Some people imagine that farming requires but little outlay of brain- I've found," said John, "a long-legged power to make it successful. But, as some one has truthfully said, "Brains make the best fertilizer a Only it has too many legs, farmer can use." Take two men, one with half the physical strength of the other, the weaker man of the two will accomplish more than the other if he excel the latter in brain power. We have known large, stouc, healthy men, who were hard workers, and yet always on a "stern chase with their work; they are always He's worth a race. You see, this kind poor, from the simple fact that their bodies were better than their brains. The girls will 'Oh!' and 'Ah' and say, Such a man, if he is doing a simple work, as picking up stones on a side (A grasshopper, all sober gray, hill, will get his stone boat on the upper side of a large boulder, and then by stress of mind and muscle, roll it on to the drag, while the weaker, but wiser man, will place the boat on the lower side of the stone, unhitch his team, place the Or he will have you in his folds; chain about it, and in a twinkling have it loaded, and save his own (A pill box held the angle- worm, strength for some more important oc-

We honestly believe if every farmer would have a study and a library, like any professional man, with a few good agricultural papers, and spend an hour or two each day in reading and planning his work, he would secure better results than to spend twice that amount of time in active labor on his farm. This is the hour and the time for labor-saving inventions in these. But mud and saline moistures from the animal are even more destructive. Mud in drying absorbs the grease and opens the pores of the leather, making it a ready prey to the water, while the salty character of the perspiration from the animal injures the leather, stitching and mounting. It therefore follows that to preserve a harness, the straps should be washed and oiled straps should be washed and oiled straps and part of the proceeds of the land, and would in effect have wrang the $100,000 in the taxes of the people. But "mad" indeed as the proposition was, its madness increases as we consider his subsequent proceeding. It has been distinctly declared that the taxes of the people should not be increased for the purpose of building the railway. His very first act has been to add $3,000,000 to the taxation, in view of the Pacific Railway expenditure, and part of the proceeds of tle tripoli or rotten stone, but they

How the Grits Proposed to Build it.

(From the Mail) Mr Mackenzie's first policy was to every direction, and no farmer can build the line as a Government work. If there was any profit in it, he said, have always plenty of room in an omledge, and compete with those who keep their eyes and ears open.—New England Farmer.

Mr Mackenzie's first policy was to more pointe young men are how-a days than they used to be. Why I have always plenty of room in an omnibus, but when I was young I could never their eyes and ears open.—New England Farmer. England Farmer.

Cost was officially estimated at $100,-000,000. And on that understanding he proceeded. If anything can be said to be clear in regard to his precedings, this at least is clear, that it it were unfortunate that the plans of 1871-3 failed, it was unfortunate beyond measure that Mr. Mackenzie's plans failed. He has recently told us—and Mr Blake has endorsed his ntter.

Sad Drowning Accident.

News was brought to the city yes terday of the death by drowning, on Monday. of Dr. Wilson, of Meagher's Grant. The doctor was on his way to Henry Crawford's whose children the place he had to cross the Musquopoit River , about 11 miles from the mouth of the harbor, and 3 miles above the falls. He decided to swim across, and put his clothes in a boat to be rowed across by Ronald Crawford, brother of the man whose children he was going to see. While Mr Craw-ford was getting the boat ready, Dr. Wilson had jumped into the water, and was a good way across. Craw-ford heard a shout, and immediately pulled out to the doctor, but before he could reach the spot the doctor threw up his hands, sunk, and was never seen afterwards. The body found at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The sad affair has cast a gloom over the whole community. Deceased was a native of England, had been in this country about fourteen years, and married a daughter of Mr. David Webber, Lakeville, near Jeddore, by whom he had five or six children He settled at Meagher's Grant shortly after coming to this country .- Hali
