The Advertiser is an organ of news and independent opinion. The Advertiser alone is responsible for opinions expressed in these columns.The Advertiser advocates Constitutional Free Trade, and as early as possible after, free trade with the whole world. The British trade model cannot be improved upon.

The Advertiser looks forward with confidence to the future of Canada's Nationality, believing that such a status would be best for Canada, best for Great Britain, and promotive of the best attainable relations with the United States.

The Advertiser advocates prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

The Advertiser is an advocate of equal rights for women, whether as regards the franchise, or equal wages for equal work.

The Advertiser is a believer in Christian Union, and consider the time has come when the various Christian denominations should come closer together. Those bodies which are now nearest should unite first. Under the present system there is an unjustifiable waste of men, means and effort. The Advertiser will endeavor to promote the movement for Christian union not alone by direct appeal and argument, but by seeking to present the best rather than the worst side of each denomination.

The Advertiser advocates Obligatory

Voting as both necessary and practicable. Nothing would so much purify electoral contests. Nothing would so much enforce the idea that the franchise is a duty, not a chattel.

God's in His heaven, All's right with the world.

"NOT WANTED."

Senator Work on Tuesday attempted to get before Parliament a resolution in favor of Imperial Federation, but receiving no sympathy from Mr. Abbott withdrew it.

The resolution declared in favor of an humble address being presented to "His Excellency the Governor-General praying that His Excellency will take into consideration the importance of drawing more closely the ties that bind the colonies to the mother country and to each other, and whether Canada should not take the initiative in making overtures to the other colonies of the empire with this object in view." Mr. Abbott threw cold water on the motion, doubtless because he was afraid to have it pronounced upon at this time. He knows very well that any policy having for its object the shoddering upon Canada of imperial responsibilities would not be endorsed by this country, and he knows further that it is arrant nonsense to say that closer commercial relations cannot be obtained with Great Britain and other colonies taken in payment, will be correspondingly increased.

As it is cheap British goods, not cheap

United States products, that the Canadian monopolies chiefly rely, such a policy will never be advocated by a party leader who owes his elevation and the very existence of his Government to the beneficiaries of the restrictive system.

THEY WANT LAW.

Why should Brantford not take the preliminary steps to secure an injunction to prohibit London from submitting the by-law for the G. T. R. car shops? There is a good legal authority for saying that such a course is open to us, with a fair prospect of success, and there is no reason why we should not at least make the attempt.—

[Brantford Express.]

The Brantford people should not be misled by "good legal authority," because there is better legal authority for the assurance that the action of the City Council of London is strictly legal. Better save your wealth, gentle neighbors; you cannot succeed in doing by legal threats what you could not do by coaxing. The G. T. R. car shops will be concentrated in London if the people of this city know what they are about.

A PROFESSOR IN AND OUT OF ## PARLIAMENT.

Ten years ago Professor George E. Foster was a temperance lecturer, asking for and sometimes receiving $10 a night. He could not get that he was connected to receive any good-will offering which those who employed him might fork over. When out of employment he betook himself to the mansion of his friend and benefactor,

D. B. Chisholm, at Hamilton.

The Professor was an ambitious fellow, but in those days no one ever credited him with the qualities of a statesman. He was too contracted in his views for that. Those who were behind the scenes had reason to suspect that he was more of a trickster than a consistent exponent of "temperance in all things." Often he would let the "Old Adam" get the upper hand of him, and then in his squinting to get out of the saw he would come out in his true colors.

In those days it was the custom of the Professor to put his speeches in pamphlet form. On one notable occasion in Hamilton he denounced a class in the communityin terms so intemperate that his mass meeting oration was the talk of the town.

Arrangements were made with a local newspaper to publish the addresses in full before their distribution in pamphlet, and the Professor appeared on the scene and asked permission to summarize the speech by suppressing the unwarranted language of which he had made use. He was ready enough to have the address published, but he had not the courage to stand by that portion of it. As the report was represented to be a verbatim account the newspaper authorities refused to let the Professor carve it up at will, telling him he could falsify the speech in his pamphlet, but that the newspaper report could not be the true character of the man better exemplified than when this ultimatum was addressed to him. High though the moral atmosphere in which he professed to move was understood to be, he flew into a passion, and denounced the scruples of the editor or shorthand writer who would refuse a man the privilege of doing what he liked with his own speeches!

That was ten years ago. Since then, the glib-tongued professor has managed to secure a seat in Parliament. He was taken into the Cabinet over the heads of able men, because the Conservative leader of the day believed him to be made of more pliable material and possessed of less scruples than his seniors in point of Parliamentary service and ability. To-day, so weak is the Cabinet that this $10 a night weak and vacillating man is put forward as the chief exponent of Government views. He has not changed, however. His conduct is still controlled by a narrow and unscrupulous spirit. He has not an inch of generosity in his make-up, and he is ready at all times to assail his letters, and then, as in his famous Hamilton escapade, take refuge in some indefensible subterfuge. The other night, he assailed Sir Richard Cartwright as an in-patriotic man because he was not prepared to accept the dictum of the high tax leaders that the prosperity of this country can be brought about by adding to the burdens of the people.

It is a comparatively easy thing for this man Foster to speak lightly of the grievous burdens which the taxpayers of Canada have been made to shoulder for the benefit of the gang of Langevin, McGreevey and Senecal, that have gathered around the treasury, and have been allowed to help themselves at their own sweet will. Foster has no further interest in the country than his office, which probably brings him ten times the income he received before he was foisted into prominence. Let him be turned out of office to-morrow, and it would surprise no man who knows him to find that $10 a night being regarded as more than his vocal powers were worth in Canada, he had sought the fresh fields and pastures new of the United States. Over the border went one half of the Conservative Cabinet of Manitoba as soon as it was driven from power.

Over the border have flown one after another of the super-political candidates for Parliamentary honors, who failed to find favor in the eyes of the electors. Over the border has gone McGreevey, the chief exponent of the vicious system of contract jobbing. Over the border has been found a haven for discredited beneficiaries of the system of misgovernment which has found refuge in the pockets of a constant apostle.

Sir Richard Cartwright occupies a different position. He is a manufacturer, an extensive owner of land and home property. He is the father of a large family, and he desires that they shall have a chance to make a living in their native land, and not join in the exodus. He is a patriotic Canadian.

He has a stake in his country and he wishes to be happy and prosperous. For these reasons he is prepared to work for the emanipulation of Canada from the control of the tax-eating comorants who have done so much to retard her prosperity. That his steady and persistent exposure of the methods whereby this fair country has been plundered would meet with the approval of such a man as Foster is not to be expected. The advent of an economical, progressive, clean Government would put an end to Foster's administrative career, and as that would necessitate his again going on the road, it can readily be imagined with what tenacity he clings to office. The Professor knows when he has a good thing.

PATRIOTIC TAXPAYERS DO NOT BLAME THE

Dominion Government for making needed expenditures of public money. What they do condemn the Administration for is its perpetual subsidizing of hangers-on at the expense of the public. When the evil results of this system are pointed out, and the necessity for a change is urged, the cry is raised, "Don't run down the country." Much these men care for the country, so long as they can keep fat offices for themselves and their relations.

The country is all right, but the best it should be in the world cannot prosper as it country if its affairs are continually mismanaged, and the workers are plundered for the benefit of those who are like unto the lily.

WHITEWASH FOR SIR HECTOR.

A few days ago, before the edict went forth from the Ottawa high tax leaders that Sir Hector Langevin should be relieved of personal blame for the robberies perpetrated under his management of the Public Works Department, the Toronto World, a staunch Conservative journal, said:

"The Conservative papers of Quebec might very wisely cease attempting to defend Sir Hector Langevin from the charge of incompetence and neglect of duty. In this respect he is indefensible, and the more peacefully the truth is acknowledged the better for him and his life-long shipmates.

"If the claim is admitted that the Minister of Public Works is not responsible for the honesty of his department, or who is responsible, and what safeguards the interests of the people who supply that department with millions of dollars? It is absurd to endeavor to exonerate from blame a Minister whose subordinates made havoc with the public funds. The country at large had nothing directly to do with Perley or Arnold's wife, where known at all, were regarded as a superior pair of servants in Sir Hector's employ. Not to them, but to their master who looked on, and he was expected not only to keep his own hands clean, but to force his example upon every clerk under him. They were responsible to him and he to the country.

Neither was anything asked or expected from Larkin, Connolly &amp; Co., or from Owen

E. Murphy. Whether the latter was honest or dishonest the people of this country, barring the police, for whom no one can answer, never gave a thought. It was none of the people's business either, for they were paying an old Parliamentarian of reputed ability $7,000 and sundries to run the Public Works Department for them and were also allowing wages to all the civil service help he required. However we may look at it we find the Minister essentially at fault, for he slept at his post.

This is the best defense which a friend of the disgraced Minister could conjure up.

But Sir Hector has some occult influence over his associates in Ottawa, and it is now more than hinted that despite the overwhelming evidence against him he is to be whitewashed by his partisan friends. Even in advance of the verdict of Parliament, an Ontario Conservative Journal, not a Quebec paper, gravely asserts that "he retires from the Cabinet in good standing and laden with honors." Such a declaration, in view of the facts, may well cause independent students of the evidence to ask how much lower the high tax leaders and their journalistic apologists will drag the once great Conservative party. Well might Principal Grant exclaim: "As well defend Sodom!"

A St. Petersburg dispatch says there is considerable irritation and disappointment in Russia owing to the discovery that the agreement with Turkey does not allow her war vessels in the Dardanelles to openly manifest their hostility to England.

WATER COMMISSIONERS.

Mains for Burwell and Pall Mall Streets

—C. P. R. Water Service Considered—

Fifty More Meters To Be Purchased.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Water Commissioners, J. Kilgour, of South Lon-doun, asked for remission of water rates for quarter ending July 31. His son and himself had been using the water service at his house, but during the quarter his son's family were absent from the city and consequently the water was not used. The request was granted.

A request was heard from residents of Chester street for a main between Hamilton and Queen streets. The communication was filed.

A request was made by George Lilley for a main on Marshall street, east of Adelaide street. It was referred to the chairman and inspector.

It was decided to lay a four-inch main on Burwell street between Dundas and York streets, between Wellington and Waterloo streets, was granted.

W. F. Bullen, of Queen's avenue, asked what rate would be charged him for motor power to force water up to a cistern in the attic of his house. The usual meter rates will be charged him.

Engineer Moore reported that the price of the Hersey meters was found satisfactory, and it was therefore decided to have the engineer order 50 of them from the Ontario Meter Company.

T. Williams was heard as to the water service at the C. P. R. after the report of the engineer on this matter. Mr. Williams thought that the present rate of $500 per year was high enough and that the rate of 10 cents per 100 cubic feet was too high. The engineer thought the rate should be raised.

The commissioners will reconsider the matter and notify Mr. Williams.
