JUBILEE OF STANFIELD'S LIMITED

Pioneers of Woolen Business in Canada Celebrate Half a Century of Success. Truro, N. S., Feb. 19—Friday was Stanfield's day. In Truro for the five days' convention of Stanfield's Limited came to a close that night with a banquet tendered by the mayor and town council to the officers, business executives and salesmen of this great manufacturing organization, now the chief industry of Truro and one of the most important in eastern Canada.

The late C. E. Stanfield, who came from his uncle's mill in Byron, Prince Edward Island, some fifty years ago, was one of Canada's pioneer woolen men. He knew his business thoroughly and brought with him those sterling British qualities of honesty, thoroughness and careful workmanship which quickly made his goods sought after by his neighbors. Looking for wider fields, he came to Truro and built two mills, finally building a third and larger one on the site of the present Stanfield mills, where the first Cardigan jackets and Bannockburn tweeds made in Canada were knitted.

When the late C. E. Stanfield retired from business, the Stanfield mills were sold to his sons, John and Frank, who grew up in the business and are still the active heads as president and vice-president respectively. Ever since John and Frank Stanfield have guided the destinies of this organization, they have consistently used publicity to tell the merits of their goods to the Canadian people, for they realized that no matter how good their underwear might be, the quickest and most economical method of acquainting the people with its merits was to advertise in the newspapers. That this has been a wise investment is proven by the steadily increasing demand for Stanfield's underwear, the sales of which in 1920 amounted to $3,000,000.

One of the happiest features of the jubilee banquet was the announcement that John Stanfield, president of the company and former member of parliament for Colchester, had been appointed as senator from Nova Scotia.

Keep that schoolgirl complexion

A firm, fresh and blooming skin, radiant with health and free from blemishes, isn't the attribute of early youth alone. Every woman can keep her schoolgirl complexion long after early youth has flown. It is lotion-like in its action, leaving your skin soft and smooth. Just add a touch of cold cream and you are through. If your skin is very dry, or when you use rouge and powder, apply cold cream before as well as after washing. If your skin seems soft and lacking in firmness, apply cold water liberally. This condition often follows the use of cold cream alone for cleansing.

This finest facial soap costs 10 cents a cake. This price is possible because we make Palmolive in such vast volume. The Palmolive factories work night and day. We buy the costly ingredients in enormous quantities. You can't buy a better soap no matter what price you pay, because science can't make finer soap. But the price allows you to provide it for general family use, a luxury all may enjoy. The Palmolive Company of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Volume and efficiency permit us to sell Palmolive for 10c. Illustration of a Palmolive soap box.

The beauty secret of ancient Egypt. This use of Palm and Olive oils as cosmetic cleansers is a beauty secret discovered 4,000 years ago in ancient Egypt. The Greeks and Romans also knew their value. Palm and olive oils adorned their sumptuous marble baths. Now in scientific modern days these same beautifying oils are combined in the most popular of facial soaps. They still hold first place as soothing, healing, beautifying cleansers.

WOMEN ON STRIKE; REFUSE TO BUY

Farmers Cut Egg Prices From 70 to 46 Cents, But Even Then Do Not Sell. St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 21.—Farmers on the market here Saturday asked seventy cents a dozen for eggs, but the women finally refused to buy. The farmers finally dropped the price to forty-six cents. The women, however, refused to buy at any price. "We taught the farmers a lesson today that they will remember," one of the strike leaders declared.

FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH

(Our Dumb Animals.) Much was said in the Boston papers last month about a collie dog in Cambridge destroyed by one of our officers. The graphic picture was painted of this faithful companion standing guard over the body of his dead master. One writer even portrayed him as falling, at last, riddled with bullets. The facts were that when our officer reached the house the dog was at the head of the stairs and not in the same room at all with the body of the dead man. Every effort was made to placate him. The officer risked being attacked and severely bitten several times. Finally he endeavored to get a noose over the dog's head by approaching with a chair held in front of him. The dog sprang at him and bit savagely at the legs of the chair, and only the chair saved the officer from being attacked. It seemed, after three-quarters of an hour, that the only thing was to destroy him. His death was without a second's suffering, as one shot brought

INSTANT DEATH

The poor dog, in our judgment, would never have been happy, could he have been overcome by force, and so captured. He was a large, powerful fellow, determined that no one should enter the house. With this statement, we are glad to publish Miss Poole's stanzas: FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH. Three days and nights he vigils kept Behind that fast-locked door, Beside the still and rigid form Whose voice he heard no more. Nor hunger minded he, nor cold, As all alone he lay, Guarding the master whose command Alone he would obey. And when at last the awful hush Announced the lone man's doom, No one dared brave the scolded On guard outside the room. A bullet stilled that faithful heart— Alas, that it need be That naught beside could part the twin! True unto death was he.

AERIAL TOWERS FOR AIRSHIPS

Pulham, Eng., Feb. 4.—(Associated Press Correspondence)—Experiments are soon to be carried out at the aerodrome here with the object of establishing the stability or otherwise of steel towers as moorings for big airships. An attempt is to be made to moor the giant airship R-38, the sister dirigible to the trans-Atlantic flyer R-34, to a steel tower 150 feet in height. If the experiments are successful it will have a marked effect on the position of this class of aircraft as commerce carriers, for it will mean that the steel tower is likely to be the usual form of station headquarters for the airship of the future. The steel tower here, however, is only an experimental one and not the highly developed tubular construction which the lovers of the future are expected to be. A shaft runs up the tower and through this by means of pipes, the R-38 can be re-fueled and re-gassed.

THE BUSINESS COLUMN

This Retail Court... Probably the only court of justice of its kind in the world holds sessions in the eighteenth floor of the Republic Building in Chicago, known locally as 'The Little Town on the Corner.'

One of the top rebels confronting the management was the fact that in many instances shoppers were deterred from buying because of their fear that if purchases were unsatisfactory, or not in accordance with the representations made for them, there might be difficulty in getting complaints adjusted. They did not have the same sense of security in making purchases as they enjoyed in patronizing some of the big department stores.

It has been found, however, that in nearly every case which has come up before the court for settlement, where the customer has been proved in error, they obtain has been reasonable and clear enough to admit the injustice of their claim and abide by the decision based on the evidence presented.

There is none of the real tape or delay encountered in the complaint department of many of the large stores, where frequently, owing to the rush of business, a customer has to enter his claim through inexperienced clerks, whose lack of diplomacy often costs the store the customer's future patronage.

On the contrary, every effort is made to gain the permanent good will of the customer and to make "boasters" of potential "knockers." The result is that the "court" is gaining new friends—and new customers.

One Window That Was Too Clean... One Friday evening Mr. Rosenberger, manager of the H. G. Chaffee grocery in Highland Park, Calif., washed the front windows of the store to prepare for his Saturday display. One rule of the store is to have windows that give perfect views of the groceries behind them.

An advantageous feature of the window construction of the store is that instead of being stationary, these windows in mild weather can be pushed upward, leaving nothing at all between the groceries and the people on the sidewalk. Quite often a shopper will walk right in through the opening from the sidewalk to examine what she happens to see. It makes it easy to buy things. And, in that state of mild weather, the windows are up out of the way much of the time. People are more used to seeing the goods and the sidewalk.

On the Friday evening referred to a good customer of the store, Charles Willets of South Pasadena, happened along. He saw some bags of English walnuts that suggested a purchase. Appreciating the convenience of such a method of buying, Mr. Willets stepped right in to see—only he stepped through the glass of the window. While he did shake the glass his heavy overcoat and broad-brimmed hat prevented any injury, but he was much surprised.

So far American toy manufacturers have retained their grip on the domestic market. According to wholesalers in New York, more than 80 per cent. of the toys sold in the United States in 1920 were of American manufacture. The figures check up evenly for the total value on the market here was approximately $100,000,000 of which just $80,000,000 was of domestic make.

The "opposition," Japan got the largest slice of American trade, approximately $100,000,000 of which $80,000,000 worth was to sell one-tenth as much as the American manufacturers. All other countries combined got $20,000,000 from the United States for their toys.

Dollar Bills Make Excellent Price Tags. One hundred and twenty-five dollar bills, pinned on merchandise put in the display windows, the bills serving as price tags, helped the Theodore Hensing Co., of Benson, Mich., to sell $6000 worth of goods in one day.

The novelty of the display, the real values offered and the advertising given the sales staff, brought a record-breaking crowd to the store and moved merchandise as fast as the sales force, greatly augmented, could handle it.

In preparation for the sale Manager H. M. Nelson sent out 1500 handbills, reproducing the page advertisement given in the daily newspapers. These bills went to country customers living more than ten miles from Benson. The newspapers and the window display with its dollar bills were depended upon to get the city trade and they did. A special policeman was hired to guard the store during the sale.

Nelson employed fourteen extra sales persons and three floor men. He also hired twelve cashboys to speed up sales and have change made promptly. The sale was conducted on a cash basis, but the store accepted farm produce as cash.

Here are some of the results: In the military department 166 hats lasted only a short time. They were priced at $1 each. Some had been in stock five years.

In the hosiery department there was a jam. When things were checked up at night it was found that 3400 pairs of hose had been sold.

Shoes went like hot cakes and 350 pairs were disposed of. In the grocery department 101 boxes of soap were sold. The sale lasted from 9 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock in the evening and the total sales were $4016 in cash and $1009 in farm produce, valued at cash. Nelson says it is impossible to estimate the number of persons who entered the store during the day and evenings, but that it was packed all the time.

He believes the dollar bills in the window, which served to impress values upon the customer's mind and cause him to think about the sale, are largely responsible for the unusual success of the store.

R. F. WRIGHT, Manager. T. A. McAVITY, Inspector.

Of course the store offered real value. Little Red Ridinghood, who was almost—luckily not quite—4 years by the wolf; and many other thrifty tales that delighted the childish heart.

The willingness of the average young man to bet a pair of silk stockings with a girl followed by his disinclination to go to the ladies' counter to pay the check, has been capitalized by the Shankweiler & Lehr store in Allentown, Pa., by the institution of a special silk stockings counter in the men's department. Young men can make their purchases from male clerks without blushing violently.

Most men hate to rummage through women's department and yet silk stockings are often bought by young fellows, sometimes for their mothers or sisters, and more often for those outside their family circle. A great many customers take advantage of the new convenience, since they can get the hose without the embarrassment of subdued mirth from women clerks.

"Story-Book Hall" Helps Entire Store. O. A. Hale's department store in San Jose, Cal., recently added a toy department and quickly demonstrated the fact that it pays to take a little trouble to interest the children.

Mrs. Mabel Price, Lehr, the store's advertising manager, wanted to kill about a dozen birds with one stone. To interest the kiddies, to get the mothers in the store for uninterrupted shopping, to advertise the new children's books—and oh! a lot of other things! These were Mrs. Lehr's ambitions. So she immediately set to work.

She secured an upstairs room a stock room and converted it into a "Story-Book Hall" for the children's own. It has all the real trimmings of a real theatre—shaded lights, a cunning stage, a splendidly furnished auditorium. At the back of the tiny stage is a row of "life-size" books made from heavy cardboard and bearing the titles: "Huggedy Ann," "Little Women," "Treasure Island," etc.

In the centre of the stage is one of the immense books labeled "Once Upon a Time," which the children are allowed to open at the proper moment. And to their delight they step the "story lady" in a wonderful red cape and tall, pointed black hat—a real Mother Goose.

Leaning upon her staff, she relates in realistic fashion the joys and sorrows of Jack, who planted the wonderful bean-stalk.

RECORD CROWD AT CHAMPIONSHIP SKATING MEET

Gorman Takes Every Event
in Which He Skates

Garnett Wins Thrilling Three Mile Race—Meets Demonstrates Need of New Rink—
Some Episodes of the Day.

It is estimated that nearly five thousand people assembled around the east end rink on Saturday afternoon to witness the Maritime Skating Championship, which were held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. I. The vast majority were anxious to see Charles Gorman, who established a world's record at Lake Placid in the 440 yards, and who made such a remarkable showing at Montreal, Saranac and Lake Placid. That he is a great skater was evident and he had no difficulty clinching the championship, capturing every heat, semi final and final, in which he skated in the 220, 440 yards, half mile and mile events, for a total of 120 points. Hilton Belyea won second place in the half mile, one and three mile events for a total of sixty points; while Frank Garnett was third, winning second in the 220 yards, and first in the three mile event for a total of fifty points.

Gorman was only forced to extend himself twice in the final of the 440 yards he got away to a bad start, but showed a wonderful burst of speed and passed those in front of him winning by a wide margin. In the half mile he fell on the upper turn, but like a flash regained his feet and although thrown completely out of his stride quickly forged to the front and won out.

In the three mile event Garnett showed a fine burst of speed at the finish and when he crossed the line a winner he was raised to the shoulders of admirers and carried to the club room.

The Three Miles.
This event was one of the thrillers of the day. Garnett taking the race from Belyea, after the veteran skater had led the pace up to within a couple of laps from the finish.

While the meet was a grand success it was also an eye opener for many and pointed out in no uncertain way the dire necessity of having a large up-to-date rink erected in this city. Those who were present could realize the possibility for a good investment. Only those in the front row really enjoyed the meet, others being able to see only a small part of the events.

How They Saw Them.
The grand stand facilities being altogether inadequate to accommodate the vast throng who assembled to see the races the ingenuity of those who could not obtain a seat in the grand stand resorted to erecting for themselves impromptu cocoons of vantage from which they could get the best possible view of the sports. Destiny and the engineers had conspired to lay out the skating ring in the near vicinity of a dump, so that right to hand were to be found all the raw materials necessary for the erection of grand stands of the people, for the people and by the people.

The resources of the dump seemed infinitely varied and quite inexhaustible. And everything was fashioned to the purpose of affording a better view of the great struggles going on out there on the ice. Ex-tomato cans, battered oil cans, bruised wash tubs, dinged dishpans, and barrels, ferns and pails that had lost the symmetry and beauty of their youth were all requisitioned to raise the observers, who were ingenious enough to salvage them and skilful enough to stand on them above the heads of those who had come early and got a place in close to the skating ring itself.

Fats of Balance.
Balancing feats that would have done credit to circus performers were as common as dandelions in June. Dainty ladies dexterously poised themselves on one foot on the top of a tomato can with as much assurance as a steplike jack on a flag pole. Every fair-sized woman tub held two or three and three men maintained a nicely balanced triangle of forces on the top of a barrel that preserved its equilibrium all through the piece.

The skating rink was flanked on the north by a series of back yards and the corresponding series of houses to which the back yards belonged. In one of these back yards stood a thirty foot clothes pole which a quick-witted youth as soon as he spied it decided would provide the best seat in the house. As quickly as a squirrel he "skinned" up the pole—for the pole had no spikes in it—and seated himself on the very pinnacle so high up that he looked no bigger than a weather-vane. But the good lady to whom the clothes pole presumably belonged—for it was attached to her back window by means of a pulley line—decided that she could not continue to look with favor upon him thus perched atop her clothes pole. She opened the window and pulled most vigorously upon the pulley line. The pole began to heave away ominously and the youth seemed to be in imminent peril of being precipitated upon the heads of the crowd far below. But he seemed quite unperturbed and, tightening his trowsers hold a little, he decided to stick. Evidently he wouldn't come down so a new plan of attack was formulated. With grim determination in his eye and a very sharp axe in his hand the man of the house came out and taking his stand at the bottom of the pole yelled up an ultimatum to the lad at the top. The ultimatum gave him just ten seconds to get down before the axe was applied to the pole. The youth decided that discretion was the better part of valor and accordingly came down and began to look for a less exalted place in the world.

The several structures in the playground that he next were also used to good advantage. The tops of the swings, the teeter-totters, the shoot-the-chutes and the other paraphernalia were all demystified and the men on the barrel, many vehicles were wrenched in close to the ring and all were loaded to capacity. On the long rising slope of the cement that lay hard by presently a lively clearance.

A Family Party.
Just before the pistol went off for the first race there emerged through the sky-light of a neighboring house one after another a man and his family. Chairs were handed up from below and the whole party settled themselves comfortably in their reserved seats on the roof. But it got cold up there right in the teeth of the gale and before long the party had to move over closer to the chimney for warmth and comfort.

But in spite of these apparent inconveniences everybody was happy. A great fund of good humor pervaded the crowd. They were having a good time and enjoying the races. And so good were the sports and so keen was the enjoyment that everybody, the men on the barrel, the ladies on the tomato cans, the boys on the wagon, and the people on the house tops, everybody in fact except the boy on the clothes pole stayed where he was till the last lap of the last race was over.

YESTERDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Mrs. James McTavish has returned after a seven weeks' visit in Upper Canadian cities. During her absence she gave several addresses on missionary subjects. At Niagara Falls she spoke in four of the churches and at Thorold she spoke in two churches. The subjects of her addresses were the Wesleyan missions in Guyana and the Anglican and Presbyterian missions in Trinidad.

The service of sacred song in the school room of St. David's church after the evening service yesterday had a programme of special numbers that was very greatly enjoyed. A large congregation attended and entered heartily in the general selections. F. J. Punter was in the choir and the pianist was Miss Phyllis MacGowan. Solos were sung by Miss Ermeline Climo, Miss Gladys Tweedie and J. Stewart Smith, and the male choir gave several selections.

An exchange of pulpits was made by Rev. George F. Dawson of the Exmouth street Methodist church and Rev. Neil McLaughlin of the Queen square church yesterday morning. Rev. Dr. Farquharson, Presbyterian port chaplain, was the preacher in St. David's church at both services owing to the illness of the minister. Rev. A. MacKiegan, Rev. J. V. Young of the Mission church conducted the morning service in St. Luke's church. Rev. C. Morgan, of Amherst, was the preacher at both services in St. Phillips church, where special observance of Allen's Day was made in rally services.

The Tuxis boys of the German street Baptist church had charge of the evening service in the church yesterday and a choir of the boys led in the singing with splendid effect. A solo was sung by the choir of boys and the pastor, Rev. J. Stewart Smith, was greatly impressed with the service which was the first that the Tuxis boys arranged. The choir of boys sang an anthem and the pastor, Rev. J. Stewart Smith, spoke on the subject "A Young Man without a Principle." He related the story of Abolition and urged upon the boys the necessity of loyalty to good principles that their lives might count for something.

New Elders in St. Matthew's.
Two elders were ordained and five were inducted in St. Matthew's Presbyterian church yesterday at the close of the morning service. Rev. W. J. Bevis, moderator of the session, assisted by the interim session, performed the induction and ordination ceremonies. The elders were Samuel Galbraith and Isaac W. Hutcheson. David G. Andrews was to have been ordained also, but owing to illness, was unable to be present. With the newly ordained elders there were inducted also Austin Galbraith, William McHarg and Charles F. Stevens. The morning service was conducted by Rev. W. H. Spencer. The choir, led by John Burke, gave some excellent selections and Miss Madeline Daley sang a solo which was much appreciated.

Rev. C. S. Gray of Oranmore, was the celebrant of the Holy Eucharist in the Mission church yesterday. He spoke from the text, "Thou art the man." Rev. J. V. Young, rector of the Mission church was the preacher in St. Luke's church yesterday and his subject was, "Faith." Knights of Pythias Service.

The fifty-seventh annual service of the Knights of Pythias was held in the Main street Baptist church yesterday afternoon and the service was conducted by Knight Rev. Dr. Hutchingson, assisted by Rev. G. D. Hudson. The singing was conducted by the organist, Mrs. I. F. Archibald and Miss Pattee sang a

Children's Hair Cutting Shop—4th Floor.

Rev. C. T. Clark preached his first sermon as pastor of the Fairville Baptist church yesterday and he was given a hearty welcome by his congregation. At the morning service he spoke from the text, "I have seen thy faces as one seeth the face of God," and in the evening "Christian citizenship" was his subject. Rev. Mr. Clark is a son of D. C. Clark of West St. John and is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick.

BISHOP LEBLANC ON MARRIAGE

In all the Catholic churches in the city the pastoral letter of Rt. Rev. E. A. LeBlanc, D.D., Bishop of St. John, was read yesterday.

In his pastoral, Bishop LeBlanc dealt with the family, describing it as "a powerful means of promoting the happiness of man in this world and of preparing him for everlasting bliss in the world to come." To the influence or training of the Christian family may be ascribed every good and generous deed that has brightened the world and to it and its shortcomings must be ascribed every one of these evils that have fastened themselves on the social and political body of our day." He said that marriage was a sacrament and not merely a contract and should be approached after serious and prayerful consideration, and should not be treated as a mere speculation.

In speaking of mixed marriages, he said: "Catholics should contract marriage with those of their own faith, otherwise that bond of supreme and tender sympathy, which should exist in their domestic life, will be wanting. A mixed marriage invariably means that two hearts indissolubly linked can never be comprehended by each other. It means, too, in many cases, a loss of faith for the Catholic party. It also means distance and coldness on the part of the husband and wife on the subject of religion. The moment religious discord arises between husband and wife, there can never be that freedom of religious education which is so essential to the home life of the children."

Regarding race suicide, the bishop said, in part: "The supernatural character of the family should never be lost sight of. Once it is ignored, men will also disregard the chief purpose for which marriage was instituted. The purpose for which a man and woman give themselves to each other in wedlock must be strictly adhered to. Any deviation from the laws which God has laid down in nature for the attainment of His intentions is positively sinful, and will work untold harm to the individual and to society."

He announced that a triduum would be held in every parish as a preparation for one of St. Joseph's feasts; also that a collection would be taken up in all the churches of the diocese for the relief of the suffering in central Europe. He made a plea for better attendance at mass and more frequent reception of the sacraments during the season of Lent, and concluded by asking for more generous almsgiving to the needy and the poor.

THE TREMBLING DECISION

(Toronto Globe.)
In brief the Privy Council judgment establishes marriage as a civil contract, to be annulled only for causes prescribed in the civil law. It is on this solid foundation that the marriage law must rest in every Province. It will still be open to the Roman Catholic Church, or any other church, to discipline or expel members who do not conform to its marriage decrees, but it cannot impugn the civil validity of any marriage legally performed. Their Lordships make this

You can be sure you have a thoroughly satisfactory picture in this absorbing romance of old days on the Mississippi, when men who smiled at the loss of a fortune at cards duelled to the death for a woman's honor.

Its color delights, its old-fashioned atmosphere and wholesomeness appeal irresistibly. It is one of those satisfying pictures that make folks go away with the pleasant knowledge of having been perfectly entertained.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN
PAULINE FREDERICK
MADAME X
Adapted from the French of ALEXANDER BISSON by arrangement with HENRY W. SAVAGE
Directed by FRANK LLOYD
THE PINACLE OF DRAMATIC ACHIEVEMENT!
FATE IS OFTEN THE CRUELEST OF HOSTERS. Jacqueline Floriot's piteous life story bears vivid evidence of this. Turned from her home and family by her remorseless husband, a deputy attorney of Paris, she is unable to escape the dread shadow of a fate that crosses her baffled footsteps with ever increasing menace. Fate, in the guise of her husband's unjust suspicions, denies her the right to see her son; fate places in her hands the weapon which destroys a blackmailer who would ruin the career of her husband, now a judge; and fate brings her before the bar of justice where her husband presides and places her fight for life in the hands of her son—counsel for the defence. And having played trump cards to the last, fate plays its joker, the highest card of all—death. Pauline to the Frederick in the role of Jacqueline Floriot brings an emotional set to the screen more intensified than any ever displayed by this popular star. You may have seen the stage version of this famous play—most everyone has, now see Goldwyn's masterful, heart touching picture.

MACDONALD'S CUT BRIER

MACDONALD'S "BRIER" has become a Canadian institution. Smoked by the men who made history. In the bush, on the trail, in mining camps, prospectors' huts, factory yards, on trains, steamships, in the luxurious homes and downtown clubs of our Canadian cities—Macdonald's has always been recognized as the smoke.

MACDONALD'S CUT "BRIER"—the same tobacco but in new form—maintains every Macdonald tradition since 1858, and gives to smokers—more tobacco for the money.

 The first intimation that Rev. John O'Brien, C. S. Father O'Brien left here three weeks ago in company with Rev. J. McLaughlin, C. S. R., Rev. Fred Cophlan, C. S. R., and Rev. S. Kearney, C. S. R., for Newfoundland to conduct a series of missions. Keep Your Books in Proper Order With a Macey
 In olden times it was difficult to keep books in proper order because the old fashioned bookcase was either too big or otherwise.
 But now with the advent of the more modern idea of making bookcases in sections it is easy to keep the case in step with the growth of the book pile.
 Not only easy but inexpensive because a section may be added at intervals; instead of buying the whole case at once. This is made possible because the sections are standardized; and the one you get today will exactly match another you may get next year or five years hence.
 We are showing a nice line of the famous Macey Sectional Bookcases here now. In either Mahogany, Golden or Fumed Oak.
 Possibly we can show you the line?
