YUKON COUNCIL

Decides to Improve All Streets at the Request of Residents,

OWNERS TO PAY TWO-THIRDS OF COST

Ordinance Passed to Levy and Collect Municipal Tax.

EVERYONE TO BE TAXED.

Assessors Will Soon Be Around Flaking Up the Tax Roll—To Buy Team and Wagon.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Yukon council held its regular meeting. Commissioner Ogilvie, Justice Dugas, Messrs. Girouard and Clement were present. Immediately after the members convened, an order was entered dispensing, for the particular session, the usual rules of procedure. The committee on public works presented the following report:

The committee on public works beg to report on the several matters referred to it by council:

The committee recommends the purchase of two horses with harness; also a wagon, to be employed in hauling garbage off the streets and vacant lots, and for other necessary works to improve the town.

The committee recommends that, when the majority of the property owners on any street or avenue petition the council asking for the graveling or improvement of their street, the council be empowered to order that the said improvement shall be done, provided the property owners pay two-thirds of the cost thereof from a local taxation to be imposed; the other third to be paid from the local revenues, and that an ordinance to that effect be prepared.

In respect to the petition of the residents of Menzie's addition, for a continuation of the sidewalk from Fifth avenue to Seventh avenue, the committee recommend that no action be taken for the present.

On motion of Justice Dugas, the report was adopted.

The bill entitled "An ordinance respecting assessment," was read a third time; and the commissioner having put the question "That this bill do now pass," it was resolved in the affirmative.

The residents of Dawson, according to the provisions of the ordinance which was passed by the council yesterday, are now subject to taxation. The important parts of the new law are as follows:

"All real and personal property and income in that part of the unincorporated town of Dawson comprised within the government addition to the north, the Smith addition, the Harper & Ladue townsite, the Menzie's addition, the Day addition and the Northwest Mounted Police Reserve addition, shall be liable to taxation subject to the exemptions hereinafter mentioned."

Such exemptions consist of government property, lands and buildings used for public school purposes, all property exclusively in use for religious purposes, St. Mary's and the Good Samaritan hospitals, the books of every public library, household effects, books, and wearing apparel in use, and the annual income of any person derived from his personal earnings, provided the same does not exceed $2000.

"The assessor or assessors shall make and complete and deliver the assessment roll to the comptroller of the territory on or before the 1st day of May in each year; but for the year 1900 the roll shall be delivered to the comptroller as aforesaid on or before the first day of June next."

"The commissioner of the Yukon territory and the members of the council of the said territory, shall be a court of revision for the said town, and any three of them shall be a quorum for the transaction of business. The court shall try all complaints in regard to persons wrongfully placed upon the roll or omitted therefrom, or assessed too high or too low, or in regard to any property or any person which has been misdescribed or omitted from the roll, as the case may be."

Upon the schedule of property, which each individual will be required to give the assessor, there must be stated, the value of property exempt from taxation, the number of dogs, hogs, horses, sheep and cattle which are possessed by such individual, the amount of real and personal property, value of improvements on real estate, the annual income which the individual derives from his efforts.

It is expected that the assessor will commence to enforce the provisions of the new law within the next week or ten days.

Gets an Extension.

J. M. Richards, of whom mention was made two days ago of having been given until today to get a permit from Governor Ogilvie to continue his residence on the river bank in the upper part of the city, the said bank being public property from which squatters have been ordered to move, was in court this morning, and, figuratively speaking, went home with a broom on his shoulder. The required permit from the gubernatorial hand had been received; but for only 10 days was residential extension given. But during that time Richards can sit in undisturbed repose beneath his own vine and fig tree and listen to the limpid water of the Klondike as it gurgles over the ice of the Yukon in quest of an opening into which it can "take a sneak" and avoid running up against the unsightly piles of garbage lower down.

WOODSIDE PLEADS

Not Guilty to Charge of Having Libeled Joseph Andrew Clarke.

HELD OVER TO THE HIGHER COURT

Bookkeeper and Foreman of Sun Office Give Testimony.

FARMERS WRITE EDITORIALS.

Woodside's Position Not Known in Office in Which He Draws Pay for Services.

In the police court this morning, Capt. Scarth presiding, the case of the Queen vs. Henry J. Woodside, charged by Joseph Andrew Clarke with criminal libel, was called, having been continued from a week previous. All the parties to the case were present, and being asked if he had heard the charge read, and giving an affirmative answer, the defendant by his attorney, C. W. C. Tabor, plead not guilty.

The plaintiff submitted a copy of the Yukon Sun of the date of the 10th, which paper contains the alleged libelous reference to his character, which copy of the paper plaintiff asserted was purchased by him in the office of the Yukon Sun on April 11th, and purchased from Bookkeeper Young of that office.

Mr. Tabor objected to the copy of the paper being submitted as evidence of the guilt of his client; the presence of the paper did not prove that his client was responsible for its contents. The copy of the paper was allowed to be submitted as exhibit "A."

Bookkeeper Young of the Sun, was Clarke's first witness. His evidence was substantially as follows:

"Am hired by Mr. O'Brien as bookkeeper at the Sun office. Was never hired by Mr. Woodside; I suppose I pay myself. Woodside is connected with the paper; can not say in what capacity. He does some writing; am not sure that he is editor of the paper; he may be the editor. I sold you (Clarke) two papers; do not know what they contained. Never saw the articles referred to and do not know who wrote them. I pay Mr. Woodside his weekly salary; do not know what he is paid for, except for services rendered. I pay all the men, about 19 in all, employed by the Sun. There are two front rooms to the Sun office; myself and the reporters occupy one room, and the other is occupied by Mr. Woodside. He occupies it alone; it is called the editorial room." Mr. Young was not cross-examined.

Foreman McChesney of the Sun office, was the next witness. He had not heard the charge, which was read by the court. The foreman's evidence was substantially this:

"I am foreman of the Yukon Sun office and have been there since last June; have worked at the printing business 14 years. I do not look to Mr. Woodside alone for my orders, but take orders from anybody on the editorial staff. So far as I know Woodside is managing editor; he may be, or may not be. I take copy from him and from the others; I do not know if Woodside writes the copy I take from him. I do not remember of ever setting in type any article with your (Clarke's) name in it. Saw Clarke's name on copy in the office, but did not set it up and do not know whose copy it was. I suppose Woodside is the editor, but am not sure. I have seen Woodside's writing but can not swear that I recognize it among the writing of several others."

At this stage of the proceedings Attorney Tabor objected to Clarke contradicting his own witness, and Clarke said he did not contradict him; with the result that several "You did! I didn't; you did! I didn't's" were handed back and forth in rapid succession.

McChesney's evidence continued: "Woodside occupies the room called the editorial room: He is my superior and I go to him for copy. He is responsible for the coming out of the paper. I go to the other room for copy, too. Don't know who writes the editorial; anybody writes them; it is not the rule for editors to write all their editorials. Farmers frequently come in and write editorials in printing offices. When copy is set up into type in the office everything is submitted to Woodside, or the others except the "ads." Sometimes a reporter asks that he (the reporter) be shown proof of his own article which is done."

Mr. McChesney was not cross-examined.

Clarke stated that he had ordered a subpoena for Mr. Tabor as a witness, but as the latter was present in the role of attorney for the defendant, he requested that he be called to the stand. Tabor said he would go on the stand, but would not give evidence of an injurious nature to his client.

On the stand Tabor, when asked if he is not counsel for Thomas O'Brien, owner of the Yukon Sun, replied: "Part of the time."

"Do you not," asked Clarke, "review copy intended for publication in the Sun? And did you not review articles that were afterwards printed at the Sun office in the Sunlay Gleaner some time ago?"

Tabor refused to answer these questions, and asked that the case be adjourned until he could bring authority showing that an attorney is not required to give evidence of an injurious nature to his client. The court admitted the authority. Clarke objected to any continuation or adjournment and stated that his business is ruined until this case is settled.

Tabor submitted that no evidence had been introduced to warrant the holding of his client to the higher court.

Clarke thought it had been proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Woodside is responsible for the utterances of the Sun, and, therefore, should be held to appear at the higher court.

Justice Scarth stated his views of the case in a few words, and ordered that the defendant be held in his own recognizance to appear before the court of the territory.

Clarke objected seriously to Woodside being allowed to go without good and sufficient bond; that he could bring affidavits to prove that he (Woodside) has lost or is about to lose his job, and that, therefore, there will be nothing to prevent him from skipping out of the country.

The order of the court, however, was not changed.

Just From Nome.

G. Gerrie arrived last night from Nome is a guest at the Melbourne hotel, having, it is said, brought important news for Landlord Ed. McConnell, who, with his wife, left Dawson for Nome last year on the steamer Sovereign, she being the first steamer down the river after navigation opened, and on which trip Gerrie was steamer steward. He has since been at Nome up to the time he left for this place which was early in March. Gerrie has not been in evidence today so far as being at home to reporters goes; but it is supposed that he brought much interesting news from the city on the north beach.

Stamped to Sulphur.

There is a stamede on today to Sulphur creek, where it is reported a rich quartz ledge has been discovered. A few samples of rock have been brought to the city, but the extent of their richness can only be determined by an assay which has not yet been made. A number of people started out today to investigate the report.

VESSEL BURNS

The Steamboat Reindeer Was Destroyed by Fire Last Night.

SHE WINTERED AT FIVE FINGERS

Frank Simons and Ed Holden Owned the Boat.

HER CARGO REPORTED LOST.

It Was Intended to Run Her on the Lower River Route This Summer.

The steamboat Reindeer, lying at Five Fingers, and most of its entire cargo were destroyed by fire last night. The cause of the accident is attributed to a defective pipe on one of the stoves, which have been used by occupants of the boat during the past winter. The principal portion of the cargo had been consigned to C. H. Hamilton & Co., of this city, and the firm have sustained a loss of about 35 tons of miscellaneous stock.

The Reindeer was built in Victoria, B. C., by a company of gentlemen of whom Capt. Fulton was a prominent member. The vessel was brought to St. Michael by the steamship Garronne. The Reindeer arrived in Dawson during the month of June, 1899. She experienced a very unsuccessful season, and finally she was offered for sale at public auction. Mr. E. M. Sullivan submitted the highest bid; but he withdrew his proposal of purchase when he ascertained that the boat had been mortgaged in Victoria for about $14,000. Subsequently, the vessel was bought by Frank Simons and Ed Holden. Since last fall, the Reindeer has been wintering within a short distance of Five Fingers.

The owners of the steamboat had also purchased the barge Duff, which has recently been repaired and refitted. Immediately after the opening of navigation, it was expected that the Reindeer would arrive here with Frank Simons and a vaudeville company. For a period of six weeks, Simons intended to give performances in this city, and then transport his actors and actresses to Nome. The trip down the river was to have been made on the Reindeer, and during the journey a regular variety show and dance hall would have been conducted for the pleasure of the numerous passengers aboard the boat and barge.

THE DEVIL HIS DUE.

Our checks, contemporary, the News, after making several sorties upon the government intrenchments in the matter of road construction, is now seeking some lonesome kopje wherein to find cover.

The occasion of all this distress lies in the fact that our contemporary persists in dealing with subjects concerning which it is without information. In discussing the actions of the local government, the News works upon the general principle that the government never does anything worthy of commendation—ordinarily a safe principle, by the way, but one which, like all rules, has its exceptions.

After some six months of somnolent quietude, the News recently awoke to the fact that the government spent considerable money on a ridge trail last fall.

Without waiting to ask anyone if the road had ever been used, or whether it served the purpose for which it was built, our contemporary, as soon as it discovered that the road is in existence, jumped right into the air, kicked its heels together, and told things about that road which were new to men who have traveled over it every day for the past six months.

So well pleased was the News with this first imaginative production that it immediately followed up with another, which, if anything, was more imaginative than the first.

But right at this point the campaign, so far as offensive operations were concerned, ceased. Miners on the creeks reached by the road in question, pointed out to our contemporary the error of its way, and explained the fact that the road was built last fall, and has served a very useful purpose during the winter. Having secured this information, our contemporary hauls down the bloody shirt and executes a movement to the rear.

We have before pointed out to our contemporary the necessity of having at least a few facts upon which to base a newspaper article, even when the object in view is so laudable a matter as an attack on the government. The fact should never be overlooked that the devil is entitled to be given his due.

The Queen's visit to Dublin has and is intended to have only one meaning. It is the highest recognition which the Empress-Queen can give of the loyal devotion of the Irish soldiers to the flag and empire. When story after story came from South Africa of how the Irish regiments were nobly sustaining their traditions for dauntless valor and splendid loyalty, it came into the mind of the Queen that she would go to Ireland and there give the thanks of herself and people for the heroism of those to whom she had graciously given permission to wear the shamrock. It was a woman's thought, for in all things the womanly side of Her Majesty's character stands out pre-eminent. There is something extremely touching about it. We read in the stories of chivalry how, when the fighting men came home from many a bloody field, the chieftain's wife and her maidens came out to meet them in token of her thankfulness. Many an artist has chosen such a scene for his skill, and depicted womanly youth and beauty greeting the battle-stained veterans from the castle gate. But the Queen does not wait for the heroes to come to her. She could not go to them, but she could go to their mothers, their wives, their sisters, their sweethearts, and tell them how she, and how her people everywhere, esteem the noble work done by loved ones on veldt and kopje. The heart of a true woman inspired a womanly deed, and, unless the world has all gone wrong, that simple deed will accomplish more than the eloquence of statesmen or the wisdom of legislatures.—Victoria Times.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars were spent for scows at Lake Bennett last fall by parties who brought their freight over to Bennett too late to get it down by the steamboats. These same scows, which cost all the way from $750 to $1,200 to build, can now be picked up all along the river, and even on the beach in front of Dawson, for sums ranging from $25 to $50. There is a lesson in this little story which all intending shippers would do well to heed. Freight should be brought in during the early part of the season, in order to avoid tremendous expenses and possible loss.

Nearly all the steamers which are scattered along the upper river are now in charge of their respective crews, and are in readiness for the break-up as soon as it comes. Last year the first boat left the foot of Lake Lebarge before the 10th of May, but did not get into Dawson until the 23d of the same month, owing to repeated encounters with ice jams. Reports now coming from above indicate that the boats may be enabled to leave earlier this year, although it is not likely that Dawson will be reached any sooner than was the case twelve months ago.

The minstrel performance last night brought forth another evidence of Dawson's willingness to patronize any effort which is put forth in a worthy cause. The large and representative audience present was a well-earned tribute to the energy and ability of those who contributed so much earnest effort toward the success of the entertainment. All concerned are entitled to congratulations.

It is a saying born of long experience that one swallow does not make a summer. It is equally a fact that one warm day will not take the ice out of the Yukon, despite all wishes and prayers to the contrary.

Corner in Ostriches

A letter from Phoenix, Arizona, says: The Salt river valley surrounding Phoenix is to be made the center of the ostrich industry of the Western continent, and within a few months every bird in the United States, not held for exhibition purposes, will be brought here. The ostriches of this valley, which were owned by the Phoenix Ostrich company and number 250, have been sold to A. Y. Pearson, a New York capitalist, who, two years ago, set out to gather all the ostriches of this country and succeeded in getting all but 100. Those birds are located principally at Pasadena, Cal., San Antonio, Tex., and Jacksonville, Fla., and the owners keep them merely for show and will not part with them for any price. Mr. Pearson, who now owns about 700 ostriches, has made contracts by which he will have the product of chicks at the age of 2 months from the remaining 100 ostriches. These arrangements complete the formation of an ostrich pool in this country, giving to the New York capitalist, who in the last year has spent more than $100,000 in ostriches, absolute control of the industry. He has bought a large alfalfa farm ten miles from Phoenix and has commenced putting the farm in condition to receive all the birds owned by him. Most of them will come from Southern California, and importations will commence in a few weeks.

Mr. Pearson is not inclined to be over sanguine in calculating the increase in his flock of birds before the chicks are hatched, but his experience has showed him that ostriches multiply with great rapidity, and he believes that at the end of three years 3600 birds will be feeding on his alfalfa farm near Phoenix. About seven years ago several ostriches were brought to this valley, but, owing to injuries received in shipping, a male and female only survive, and the 250 birds here now have all been inbred from the single pair. Notwithstanding the fact that there has been no crossing of breeds the birds are superior to any others in the country, and in the future better results probably will be obtained by crossing breeds.

Mr. Pearson first became interested in ostriches about seven years ago, and after a careful investigation of the Salt river valley at that time he decided it was the best breeding place for ostriches outside of Africa. Since then he has made a study of the ostrich in its native state, and now he believes that the ostrich will do even better here than in Africa, its habitat.

Speaking of the ostrich business Mr. Pearson said: "Ostrich raising is a matter of business now with my family, and we believe we shall have no difficulty in competing with the importers of feathers. In fact there can be little competition. The importation of feathers into the United States amounts annually to $3,000,000, exclusive of a 50 per cent tariff. Where the feathers are the product of the United States, we, of course, will escape the tariff."

The ostrich business, says Mr. Pearson, cannot be conducted profitably on a small scale, but a large number of birds must be concentrated. It does not cost much more to maintain a flock of 1000 birds than it does to care for 100. Mr. Pearson's confidence in the adaptability of this valley to ostrich raising is shown by the expenditure of a small fortune in removing all his birds to this region, even after he had obtained good results from them in California and Florida.

Troops for Rhodesia.

Lisbon, April 4.—The question of the transport of British troops across Portuguese territory from Beira, Portuguese East Africa, into Rhodesia, having been brought up in the chamber of deputies, the foreign minister, Senor Beira, made the following statement:

"The transport of British soldiers by railroad from Beira to Umtali was requested by Great Britain and consented to by Portugal because the British government thereby only exercised a right recognized in the treaties between the two countries. The outbreak of war has not abrogated these treaties, which were concluded and signed prior to the war by Portugal in a spirit of loyalty. I have informed the Transvaal of this reason. Portugal has loyally adhered to its duties and neutrality, and its reasons have been communicated to all interested parties. There could occur a no more solemn occasion than the present to declare that the British cabinet has maintained with Portugal relations of cordiality and loyalty for which there is reason for congratulation. Please God that these good relations shall always be maintained."

It may be found a pleasure and even a necessity in this country to look upon the red hooch in the glass. But the rub is where to get the genuine article. By the number of people who patronize the Pioneer it would seem that popular resort has the call on the clear thing.

YUKON SHIPPERS ON DECK.

Various River and Lake Steamers Ready for Business.

Ice Confidently Expected to Go Out Very Early This Season—Ready to "Cast Off."

A big inpouring from the south of skilled Yukon lake and river steamboat men occurred when nearly 50 arrived on the steamer Amur. All, says the Alaskan, are bound in to prepare steamers for navigation, and later to operate them.

One of these parties comprises Capt. Bailey and six men who will work on the Sybil. Another, and the largest and most complete and significant party to come north on such an expedition is that of the Klondike Corporation, Ltd., of which McDonald Potts, who also came, is general manager. This company was recently organized in England, taking over what was the Klondike Trading & Transportation Company, the Klondike Goldfields Company, and the Bennett Lake & Klondike Navigation Company. The latter company was the best known to the public, and it is in connection with the navigation branch of the new company that the present expedition has chiefly to do.

Accompanying the general manager are 40 other people, mostly Yukon river captains and engineers and other members of boat crews. In fact all the members of the boats crews of the Klondike corporation are with Mr. Potts. They will get off right away for the interior, where they will put in condition the steamers Ora, Nora and Flora for the coming season.

The chief officers of the different vessels of the company and the places at which the vessels now are follow:

Steamer Ora, now at Lower Lebarge; Capt. Williams commander; Capt. Bragg, pilot. Steamer Flora, now at Lower Lebarge, Capt. Martineau, master; Capt. Campbell, pilot, Wm. Summerville, chief engineer. Steamer Nora, now at the mouth of the McClintock, Capt. Cox, master; Capt. Wolber, pilot; Peter Craig, chief engineer.

Manager Potts announces that Peter Copeland will be the Skagway agent of the company this season, R. W. Calderhead will be agent at Dawson, and Robert Hall at Bennett.

It is the intention of the manager to remain in the north, that is between Bennett and Dawson the greater part of the summer. Victorja, however, will be his headquarters. After a few days visit to Bennett he will go to Victoria, where he will remain three weeks previous to coming north for the summer's work. Mr. Potts was last year auditor of the Bennett Lake & Klondike company and is the only officer of that company who has been retained by the new corporation. He is a young man, yet one in whose face is shown business shrewdness. Mr. Potts says:

"In all likelihood we shall this summer have no other than our regular fleet, but the vessels will be in good condition and we shall endeavor to operate them to the best possible advantage. I have the option to purchase four large steamers now on the Yukon, but I do not know that I want them under the prospects. It appears that because of the light snow in the interior there will be very low water in the Yukon this season, and that the large steamers will be able to do but little. However, we hope to keep busy with our smaller light draft craft. I intend to put the Ora and the Flora into Dawson this season ahead of all other vessels. Freight to load them both the first trip is already secured.

"It appears navigation will open three or four weeks earlier this year than ever before. More freight is coming by the Skagway route to Dawson this year than the boats will be able to handle."

South African Lighting.

A very few days after my arrival at Maritzburg at the end of 1875 I was standing one afternoon in the shade of my little house on a hill anxiously watching the picturesque arrival of an ox wagon laden with my boxes. It was in the very early summer, and the exigencies of settling in left me no time to worry about the thunderstorms, of which of course I had often heard.

A more serene and brilliant afternoon could not be imagined, and it was not even hot—at all events, out of the sun. My two small boys, as usual, trotted after me like dogs and clamored to assist at the arrival of the wagon, so I lifted the little one up in my arms and stood there, with the elder boy clinging to my skirts.

Suddenly out of the blue unclouded sky, out of the blaze of golden sunshine, came a flash and a crash which seemed as if it must be the crack of doom. No words at my command can give any idea of the intolerable blinding glare of the light which seemed to wrap us round or of the rending sound as if the universe were being torn asunder.

I suppose I flung myself on the ground, because I was crouching there, holding the little boys beneath me with some sort of protective instinct, when in a second or two of time it had all passed, for I heard only a slight and distant rumble. I do not believe the sun had ceased shining for an instant, though its light had seemed to be extinguished by that blaze of fire.

Never can I forget my amazement—an amazement which even preceded my deep thankfulness at finding we were absolutely unharmed, the fearless little boys only inquiring, "What was that, mummy?" There had been no time for their rosy cheeks even to pale. I wonder what color I was? I looked at the little stone house with astonishment to find it still there, for I had expected to see nothing but a heap of ruins. Nay, it seemed miraculous that the hills all around should still be standing.—Lady Broome in Cornhill Magazine.

ALL FOR THE KLONDIKE'S GOLD.

Three women were sitting quite near in the town park one day; While passing by I chanced to hear One of them plainly say:

"In the deep snows of Chilkoot pass My husband lost his life; I know his prayers to the last Were for his lonely wife I lost my husband; you, your son, And you your brother bold; Then let us weep—our griefs are one, All for the Klondike's gold!"

"Let ussing the sad refrain, Sing as we grow old, All for the love of golden gain, All for the Klondike's gold!"

Then another, shedding her tears, Her sad story now told; It seemed her son, though young in years, Died, too, for Klondike's gold.

"He's buried in the Yukon's sand, Beneath its angry waves, No headstone in that dismal land Does mark his lonely grave, You lost your husband; I, my son, And you, your brother bold; Then we will weep—our griefs are one, All for the Klondike's gold!"

Then, the sad story of the third Followed up the other; No letter, no line, not one word, From that sister's brother.

"Like many another, he went alone, No pard to help along; He left me here in the old home To join in your sad song; You lost your husband; you, your son, And I my brother bold; Then weep we may—our griefs are one, All for the Klondike's gold!"

Then a desolate, aged form Upon the scene appeared; Her voice was low, her face careworn, As she, moaning, declared:

"Rather the snows of Chilkoot's pass, Or Yukon's muddy wave, L'e o'er, tonight, my darling lass, Deep in her lonely grave; Than be so sad and made to mourn, As I am growing old; By hearing of my darling one—Sinning for Klondike's gold; You lost your husband; you, your son, And you your brother bold; But I lose still a dearer one, All for the Klondike's gold!"

Lull in the Campaign.

London, April 4.—Gen. Colville and Gen. French have given up the movement against the Boers east of Bloemfontein, and have rejoined the main army. It doubtless seemed to Roberts a vain thing to send from ten to twelve thousand of his best troops into the wilderness with a field transport in the directions of a right angle with his chosen line of advance. The Boers have probably moved elsewhere, and if to the southwest Gen. Colville could as easily strike them from Bloemfontein as by following across the plains.

The enormously superior British forces appear inactive in every part of the war field waiting probably for the accumulation of material for a swift advance on the Transvaal frontier.

Details received of the scenes on Greenmarket square, Cape Town, on Tuesday, when Premier Schreiner encountered an English demonstration, show that the premier, fearing personal violence, sought refuge in a restaurant. He was hooted, and tried to reach the parliament house protected by the police. The people shouted "traitor," but he succeeded in reaching the house. Lord Roberts did not meet his wife at Cape Town. She will proceed to Bloemfontein.

The permanent bridge at the Modder river station has been finished, and the first train passed over it on Tuesday.

ALL STEAMERS IN COMBINE

On Through Rates From Below to Dawson.

American as Well as British Bottoms Will Adhere to Schedule Made With W. P. & Y. Ry. Co.

When the new rate schedule of the Canadian Navigation Co.'s steamers, the White Pass & Yukon Railway Co. and the C. D. Co. on freight from Sound points to Dawson was published in the Nugget some time ago it was feared by many that the rate as published did not include steamers flying the American flag on the Skagway-Sound run, but by a late circular issued by the W. P. & Y. Ry. Co. these fears have been removed.

The circular announces that through rates on passengers, merchandise and livestock have been made through agreement by all the steamer companies now having vessels plying between British Columbia and Skagway and Puget Sound and Skagway and the White Pass railroad and steamers on the waters of the Yukon and its tributary lakes.

The only Yukon river steamer company mentioned on the tariff as being in the agreement is the Canadian Development Company, but there is no doubt but that shippers can bill their freight by any line they please at the schedule quoted.

Certain new regulations and conditions accompany the new quotations, and the most notable of these, in regard to general merchandise, is the raising of the measurement ton from 40 to 55 cubic feet. In other words, 15 more cubic feet are allowed to the ton, thereby giving the shipper just that much more allowance and virtually amounting to a reduction.

The quotations in the new tariff from Puget sound and British Columbia points to Dawson are as follows:

"The following through rates shall apply on passenger business and shipments from Puget sound and British Columbia ports to Dawson and Yukon points after the opening of river navigation:

"Passengers—Through rate, including meals and berths on coast steamers and meals and berths on river steamers, and 150 pounds of baggage, $105.

"Cattle—Through rate, $85 a head, feed to be charged at regular tariff rates; men in charge to pay full fare.

"General merchandise—Shipments of five tons and under: Through rate, $145 a ton weight, provided the sum of each shipment does not exceed 55 cubic feet to each 2000 pounds weight, all excess to be charged $1 a cubic foot. Shipments of over five tons: Through rate, $125 a ton weight, provided the sum of each shipment does not exceed 55 cubic feet to each 2000 pounds weight, all excess to be charged $1 a cubic foot.

"Powder, calcium acids, gasoline and naphtha to be carried only by special engagement."

From reports it is probable that every steamer which will ply this season on the waters between here and Bennett will have all the freight that her capacity will permit of being handled.

Will Drag the River.

Reports from the neighborhood of Minto are to the effect that preparations are being made to drag the river near there as soon as it is open in search of the bodies of the three murdered men, Clayson, Relfe and Olsen. The work of prosecuting the search by cutting away the ice was prosecuted for some time, but slow progress was made. It is reported that Detective McGuire who is working on the case in the employ of Clayson's brother, will arrive in Dawson in a few days; though just what is bringing him before the bodies are found or the search abandoned is not known.

Bowling Tournament.

On next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock will occur one of the most exciting contests in the history of Dawson. The occasion will be a five game bowling tournament at the Monte Carlo alleys, the participants being Al Clarke and A. Swartz, the stake being a purse of $500. Both men have enviable records, and each will do his utmost to carry off the purse. Both men have many friends who are ready to back their favorites with the coin of the realm.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE

The Minstrel Entertainment Last Night a Success.

Palace Grand Theater Crowded—Performers Acquitted Themselves Creditably—Everyone Pleased.

The minstrel entertainment at the Palace Grand last night for the benefit of the Good Samaritan hospital was a financial success, every seat in the house being occupied, with standing room at a premium.

Perhaps unconsciously to the actors themselves, there were three types of the "brother in black" represented last night. F. W. Clayton makes a typical sandhill nigger, which type is large of stature and not easily worried regarding matters of business.

The wiregrass nigger character was ably portrayed by Mr. George, one of the "tampos." This type is nervous, impulsive, quick with "razzers" and subject to conversion at any and every camp meeting where they will whoop, pray and sing until there is just sufficient darkness left for them to steal chickens on their way home.

Fred Atwood, who, by the way, was the best representation of a happy coon on the stage, was of the variety of niggers found in the rice swamps, where, on account of malaria, only coons and alligators can live.

Some of the jokes last night were eminently amusing, the fact that many of them were sprung as jokes being the most amusing feature.

The leading features of the first part of the program were the songs rendered by Mr. Clark and Mr. Atwood, although the whole program was good and shown by its presentation that great care had been bestowed; and when it is considered that all the participants volunteered their time and talents in the good cause, the unanimous verdict must be that it was a most creditable entertainment.

Opening chorus, "You Told Me You Had Money in the Bank," song, "The Diver," R. D. Sutherland; song, "Happy Days in Dixie," Mr. Oswald Finnie; song, "You'll Never Know," Corporal Cobb; song, "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," E. Shark; song, "I've Been Faithful to You," A. C. Wright; song, "Honey Dat I Love So Well," F. W. Clayton; song, "Thursday," Geo. Biber; song, "Honey, You're My Lady Love," S. G. Edwards; song, "He Fought for the Cause He Thought Was Right," A. Clark; song, "Ise, Sorry, Mr. Jackson But I've Got to Turn You Down," Mr. Geo. Wilson; song, "Hello My Baby," F. Atwood; drill, Black Squad; selection, Miss Annie Mabel O'Brien; skirt dance, Tom Keagh; song, "I'd Hate to Trust My Future Life With You," Ruth McCormack; dance, "Pickannies," Lulu Prather and Evestine Tiernan; banjo, mandolin and guitar, Dines, Skinner and Dines; cake walk; chorus under direction of Prof. Quigley; drill directed by Sergeant Davis; cake walk by Fred Gardiner.

The cake was awarded to Fred Atwood and Miss Carr, although, in the opinion of the big audience, there should have been four cakes, one for each couple, as they were each deserving for their very successful and highly entertaining efforts.

Sick on Sulphur. Chas. Cline of the Rainier house, yesterday received word that his mining partner Ed May, is quite sick on their claim, 37 below on Sulphur, with something like bilious fever. The party who brought the news to the city stated that owing to May's condition it is not deemed safe to attempt to bring him over the long journey to one of the hospitals. May and Cline have both been here since the fall of '97, having come from Port Townsend, Wash., with the first rush.

WERBUS VS. VINCENT.

Receiver Appointed Pending Appeal to Minister of the Interior.

The action of Peter Werbus and Michael Bede, plaintiffs, vs. Joseph Vincent, defendants, discloses an interesting feature of legal procedure. The suit involves the title to the hillside claim, right limit, opposite the upper half of No. 78 below discovery on Bonanza creek, and to properly appreciate the judicial decision, which was rendered recently in the cause, it is necessary to have a knowledge of some of the facts in the case.

On July 17th, 1898, the plaintiff, Peter Werbus, staked the property above mentioned. According to the regulations he was allowed ten days in which to record his location, but did not do so until Sept. 2.

On August 15th, 1898, one Fred Parker staked certain ground, which he described as the hillside claim, right limit, opposite No. 77 below discovery on Bonanza; and on August 23d he received a government grant for the property; during the course of the following summer, when he made his affidavit of representation and received his renewal grant, he continued to describe his property as hillside No. 77.

On August 1st, 1899, Fred Parker disposed of his entire interest to defendant Joseph Vincent, who, during the following month of January, employed eight men to develop the recently acquired property. The operations of Vincent were conducted on hillside No. 78, of which ground the plaintiffs claim to be the owners. Proceedings at law were instituted by the plaintiffs against the defendant; and upon the trial of the issue in the gold commissioner's court, Mr. Senkler decided in favor of the defendant, Joseph Vincent, to whom was adjudged the property, which is now correctly described as hillside No. 78.

From this decision, the plaintiffs have appealed to the minister of the interior; and recently they applied to Justice Dugas of the territorial court for such relief, pending the appeal, as will tend to preserve the property. As was mentioned in yesterday's issue of the Nugget, Justice Dugas has concluded to appoint a receiver to take charge of all of the gold which will be extracted from the claim while the appeal of the plaintiffs is before the minister of the interior.

In rendering the decision, Justice Dugas took occasion to pass the following remarks:

"I have carefully gone over the evidence taken before the gold commissioner, and I must say that although generally I am much inclined to follow his opinions and decisions in cases concerning mining disputes, I find this case is such as to be susceptible of a different decision from that which he arrived at; and if I had to sit with him on the matter, I think I would have differed. It strikes me that this is a scheme to take advantage of what may be discovered to be good ground by abandoning ground which is found to be worthless. It may be added that if the defendant were sustained in his pretensions it would make many titles here very shaky, if under pretext of having made an error in describing their ground, they could in all instances claim the neighboring ground of a party who himself does not appear to be to blame, and who never made the mistake, but who has rightly recorded and been in good faith. It seems that there is more justice in having the one who has made the mistake to suffer than one who has not, and is in good faith, more particularly, as here, the defendants have only to keep the ground which Parker seems to have intended first to stake, which is the lower half of No. 77. I believe that the plaintiff's case is really such a strong one that, pending the appeal before the minister of the interior, I feel it my duty to put the claim in dispute under the guardianship of the court so as to protect whatever interests may exist therein."

The judgment of Justice Dugas has established a precedent, the beneficial effects of which are quite apparent.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

The most important case in Captain Scarth's court this morning, that of the Queen vs. Henry J. Woodside for libel, will be seen in another column of this paper.

The case immediately preceding that of Henry J. Woodside was that of Thomas Dawson, a strawberry blonde, who was charged with having yesterday evening been drunk and disorderly. Thomas plead entire ignorance of any misconduct on his part, but said he possibly did take one or more glasses of whisky. With both hands raised above his head, he offered to swear before "yer honor and high haven till niver touch another drop;" but as he was before the court only a short time ago on the same charge, his protests were not taken seriously. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed. Thomas had no money and the royal fuel factory will hold him for awhile.

Edward La Port, of the Palace Grand theater, denied that the back yard or any part of his premises is littered with bottles, cans, rags, lemon peelings and other filth nor recherche on well appointed property. He said he kept a man employed especially to keep the premises in order and that they are so kept. Pending additional information, the case was continued until this afternoon.

Judgment was given by default in the case of Woodoker vs. A. Kery for $104, the defendant not appearing.
