Bay, which he will reach to-morrow morning.

Death of Martin J. Kinsella.

AT CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Word was received in town by the last mail of the death of Mr. Martin J. Kinsella, which occurred at the Holy Ghost Hospital, recently. The deceased was born in Harbor Grace 67 years ago; he was a grandson of Mrs. Maher, former proprietress of a well known hotel which flourished in the second city at the time. Mr. Kinsella was for many years connected with the firm of Jas. Ryan & Co., at Bonavista, after receiving his early business training in St. John's where he was employed by Messrs. Sellars & Kearns. Leaving Bonavista he entered the firm's employ at King's Cove at which place it was stationed for 25 years. He then proceeded to Kearney, N.Y., and later to Cambridge where he and his family secured good positions. Mr. Kinsella was married to Miss Annie Sullivan, who, with four sons and five daughters, was at the hospital with the Sisters of Charity when he passed away. Mr. Kinsella's health failed him during the past three months, and he was an inmate of the hospital only two weeks. He was well known in the city. Mr. Grace, Bonavista and King's Cove, at which places he won the esteem of the people by his sociability and wit. His remains were interred at the Cambridge Cemetery yesterday a large number of Newfoundlanders are interested. The cortege was followed by a large number of sympathizers.

SPORTOGRAPHS

TO-DAY'S RUGGER.
The following have been selected to represent the City in to-day's Rugby football game with H.M.S. Constance—Full back, J. Withers; Three-quarters, E. Fox, E. Jerrett, A. B. Perlin, A. Bruce; Halves, J. E. Rowner, W. Thford; Forwards, McDonald, J. Patterson, G. Harrison, C. Crobble, W. Clouston, M. J. Taylor, R. Martin, D. Frason.

The City players are very grateful to Mr. C. P. Ayre and the Committee of the Ayre Athletic grounds for the use of the M.C. field for the game.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.
These old-time but friendly rivals the C.E.L. and Star go over the top to-night in their regular schedule game. Each year the contest between the two has always been a hard fought one and a good brand of football is invariably handed out. Mr. C. Quick will referee.

C. OF E. GARDEN PARTY GREAT SUCCESS.
The Committee who organized and ran off the sports at yesterday's Garden Party deserve all the congratulations that were heaped on them. Despite the many handicaps they surmounted them admirably, and their efforts added greatly to the successful event. Following were the items:

Final Football 6's—Star vs. Felidians. Won by Felidians, 3 goals.
Guards vs. C.E.L. Won by Guards, 1 goal.
Girl Guides Relay—Won by Bishop Spencer Troop (Misses D. Sellars, R. Goldstone, H. Hatley). Girls' Friendly Troop second.
Junior Football 5's—Gaelic vs. Scouts. Won by Gaelic, 2 goals to 1.
Holy Cross vs. Wesley. Won by Wesley, 2 goals to 1 corner.
1 Mile—Won by C. Stone. Time 5 min. 7-2-5 secs. R. O'Toole 2nd.

(This race was the finest seen for some time. There were three entrants. O'Toole took the lead followed by Stone at 3 feet. This position was held throughout the race until within five feet of the tape when in the final spurt Stone nosed ahead and won by about a foot.)

Mercantile Regatta.—Won by Harvey's Longshoremen.
Final Football 6's (Senior)—Guards vs. Felidians. Won by Guards, 1 goal to 2 corners.
Final Football 5's (Junior)—Wesley vs. Gaelic. Won by Wesley, 1 goal to 1 corner.
Pony Race—Won by Skinner's pony. Hutton's second and Osmond's third.

The C.L.B. Pyramid squad, under instructor Rendell, gave an exhibition which was creditably performed and won marked applause.
A miniature Golf competition tie between Messrs. Hugh Garland and Kelloway was won in the play-off by Mr. Garland. The prizes were presented at the conclusion of the affair by Mrs. (Hon.) Tasker Cook, who congratulated the winners on their success.

COMPETITORS PLEASE NOTE.
Entries for the 3 mile road and Junior Football Relay Race at Mount Cashel must be made before Monday evening to Mr. Charlie Ellis. Pony entries will be received by phone at Mount Cashel.

KILBRIDE SPORTS.
The big attraction on the sports programme, were the horse and pony races which provided plenty of thrills. The horse races were run in heats, the course being in charge of Rev. Bro. O'Regan, and Messrs. W. Brennan, Alan Williams and P. Merner. In all three heats were run, and in the finals John Nolan's horse came first, Gibbs 2nd, and Fahy and James tied for third place.

The pony race was also well contested, five ponies competing, and resulted in Jackman and Greene's pony, driven by W. Baird taking first prize. Butler's came second and Tobin's 3rd.

The Junior football five were won by the Holy Cross who played off with the B.I.S. and after playing three periods won by a goal. The drawing of the Kilbride Derby will take place within a week as a large number of stubs are still outstanding.

ROAD WALKING RACE AT HIGHLAND GAMES.
It is understood that in connection with the Highland Games to be held next month a ten mile walking match will be included in the programme, the course to be from the Octagon to St. George's Field. It is now some years since the last walking match took place and many regretted that this annual event was discontinued.

The twenty mile walking matches were very popular, and the introduction of the 10 mile walk will be an added attraction for the Highland Games.

WELL SEE THEM HERE, NEVERTHELESS.
Shelby, Mont.—Shelby now is staging a fight for the movies of the fifteen rounds, which Tommy Gibbons went with Jack Dempsey.

Government agents are playing hide and seek with the movie men who have the pictures in their possession, fearing an attempt will be made to "smuggle" them into another state contrary to the law against interstate transportation of fight films.
Four secret service men are on the trail of the movie operators, but they could not prevent the disappearance of the films.
It is reported several copies left here in a mysterious automobile which set out for the Canadian border lately.
It is presumed that the Government agents have blockaded the roads. They are expected to seize the films if an attempt is made to smuggle them.

The movies now seem to be the sole hope of the losers in the financial race which developed in Shelby's effort to stage a world championship battle. It is believed their increased value—as a result of Gibbons' staying fifteen rounds with the champion—may help the promoters to pull out of the mire.

A BIASED REPORT.
Judging from the reports in the American press one would naturally infer that Hoover (the U. S. entry) and Belyea (the Canadian contestant) had both received ungenerous treatment in England during the Diamond Scull Championships. Reference to our cable column will see that this is entirely unfounded, according to Belyea, and that Holiam, the English champion, won only because he proved himself in every way to be the better man.

BELL ISLAND GARDEN PARTY.
An elaborate sports programme is being arranged for the Bell Island Garden Party on August 11th, and a number of city athletes have announced their decision to compete.

OUT OF THE FRYING-PAN.
Golfers are sensitive souls, and are easily put out. They are particularly put out when they fail to put the ball in—but that is by the way.
One day our old friend the retired major returned from a hectic morning on the links, and for some while his wife wisely forbore asking him how he had got on. But at last, when he had cooled down a bit, she put the question, and inquired whether he had a good game.

"No—rotten!" glared the major.
"How was that, dear?" she asked.
"Well, it was all the caddy's fault," answered the major. "Bless my soul, if he didn't have the hiccup!"
"But surely he didn't hiccup all the time, dear?"
"No," fumed the major, "he didn't; tomorrow, under ideal weather conditions he hiccupped I'd miff my stroke, and every time he didn't I'd miff it worse, waiting for the hiccup to come!"

GUARDS TRACK TEAM AT HARBOR GRACE.
(Special Staff Correspondent.)
The annual garden party of St. Paul's Cathedral, Hr. Grace was held at Shannon Park yesterday afternoon under ideal weather conditions. The Committee of Management prepared an excellent sport programme for the occasion, and with the entrants of the Guards track team from St. John's, and the appearance of Mr. John Bell, the long distance runner, the citizens of Hr. Grace, Bay Roberts, and Carbonear turned out en masse to witness the athletes in action. Although the grounds were by no means conducive to good running, the St. John's boys having won out in all events, created a wonderful impression, while the two mile exhibition by John Bell was considered a real treat to the 2,000 people who witnessed him. As he started into the last quarter mile, the British Band, who were present, played the Banks of Newfoundland, and as he completed the final he received a splendid ovation from the crowd. Hr. Gracians regretted that their shining light, Gerald Dooley, was unable to show his wares against the local sprinters. Gerald left for Badger about two weeks ago where he will reside in future. The performance of Bert Butt, Carbonear, in the short distance events, and that of F. Hawker in the middle distance runs, was most creditable indeed, considering that they had very little practice. Both of these boys with training, are bound to be heard from in the future. Gordon Perry of the Guards A.A., easily defeated his field of four starters in the mile. Perry's style of running was greatly admired. He ran a well timed race and finished with a pretty burst of speed. Jimmy Herder, Tom Butler and Jack Hamlyn, also of the Guards A.A., who competed in the sprints, caused plenty of excitement—and Herder's running was superb.

The programme of events and winners are as follows:
Football Sixes—Academics versus Shanions. Won by former; 1 goal and one corner to 2 corners.
2. 100 Yards—1st Herder; 2nd Butler. Time 19 1/2 sec.
220 Yards—1st T. Butler; 2nd J. Hamlyn. Time 26 sec.
Field Regatta—Won by Academics. Relay Race—Won by Guards A.A. Butler, Hamlyn, Herder; 2nd, Ex-Academics.
440 Yards—1st J. Hamlyn. Time 59 seconds.
Wheelbarrow Race—Won by Garland and Sullivan.
1/4 Mile—1st Hawker, Carbonear; 2nd Butt, Carbonear. Time 3.25.
High Jump—Won by W. Ross. Height 4 ft. 11 in.
2 Mile Exhibition—John Bell. 1 mile—1st G. Perry; 2nd R. Butt, Carbonear. Time 5 min. 5 seconds.
Final Football Sixes—Bay Roberts vs. Scouts. Won by Scouts. The winners were W. Webber, M. Davis, S. Martin, J. Davis, P. Elsworth, D. Burke.
Rev. W. R. J. Higgett, Captain of the Field, with his energetic Committee, carried out the programme in a most satisfactory manner.
The Guards Track Team speak in slowly terms of the splendid reception accorded them by all Hr. Gracians whom they had the pleasure of meeting, and they feel thankful to Rev. Higgett and committee for their many kindnesses shown during their short but enjoyable stay.

The Garden Party was an unqualified success from every standpoint.
At night an enjoyable dance was held in the Academy Hall. Upwards of 250 people attended. The music was furnished by the British Band.

CITY VS. NAVY SATURDAY.
A special city team is being selected to play the "Constance" eleven at St. George's Field on Saturday evening at 7.30. The Navy lads are reported to have an exceptionally clever team and the clash should result in a good contest.

A Family Affair.
I heard that splendid actor, Henry Ainley, fire off a good story the other day.
It concerned a certain insurance company who kept on paying an annuity to an Irish farmer dwelling in the wilds of Connemara.
This particular man had been on the company's books for so long that the unprofitable business had become almost a joke.
Eventually, however, it was decided to send someone over to make inquiries, and the company's representative arrived in due course at a cabin in the hills.
"Does old Patrick Murphy live here?" he inquired of the first person he could find.
"No, He's dead. But that's his son ploughing in the field over yonder."
The insurance man crossed the field and found a young, extremely healthy-looking man at work.
"Are you Patrick Murphy?"
"I am."
"Is it you that has an annuity from the Blank Insurance Company?"
The farmer smiled happily.
"Glory be!" he exclaimed, "It's me, self, so it is. An annuity I have, and so did Patrick Murphy, me father before me."

TO THE CITY FROM THE FARM.
Baltimore Sun: Perhaps the most significant thing about the migration from farm to industry is the fact that most of those who have moved are men who are normally on the fringe of agriculture. The large farms in Virginia, says Mr. Crown, "are hit hardest because the big farm never carries enough year-round labor to take care of the harvest season." Sympathy with the predicament of these farmers must not be allowed to conceal the fact that a farm-hand who is in demand only a few months of the year is justified in seeking his living where he can be reasonably sure of steady employment.

NATIONALITY.
New York Times: Some curious sidelights on national feeling are shown by the lately published statistics of the Czech-Slovak census. Roughly, 85 per cent. of the 13,000,000 inhabitants of the republic are Czechs or Slovaks by "nationality"; somewhat more than 23 per cent. are Germans, and so on. The last previous census was taken in 1910, under the dual monarchy; at that time the percentage of Czechs and Slovaks was rather less than 5.9. In eleven years the percentage of Germans has dropped from 27.5 to 23.4; that of Magyars from 8

THE WORLD'S PRESS.
BRICKLAYERS OUTDONE!
New York Evening Post: The mill worker who won $150,000 on the English Derby has ceased to be envious of New York bricklayers.
WANTED, A NEW MISTRESS.
Westminster Gazette: The basement house, the old-fashioned town house in general, is an abomination, and should be swept away. But even before that consummation we must insist that the new mistress is more necessary to discover than the new servant.

A WORD FOR BULGARIA.
London Daily Chronicle: The whole question of Bulgaria's outlet to the Aegean Sea has been shelved with complete indifference alike to the welfare of that little country and to promises made. Bulgaria since the war has acted with diplomatic correctness and perfect loyalty to the Treaty. She deserves better treatment than she has received.

SCIENTIFIC TRADING.
Perth (Australia) Western Mail: The aim of Imperial trade policy should be to make us at least economically and nationally secure, though the rest of the world should be convulsed in chaos. But this can only be done by organized efforts in which the mother country and all the dominions are participants to redistribute the trade of the different parts on a scientific plan which will have as its object the development and strengthening of all.

DO MORE RATHER THAN LESS.

A WORD FOR BULGARIA.
London Daily Chronicle: The whole question of Bulgaria's outlet to the Aegean Sea has been shelved with complete indifference alike to the welfare of that little country and to promises made. SCIENTIFIC TRADING.
Perth (Australia) Western Mail: The aim of Imperial trade policy should be to make us at least economically and nationally secure, though the rest of the world should be convulsed in chaos. Daring Feats of Cyclists
It requires a good nerve to ride a bicycle over a high embankment to a river, but to dive off the edge just before it touches the water for judgment and cleverness.
Yet one man used to do this regularly, says a London writer.
Cycling at full speed, along parapet of the embankment, he suddenly turns the wheel over edge and take a 90-foot drop, immediately before touching the water he would dive neatly over the bars, rise to the surface, and rest his machine before it had a swimming with it to the shore a seconds later. Of course, he simply crowded to witness this.
"Coasting" is a pleasant amusement enough, as every cyclist knows, but to "coast" down a mountain at a speed which ends at over a minute is a trifle too speed for most ordinary tastes. Yet this is exactly what a party of enterprising United States citizens once did.
Starting on specially constructed machines, with no brakes or pedals and handicapped, and themselves to be pushed over the at a pace which gradually increased, the winner afterwards put the chief difficulty was to break the teeth of the perfect gear wheel.

Lays Down Pen at Age of 86.
Sir John Merry LeSage, managing editor of the London Daily Telegraph, now in his eighty-seventh year, retired from active work on his paper at the end of last month. Until the last few weeks he has been in daily attendance at his office. His period of control, however, is almost equalled by that of C. P. Scott, managing editor of the Manchester Guardian since 1872.

After a brief provincial career he joined the staff of the Daily Telegraph and served for many years under the late J. M. Levy and Lord Burnham. He acted as special correspondent for his paper in France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Egypt, United States and Canada and was with the German army in the campaign of 1870-76. He was also with Lord Wolsey's force in Egypt in 1882 and was in Paris during the whole period of the Commune.

He is a Lieutenant of the city of London, and received the honor of Knighthood in 1918.

Harbor Grace Notes.

The death of Mr. Edward Pippy, an old and respected resident of Ship-Head, occurred yesterday, after a very long illness. Deceased leaves a wife and two sons, Ezekiel and Joseph, who reside in Canada. His youngest son, William, made the "supreme sacrifice" during the World War whilst on active service with the Canadians, and another son, Lorenzo, died at Sydney, N. S., during last winter. To the bereaved we extend sympathy. The funeral will be held to-morrow, and interment made in the S. A. Cemetery.

The many friends here of Dr. A. B. Lehr, learn with deep regret his passing from earthly tomes, which occurred at St. John's, on Monday last, and offer condolence to the bereaved wife and his sons, Harry and Andrew. The Doctor spent many years here at his profession, Dentistry, where he was well known and held in high esteem. His first wife was Miss Mary Fitzgerald, daughter of the late Henry and Eliza Fitzgerald, of this town.

The members of St. Paul's Congregation are holding their garden party and sports day at Shannon Park today, Wednesday. As the day is such a very fine one, it is expected that the affair will be well patronized, and a big success. Jack Bell, Newfoundland's champion long distance runner will give an exhibition over a 3 mile course. The special excursion rates will, no doubt, be availed of, and many from the nearby towns will come to take in the sports.

Mr. Jack McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McKay, of St. John's, is spending a two week's holiday here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Murphy. Jack's old friends are glad to have him with them again.

Mr. Jim Peet, son of H. J. and Mrs. Peet, of St. John's, arrived yesterday afternoon on a week's visit to friends here.

Miss Beatrice Pike, arrived from the city by Saturday night's train, on a week's visit to friends here.

S. S. Sagona, enroute to her usual Labrador ports of call, arrived in port last Monday evening, and left again after a short stay. Quite few took passage by her.

Mrs. R. S. Munn, Miss Muriel Munn and Mr. Fred Munn were amongst the passengers to leave here by the Sagona to spend the summer at Shoal Bay Islands.

Mr. John Trappell, J.P., L.S.M., has been confined indoors the past few days, being ill. His many friends hope to see him about again in very short.

Mrs. Simon Wells and daughter Miss Florrie Wells, also Miss Mildred Whiteway, took passage by the S. S. Digby last evening. They intend making their future home at Boston, and the good wishes of their many friends here follow them midst their new surroundings.

Schr. Minnie Maud, Capt. John Power, arrived in port on Monday from Hoopling Harbour.

The tern schooner Jean Dundonald Duff, was towed to port on Friday night last to go on dock. The ship was taken on the next day, and is at present on dock to have some painting, etc., attended to.

Mr. Wm. J. E. Simmons, of the Evening Telegram Staff, accompanied by his wife and two children, also his mother, who had been visiting the city, arrived in town by Saturday night's train. Mr. Simmons and family will spend a week here with relatives and friends.

A load of lumber, junk, etc., left port again yesterday.

Schr. Tuckahoe was decked here last week.

Some fifty men from this town and district left here by Saturday afternoon's train to be employed on the new road from Springdale to Badger connecting with the new road opened last year which we learn has proved of great service to residents in that section of the country.

Experience of Father Cacciola.

The Telegram has received the following telegraphic message from Mr. Buffet:—
On Monday night Rev. Francis Cacciola of St. Francis Xavier's Church, Bar Haven, whilst responding to a sick call at Iona Island in the high powered motor yacht Lepanto, Capt. Patrick Bruce commanding, assisted by Thomas Griffin and John Griffin. They had cleared the castle passage way and crossing to Butler's Island when they were compelled to dash far out into the deep to avoid the shoals and reefs lying some distance from the shore on the Merasheen Island side. They were well advanced on their journey when engine trouble interfered with the operations of the boat. At this juncture, 9.45 p.m., a heavy fog arose. The boat was actually well onward in the western course between Merasheen and Long Islands when the boat stopped abruptly. The eastern circle was not taken in order to allow Father Cacciola whose objective point first was Indian Hr. to attend another urgent call. It was the purpose of priest and crew to make Indian Hr. before proceeding to Iona if normal conditions would permit. Temporary repairs were effected and the boat sped on, although this delay plunged the boat and crew into pitch darkness and engulfed in thick mantle fog. Soundings were made in order to make a nearer approach to the land. Father Cacciola assumed command of the good ship as he knew best the lay of all the islands in this particular portion of his parish. He ordered her course set to locate the land. Picking up the trail of land off Merchant Point Head the Rev. commander fixed his bearings and brought boat and crew into Rose au Rue Island. Had he failed in making his calculations the boat and crew would have been exposed to the tempest, as the wind was Easterly or East North East no harbor could have been reached in consequence of the fog. To the joy of all the boat entered with safety into Rose au Rue Harbor, whaling station, avoiding the rugged rocks by a margin of ten feet as the lightning flashed and the thunder rolled. The caretaker, Mr. Lawrence Murphy, of Rose au Rue whaling station showed priest and crew every kindness. At dawn the boat journeyed to Indian Harbor, where breakfast was served and calls attended to, after which in record time the grand boat proceeded to Iona. The priest was quite exhausted owing to being out all Saturday night and part of Sunday night, early Monday morning and all Monday night.

At this season of the year when bathing is the chief attraction for thousands of young people, accidents are not uncommon. Many cases occur, however, where, after a rescue has been effected, the person has died because no one who was present knew what to do. Everyone should make himself familiar with some method of resuscitation. Of those used with good results, perhaps the most simplest and most effective is what is known as Schaefer's. Here it is:—
1. Summon medical assistance if possible, but in the meantime get busy.
2. Lay the person down in the fresh air.
3. Wipe out the mouth with finger or handkerchief and draw out the tongue.
4. Lay the patient's head on his forearm, face down.
5. Kneel down astride his hips. Place your hands on his back about his lower ribs. Keep your elbows stiff, lean forward gradually and allow your weight to be supported by your hands. Now take your hands off suddenly. Repeat this slowly—about once every five seconds.
These rules are simple and no apparatus is required. Remember though, that haste is necessary as everything depends upon prompt action.

DEMONSTRATION BY LIFE SAVING GUARDS.
In spite of the many other attractions, a good crowd assembled in the S. A. Ciudad, New Gower Street, last night to witness the Life Saving Guards' demonstration which marked the closing of this year's Congress. Col. Cloud presided and the feature of the meeting was the singing by himself and Mrs. Cloud of a song composed by him when he first received his appointment to Newfoundland. The programme consisted of drills, exercises, tableaux, etc., all of which were performed in excellent style and drew frequent and hearty applause from the audience. During the evening the Colonel enrolled five new members to the Life Saving Guards who have passed the beginners test and are eligible to become regular members of the troop.
This item was of especial interest, owing to the fact that this ceremony is not usually conducted in public, many present had not seen it before. The address of Guard Leader Cave on the principles underlying the Guard movement was very interesting and many present a new conception of what the Life Saving Guards Organization stands for. At the close the Colonel heartily thanked the Guard leader for the splendid entertainment given. Guard Leader Cave in reply thanked the Colonel for his interest in the Guards and felt that it would be an incentive to them to do better work in the future. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Obituary.

MRS. AMELIA COLLINS.
There passed away yesterday an estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Amelia Collins, who had reached the ripe old age of 84 years, retaining to the last the pleasing disposition which endeared her to so many. She had been somewhat ill for some months, but in spite of a short sickness a few weeks ago, seemed to have almost recovered almost her usual health when the end came quickly shortly after dinner yesterday, and she passed to that home "not made with hands" there to be reunited to those loved ones from whom she had been separated for so long a time. Mrs. Collins was the daughter of the late James L. Mews, sometime Magistrate at Old Perlican, and the last of a large family. Her brothers, George W. William, James and Stephen Mews were well-known here. Her husband, John Collins and a son predeceased her many years ago. She had lived to more than the allotted span, had passed through trials with Christian fortitude, and died with calm confidence in the eternal promise that "Heaven's morning breaks" to those who "Abide with Him," and that—
With the morn
These Angel faces smile
Which she had loved long since
And lost awhile.
The funeral will take place on Friday at 2.30 p.m. from the Wayside Nursing Home, 126 Merrymount Rd.

Guide's Camp.

MANY VISITORS YESTERDAY.
There were many visitors yesterday to the camp of the Third St. John's Troop Girl Guides, who have now been under canvas at Burnt Island, Manuels, for a week. Most of those who visited the camp were parents or relatives of the Guides, and all were delighted with its general efficiency. The visitors were ferried across in boats from the mainland, and were met on arrival at the camp by the Commandant, Miss D. S. Ayre, who conducted them over the grounds.
The camp was recently visited by his Excellency the Governor, who, after a thorough inspection, expressed himself as being very well pleased with what he had seen.
Nearly all the girls have now had their turn as camp cooks and most of them will soon be experts in the culinary art. Plenty of time is given to training for badges and a great deal of useful work is being done.
Next Wednesday will be "visitor's day" again, and a sports day will be held. This should attract a great many people from town.
All who have visited the camp have admired the very attractive songs, "Taps," which is sung around the camp fire at the close of day.
"Day is done!
Gone the sun,
From the east, from the hills, from the sky;
All is well, safely rest,
God is nigh."
"Fading light
Dims the sight,
And a star gems the sky, gleaming bright
From afar, drawing near,
Falls the night."

"AND I SAID TO HIM—"

Heaven preserve us from the person who cannot answer the simplest question or tell the simplest incident without making a narrative ten minutes long out of it!

I met a woman I know the other morning. I said "Good morning, how are you this morning?" She said, "Pretty well, thank you, except that I have just been to Dr. S. My eyes are bothering me."

"How did you like him?" I said (most unwisely).

Ever Hear A Tale Like This? And then she began with a long tale. First how she happened to go to Dr. S. She had been to her family doctor and she asked him whom he thought was the best man for eyes, and he said Dr. S. and she asked him if Dr. S. wasn't pretty young and then he told her the story of a woman he knew who wouldn't go to Dr. S. because he was too young and who finally went to him. (She told me this story in full, of course.)

Then she moved on to her making her appointment with Dr. S. and what her husband said about it, and how she told Dr. S. what the family doctor said about young doctors, and what Doctor S. said in return. Finally she reached her own eyes, and that subject having for her the fascination that any of our own ailments always have for us, she spent at least five minutes telling me what she said to Dr. S. about them and what he said to her.

I am sure she repeated the phrases "And I said to him," "And he said to me," at least twenty times.

I Didn't Scream. I got in that state where I felt I should scream if I heard "And I said to him" another time.

to. It is just one of those miscalled I didn't scream. We never do seem irresistible impulses that everyone feels and practically everyone resists. (I sometimes wonder if life wouldn't be simpler if we yielded to some of them.)

So we stood there fifteen minutes (in the blazing sun, by the way), before I heard how she liked Dr. S.

That is the way that woman talks. She never can tell you the gist of any matter. She has absolutely no sense of selection. Even if she has something interesting to tell, she imbeds it in so much that is trivial and tiresome that the interest is totally lost. I think we all know people like that, perfectly good people—and perfectly fearful bores.

Another variety of the person without selective sense is the bore who insists on telling you the plot of a story or, worse still, of a motion picture.

The Bore's Compearance. Of course one soon learns the protective habit of going on with one's own thoughts during such narratives, keeping all the time a pleased smile on one's face and saying "Did you ever?" "Wasn't that interesting?" at the proper intervals.

Hypocritical? Perhaps. But what is a bore but a person who is too self-centered and selfish to consider whether what he says is interesting or not. And doesn't he pretty well get his compearance if his lack of interest in how we feel is met by our lack of interest in his narrative?

Egyptian Princess Guilty of Murder.

PRINCESS SECRETARY DECLARES ROYAL COUPLE QUARRELLED INCESSANTLY.

NIGHTLY UPBOARS Were Occasions When Each Threatened Other With Death.

LONDON, July 18.—(United Press)—A verdict of wilful murder was returned to-day against beautiful Princess Marie-Francoise at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of her husband, the popular Egyptian Prince Ali Kemal Fahmy.

Prince Fahmy was shot to death Tuesday morning in his suite in the Savoy and witnesses to-day declared the Princess cried out afterwards that she had done the shooting.

Prince Ali Kemal Fahmy and his wife frequently assaulted each other and kept pistols at each side of their beds, M. Saldenay, the Prince's Secretary, testified at the inquest into the Prince's death here to-day.

The secretary declared that he had been awakened many times by an uproar in the Prince's chambers during the night. He said that the royal couple quarrelled repeatedly and fought back and forth across their bedroom, clawing and striking each other.

These nocturnal bouts usually ended when one of them snatched a pistol from a bedpost and threatened the other with death, he told the jury.

Usually after an encounter many of the furnishings were broken and bed coverings and tapestries were torn to shreds.

About 2.30 Tuesday morning, Saldenay testified, he heard the Princess's voice over the phone screaming "Come quickly. I've shot Ali. I don't know how I did it."

The prince and princess quarrelled almost the whole evening before the Prince was found dying, said the secretary. The princess appeared to be very nervous and cried that she wished to go to Paris for an operation.

They apparently patched up their difficulties and went to the theatre together. At the theatre they had supper and the prince did his utmost to soothe his wife, but all his efforts were unavailing.

The prince's income now is $200,000 a year, while formerly it was $375,000, Saldenay told the jury.

Princess Fahmy was not present at the inquest.

A most popular figure in cosmopolitan circles along the Riviera and at resorts in Normandy, the princess was known at one time as Maggie Mueller, a Parisienne divorcee, according to detailed accounts of her life published to-day in the newspapers.

THEIR WAY.

We've had our troubles at times, but then Always we've chuckled and kissed and said:

Never remembered the words we said When our tempers rose and our cheeks were red;

Never lived over the hateful days And kept them alive, for it never pays.

And we've always started each day And we've always said at the close, "Good night."

We don't profess we're a saintly style When things go wrong it is hard to smile, And crosses come as the days go by And nerves will tingle and temper fly.

So I've growled my growls and ma's growled hers And she's fung her barbs and I've used my wits.

But never a wrangle we've had. I'll say, Has been kept alive for another day.

We've had our say, and we've banged the doors And stamped her feet on the hardwood floors.

And muttered things in the heat of rage Which wouldn't look well on the printed page.

Sometimes all day I have worn a pout And ma's looked glum as she's walked about.

But when night came down and we went to bed, We've always kissed as "good night," we said.

Now love will not die with a spat or two, If you'll start afresh when the quarrels through.

But hatred grows if you keep in mind And brood and brood on the things said.

For love grows weary and will not stay Where they wake with the rancor of yesterday.

So leave your by-gones along the way And keep no old quarrel to start the day.

HELP FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 15 years old I would get such sick feelings in the lower part of my abdomen, followed by cramps and vomiting. This kept me from my work (I help my parents on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. Or at times I would have to walk the floor. I suffered in this way until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I surely am glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I don't have these troubles."

ODILLA HOLMBERG, Box 98, Viking, Alta. Letters like this establish the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from the roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ailments in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it.

Be a "Fly" Fisher.

REAL GOOD HINTS FOR RIVER ANGLERS.

One of the first things to remember in river fishing is that the fish always lie with their noses pointing upstream. Another point well worth bearing in mind is the fact that cover for the fisherman is sometimes provided in the river itself.

You may come upon a stretch of stream with hopelessly bare banks, where you feel sure that every fish in the neighbourhood can see you. But look again carefully. Are there any big stones lying here and there in the stream? If so, they may well prove to be just as useful to you as a whole bank of bushes would be.

For you must remember that fish are very fond of lying under the shelter of stones. So it is worth while to make a cast in the direction of those stones. They may hide fish from your view, just as they are hiding you from the view of the fish. And when your fly comes floating down past the stone, out will dash some greedy trout to gobble it up.

You must, of course, cast your fly on to the water some distance beyond the stone, so that the fly is carried down-stream over the spot where the fish may be lurking.

Shelter Worth Searching.

There is another possibility about a stone in a river. You will sometimes find a big one jutting up out of the middle of the stream. Now that is just the sort of shelter that fishes like, and their habit in this respect can be turned to the fisherman's advantage.

The stream, working its way round the stone, will carry down all sorts of dainty morsels, which will lie for a few moments behind the stone before being carried on down-stream.

The fishes know this well enough, and they will take up their position one behind the other immediately below the stone.

The biggest and greediest fish will be lying, nose-on, nearest the stone, and the others, according to their size, behind him. Here is your opportunity.

Drop your fly up-stream and let it float down past the stone, where it will be promptly seized by fish No. 1. Haul him in and repeat the process. Fish No. 2 will now be in No. 1's former place, and he will be your next victim.

There is no reason why you should not catch every fish in the line if you don't frighten them by showing yourself.

When You Hook Him.

When it comes to hooking a fish, don't let your excitement get the better of you. The tendency of a beginner is to raise his rod too sharply, and the result of this is that he breaks his line and loses his fish.

FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES

Hard, Large and Red. Cuticura Healed.

"My face broke out with pimples that were hard, large and red. They festered and scalded over, and itched and burned, making me so scratchy. I tried several different remedies but they did not help any. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some, and after using them about a month I was completely healed."

Striking, as it is called, should be done by an upward turn of the wrist. This will fix the hook before the fish has had time to spit the fly out of his mouth, which is what he will otherwise do on finding that it is not a real fly.

Having hooked your fish, guide him gradually to the bank by means of a steady strain on your line. If he makes a dash to get off, give him a certain amount of head, but be ready to increase your pressure directly his spurt is over. Your object is to wear him down without breaking your tackle.

Mystery Germs.

SOLVING PROBLEMS OF MEDICAL SCIENCE.

The recent announcement that the germs responsible for measles and scarlet fever have been discovered emphasizes the large amount of work yet to be done by the bacteriologist to solve the origin of common infectious diseases.

The human throat might well be termed the Waterloo of the bacteriologist. It is loaded normally with a large number of germs taken in from the air. In it may be found harmlessly resting microbes which are capable of producing, in certain circumstances, serious illnesses.

Side by side with the dread microbe of pneumonia may be seen the equally lethal germ of diphtheria and the bacillus of tuberculosis in company with one of the causes of infectious colds. All these are framed in a vast multitude of minute organisms whose nature and capacity are as yet unmeasured.

Microbe Criminals.

It is the plethora of possible causes which leads to confusion. In scarlet fever, for example, four different germs have been indicated at intervals as being the cause of the disease.

A bacterium may be found in the throat in many cases of a disease, and may be hastily supposed to be that producing it. It is only when it is demonstrated in the throats of healthy individuals that doubt disappears.

Then arises the complication that we are in ignorance under what circumstances an innocent microbe may become dangerous, and there is always the possibility that a germ which has been charged with crime, and for whom an excellent defence has been submitted, may in the end prove to be the true criminal.

Father: "But suppose he doesn't do it again?"

Terrible Volcanoes.

The Effects of an Eruption Have Been Noticed 2,000 Miles Away.

Thirteen times in the last eight hundred years has Mount Etna, the snow-capped volcano on the east coast of Sicily, burst into violent eruption.

This latest eruption, the fourteenth, has been accompanied by terrible loss of property, the people for miles around fleeing for their lives amid a rain of stones and clinders, the cracking of lava, and the roar of Etna.

When a volcano is in eruption, stones and ashes are hurled up to terrific heights in the air, accompanied by clouds of steam. Aerial thunder mingles with the underground roarings. Water falls in masses from the clouds. The lava streams only break free after the crisis of the outburst.

The darkness during an eruption is caused by the clouds of ashes. In 1875, Norway was strewn with volcanic dust from Iceland. The ashes, too, from Mount Vesuvius and Etna have often reached Constantinople.

The far-reaching effects of a volcano were witnessed in 1883, in the Straits of Sunda, between the islands of Sumatra and Java.

The explosion when the volcano burst out on the island of Krakatoa was heard in Ceylon, 2,000 miles away, and the ocean wave set up by the outburst carried French men-of-war ashore at Madagascar.

The island itself was blown to fragments and over 35,000 persons perished. All over Asia, in England, and at Trinidad the sun was observed to have a curious green or blue aspect. This was due to the dust thrown up by this frightful explosion.

In the British Isles it is not common for earth shocks to be felt, though

The Eastern Canadian Waterway.

MARKABLE DEVELOPMENT OF THE PORT OF MONTREAL.

Sequence is to complete the Waterway connecting the St. Lawrence with Montreal, and to be completed in 1927.

Construction work proceeds actively on the Welland Ship Canal. It was opened in the House in early June and will be completed in 1927. The estimate of cost, $55,000,000, has been raised to $80,000,000, and some $20,000,000 more is expected to be required to put the final cost at not less than $100,000,000. The Welland Canal will have seven locks, as compared with 25 in the old canal, and a lift of 46 1/2 feet, as against 25 feet in the old canal. The locks are 46 1/2 feet deep and 50 feet wide. The locks are made 30 feet so that the reaches are dredged out to the depth of 20 feet for vessels of the draught. At the present time the locks on the upper lakes can carry 11 feet clear, but they also are being deepened, so that the end of 1927 the waterway will be clear for 25 feet draught boats all the way from Fort William—Port Arthur—Duluth to Kingston and Present. The St. Lawrence route from Lake Ontario east is navigable for 14 foot draught boats only, and up to the present time has been taken beyond Kingston to connect up with the waterway east of Montreal with the Great Lakes. That would seem to be the next move.

The Port of Montreal has experienced the greatest development in recent years. During the past season of 1922 a total of 155,000,000 bushels of grain were exported through the Port of Montreal, as compared with 144,000,000 from Vancouver. The experience has led to the belief that with the completion of the St. Lawrence waterway, the port, and larger boats on the St. Lawrence, the ocean carriers would be attracted to the great bulk of Canadian grain to be sent out by this Canadian port.

For the past three seasons more Canadian grain has been exported to the U. S. than Canadian ports. The completion of the St. Lawrence waterway is so that it may be navigable for the deep draught, equal to the Great Lakes canals, is the logical way to the situation east and west of the St. Lawrence. Whatever may be the result of the Hudson Bay canal, the main artery of the continent, the one which will continue to carry the bulk of the general and commodity traffic is the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence, and the Government of Canada will be moving in the right direction if it prepares well in advance to be ready and equal for the situation.

Weird War Machine.

The next war there will be craft like like hawks, swim like ducks, like the armoured tanks, and like the style according to a British official who is in Australia on secret mission. Behind closed doors of laboratories and in secluded workshops, says this authority, who has had his name for the present kept undisclosed, there has begun the wildest battle of wits that has ever been embarked upon.

Tanks that swim, great metal sea monsters that fly, uncanny air machines which dive silently beneath water to hide themselves, the "And crews who must learn to stand tight in three different elements (land, sea or air) are all necessities of the future." He states that Great Britain is building a giant machine which cleaves the surface of water prior to taking wing and develops 3,000 horse-power, and is constructing the largest flying machine in the world. This winged vessel is intended to go out with the British army man, says the author of the new flying machine resting on the water will fly through seas. It will taxi along on water like a surface ship, or speed through the air. It is to have all the equipment of the ordinary vessel of the sea, while its crew within the hull will eat and sleep on board, just as the crew of an ordinary naval vessel.

The new machine will fight like a tank on earth, will be a super-submarine on water, and will be able to take to the air, and when concealing is required it will fold its wings, and its hull and dive like a submarine beneath the surface of the sea. The machine is striving to make these things both silent and invincible.

Barnardo Boys Experiment.

HAS PROVEN SUCCESSFUL.

The success of Barnardo boys in Canada is proved by the fact that 250 more will be en route to the land of plenty within a very short time. Sailing on the s.s. Montclare from Montreal soon will be Prof. Albert Carless, accompanied by his wife, also Mr. J. W. Hobday, accompanied by Mrs. Hobday and daughter, for the purpose of bringing back with them the number of young citizens.

It is estimated that up to the present time "Doctor Barnardo's Home" has sent to the Dominion nearly 30,000 juveniles.

In a recent interview Mr. Hobday stated: "The Barnardo boys and girls have long since been absorbed into the life of Canada, and are playing their part in her development. They have been successful in all ranks of life, and are found in all the professions and other lines of work. Some have found their way to legislative halls, some are in the ministry and a large number are equally successful as farmers, stock growers and ranchers. Every province has its quota, and hundreds of testimonials are on file as to the high qualities of these youthful immigrants who are received into the life of the Dominion in their plastic years and who, by kindly care and oversight, are guided into a useful citizenship.

According to the Canadian Pacific Department of Immigration and Colonization, the value of a Canadian immigrant is largely estimated according to his economic worth on entry and the likelihood of his becoming an early revenue-producer. Accordingly, the important sections of immigration records are considered to be the statistics of adult entrants and the wealth they are possessed of at time of entry. This outlook attaches rather undue importance to the immediate present and does not give merited consideration to that greater building for the future. Thus the introduction of children, who possess the greatest possibilities of assimilation and citizenship, and are the greatest factors in the future development of the Dominion, is not generally considered the important feature it really is in the yearly immigration total, and there would be no such movement if it were not for certain charitable organizations to which it has been relegated." It is significant to note that in the history of the movement there is no record of even one child becoming a public charge.

Preliminary Notice—The Annual Garden Party will be held at Bay Bulls on Sunday, August 26th. Preparations are now being made to ensure visitors an enjoyable outing. Particulars later—July 17, 31, 31, 31, 31, 31.

Hints for Your Home.

Olive oil placed round the root of a fern will greatly improve its growth. Paint can be removed from clothes with a solution of ammonia and turpentine.

Linoeum will wear longer if it is washed with equal parts of warm soapuds and boiled starch.

Patent leather shoes can be renovated by applying a little black spirit enamel to the cracked or shabby parts.

When boiling clothes add about a tablespoonful of loose powdered borax, which will keep the clothes a good colour.

To whiten linen or white goods that have turned yellow use a few drops of turpentine in the rinsing water and place the articles on the grass in strong sunlight.

Salt and sal ammoniac in water (one gallon of water to three pounds of salt and one and a half of sal ammoniac) makes a fire-extinguisher that every family should keep in a big bottle on a handy shelf. A siphon of soda-water shot at the flames helps to put them out quickly.

A little dry starch, or arrowroot, moistened with cold water and laid on the injured part will prevent the skin discolouring after a bruise or fall. It also keeps down swelling.

If a little paraffin is added to the water when boiling clothes they will require less rubbing to remove the dirt. The odour of the paraffin does not remain in the clothes after drying.

Tan boots and shoes that have become discoloured or hard from season wear may be made soft by rubbing with a rag soaked in olive oil. When dry apply ordinary brown polish and rub well.

When ironing collars, place a small round cake tin in the oven, and put the collars in as they are ironed. This keeps them in shape, and they also stiffen with being put in a warm place. Keep the oven door open so that it does not get too hot, and only leave the collars in for a few minutes.
