DELICIOUS REFRESHING STIMULATING

LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER
— OR —
THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER XLII.

In ten minutes they reappeared, the past forgiven and forgotten, and joining the group in the library, to listen to the terrible story that was all the outgrowth of one bad man's schemes. "Viscount Melville is dead," concluded Fairfax; "Marlowe and Esther Marsh, I understand, have left the country, and I have here the legal documents which restore every shilling of Lord Morden's money, with interest, to its rightful owner. I will, with permission, relieve you united and happy people of the annoyance of clearing up the present difficulties, and answering the inquiries which are sure to ensue, as much as in my power lies, and I would suggest that the Cedars be immediately sold, for its associations cannot be otherwise than unpleasant."

The suggestions of Fairfax were unanimously agreed to; indeed, he was vested with power of attorney to disentangle the whole business.

It is just one week later, and already has the story gone the round of the press and set the world wondering.

As much as possible was hushed up, but in these days newspapers have a way of obtaining information which will ever be a mystery to the public. There was a gay little wedding at Richmond, and the bells pealed as merrily as they had ever pealed before.

It was quite a select affair, only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and bridegroom being present. Then the couple went abroad and spent their honeymoon, and the papers told a most romantic story of them.

Fairfax was kept busy for some time in drawing up settlements, under the eye of Lord Morden. Half of his great fortune was settled upon Dora and her husband forthwith, the house in The Pines was purchased for old Captain Deane, and a snug little annuity attached to it, while Frank Rogers came in for a neat sum of ready money and an important position as my lord's steward.

Edmund Looksey divided his own private income with his father, and when Peters came out of the hospital, the old man was happier than he had been for twenty years.

The beautiful city of Florence was smiling under the beams of the morning sun. There were odors of rich flowers in the air; there was balm in every breath.

On the piazza of a modern hotel Dora and Edmund were seated. The latter was reading a letter that was puzzling, while the former was gazing at the lofty Apennines, which rose like huge giants from amid miles of picturesque vineyards, shining streams, and beautiful groves.

"Sweetheart," he said, presently, "can you guess who this is from?"

"No, we have had so many fond inquiries."

"It is from Lady Clare Moncrieff. Listen, Dora:

Dear Edmund—You may not believe me when I say that I wish you and your wife all the happiness that it is possible to have in this life. I sinned because I did not wish to lose you. When I heard that you were dead—dead as much by my hand as his—I nearly went mad with remorse. I now live only to repent, and shall never meet you again. All I ask is forgiveness from you and your wife, whom I tried to wrong.

CLARE MONCRIEFF.

"Poor creature!" said Dora, softly. "This is somewhat mystifying," Edmund observed, "but it explains a little the meaning of the strange words she uttered to Fairfax. I pity her from the bottom of my heart."

Dora twined one soft arm about his neck, and pressed her lips to his cheek.

"My dear, dear husband," she murmured, "how can we help being charitable to others, when Heaven has been so good to us!"

(THE END.)

The Pangs of Remorse
— OR —
A Complicated Tangle.

CHAPTER II.

Mr. Clifford looked up, transfixed with astonishment, but in a moment his face fell. How was he to answer? If he told the truth, then would he not be asked why he had ever concealed it, and being asked that, how could he expect these infuriated men to believe or even understand that he had shrunk from placing the father of Lillian under an obligation to him?

No, he remained silent.

"You see, sir," went on the baronet, furiously, "your detestable plot is out. I know it all—everything. From the first hour you entered beneath this roof you plotted and planned to steal my daughter. Nothing, no amount of kindness—and your false, black heart cannot but admit that you were treated kindly—turned you from your purpose. No, with the most diabolical artfulness, you pursued your course, set your net. You way-laid her in the woods, you inveigled her into conversation, for your detestable business away from the house, under pretence of teaching her music you poured your loathsome, poisonous love songs into her ear, and at last succeeded in getting, in a cunning way, a present from her good, simple nature. What do you say?" he exclaimed, more because he wanted breath than to hear the man, who, white almost to lividness, had opened his mouth for the first time to utter a hoarse: "No!"

"It is false!" said Sir Ralph, wiping the beads of cold perspiration from his forehead, but never removing his blazing eyes from the wan face for a moment. "It is false! I saw the thing in your hand the other morning by the river."

"The rod!" was formed by the tutor's lips. "It came from one of your men. Miss Melville knew nothing of it."

"You speak falsely!" exclaimed the baronet. "All arranged by your cunning. The man gave you the rod, but my poor girl's money bought it. Ah, your effrontery falls you! Your face betrays your black heart. Armed with this, you thought to compromise her; but it was not sufficient. Under some pretence—Heaven knows what!—my child was enticed to meet you in the gallery, where a set scene was arranged for her. Deceived by your sham honor, betrayed into pity by your friendship tears, and all the diabolical traps you had set for her, the child began to believe in you, and you thought your time had come. Thank Heaven, my poor girl's gentle heart did not ruin her! No thanks to you, villain that you are, for you would have forced her when you found your black arts were failing. You met her the morning of your return. She was riding, had just left this gentleman. You, of course, wrung from her what had passed between them—wrung it from her, I say, and, afraid that the marriage might yet take place, in spite of you, tried to persuade her to leave her home, her father, and fly with you. Smooth-voiced serpent as you are, you could not make her forget her father and her home. She refused to fly with you. You tried to force her. She resolutely strove to escape you, and in the struggle the horse threw you down and broke your arm. Ah, Heaven! why did it not break your vile neck? My poor child's gentle heart was melted by your just punishment, and she yielded her consent to the concealment of the true cause of your accident. You knew that a word from me and she would see you in your true colors; you knew that all hope of stealing her would be lost to you if your peridy came to light. You knew this, and the fiend lent you strength to crawl here and speak falsely with an open face and un-faltering tongue!"

Sir Ralph paused and glared at the accused with a long-drawn breath, then exclaimed:

"There is your whole plot laid bare, sir—and yet not all, for, filled with remorse for your villainy by the treatment your ready during your well-deserved illness, you were no sooner recovered than you were at work again. You wrung from her another promise that she would keep secret the story of the accident. You played upon her pity, made capital of your weakness and ill health, and even now had the insolence to force yourself upon her, leaving her to come here with a hypocrite's face to brazen out your guilt."

He paused again and drew breath.

"Now, sir, what have you to say? Be short and careful. One word of insolence and I shall forget that it is a degradation to strike so base a creature—and he glanced at the riding whip which Mr. Besant had conveniently left upon the table.

Spiders Enjoy Music

One would not imagine that spiders were affected either by music or love; but that they are extremely sensitive to both has been proved by observation.

For instance, an organist in a church noticed that a spider would swing down upon a single thread and rest above the keyboard every time a tune was played, and directly the music ceased it would disappear. Either very soft or very loud music would bring it down.

During a concert at Leipzig, the leader of the orchestra particularly noticed a spider which descended by the same means from a chandelier whilst a violin solo was being played, but directly the solo was finished it ran back quickly.

With regard to other instincts possessed by these insects, some interesting experiments have been made to test their powers of vision and sense of colour.

It was found that when their prey, which consisted of small insects, remained motionless, they could see them at a distance of five inches, but when the insects were moving they could see them at a much greater distance. As for each other, a spider could sight another spider at least twelve inches away.

British Trade Triumph

The British motor-cycle industry now leads the world. During the year it will produce and sell 140,000 machines.

The second largest producer, America, has fallen behind in the race. Last year her output was 48,000 motor-cycles, and there are no signs that this figure will be exceeded during the present season. Only 397 foreign-made machines were sold in this country last year, and it would appear that foreign competition in the home market is dead. This year 80,000 British made motor cycles will be sold at home; the other 60,000 will be sold abroad as a part of our export trade.

The supply of motor cycles involves the export of spare parts, and the sale of such parts abroad in 1925 should represent a figure equal to the additional volume of the production of British motor cycles up to 150,000 a year.

The capital invested in the British motor cycle trade amounts to £15,000,000, and 35,000 people find employment in the work of production.

CANADA'S CLAIM.
OTTAWA, June 10. Canada's claim to the northern archipelago was again asserted in the House of Commons to-day by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior. Tabling a large map, Stewart said that the Canadian claim was to the islands lying north of the Canadian mainland up to the North Pole. The limits of Canada's claim, as indicated on the map formed a great triangle with the mainland as the base and the North Pole as the apex. The western boundary was a continuation of the boundary between Canada and Alaska. The eastern took a line up Davis Straits, between Canada and Greenland, and then followed longitude 60 west to the Pole. Mr. Stewart roughly defined the territory claimed by Canada as that lying north of Canada, west of Greenland between 60 and 142.

Introducing "SUPERTWIST"

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

A 100 Million Dollar Corporation, the largest producers of Tires in the world, offers you, their new Supertwist Cord, at Bargain prices, Plus service. SUPERTWIST is the elastic new cord fabric developed in Goodyear's own cotton mills. It was developed specifically to give balloon tires greater mileage. It does this because it is made of a special type of cord design—yields to the blows of the road without breaking.

So excellent were the results obtained with SUPERTWIST in Goodyear Balloons that it is now used in all Goodyear Cord Tires.

The popular Goodyear All Weather Tread, in the new Supertwist Cord, is now priced as follows:

Balloon, Truck Tires, and Heavy Duty Red Tubes at correspondingly low prices. All fresh 1925 stock.

The prices quoted are possible only because Goodyears have the largest sale of any tire in the world and are sold all over the world. Goodyear buys raw materials in huge quantities—and gets the lowest prices. Goodyear, through its branches in every part of the world, knows when to buy. Goodyear has lowest overhead costs because they are spread over millions of tires. Goodyear factories operate day and night, further reducing manufacturing costs. Goodyear gets the pick of tire builders because their jobs with Goodyear are full-time, steady jobs.

Age no Handicap

A little while ago the cry, "Too old for it," sounded like the knell of doom in the ears of those who were in their first youth. Now, however, it is having its revenge, and the newspapers recently have been full of the activities of the "old folk."

For instance, an Irishman of ninety, who has just emigrated to America, is starting life over again. That is very good going; but pales before the plans of a Weymouth grand-son who, it has been announced, intends to swim the Channel.

Women have been rather more active than the men, but Mr. Thomas, who is eighty-four, recently addressed the Dorchester Debating and Dramatic Society, and a man seventeen years older wrote a letter to "The Times."

Age, of course, is not always the handicap we are apt to imagine it. Gladstone was over seventy, at the time of the Midlothian campaign, and was Prime Minister of Britain when over eighty.

We have to go back a few centuries, however, to find a parallel to the recent case of the Mexican woman who was sent to jail at Los Angeles at the age of 102. Then we find it in our own history—Old Parr was obliged to do penance for his sins at the door of the parish church in Alburybury when he was 106 years old.

The picture of another venerable

Briton, who looks lively enough despite his years, hangs in the Royal Hospital, Chelsea. The original, a Chelsea Pensioner, married at 100, and his portrait, painted when he was 110, shows him handling a sword in quite a businesslike way.

Better and Better

Dependable ten years ago, and five years ago, and more dependable than ever to-day, Dodge Brothers Motor Car simply represents the latest phase in a process of continual betterment.

The first cars Dodge Brothers built established a world-wide reputation. The cars they are building to-day incorporate the accumulated refinements of those ten intervening years.

That important improvements in the comfort and appearance of the car are made from time to time, implies no basic departure from Dodge Brothers' traditional policy of PROGRESSIVE rather than SEASONAL development.

TAKES ACTION IN BARBADOS AGAINST AGENT.

Monroe Export Co. v. C. H. Kinch.

The Court resumed its sitting at 10.30 a.m. on Tuesday, his Honor Sir William Chandler Kt., Acting Vice-Chancellor, presiding, when the following additional evidence was taken:

Cross-examined by Mr. Reese, the witness, Wilbert Taylor, said that he sold some of the fish, and made some of the entries in the rough Day Book. He was concerned in the making up of the Account Sales, having acted on Mr. Kinch's instructions. It was without his knowledge that he was making up the accounts wrong at the time he did so, but he had been acting under Mr. Kinch's instructions or else he would have lost his job. Before he left Mr. Kinch's employment, he wrote persons in Canada stating that he would give them certain information about Mr. Kinch and their agencies. Mr. Shea was in this island last year and he asked him for certain information which he gave by way of an affidavit. He also gave affidavits to the principals of Baine Johnston and Job Bros. He also wrote Baine Johnston several letters, the one read and produced being among them. He had recently started business on his own account and had to make his living, and to bring trade he had to send certain circulars to certain business firms in Canada.

He got the original prices from the Consignments' Sales Book. He made out those prices on small slips of paper and they were changed by Mr. Kinch. He never kept them.

His Honor: I understood the witness to say that he took these slips of paper with the prices to Mr. Kinch who made a rough draft in pencil of the Account sales.

The witness continuing said that the Account Sales now shown him was in connection with a cargo of fish from the schr. "W. C. Parke." Part of the account might have been made up by Mr. Kinch because he went away and the remaining portion completed by him.

The word "correct" on the sheet was written by Mr. M. O. Puckering, who was the Customs House Clerk. The extensions in the rough draft of the account sales now shown him were carried out incorrectly inasmuch as the price of a drum was put down as the price of a cask. In order to correct that he changed the figures from the price of a cask to the price of a drum. The pencil notes on the draft were not in his handwriting, only the letters "JO," meaning Journal. With regard to the rough draft of the account sales of the shipment from the schr. "Frances Louise," the letters "D.P." thereon meant duty paid. Three entries were made in the journal debiting "merchandise" with amounts and crediting Monroe & Co. with the net profits of the net profits of the account sales. There were two lady clerks employed by C. H. Kinch, when he was there; one was Miss Gittens and the other Miss Johnson. The prices which he jotted down on the slip of paper were taken from the Consignments' Sales Book, which was copied from the Rough Day Book.

Mr. Percy W. Browne, Chief Officer of Customs, produced certain Customs Warehouse books in connection with the case. He said that in each book there was a separate head for each licensed warehouse. Mr. C. H. Kinch had had more than one licensed warehouse. As soon as cargo was bonded, it was entered into the books under its proper head, showing the name of the vessel, the quality and description of the cargo. As soon as the entry warrant was passed, it was entered into the Entry Warehouse Book; so that it was quite easy for him to trace any consignments from the books, if the particulars as to the date and number of bond were given. There was a regular rate of duty for Canadian fish. It was 1-6 per quintal of 112 lbs. On the 16th October, 1920, 360 casks, 51 drums and 50 half drums of fish were bonded by C. H. Kinch. Of this quantity 50 casks were duty paid. The remainder of the cargo was exported to the neighbouring islands and British Guiana. The entries in the book showed that the fish was exported by Mr. Kinch; there was no transfer. A cask was equivalent to four quintals and the duty on a cask would be $1.44; therefore the duty paid on 50 casks was $72.

On the 31st July 1921 a shipment was landed for C. H. Kinch from the schooner "Frances Louise" Certificates were produced for 100 casks of this shipment. The whole cargo was 321 casks but of that certificates of origin were at first produced for only 100 casks. Later on certificates were produced for the balance as well as for 94 drums, and 120 half drums. Of the casks 203 casks were exported without any duty being paid and 56 were transferred, to W. H. Bryan & Co., and 56 to Mr. Kinch himself. These 56 were bonded in Mr. Kinch's provisional bond. The duty on those casks transferred were paid by the transferee.

On the 10th February, the books showed that a shipment was received by Mr. Kinch from the schooner "Excellence." This shipment contained 31 casks, 50 drums and 30 half drums. There were 123 casks more on the account sales corresponding with this date than the books showed. Only 50 half-drums of this was duty paid, the remainder was exported, the total amount of duty paid on this shipment was $10.44, but the account sales showed $12.64 as the amount of duty paid.

On the 31st January 1921 there was bonded for Mr. Kinch 170 casks, one short landed, 20 drums, one short landed and 35 half drums 3 short landed. The account sales for this shipment showed 174 casks, one short landed, 17 drums and 22 half drums of this quantity, only 34 casks were duty paid.

On the 14th June 1920, a shipment from the schooner "Norma B. Strong" was bonded for C. H. Kinch. It contained, according to the account sales 2 casks, 50 drums and 120 half drums. In addition to the 120 half drums there were 100 half drums, making a total of 280 half drums. Of this shipment 10 casks and 108 half drums were duty paid, the amount being $33 and 84 cents.

On the 31st January 1921, 200 casks and 10 drums were bonded, this shipment having arrived by the schooner "Frances Louise." The entry in the book was exactly as it was on the account sales sheet. Duty was paid on 32 casks only, the amount being $46.08.

On the 19th March 1921, thirty casks were bonded. None were duty paid. The whole cargo was exported to Trinidad on the S. S. Comedian by Mr. Kinch.

The rough draft of the account sales now shown me related to a shipment from the schooner "Douglas E. Parke." The quantity was 623 casks, 180 drums, 270 half drums. Duty was paid on 112 casks, 24 drums, and 25 half drums, the amount being $174.42. Ten of the casks were transferred to Stuart & Sampson and fifty to W. H. Bryan & Co. The remainder might have been exported by Mr. Kinch.

In answer to Mr. Reese, the witness said that a provisional bond was a place approved of by the Comptroller of Customs temporarily to relieve any congestion. It was purely departmental, and not fixed by the Governor-in-Executive Committee.—Barbados Advocate, May 14. (To be continued.)

Food or the Flivver

Boston Transcript: Suggestion of the New York Port Authority that large ice boxes to hold larger purchases of foods might help in reducing the cost of living, suggests to one interested reader the question as to how many families could afford to pay for the ice after buying "gas" for the flivver. And this does not take into account the multitude who have paid something down on the car and are struggling to meet the monthly instalments. How much easier life would be for the worthy poor if the family could live without food, or the flivver could run without fuel.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

SUPPOSE
If you had never seen the sun,
Or never once had heard
A rivulet in summer run,
Or singing summer bird,
If all the skies you'd known were gray
You'd laugh through many a winter day.

You had never felt a breeze
Flow warm across your face,
Ad never dreamed "neath" leafy trees
In some sequestered place,
You'd have the snow drifts beat you
You could
And think that life on earth was good.

But all those rosy yesterdays
Which you have had and lost
Come back across the barren ways
Of drifted snow and frost,
And winter skies seem bleak to you
Because you've seen them azure blue.

If you had not learned how to smile
Before you came to tears,
Had grief been with you all the while,
Some way you'd brave the years,
But having loved and having smiled
To grief you stay unconquered.

Yet winter turns the sky to gray
And summer joys depart,
And unto each there comes the day
When sorrow finds the heart;
You sigh through life when joy has Flown,
But what if love you'd never known?

Soviet Council Shows its Teeth

COPENHAGEN, June 4.—A press report, purporting to emanate from Moscow, says that the Soviet Supreme Council had decided to declare a state of war at Kronstadt during the visit of the British fleet to Bathurst, and had also ordered the Baltic Russian fleet to be in "preparation."

Moscow advices recently said that the Soviet Government would regard as tantamount to a declaration of war the proposed lease to England of Estonian islands near the borders of Russia.

Enforce the Laws

Motor mishaps have been occurring so frequently during the past few weeks, that there is considerable misgiving in the city as to the condition which will exist when the season is more advanced and the number of cars has increased. Is it not reasonable to assume that many of these accidents are due to negligence, or to a violation of the rules of the road either by a deliberate act, through ignorance, or because the driver is not in full possession of his or her faculties?

What is the obvious remedy? There is an Act on the Statute Book which clearly defines the rules to be observed, and any driver who is not conversant with these regulations has no right to be in control of a car. Most drivers rigidly observe them; others, who either believe that they are too important for the laws to interfere with them, or who are too stupid to realize that such laws are necessary, disregard them day in day out. Because of these individuals, the Act has been provided with formidable teeth, but it requires the whole strength of public opinion and prompt and vigorous application of the law by the police to make those teeth effective. The former as yet has not made itself sufficiently felt, and while the authorities have instituted many improvements in the control of traffic, they seem somewhat loath to exercise their authority to the full.

So far one child has been killed, this season, two or more children have been injured, one man more by good luck than good management escaped with his life, several cars have been damaged, and in one case at least the occupants are fortunate to be alive to tell the tale. Other drivers have informed us as well of barely averted collisions.

In some of the mishaps there were apparently unavoidable circumstances; in others, the published reports, which have not been denied, would make it appear otherwise, but in how many instances have the parties involved been called upon to give an explanation? Surely law abiding motorists are entitled to a greater measure of security and the pedestrians to more adequate protection against the persons who are a menace.

Accidents are unavoidable, and all that can be done is to take precautions to reduce them to a minimum by eliminating every factor which is inimical to safety. It is not with an idea of criticizing the police but rather to show the authority which they possess that we ask how many drivers of vehicles during the course of a day fail to give a signal when approaching an officer on point duty? How many who neglect to do so are stopped, turned back, and made to approach the point again and signal properly? How many motor drivers have been pulled up during the past week, and told to take their cars back to the garage by the shortest route because their number plates were missing?

We submit that it is not for the police to say when the law may be relaxed, but to enforce the law as it reads, and to leave it to the higher authority to decide whether there are mitigating circumstances or not.

A person is killed or is injured. Who but the magistrate must decide the circumstances under which the accident happened? In England, accidents in which a death occurs are supposed by law to demand enquiry, and in all cases of unnatural or violent deaths Coroners' inquests are held and the evidence is taken before a jury immediately. Unfortunately in this country the Coroner's inquest was allowed to pass out of existence, but upon the system which has superseded it rests exactly the same responsibility.

We are aware of many of the difficulties under which the police labour, but we see no reason why they should not exercise as much authority here as the police do in other cities. In our opinion it rests with themselves. It may have the effect of making them unpopular with certain individuals, but certainly the public will strongly approve their attitude, and we can assure them that is enforcing the law to the limit, they may depend upon the whole influence and support of the Telegram, regardless of who's who or what's what.

The Priests' Convention

The first Priests' Convention of the Diocese of Newfoundland was opened in the Cathedral with a celebration of the Holy Communion at half past seven. At ten o'clock the Holy Eucharist was sung by the clergy to the familiar setting of Merkeke, and the opening sermon preached by Rev. R. F. Palmer, of the Society of St. John the Evangelist, the oldest religious society in the Anglican community. Evensong will be taken at half past five. At half past seven in the Parish Room, Synod Hall, the first papers of the Convention will be read on the subject of "Personal Consecration." Friday will be observed as a quiet day of devotions and intercession. It will begin on Thursday at 9.30 with compline, the ancient "family prayers" of the church, and will continue until evensong on Friday. The addresses will be given by Rev. R. F. Palmer. The convention will continue for a week, closing on Thursday, June 18th, with a sung Eucharist at 10 a.m.

Nfld. Picnic in California

A Newfoundlander residing in California informs us that what is supposed to be the first Newfoundland picnic on the Pacific took place on Sunday, May 24th at Sicamore Grove, Pasadena and was a great success. Newfoundlanders old and young gathered from Los Angeles, Glendale, Eagle Rock, San Pedro, Hollywood, Pasadena and neighbouring towns, and all were delighted to renew acquaintances and hear news of the home land. The outing was organized by the following ladies all of St. John's: Mrs. J. Dobbin, Mrs. Jack Gillis, Mrs. Tom Garland, Mr. Will Smith, Mr. J. O'Neal Farrell, and Mrs. Canning. Everyone is looking forward to the next reunion in 1926.

Salmon Fishery Reports

The General Passengers Agent of the Newfoundland Government Railway received the following messages this morning, in connection with salmon fishery on the West Coast:

South Branch. "Eight salmon caught by Donaldson party last two days, weighing 8 to 20 lbs."

Magistrate's Court

Things were very quiet in police circles this morning. One drunk arrested last night was fined $1.00 or three days. A father and son summoned on charges for non-support, failed to appear, and bench orders were issued for latter's immediate arrest.

Accident at Heart's Context

The following message was received to-day from the Sub-Collector at Heart's Context: "James Scott of New Perlican was accidentally wounded whilst discharging rails from S. S. Panard Head. He had to be sent to hospital for treatment."

The United Church of Canada Officially Instituted

Impressive Scenes Mark Opening Ceremonies.

TORONTO, June 10. The official declaration that the United Church had been constituted was made to a great crowd which almost filled the arena here at 10.30 a.m. "I declare," said Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, in impressive silence, "that the Presbyterian Church of Canada, the Congregational Church of Canada and the Methodist Church, along with the General Council of Local Union Churches are now united and constituted as one church to be designated as the United Church of Canada." The congregation broke into applause. It was the culmination of many years of negotiating and activity looking to such a result.

Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon then arose. "As the first act of the General Council of the United Church now constituted," he said, "I move that the American Presbyterians of Montreal be hereby admitted to membership in the United Church. The first act of business of the new church was approved with applause. Rev. Dr. W. H. Wierwille then moved that Dr. Pidgeon conduct the Communion Service and preside over the afternoon meeting.

TORONTO, June 10. While eight thousand spectators looked on, the United Church of Canada was officially instituted in Toronto arena this morning and dedicated to its work. It was a ceremony which will be memorable in Canadian ecclesiastical records. Rev. Dr. Chown, General Secretary of the Methodist Church; Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Dr. Warriner, Congregational Church, had the leading parts in the ceremony. In front of them were 360 delegates to the first meeting of the Gen-

Important Bank Official Arrives at St. John's

Mr. F. M. Gibson, Assistant General Manager of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, arrived by the S. S. Silvia this morning, coming direct from Toronto, the Head Office of the Bank, via Halifax on his first visit to Newfoundland. His journey here is a result of a new policy adopted by the Bank whereby its chief executive officers will, in future, visit all important branches more often than they have done in the past, chiefly for the purpose of studying local conditions and getting into personal contact with the Bank's customers. This policy is to be commended as it should not only enable the Bank to give more sympathetic consideration to the development of the trade and natural resources of our Colony but also enable its officers to disseminate full, concise and accurate information with regard to our trade and business conditions.

Mr. Gibson entered the Bank in 1901. His ability was soon recognized and he was appointed to the management of the Port Francis, Ontario, branch in 1907. His appointment to the Revelstoke, B.C. branch of the Bank followed in 1911 and three years later he was promoted to the important position of Inspector for the Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba districts. In 1916 his experience was broadened by a transfer to the Bank's chief office in Montreal where he occupied the position of Assistant Manager, later undertaking the duties of Manager of Kingston, Ontario, and Havana, Cuba.

In January of this year he was called upon to assume the position of Assistant General Manager, one of the highest in the Bank.

Home, no report leaving Humbermouth. Kyle left Port aux Basques 8.15 p.m. yesterday. Malakoff arrived Port Blandford 3 a.m. to-day. Meigs left Battle Hr., 9 p.m. Tuesday, going north. Fortia arrived Argensia 8.30 a.m. yesterday. Prospero left for northward at 10 a.m. Sagnos left Battle Harbor 7 p.m. yesterday, bound south.

Leaving for England

Purser Ryan, Chief Steward J. Pike, Chief Officer Brinton, and James Whitely, Second Engineer, of S.S. Kyle, have arrived in the city, and leave by the Sachem on Saturday for Liverpool to join the new steamer Caribon. The balance of the crew will leave for across later.

Supreme Court

The case of the Newfoundland Banking and Trust Corporation, Limited, against the Reid Newfoundland Company, Limited, Mines and Forests, (Newfoundland) Limited, and the Newfoundland Power and Paper Company Limited which came up for hearing in the Supreme Court yesterday morning before Mr. Justice Kent was continued to-day.

Mr. L. E. Emerson for the plaintiffs opened the case yesterday and dealt with the formation of the Nfld. Banking & Trusts Company in 1919, and the various negotiations carried on with Lord Rothmers for the sale of the Humber property. (This proposition fell through). This morning Mr. Emerson resumed and dealt with the Blackstead agreement and read a volume of correspondence purporting to show that in 1920 the Trust in London were negotiating with Blackstead for the transfer of the property. This proposition, it is claimed, fell through because the Government would not guarantee interest on capital of $25,000,000. According to some of the correspondence H. D. Reid arrived in London in December, 1920, and made the trust office his office, and took an active part in the Blackstead negotiations. He remained in London till April, 1921. It also appears that it was difficult to get concurrence to the Blackstead agreement from St. John's except that they would accept one million pounds for the property. From another portion of the correspondence it is gleaned that the Reids placed a value of 9 million dollars on their Humber property. Counsel for the plaintiff claims that the Blackstead agreement was along the development lines carried out by the Armstrong Whitworth Co. and was used as a basis for the subsequent agreement with them.

Department Acts Upon Suggestion

TO HAVE "SLASH" CLEARED UP. The Minister of Agriculture and Mines went out this morning to Topsail Road to investigate and make arrangements to remove what might be a serious fire hazard, via "slash" left by logging operation. The Telegram called attention to this matter last week, and the prompt action of the Department will be appreciated by the residents in the neighbourhood.

Motors Collide

About eleven o'clock this morning a motor collision occurred opposite the Railway Station between cars owned by Mr. J. B. Orr, and Mr. W. Miller, the contractor. The former car had its bumper damaged, while the latter escaped with a twisted axle. Mr. Orr's chauffeur received slight injuries to his right hand, and had to proceed to Peter O'Mara's Drug Store to have the member dressed.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

KRIM PROVIDES A RECEPTION FOR PAINLÉVE.

Ab-del-Krim, the rebel chieftain apparently desired to provide Painléve, the French Premier, with an adequate reception on his arrival in the fighting zone in Morocco this afternoon. The official communication issued by the French this evening says Ab-Del-Krim is now attacking the French along a sixty mile front. It adds that the enemy pressure now extends to the extreme eastern part of our front. Walls the communication announces that the attacks of the tribesmen have been repulsed, it admits that several small posts had to be abandoned.

THE SECURITY PACT AND THE DOMINIONS.

LONDON, June 11. (Canadian Press Cable)—With regard to criticism in the Dominions in connection with the proposed security pact, it is understood that the Dominions have been kept fully informed of the progress of the negotiations, and undoubtedly their approval and support will be sought before an agreement is reached. At present however, there is no agreement which can be submitted to them. All that has been done so far is to indicate the responsibility which Great Britain is prepared to undertake. It will be possible, although such a course is not regarded as probable, for Great Britain alone to sign the agreement without the adhesion of the Dominions, but in that case of course only Great Britain would be bound thereby.

UNAUTHORIZED PUBLICATION OF DIPLOMATIC CONVERSATIONS.

GENEVA, June 10. The European security talk took a sensational turn to-day when the Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, made a diplomatic but stinging attack on the publication of misleading statements about the proposed Allied note to Germany. It appears that Mr. Briand, French Foreign Minister, and Mr. Chamberlain agreed not to divulge the contents of the note until it was delivered to Germany. However some accounts of its contents, alleged to be one-sided and misleading, have appeared in print in some countries. Mr. Chamberlain communique insisted that no advantage was to be gained in commenting upon the communication before its delivery, and announced that the text would be published in a day or two. The continued exchange of views between Great Britain and France followed the lines indicated in Mr. Chamberlain's speech at Geneva rejecting the protocol, and his latter exposition of the problem of European security in the House of Commons.

CANTON TROOPS REPULSED.

LONDON, June 10. A despatch to the Daily Express from Hong Kong dated to-day says the Cantonese troops Tuesday night made a determined effort to cross the Canton River and drive out the Yunnanese troops but were repulsed with severe losses. Many bodies were floating down the river to-day. Shameen is crowded with foreign refugees, says the correspondent. It is their only sanctuary. Thousands of boat dwelling of the Chinese have moored for safety between Shameen and the British Gunboat guarding it.

CONTINUOUS FIGHTING ROUND CANTON.

Fighting between Yunnanese and Cantonese troops for the possession of this city, which started Saturday afternoon and has been in progress night and day since, showed no signs of slackening this afternoon. Fear is now expressed that the food supplies will not be sufficient for the wants of the population.

SILK TARIFF CLAUSE ADOPTED.

LONDON, June 11. The House of Commons yesterday adopted the clause in the Finance Bill, imposing a Customs duty on silk and artificial silk. The vote was 260 to 135.

FRENCH AIRMEN TO ATTEMPT ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

NEW YORK, June 11. Raymond Orteig, New York hotel owner, who has offered $25,000 to an aviator making the first non-stop flight between France and the United States, has announced that he would fly with Paul Tascos and Francois Coll, the French aviators, in their attempt to cross the Atlantic, provided the aviators will give permission. He said the flight will start about July 25. The Frenchmen will fly first toward England, then to Ireland, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New York.

STRIKING MINERS AND POLICE CLASH.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 11. Early this morning a strong force of Company police surprised the strike pickets on guard at New Waterford power station, and after a fight in which several received minor injuries, succeeded in occupying the building. Subsequently a squad of 11 mounted police arrived on the scene. The police were stoned when passing the United Mine Workers of America Hall, but succeeded in reaching their objective, and at ten o'clock were protecting those getting up steam at the power plant. The pickets retreated to the Baseball Park where a mass meeting of the striking miners was in progress throughout the morning. It is anticipated that the plant which has lain idle since June 4 owing to the activity of the United Mine Workers of America will be generating power by this evening as well as the operating pumps in the southern group of mines leased by the British Empire Steel Corporation and furnishing the town of New Waterford with light and water.

CONSTRUCTION OF TEN CRUISERS RUMORED.

LONDON, June 11. The Daily News to-day prints an article by Lieut. Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Liberal M.P. for Central Hull, asserting the die-hard Tories will demand that ten new 10,000 ton cruisers shall be built and that the Baldwin Government probably will decide to lay down five such cruisers at a cost of 3,000,000 pounds apiece.

CAILLAUX MAKES A DEFINITE PROPOSITION.

PARIS, June 11. The declaration that France should enter up a specific engagement for the settlement of her inter-Allied debts, featured Finance Minister Caillaux's statement last night before the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies.

FIERCE FIGHTING AROUND CANTON.

CANTON, June 11. Fighting day and night, the armies of the rival military leaders continued their battle for the protection of Canton to-day with new fury. The force of the Kwangtung troops in attacking the Cantonese Army, was shot in the river last night, when an attempt was made to make a surprise landing, which was discovered by the defending forces. Heavy casualties resulted, and at dawn many bodies were seen in the river. Additional gunboats arrived to-day, making a total of ten in port. The foreign warcraft is being used to administer medical assistance to wounded residents of the waterfront.

W. I. Bishop Co., Secures Contract

TO RE-RAIL STREETS. It is understood that the contract for the re-railing of the Street Railway, and the building of a car barn and Sub-Station, for the Newfoundland Light and Power Co., has been awarded to the W. I. Bishop Company, and as soon as the material arrives from Montreal, work will be started. As far as can be learned the plans for re-railing do not include any extension of the line, and it is likely that the south rail on Water Street will be dispensed with.

This Built-in Quality Means Lower Cost of Operation

The fast-increasing number of new good Maxwell cars on the streets is causing widespread comment. It is a perfectly logical happening; for no other four delivers the Maxwell combination of 58 miles an hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

But there are still greater satisfactions for the Maxwell owner. The car is completely manufactured within its own great plants. This is an advantage of genuine importance to the buyer. In no other way could you be assured of the quality that distinguishes the new good Maxwell from all other fours.

It is this high quality that accounts very largely for the dependable nature of Maxwell performance, the car's durability and, above all, costs of operation and maintenance so low as to create a new standard of economy.

We are always eager to demonstrate the new good Maxwell, for a ride in the car proves at once that it offers more fine motoring than was ever before available at the price.

More than a year ago, Stewart-Warner completed the latest addition to its plant, which added 35% to manufacturing space. It, therefore, now has large and ample facilities, and its employees have had long experience in making and assembling delicate instruments. It is thus equipped with skilled labor and with the facilities to produce radio sets on a large scale, and its distributing facilities are already ample to market a large output. It is expected that radio will be one of the company's principal lines.

After the payment of dividends on the stock in the first quarter, the corporation carried to surplus $548,587, bringing profit and loss surplus to $12,932,651, which is equivalent to $21 a share on the stock.

Prospect of Increase in Rate.
Last year Stewart-Warner reported net earnings at $3,501,106, equal to $7.37 a share on 474,990 shares, or $5.83 on present number. This showing must be regarded as rather encouraging in view of the unfavorable conditions which obtained in the automobile industry last year. If 1925 earnings run at $10 a share on the stock, which they may do, the fact that the directors have been extremely generous in the matter of dividends inclines one to the view that the rate may be increased or an extra paid this year.

In 1924 Stewart-Warner paid two quarterly dividends of $2.50 a share each, and two $1.25 each, making the total disbursement for the year $7.50 a share. Directors apparently are of opinion that when earnings are larger the stockholders are entitled to a larger share of the earnings, and judging only from past action, increased earnings this year may mean a substantially larger dividend on the stock. The corporation is in splendid financial condition, with current assets in the ratio of about 7 to 1 as compared with current liabilities. Inasmuch as there is neither preferred nor funded debt, all of the profits after taxes and depreciation accrue directly to the stock.

(Halifax Chronicle, May 28th, 1925.)
MOTOR OUTLOOK CONTINUES GOOD.

Prospects Are Bright for Record Earnings This Season.

Boston, May 27—The astonishing vitality of the motor industry and its sound fundamentals have again been illustrated by its rapid recovery in recent months from the upset conditions of last year. The industry is never without its confirmed pessimists when the outlook is uncertain, and never fails to attract a host of enthusiastic followers when conditions are booming. Its answer to the dire predictions concerning its future which were rampant at this time last year is the new high record in monthly output in April with production in United States and Canada plants totalling 391,301 passenger cars and 47,844 trucks.

This output compares with the previous record of 358,685 passenger cars and 45,804 trucks established in May, 1924. Notwithstanding the April record, production of passenger cars in the first four months of 1925 was still below the total for the corresponding period of 1924, total passenger car turnout being 1,189,175 against 1,340,734 last year. With prospects of a new high record in the current month, however, output for the first five months will cross last year's figures and exceed any corresponding period in history, as output in 1924 began its decline in March, whereas all indications at present are that it is still on the upgrade.

Truck Production.
Truck production, on the other hand, is running substantially ahead of the corresponding period in 1924. For the first four months total truck output was 155,368 against 137,584 last year. While truck production in the past closely followed passenger vehicle output, the increasing use of busses in the past two years has tended to increase the proportion which trucks bear to passenger car output.

Record production figures are again suggesting to some of the more conservative automotive executives, who follow conditions closely, the prospect of overproduction. There seems to be less likelihood of this with its attendant losses this year than there has been in the past due to more stabilized manufacturing conditions and the fact that current production in a majority of cases is strictly in line with conditions in the retail field.

Reports from dealers throughout the country show that the public is absorbing new cars at a rapid rate, keeping stocks at a minimum. In some cases there is an actual shortage of cars with factories as much as two months behind in deliveries. While figures for the industry as a whole are not available, the results experienced by General Motors Corporation, which is doing more than 20 per cent. of the business in all price classes, are illuminating.

General Motor's Business.
In 1924 the corporation's dealers sold to the public about 70,000 cars, more than they purchased from the factory. In the first three months of this year, during the winter season when retail demand normally is low, there was a slight accumulation of cars as dealers bought 19,500 cars more than they sold. In the

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

June 10th—The weather doubtful all day, being now fine and now inclined to rain, so that I know not for a long time what I shall do, albeit at last make up my mind to playing at tennis, which I had not done since I left Corner Brook. But Lord, the dampness and the sultry heat do take all the pleasure from the game, to my great discontent. In my evening absent do see how divers people of Codroy do protest against the proposed direction of the road to be built in their district, being that they claim 'tis not in the best interests of the district. This the first thing of a public nature to trouble the Highroads Commission and methinks, by no means the last. My wife this day asks me that I should increase her allowance, and when I do seek to know the reason for it, she tells me that she pays my laundry bill each week and this so great as to make her short for the week. At this I did tell her that in the future I would wear the one top shirt for a whole fortnight that her allowance may no longer be diminished by my washing.

Do learn from Squibbs, who is but lately come from Corner Brook, how the opening of the mill will be about the 1st day of August, and divers people of importance do come from England to witness it.

January-March period, sales to dealers were 155,315 units against retail sales of 135,766. In April, with the start of the spring selling season, dealers sold 97,359 General Motors units and purchased 85,695, indicating that approximately 60 per cent. of the accumulation of the prior three months, or 11,700 units, was wiped out. This condition is not representative of every company engaged in the motor business. It is believed to hold good for a majority and shows stocks of unsold cars abnormally low throughout the country.

The healthy condition of the retail field spells large profits from quick turnover for the motor companies. In the first six months many new high records in earnings will be established when books are closed for the period. Manufacturers are not yet willing to prophesy concerning the latter half of the year, but it is pointed out that if prompt steps are taken to curtail production when retail demand tapers off, 1925 will prove the most prosperous year that the motor industry has yet enjoyed.

TRAINING FIREMEN TO FEAR NOTHING.

I had an opportunity recently of visiting the headquarters of the London Fire Brigade and of observing the system which converts a raw beginner into a thoroughly competent fireman. writes the T.B. man. The occasion was the weekly demonstration of fire tactics arranged for the benefit of any ratepayers who apply for tickets to see what is unquestionably one of London's most thrilling free sights.

Formerly recruits were selected only from among those who had served abroad, but now candidates are accepted from any occupation, providing they pass the necessary tests. I large number of would-be firemen are rejected on account of deficient chest measurements, while a rigid medical examination results in many others failing to qualify. Then there is a strength test, which consists of raising a weight of 240lb. to a height of twenty-five feet in forty seconds.

The GLORIOUS NAVAL EPIC
ZEEBRUGGE
The STORY OF THE MOST DARING EXPLOIT IN HISTORY

At The NICKEL MONDAY

"CHARLEY'S AUNT"
Is at the Crescent To-Day

The test is carried out by means of a special appliance.
Drills and Thrills.
If successful, a candidate undergoes a series of drills, as well as training with hook ladders, which enable walls to be scaled when it is impracticable to use a fire-escape. Another test that follows is one calling for considerable nerve, since it consists of jumping from a high window into a sheet held by a group of men below.
But it must not be supposed that a beginner is expected to undergo these ordeals straight away; on the contrary, he is given every opportunity of preparing for them by acquiring the necessary confidence.
From this point the recruit goes on to learn the proper handling of injured persons, how to enter a smoke-ridden building, or one from which poisonous fumes are escaping, and how to direct jets of water at varying pressures. This training occupies the better part of a year. Some men volunteer for smoke-helmet work, which necessitates them continuing their training at a rescue centre established specially for the purpose in a northern mining district. Others qualify for taking charge of motor pumps, operating searchlights, oxyacetylene plant, and similar tasks.
At the present time the London Fire Brigade is made up of 1,228 firemen, in addition to which there is an administrative, technical, clerical, and workshops staff, numbering 157 men. There are sixty-two stations in the London area, and three river stations, served by four river floats. Ready for use at less than a minute's notice are eighty-seven motor pumps, seventy-six motor fire-escapes, nine turntable ladders—wonderful new contrivances that enable escapes to be manipulated in any direction by one man—and sixty-two miles of hose!

To see what happens at headquarters when a fire alarm sounds is like watching a demonstration of magic. The firemen appear apparently from nowhere, sliding one after another down shining brass rods that run from the ground floor up through the floors above, so that no time is lost in descending stairs. Hardly do their feet touch the ground than their helmets and implement-strap belts are on; the motors throb into action; the big sliding doors open, and the escapes move out, clearing the streets instantly with their warning bells.
No one who has witnessed the scene can fail to be impressed by it, or by the quiet, unmoved demeanour of the men who are going out to face what may prove to be death itself.

Trains Stopped
by Locusts
One of the largest recorded swarms of locusts was observed by Dr. Caruthers, the naturalist, making way from Africa to Arabia across the Red Sea on November 25th, 1883. He estimated their number at twenty trillion; forty-four million tons, covering an area of 2,250 square miles; all day long passing a point.
The swarm that invaded Algeria "the grasshopper year," of 1864, was estimated to have totalled 50,000 live weight on the wing. A consequence of their devastation is reported as 200,000.
On the island of Cyprus, in 1853, female locusts laid five billion eggs; the total weight of the eggs was estimated as 4,000 tons.
In 1876, in Kansas (says a writer in the "Scientific Monthly"), they were numerous as to stop the trains greasing the track. Grasshopper grease is used now for lubricating aeroplane engines. Eighteen dried locusts were shipped from Senegal to Holland for the extraction of the oil, which is said to retain liquidity at very high altitudes.

THAT POWER WHICH CREATES ALL THINGS NEW.

"No man in love can ever forget the visitation of that power in his heart which created all things anew, when a single tone of one voice could make the heart bound and the most trivial circumstance associated with one form is put in the amber of memory; when he became all eyes when one was present and all memory when one was gone."—Emerson.

One surely does not think of Emerson as the prophet of love. And yet I know of no better description of the miracle which befalls the poor and humblest as well as the richest and the greatest, than that one paragraph.

Watching The Little Comedy. I have been spending the spring at a place to which a great many bridal couples come. It is such fun watching them, seeing the pretty trousseau gowns come out, and on some especially grand occasions, the wedding gown; hearing them say with an assumption of matter of factness and yet the tiny hesitation that gives them away: "My husband didn't bring his golf clubs because I don't play," or "My wife doesn't like to get up very early in the morning."

It is fun just to come in contact with them as they start on this new voyage on unknown seas.

Why All This Ceremony. Sometimes it has seemed a bit foolish to me that we should have so many ceremonies, so many customs—the trousseau, and the big party that is the wedding, and the honeymoon—to surround anything so simple as the wish of two people to live together. But I realize that it is after all a happy circumstance for it gives a chance to everyone for once in a lifetime to be important, to be fussed over, to have the center of the stage, to rise for a little while out of the humdrum routine.

Isn't it a happy circumstance, too, that nature planned the continuation of the race to be managed this way and save us this marvelous adventure of love and marriage to season the daily round of labor and rest?

STUDYING CONDITIONS IN CANADA

WINNIPEG, Man., May 30.—Emily Pinder, a graduate of the experimental farm of Leeds University, is in Winnipeg to begin a year's study of Canadian agricultural methods, with a view to creating a movement to Western Canada of English farm girls, on her return to the British Isles.

"Girls on the farms in all parts of England are intensely interested in Canada. They are seeking an outlet for their energies and would migrate to the dominion in large numbers if only encouraged," Miss Pinder asserted.

Many of these young women, she declared, had sufficient funds to start farms of their own, and would prove a valuable asset to the development of the Western country.

DOING WELL WITH FISH.—At Bay de Verde and vicinity the fishermen are doing fairly well and one man there has already 150 quintals codfish ashore. HEAL THYSELF.

WALT MASON

The doctor comes with acid question concerning what I drink and eat; for I have chronic indigestion, which tortures me, from neck to feet. He scolds me if he finds I've eaten some rich spaghetti from a can, or any bread that's white and wheat-on, and not composed of tasteless bran. And while he talks I hear him growling with pain, the duplicate of mine, the same disease that keeps me phoning all docs and druggists on the line. How does the doctor put it over, when he enjoys the same disease? How does he make me eat dried clover when I would fain have pies and cheese? The barber says, "Your hair is thinning, my tonic is the stuff you need; all kinds of plaudits it is winning, it's certified and guaranteed. The barren scalp this dose caresses, and if its virtues you enjoy, you'll soon have waving, raven tresses, like that famed lordling, Fauntleroy." I tell the barber to apply it, although I see that he is bald; his scalp requires a kindred diet. If his blonde locks would be recalled, how does the barber put it over? We see him do it every day; can any gent 'twixt here and Dover tell how he makes his tonic pay? The agent comes with books explaining just how to gather wealth untold; he has no slicker, though it's raining; his shoes are patched, his hat is old. He has no store of worldly plunder, he's bleak and shabby, fore and aft, and yet I buy his book and wonder just why I'm falling for his graft.

Trees it Pays to Plant
 TREY GROWING WALNUTS.

Aspens are being planted in forests in Scotland with the object of supplying wood in the future for British-made matches. The aspen is one of the poplars, and grows very rapidly, while its wood is ideal for making match-sticks. As a rule the man who plants trees cannot hope to see the fruit of his toil. He is working for his descendants.

But there is one tree which is an exception to this rule. That is the willow. At the present time there is a great revival in the willow trade, and eighty varieties are in cultivation in this country.

The best is said to be the "repens," or creeping willow, which produces canes almost as tough as wire. For the purpose of making fine basket work these canes are worth about £17 a ton. The "repens" grows wild on the sand dunes of the Somerset coast.

For Baskets and Hurdles. The ordinary willow, which grows in warty beds, gives a good profit to the grower. The canes grow ten or twelve feet in a year, and a bed goes on bearing for ten years before it needs replanting. The rods are peeled before use, and the smaller are sold for basket work. The larger are used for making hurdles.

Even the cricket-bat willow grows so quickly that it produces good timber within fifteen or twenty years.

Why do we not plant more willows? Here is a tree which grows quickly, produces quantities of nuts, and which the wood is extraordinary hard and very ornamental. One black walnut tree sold recently brought its owner £200. It was shipped to New York and cut up into veneer which eventually realized £12,000!

To bring out hidden loveliness

—a simple method of skin care

COMPLEXION beauty—fresh, radiant skin—is the birthright of every girl and woman. In most cases it but needs bringing out. It is often hidden by unconscious neglect.

Here is a simple method millions of women employ. Most effective of all beauty treatments. You can employ it tonight.

Cleanse regularly

Every night you must remove from the tiny pores the day's accumulation of harmful foreign substance: powder, rouge, dust from the air. If allowed to remain it ages, deadens the skin—often causing eruptions, blackheads.

But in cleansing the skin, beware of harsh methods—soaps that are as harmful to the skin as the dirt they remove.

The correct way

Before retiring, wash carefully with Palmolive Soap. Massage the creamy lather well into the pores. Then rinse. A second time wash and rinse. Finally, apply a bit of good cold cream—if skin is dry. That is all.

A natural, mild cleanser

Palmolive is the choice of millions of women for this treatment. Because it is a scientifically perfect blend of natural oils—from the palm, coconut and olive trees. No others are used. These—and nothing else—give Nature's green color to Palmolive Soap.

It is most unwise, in this treatment, to risk using soaps of which little is known. And Palmolive costs so little that you can well afford it for the bath—letting it do for your whole body what it does for the complexion.

Obtain a cake today. Tonight start following this method. In one week you will see the improvement—others will mention it to you.

PALMOLIVE

Melanin is the name given to the pigment which colours Negroes or the black cat, and this pigment will also be found when an apple or potato is cut in half and exposed to the air. It is not clear, however, what relation exists between the coloring matter of differently hued animals.

In studying white animals some interesting points arise. There are two sorts of white animals, as in the case of white rabbits (pure white and pigmented eyes) and albinos (which are devoid of pigment or coloring mat-

"Zeebrugge" Fine Film Spectacle to be Shown Here

Although the late war is relatively out of favor as a screen topic, and has been for some considerable time, no such ban could possibly apply to a film spectacle like "Zeebrugge," a British super production that comes to Newfoundland endorsed by the Sovereigns of Great Britain and the highest naval authorities.

The opening reels are concerned with the preliminaries of the attack, the necessity for which is explained by means of striking pictures of the sinking of British ships by German "U" boats. These views are actually from German cameras, and were obtained by the British when an enemy submarine was captured on the way to the United States.

Following this comes a series of scenes that show the grunts in training and the life of young volunteers during the waiting periods. Then comes the drama proper. The story is unfolded vividly and thrillingly. It is a moving sight to watch H. M. S. Vindictive sending marines over the Mole in the face of death-dealing fire from German batteries, and there are episodes . . . that have such intense realism that the watcher half forgets he is not seeing the actual thing.

"Zeebrugge" is more than a spectacle. It is a historical record the correctness of which is guaranteed by the British Admiralty, the Belgian Government and many individual authorities whose word carries weight.

It is termed an "Educational" production, but don't let this scare you. All who see it will agree that modern youth has come into a happy heritage if history is to be imparted to it by this pleasant method.

This remarkable film opens at the

To-Night's Great Attraction at the Nickel Theatre

"WIFE OF THE CENTAUR" AN UNUSUAL MOTION PICTURE.

With John Gilbert, Eleanor Boardman and Aileen Pringle in the leading roles, Metro-Goldwyn is offering a picturization of Cyril Hume's sensational modern novel, "The Wife of the Centaur."

Like the fabled animal referred to in the last word of the title, that was half beast and half man, the hero of this story is an author with a dual nature, who vacillated between the ideal and manly side that found expression in his marriage to a devoted young woman.

John Gilbert is dashing and romantic and his performance should appeal especially to the women. Eleanor Boardman, though she starts out like a flapper, finds a deeper note and is capable as the loving, trusting wife, while Aileen Pringle handles the role of a worldly woman with strong appeal unusually well.

To those who have read Cyril Hume's novel, "Wife of the Centaur," a sensational novel of a season ago, the feature picture now playing at the Nickel Theatre, will mean a great deal.

And as to those who haven't, the fact that King Vidor directed it, and that John Gilbert, Eleanor Boardman, Aileen Pringle, Philo McCullough, William Haines and others appear in it should mean as much.

Annual Collection

FOR BELVEDERE AND MOUNT CARMEL CEMETERIES.

Once more old Father Time has run his cycle, and it was announced from the Altars of all the Roman Catholic Churches on Sunday last, that the Annual Collection for the repairing and beautifying the cemeteries of Belvedere and Mount Carmel would take place on Sunday next. It is needless to say that this announcement is of the deepest interest to the Catholic people of the city—and to outsiders as well, as few of our established countrymen but have some dear and dear relatives or friends laid to rest in the holy ground of one or the other of these Cities of the Dead. From time immemorial our people have been noted for the care and attention displayed in beautifying the family plots of the dear departed, and the energetic Committees and caretakers of the two cemeteries are ever ready to do all in their power to meet the necessary requirements which increase as years roll on. New ground is being continually opened up, and this necessitates extra expense and extra labor, and it behooves our people to strengthen the hands of the Committees by responding to the call to the best of their ability, and with extra liberality. There is still a further incentive that the collection of 1925 should be a record one, because we notice by the organ of the Newfoundlanders in the United States, the "Newfoundland Weekly," published in Boston, that an Old Home Week has been started there, whereby large numbers of our exiled countrymen and countrywomen will visit the Old Home, probably in July, and, as natural to suppose, one of the first places they will visit, will be the cemeteries of Belvedere and Mount Carmel, in which rest in peace all that is mortal of their dearly beloved parents, brothers, sisters, relatives and friends. Then we feel it unnecessary to make any extended reference to this most important event, feeling fully convinced that the good people of the city of St. John's will respond with extra effort in making the collection on Sunday next a record one, and one that will enable the energetic Committees to place the last resting places of our dear departed in such a condition that not alone will be a practical proof of the love and veneration for those who have gone before us, but a credit to the Catholic people who have always taken the deepest interest in beautifying the grounds and surroundings of Belvedere and Mount Carmel.

Little Jack Rabbit
 by David Cory

"Here we are, safe and sound," laughed dear Uncle Lucky, stepping from the Luckymobile before the Rabbitville Savings Bank. "You can come in or wait for me."

"I'll wait out here," answered the bunny boy. "It's fun to watch the Policeman Dog stop the Rabbit taxis and help the bunny girls across the avenue."

"It won't be long," promised the old gentleman rabbit, fopping his back of which he was the President of the Welsh Rabbit Club. Oh, yes, Mr. Lucky Lefthind-foot was the richest and most respected rabbit gentleman in all Rabbitland.

Just then who should come down the street but Henny Jenny, a little red hood on her head and a basket of fresh eggs under her wing. "Hello, hello," shouted the bunny boy. "Where are you going?"

"To the Three-in-One Cent Store to sell my eggs," answered the pretty little hen. "I'll be back in a minute to put the money in the bank," and she turned the corner and was out of sight.

The next minute Peter Pig in his donkey cart came rumbering by. "Hello, hello," shouted the bunny boy. "Where are you going?"

"To the Three-in-One Cent Store to sell my apples," answered the nice old Pig, with a grunt and "Gidap" to his donkey. "But I'll be back in a minute to put the money in the bank," and around the corner he went in his creaky cart.

By and by who should come along but Squirrel Nutcracker, a big full nut over his shoulder.

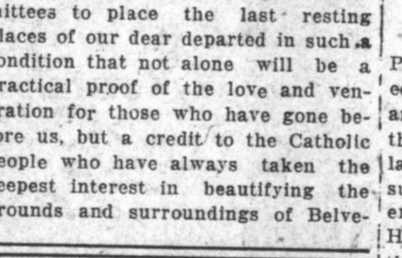

"Hello, hello! Where are you going?" shouted the bunny boy.

"To the Three-in-One Cent Store to sell my chestnuts," answered the little squirrel. "But I'll be back in a minute or three to put the money in Uncle Lucky's bank," and off he trotted and around the corner to that wonderful store to which all the feathered and furry folk of Rabbitland went to shop.

After a while and a whistle and a smile, just because he couldn't keep quiet very long, the bunny boy noticed a very big person coming down Lettuce Avenue. At first he thought it might be the Big Brown Bear, and then he didn't. The old bear's head could never tower above the electric lamp posts. No indeed.

"Who can it be?" shouted the little rabbit under his breath, and the next minute he shouted: "Hello, Mr. Ragged Rabbit Giant. Where are you going?"

Jimmy, who is the leader, is some dancer, and with Bert Howell, the Ukulelest, and Tom Short, the violinist, gave the passengers a wonderful treat of music and song. As will be seen from the ad, they open to-morrow night, and further particulars will appear in this paper.

The World's Smallest Republic

The quaint ceremony of the payment of tribute and taking the oath of fidelity to France has just been observed at Perpignan by the tiny republic of Andorra—the smallest republic in the world.

The annual tribute amounts to 360 francs, but as the expenses of sending a deputation to Perpignan would more than swallow up the amount of the tribute, payment is only made every two years.

The money was duly paid in the hard cash of the republic, which has no financial troubles, and not having had to resort to inflation, is one of the few countries which have managed to keep on a gold basis.

The Cult of False Values

London Morning Post: The tragedy of the cult of false values is not so much our indulgence of what is merely dexterous and sensational, but our ignorance of the achievement which endures beyond the caprice of the moment and our foolish indifference to men and women of high genius and noble character. We lose Sargent, but the crowd is too busy gaping at Tom Mix to give to the great artist and his work a minute's thought. Sir Eyre Crowe dies in harness, but he had no publicity agent and he goes to his rest unseen and almost unknown. We pass our days in admiring the wrong people and the wrong things, and when is the Isaiah to castigate our idolatry?

Africa's Diamond

During his African tour the Prince of Wales visited Magerfontein in the Transvaal, and to see the famous diamond mines there.

The tunnels in the mines are lighted by electricity and ventilated by compressed air, while the machines are some of the costliest in the world.

The temptation among the workers to steal a diamond is great, yet few do so.

Even if a native did steal a stone it would be of no use to him. He could not sell it, or dispose of it easily, for all diamond dealers must be registered and licensed, and no black man is allowed to offer for sale a precious stone to a reputable white man.

Not only has the Orange Free State some ten million sheep, one and a half million cattle, half a million horses, goats, a quarter of a million pigs, and also over ten thousand chickens!

Motoring Over the Railway Line

WINNIPEG, Man., May 30—A procession of tourists driving into the picturesque northland on their own family motor cars, fitted with flange rims to grip the rails of the Hudson Bay line, is the ingenious scheme proposed by R. M. Haultain, a railway construction engineer of Winnipeg.

Mr. Haultain believes that such traffic over the government railways will present no difficulties, he would placidly let the effect that the odd days of the month would be served for the northbound traffic at the seven days for southbound. Each car would be required to carry a flange rolling shoe, to provide for emergencies.

The investment on the part of the railway company in flanged trailers, steering gear locks, etc., would be negligible, declared Mr. Haultain, when compared with the increased revenue obtained from freighting cars to different points along the Hudson Bay line.

Mr. Haultain has complete confidence in the feasibility of the scheme and maintains that the North country would ultimately become the mecca of sport lovers, and attract tourists to the profitable advantage of the Canadian National system. The line could be placed in the revenue producing class as the "World's Most Unique Motor Highway," he contended. Mr. Haultain proposes to submit his idea to the railway authorities.

MINARD'S LIMENT FOR COLDS,

A Stranger's Appreciation

The following description of Newfoundland is taken from an article in the Literary Digest entitled "Glimpses of Summer Playgrounds." Obviously the work of a stranger, it may judge from certain errors which appear, it is highly appreciative of our natural attractions, and may prove more effective in removing the doubts of the sceptically inclined in this country than volumes written locally. The article reads as follows:

NEWFOUNDLAND.

The four-thousand-mile coast line indented with numerous fjords is comparable to Norway. One-third of the interior is occupied by innumerable lakes. Rivers ranging in length from seventy to two hundred miles, mountains rising to altitudes of 3,000 feet and vast forests of fir, pine, maple and birch, form a region favored by sportsmen. Game and fish are found in profusion. The summer climate is uniformly cool and invigorating. "Newfoundland" was first visited by white men when John and Sebastian Cabot landed on its shores in 1497. In 1538 Sir Humphrey Gilbert arriving at the present site of St. John's, the leading harbor, took possession in the name of Queen Elizabeth. In 1702 St. John's was alienated to the hands of the French and British. Newfoundland is now a Crown Colony. Among the objectives of summer tourists are St. John's on a majestic harbor; Placentia, ancient French capital; Bonaville, Port Blandford and Terra Nova in the east coast region; Grand Lake, Deer Lake, Bay of Islands, and St. George's in the western territory.

Access.—The main gateway is via Canadian National Railways to North Sydney, Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, thence by Newfoundland Government Steamer Line to Port aux Basques, an overnight trip, three sailings weekly. From Port aux Basques rail service through the interior is provided by the Newfoundland Government Railway. Direct steamship services between New York, Halifax and St. John's is given by Red Cross Line and between south and east coast ports by local steamers. Service also provided between Boston, Halifax and St. John's by Munson Line.

LABRADOR.

The coast of this far-flung Northland is indented with a succession of deep fjords flanked by rocky cliffs towering from 2,000 to 3,000 feet above the sea. While the interior regions are little explored and inaccessible, summer travelers will find the coast settlements of white fishermen, Indians and Eskimos of unique interest. Labrador is governed by the Dominion of Newfoundland.

Access:—The cruise to Labrador begins at St. John's, Newfoundland. Two routes are available. The Red Cross Line route skirts the eastern Newfoundland coast with calls at about thirty ports, thence across the Straits of Belle Isle to Battle Harbor, Labrador, thence along the Labrador coast to the port of Nain, the round trip occupying about 13 days. Another route is that from St. John's by Red Cross Steamship, calling at West Coast Newfoundland ports as far as Bonne Bay, thence by Newfoundland Government Railway Steamship Line direct to Battle Harbor.

STRIKING WILL MEET GEORGE COOK

George Youth and Fighting Australian to Clash at Boston, June 15. BOSTON, June 5.—Willie "Young" Stribling may have faced a lot of noise in his preliminary scramble to ring fame, but since he started to approach the fistic peak he certainly has asked no quarter from the best in his class. Stribling clipped the wings of many an aspiring bird in every division from the bantamweight ranks right down to the heavyweight division, in which class he recently made his debut by registering a knockout over Romero Rojas, the Chilean, who has stayed the distance with some big fellows considered in the running for heavyweight title.

Stribling's ambition now is to push out for the heavyweight wreath and from this distance he looks good to attain his goal. Of course Willie will be given plenty of rough treatment on his way up, which is no more than expected, but in view of his youth, speed and skill, he should make the grade.

Disposing of Rojas was quite an achievement, and his next venture for heavyweight distinction will see him in a meeting with none other than George Cook, the Australian. The Commercial A. C. yesterday clinched the match and will offer it June 15, at Mechanics' Hall.

The Indian Problem

Times of India: (Lord Reading, the Viceroy of India, is in England discussing the Indian constitutional problem with the Secretary of State.) Nobody with any first hand acquaintance with India can view with any calmness the gloomy foreboding the social conditions in which political machinery has to be created and worked. The growing Hindu-Mohammedan bitterness, the strengthening of caste distinctions and arrogance, the dismal apathy of all but a very tiny minority to questions apart from the daily bread and the daily routine, the vast and difficult economic problems and the rapid expansion of that perplexing question among the educated classes "what are we to do with our boys?" all these constitute a social background which might cause the reformer to despair at the very outset. To create prosperity and contentment in India is a task that the first step, as the Indian politicians declare, is in the sphere of politics and that a bold advance towards full responsible government leaves the major problem half-way to solution.

The Indian Problem

Times of India: (Lord Reading, the Viceroy of India, is in England discussing the Indian constitutional problem with the Secretary of State.) Nobody with any first hand acquaintance with India can view with any calmness the gloomy foreboding the social conditions in which political machinery has to be created and worked. The growing Hindu-Mohammedan bitterness, the strengthening of caste distinctions and arrogance, the dismal apathy of all but a very tiny minority to questions apart from the daily bread and the daily routine, the vast and difficult economic problems and the rapid expansion of that perplexing question among the educated classes "what are we to do with our boys?" all these constitute a social background which might cause the reformer to despair at the very outset. To create prosperity and contentment in India is a task that the first step, as the Indian politicians declare, is in the sphere of politics and that a bold advance towards full responsible government leaves the major problem half-way to solution.

Fair Week at the Majestic

Walter Hiers Greatest Comedy. Remember Fair Week back in the old home town and what it meant—rides, games, balloon ascensions, side shows with their hissing birds, bearded ladies' sword-swallowers, etc.? Well, they're all there in the new Paramount picture "Fair Week," which opens at the Majestic Theatre to-night. Walter Hiers is the star, supported by Constance Wilson, sister of Lois of "The Covered Wagon."

The "balloon ascension" is the real thing. If you've never even batted an eyelash at either screen stunt, you'll get a great kick out of seeing Hiers, as Slim Swasey, rescue a little girl hundreds of feet in the air while hanging by his knees from a trapeze.

Walter is the clerk, porter, bell-boy, janitor and what not of the most exclusive hotel in Rome, Mo.—exclusive because it's the only one. He plays solo trombone in the village band, too—solo because he's the only one. But, to be serious, we are sure you'll enjoy "Fair Week" more than any comedy you've seen in recent months. Even when Hiers tries to be serious in the picture you'll almost split your sides laughing. He is serious at times, however—witness the fight in the belfry with the bogus clergyman, who might have gotten away with just trying to rob the bank, but when he tries to take Slim's best girl in the bargain—that's too much. And what a fight it is! Of course Hiers gets the girl and the money back.

There are 4836 laughs in "Fair Week"—one for every foot.

Rob Wagner directed the production. Walter Woods wrote it. Mary Jane Irving is the little girl in the lead. Others include Carmen Phillips, J. Farrell Macdonald, Earl McCall, Knute Erickson and Jan Kackley.

Why Cut Down the Amplification?
EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

Now and then some good circuit is developed, discovered, brought out or re-hashed (they are all the same nowadays) in which the inventor has really accomplished something. Signal strength is much better, music much louder and reception clearer on the headset but when we try it on an audio-frequency amplifier we get a lot of distortion, and so does the "inventor". The obvious thing is to re-design the audio-frequency amplifier so that this distortion will not appear but the signal strength will come up as it should. Right here is where they fall down.

Take the Cockaday circuit. It's a good one. There is plenty of volume available and it is selective. But why, oh why, do we have to spoil the audio amplifier by using a few tricks to cut the distortion and cut down the volume instead of making the amplifier right in the first place?

There are two things which are being done right and left and which ought to cease. One is the insertion of a shunt capacity across the secondary of an audio transformer. With certain transformers this shunt capacity helps "flatten out" the curve and will prevent distortion. An audio transformer which requires a condenser for this purpose is no good in the first place. But that is not why we are told to put the condenser across. It is to prevent distortion due to overloading of the transformer. This method failing, we are told to put the condenser across. It is to prevent distortion due to overloading of the transformer. This method failing, we are told to put a resistance across the secondary (and sometimes the primary too). True this resistance will cut down distortion. It also cuts down the strength of the music and kills amplification to some extent.

If you can't get good undistorted music from your amplifier without these shunt condensers and resistances across the audio-frequency transformers you should "look to work on your audio transformers." They are probably bad—very bad.

Trouters Return With Full Baskets

Messrs. "Jerry" Savage, Wm. Spent, Patrick and William Grace, who spent several days fishing at Nine Island Pond, Briggs Junction, returned home Tuesday night with a splendid catch of fish. For the first few days they had poor luck owing to the cold weather, but when the change took place on Monday there was good sport. The average run trout was half a pound.

A CHIMNEY BLAZE.—At 10.30 last night the Central and East End fire trucks were called to the residence of Mr. J. Lindberg, Military Road, where a slight blaze was caused by soot igniting in a chimney. The blaze was extinguished before any damage was done.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL.—St. George's Field, this evening at 7.30, C.L.B. vs. Cadets. General admission 10c., Children 5c., Grandstand 10c., extra.—June 11, 1925.

IN THE REALMS OF SPORT

C. C. AND C. L. B. WILL FACE OFF TO-NIGHT.

The C.L.B. and Cadets are the contesting teams in the Senior League football fixtures at St. George's Field to-night. The C.L.B., with the addition of "Bill" Dwyer and Hubert Burridge, are a great strengthening to that team, therefore a lively game can be looked forward to for the points to-night. The following are the probable line-ups:—

C. L. B.—Goal, F. Lush; backs, M. Noonan, J. Hussey; halves, T. Good, W. Dwyer, H. Burridge; forwards C. Keats, F. Burridge, S. LaFosse, T. Hall, J. Bellows.

CADETS—Goal, E. Kavanagh; backs J. Brown, T. Delahunty; halves, L. Kavanagh, J. Canning, J. Madden; forwards, M. Flynn, J. Adams, W. Callahan, T. Duggan, M. Maddigan.

ST. BON'S SPORTS A GREAT SUCCESS.

Despite the threatening attitude of the weather yesterday afternoon, thousands of supporters of St. Bonaventure's College, and others interested in keen athletic contests, thronged the grounds surrounding the Campus to witness the school sports, and they were rewarded not only by the splendidly contested events, but they had as well very pleasant weather for their first outing for the season.

Among the visitors were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allard, accompanied by Major Shand, His Grace the Archbishop, The Very Rev. Mons. MacDermott, and many other prominent Church and State dignitaries.

The programme was started promptly, and as no time was lost between the events the interest of the spectators was maintained until the very last item, which finished "according to plan," at 6 o'clock.

There was close competition in nearly all of the racing events, a feature of which was the athletic skill shown by the boys of the Junior classes. Points were allocated to those who secured places in the Senior, Intermediate and Preliminary events, to decide the winner for the all-round medal. The honors went to Edward Martin, Gregory Power and Joseph Kent, respectively. An event which was closely watched and thoroughly appreciated by the crowd, was the figure marching by company of senior students. It occupied about fifteen minutes of advancing in line and in column, wheeling in mass formation, counter marching, forming in figures, and it concluded with a spiral, which looked as if it must lead into an impossible position. At the precise moment, however, the movement was reversed, and not a man out of place, the company filed off the field. The movements were admirably executed and thoroughly deserved the applause which it received.

The Swedish drill, by the Primary Class and the Dumb Bell exercises by Preparatory Class A., were carried out with precision and it was apparent even to a casual observer that the youngsters were not performing exercises which had been prepared for the occasion, but were engaged in what was a part of their every day work. To the Brothers and Captain O'Grady, who are responsible for this part of the boys' training, great praise is due for its thoroughness and general excellence.

The prizes were presented after each event by His Grace the Archbishop, who complimented the young athletes on their prowess. During the evening the Mount Cashel Band was in attendance and under the able leadership of Capt. Arthur Bailey, discoursed an excellent musical programme. The Ladies' Association, who looked after the teas and various stalls, met with remarkable success, everything being practically disposed of and a handsome sum realized. The grounds were gaily decorated with bunting and the whole scene was a very pretty one. The following is the programme of events, together with the winners:—

Perry, J. Barron, F. Pippy, S. P. Cullen, W. B. Skinner, J. Howlett, G. Muir; also Mr. T. Delahunty, who acted as referee for the fives.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL.

MT. CASHEL 3

GAELIC 0

The second game of the Junior League fixtures, took place at St. George's Field last night, between the Gaelic and Mount Cashel teams. There was a good attendance, and to the great surprise of many the Mt. Cashel boys romped home the victors by a score of two goals to nil.

The night was ideal for football, and from the moment the ball was put into play, a good clean exhibition followed. The first goal came after five minutes of play, when C. Power, for Mount Cashel, did the needful with a very pretty shot. The Gaelic team showed a reversal of form from then until the end of the half, and confined the ball to their opponent's territory, but were unable to send home the equalizer.

Second Half

After a brief breathing spell, play was continued, and saw the Gaelic boys making a terrific onslaught on Mt. Cashel goal. A good chance was lost when Jackman kicked the ball from close quarters, which barely grazed the upright. The game continued fast, with flashes of combination play by both forwards, while a feature of the game was the splendid defence set up by the Mt. Cashel boys. For the next fifteen minutes play was all over the field, with honors pretty evenly divided, and all attacks were warded off, within shooting distance of goal. The game was temporarily halted when P. Duggan, Mt. Cashel, collided with an opponent and suffered injuries to his leg. He made an effort to continue play, but was advised by the referee to leave the field. On the ball being put into play a scrimmage occurred near the Gaelic goal, and No. 2 goal was recorded for Mt. Cashel, G. Murphy being responsible. Towards the end of the game a splendid exhibition of football was witnessed by both teams, but full time sounded without further scoring. The game ended Mt. Cashel 2 goals; Gaelic 0.

The Gaelic team played in new uniforms last night.

KIA-ORA ORANGE SQUASH

A most delightful beverage at lunch or dinner is "KIA-ORA" Orange Squash made from fresh orange juice and sugar, rich in flavour of sweet oranges but not too sweet. Everybody likes oranges—everyone will like "KIA-ORA" Orange Squash. It is simplicity itself to serve. Simply add water for still Orangeade, soda water for Orange Squash, and for quick service empty the whole or portion of a bottle into a large jug or bowl and add water. Decorate it with slices of orange and lemon and in other ways.

A large bottle will make sufficient Orangeade or Orange Squash for 24 to 30 glasses. Perhaps Orange Squash is most popular with younger people. Not only is it agreeable to drink, but it is wholesome and beneficial and can be used with advantage as a beverage at lunch and dinner.

Caribou Launched

The new steamer for the Caribou service, was launched at St. John's, on Tuesday. The christening ceremony was performed by Miss Bennet, daughter of the Hon. Secretary, according to a report received yesterday from the Commissioner at London. The steamer states that the whole affair was a great success. The work of fitting the engines, fitting up the accommodations, etc., will now be completed at Schledam, and the ship is expected to leave for this port about the end of July. Chief Steward Pike will be in command on Saturday en route to Schledam to supervise the fitting up of the accommodations on the ship.

Keep for Twenty Years!

DOCTOR ON HEALTH-GIVING SLEEP.

The man of sixty who awakens suddenly to the fact that he has spent the majority of these precious years in the unconsciousness of sleep is apt to regret that he has not spent a prodigious waste of his life. Nevertheless, he can comfort himself with the reflection that had he not had, approximately at least, the hours of blissful oblivion he would not be alive to worry about the matter. Sound sleep for a certain number of hours in every twenty-four hours is vital to good health as is a daily diet of good food, fresh air, sunlight and exercise.

Opponents of Summer Time declare that it "deprives people of their natural sleep." That is, however, simply a question, since nobody has yet defined when we "ought" to sleep or for how many hours. We know, of course, that people who are physically and mentally lax do not sleep, while, on the other hand, the mentally alert and active are apt to deprive themselves of the amount of sleep that is vital to health. We are also aware that both that "little more" and "less" tell in the long run with cumulative effect on the brain and nerves, seriously impairing the structure and functions of both, and injuring health and shortening life.

People seem to think that there is some ruling on the vexed question of how many hours a healthy adult should sleep. If all human creatures were in every respect alike this would be easy; but since we have members of the human family who never will be, exactly alike, the question of sleep is another man's poison, may also read, "One man's sleep is another man's insomnia" and vice versa. Some require more and some a great deal less sleep than others.

A healthy man, sleeping independently of the help of any narcotic, in a adequately ventilated room, knows when he has had enough sleep when he wakes automatically feeling refreshed in spirit and body. On the other hand, the sleeper, who deliberately keeps or "dozes" until he is called to a knock or a clock, can scarcely tell whether he has slept too much or too little. If he feels bright at the moment he has probably hit the mark; if he does not, then he doesn't know whether he has had too little or too much oblivion.

A man's daily output of nerve energy is the measure of the period required for its restoration during sleep. Hence the great diversity in the hours required for slumber by different individuals. As illustrations of this diversity it is usual to quote the hours of sleep required by men such as Napoleon, John Wesley and others who lived in the days when the nervous system and the nervous system was nothing compared with what it is today.

Sleeping Round the Clock.
To compare like with like we must take the habit in men of our own generation. There is for example, Lord Leverhulme, whose average time for sleep is five hours, with a maximum of six and a minimum of four. At the other extreme is Sir William Osprey, whose average seems to be ten hours.

Mr. St. Leo Scratchley sleeps nine hours and would like to sleep ten. Whenever possible, he sleeps another hour during the day. Sir Eric Geddes sleeps a minimum of eight hours necessary, and occasionally takes the opportunity of sleeping up ten to twelve hours. Lord Haldane sleeps between seven and seven hours.

Mr. G. K. Chesterton takes as much sleep as he can get, going to bed very late and sleeping very late. Lord Bessborough is never quite healthy or happy unless he gets eight, or at least seven, hours' sleep; he does not sleep in the daytime if he can help it.
