AVLIMER council made a local bank its collector, and the Express has the following to say:—"The new plan of collecting taxes, viz., by having them paid into the bank, which was tried for the first time this year, has worked out beautifully, better, in fact, than anyone dreamed of. It saves a lot of work and considerable expense and the plan will probably be adopted permanently."

THERE is a general complaint against the insufficient accommodation provided on the express trains on the G. T. R. No. 5 is almost invariably crowded, and many passengers for local points are obliged to stand, even ladies and children being unable to secure seats. Passengers paying for a ticket are certainly entitled to a seat, and the Co. should see that they are.

AMONG the successful candidates at the recent departmental and matriculation exams held at Ingersoll Collegiate Institute we notice the name of one of Watford's former pupils, Miss Heleena Johnston, who passed the Junior Teacher examination with honors and also Junior Matriculation. Miss Helena was always a bright pupil and is making good progress.

The following legal note of local interest appeared in the report of the cases at Osgoode Hall last Friday:—"McGregor vs. Watford.—Motion to continue in junction. H. S. White for plaintiff. C. A. Moss, for defendants, the corporation of the village of Watford. D. L. McCarthy for defendant Kelly. Motion dismissed with costs." The proceedings arose out of the sale by the corporation of Watford to Dr. Kelly of a lot on Front St. designated in the survey as a street, and the closing of which plaintiff claimed was an injury.

THE schoolmaster of a certain village asked his pupils the following questions: "Suppose in a family there are five children, and the mother has only four potatoes between them. Now, she wants to give every child an equal share. What is she going to do?" Silence reigned in the room. Everybody calculated very hard, till a little boy stood up and gave, to the great surprise of the schoolmaster, the following unexpected answer, "Mash the potatoes, sir."

AN exciting incident occurred on the east side one evening last week, in which a young lady from the south of Brooke, eluded the vigilance of her guardians, and joined her young Lochinvar, who was in waiting with a rig, and they disappeared in the darkness losing hat and baggage in the flight. There was quite a commotion in the neighborhood when the gamutlet was run, but the race was to the swift and they are now Scott free.

THE new cement walk on the north side of St. Clair St. west of Main, is completed and adds greatly to the appearance of the street. The contractors are now engaged in laying the walk on the north side of Simcoe St. from Main to the park. This walk has been badly needed for years, as it is a much travelled thoroughfare and the old walk was in a dilapidated condition. All the principal streets are now provided with good cement sidewalks.

THE death occurred on Monday evening Aug. 13th, at the family residence, 48 Lake street, St. Catharines, of Wm. Bryson, one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of that city. The deceased was 68 years of age, and had been ailing for some time. He leaves one son and four daughters to mourn his loss. Geo. C. Bryson, Mrs. H. E. Keenan and Mrs. E. Olding, of Toronto, Mrs. J. Thompson, of Tonawanda, N. Y., and Mrs. John Grey, of Brockport, N. Y., and Miss Eliza Bryson, of this city, to whom the sympathy of the entire community is extended in their bereavement. Deceased was a cousin of Wm. and J. Bryson, of Watford.

HERE are a few interesting facts in connection with the vital statistics of Ontario for the last recorded year: There were 559 pairs of twins born and seven cases of triplets; there were 1,107 more boys than girls born; there are more births in May and less in November than in other months of the year; considerably over half the persons married in the province were Methodists and Presbyterians; the most marriages occur in June and the fewest in May; the average death rate per thousand of population is nearly one-third higher in Carleton County than in any other county in Ontario.

A NORTHERN Michigan editor got married the other day and gave the wedding the following write up: "This is the first instance in several years of newspaper work that the writer has dared to touch upon, and is holding his tongue for fear of getting licked, and does so now with a keen relish. The groom is an editor and is not an accomplished and popular leader in society; in fact he does not know as much about it as a rabbit. He is a red and the freckles on his face crowd each other for room. He has never considered that the future looked very bright and promising. The bride, judging from the job she has taken on her hands, is a woman of more than ordinary nerve."

As the time of reopening of the schools draws near, no doubt a number of the pupils from the rural public schools who passed the recent entrance examinations, will be considering whether they should attend high school for continuation work. This question can be the continuation course if they keep in mind that the decision if they were devised to meet the needs of those who have failed to pass the entrance examinations, and to be a substitute for one year at the high school. Wherever possible those who intend sooner or later to take a high school course, should enter high school as soon as they pass entrance. Under present regulations, it is almost impossible, owing to lack of time and equipment, for a teacher in an ordinary rural school to teach efficiently the work required for Form I. of the high school course. It was difficult under the old but impossible under the new regulations.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Eric Pressy and Miss Josephine Williams were partial matriculants at the late examination. The names of these two young ladies were over-looked.

The following is the correct result of the examination at the Watford centre:

Eight Senior Teachers, Pt. I.

There were forty-three candidates.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE.

The August meeting of the Daughters of the Empire was held at the home of Mrs. Fitzgerold, Mrs. O'Neil assisting hostess. The usual business was dispensed with. The programme consisted of two piano selections by Miss Coupland, a reading, "Samantha at The Garden Party" by Miss Reid, and "The Maple Leaf Forever" by the chapter. The next meeting was appointed for the home of Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Brown to assist. Subject for study, The Yellow Peril, The Anglo Japanese Alliance. RAMSAY—McLAUGHLIN.

The home of Mrs. Wm. McLaughlin, Brock St., Oshawa, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, August 22nd, when her second daughter, Miss Jennie, was united in marriage to Mr. James A. Ramsay, commercial master of the Collegiate Institute at Kingston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Hodges, of St. Andrew's church, Oshawa, in the presence of a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was unattended, was attired in white silk trimmed with valenciennes lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left amid a deluge of confetti, for Toronto, where they took the steamer City of Kingston for a trip through the thousand islands to their home in Kingston. The groom is a well-known Watford boy who is making a reputation for himself as an educationist. The bride is one of Oshawa's most popular young ladies, and the young couple enter upon the matrimonial voyage under happy circumstances, and with the good wishes of a wide circle of friends.

How Newspaper Men Get Rich.

A weekly newspaper explains as follows why country editors get rich—
 "After a good deal of study and worry we have at last 'figured out' why so many country editors get rich. Here is the secret of success—
 "A child is born to the neighborhood the attending physician gets $10; the editor gives the loud-lunged youngster and the 'happy pa' a send-off and gets $0. It is crissed; the minister gets $1.00 and the editor $00.
 "It grows up and marries; the editor publishes another long-winded, flowery article and tells a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride; the preacher gets $10 and a piece of cake and the editor gets $000.
 "In the course of time it dies and the doctor gets from $5 to $100; the minister gets perhaps another $15; the undertaker takes from $25 to $150 the editor publishes a notice of the death, obituary, lodge and society resolutions, a lot of poetry and a free card of thanks, and gets $0000. No wonder so many of the country editors get rich."—Broadhead (Wis.) Independent.

For Milk Dealers.

At the last session of Parliament an act was passed requiring the inspection of milk cans. These are to be presented at the offices of weights and measures for inspection. The fees to be charged for their verification are—Two gallons and under 10 cents each; over two and not exceeding five gallons, 20 cents; over five and not exceeding ten gallons, 30 cents; over ten gallons, 50 cents. If cans are inspected before Oct. 13 next, the fees will be only one half sums mentioned. After that date all persons selling milk by measure in cans not properly inspected and stamped will subject themselves to a severe penalty. Each can in which milk is sold by measure must be clearly stamped or branded "milk can."

The Romance of a Name.

One might expect to find history, but scarcely romance in the names of the new towns in Western Canada. This, however, The Canadian Gazette has succeeded in doing. "The nomenclature of the new and thriving towns in Western Canada," says The Gazette, "is most interesting, marking as it does in many cases the history of the whole West. Stratheona, of course, speaks for itself, and Lacombe is familiar as the name of the famous Cath-

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

olic missionary of Western Canada. One element that has contributed freely to the names of towns is the North-West Mounted Police. One of the towns so named is Carstairs, and a local Western journal recently mentioned the derivation of the name. Briefly it was this: A Scottish lady named Stairs was willing to marry a gentleman named Carr provided she was not required to abandon her own name. The compromise of Carstairs was an obvious solution of the difficulty, and Carstairs the name became; and it was a descendant of this couple who, many generations later, came out from the Old Land took service in the N. W. M. P., and achieved the distinction of writing his name in the geography of his adopted country. Other towns named after members of the police service who did duty there fifteen or twenty years ago are: Olds, Innisfail, Reddington, etc."

Law Would Permit It.

St Thomas Times:—Judge Colter, Public School Inspector Atkin and E. A. Hugill, of Rodney, the arbitrators appointed to consider the appeal of Dunwich residents for a new school section, met Thursday at the court house and decided that they could not allow the appeal. The law requires, in setting apart a new school section, that there must be not less than four square miles of territory, or fifty school children. The proposed new school section would have met these requirements, but school section No. 14, from which the new section was to be formed, would be lessened so that it would not be up to the requirements of the law, and the arbitrators decided that the spirit of the law would be violated, and while they found that the petitioners had a good case and that appeal was a meritorious one, they could do nothing but dismiss it.

She Was Wild With Pain.

From Willow Creek, Ont., Miss E. Diegel writes: "A few years ago I was drenched with rain and got lumbago; it was like a steel rod piercing my back. I also had carache and was just wild with pain. I applied bathing soaked with Nerviline to my ear and rubbed on Nerviline for the lumbago. That rubbing relieved and in a few hours I was well. No other liniment could do this." It's the penetrating power of Nerviline that makes it superior to all other liniments. Nothing beats it, 25c. at all dealers.

Worth Knowing.

Reports of the destruction of live stock by lightning, when adjacent to wire fences, are becoming quite numerous. In fact the occurrence is too frequent, and the losses too heavy to be pleasant, and the situation is aggravated by failure to apply the precautions that would avoid the losses. A ground wire every twenty rods on a wire fence will ward off all danger. Bend an end of ground wire—plain fence wire—around the top wire of fence and then around each succeeding wire, and finally run wire in to the earth fully two feet, or where the end will always be moist. An iron rod sharpened at the end will make a hole for the wire. The job is easily done, the cost is almost nothing, and danger to animal or man is avoided.

Local Improvements.

Under the law as amended at the last session of the legislature municipal councils are given increased power for the carrying out of local improvements. Formerly sidewalk and roadway improvements were frequently retarded by the refusal of certain property owners to consent to improvements considered necessary to the public generally. The property owners might refuse to take the initiative, or they might petition out the improvement after the council had taken the initiative. By the amendment made last session the municipal council, upon the favorable vote of two-thirds of the members, may put down any pavement it deems necessary without the assent of ratepayers. It is a power which councils may abuse, but if used with discretion and in the public interest, there will probably be little ground for complaint.

Barely Lived Through It.

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor of Sault Ste. Marie. "From boyhood" he writes, "I have been a constant sufferer from asthma and catarrh. My nose and throat was always stopped up and I had droppings in the throat. When attacks came on I thought I couldn't live through the night. I would sit up gasp for breath and endure great distress. Catastrophe made me entirely well." No stronger proof is required. Asthma is curable, so is catarrh. Use "Catastrophe" and your recovery is guaranteed. Two sizes, 25c. and $1.00 at all dealers.

Complete Apparatus.

A villager in Nebraska hired a stranger to saw his wood, as the story goes. Presently the stranger confessed the reason for his poverty. He had spent his substance working out an invention for keeping horses off the barbed wire fences.

Such a device would be useful in a country where valuable horses come home gashed and torn, and presently the villager paid $2,000 for the right to sell the invention in Nebraska. The sample was sent later. It was a sign board to be hung on the fence, and read as follows:

Notice to Horses.

Dangerous—Keep away.
 With a signboard came a pair of spectacles for the use of near-sighted horses.—Buffalo Commercial

How Not to Spoil the Hair.

Don't use a comb to spread the pompadour by pulling the hair forward over the forehead.

Don't comb the hair from the forehead over backward when arranging to brush it. If the hair be long and heavy the strain comes on the front hairs with each stroke of the brush. If they do not fracture and fall out at once, they become loosened in the follicle, kink up, and drop out later.

Avoid vigorous brushing; bear in mind that one hair on the head is worth two in the brush.
 Don't use curlers or kids during sleeping hours.

Don't grasp the front hair by the points or ends and comb upward from points to roots, "roughing it" in order to make a full round pompadour. This needless abuse destroys life and lustre, fractures the hair shaft, renders it knotty, and produces a frumpy, aged appearance.

Don't use face bleach without first protecting the hair line by saturating the short hairs with sweet almond or coconut oil.
 Don't scrub the hair line with a facial brush; pin a small towel over the hair before you commence operations with a facial brush.

Don't rub facial cream into the hair line with the fingers on the face, as it fills the follicles with fatty substance and prevents proper growth.
 Don't use strong alkalies to lighten the color, or shampoo too frequently to keep the hair fluffy.

Don't linger on the beach after bathing and allow the salt to dry in the hair.
 Don't take everybody's advice and do all sorts of things to your hair and scalp.—September Delineator.

Health Depends On Good Blood.

Everyone who uses Ferrozone has good color and great vitality. Reason for this is Ferrozone's power to create nourishing blood. "I was broken down, had no strength and couldn't eat" writes Mrs. Chas. When Knighthood Was In Flower.

As Pat O'Hoolhan was walking down Broadway he was accosted by a distinguished looking stranger who wished to know the quickest way to the City Hall. Pat told him and then inquired cheerfully, "And who might ye be?"
 "I, said the stranger, drawing himself up proudly, 'am the Hon. John Kenneth Edgerton, of London, knight of the Garter, Knight of Bath, Knight of Malta, Knight of the Golden Fleece, Knight of St. John, Knight of the Royal Legion and the Iron Cross. And whom have I the honor of addressing?"
 Pat was staggered for a moment. Then he in turn raised his head proudly, and replied, "Ye have the honor of addressin' Patrick O'Hoolhan, of Hoboken, to-night, last night, night before last, night before that, tomorrow night, and every other dom night in the wake."—Woman's Home Companion.

Tommy—oh, ma! Here's a little green snake! Mamma—Keep away from it, dear. It may be just as dangerous as a ripe one.

ONE of our young men hitched his steed to a rig and went to take his best girl for a ride. The fair lady did not see the point, and after waiting about half an hour he tumbled all over himself and left.— Florence Quill.

Ladies! If you would be strong and healthy and have good complexions, take Miller's Compound Iron Pills. T. B. Taylor & Sons.

I am going on my vacation in the country soon, and I wish to ask if you think tan harmful to the complexion? MRS. G. B. S. Tan will not harm the complexion in the least. We were tanned many times in our youthful days and it never showed a bit.— Milwaukee Sentinel.

There's nothing that will cause the hair on the hair on the arms, or for that matter on any part of the body to grow as quickly as will exposure to the sun and wind, says an authority. The girl who doesn't want to look like a gorilla will discard the sleeveless waist.

The auto is here to stay and will soon be as numerous on the roads as the bicycle was a few years. No horse can be considered thoroughly broken until he is "auto broken." Horse owners should take advantage of any opportunity that offers and accustom their horses to these machines. It takes only a few lessons with a horse to get him used to them.

A REQUISITE FOR THE RANCHER.—On the cattle ranges of the West, where men and stock are far from doctors and apothecaries, Dr. Thomas' Eucletic Oil is kept on hand by the intelligent as a ready made medicine, not only for many human ills, but as a horse and cattle medicine of surpassing merit. A horse and cattle rancher will find matters greatly simplified by using this oil.

There is certain to be much more than usual interest taken in the municipal elections next January. The reve of each township will go to the county council, as well as the village and town reeves. Many of the men who have served faithfully in the home councils for years will thus have a chance to enlarge their experience and usefulness. It is also argued in this way the very best men in a local municipality can be secured for service in the councils.

The new anti-usury law is now in force and those lending money cannot enforce a higher rate of interest than 12 per cent per annum. If the borrower refuses to pay more than this, and the money-lender hauls him into court, not only will the defendant be absolved from paying a higher rate, but the judge may order a refund by the money-lender for every cent of that rate, which may have been paid, whether in the shape of interest, commission, bonus or expenses.

A CLEAR HEALTHY SKIN.—Eruptions of the skin and the blotches which blemish beauty are the result of impure blood caused by unhealthy action of the liver and kidneys. In correcting this unhealthy action and restoring the organs to their normal condition, Parnee's Vegetable Pills will at the same time cleanse the blood, and the blotches and eruptions will disappear without leaving any trace.

Narristown, Pa., Aug. 4.—A young woman of this town who has been in ill health for several years, gradually wasting away until she was a shadow of her former self, is regaining lost flesh and strength by adherence to an ice cream diet. For several months, the convalescent says, she has eaten one pint of cream daily, with the result that she has gained seventeen pounds in weight, enjoys an improved appetite and is able to call on her friends.

He didn't have a dollar; he didn't have a dime. His clothes and shoes were looking just as though they'd served their time. He didn't try to kill himself to dodge misfortune's whacks. Instead, he got some ashes and he filled five dozen sacks. Then, next he begged a dollar. In the paper the next he advertised this notice: "What would put the sun to scorn. He kept on advertising, and just now, suffice to say, he's out in California at his cottage on the bay.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has a story about a negro preacher who, in delivering a forceful sermon on Theft, volleyed forth: "I see 'lefo' me twelve chicken thieves includin' that thar Bill Saunders." Saunders resented this clerical attention, and threatened his reverend detractor with a broken head and a slander action, unless a retraction were made the following Sunday. The apology came in due course. "What I should a said," the minister explained, "was 'I see befor' me eleven chicken stealers not includin' Bill Saunders."

There can be a difference of opinion or most subjects, but there is only one opinion as to the reliability of Mother Graves' Worm Extirminator. It is safe, sure and effectual.

On Friday Mr. H. J. Pettypiece received a letter from the Toronto Type Foundry stating that someone had called them up on the phone the day before asking if they would cash a draft for $20.00 for H. J. Pettypiece. They replied that they would, but when the party having the draft presented it they saw that he bore no resemblance to Mr. Pettypiece and the signature was unlike the original which they had to several letters, etc., so refused to cash it. In the afternoon of the same day, however, Mr. Pettypiece received the draft, the party having gone to the Toronto Globe office and had it cashed. Of course it was a clear case of forgery, and the Globe is out $20.

DESERTED AT ALTAR

Canadian Played Shabby Trick on Port Huron Woman. Port Huron Times; Fred Thompson, a Canadian, who came to this city, Monday, became engaged to marry a Port Huron woman, but deserted her, and lately hid himself so really that the officers cannot find him, all within the space of 12 hours. Mr. Thompson became acquainted with Mrs. Troyer, so the story runs, and the two were engaged. The wedding evening, Thompson thought it proper for him to carry the purse of his intended and Mrs. Troyer readily agreed. The man took the pocketbook, which contained $10 and then disappeared.

This morning Mrs. Troyer swore out a warrant charging Thompson with the larceny of the money. The officers are looking for the deserting lover.

Look For Blood Humors.

They Crop Out Constantly, Showing The System Needs Purifying. You're not satisfied with your looks. How can you be with such disgusting pimples, such rough uneven skin? Blood is full of humors and it's no wonder you look and feel poorly.

You are languid, Appetite is miserable, Sleep is hard to get, Snap and vim are lacking. High time to improve matters—but what's the proper remedy?

Experience proves that Dr. Hamilton's Pills give instant effect. They tone the entire system, fortify the blood and impart a feeling of new life in a few days. Unlike strong purgatives, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are exceedingly mild. They are made from concentrated vegetable extracts such as Mandrake and Butternut, and can be taken by young or old with absolute safety.

"I learnt something very valuable after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes Miss Edith Thompson of Meriden. "I used to have ugly pimples that much embarrassed me. The tonic and purifying effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely restored me. My health is splendid and my complexion a great credit to this marvelous medicine."

Let your medicine be Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They do cure so thoroughly. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from F. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

The Bitter Bite.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Minah Troyer, who yesterday swore out a warrant for Fred Thompson, a Canadian, for stealing $10 and deserting her at the altar steps, is now herself behind the bars. Sheriff Moore recognized her as a woman wanted for illegally living with a man named Vaucamp.

Good Swimmers.

Wednesday afternoon Gordon Hossie, James French, John Kennedy and Oscar Patterson of Sarnia, undertook the swimming of the St. Clair river. They proceeded to the Port Huron Watworks and there prepared for the feat. They were accompanied by a man in a row boat.

They all left at the same time and were followed by the boat to guard against any mishap. One of the young men became exhausted about the middle of the river and was taken safely on board the boat. The next found it necessary to give up the job when he reached the first logs in the bay and was brought safely to shore. The other two Gordon Hossie and James French were successful the whole distance and landed safely at the Sarnia waterworks.

LITTLE BELL BIOGRAPHIES

Haydn

FRANCIS JOSEPH HAYDN, born at Rohrau 1732, died at Vienna 1809, was another of the 18th century musicians who became famous in their teens. His name is inseparably and popularly linked with that of George Frederick Handel in that mode of dramatic music called Oratorio. Handel is the composer of the incomparable "Messiah," and Haydn of the equally incomparable "Creation." This oratorio, written in his 60th year, is to-day as popular as 100 years ago. Haydn's compositions comprise almost every form of vocal and instrumental music, yet his chief distinction is not in oratorio. His rank in the musical world is determined by his service to instrumental music. He fixed the form of the sonata and symphony which Beethoven (who called him "Papa" Haydn) perfected in which Beethoven and expressiveness, for one thing substituting the light, gay Scherzo for Haydn's stately Minuets. As the musical father of Beethoven, Haydn is perhaps justly styled the father of classical instrumental music.

For the piano he composed 44 sonatas. The wonder is how in those days of the harpsichord, clavier and spinet—small and thin-voiced instruments—the composers could conceive and write sonatas the beauties of which could be revealed only by some such perfect instrument as

The Oven That Ends Guesswork

Before you put the roast in an Imperial Oxford oven, let the draft bring the heat to the right point. You'll know when it gets there if you'll look at the oven thermometer. After the roast goes in, you can know (not guess) it will be cooked right in a certain definite time. There's no ups-and-downs to the oven-heat in a range built as this one is, — the diffusive oven-flue takes all the guess work out of cooking, all the drudgery out of oven-use.

That Rack That Ends Bother

When the roast needs basting, pull forth the Imperial Oxford draw-out oven rack, — roast and all — slide it right out where you can get at it. Needn't reach in and scorch your fingers nor sear your wrists, — baste it in comfort. That one thing alone — the draw-out rack — ought to make you like this range above all ranges. And that's only one of the twelve better things about this range. Come and look.

Best of All

By HONORE WILLISIE

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells

The aisles of pines stretched in every direction, on and on, until the white of the snow faded blended with the white and green of snow laden boughs in dim, shadowy blacks. The silence of the afternoon was unbroken. Even the snow birds were not to be heard, and there was not a breath of wind to disturb the white drapery that covered the pines.

Rose, gliding along on her snowshoes, seemed part and parcel of the quiet beauty of the winter forest. Her slender strength and easy grace seemed strangely in harmony with the fine straightness of the pines.

But for the first time in her life Rose was only vaguely conscious of the loveliness of the woods. She sped on swiftly, untriflingly, guiding her course with now and then a mechanical glance at the ax cuts on the pine tree trunks. In her mind she was reviewing over and over the scene of the morning. Again she saw the tense face of her husband, with the expressionless faces of the two guides behind him. The cause of the quarrel had been trivial enough. Rose scarcely recalled it now. The main point was that her husband, with his English instincts, could not understand that his wife, with her American instincts, could be led, but not driven.

"The Hon. Hugh Boynton," Rose had stormed at him across the campfire, "can bullyrag his mother and his sisters, but his wife is just plain American and she will not be ordered as if she were one of his pointers!"

The Hon. Hugh had straightened his stalwart figure into lines of adamantine stiffness.

"I thought my request was for your own good, Rose," he had said. "Request!" Rose had repeated indignantly. "It was not a request. It was an order. I would do anything on earth that you asked me to do, but I won't be a tiny oilskin jacket. John, the guide, allowed no one in the lodge to be without matches.

"I'll light a fire," she said, "and camp right here for the night."

Dizzy with pain and hunger, she painfully gathered together some dead branches and, kindling a cheerful blaze, sat down before it. The pain in her arm was very great, and she rolled back her sleeve and plied soft handfuls of snow on the flesh.

The whispering of the night through the pines seemed very sad and lonely to Rose. It was only by watching the beauty of the scarlet fire glow on snow and sweeping branches and murmuring over and over to herself that she was not afraid that the girl kept herself from screaming with terror.

Then from out the darkness behind her came the soft puff of hurrying snowshoes, and Hugh, hot and breathless, stood before her.

"Rose!" he cried. "Rose, I thought I had lost you!"

Rose looked up at him in amazement. "How did you find me, Hugh?"

"Find you! Why, I've been following you ever since you left the lodge. But just at dusk my snowshoe broke, and before I could patch it up you were out of sight."

Rose put another handful of snow on her arm. Hugh threw himself down beside her. "Oh, Rose," he cried, "what have you done to yourself?"

Rose looked up at him. Suddenly she realized how she had been belittling a great thing in satisfying her foolish pride. Suddenly she saw that this was best of all; not that she kept her girlish vanity, but that their love held true no matter who ordered or who obeyed. Suddenly she felt as if she wanted things as they had been at any cost.

"Hugh," she said, "I don't mind. Order me about all you want to; only take care of me and don't let me go away again."

Again the little bewildered look came into Hugh's face as he gathered her close.

"I don't want to order you, Rosie," he said. "I was stubborn, and you know what is for your own best good anyhow. All I want is you, and for the rest you may do as you please."

Knowing the Birds.

How grand is the hawk or the eagle sailing far away in the blue sky! And how beautiful are song birds, each in its favorite position to sing, the song sparrow with head thrown back, the bobolink sailing down to the grass with raised wings! Those who have spent much time in watching birds in the field know how differently the various birds perch, fly, run, climb or feed. The warblers catch flies, but they do not do it in such an interesting way as do the true fly catchers. We come to know a bird by the flight or walk just as we know other friends by their gait or even by the sound of their tread. In flight the wings of many different birds make peculiar sounds whereby we may know the birds even if they themselves are out of sight. It is not at all necessary to get close enough to a bird to see its exact color or the shape of its bill and feet, for its movements and outlines can be seen at a greater distance. And so we may know the bird even though it should fly away, as birds often do as soon as we try to stalk them for a nearer view. — St. Nicholas.

Not Enough Bait.

A Washington official tells a story of the last fight the late Senator Quay of Pennsylvania made in the senate. Quay was working hard on the statehood bill, obstructing legislation, when a scheme was fixed up to get him away from the senate for a time.

Quay was very fond of tarpon fishing and had a winter place in Florida. One afternoon he received this telegram from a friend who thought the senator might be in better business than pottering about new states:

"Fishing never so good. Tarpon biting everywhere. Sport magnificent. Come."

Quay read the telegram and smiled a tiny little smile. Then he answered it thus:

"Tarpon may be biting, but I am not. M. S. Quay." — Saturday Evening Post.

"ROSE!" HE CRIED. "I THOUGHT I HAD LOST YOU!"

ordered to do things "for my best good!" Hugh, what do you know about these Wisconsin pines? I was born and bred in them."

Hugh had looked at her in utter bewilderment. The subtle difference between requesting and ordering the same thing was quite lost on him. He knew that he loved the beautiful, stormy girl before him, but something in his English blood made him feel that if he came to her point of view he would belittle himself. So he had merely turned his back on his wife, saying in his Oxford drawl:

"I'm sure I don't care to discuss the matter further."

Rose had stared at him in utter amazement as he made the preparations for the day's hunt. Never in all her spoiled young life had she been so outraged and ignored. Without a word she pulled her soft cap down over her ears, turned up the collar of her great white sweater, slipped her moccasined feet under the thongs of her snowshoes and made off to the south through the clear morning air.

"I am going back to Westhaven," she had said to herself. "I can stop at Levant's lumber camp for supper, and from there take the main road and reach Westhaven by midnight. I've not been alone in the woods at night, but I guess I won't be afraid."

So all the bright winter day she had kept her course, her anger and resentment increasing as she drew farther from the hunting lodge.

"Why did I ever suggest this hunting trip?" she thought bitterly. "I wish we were back in London! But—this was bound to come anyhow, so perhaps it is as well to have things end here as there. For I will not go back to him and his domineering."

The stillness gradually grew oppressive. As the shadows in the distance darkened and closed nearer, there stole through Rose's anger the consciousness that she had had no luncheon and that there was no hope of her reaching Levant's before darkness set in. She half paused.

"Goodness!" she thought. "What shall I do if it gets dark before I reach Levant's? I had forgotten that possibility. And when I get there what excuse shall I make for being there?"

Twilight was deepening, coming with no gorgeousness of sunset or afterglow, for the overhanging boughs, with their snowy covering, were all but impenetrable. Little by little the tree trunks turned from green and brown to black. Little by little the snow took a bluish hue that darkened into the purple of the drooping boughs, and the air grew raw and sharp with a little night breeze that made Rose shiver as the glow of heavy exercise departed with her first weariness.

Her course was now more difficult. As darkness seemed assured she constantly stumbled, but caught herself each time. But the straining told on the thongs of her snowshoes. Suddenly, she could not tell how, the fastenings on one shoe gave way, and she was thrown violently forward. Had the fall taken place in the soft snow Rose would have been unharmed, but she had just arrived at the brow of a slight slope almost wind swept of snow. As the girl scrambled to her feet her left arm dangled uselessly at her side. With a little moan she slipped her other foot from its snowshoe, then stood for a moment, pain and terror of the darkness rendering her weak and helpless.

Then her courage returned to her. "Nonsense!" she thought. "I've been in the woods alone before. I mustn't get frightened even if it is dark and I don't know where I am."

She took from the pocket of her skirt

"Old Bullion's" Arrogance.

"Thomas H. Benton was a most remarkable man," said the late Colonel Switzer, "in some respects the most remarkable I have ever known, but he could not begin a career at this time. The people would not tolerate him. He would impress even a stranger by his appearance. He walked as if he owned the earth. With head raised at an angle of 45 degrees and hands behind his back he would stalk with measured tread down the street, looking neither to the right nor to the left, recognizing no one. If he had an appointment to speak at 2 o'clock, promptly at 2 o'clock he would arrive. He would come in his carriage unattended. He would permit no one to introduce him, but, passing through the crowd, he would make his way to the rostrum and begin, 'Citizens.' Never did he say 'Fellow citizens.' Those before him were no fellows of his. And when he had concluded he would make his way back to the hotel without personally addressing a soul in the audience. No one dared interrupt him in his speech. He refused to recognize the right of any constituent to ask him how he stood on any subject."

How Much Air We Have.

One hundred and thirty-one miles is the height of the atmosphere as measured by Professor T. J. J. See, who determines the thickness of the air envelope by noting the difference between the time of sunset and the complete disappearance of blue from the sky. The moment at which the blue changes into black can be observed quite easily with approximate certainty by the naked eye when the air is clear, and by trigonometry may be ascertained the distance below the horizon of the sun at the moment of change. By this means may be calculated the height of the smallest illuminated particles of oxygen and nitrogen which give to the sky its blueness of tint by the reflection of the smallest wave lengths of the sun's light. The instant of change from blue to black is possibly a little difficult of exact observation, but the method is not more doubtful than that based on the observation of shooting stars. The shooting star method gives a result not greatly differing from the vanishing blue method. The former gives the height of the atmosphere at 109 miles.

A French Verdict.

All juries have a way of tempering justice with mercy and strict logic with good or bad sense. French juries excel in these practices. A Mme. Canaby of Bordeaux was accused of having forged two prescriptions and of having thereby obtained large quantities of poison, some of which she administered to her husband, who nearly died and was only saved by his doctor, who suspected something wrong and took him away. The evidence was overwhelming, for the prisoner completely failed to give any plausible explanation as to why she wanted the poison—enough, as the chemist said, to kill two regiments. Nevertheless the jury found Mme. Canaby guilty of forging the prescriptions, but not guilty of attempting to poison her husband. Perhaps the jury thought the husband unpoisoned was punishment enough in himself for one crime.

Intebriety and the Eating of Fruit.

There is but one sure cure for the drinking disease or habit, and that is the simplest of all. The cure consists in eating fruits. That will cure the worst case of inebriety that ever afflicted a person. It will entirely destroy the taste for intoxicants and will make the drunkard return to the thoughts and tastes of his childhood. No person ever saw a man or woman who liked fruit and who had an appetite for drink. No person ever saw a man or woman with an appetite for drink who liked fruit. The two tastes are at deadly enmity with each other, and there is no room for both of them in the same human constitution. One will surely destroy the other.—What to Eat.

Old Saying With New Meaning.

The saying "Cast not a clout till May be out" has been understood to be a caution against laying aside winter clothing until the month of May has ended. A correspondent of London Notes and Queries says that an old gardener he knows gives a different turn to the proverb, affirming that after the may has come into bloom there is never any further danger of frost, and the saying is really a caution against throwing aside extra garments until the month has come to an end, but until the may be out in blossom.

A Horrible Custom.

Writing from Abyssinia, a correspondent says: "Quaint customs prevail in these parts. When a father is getting on in years the son bids him climb into a tree and jump down from the branches. If the old man staggers on landing the son spears him on the spot; his usefulness is over."

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with as all its nerve weakness. Just as your hand trembles when its nerves are weak, when your heart nerves are weak your heart flutters and palpitates. Other signs are shortness of breath after slight exercise; fainting spells; pain or tenderness about the heart caused by irregular heart action; choking sense about the heart as if the heart was in the throat; uneasy sensation in the chest, showing that the heart is usually the left side, but frequently the right, and difficult breathing. There is absolutely no one-way weak heart. That is to say, the heart is not permanent in its weakness. It can be brought back to its normal and healthy condition. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring back the heart nerves always. There is nothing in this remedy to stimulate late; nothing that is harmful to the system. The strength that it gives is natural and permanent. It is just the same strength as Nature gives to those who are well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative (Tablets or Liquid) creates strength which extends over the whole entire nerve system—it overcomes the cause of the trouble as well as the result. Sold by

THE GIANTS OF OLD

ANCIENT RACES MARVELS OF PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT.

The Semibarbarians of One Thousand Years Ago Were All Remarkably Proportioned Men—The Giants of Ancient Greece and Rome.

That the human race has degenerated in size as well as longevity is a fact well attested by various authorities. A prominent Washington physician who has made a life study of brain and cerebral developments, says that, on visiting the catacombs of Paris, what struck him most in these vast repositories of the contents of the city's ancient graveyards was the great size of the skulls in comparison with those of more modern mankind. This superiority of development in the men who lived 1,000 years or more ago the scientist attributes to the open air life then in vogue and the physical sports and exercises indulged in.

There are several races of giants mentioned in the Bible, and the Greek and Roman historians have recorded many examples which serve to show that these specimens of elongated humanity were by no means rare at one period of the world's history.

Thus it is mentioned that the Emperor Maximian was eight feet some inches high. The body of Orestes, according to the Greeks, was eleven and a half feet in height, the giant Gabora, brought from Arabia to Rome under Claudius Caesar, measured near ten feet, and the bones of Scandilla and Pusio, keepers of the gardens of Balust, were but six inches shorter.

The probability is that outside of cultivated Greece and Rome among the semibarbarous of the greater part of present day European nations physical development reached often to more wondrous proportions.

The Chevalier Scory in his voyage to the peak of Tenerife says that they found in one of the sepulchral caverns of that mountain the head of a Guanche which had eighty teeth and that the body was not less than fifteen feet long. The giant Ferragus, slain by Orlando, nephew of Charlemagne, was eighteen feet high.

Reviand, a celebrated anatomist who wrote in 1814, says that some years before that time there was to be seen in the suburbs of St. Germaine the tomb of the giant Isoret, who was twenty feet high.

At Rouen in 1500, in digging in the ditches near the Dominicano, there was found a stone tomb containing a skeleton whose shin bone reached up to the girdle of the tallest man there, being about four feet long, and consequently the body must have been seven or eighteen feet high. Upon the tomb was a plate of copper upon which was engraved, "In this tomb lies the noble and puissant lord, the Chevalier Ruon de Vallemont, and his bones." There is, indeed, evidence in the ponderous armor and two handed swords which remain to us in museums to prove that the knight of the ages of chivalry was a heroic specimen of human architecture.

Platerius, a famous physician, declared that he saw at Lucerne the true human bones of a subject who must have been at least nineteen feet high.

Valance, in Dauphine, boasts of possessing the bones of the giant Bucart, of the Vivarais, who was slain by an arrow by the Count de Cabillon, his vassal. The Dominicans had a part of his shin bone, with the articulation of the knee, and his figure painted in fresco, with an inscription showing that this giant was twenty-two and one-half feet high and that his bones were found in 1705 near the banks of the Moderi, a little river at the foot of the mountain of Crusol, upon which (tradition says) the giant dwelt.

On Jan. 11, 1633, some masons digging near the ruins of a castle in Dauphine, in a locality which had long been known as the Giant's field, at the depth of eighteen feet discovered a brick tomb thirty feet high, twelve feet wide and eight feet high, on which was a gray stone, with the words "Theobobochus Rex" cut thereon. When the tomb was opened they found a human skeleton, entire, twenty-five and one-half feet long, ten feet wide across the shoulders and five feet deep from the breastbone to the back. The teeth were each about the size of an ox's foot, and his shin bone measured four feet.

Near Margarino, in Sicily, in 1516, was found a giant thirty feet high. His head was the size of a hoghead, and each of his teeth weighed five ounces.

Near Palermo, in the valley of Magara, in Sicily, a skeleton of a giant thirty feet long was found in the year 1548 and another thirty-three feet high in 1550. Several of the gigantic bones of the latter subject are still preserved by private persons in Italy.

The Athenians found thirty-two famous skeletons, one thirty-four and another thirty-six feet in height.

At Totte, in Bohemia, in 758, was found a skeleton the head of which could scarcely be encompassed by the arms of two men together and whose legs, which are still preserved in the castle of the city, were twenty-six feet long.

The celebrated English scientist, Sir Hans Sloane, who treated the matter very learnedly, does not doubt the facts above narrated, but thinks the bones were those of elephants, whales or other animals. But it has been well remarked that, while elephants' bones may be shown for those of giants to superficial observers, this can never impose upon such distinguished anatomists as have testified in many cases to the mammoth bones being unmistakably human.

Be patient with every one, but above all with yourself.—Francis.

THROAT EXERCISES.

Evils That Come From Misuse of the Vocal Organs.

The chronic sore throat is not infrequently produced by the misuse of the vocal organs. Very often that unruly little member, the tongue, is accountable for the difficulty, as it is for a great many other troubles in this transitory life. Many people have a habit when talking of pushing the tongue so far back against the delicate membranes that line the throat that irritation more or less painful is caused, and if it continues any length of time ulcers will form, and so will a doctor's bill.

Control of the tongue is excellent in all senses of the word. Physically this organ may be managed by depressing it into a hollow at a point three-quarters of an inch back of where the tip of it comes when in a natural position in the mouth and at the same time singing very light head tones. This exercise requires some patience at first, but the habit of keeping the tongue down is soon acquired. In speaking or singing it should not be allowed to hop up and fill the mouth, thus interfering with the free passage of the tones of the voice from the throat to the front of the mouth, where they should strike and then escape clear as a bell. This hooping up of the tongue in the mouth is the cause of much of the indistinct and slovenly utterances to which we are too often obliged to listen.

In many people we notice the line from the point of the chin to the neck is in the form of a right angle. In a shapely throat this line forms a curve, just as a canary's does when the small yellow artist is warbling his carols.

To develop the throat and make this angle curve stand before a mirror so that you may watch the throat swell out. Now thrust your tongue out as far as it will go, then draw it back quickly and forcibly, at the same time bringing it downward in the mouth as far as you can. Place your thumb and forefinger against the larynx (commonly called the Adam's apple), and if you are making the right movement you will feel the larynx pass downward. For a week or two make the movements lightly. After that time put as much force into it as you can. The exercise should be practiced for a few minutes several times a day to insure rapid and good results.

To fill up the hollows of the neck stand correctly and then slowly fill the lungs with air without elevating your shoulders. As the air is forced upward into the throat hold it there a few seconds and then expel slowly. This exercise is best performed soon after rising in the morning and before retiring at night.

Time and Eternity.

The stream of time never runs dry, and the ocean of eternity will forever send its mighty surges mountain high against the bank of time's little stream, sweeping with each receding billow over its expansive bosom the frail human craft from the shore of time, with earth's happiness, human affection, toil, trials, tears and sin, to the eternal shore of celestial beauty and bliss. Oh, mighty ocean of eternity, your wonderful anthem of life and death brings eternal woe and condemnation to him who is untrue to himself and his divine pilot, but to the trusting, faithful man it sings of endless felicity in the presence of time who has redeemed his people from the bondage of sin and has swept them through the pearly gates.

The Wonderful Diatom.

One of the most wonderful things in vegetable life is a beautiful and minute class of seaweeds called diatoms. They belong to the seaweed family, yet they may be found by the thousands in any roadside ditch, fresh or salt water lake or even in cisterns, wells, springs, etc. Most species of plants are made up of an infinite number of little cells, but with the diatom it is otherwise. Each representative of this wonderful family of plants is formed of but a single cell and this so minute that it would require 2,600 of the most common form, laid end to end, to make a string an inch in length. Some species of diatoms have the power of independent motion, and on that account were for some time believed to be animals.

Candy and the Flag.

The following is accredited to the late Senator Hoar: At a Fourth of July celebration in a Canadian town where both English and American guests were assembled the flags of the two countries were used in decorations. A frivolous young English girl, loyal to the queen, but with no love for the stars and stripes, exclaimed: "Oh, what a silly looking thing the American flag is! It suggests nothing but checkerboard candy." "Yes," replied Senator Hoar, "the kind of candy that has made everybody sick who ever tried to lick it."

Charity.

Charity is a universal duty which it is in every man's power sometimes to practice, since every degree of assistance given to another upon proper motives is an act of charity, and there is scarcely any man in such a state of imbecility as that he may not, on some occasions, benefit his neighbor.—Johnson.

His Advantage.

First Man—How do you do? Second Man—Beg pardon, but you have the advantage of me. First Man—Yes; I guess I have. We were engaged to the same girl, but you married her.

The taste of beauty and the relish of what is decent, just and amiable perfect the character of the gentleman and the philosopher.—Shaftesbury.

PLYMPTON.

Mrs. Francis Alexander's new residence on the 2nd line is about complete and is an up-to-date structure of the very latest style, which is an improvement to the line.

School house No. 43 has had a concrete foundation put under it and a furnace will be installed later on. All is now completed but the piping which will be done this week by Jno. Rice & Son.

Governor at Lynching.

Greenwood, S. C., Aug. 16.—Bob Davis, the negro who assaulted Miss Jennie Brooks near here Monday, was lynched here tonight.

Gov. Heyward was present and made a strong appeal to save the negro, but the mob was determined, and shot the negro to death.

Result of Environment

"I saw the oldest freak the other day," says the man with the honest eyes and the trust-worthy face.

"A three legged cat?" we ask smiling.

"No. It was a chicken that had furnished feathers."

"For?"

"Yes. It was hatched from a cold storage egg."—Life.

Army to Bring to Canada 25,000 Immigrants in Year.

London, Aug. 16.—Brig Gen. Howell and Col. Lamb of the salvation Army leave England for Canada Aug. 17, having completed arrangements for the settlement of between 20,000 and 25,000 emigrants in the Dominion of Canada within a year.

A fleet of ten or twelve steamers will be chartered for their transportation. Emigrants will be sent through Canada in such a way as to place them within reach of work for which they are best suited.

Teacher's Salaries in Rural Schools.

From a perusal of the new Public School Act one important change will be seen in the fixing of a minimum salary for the teachers of rural schools as follows:

(a) $300 when the assessment of the section is $200,000 or over.

(b) $400 where the assessment is between $120,000 and $200,000.

(c) $400 where the assessment is between $100,000 and $150,000.

(d) $300 where the assessment is between $50,000 and $100,000.

Of these amounts a general rate will be levied by each township to provide $300 for each school. The remainder will be raised by an additional rate on the individual section.

The grants to such schools have been considerably augmented. In addition to the ordinary Legislature grant based on attendance, a special one with an equivalent from the county will be received by each rural school, these latter based on the character of the accommodation and equipment as found by the inspector on his periodical visits.

When the Ringling Bros' special horse train arrived in Port Huron on Thursday morning it was found that three horses were dead and one seriously injured. The animals engaged in a fight on the way from Bay City with the above result. The dead horses were valued at $800.

On Monday morning Mr. W. W. Daniels, Forest, and Miss Emma McCallum, daughter of P. D. McCallum, left forest for Edmont. Mrs. Daniels goes to join her husband, who went west in the spring, and Miss McCallum goes to take a position as teacher, at $800 per year, near Edmont.

While passing the big lion at Ringling Bros' circus Thursday night in Port Huron, Arthur Williams, an attendant, residing in London, Ont., was bitten on the right arm. The animal sank its teeth in Williams' arm and tore the flesh from the elbow to the wrist. Williams' arm was dressed by a physician. It is thought that blood poisoning will set in.

On Wednesday evening while Miss Gertrude Emory, of Wall street, and Miss Anna Kidd, of Yale, were walking down Wall street, Port Huron, an unknown man suddenly stepped out from behind a tree and gave chase. The young ladies ran to the home of Robert Thompson and the man made his disappearance. The people in the vicinity have been bothered a great deal by this unknown person. The police have been notified.

THE WESTERN FAIR LONDON, ONT.

Will Be a Great Success!

The Western Fair, London, Ont., which is held Sept. 7th to 15th this year promises to eclipse all previous exhibitions, although they have been good. Fifteen Hundred Dollars have been added to the Prize List. Entries are coming in from all sides. Reserved seat plans have been adopted this year for a part of the grand stand, which will be a great accommodation to the public, and everything indicates a very successful exhibition. The attractions this year are above the average, being both new and novel. The Royal Varieties Band originally from Venice, one of the best musical organizations of the day are under engagement for the entire week. C. W. Williams with his ship "America" making his daily flights through the clouds; the Kita Banzai Japanese troupe in their acrobatic acts and "slide for life"; the N. Rin in their high and fancy diving; the Les Remos, or Polite Burglars, trick horse performers, slack wire and comedy ladder acts; Aldo and Amour, bar comedians, in their comic acts, and many others. The fireworks this year, the leading feature of which will be Carnival of Venice, will surpass anything of the kind ever presented at the Western Fair. Reduced rates on all railroads for which are timetables, and also late trains for accommodation of those remaining to the evening performance and fireworks. Programs and all information will be given on application to the Secretary, London, Ont. Take a holiday and visit the only Western Fair sometime between Sept. 7th and 15th.

Know Him.

He was always unsuccessful when it came to finding work. And he said the nation soon would go to smash. He complained because a willing man forever had to shirk; He kicked if any man had surplus cash. He always found the government was faulty and unsound, He would like to put the leaders on the run,

But you ought to see him hustle when the seasons came around. And 'twas time to get out fishing lines and gun!

When it came to chronic grumbling, he was at it early, late, And he reckoned that a poor man had no hope;

He was constantly on speaking terms with what he said was fate; For excuses he was ne'er obliged to grope. He would tell you that his life had been a failure through and through,

But I never—no, I never—saw him shun The slightest opportunity—and you can bet he knew— To tinker at his fishing lines and gun!

—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Would Have to Swim for it.

"And what are you doing now?" enquired a clergyman of an ex-penitentiary he had not seen for a year or two. "A'm nailer down." "A what?" "A naller down. A nail the dead folks down in their coffin. A'm w' an undertaker." "Oh, I see; rather a strange occupation," said the clergyman, with a shudder. "Aye, aye, strange enough. Aa had a queer case last week. I couldn't mak it oo at all!" "What was that?" "The corpse had half a sovereign grippit in its hand." "Oh, that's nothing strange, John. It's simply an old superstition that the dead require to pay the grim ferryman who rows them across the Dark River." "D'ye tell me se I Then a'm afraid that chap'll ha' to swim!"

ENGLAND.
London, Aug. 20.—American cattle, 6d to 6 1/2d.
Liverpool, Aug. 20.—Canadians, 5 1/2d.

Toronto, August 21.—There was a rather light run at the Western Cattle Market today, only 42 carloads being offered. The run included 685 cattle, 1,500 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 140 calves. On account of the scarcity of good cattle the prices remained fairly high, although there was little or no change in many classes of stock. There is a demand for more butchers and exporting cattle of better quality. Hardly any export cattle were on the market at all this morning, and the stock that was offered was only fair in quality. There was a slight advance in the price of lambs, the prices ranging from $6.25 to $6.85. Hogs are unchanged, ranging from $6.65 for light to $6.90 for select. Stockers and feeders of about 800 or 900 pounds are wanted on the market. As the run was light this morning the cattle were all sold early, and some buyers who came after 7 o'clock were disappointed. Wesley Dunn bought 150 sheep at $4.65, 500 lambs at $6.75 and 75 calves at $7.50 each. O. Zaegman & Sons bought one load of mixed butchers' cattle, weighing 900 pounds at $3.25. Corbett & Henderson sold one load of butchers, 1,050 pounds, at $4.10; seven cows, weighing 1,100 pounds, at $3.25; two butchers, 1,010 pounds, at $4.60; seven butchers, weighing 1,000 pounds, at $4.40; and sixteen, weighing 1,000 pounds, at $4.20. George Dunn sold one load of butchers', weighing 1,925 pounds, at $4. M. H. Pringle bought 12 butchers' cattle, ranging from 950 to 1,100 pounds, at from $3.70 to $4.25. George Rowntree bought 150 cattle; butchers', at from $4.12 1/2 to $4.50; steers, at from $4 to $4.35, and cows from $2.50 to $3.60. BROOKE.

Mrs. W. G. Logan and children spent Sunday with Sarnia relatives.

Mrs. James Swan, Brucefield, Ontario, is visiting her brother, Mr. James Beattie.

Miss Effie MacIntyre, nurse in training at the Victoria Hospital, London, is spending her vacation at her home.

Karl Sisson has returned home after spending the holidays at his grandfather's Mr. John Logan's, 6th line.

Mr. W. D. Swan, of the Clinton, Collegiate, is spending a couple of weeks at the home of his uncle, James Beattie.

Mrs. Duncan Dunlop, one of Warwick's oldest residents, celebrated her 87th birthday, Tuesday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Zavitz. The old lady is bright and cheerful as many half her years, and the members of the family joined in observing the event.

There are few men with the grit and endurance of R. McLennan of the 10th. About two weeks ago he was kicked in the leg by a horse, but did not pay any particular attention to the injury, and went on with his harvesting. One day last week he had the injured limb examined, when it was found that one of the small bones were broken. A man must have a Granite constitution to stand a test like this.

SALEM HARVEST HOME.—The anniversary of the Salem Methodist Church, will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 29, 1906. Tea will be served from 6 to 8, after which a good program will be given under cover consisting of several numbers by—Mr. Morrow, of Watford; Vocalist; The Watford Male Quartette, Miss Jessie Coupland, Vocalist, piano selections by Miss Mabel Coupland, Miss Jessie Taylor and Annie Coupland, Elocutionists, and the Victoria String Band. Admission, Adults 25, Children 15. Come early and have a good time.—T. B. COUPLAND, Pastor.

Demonstrations in Boxing Apples.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The fruit division of the Department of Agriculture is arranging a series of demonstrations in boxing apples to be given by an expert, who has been brought from Oregon, specially for the purpose. The division is seeking to introduce in the fruit districts the system of packing in boxes, particularly of fancy grades of apples. The system is more suited to the home trade, as the box, holding a bushel or so, is very convenient for household use and also for the export of handpicked fruit for export.

For the usual export trade, shippers will continue to use barrels. The demonstrations of the imported expert will be given in the fruit districts, chiefly in Western and Central Ontario. The schedule so far is as follows:—Aug. 22, St. Catharines; 24 and 25, Chatham; 27 and 28, Forest.

Losses by Lightning.

Alvinston, Ont., Aug. 22.—During the heavy electrical storm which passed over this section yesterday afternoon, John Reader's barn, about 3 miles from Alvinston, were burned by lightning.

The whole season's crop, together with most of the farm implements, wagons, buggies, etc., are a complete loss. Mr. Reader's loss will be fully $3,500, insured in the Lambton Mutual for $1,300. Dougald E. McKellar's barn, one mile east of town, was burned down with the whole season's crops. A valuable mare and colt, which were in the building, were burned. Mr. McKellar, being in the barn at the time, was badly shocked, but managed to escape in time. His loss will be about $3,500; insured for $800.

A valuable two year old heifer, pasturing in the field, belonging to T. P. Chambers, was killed by the lightning.

Midsummer Casualties.

From the Detroit Free Press.

William Todmore of Libertyville, Ky., was painfully injured last Tuesday, when a savage dog bit him in the picnic grounds.

While playing with an old revolver Monday, little Alfred Siggles of West Wind, Ind., shot his father in the front porch.

Hiram Sellers of Pinkville Pa., was chased by a savage bull Sunday afternoon. It gored him between the orchard and the barnyard.

Postmaster Vipples, of Scarboro, Tenn., is suffering greatly by reason of a hornet having stung him about a foot from the stamp window.

Mrs. Mimms of Poke City, Iowa, has a letter from her son in Texas, saying he was stabbed in the oil belt last week. A stone thrown at a train in Missouri struck Mr. H. B. Bigger in the vestibule and he is now in the hospital. Amos T. Perkins of Corn Center, Kan., went to Wichita last Thursday and slipped and fell on his return.

Josiah Stebbins of Elm Grove, Minn., is slowly recovering from the effects of having been accidentally wounded with a pitchfork in his hay loft.

Lavigne to Kingston.

Lavigne, the child assaulter, who was sentenced by Judge Elliot to four years in penitentiary and 25 lashes, was taken to Kingston last week by Constable Hughes. Since the morning of the sentence Lavigne has not regained his nerve. He whimpered like a terror-stricken child and evidently the prospect of the lashing is the cause of it.

The prisoner does not mind the years—so he said—but the lashing brings unwanted horrors to him.
