HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion?

One ounce Compound Sassafras?

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla?

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary ailments, and also in rheumatism and scalds. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To alter this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these ailments will not doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

PANDORA

Owing to the fine construction of most ranges it is a rather difficult feat to cook and bake successfully at the same time.

But the arrangement of the Pandora differs considerably from others. They are so constructed that the draft for baking is also the best for cooking, the heat circulating around the oven twice and under every pot hole before passing to the chimney.

The Pandora bakes and cooks perfectly at the same time.

Do you know of another range that does?

If your local dealer does not sell the Pandora write direct to us for Free Booklet.

Some Day.

Some day when I shall pierce the gloom

Between me and that shadow land;

When I shall see beyond the tomb,

My loved and lost on yonder strand;

Then I shall know as I am known,

And wonder why I could not see,

When I am unto fullness grown,

Beyond the Veil of Mystery.

Her Last Lark.

'Ye can't believe nothing of it, honey,' Black Sally stood in her spacious kitchen with its prospect of Christmas dinner and gave her rolling pin a twist of finality.

Polly King in pink morning wrapper, her thick braids of towny hair gracefully dishevelled, was carried out of her usual indifference by the prospect of an argument.

'You should concede the benefit of a doubt, Aunt Sally, where there's a possibility of people's being hungry and that on Christmas Day.'

'Um-m-m, see through too high-toned honey, to see through the malcontents of that shiftless outfit.' Sally shook her head energetically as the pastry dough spread out crisp and thin under her deft movements.

'Sides, them peck white trash would a't hab sense 'nough to cook a goose if dey foun't one.'

Polly's laugh rang out clear and her blue eyes brimmed with mischief. She tilted up to peep into the oven which Sally had thrown open.

'Two turkeys—you must think Sir Hammerley will be hungry—two turkeys, besides venison and quail and fish and your famous chicken salad and oyster patties, such as no one but you can make!'

Sally's withered face was cracking with gratification. 'You go on,' she chuckled. 'He mebbe eat nothin'! He's so perfixed lookin' at you.'

'True.' Polly's voice was suddenly lifeless and the mirth went out of her face at this reminder of Sir Richard Hammerley's pale unremitting stare. And this Christmas Day she was expected to give her answer to this titled figure—to blazon her name to the generations of her descendants for their vein of noble blood.

'Go 'long now and dress for dinah-dar's honny. It's most 'ludden in the company' comes at one an' dinnah's at three.'

Sally's pigtail bristled with surprise at the unawaited clarity with which Polly obeyed. Usually when Sir Hammerley was expected the maid instigated and abetted by Polly's Aunt Sophia must decoy Polly to her dressing room and drag her down again bewitchingly unhappy in her latest new dinner gown.

But Sally's surprise became consternation when in a few minutes Polly again invaded the kitchen this time in hunter's green walking costume.

'Dat ain't no dinnah gown, Sally been contemptuous.'

'But the charm of argument had waned for Polly.'

Sally never knew how it happened. There were coxing, flattery and even bribery on Polly's side, with corresponding cajolery, threats and tears from Sally, while her last batch of cookies baked, her cranberries boiled over and her scandalous pigtail stiffened until they almost snapped.

At any rate Polly made her escape with Simeon, the loose-jointed handy-boy and two large baskets packed with one of the roasted turkeys, vegetables, salads, preserves, nuts and wine. Polly felt certain in spite of Sally's tragic pleadings that she was not robbing the guests, for Sally's set table for six would have feasted thirty.

'They'll know for suah that you've one of them Nawthern young ladies, was the distracted cook's parting shot as the feragery party left the house.'

'Hurry, Simeon,' said Polly, 'we'll be back long before dinner.'

This encouraged the unwilling recruit started through the grove at a less doubtful pace.

Polly swung after him, crunching out a resinous odor from the brittle pine needles under her feet. Her tingling veins responding to the expectancy of a dull shifting sky and frosty air. Her enthusiastic spirit, fresh from the encounter revealed in the prospect of a storm.

'Mister Charles ain't de company' volunteered Simeon, feeling significantly at the fair pirate, as the sound of wheels came to them from the road.

Polly turned impatiently and looked back at the great house they had just left. She knew that in a few minutes the carriage would roll over the winding drive to the impressive oak door, bringing—the color suddenly died out of her cheek and her heart stood still. She would be absent when the guests and Sir Hammerley arrived. What would Aunt Sophia say? But it was too late to run back then.

The thought that Sir Richard Hammerley and his smirking train with their meaningless drawing-room chatter, produced a reaction from her fears. A lark it should be, at any cost—her last lark, she supposed. That she would have caused it was the nature of her errand, Charity—it was Polly's first thought of the object or result of her venture. She had started out to indulge a whim.

This new thought was pressed home to her when after repeated exhortations to her lathering assistant, and a series of tips, even more effective than moral stimulus, she reached the tumbled down shanty of the peck white family.

Window holes filled with rags, a smoking fireplace, a slatternly woman and groups of half-clothed children, were what Polly gathered in her first quick survey of the room. Then back in a dim corner, half partially hidden, she caught sight of a man pending over a ragged table.

The young man straightened up and started for the baskets which Simeon had deposited heavily in the middle of the greasy floor. His refined face was slightly clouded by professional seriousness.

'Is there some wine?' he asked sharply, as he stooped to open a basket. But his face showed no emotion until a fair wind-blown head in a glossy feather cap bent quickly over the other basket.

'Gracious heavens, Polly. You here?'

'There was a tremor in his voice which Polly noted for the sinking man on the bed could not have produced.'

'Yes, Fred. For the moment it seemed to Polly that she always had been and always would be at his side, that Aunt Sophia's elegant southern castle, Sir Richard's and his English castle, were a dream, and that life was to be her and Fred as they had pictured it in their old school days.'

She found the wine, and as the doctor snatched it from her trembling fingers she came to herself. She had never seen poverty and sickness, but an instinct born of pity, and the inspiring presence of her fellow-worker told her what to do.

When it was all over—the sick man out of danger and the hungry family feasted on their Christmas dinner, Dr. Upton looked admiringly at his somewhat ragged assistant. They were in the grove leading back to the great house, the same path Polly had taken a few hours before—the same yet another.

'I always thought it was in you, Polly. You're the most common-sense, efficient angel of mercy I ever saw.'

'Polly blushed with shame.'

'Angel of mercy! she almost wailed. 'I just did it for a lark!'

'Fred laughed and Polly's heart leaped up in admiration. She always had adored his unshakableness.'

'But why a lark?' he quizzed.

'I—I wanted to get away from myself—from everything.'

'Then Dr. Upton fell to studying her face, and Polly knew, as of old, that under his scrutiny her secrets were all with large.'

'By the way, Polly,' he said at last, 'I forgot to congratulate you upon your engagement!'

'But I'm not engaged!'

'Then with the light that came into Dr. Fred Upton's eyes for an instant his own secret blazed out.'

'Not yet engaged,' Polly hastened to explain.

'Oh, I see; it's pending.' His laugh was painstaking light.

'Yes, the executioner's axe hangs over—she broke off with an attempt to laugh.'

'But let me be a messenger to reassure you.' He turned upon her with sudden vehemence.

'By what authority? They had stopped in the patch. The snow was coming down in great flakes, clinging to the tendrils of bright hair about Polly's face and melting on her warm cheeks.'

'Why should I be down here in Kentucky to-day, instead of at my home in Minneapolis attending to my business? Why should I for the first time this winter accept an invitation that I have refused for five consecutive years? I bring you my regrets by the authority of Fate.'

Is Your Hair Sick?

That's too bad! We had noticed it was looking pretty thin and rough of late, but naturally did not like to speak of it. By the way, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair grower, a perfect hair tonic. The hair stops coming out, grows faster, keeps soft and smooth. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures sick hair, makes it strong and healthy.

'But I don't want a reprieve,' Polly's blue eyes met this dark one unflatteringly, while the rich color deepened in her cheeks.

'Accept a pardon, then—a pardon for life, for eternity—by the same authority!' he cried, drawing her to him.

Sanctum Suggestions.

A number of reports have reached us of late concerning acts of vandalism in town. While it is not a pleasure for THE ACADIAN to refer to these things its duty as a public journal is plainly to turn the search-light of public attention upon such doings with a view to their being put an immediate stop to.

While we are on the subject it might be well to refer to the unnecessary noise and rowdiness which is allowed to go on on our streets almost every evening. Policeman Crowell no doubt does his duty as far as he is able, but his efforts to secure "good order and decorum" he should have every assistance from the authorities and the citizens generally.

In nearly every community there are growing up a number of young people whose tendencies are towards crime and disorder. Actions looked upon as trivial are allowed to go unpunished until some day the people awake to the realization that their neglect has made possible the performance of a crime.

Now that the long evenings are on we would like to hear from a greater number of our correspondents and occasional contributors in the country districts. In every settlement there are those who can, if they resolve to do it, write regularly a budget of new items, which are appreciated by readers at home and abroad.

Last Thursday afternoon wireless transatlantic communication passed from its experimental stage to a practical basis when for the first time in the world's history wireless messages were transmitted and received to and from England commercially.

The rate payers of the town of Kentville are called upon to vote upon the proposition to borrow the sum of $6,000 for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new Town Hall and buildings—wonder when Wolfville citizens will make another move in this direction.

While the street authorities are having the curbs put in it would not be a bad idea to have a few stone or concrete crossings placed in Main street. The expense would not be heavy and the increased comfort of pedestrians would more than compensate.

The miners of Springhill have not yet resumed work. They claim that the company interprets the agreement in a sense entirely different from the manner in which they understand it.

An adjourned meeting of the Wolfville Board of Trade is to be held on Wednesday evening of next week, at 8 o'clock. Matters of importance are to be up for discussion and it is hoped there may be a large attendance of members.

After nearly four weeks of darkness the electric lights were turned on again last evening. Their cheerful gleam will be appreciated more than ever after having been so long without them.

Thursday of next week will be Thanksgiving Day and also Hallow E'en. From present indications turkeys will be scarce.

PATERSON'S COUGH DROPS. THEY WILL CURE.

P. E. Island's Potato Crop.

The Island Farmer, Summerside, says: 'Potato digging is now on and judging by some samples we have seen and reports received there is likely to be considerable trouble from rot. If, when housing the potatoes, they are plentifully sprinkled with lime it will be found an excellent preservative as it is the best preventive of rot yet discovered. Many good farmers have for years adopted this method with unvarying success. This year the need of a preservative will be greater than ever.'

Y. M. C. A. Annual Convention.

Preparations are about completed for the thirty-sixth Convention of the Maritime Young Men's Christian Association which meets in New Glasgow from October 31st to November 3rd. An excellent programme has been arranged, and a number of strong speakers secured. The sessions will be held in United Church and on Friday night, Nov. 1, there will be a banquet in the Association Gymnasium, at which His Hon. Lieut. Governor Fraser, will respond to the toast of the Maritime Provinces; their quality and possibility.

Restless Babies.

If your little one is restless and cross it is more than likely the trouble is due to some derangement of the stomach or bowels, and if Baby's Own Tablets is given the child will soon be bright and cheerful, and when the mother gives her child this medicine she has the guarantee of the government analyst that it contains no opiate or poisonous drug.

Now that the long evenings are on we would like to hear from a greater number of our correspondents and occasional contributors in the country districts. In every settlement there are those who can, if they resolve to do it, write regularly a budget of new items, which are appreciated by readers at home and abroad.

Seminary Notes.

Several applications for place in the gymnasium class for girls resident in the town have been received. It two or three more names are received work will begin next week. The teachers of Acadia Seminary are at home the first Tuesday in each month at 4.30 o'clock. They will be pleased to receive their friends at that time.

Owing to the very serious illness of her father, Miss Louise Roth will not be able to return to Acadia this year. This is a matter of universal regret. To take her place, Miss Paulsen, a violinist of note, a student and orchestral player, who has spent four years in Leipzig and three in Berlin, will sail for New York Oct. 26th. She will be ready for her work about Nov. 10th.

All who desire to study with her should apply at once to the principal, The recital by Henry Lawrence Southwick on the evening of Nov. 8th promises to be the most interesting of the many given by him here. Those who have heard him in "The Rival's" say that in this play he is at his best. Tickets 50c. and 35c. are on sale at Rand's.

Probably the greatest violinist who has ever played in Wolfville will appear in College Hall Friday evening, Nov. 29th. Her name, Marie Herites. She is regarded by many as equal to Sevcik's famous pupil Hubelik. Watch for further announcements.

Says the Montreal Herald—"Mr. Donald Macmaster and Sir William Van Horn are two well-known men who, within the last two days, have put themselves on record as favoring an export duty on pulpwood. There is undeniably a growing feeling in the country that the people who will not buy our finished product should not be given free access to our raw material, with which to compete against us in the markets of the world."

It is said that the position of Chief Justice, which has been vacant since the retirement of Sir Robert Weatherly, is shortly to be filled. Ramor has it that Hon. Mr. Justice Townshend of this town, is the most likely candidate for the position.

The post office at Sydney, C. B. was mysteriously robbed on October 7th. James Macdonald, a printer, was arrested at Summerside, P. E. I., and admits his guilt. The amount taken was $3,500.

A Musical Treat.

Referring to the great musical treat which is in store for Wolfville's people at the Methodist church next Monday evening a Halifax paper says: Last night the hall of Robie Street Methodist church was literally packed, upon the occasion of the gramophone concert given under the direction of E. A. Wilson with his Victor grand gramophone. Undoubtedly it was the very best concert of the kind ever given in the hall—by some it was considered the best of the kind ever given in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Chittick will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Elderkin during their stay in Wolfville.

The St. F. X.—Acadia football game which was played on the campus here yesterday afternoon was one of the hardest fought football battles ever seen in Wolfville. It was witnessed by a large number of spectators and enthusiasm ran high. The visitors were particularly strong in the scrum, Messenger, Stalling and Lewis did excellent work for Acadia. Neither team succeeded in scoring.

1907 broke the record again by giving us a snow-storm on Monday. Several inches fell and on Monday night the temperature fell considerably below the freezing point. A part of the potato and apple crop was damaged and the outlook for the farmers was not a hopeful one. The weather has been mild since, however, and it is hoped an opportunity may still be had for gathering the crops.

Missionary Thank Offering.

The annual Thank Offering meeting of the Wolfville auxiliary of the W.F.M.S. of the Presbyterian church was held in the school-room of St. Andrew's church on Wednesday evening. There was a fair attendance in spite of the threatening appearance of the weather, and the dark night. Mrs. A. H. Patterson of Hortonville, the president of the society, presided gracefully over the meeting. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Wright, the first vice-president, and prayer was offered by Mr. J. D. Chambers. The president read a well-prepared and very interesting report of the year's work. Encouraging reports were also presented by Miss Harvey, the treasurer, and Mrs. Chambers the secretary. An interesting feature of the program was a pretty duet well rendered by the little Misses Harvey, daughter of Mr. J. W. Harvey, of Port Williams. Mrs. (Dr.) Dodge, of Halifax, who organized this auxiliary eighteen years ago, was present by invitation and gave a most helpful and interesting address. She reviewed the work of the W.F.M.S. of the Presbyterian church in the Maritime Provinces and gave many interesting facts in connection with the same. Mrs. Dodge speaks with ease and was listened to with pleasure. The envelopes were opened and the offering found to amount to $31.95. The amount will probably be considerably augmented by those who were unable to be present at the meeting.

Charles Brown, a well-known farmer of Newtonville, back of Gasperus, was badly hurt at Kentville on Thursday last week. It happened in the new brick building being erected on Webster street, when a brick fell from above, striking him with much force, cutting his head. The wound was dressed and he returned home.

Complicated Liver Troubles

Mr. John Wilson, carpenter, Wolland, Ont., writes:—Some years ago I was attacked with kidney trouble, and it became so run down and emaciated that my entire appearance was suggestive of physical decline. As time went on the complaint grew worse and became complicated with liver trouble. I had had pains across the back and up the spinal column, had had spells with my heart, pain under the right shoulder, bilious headache about half the time, indigestion, fever, and restlessness at night, and depression of spirits.

I spent about one hundred dollars in medicines, with no perceptible result. Doctors' advice proved likewise of no avail.

Finally, on the advice of a friend, I began taking Dr. Cass's Kidney-Liver Pills and in a short time the bad symptoms began to gradually disappear, and by the time I had used five or six boxes I was enjoying better health than I had in many years, all of which is due to the virtues of Dr. Cass's Kidney-Liver Pills. 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

A GREAT MUSICAL TREAT!

Mr. E. A. Wilson, Vice-President of the Nova Scotia Furnishing Co., Halifax, has kindly consented to give an evening with his magnificent

Victor Grand Concert Graphophone, in the vestry of the Methodist Church, Wolfville, Tues. Ev'g. Oct. 29th, at 8 o'clock.

This is the finest talking machine in the world to-day, and the concert given by Mr. Wilson in Halifax have always drawn large and enthusiastic audiences. The volume and naturalness with which voices and instruments are reproduced is certainly marvellous, as true in every instance as if the singer was actually before the audience.

The programme will comprise selections by a number of the world's greatest artists, including Nellie Melba, Emma Sandrich, Abbott, Homer, Caruso, Bondi, Scotti, Joseph, Gogorzo, Stanley, Van Hook, Trinity Choir, Lyric, and Puccini's "Bohème." Fryer's Band and other popular artists.

A treat is assured. Admission, 25c.

She was an heiress and he was poor, but otherwise honest. "How much do you love me, dear?" she asked, after a manner of her sex. "I love you," he replied in a tone replete with candor, "for all you are worth."

"Woman is considered the weaker vessel," she remarked, "and yet—" "Well?" he queried as she hesitated.

"And yet," she continued, "man is the stronger brook." "Now," said the vicar, "can anyone tell me what a lie is?" Immediately a small hand shot up.

"Well, my little man?" "Please sir, a lie is an abomination unto everyone, but a very pleasant help in time of trouble." He—Do you think Styles and his wife live happily?

"Lady," began the wanderer, "kin I chop some wood for you?" "No, thank you," replied the up-to-date housewife. "We cook and heat entirely by electricity."

An old physician of the last generation was noted for his brusque manner and old-fashioned methods. One time a lady called him in to treat her baby who was slightly ailing.

But, doctor, protested the young mother, castor oil is such an old-fashioned remedy. Madam, replied the doctor, babies are old-fashioned things.

Piles. To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain cure for all kinds of hemorrhoids, see the testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it.

When Moore Sang.

In singing his own songs Moore altered the arrangement of the air and sang the first part of each verse twice over at the beginning instead of a refrain at the end.

His voice, of infinite modulation but of small compass, rose clear and thrilling to its highest pitch as he sang: Go ask your dearest whether His arms should hold such frail hands And hearts as ours together.

His song was an inspired recitative, and he seemed to improvise as he ran his fingers over the notes, and as the tide of the night came over him it was poured forth in harmonious cadences of exquisite variety.

THE PREVALENCE OF ECZEMA. The prevalence of Eczema is due in every case to the presence of humors and poisonous acids in the blood.

It acts on the blood instantly, acts with a purifying healing effect—neutralizes the acids—destroys the poisons—drives every humor from the blood.

So rich and nourishing does Ferrozine make the blood so cool and healthy, that the sores are healed—itchiness is soothed away—every trace of eczema poison removed.

Well, my little man, said the minister, kindly, I am glad to see you coming regularly to the Sunday school.

Afflicted with Sore Eyes for 33 Years. I have been afflicted with sore eyes for thirty-three years. Thirteen years ago I became totally blind and was blind for six years.

Sometimes it seems impossible to keep the hard skin without using so much paste that the skin is roughened and chapped.

To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain cure for all kinds of hemorrhoids, see the testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it.

After the examination, the doctor said: "All you need, sir, is a tonic in the shape of fresh air."

"Would you mind telling me," asked the purist, sarcastically, "what is the shape of fresh air?"

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused It to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Eaton, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 10, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family.

Lydia E. Pinkham

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not long before she had prepared for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her husband's knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing she has done has ever been so successful.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from simple roots and herbs, the one great remedy for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.
