SCHOOL TRUSTEE SCORES SCHOOLGIRL DANCES

The stern censure of the school girl dances held in school buildings under the supervision of the civic clubs department was voiced by Rev. A. Berlis at yesterday's property

The committee of the board of education, in making the authority of school principals, Rev. Mr. Berlin declared that the girls danced until 9 o'clock at night, when they were met at school doors by boys who had been waiting for hours waiting for them. That the girls were undisturbed by their mothers and unready for school work the next morning. In the question of resuming the parks department the use of the schools will be taken at next week's regular meeting of the board of education.

The Farmers' Coming In.

The report of the special committee of the Ontario legislature named by the Drury government on the Hydro-Electric system apparently suggests that the rural districts now being supplied with power and light should get these advantages at the expense of the municipalities now in the pool. It is hardly fair to hold out to the farmer that the municipalities which financed the more than $100,000,000 to build the system should now divide up the cost by raising their own prices to let in others at a figure less than cost. The farmer ought to have the benefit of light and power, but he should pay his fair share for the privilege. If Sir Adam Beck had also been permitted to carry out his Hydro radial program he would ultimately have gridironed the province with both power, light and transportation, and the cheap power and light would have followed the radials in districts not yet served. The Ontario farmer is entitled to take a broader view of the question than that taken by the committee of the provincial parliament. And he is entitled to at least equality of treatment. The World believes that Sir Adam Beck and Premier Drury will evolve a working plan. But this is the great thing, that everyone now wants public-owned power and light and traction.

When all the facts are spread out it may appear that the legislature would do a substantial injustice to the municipalities who years ago committed themselves in large amounts for the Hydro-Electric system, and that it would now be unfair to let others take advantage of their co-operation and commitments and get energy at the expense of the municipalities who took all the risk at the start. But let us get all the facts first and justice may be done to all. The way out is a bigger and wider Hydro policy.

The Government and Our Arctic Oil Fields.

The World believes that the Ottawa government is doing the right thing in revising its regulations governing the leasing of oil lands in the Northwest Territories.

There must be equal treatment to all; no preference given to big concerns who may have little fellows may follow in their trail and locate alongside. That has always been the case. It may take a lot of adventure and of money to find out the extent of the oil pools, and it is better for both the country and for its revenues to let all able to get to the Arctic circle and have money, provisions, and drilling plants to have equal opportunity.

No big monopolies must be created; and judging from statements sent out from Ottawa the big ones were asking to keep out the little fellows. The Standard Oil Co. is no better than anyone else. This country has the first call, and if there is anything Canada wants today it is all the money and employment and business that a new oil field can generate.

The Cattle Embargo.

Eighteen years ago the British authorities imposed the so-called cattle embargo. That is, they required all cattle imported from the United States and Canada to be slaughtered within forty-eight hours after arrival. The reason given was that pleuropneumonia was epidemic among cattle on this continent. The Canadian government and the Canadian cattle-breeders indignantly protested, and it is now, at least, freely and frankly admitted by the British authorities that Canadian cattle are entirely free from this disease. The embargo, however, is not lifted, because it serves as a measure of protection for English and Irish cattle-breeders.

The demand that this embargo be lifted has been vigorously voiced of late by Lord Beaverbrook, Sir George Perley and Hon. Manning Doherty. They are sanguine of success, but if they fail in their efforts let us remember that, while we have a perfect right to protest against the embargo as a sanitary measure, we have no right to complain against it as a measure of protection. We believe in protection on this side of the water and we keep out British goods by a high, stout tariff wall. Many British commodities which go into the United States free of duty are heavily taxed entering Canada.

We must, after all, respect the autonomy of Great Britain, which has at least equality of nationhood with Canada. Meanwhile, would not Canadian farmers be well advised to finish their cattle for slaughter in this country? Our western farmers have been sending a lot of cattle to the American market, and may soon have to ship to Toronto should the Chicago market be closed to them. We want better stock in this country to begin with, and we want cattle brought in better shape to market. The observations of Hon. Dr. Toimie, Dominion minister of agriculture, on this subject are worthy of attention. Possibly the Dominion government should do more than it is doing in improving the herds of Ontario. Certainly they cannot go too far in this direction to please Dr. Toimie. And, by the way, we do not hear Dr. Toimie saying much about this British embargo upon Canadian cattle.

In the meantime, the Canadian farmer ought to finish his own cattle for the home market or for export as dead meat to Great Britain.

We imagine our farmers have a reason both against stock feeding and against dairy farming. What is it? That is one of the problems that Mr. Doherty and his government must tackle. A lot of our farmers would sooner kill their calves than raise them or increase their dairy herd; and a lot of them object to feeding cattle for the market. What's the reason?

If we cannot send our lean cattle to England, why not bring in a lot of British farmers to go into the stock and dairy business? The work is hard, but money can be made out of it. Perhaps we have not enough co-operation in our live stock business. Perhaps our farms are too small. But it is up to our own governments to find a solution of the problem.

Is the work too hard, or the returns too small, or what is the reason why we try to blame another country that sees fit to close its market to our lean cattle? We must work out our own salvation.

Wishing the Ross Rifle on Armenia.

Few Canadians know much about Armenia except as a country where people are always getting massacred. Last year, however, Canadians contributed to an Armenian relief fund. All contributed in the most interested way, yet, thrilled with the thought that the poor people of Armenia would hold in grateful remembrance the generosity of Canada. Some large contributors may even have pictured himself some day visiting the capital of this distant country, being met at the station with a brass band, being driven with the mayor thru festooned streets to the city hall, and there most importantly the presentation of an illuminated address and a gold-headed cane.

Alas, for the vanity of human wishes! The Armenians, we learn, are harboring a bitter grudge against Canada and the mother country as well. They blame us for the triumph of the Bolsheviks. For years the Armenians had been periodically massacred by the Turks, and in return did a little massacring on their own account. It was not until after the war that the Bolsheviks got into the game and aroused the resentment of the Armenian people. It was complained that several of these Bolshevik massacres were attended by fatalities, and the Bolsheviks, unlike the Turks, objected to anything in the way of reciprocity. A new national sentiment developed in Armenia after that country became a republic, and an army was mobilized. The army having no munitions, the Armenians appealed to the British government for a supply of rifles. The rifles arrived, being apparently sent as a free gift to the new republic, and were distributed to the army. A battle was arranged for without delay with the Bolsheviks, and then the trouble began. It was a one-sided battle, which wiped out the Armenians without inflicting any casualties upon the enemy. So complete was the victory of the Bolsheviks that the Armenian dead, and these brave soldiers and their rifles were buried together.

Now, a contributor to The Manchester Guardian intently explains that. The war office took the opportunity of unloading on the Armenians the Canadian Ross rifles. Hence we may expect the Ross rifle, long the stormy petrel of Canadian politics, to pass into the politics of Armenia. No doubt it will precipitate long and dreary congressional debates, enlivened only by copious quotations from the published speeches and writings of Sir Sam Hughes.

Let Them In.

The finding of the coroner's jury that two women died thru the carelessness of two doctors does not settle, nor does it touch the point of greatest public interest raised by these deaths. The thing that should now be cleared up is the question of the rectitude of a public policy which allows curative remedies to be excluded from the country by the protection of the patent license of a domestic manufacturer of a similar preparation.

Remarked in Passing.

The ancient and honorable company of hide-and-necks do not seem to be getting on very fast. They have a big program ahead of them, and time is short.

New York man now in trouble blames whiskey for his having three wives. We've frequently heard of a man blaming it for losing the one wife he had, but this is a new one.

This idea of making the city man pay for the farmer's power is going to be a great help to Mr. Morrison in preventing the further development of Mr. Drury's "people's party."

Will The Farmers' Sun hasten to shout three cheers for the latest Hydro committee report to be issued—you bet yeh.

ASK PROVINCE TO PAY ENTIRE COST OF ROAD

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 27.—At the afternoon session of the Frontenac county council a resolution was passed to petition the provincial government to assume the whole cost of construction of the provincial highway. Three reasons were given, that the municipality has no jurisdiction over the kind of road that should be built, nor any part in its construction; that the proportionate cost of the road passing thru any municipality would be too great a burden for it to bear, and that the geographical position of the several counties thru which said road passes makes the burden unequally divided.

The counties thru which the road passes will be asked to co-operate with Frontenac county in this matter.

The Passing of a Chief

Written by William Henry Taylor for Typographical Union No. 51.

Toronto printers now sincerely mourn. For one just gone to his celestial bourn; There Brother Hadden may present his "card," And from the Great Recorder win reward; As chief and guide he was the poor man's friend, And to the sinner would his counsel lend.

Of noble presence, courteous and refined, His countenance was index of his mind. In converse he would wisdom's gems unfold, If you gave silver, he returned you gold. But when the waves of rude debate would rise, His urbane tact the storm would hypnotize; In office he was just exact and clear, And as a pilot safely led he steer. Our ship thru channels with serenity, And taught and acted true Fraternity.

These simple lines are prompted by the thought, That friendship can be won, but never bought; More precious far than gold, or place, or power, Is Reputation, which survives the hour. When "Time" called him to pass from pain and grief, So let us all revere our veteran chief. Young printers, listen! emulate his life, And seek no crooked path to selfish strife, For Character will win in any race, Then let not sin brand wrinkles on your face.

Our Union now will hear his voice no more; He's gone to join the "chapel" on that shore Where weary printers have a holiday. In God's own "Home" with him now passed away. His chapter is concluded with "The End"—When Good Sam Hadden died we lost a friend.

Rhyming Views On Daily News

By GEORGE H. DIXON.

A brave, bad, bandit, tough and bold, Who now is nearly twelve years old, Who has been a wicked piece, and led the cops an awful pace, has now at last been sent to earth by "dicks" who sure have proved their worth. Out in Chicago, Illinois, this daring bold intrepid boy, has held up people by the score, and terrorized the city sore. (This crime wave is an awful thing, when even kids a pistol swing. Who knows but what the time will be, when boys of age two and three, will stalk abroad on hold-up bent, and swipe from us our every cent. It soon may be that when at night, we wander forth to haunts of light, we see a kid upon the street, well turn and in a rapid "fire," "Police!" and "Help!" Our future looks up dark and drear unless these kids are put to bed, and not let roam around at night, to aid adults cast a fright.)

BUILDING MATERIALS STILL HOLDING UP

Drop in Lumber Not Followed and Lumbermen Are Impatient.

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—While the prices of lumber have been substantially lowered, the prices of other building materials have not. Lumbermen are still at the peak or not much reduced. W. P. Dutton of this city claimed in a discussion today at the convention of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association. He maintained that the prices of these materials ought to come down and that the international committee of the lumbermen all over the continent.

A big convention will be held, he said, in Chicago next week, with the object of bringing pressure to bear on other building material manufacturers to get prices down to where they ought to be.

Canada's Representatives On Fisheries Committee

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—An order-in-council has been passed appointing the following as Canadian representatives on the international committee on marine fishery investigations: W. A. Found, assistant deputy minister of fisheries; Loring C. Carleton, S.B. legal adviser, department of external affairs; Dr. A. G. Huntsman, of the Canadian marine biological board.

This committee, together with similar committees from Newfoundland and the United States, will determine what measure of co-operation is desirable for the scientific investigation of the deep sea fisheries adjacent to both coasts of this continent, and what general investigations should be undertaken. Recommendations will be submitted to the respective governments.

The international committee on marine fishery investigations was organized in September last, when fishery experts from the United States, Newfoundland and Canada met in Ottawa.

"And so you trusted the miniature to me—a perfectly sensible idea," said Dick. "You said that you and Mrs. Rutledge had a quarrel about the miniature. Why was that? Wasn't she pleased with it?" "Oh, yes. She was quite crazy about it; but Dick said she was giving it to Mr. Schubert Fenderson. She was—well, Dick, she was pretty horrible about it; said she had me in her power, and more, rather ugly things. It didn't make any difference to me. I wouldn't let her do so compromising a thing if I could help it. So I took the miniature to my room and hid it in my trunk with that of Aunt Louisa. When I went to get them to give to you, I wrapped them both in the paint rag." "Good Lord! Then the red sneeze!" "Was paint, of course, you dear old snorer." Nora also said that when Dick had found her sobbing there in the woods near Altaville, Vincent Quaid had just asked her to marry him and she had refused—because she loved Dick.

The moon light of Nora just then and there was but one long shadow on the road.

CHAPTER XI.

O'Malley Dreads the Curtain. The next evening O'Malley sat quietly in his room. The green shaded electric light hanging above the table threw grotesque shadows upon walls and floor. It shone brightly on O'Malley's enigmatic face and watchful eyes.

Presently Peter Clancy opened the door softly. "All right, captain," he whispered.

A few moments later a loud knock startled the silence.

Again Clancy opened the door. "Mr. Schubert Fenderson," he said in his ordinary manner. "May he come in and—"

"Certainly. How do you do, Mr. Schubert?"

"How are you, captain? Sorry to have bothered you with my call. I have a letter for you from Mr. Schubert Fenderson."

"But the younger man shook him off with fierce determination. "If he's in there, I'll have him if the whole police force try to stop me. I warn you, O'Malley. I've a long account to settle with him."

The old captain did not flinch. "You'll not pass me till I'm ready, Mr. Rutledge," he said sternly. "I'll have my eye on you till you're over his flashing eyes."

"When I start a thing I put it thru in my own way, and I'll have my eye on you till you're over his flashing eyes."

the shadows and held up a warning finger.

O'Malley raised his eyebrows and then nodded comprehendingly. His face was intent and frowning, but gave no clue to his thoughts.

There was the sound of a light footfall on the landing, followed immediately by a clear, purposeful knock on the door. Peter, who was standing close by, opened it and admitted Hammond Rutledge.

"How are you, Clancy? Good evening, Capt. O'Malley."

Rutledge came swiftly forward, with long, even strides. Peter, having acknowledged the greeting, unostentatiously disappeared.

"Very good of you to come, Mr. Rutledge," said O'Malley, gravely. "You know Mrs. Wentworth, the bar name may be unfamiliar."

With a gleaming frown Rutledge looked from the old man to the girl and bowed slightly.

"I'll tell you about that later," O'Malley went on. "Do you know Mr. Schubert?"

"I haven't that pleasure and I'm very glad of this opportunity of making his acquaintance," said Hammond Rutledge, holding out his hand.

"Do not mention it," he said. "I did only what any man would have done in the circumstances. Then turning to the captain, he said: 'Is there anything more that you wish to know, Capt. O'Malley?'"

"I'm going to see you, Mr. Schubert, to remain for a little while. Please be seated, and you, too, Mr. Rutledge. He dropped down into the chair. "No, Mr. Schubert, there is nothing more which we wish to know. The case is complete."

Rutledge started forward in his chair. "You mean—" he exclaimed.

O'Malley nodded slowly, once, twice, thrice. "We have found the criminal who murdered your wife," he said.

"Pardon me," cried Rutledge, leaning to his feet. "Where is he? Tell me! I'll go in there myself, I'll have him!"

He started toward them, but O'Malley caught his arm. "Wait a moment, Mr. Rutledge," he exclaimed warningly.

But the younger man shook him off with fierce determination. "If he's in there, I'll have him if the whole police force try to stop me. I warn you, O'Malley. I've a long account to settle with him."

CLASH WITH JAPAN IS GROWING FEAR

Renewal of Anglo-Japanese Treaty Live Topic on Pacific Coast.

Vancouver, Jan. 27.—(By Canadian Press).—Renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty is a very live topic on the Canadian coast just now. The Vancouver Sun today says. If United states, Japan and Great Britain carry on a great naval program one certainty is there will be war on the high seas. Billions spent for armaments by these three nations only means another reign of terror and suspicion throughout all nations. Glasgow, N.Y.

navies, breed national suspicions; suspicions cause further measures of preparedness, and so the currents of doom move on, at first parallel, then converging, finally coming so close to touching that any movement whatever involves the peril of war. What the world needs is a new rule, giving life instead of the old rule bringing death. The hope of the world is peace, and the dread of the world is war. Leadership alone is not yet apparent.

Hallifax, N.S., Jan. 27.—That all the books relating to the amounts paid the sub-contractors and the hours of work done on the St. Margaret's Bay contract had disappeared from the offices of the Bedford Construction Company, the contractors, was the statement made this afternoon before the royal commission investigating highway expenditures in Nova Scotia by William

C. MacDonald, the engineer employed by the company to superintend the carrying out of the work on the St. Margaret's Bay road. Last week the commission had decided that these books were pertinent to the inquiry.

as evidence of the amount of work actually done and should be produced in court if required.

The witness stated that the last time he had seen them was on Friday night last, when they were in course of being audited by William Wilson, of Montreal. He had tried to locate them since, but no one, including V. J. Cavicchi, the head of the firm, seemed to know where they had gone.

To Answer Fraud Charge

New Orleans, La., Jan. 27.—Charles Glenna Collins of London, a former lieutenant-colonel in the British army, lost his fight in the United States district court here today to prevent his extradition to answer charges in Bombay, India, of having defrauded merchants out of part payment on an expensive pearl necklace.

Counsel for Collins announced later that the case would be taken to the supreme court. Meanwhile, Collins is at liberty under $10,000 bonds. The case has been pending for more than two years.

CATTLE MARKET WAS VERY, VERY SLOW

A Good Many Still Unsold—Small Meats Are Steady.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards yesterday were comparatively light, around 600 cattle, the fresh loads were coming in later in the afternoon, but these receipts and the left-over stuff was more than enough for all demands. The market started slow and ended slow, but at that it was about steady with Wednesday's decline, which was pretty bad. At the close a good many cattle were left over, and in view of yesterday's slow trade it does not look very bright for the balance of the week.

Good heavy steers weighing around 1000 to 1100 lbs. were selling from $9 to $9.50 and choice, handy-weight butchers from $8.50 to $9.25; mixed butchers, $7.25 to $8.75; and medium butchers, $7.25 to $8.75. The bulk of the trade is very hard, and almost any kind of bulls are hard to cash in, the demand being very poor.

Stockers and feeder trade, like all the rest, was very slow, and on a par with the rest of the stock. Choice milkers and springers are finding a market, but we would not say at satisfactory prices, considering the big decline. A real extra choice one would bring $125, but it would have to be extra choice, too. The general range of prices, running from $75 to $100 apiece, with the common bringing $50 to $60.

The small meats are about steady, lamb, anything, a shade weaker, with the best market unsold, packers bidding on the basis of $14 to the farmer, $12.50 to $13.50 and $11.50 fed and watered.

GENERAL SALES. At the Union Stock Yards yesterday the United Farmers sold: Butchers—3, 800 lbs. $10; 2, 700 lbs. $9; 1, 600 lbs. $8; 1, 500 lbs. $7; 1, 400 lbs. $6; 1, 300 lbs. $5; 1, 200 lbs. $4; 1, 100 lbs. $3; 1, 000 lbs. $2; 900 lbs. $1; 800 lbs. $1; 700 lbs. $1; 600 lbs. $1; 500 lbs. $1; 400 lbs. $1; 300 lbs. $1; 200 lbs. $1; 100 lbs. $1; 50 lbs. $1; 25 lbs. $1; 12 lbs. $1; 6 lbs. $1; 3 lbs. $1; 1 lb. $1; 1/2 lb. $1; 1/4 lb. $1; 1/8 lb. $1; 1/16 lb. $1; 1/32 lb. $1; 1/64 lb. $1; 1/128 lb. $1; 1/256 lb. $1; 1/512 lb. $1; 1/1024 lb. $1; 1/2048 lb. $1; 1/4096 lb. $1; 1/8192 lb. $1; 1/16384 lb. $1; 1/32768 lb. $1; 1/65536 lb. $1; 1/131072 lb. $1; 1/262144 lb. $1; 1/524288 lb. $1; 1/1048576 lb. $1; 1/2097152 lb. $1; 1/4194304 lb. $1; 1/8388608 lb. $1; 1/16777216 lb. $1; 1/33554432 lb. $1; 1/67108864 lb. $1; 1/134217728 lb. $1; 1/268435456 lb. $1; 1/536870912 lb. $1; 1/1073741824 lb. $1; 1/2147483648 lb. $1; 1/4294967296 lb. $1; 1/8589934592 lb. $1; 1/17179869184 lb. $1; 1/34359738368 lb. $1; 1/68719476736 lb. $1; 1/137438953472 lb. $1; 1/274877906944 lb. $1; 1/549755813888 lb. $1; 1/1099511627776 lb. $1; 1/2199023255552 lb. $1; 1/4398046511104 lb. $1; 1/8796093022208 lb. $1; 1/17592186044416 lb. $1; 1/35184372088832 lb. $1; 1/70368744177664 lb. $1; 1/14073748835532

The annual meeting held on Wednesday last. The applications for new insurance and revival of policies amounted to a total of $5,056,410, while the insurances issued and revived amounted to $8,974,641, a gain of more than twenty per cent. over the amount for 1919. The insurances in force at the end of the year were $17,583,656, a gain of $4,880,985 over the year.

The net premium income after deducting premiums paid for reinsurance was $28,819,818. The income and other resources, $142,185,243, making the total income $171,475,655.

Payments to policyholders and are covered most thoroughly and annuitants, including death claims, matured endowments, dividends on policies, and surrender values were $237,475.33. The death claims for the year were $76,558 under 40 policies.

The net reserves held by the company for its policy and annuity contracts now amount to $2,686,208.

The assets of the company were $1,000,000 at the end of every year since 1900 and includes first mortgages on real estate, policy loans, bonds and investments. At the annual dinner held following the report, the president gave a full and interesting account of the company's information and among other things said:

"The mortality experience during the past year has been favorable, being 45.03 per cent of that expected. The gross sum of $76,558, as compared with $88,470 for the year 1918 and $150,120 for 1919, the year of the flu epidemic, may interest you to know that we have not had a single death since 1919."

claims amounted to over twenty millions of dollars, and the influenza claims nearly thirty millions, making a total of over fifty millions. The wide and widespread distribution of claims and the confidence thus created, have done more to popularize life insurance than any amount of advertising progress could have. The usual lies could have done; Our own company alone was called upon to pay claims resulting thru the war and the total of about $200,000.
