"WELL DAE I MIND."

Well dae I mind, my trusty freen,
Hoo you and I beguiled
The simmer nights 'mong meadows green,
Or roamed at will the wild
And bonny-buskit heather braes
O' Pentland's dear auld hill,
While o' the ripe and juicy lass
We often ate our fill.

Well mind I, too, hoo aft we twa
Hae climed up Arthur's Seat,
An' viewed the varied pictures a'
Spread out beneath our feet.
"Rest an' be thankful," too, we've seen
When dabbie decked its broo,
An' simmer 'coot o' verdant green
Was in its brichtest hue.

Craigmillar's leaf-clad ruined wa'
In silent grandeur stand,
No' changed a bit by time or laws
Sin' we gaed hand in hand
Sae blithely litlin' ower the hill,
Wi' nocht, but thocht o' cheer,
Tae "Wells o' Weary," where oor fill
We drank o' water clear.

Sic fun we used to often ha'e—
Lo'd sake, I mind o' weel;
Sic tricks we often used to play
On some unwary chiel.
At bantein' wi' the lassie fair,
Guid faith, we dang them a',
Bit aye kept free frae lika sure
Aft set to catch us twa.

Sweet days!—they noo, alas! are gane—
You're severed frae my side,
An' ower the angry, ragin' main
Ye noo 'mong strangers bide.
But yet I dootna, Sandy, man,
Ye'll think sometimes like me,
An' aft recall auld Scotia's lan',
Sae dear to memory.

ANGER AND REPENTANCE.

"Then you refuse to give up this hateful journey in order to accompany me to the masquerade, upon which I have so set my heart?"

"I must refuse, Estelle. This is a matter of pressing business, an engagement made weeks ago, and my word is pledged to be at hand at the appointed time. I am sorry to disappoint you, but it cannot be avoided," returned the husband, gravely.

"Cannot, indeed! I say it can. Eugene Duval, if you go to-day, and so disappoint me, you will rue it all the days of your life. Let me assure you I shall go to the ball to-morrow night, either with you or without you; I swear it," returned the wife, crimson with passion.

"Oh, my darling, do not be too hasty. I know you do not mean one half your angry words (surely, for you surely would not attend such a public place without the protection of your husband.)"

"I have said it. I go to that ball either with you or without you."

"Then it must be without, because I cannot remain. When I return—"

"Don't talk of your return," interrupted the angry wife. "I hope from my soul, if you go, I may never behold your face again."

"Did I hear you right, Estelle? Let me be sure that I was not mistaken in your words," returned the young man, every vestige of color receding from his face and lips.

"You were not mistaken. I repeat my words to satisfy you. I hope, from my soul, if you go, I may never behold your face again."

before her, even in the midst of the dances which usually afforded her much delight.

She felt that the company was to her exceedingly tedious, that the time for her return to her home seemed cruelly long, and as the moments dragged on she thought continually—

"I wish I had not come. I wish I had not said those angry words. I will tell Eugene as soon as he comes home, how wretched I have been, and ask him to forgive me."

But he never came. A few days of wearying silence passed, and then a letter arrived, telling her she need not fear being pained by a sight of his face again, as he was about to depart for a distant part of the world, where all traces of him hereafter would be entirely lost.

He advised her to sell the house he had settled upon her at their marriage, as he did not think it best for her to live alone, and she could return to her father's house. He had arranged his business affairs, making ample provision for every want, as he was abundantly able to do. He gave no address, therefore she could not answer.

This was his last farewell. Years rolled on, and her heart never ceased to ache under its deep pressure of remorse, sorrow and unyielding love. Poor thing! she had loved her husband, but she had never curbed her violent temper or checked her sinful love for gayety and excitement.

When she did learn this lesson, when her fierce passions had been subdued, and she could quietly bear crosses and disappointments, when excitement and gay scenes had lost their charms, and home and pure domestic duties had taken their place in her heart, the one who would have enjoyed the change and rejoiced in the now amiable and still beautiful woman, was far away, ignorant of her repentance, entirely estranged.

Seven years went by, and we find Estelle Duval still with her parents and only sister, now just twenty-two, the age that she had been when her eyes last rested on her husband's face.

Friends often wondered that Mrs. Duval never appeared in society with Clara, but they could not but admire her dignified reserve while suffering under the sting of being a deserted wife.

Mr. Malcolm, her father, had never been a fortunate man in business, and as times were hard, he had sought of late years to mend his now slender income by taking a few selected boarders.

On the morning when we see them in their home, the mother and her two daughters were seated in Estelle's prettily furnished bed room, discussing the appearance of a gentleman who had just left after engaging rooms.

He would take possession of his handsome apartments the next day, he said on leaving.

"Did you like his appearance, mamma?" asked Clara.

"I did very much, although all conversation was carried on through a friend he had brought with him as interpreter, he being a German, unable to speak our language. He is probably forty-five or fifty years of age, very gentlemanly in his looks, and had excellent references. I should think him wealthy, as he was willing to pay high prices for additional privileges and comforts."

"I hope he will be a pleasant inmate of our home, although he must be a silent one, as we cannot converse with him," remarked Estelle, in raising her eyes while speaking, they fell upon a likeness of her absent husband, whose handsome, beardless face, with its winning smile, seemed almost boyish in its beauty and repose.

"I was passing through the hall as he was leaving, and the tone of his voice reminded me of Eugene's. Did he look like him?"

"Oh, no. He was, as I say, full forty-five. His hair was very gray and bushy, and so was his full beard. There may have been a look of Eugene's about the large, dark eyes, not withstanding he wore spectacles with tinted glasses, but I did not think of it while with him."

Mr. Oberholtzer prered upon further acquaintance a perfect gentleman. He seemed socially inclined, often spending his evenings in the parlor with the family, bringing there his books and papers, being fond of reading and study.

At first the ladies felt awkward with their silent companion, but finally they ceased to regard his peculiarities, and knowing that he did not understand them, they chatted away of their own affairs, heedless of his presence.

One thing, however, became apparent to Mrs. Malcolm and Clara, and that was, that Mr. Oberholtzer appeared to admire exceedingly the totally unconscious Estelle.

He noticed her every little want at the table, was always ready to place a chair for her when she entered the room, and sometimes they had surprised him in gazing with a long-impassioned look upon her beautiful features, when she was entirely unawares of his admiring glances.

They began to observe this, but wisely kept it to themselves, fearing to displease, even by a jest, their loved and afflicted child and sister.

One cold winter's morning the German gentleman sat in the shadow of the lace and crimson curtains, deeply absorbed by the contents of his paper, when the sisters entered. They perceived him, but secure of his not understanding their conversation, they continued it.

"Do go this once, Estelle," pleaded Clara. "It will be such a splendid entertainment, and the music will be so fine."

"No, dear, do not urge me; you know I have lost all taste for parties since Eugene left me. If you could realize how I have suffered for that fearful love of pleasure you would never urge me to renew it. Only think," added she, while tears filled her eyes, and her voice trembled with sorrow, "had it not been for that fatal ball, I should never have said those cruel, untrue words that drove him from me even while in my heart I loved him better than any one on earth. No, dear sister, I have shuddered whenever I think of going into society, since that fatal day, and I shall go no more."

The sisters turned away as they spoke, not seeing that Mr. Oberholtzer had risen from his chair, and had hurriedly turned to approach them.

That afternoon Mr. Malcolm came home from his business earlier than usual, and calling Estelle into the parlor, he hastened to tell her some important news, regardless of the presence of the children at the board, who sat near the window.

"Estelle, darling, I hurried home to tell you that Dr. Maxwell, our family physician, called at my office this morning, and greatly delighted me by asking my permission to speak with you on the subject of marriage."

"Oh, father!" exclaimed Estelle, in accents of deep surprise and sorrow.

"Listen to me, my child. Dr. Maxwell loves you devotedly. He knows your story—knows that you have not heard from Eugene for seven years, knows also that a divorce for abandonment can easily be obtained, and wishes me to urge his suit. My dear, will you not listen to him?"

"Never, father, never! A divorce from Eugene, whom I still love, I will never ask. I respect Dr. Maxwell—he is a good man; but none but my absent Eugene shall ever call me wife."

"But, Estelle, he may be, and probably is dead."

"So am I dead to other living men. I had a good husband—I loved him, but I could not make him happy," was the firm reply.

"My child, you are different now."

"I am; I have repented from the depths of my heart for my former conduct, but I shall ever cling to my lost husband. Tell Dr. Maxwell that I cannot listen to his proposal—that I will never consent to be divorced from one who still possesses my whole affections."

"Very well, my child, I will not press the matter, although I like Dr. Maxwell so very much," sighed the father, as he left the room to seek his wife.

Estelle sat motionless a few moments after Mr. Malcolm had gone, then, dashing off an unbidden tear, she was rising, when a gentle touch fell upon her arm, and a low, agitated voice whispered—

"Estelle!"

She looked up, surprised to see Mr. Oberholtzer standing beside her, with a face full of emotion. Before she could articulate, being so strangely startled, he murmured—

"Forgive me, but I could speak to you of your husband."

"Sir! can you speak English? Did you know the person you mentioned?" she exclaimed with a face from which all color had fled.

"I speak English. Forgive me for deceiving you so in regard to that matter, and surely you will when I tell you that I come from Eugene's."

"Oh, Mr. Oberholtzer, then he lives—he lives! Bless you for those words. But does he love me yet? Can he forgive his broken-hearted wife?"

"He can, and thus entreats you to forgive him also. Look up, Estelle, my own darling, and see who stands beside you."

A thick gray wig and beard lay upon the floor, the tinted spectacles lay beside them, and there, with open arms and his own smiling face, stood Eugene Duval, waiting to fold her to his bosom.

With one glad cry she sprang to meet him, and, winding her arms around his neck, burst into joyful tears.

Holding her still in his embrace, Eugene gently soothed her with kisses, and then, when she became more calm, he told her of his long wanderings in foreign lands, which brought no happiness because unshared by her, of his longings to see her once more, of his fear that she would not receive him kindly, and of his sudden resolve, well carried out, to seek her home as a foreigner not understanding English, thus mingling in the home circle, and so judging whether she wished his return.

"Oh, Eugene, my own husband, you fully forgive me now, and will never forsake me more?" exclaimed Estelle.

Never, my precious wife. My wanderings are over, and death alone shall part us. Bless you, my darling, for not listening to Dr. Maxwell's loving appeal."

"I need not say that great joy and surprise was felt by the family when Mr. Oberholtzer turned out to be the long lost husband of Estelle, and the pleasure with which they greeted him could not but convince the poor fellow that he was truly welcome."

The pretty house they seven years before had called their home, was repurchased and refurbished, and a more devotedly domestic couple than again took possession of it, could really be found.

An ancient writer once said—

"Lamentation is the only musician that always, like a screech-owl, alights and sits on the roof of an angry person."

And this motto had been fully impressed upon the mind of Estelle during the seven years of her loneliness, so that in all the added years of her life she was able to put in practice the power of a well-governed temper, remembering—

"What you keep by you, you may change and mend."

But words once spoken can never be recalled."

It's Too Expensive.

He was in the morning of manhood, his eye clear and bright, the skin of a warm, ruddy glow, his step buoyant and elastic, and his spirit bounding and healthful.

Said a friend to him:

"Come in, Harry, and take a drink."

"No, Tom, it's too expensive. I can't afford it."

"Oh, pshaw! Come and drink with me—at my expense."

"No, Tom—I wouldn't drink at your expense if I could; but that thing cannot be done. He who drinks must do so at his own expense."

"Nonsense! If I invite you in to drink, and pay for it, what's the expense to you, Harry?"

"Ay, Tom, dear boy, I wasn't thinking of the money part. As for that, I fancy I could afford the expense better than you could. No, no—the expense which I cannot afford is of another kind. The peace and happiness of my mother I cannot sacrifice; my own health, and strength, and mental and moral vigor, and my self-respect, I cannot foolishly expend and cast away. And, dear Tom, there is another—God bless her!—your sweet sister, Lillie—have I a right, since our betrothment, to endanger the heart and life I have pledged to her?"

NO DANGER!

Charles H., after taking two or three turns one morning in St. James' Park (as was his usual custom), attended only by the Duke of Leeds and Lord Cromarty, walked up Constitution Hill and from thence into Hyde Park. But, just as he was crossing the road, the Duke of York's coach was nearly arrived there. The Duke had been hunting that morning on Hounslow Heath, and was returning in his coach, escorted by a party of the Guards, who, as soon as they saw the King, suddenly halted, and consequently stopped the coach. The Duke, being acquainted with the occasion of the halt, immediately got out of his coach and after saluting the King, said he was greatly surprised to find his Majesty in that place with such a small attendance, and that he thought his Majesty exposed himself to some danger. "No kind of danger, James," said the King. "For I am sure no man in England will take away my life to make you king."

A clergyman said the other day that modern young ladies were not daughters of Shen and Hani; but daughters of Hem and Sham—compounds of plain sewing and make-believe.

Woman Lovely Woman.

"Is my hat done?" inquired a cold looking lady at a Chicago millinery establishment one pleasant day this week.

"Yes, ma'am," politely responded the shopwoman; "it will be here in a moment."

An assistant soon brought up the bonnet, and while the customer was duly inspecting it the store proprietress ventured to inquire—

"How do you like it?"

"It's simply horrid!" was the reply.

"But it is just as you ordered it," pleaded the maker of the head-wear.

"Yes, something as I ordered," was the short and sneering answer.

"I'm real sorry, but—"

"Well, never mind," broke in the buyer with set lips; "what's the expense?"

"A-b-out seven dollars, I guess," said the shopwoman, timidly.

The money was paid over, and the bonnet or level up to the house, when the purchaser pranced out upon the street, and immediately exclaimed to an accompanying friend—

"Isn't it perfectly lovely?"

"Yes," replied the friend, "it's ravishing; but how could you talk so to that woman?"

"Talk so?" exclaimed she of the bonnet; why, if I had let her know how much I liked the hat, that woman would certainly have charged me ten dollars; but now, you see, I got it for seven dollars."

The other woman said she had not thought of that, but would profit by her friend's ripe experience, and never like an article again until after she had bought it.

DESERVED REPROOF.

One day, when it was known that Curran was to make an elaborate argument in Chancery, Lord Clare brought a large Newfoundland dog upon the bench with him, and during the progress of the argument he "lent his ear" much more to the dog than to the barrister. This was observed at length by the whole profession; in time the Chancellor lost all regard for decency, he turned himself quite aside in the most material part of the case, and began in full court to fondle the animal. Curran topped at once. "Go on, go on, Mr. Curran," said Lord Clare, who certainly had much of the coxcomb in his manner. "Oh, I beg a thousand pardons, my lord," said Curran; "I really took it for granted that your lordship was employed in consultation."

The San Fernando Tunnel.

The San Fernando tunnel, through the San Fernando mountains, on the Southern Pacific Railroad, California, is the largest one on the Pacific coast. Its length is 6,966 feet, or 1 mile and 1,636 feet. The work of construction was remarkably rapid; it is not two years since the first borings were made. Many difficulties were encountered. San Fernando is the petroleum region of Los Angeles, and there were fears lest in tunneling the mountain the workers might come upon reservoirs of petroleum or other noxious fluids and gases. The great obstacle being the character of the rock, and the enormous pressure upon the timbers placed as supports. The tunnel will be lined with masonry or great strength. The longest tunnel on the Central Pacific, in crossing the Sierras, is only about 1,200 feet, not one fifth the length of the San Fernando.

HANDSOME COMPLIMENT.

A French officer, having presented himself at the Court of Vienna, the Empress said Lord Clare, who had been in company on the preceding evening with the Princess de—, asked him if he thought it true that the princess was, as report said, the most beautiful woman in the world. "Madam," replied the officer, "I thought so yesterday."

SUMMARY.

A PROPHECY OF A GREAT FUTURE.—There are about 18,000 square miles of coal in the Province of Nova Scotia, or one-third more than in Great Britain, which contains 11,900 square miles. The deposits probably equal all the coal in Europe, Russia not included.

LIGHTNING CONDUCTORS.—Doctor Mann lately showed, at the Science Conference at South Kensington, how unimportant is the form of lightning conductors, whether rods, ropes, or pipes; and that the real desideratum was that they should be of sufficient size to afford an unobstructed path for the passage of the electric fluid. He insisted on the necessity of a goodly number of points, and above all upon the indispensability of large earth contact, saying that a lightning discharge passing through a large rod with an amper of earth contact is only a gentle stream of low tension; but that, if the size of the rod or the area of its contact with the earth is diminished, the tension is increased, and the fluid has a tendency to discharge itself laterally by chance outlets.

James Hillier, an elderly man, was recently charged at the Thomas Police Court, London, with the novel offence of hanging his son John, aged five years, out of the window. The mother afraid of Hillier's violence, had run out of the house and sought refuge with a neighbor. Returning soon after, she was horrified to see her child suspended by a line out of the second-floor window. When rescued, the little one was exhausted, and there were red marks on its throat and beneath its armpits, where the cord had been.

There is now authentic information that Generals Crook and Terry have been able to join their forces, and that, upon pursuit, Sitting Bull and his warriors were not anywhere to be found. It is reported that they had been reduced to great privation, and had fled for safety. Upon this an assumption is drawn that the war may soon be brought to a satisfactory close, and that while obtaining proper guarantees for the future, there may be administered a due chastisement for past offences. All this, however, is not so certain. Experience has shown the Indians to be wily and treacherous, and the present move of Sitting Bull may be only a well designed feint to draw the enemy into an ambush, from which they may find it as difficult to escape as did General Custer. According to the present appearance the campaign is more likely to be shortened than it was a month ago; but even in the days of victory for balance towards the Indians should mark the dealings of both the army and the Government.

A LONG LOST FATHER.—A man from a neighboring State, stopping at an Auburn hotel, noticed upon the register the name of his father who had left his home twelve years ago, and of whom hitherto no trace had been discovered. The father had left his wife and family, and the son had since that time honorably maintained his deserted mother. Now that the son had at last found a trace of the renegade father, he followed it up and found him in a neighboring town, pursuing the even tenor of his way, with a young woman for his wife, whom he had recently married, after having buried another wife a few months previously.

The citizens of New York are threatened with two dangers. One is accident by decayed telegraph poles; the other is poisoning by the Croton water. It is time that both were looked after by competent authority. Already one death has occurred and severe injuries have been sustained from the former cause; and the general testimony is that the water now supplied to the public is unfit for use. In such cases a remedy seems practicable. Upon examination all unsound poles should be condemned and removed; and by a thorough system of filtration the water may and should be cleansed from all impurity. There may be expense and trouble connected with such arrangements, but what are these compared to the safety and health of the people?—Scottish American.

HARD ON THE REPUBLICAN LEADERS.—Maguire, who is now serving a sentence of six months in the county jail, for complicity in the whiskey frauds, has published a card in relation to the time of expiration of his sentence. He closes as follows:—"When I again have the privilege of meeting my fellow citizens, which will be before election, I shall have a little vindictive to do; and I may be able to show that some of our public Republican leaders, now engaged in preaching moral reform, ought to have striped suits on, and with their heads shaved, be serving out a term in the Missouri Penitentiary."

DEPARTURE FOR THE PARIS CREW.—A very large crew gathered at Reeds Point this morning to bid adieu to the Paris Crew, who left in the City of Portland, en route for Philadelphia. The men, who looked in capital condition, showed themselves on the upper deck of the steamer as she swung off, and their friends on the wharf gave these rousing cheers, to which the "boys" responded by waving their hats. A few backers accompany the crew but of the St. John people who are going, the majority will delay their departure until next week.—Globe of Friday.

A young gentleman, who moves in the best society of San Antonio, said the other evening to a young lady, "The foliage is much more exuberant this year than usual." "Yes," she answered thoughtfully, "all them imported fruits is cheaper than they used to was."

THE EDITORSHIP OF THE SCOTSMAN.—The Rev. Dr. Wallace, minister of Old Greyfriars' Church, Edinburgh, and Professor of Divinity and Church History in the University of Edinburgh, has been appointed to the editorship of the Scotsman, in room to the late Mr. Russell. Dr. Wallace began editorial duties on the 1st inst., and resigned his professorship and also his charge of Old Greyfriars'. He was ordained a minister of the Established Church in 1857, and was in 1872 appointed a Professor.—As most of our readers are aware he was for some years minister of Trinity College Church, and succeeded to the professorate of Old Greyfriars' on death of Dr. Lee.—Edinburgh Courant.

The Standard.

SAINT ANDREWS, AUGUST 30, 1876.

PERSONS INDEBTED TO THE STANDARD office by subscriptions, job work, and advertising will please pay the bills when presented. We have managed this far to avoid the unpleasant course of compelling payment by law; but delinquents who are indebted for years, should remember that we cannot live upon air, and that there is a limit to forbearance; wages and material must be paid for, we now appeal to them to pay a portion at all events, and thereby save expense. Those at a distance can remit by Post Office order.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL PROCEDURE.—The Carleton Sentinel, in one of its late issues, complains of the local Executive appointment of Commissioners for the County, and ignoring the recommendations made by the County members of gentlemen named by them for the office. We know nothing more of the matter than represented by our contemporary. Surely the Executive has not forgotten that the Province is under Responsible Government, which has been defined "the well understood wishes of the people as expressed through their representatives in the Legislature." The question is a constitutional one, and while in the present instance, it has a local bearing, still it affects the whole Province and interferes with the rights and privileges of the people. We feel friendly to the present Government, but are outspoken enough to animadvert upon such a stretch of power. How common it has become for Governments to imagine themselves the masters instead of the servants of the people. It is to be hoped that the Executive will be able to justify their appointments, before the Legislature. They may have good reason for their selection. We know of some appointments made by them in the interests of the country, while the parties appointed were politically opposed to them.

Pic-Nic.—One of those social reunions called "pic-nics" was held on Monday last, on the beautiful grounds of Mr. H. O'Neill, near Katie's Cove. The place selected by the many friends of the Rev. F. O'Neill, for whom the Pic-Nic was held, is a charming spot overlooking Pocomaguddy Bay. After engaging in games and other amusements usual to such gatherings, the company sat down to the tables, which were filled with the delicacies of the season, accompanied with tea, coffee, a variety of cakes, &c. As the shades of evening drew on, the large company returned to town, highly pleased with the afternoon's enjoyment. The Rev. Mr. O'Neill appears to be as much a favorite in his native town, as he is said to be among his parishioners in New Jersey.

The editor of the Journal records his "trip down the river," and alludes to business being dull in St. Andrews as everywhere else. He also notices the "growing propensities of a monster squash." Unfortunately said squash is de facto nothing more nor less than a carboy painted green and a squash vine trailed around it. Our venerable contemporary will understand how "practical jokers" can play off their humbug on the unwary. The squash alluded to is even a greater sell, than the "the Limerick Cops," "strawberry plants" were growing, but it is impossible for an empty carboy to grow, except by the misrepresentation of—

There is scarcely a newspaper published from one end of the year to the other that will not give offence to some one in the community. The common-sense view is that the newspaper is the history of yesterday written to-day; that it is the mirror of the time, and that those who conduct its care nothing for individuals except to do them justice.

A BLUEJACK IN THE CHINA SEA.

We commence to-day the publication of extracts from the journal of an officer on board one of the magnificent steamships which ply between San Francisco and China, touching at Japan. Our correspondent is a native of St. Andrews, (Mr. F. A. Stevenson), and has kindly undertaken the task for the benefit of the readers of the Standard. The journal is interesting and instructive, and we regret that we have only space to give extracts from the introduction in the present issue, but will continue it in following numbers:—

We left San Francisco for Hong Kong, via Yokohama, on board steamship Beloit, Capt. Metcalf, on Tuesday, 10th May, 1876, at 12 o'clock noon; Registered Tonnage 1916, Fine day. The sail through the harbor, out of the Golden Gate and away out on the ocean was everything that could be wished, our Steamer passed small boats, schooners, ferry boats, barks, ships and ocean steamers, some of them at anchor, and others moving along as though they were alive; there was just enough breeze to make everything look lively. Then we passed the different islands in the harbor. Keeping our eyes turned on the city, we could not help regretting leaving it, if only for a short time; the city looks so much prettier now than at any other season, everything has such a beautiful green appearance, not like in summer, then the hills have nothing but that gray, dry, sandy look. We passed through the Golden Gate take a farewell look at the "Cliff House" and say goodbye "Frisco." We begin to feel the motion of the vessel as she rises and falls in the long ocean swell. Looking away off to the southward we can just see a large steamship heading for the city and we are told it is the new steamship for the Pacific Mail on her way from New York.

Now we come to the Farallone Islands which have a large light house; they look lonesome. Our Pilot leaves us here carrying with him farewell letters from the passengers, and bidding us good-bye and a pleasant trip we are soon out of his sight.

Towards night the wind increases, the sea commences to rise at midnight it is squally with every appearance of heavy weather.—Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday until noon on Monday we had strong winds.

Tuesday 23d was a fine day the air warm, very pleasant on deck, the passengers enjoying themselves in different ways—the Chinese sitting around the deck smoking, and playing their peculiar gambling games—the Europeans smoking reading and talking—the two lady passengers playing the game of Hoop-Joss with two gentlemen. One of the Chinese passengers died last night, the doctor examined him; there is not much notice taken of a Chinaman's death as soon as one dies he is forsaken by his countrymen, they won't touch him with their hands, he has to be moved out of his berth placed in his coffin, lashed on top of the wheel house, by the Europeans; some of his friends burn a lot of Joss paper and throw over the side with different colored sheets of Chinese paper and Chinese words on each sheet; this is the only ceremony performed over the body, in the coffin they place packages of food. On the 24th May another Chinaman died, they fire as long as they possibly can in California and come on board of ship, ready to die; they know their bodies must all go back to China, and the fear of being buried in the ocean never enters their head.

What an envious people they are, how much easier they slide through this world than a European; they don't seem to be anxious to make money, but are always ready to make it where they have the slightest chance; they bear pain without a murmur, and in dying make no noise. As long as their bodies get back to China they are contented and ready for death when it comes—their happiness on this earth seems to consist in eating, smoking opium and gambling; they are great imitators, I don't believe there is anything that they can't learn to do that they cannot do. As they soon learn to talk and write English, they are fully able to cope with any European in trade or business as soon as they are bound to have the best of a trade if possible. They have the same idea of right and wrong that we have but pay no attention to it whatever in trading; as a rule, they are clean, it is part of their religion to wash their bodies twice a day. They are good smooth-water sailors but in a storm are cowards. No amount of threats or punishment will make a Chinaman go aloft if he is frightened; you might stick a knife through him and he would not move. When he says no seecy, you may hit him alone he will neither say nor do anything after that. Such is the "heathen Chinese."

This is the first Queens birth-day, that I ever saw, that there was not some notice taken of it, not a flag hoisted, not a gun fired, not even her health drunk. Nothing out of the usual course took place to-day. Fine weather, ship under steam and sail but going slow, how I long to get back to San Francisco but what is the use in my fretting no matter how fair the wind we can't get there until the last of July.

Thursday 25th May we are about 1600 miles from Frisco fine day, sails set but not much wind. Nothing to be seen on the ocean unless it is the gulls, they follow us night and day when we first leave port the common white gulls follow us about 400 or 500 miles, they leave us then, and their places are taken by the ocean gull which are very large and strong; they are a dark gray or almost steel color, their wings and back shining as though polished—what astonishes me is to see the length of time they will fly or soar over the waves and around the ship and not the slightest movement of their wings, how they propel themselves I cannot see, their inclination seems to guide them or carry them along, they will remain with us until we near Japan and then thousands of white gulls will take their place.

Our reporter says that the Rev. F. O'Neill preached an eloquent and impressive sermon, on Sunday last, in the Roman Catholic Church here. He is represented as fluent and pleasing speaker, and close reasoner. We learn that he is to officiate at Milltown, St. Stephen, next Sunday.

LATEST NEWS.

The Turks and Servians are still fighting. Despatches of Aug. 27 state that the battles of the 26th and 27th inst., are claimed as victories for the Turks.

The Porte requires Prince Milan to address demands for peace direct to Turkish authorities. Russian officers however were continuing to arrive in great numbers, and repeated attacks on the Turkish line are rendering the negotiations for peace useless.

The prospects for a good fall trade in the United States is favorable. Gold was 111 1/2. Some heavy fires in New York and Savannah, destroyed much property.

Mr. Wm. Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has returned from England.

The Paris Crew arrived at Philadelphia and created great interest among boating men.

A water spout near St. Paul's Island, Gulf of St. Lawrence destroyed several houses, one man was killed.

Accidents in Montreal and Halifax resulted in the death of two persons.

The Halifax Bank robbers have been sent up for trial, and the Montreal jeweller Miller who decamped with a large amount of jewels is still at large; his sisters have been arrested charged with embezzling about 15,000 worth of jewelry.

The price of flour is still falling.

Captain SYLVANUS HANEY an old and respectable captain died at the Public Hospital, at St. John, on the 22d inst., from injuries received on board his vessel, the "E. J. Glass." He was a native of Deer Island, and aged 64. Capt. Haney was a member of the Masons, Knights of Pythias and other societies. His remains were brought to Eastport on Tuesday last, and from thence taken to the Island for interment.

The lectures of Professor Smyth, of Cambridge University, England, on modern history have for forty years been the careful study of statesmen. While reading one of his famous lectures the past week the truth of the following extract struck us so forcibly that we copy it for the benefit of our readers:—

"Men who, beginning as petty politicians, become successful office-seekers, and who easily imbibed the notions of office, never afterwards get beyond them. They become familiarized with corruption, accustomed to petty tricks and paltry expedients. Their understandings are narrowed; their feelings blunted; their minds rendered coarse and vulgar; the natural sense of patriotism, and benevolence, and honor, is weakened and debased; they mistake their craft for sagacity, their acquaintance with detail for more profound wisdom; and it is scarcely too much to say that they become, through the remainder of their public life, the secret or avowed friends of servility, the riders of all public spirit, the enemies of all improvement; and if any crisis of human affairs occurs, the most fatal counselors that their country can listen to."

The engineers have located the Grand Southern Railroad to within two miles of St. Stephen, and the construction parties are closely following. Under the able management of Col. Greene, the work is being pushed vigorously all along the line. No difficulty has been found in making contracts for the various sections at terms exceedingly favorable to the Company, and the only drawback encountered has been the inability of the leading corps to lay out the work as fast as required by the contractors. Had the road been located last year, every mile of the road could have been graded this year. As it is, over forty-five miles are in the hands of the contractors, and the entire distance will be graded before fall. Over twenty-five miles are already graded.

A good joke is going the rounds of the western part of this State at the expense of the erudite editor of one of the Michigan dailies, who, on discovering a fire, rushed out into the street, shouting: "Conflagration! conflagration!! conflagration!!!—Approximate hither with the implements of deluge and extinguish this combustion."—Detroit Free Press.

[From the Galas Times.]

A Child aged 3 years, son of Mr. Young of No. 14, swallowed several pills out of a box which he found on Tuesday, and in two hours was dead.

Messrs. F. H. Todd & Sons are arranging to rebuild their mill burned at the Union. The timbers for the purpose are now being saved:—

The Bay of Fundy Red Granite works at St. George have a full force engaged upon orders requiring immediate execution. The business prospects of the Company were never better than at present.

Only a fourth of the lumber mills on the river are now running, and the families of the army of idle millmen are in very reduced circumstances. In some instances there is already suffering for the necessities of life.

The Eastport Sentinel says:—The Rev. Mr. Eugene Vetroville, who has for the last eight years been the egyptian of the Roman Catholic churches at Eastport, Pembroke and the Indian village of Pleasant Point, has resigned his pastoral charge with the intention of making a tour around the world.

The loss of Father Vetroville will be severely felt not only by his church, but by the town in which he lived and the State where he was so well known. Probably no egyptian of his parish ever attended more strictly to his clerical duties; but he will be more widely known by the vast amount of literary labor which he has accomplished.

THE FIGHTING TRICK.—They call it the "fighting trick" in Detroit. A benevolent looking man enters a drinking saloon, followed soon after by a wiry little fellow who invites No. 1 to take a drink and a cigar. The liquor is swallowed, the cigars lighted, when suddenly No. 2 exclaims:—"For thirty long years I have followed your trail day and night! You broke up my happy family, will an that you are, but now come out here and fight me like a man!" "I will fight you to the death!" is the determined reply, and they rush into the back yard. The agitated bar-keeper runs to the front door, whistles for a policeman, and hurries to the back door just in time to see a coat tail disappearing over the fence. Then he begins to realize the situation.

If gentlemen desire to commit suicide they might at least do it quietly and in a fitting place. Mr. John P. Saunders seems to have thought differently. He was travelling in a railcar in Minnesota. It was full of ladies. He gave them a brief sketch of his life, and then knelt down and said his prayers—apologizing before he did so, saying it was a custom of his. He then calmly blew out his brains with a revolver. The Tribune Herald says:—There was more excitement than necessary, one lady having the heart dis-ease. At the sight of Mr. Saunders' act she succumbed sick. At the next halt they were buried. The female warden of much account—she'd only twenty-three cents conserved about her person."

The British Government is rapidly increasing its number of Gatling guns in the navy. All the large iron-clads armed with these, and several have lately been sent to Malta for issue to the Mediterranean fleet.

General Selby Smyth, commander of the Canadian Militia force, who is now in England, will sail for Quebec, on his return to Canada, on Sept. 28. The General will pay a visit to Germany to consult with the Duke of Cambridge with regard to the Military affairs of the Dominion, and their relation towards those of the Empire. On his return General Smyth will have for aide-de-camp Lieutenant the Hon. A. H. Greville, 6th Rifles.

On Saturday morning last, 21st instant, after a short illness, Mr. ROBT. COCKBURN, aged 73, leaving a wife and large family to mourn the loss of affectionate husband and parent, and the community a respected citizen. The funeral took place on Monday last, and was attended by a large number of persons from town and country to their resting place in the cemetery.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, OTTAWA.
Friday, 5th of May, 1875
PRESENT:
HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL.
WHEREAS it is provided by the 58th Section of the Act 31 Victoria, Chapter 6, intituled "An Act respecting the Customs," that the importer of any cattle or swine may slaughter and cure and pack the same in bond, under such Regulations and restrictions as the Governor in Council may from time to time make for this purpose;
And whereas it has been found expedient give effect to the said Section 58, in so far as regards the importation of swine, and to alter the terms of the Regulations for this purpose, adopted by Order in Council of 22nd of May, 1868;—
His Excellency, on the recommendation of the honorable the Minister of Customs and under the provisions of the said Act has been pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the said Order in Council of the 22nd day of May, 1868, and the Regulations thereto established be and the same are hereby repealed; and that the following Regulations be and are hereby adopted and established in lieu thereof—that is to say,
1. Upon the importation of swine for the purpose of slaughter, the Importer shall enter the same for Warehouse, upon the usual form of such entries, stating upon its face, the number and value of the herd, and also the quantity of pork, hams and lard, which the number listed will produce when slaughtered and dressed at 113 pounds weight for each live hog so imported, and the amount of duty to which such produce is or may be liable under the rate prescribed by the tariff in force at the time being as the proper duty in respect of that kind. Such Importer shall then execute a bond to the Queen, in double the amount of such duty, the condition of which bond shall be, that upon the due exportation within one year of the said products of the swine so imported and converted into pork, bacon, hams and lard, or payment of the duty secured by the said bond, then the said bond shall be and become null and void, otherwise shall remain in full force and virtue.
2. Upon the reception into the Bonding Warehouse, the swine shall be regarded only as meat, and it shall not be lawful to remove any of them from such Warehouse alive; nor shall any part of the produce of such swine be removed therefrom, for any purpose, without a permit from the Collector, or proper Officer of Customs, as in the case of all other bonded goods.
3. Swine imported in the carcasses to be cured and packed in bond may be entered in the usual way for Warehouse, and be placed in the premises established as a Warehouse of this class for the special purpose of curing and packing. The weight of such carcasses to be duly ascertained by the proper Officer of Customs, and the Importer shall give bonds to the Queen in double the amount of duties accruing thereupon under the tariff then in force, conditional for the due exportation of the same, or payment of duty within two years from the date of first entry.
4. The killing, curing and packing household articles, stores or other apartments included in such Warehouse use, shall be accessible at all times between sunrise and sunset to the inspection and survey of the Collector or Inspector of Customs, or any officer of Customs to whom the duty of such inspection may be assigned by them in their stead.
5. The produce of swine imported alive and purchased for slaughter, at the rate of duty of 113 pounds for each hog, and the meat of the swine imported in carcasses for curing and packing, at the rate of duty of 113 pounds for each hog, shall be subject while in bond to all changes in the tariff of duty, and when entered out of bond for consumption, shall pay the rate of duty in force at the date of such entry.

Representative and Champion of American Art Taste.
PROSPECTUS FOR 1875—EIGHTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE,

THE ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,
ISSUED MONTHLY.
A MAGNIFICENT CONCEPTION, WONDERFULLY CARRIED OUT.

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably allowed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or flimsy interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany in every respect, and a successful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the end of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume can not duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there is the chrome, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. The artistic population. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on ground of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersions of landscape, marine, figure, and animal subjects, sustain an unabated interest, impartial within the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment, worthy of the artistic character, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

PREMIUM FOR 1875
Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in all colors, of the same size as those picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"MAN'S UNSELFISH FRIEND"
will be welcome in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life, that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself.

Besides the chrome, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of THE ALDINE ART UNION.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures, which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pictures, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

TERMS.
ONE SUBSCRIPTION EXTENDING TO THE ALDINE ONE YEAR, THE CHROMO AND THE ART UNION, $6 per annum in advance.

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use VINEGAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

Dr. J. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and General Agents, San Francisco, California, and cor. Washington and Charlton Sts., New York.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bowels are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful action upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Stomach, Constipation, Tightness of the Chest, Diarrhoea, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Smallpox, Neck, Gout, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, &c., &c. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Painting and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels, &c. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blisters, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurvy, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no cathartics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find pimples bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the result of its system will follow.
