Lyons-Wright

St. Mary's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Wednesday morning, when Miss Mary Josephine Wright, daughter of Mrs. Robert Wright, was united in marriage with Mr. Harold V. Lyons, of Portland, Me., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lyons, of St. Stephen, N.B. Rev. Fr. Gray officiated, the bride being supported by her sister, whilst Mr. John Lyons, brother of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony the wedding party retired to the home of the bride's mother, where breakfast was served, and the young couple left by motor for Perth, to catch the express to Montreal, and thence through the New England States and to their home in Maine. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, prominent in the display being a cabinet of silver from St. Mary's Church, where the bride had been the very efficient organist for some time. The best wishes of hosts of friends follow the young couple.

Motor Car Plunged into Lake

Cobalt, June 22.—Speeding down grade on the Haileybury wharf in their car, which got beyond control of the driver, five persons were thrown into Lake Temiskaming, last evening about 10 o'clock, and three of them were drowned. Cecil Eplet, of New Liskeard, a cripple, aged 17, was driving, and onlookers state the car was going at a fair rate of speed. He had with him in the car Louise and Alma Wyatt, aged 19 and 17 respectively, and Gladys Kennedy and George McMillan, all of New Liskeard. Coming down on to the dock, Eplet apparently tried to make a turn, and either he lost control of the machine or the wheels skidded on the wet surface of the planks forming the floor of the wharf, and the car plunged over the edge, going down in 25 feet of water. Spectators went promptly to the aid of the unfortunates, and McMillan and Miss Kennedy were rescued. These two were apparently riding in the rear seat, and rose to the surface. The others did not appear at all. Dragging operations were continued all night, and all three bodies have been recovered.

Gave Liquor to Horse

Mr. Thos. Egan had a horse that became overpowered with the heat in the hot hot spell and as it was about to collapse, he sent over word to Mr. Dan Egan who has a book on the care of animals to see what the book said in a case like this. So they looked it up, and it said when a horse overdone with heat give him liquor. Thomas followed the directions and much to the surprise of all who witnessed this the horse picked itself up and is as well as ever.—Cobden Sun.

Family Have Narrow Escape from Poison

Six members of the family of W. J. Fisher, of Winchester, ex-Warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, had a narrow escape from proume poisoning when they were taken ill after partaking of canned salmon at the evening meal. Nurse Shenneth, who was a guest at Mr. Fisher's home at the time, was the first to show symptoms, and later six members of the family became very ill. The service of apophysian were promptly secured on the first evidences of the poisoning being discovered, and this doubt saved very serious consequences.

The rush of strawberries on to the market drove the price down from 35 cents to 20 cents a box at London, to 18 cents at Brantford and to 18 cents at Tillsonburg.

BAD FIRE AT BRAESIDE

The Gillies Sawmill and C.P.R. Station Destroyed

Yesterday afternoon the big sawmill of the Gillies Bros. Co. at Braeside was completely destroyed by fire, and the hundreds of men employed will be thrown out of work for the season or obliged to seek it elsewhere. The origin is reported to have been an overheated bearing under the re-saw in the centre of the mill, and the flames spread so quickly that the fire fighting apparatus was unable to overcome its lead, and the entire mill was destroyed.

The C.P.R. station and freight sheds, the blacksmith shop and some box cars also burned but the lumber yard was saved.

The loss will be up in the hundreds of thousands, mayhap a quarter million, and there is a partial insurance.

As yet the company have not decided as to when they will rebuild, as most of the stockholders are residents or ex-residents of Carleton Place, we naturally feel that the misfortune comes close to us and we sympathize sincerely with the losers.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white silk with veil and orange blossoms. Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly will make their home in the Derry.

Successful Advertising

Wrigley's manufacturers of the famous Spearmint Chewing Gum, have just issued a unique circular to the retail trade, which tells one of the most wonderful advertising experiences that we have ever read. Wrigley's Gum has been introduced to the public in Canada almost exclusively by newspaper advertising. Figures given show that it is sold by more than 80,000 Canadian retailers, that it is advertised in 267 newspapers, magazines and farm papers, from Newfoundland to Vancouver. These publications have a total of 3,147,623 circulation each issue, which means 165 million Wrigley advertisements go out to the public yearly through these papers. With this tremendous urge, it is no wonder that the public has responded so heartily in buying Wrigley's Gum. It is barely ten years ago that this message began to go out to the readers of the newspapers. Every year the sales have increased. Every year more papers have been used. To day the advertising is larger than ever and the selling cost less. Recently a Western editor made a comparison between Wrigley's advertising and the advertising, or lack of advertising, of some of his local merchants. He published a statement to the effect that Wrigley's spent more money with him in a month than some of his local merchants in a year, yet his circulation was infinitely more valuable to the local man than it could be to Wrigley's. Wrigley's could only sell chewing gum. The local merchant has hundreds, or may be thousands of items that interest the purchaser once he comes into the store. Advertising is needed to arouse interest, to create the desire to buy, in order that the merchant may make the sale. Then he must deliver the goods or the service which will induce the customer to come again. So with Wrigley's the chewing gum must be good or the customer will not wish another package. It seems to us such an advertising story as this is of interest to every reader of this paper, whether he wants to sell a stock of merchandise or a flock of chickens, whether he needs a page advertising or a liner want ad. Advertising will help to sell goods, rent your house or get you a job.

Life Saving Device for Airmen

Diving head first from an airplane one thousand feet up, Major Ordo Lee, the parachute expert demonstrator of the British Air Force, and holder of the Air Force Cross, and Miss Sylvia Boydton, British woman parachute expert, gave a convincing demonstration of aerial life-preservers at the Atlantic City air port. They flew up to one thousand feet with the noted aviator Eddie Stinson, and after making a circle over the air port they dove headfirst from the airplane. Their ship was stopped with hardly any check by the parachute, which opened immediately, and they landed lightly on the air port a few hundred feet from the spot over which they dove from the airplane. The feat was witnessed by representatives of different countries and aeroplanes in the field.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

WHY SOME WOMEN GROW OLD

One reason why the average woman wears out, grows old and plain before her husband, is that, through a mistaken idea of duty, she lays out for herself at the beginning of her married life a scheme or plan of duty and employment for time, every hour filled with work, with rare and short periods of relaxation. This she follows religiously for years, feeling that she has done her duty, because every household event occurs regularly and on time, while she soon becomes merely a machine, a thing without life of itself or volition. She settles into her rut and goes around and around on the same track everlastingly.

Can any woman keep brightness, originality of thought and speech, or even mere prettiness with such a life, and without those things—how can she keep her husband and growing children full of loving admiration, which is the strongest chain by which she can bind them to her? How bright and jolly the neighbor's wife seems when she calls. In nine cases out of ten it is because the surroundings and talk of your home are variety to her and rouse her to originality and brightness of speech. In her own rut she may be as dull as dishwater.

"Where shall I draw the line?" says the anxious parent, who is solicitous for his boy's future. Give the young man the sympathetic companionship which he will find elsewhere if not at home; encourage him to seek elevating and refining associations; impress upon him the fact that many amusements are bad only in connection with the associations and the atmosphere of temptation which leads to greater evil; demonstrate to him that the principle of "getting something for nothing" is bad, wholly bad, and if followed will lead to his moral and physical ruin; make home such a bright, congenial place, that he will find more pleasure there than in the haunts of wickedness; more than all else, let him have in you an example of uprightness and moral health. Be sincere, for he can penetrate your disguises and despise you if a hypocrite.

True happiness lies not in doing for ourselves alone, but in the performance of every duty that will ameliorate the condition of mankind in general. It seems to have been part of the Divine plan to put man into the world in such a condition that from his birth to his grave he is dependent on some one else. When we look around us and see our every interest interlocked and lives and hearts overlap each other to such an extent that we possess some degree of benevolence, and were it not for this Divine plan the pathway of many would be cheerless indeed. When we consider the frailty of human life and the common lot of all, we often wonder at the indifference of some to attain that greater happiness and nobler life, which can only be found in the golden text. "Do unto others as you wish to be done by."

It is very hard to convince young persons of eighteen or twenty years of age that their tastes are not as fully matured and judgment as ripe as is one of forty.

Be content to do the duty that lies nearest you, and look not to man for praise and approval. 'Tis not so much what we do as what we are, and as to "what we are" we speak most forcibly through our actions; but we cannot act unless there is something within that impels us to action. We are touching our fellow beings on all sides. They are affected for good or evil by what we are, by what we say and do, even by what we think and feel.

To be a mother, to be some man's inspiration, to live in the heart of the children, to be the center about which cluster life's holiest associations, surely this is the greatest blessing heaven can give, the greatest honor earth can bestow. When the sorrows and sacrifices, the joys and joys, dreams, hopes, ambitions, of prerogatives of motherhood are thine; woman, thou hast come to thy kingdom. It is very important for the comfort of a home that harassing and depressing subjects of conversation should be excluded, except when it is absolutely necessary to talk about them; and that a habit should be formed of talking cheerfully and good humoredly, and of refraining from what jars on other people, such as rudeness, impatience and fault finding.

The person who without puts a thorn in the loving heart of a little child will feel the rankling of that thorn in his or her own heart some day, in a woman's later repentance.

Only as each man or each woman performs his or her personal duty in any department of life, can that department be lifted to a higher plane.

Concerning the Tablets Mrs. W. H. Deater, Corson's Siding, Ont., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have found them an excellent for the little ones and would not be without them." They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

War Diseases Ended Board of Education by Science

Dr. Alexander Lambest, of New York, reviewing the work of the Medical Corps in the war, told delegates to the American Medical Association's seventh annual convention at Atlantic City, that modern medical and surgical methods have brought war to an actual contest of fighting ability by eliminating disease, the greatest cause of death in former conflicts. "Except for the influenza, preventive medicine drove off all the great plagues and scourges that follow armies, destroying their vitality and decreasing their fighting power." Influenza with pneumonia, occurring as an epidemic, sweeping over the Eastern and Western Hemispheres, has been the epidemic that has baffled medical science. It stands out with startling distinctness as the one uncontrolled epidemic.

COLORS HAVE CALL

Saffron or Marigold Yellow and Blue, Popular Shades.

Children's Garments Full of Life; Bloomers to Match Necessary for the Small Girls

Vivid colors are predominant in the development of spring and summer dresses for children. A very bright saffron or marigold yellow and an equally bright blue are the two colors that are notably popular, and these are quite often combined in one dress. The sketch shows a dress made of a heavy serviceable cotton material in yellow, with guimpe of blue cotton voile or handkerchief linen. Velvet ribbon in a shade to match the guimpe is run through openings made for the purpose on either side of the front panel of the dress and tied in a smart bow at the back. A little embroidered motif in blue on the yellow dress gives an additional trimming touch.

These two striking colors are used for children of all ages, rompers for a two-year-old being very effectively shown in both blue and yellow, and tiny little first trousers are made of yellow cotton and buttoned securely to frilled blouse of blue handkerchief linen or chambray.

In making summer clothes for the girl of four to eight years, the sensible mother will see to it that every little dress has at least one, preferably two or three, pairs of bloomers to match. Bloomers are preferable to petticoats for the small girl.

Cotton voile, both in all white and in printed patterns, is a material very much in use for children's dresses for the coming summer, and pongee, a fabric that wears splendidly and launders equally well, is also being very much used. The pongee sleeveless frock, with bloomers accompanying it, of course, may be worn with cotton or linen guimpe, in white or colors. Such an outfit will be found not only serviceable but smart as well.

CARE OF VELVET IMPORTANT

Soft Brush Should Be Used in Cleaning; Olive Oil When Renovating by Steam.

Velvet has been in high fashion. And velvet shows the dust. Two facts that somehow have to be reconciled to each other.

The only way to keep velvet looking well is to give it careful and continuous attention. To begin with, buy velvet of good quality, and whenever possible get the sort that water will not spot. Even if it is to be used for a house gown, where it will never run the risks of raindrops, it may easily be spotted with a drop of water from a glass, or with a drop that drips from the fingers when they emerge from a finger bowl or a wash basin.

Velvet never should be brushed with a stiff, coarse brush. The pile is easily injured; in fact, the short, soft threads that make it up often can easily be pulled from their foundations with the finger nails, and a coarse brush is almost sure to loosen them. A soft velvet brush is the sort to use. Even better than a brush is a piece of crepe or crinoline. The rough fabric seems to get all the dust from the velvet and clean its inmost fibers.

Use a few drops of olive oil rubbed by means of a piece of soft flannel over the surface of the steaming cloth. Continue this movement until the cloth is quite dry and the velvet too is dry. The wrinkles will by this time have disappeared and the velvet will be smooth and fresh.

Light-Topped Shoes Pass. Light-topped shoes are almost out of date now. Little by little they have given place to the single-toed shoes and all black is very much in favor again.

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER DIVORCED BY WIFE

London, June 18.—The Duchess of Westminster yesterday was granted a divorce from the Duke of Westminster, on charges of desertion and infidelity. The biggest society crush in years crowded the King's Bench Court to hear the testimony. The Duke was not represented by counsel. He entered a denial.

Lord Coleridge, judge of the divorce division, presided. There was no jury. The duchess took the witness stand and occupied a quarter of an hour in presenting her story. She said their early married life was happy, but that in 1909 they became estranged.

"After that the duke paid no attention to me," she said. "He stayed out at night. I begged him to come back for the sake of the children and keep up appearances, but he refused."

"At 11:30 every night a motor would call and take him away. He would return about seven o'clock in the morning. He agreed to allow me £11,000 a year and free use of his yacht."

The duchess said that in 1915 the duke tried to have her evicted from her house. Her statement contained no mention of the two children, provision for whom was made in 1913, when they became wards of the court.

The duke is one of the wealthiest men in Great Britain, his income being estimated at $5 a minute. He was an officer during the war and the duchess a nurse.

No More Mal-De-Mer

According to the New York correspondent of the Times, Major Lemon, an American army doctor who has just returned home from France, after a very rough passage across the Atlantic, claims to have discovered an infallible preventive against sea-sickness. This is simply to pack the ears with sterilized gauze. Major Lemon starts from the well-known fact that the organ of equilibrium is situated in the ear, and he argues that the sickness produced by the movements of a ship in a rough sea is caused by the sensation of irregular levitation in the ear. Major Lemon (who has asked to be allowed to remain in the American army for a short time to enable him to continue his research) induced a number of other persons to try his method on the voyage from France, and he affirms that the cure is positive. If that is really the case, Major Lemon must be accounted a public benefactor. Presumably his method could be used against air sickness also. It is a curious fact that some of the "preventives" already in use are said to affect the ears. But Major Lemon does not, apparently, explain how it is that many people assert that they have been seized with sea sickness while asleep in their bunks. So much has been done in recent years to make travelling comfortable that it seems to be high time that the problem of sea-sickness (which deters many people from travelling) should cease to be a monopoly of the comic papers.

The City of Versailles

Versailles is a large city of 50,000, 12 miles from Paris. Three hundred years ago it was a sandy waste. Its palace, with the surrounding beautiful park, originally cost Louis XIV, "the Magnificent," $100,000,000, the bills for which he destroyed to prevent his people's learning of his extravagance. There, on September 3, 1783, the victorious American Colonies and Great Britain signed the treaty of peace wrung from the latter country by the war of the Revolution. And there, on January 18, 1871, the victorious Prussians wrested from France the treaty of peace which cost Alsace-Lorraine and $1,000,000,000. The exultant Germans had crowned Wilhelm I, King of Prussia as Emperor of Germany in the same hall just twelve days before. In that same palace the great Peace Conference is being held.

Harold Gilloghly of Kingston, sixteen years of age, was drowned at Yonker, where he had gone to attend a camp meeting.

Major-General Mewburn, Minister of Militia introduced a bill to provide for a permanent force not exceeding 10,000, instead of 5,000, as at present.

The nitrogen plant at Trenton, formerly operated by the Imperial Munitions Board, was destroyed by fire. "What would become of the country if we worked only forty-four hours a week?" enquires a farmer. He adds: "I don't see why a man, except in real heavy work, should not work ten hours a day. Work was intended by God to keep us straight. If a lot had more work, there would not be so much devilment in your cities."

George Ade was inveighing bitterly at the Chicago Athletic Club against the proposed bachelor tax. "By the way, George," said a broker. "I hear that Blane eloped last month." "Yes," said the humorist. "So he did. With a rich widow." "How is he taking marriage?" asked the broker. Mr. Ade smiled. "According to directions," he answered.

One of the greatest dangers to health comes from food contaminated by disease-breeding germs. Is your milk supply safe from the filthy house-fly? With a temperature as low as 36 degrees in the Barnet, germs cannot multiply. How Do You Hoe Your Row

Say, how do you hoe your row, young chap

Say, how do you hoe your row?

Do you hoe it fair,

Do you hoe it square,

Do you hoe it the best you know?

Do you cut the weeds, as you ought to do,

And leave what's worth while there?

The harvest you'll garner depends on you;

Are you working it on the square?

Are you killing the noxious weeds, young chap?

Are you making it straight and clean?

Are you going straight,

At a hustling gait?

Are you scattering all that's mean?

Do you laugh and sing and whistle shrill,

And dance a step or two,

As the row you hoe leads up the hill?

The harvest is up to you.

—New York "Sun."

Twelve Reasons for Home Buying

1.—Because loyalty to a community by its men and women is the first essential to national patriotism.

2.—Because the interests of the home dealer and the home consumer are mutual—what hurts one must hurt the other.

3.—Because the home business man pays the lion's share of assessment rates and all public welfare donations.

Whereas the foreign dealer contributes nothing, and has absolutely no interest in your community other than the cash he takes out of it.

4.—Because prices of farm and town property and local markets go down to zero where there is no healthy, progressive community trading.

5.—Because the fundamental law of commonwealth economy is to spend your money where you have earned it.

6.—Because your home business man is entitled to your cash. He stands behind the goods he sells, while you have no redress from being "stung" from outside dealers.

7.—Because spending your money away from home is like sowing grain in a stranger's field so that he may reap the harvest.

8.—Because when you drain your community by diverting legitimate channels of trade you also drain it of its young men and young womanhood of all energy and substance for development.

9.—Because the more money circulating in a community the more valuable property becomes, the higher are wages and the better the general conditions that prevail. "In unity there is strength," and united home buying builds up a community bulwark that will weather the severest economic storms.

10.—Because it is a duty you owe yourself, to your family, and to prosperity to build up your community so that it has a wholesome atmosphere and is advancing with the times instead of drifting into the habits of sloth, ruin and decay.

11.—Because you must send cash in advance to the big city dealer and you have no opportunity to inspect the goods. Apart from the hundred and one good, sound reasons for home buying, it never pays to buy a pig in a bag or a suit of clothes in the dark.

12.—Because continued patronage of the big city catalogue concerns is a short-sighted, unprogressive, and in the long run an economically suicidal practice.

Richest Negress Left Estate of Million

The title of "Richest negro woman in the United States," which was held for many years by Madame C. J. Walker, manufacturer of a hair ointment, widely popular with her race, will pass to her only daughter, Mrs. Lela Walker Robinson, under the terms of her will which, it was learned here, was filed in Indianapolis. With the exception of two trust funds of $100,000 each for the benefit of charities, distant relatives and friends, Madame Walker left her entire estate to her daughter. The estate is estimated at $1,000,000. Among the charitable bequests was one for the establishment of an industrial and mission school in Africa.

I find the tablets a harmless and efficient cure for all kinds of headache." 25 cents per box—at all dealers.

WHEN TO CUT ALFALFA FOR HAY

(Experimental Farm Note.)

The yielding capacity of alfalfa depends on quite a number of factors, one of them being the time when the crop is harvested. The time of harvesting, indeed, effects the yielding capacity per acre of alfalfa more than it affects other hay crops for reasons which will be explained briefly.

It is unfortunately a rather common practice among farmers to delay the cutting of hay crops too long, under the mistaken idea that by waiting a little after that the crop has reached its best stage from a quality standpoint, larger and consequently more remunerative crops may be realized. This practice, however, works out rather the other way in alfalfa.

It is generally held that most satisfactory returns, both from the standpoint of tonnage per acre and from the standpoint of hay quality, are obtained if the alfalfa is cut when, as it is generally expressed, it is "one-tenth in bloom." This expression really means that it is time to cut alfalfa just after it has started to come in general bloom. The blossoming is, in fact, on the whole a rather good indication of the proper time to cut alfalfa; but it is not always so, for in certain seasons especially if wet and cool weather prevails in the early part of the summer, the blossoming period may be considerably delayed the best time for cutting the alfalfa for hay. Besides, it is not always easy to determine when an alfalfa field is "one-tenth in bloom" and, in case of doubt on that question, the alfalfa grower may easily be tempted to wait a little too long.

A far safer indication of the best time to cut for hay is given by the coming on of the second growth from the crown of the roots. The second growth generally begins to shoot just when the plants begin to blossom, but sometimes a little earlier. As the second growth is the one on which the size of the season's second crop of alfalfa depends, it follows that the first hay crop of the season should be taken off before the second growth has reached such a development that there is any risk of it being cut off with the first crop. And this might easily happen, if the cutting of the first crop is delayed too much, the result of course being that the return from the second crop of the season is apt to become smaller.

Under the circumstances alfalfa growers would be well advised not to delay the cutting of the first crop any time after that the second growth begins to come on. A simple examination of the crown of the roots will show how the new growth is developing and the cutting of the first crop should take place before it is high enough to be caught by the mower.

Enumeration for the coming referendum on prohibition is to be commenced within the next two weeks in the larger cities of the province. Hon. I. B. Lucas, Attorney-General, it is understood, called a conference of the Toronto members of the legislature in order to discuss arrangements for making an immediate start, and it is thought that it will be possible to have the chief enumerators for each of the Toronto ridings appointed at once. Under the plan to be put into effect the Government will be ready to hold the referendum early in October.

Couldn't be Wrong

Mrs. Wiseman was one of those women who always know. Whatever the subject under discussion, she had her own opinions, and made other people have them too.

"Joshua," said she to her husband one evening, "I saw in this morning's paper that old Mr. Biffer died on Saturday."

"It was a mistake," mumbled Joshua, as he bent down to unlace his boots; "he died on Friday."

"But the paper said Saturday!" repeated Mrs. Wiseman firmly. "I know it," persisted Joshua, "but it was an error in the print."

"I thought that at first," said the lady decidedly; "but I got half a dozen copies of the paper, and it was the same. And they certainly couldn't have made the same mistake over and over again like that!"

TUESDAY, JUNE 24TH, 1919

THE area of Canada under field crops has grown from 3,268 acres per 1,000 of the population in 1890 to 5,095 per 1,000 in 1917, as shown by Dominion census statistics.

ALL that the law allows in the way of organizing for the sake of collective bargaining is labor's right, and neither can nor should be withheld. The public is sympathetic with labor as never before, provided that labor keeps within the law. But also American sentiment requires that the law should settle differences of opinion between parties to labor contracts, in default of agreement between them. Labor is free to disagree with capital, but when labor sets itself against the law, or above the law, public sentiment will shift its position from support of labor's rights to support of the law. Experience has taught that war is the only substitute for law, and war is abhorrent.—New York Times.

"The truth is—we may as well face it frankly—they (the Government) were endeavoring to please the manufacturers. So far as the manufacturers are concerned, there never was a time when, if approached earnestly by a tactful Government in a mood to reduce the tariff, they would have more readily accepted tariff reductions. For several reasons they would have been agreeable. One is that they know if the industrial situation continues their investments will be jeopardized. Also they should be willing to-day at least to commence to stand alone. The manufacturers surely realize the rising tide of opinion in Canada that they have actual need of the business they carry on. And if they continue in their stiff-necked position of giving nothing and taking everything they can get, it is not reasonable to fear that greater ills may one day come than they may now realize."—Fred Pardee, M.P., in the House of Commons.

ONTARIO'S LIQUOR VENDING PLAN MAY BE HIT

It is believed that the action of the Senate in defeating the prohibition bill extending the orders-in-council for one year after the war will seriously affect the Ontario Government's new system of handling liquor.

People who now have to pay a dollar for a prescription for liquor may, when the war is over, write to a Montreal or Hull agent and order "wet goods" when the interprovincial shipment of liquor becomes legal again. It is believed that the doctors will get their liquor the same way, instead of buying it from the Government agents.

Although the Ontario Government, which took over the sale of liquor at the beginning of the present month, reduced the prices below those asked by the former vendors, it is believed that the distillers, by selling direct to the consumer, could undersell the Government and cripple the system.

CANADA GETS GIFT OF 107 AIRPLANES

Vancouver, June 18.—That the British Government has donated to Canada, free of charge, 107 airplanes, is the news received by R. J. McLaren, Vancouver, from his son, Major Donald Roderick McLaren, D.S.O., and bar, M. C., with two bars, French Legion of Honor, and Croix de Guerre, with palms. He is a liaison officer with the Royal Air Force.

The Canadian Air Force is to attempt a flight from coast to coast and the free gift of these machines will, it is believed, lead to the Dominion Government taking steps to incorporate the Canadian Air Force as one of the permanent branches of defence.

The British War Office announces that between the date of the armistice and June 16, 108,641 officers and 2,779,707 men were demobilized.

Riot insurance to the aggregate value of between fifty and sixty million dollars has been taken out by Winnipeg firms and individuals.

Capt. Asa R. Minard, former Chief Inspector of Dominion Police for Military District No. 1, and organizer of the "American Legion" (97th Battalion) in Toronto early in the war, pleaded guilty to three charges of forging endorsements to pay cheques for members of his staff.

The death occurred at the House of Providence, Kingston, of Rev. Father Duffus, one of the best known priests in the archdiocese of Kingston. He had been in ill health for some years. He was appointed parish priest of Merrickville and in 1891 prompted to the rectorship of St. John the Baptist church, Perth, and later returned to Kingston.

Enquiries have been sent out to various Canadian car builders by General Manager of the Canadian National Railway for the construction of 20 steel postal cars and 20 steel first class coaches. The postal cars are to comply with the latest Canadian railway mail service department specifications and also those of the United States railway mail service. They will be 73 feet six inches in length.

RIOTING IN WINNIPEG

One Man Killed and Many Seriously Injured.

Mounted Police Charged Mob Which Had Developed Out of "Silent Parade," and Following the Trouble Near the City Hall the Mayor Read the Riot Act—State of Siege in Western City.

WINNIPEG, June 23.—On the authority of Brig.-Gen. H. D. B. Ketchum, general officer commanding Military District No. 10, there was a total of 20 casualties among strikers, returned soldiers, sympathizers and onlookers in Saturday's fatal riot. Of these, one Mike Sokolwki, registered alien, was instantly killed by a bullet wound through the heart. An unconfirmed report said that two aliens who were shot and are now in the hospital are in a precarious condition.

Of the 17 other casualties Robt. C. Johnstone, returned soldier, was shot through the left thigh and right knee, but will recover. A young onlooker, Jack Barrett, was shot through the right thigh, and will also recover. Another man is said to have been shot through the foot.

The tragic events of Saturday afternoon covered not more than half an hour. At half-past two, perhaps 20,000 persons were massed on Main street with their focus at the City Hall. For the most part they appeared to be strikers, with among them several thousand returned soldiers, and they were congregated to witness or take part in the "massed silent parade," which it was announced Friday night at the meeting in Market Square of returned soldiers would be put on by returned soldiers alone Saturday afternoon as a last and final effort to break down the barriers the men claim have been erected against the propaganda of the general strike in Winnipeg.

On the whole this great mass was orderly. It contained many women, evidently of the strikers' families, but no children. Just before half-past two, a small riot developed on Market Street, just east of the City Hall Park, around a man who was drunk. Leaders of the crowd besought the men involved to quit, as they would spoil by their rowdiness the whole effect of the silent demonstration.

A twenty-five minutes past two a street car passing on Main street only made its way through the crowd amidst continual boing and with great difficulty, the trolley several times being pulled off the line. At half-past two the word passed along the crowd gathered in the wide thoroughfare of Main street on each side of the car tracks—"fall in." At that very moment Portage avenue car No. 596 approached from the north, about half-full of passengers, mostly women and children. As it reached Market street it was greeted by a rolling roar of boing, its trolley was pulled off the line, and some stones were thrown. Women and children got out of the car and dispersed among the crowd, so far as it is known unhurt. The conductor and motorman remained by the car, the trolley cord having been cut, it remained a fixture at what immediately was to become a scene of battle.

Almost simultaneously with this, instantly the cry went out from the crowd: "Here comes the bloody soldiers," and around the corner of Main street from the south, opposite the Union Bank, swept a single line of red-coated Royal Northwest Mounted Police. They covered the wide street from gutter to gutter, dividing as they passed the derelict car. Immediately an angry cry was heard from the mob and an occasional missile was thrown at the soldiers. A hundred yards behind this first rank came a second rank of khaki-clad horsemen. The mob surged in on the flanks of the horsemen and a free throwing of bricks, bottles and any other available missiles began, many of the horses and men being struck. The crowd, however, north several blocks and then after a short interval returned again with drawn truncheons, and dividing up into columns of fours on each side of the street, sought to drive the mob back on to the sidewalks.

Except for the efforts of a lieutenant-colonel in uniform and on foot who mixed with the crowd and sought to deter them from violence, but was lost in the throng, it had now become a passionate mob, determined on teaching the military a lesson. From alleyways nearby bricks had been torn up and hurled at the backs of the horsemen. They cantered south again and were lost to sight around the corner of Main street.

Left thus to themselves a few minutes the crowd proceeded to take vengeance on the street car. The conductor and motorman had now fled. The doors were now smashed open and a few minutes later the car was set on fire, this only after unavailing efforts on the part of the crowd to overturn it.

The Riot Act was read at 3.30 o'clock. Mayor Grey was attacked on two occasions while reading the act, but his assailants were beaten off by officers with revolvers. A detachment of Royal Northwest Mounted Police swung into action as the Riot Act had been read and charged the crowd. Attempts to dismount them or to knock them out with stones, bricks and bottles failed, but the crowd refused to disperse.

It was then that the order to use their guns was given, and a volley rang out. The bullets went over the heads of the crowd and there was a general bolting into the side streets. Some of the more adventurous of the mob persisted in their attacks on the police, and it was during this fighting that the casualties occurred. The dead man is an Austrian.

Feeding for Better Wool

There are few details of the sheep business more worthy of the interest and study of the farmer than the subject of increased and better wool production and just in proportion as he brings his mental and physical energies to bear along these lines will he reap his financial reward. It is only within recent years that practical sheep breeders and scientists have realized the relationship that exists between feed consumed and wool production. It is now known that a well fed sheep produces both a heavier and a better fleece than an under-fed one and experiments have proved that the extra weight and quality of wool pays for the extra feed, besides giving a heavier and more thrifty sheep. When a sheep is well nourished and thrifty, the wool fibre pushes out strong and full, and there is sufficient flow of oil from the root to keep it bright and smooth, but when poorly nourished, the wool fibre is poorly nourished also, and it is thin, weak and dull. The man therefore who wants to produce either much wool or good wool must keep his sheep well fed. Though care is necessary at shearing time to produce a clean marketable article, the crop of wool must get its proper attention throughout the year before the highest profits can be derived from the industry.—Farm Journal.

"Minnie Stevens" Became
Aristocratic Lady Paget,
Leader of London Society

LADY PAGET, wife of Gen. Sir Arthur Henry Fitzroy Paget, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paran Stevens, died of pneumonia in Paris on May 18th. Her life story, observes the New York Sun, reads "like a leaf from a romance of another age." Never again, the writer thinks, "will the world have room for the sort of society in which Lady Paget so long reigned—though, grande dame as she was, she adjusted herself to the changes which the war brought and was active in work for the soldiers as her ill health would permit." The account continues:

"The Pagets were of England's best fighting blood—the grandfather of Sir Arthur, the first Marquis of Anglesey, lost a leg at Waterloo and got his title for his gallantry—and when Sir Arthur married beautiful

LADY PAGET.

Minnie Stevens, of New York, he wedded an American as dauntless as any Paget that ever breathed.

"Mrs. Stevens was wealthy for those times, and the education of her two children, Harry and Minnie—Mr. Stevens died while they were quite small—was the object of her greatest care. Minnie was reared in every luxury, taught every accomplishment a fashionable young lady is expected to have, and at seventeen, when she was graduated from Mme. Reed's exclusive school in New York, her mother took her to Europe to be 'finished' in music and the languages. After three years in Paris and Berlin they returned home, and Miss Minnie, in the language of the newspapers of the day, 'burst like a beautiful meteor on New York society.'

"Then Capt. Paget visited New York, saw Miss Stevens posing as 'Europe' in some tableaux for a charity of that day and promptly fell at her feet. It is said that the bouquets and attentions with which he showered her were the envy of her friends; but Miss Stevens was not easily won. He had to follow her to Newport and ask her more than once before she agreed to marry him.

"A grand wedding it was, with more than a thousand guests, and the American girl's toilette, costing $5,000, was the talk of the town, as was her dowry of $250,000, a fabulous sum then. So, showered with pink roses, she sailed away to England with her proud husband, where she quickly became a queen in London society."

Just Sand.

What is this stuff that trickles through your fingers as you lie on the beach and idly paw the material thereof?

You call it sand and let it go at that. But of what is it composed? It is made up of innumerable multitudes of tiny bits of quartz which, originally contributing to the composition of rocks far inland, have been brought down to the sea by rivers and deposited along the shore.

The particles are heavy, therefore they soon fell to the bottom and were not carried far out into the ocean like the finely divided silt fetched from inland by the same agency. They are extremely hard, therefore they have withstood the constant grinding to which they have been subjected.

This quartz sand makes admirable material for building purposes. Glass can be made out of it, though it contains too many impurities to be first-rate for such use.

Pick up a handful and examine it. In the light of the above remarks, it becomes quite interesting. More interesting yet when you learn that 53 per cent of it is oxygen.

How odd to consider that more than half of the sea beach on which you lie is oxygen! The remaining 47 per cent, is silicon.

Silicon is a metal—some scientists call it a "metalloid" or metal-like substance—and is quite black. When cut it shows brightness, as lead does.

Nobody ever saw silicon up to a few years ago. Only by means of the electric furnace can it be separated from the oxygen with which in sand it is found combined.

Its chief use is to make "ferrosilicon" (in combination with iron) for the production of high-grade steel.

Well, Hardly Ever.

Edith—So that's Mr. Black. That's your ideal.

Helen—Dear me, no! Merely my fiancé. One doesn't meet one's ideal in real life, you know.

LONG HOLY PLACES

Shrines That Are Held in Veneration by Moslems.

All True Followers of Mahomet Eager That Their Last Resting Place Shall Be Near Those of Their Great Apostles.

Near to the resting place of the first great apostles of their faith it is the dearest wish of all pious Mohammedans to lie after death.

The shrines of Najaf, Kerbela and Kazimain, the resting places of Ali, Hussein, and the seventh and ninth Imams, lie on the edge of the desert in the country British troops now occupy in Mesopotamia.

One often meets a corpse on the road packed in a long crate or bundle of palm leaves and slung across the back of an ass, says Edmund Chandler, the press representative in the Mesopotamian forces. The pilgrim behind is taking his relative to swell the population of the cities of the dead by which these sanctuaries are surrounded.

Of the three shrines, Najaf is the richest, and to some minds the most sacred. Like Kazimain, it is approached by a horse car line. The cars are not of the pattern of those that ply in European cities. I believe the few British soldiers who have seen them rank them with the Clock tower in the mosque as first among the lions of Mesopotamia.

In peace time the dead come from a wide radius. The donkey with the bundle like a big carpet bag on its back, draped in wattle or rich silk, according to the means of the pilgrim, may have come all the way from Bokhara. A few years ago a corpse arrived from the Persian embassy at Paris.

The rich as a rule are buried in the shrine itself. The fee for interment in the mosque is $250. For burial outside the walls of the city the pilgrim pays anything from four to ten rupees (two to five dollars), according to the distance he has come.

Many pilgrims buy houses in Najaf, and thus the place is gradually becoming a city of the dead. Nine houses out of ten have graves in them. Sometimes the building is nothing else but a tomb.

Najaf has proved impregnable to Wahhabi and Bedouin. It is believed to be fabulously rich. There are two stores of treasure. The old treasury has not been opened since the visit of Shar Nasir-ud-Din, 50 years ago. It is buried in a vault and built over with brick and lime, with no door or key or window by way of entrance. The new treasure is in the keeping of the killidar—gold and silver, and jewels, and precious stones, silks, and shawls, and beaded curtains.

One of the first gifts for the shrines to reach Bagdad after our troops entered the city were four curved swords of gold, with diamonds on the sheath and hilt. They had been dispatched from Constantinople to Bagdad when the British menace was regarded as a madman's dream, and bore the inscription, "From the servant of all pious Moslems, Enver Bey."

No doubt they were intended to symbolize the might whereby the Turks would defend the city against their hated foes, the Christians.

Germany From the Clouds.

"Eddie" Rickenbacker is quoted as saying:

"Germany looks rather peaceful from above and there seems to be little disturbing them back a ways from the lines. That is where an airman's point of view is defective. The German hills and fields look as soft as ours. Probably they are, which is not very soft. Any field covered with grass always looks soft and you think it would make a fine landing place. When you get down lower and are forced to land on any old field that happens to be under you, some time when you're enpanne you learn differently."

Neptune and Heligoland

WHOMEVER the joke may be on in the proposed destruction of Heligoland, the Gibraltar of the North, it is not on old Father Neptune. What the council of four would now like to do in wiping out forever this important stronghold of the Germans is in line with the destructive work which the ocean had been carrying on slowly and relentlessly for hundreds of years, when it was stopped by the hand of man in the form of a great wall built since Germany's acquisition of the island from Great Britain twenty-nine years ago.

In the time of Charlemagne Heligoland was more than five times its present size. There is still in existence a remarkable chart of the island, showing that within the memory of man it was watered by several small rivers and that it could boast of no less than four different and excellent harbors. A dozen churches, monasteries and convents flourished there when the chart was made, more than 1,000 years ago, in the time of Charlemagne. Intimate friends of that monarch, namely, Bishop Adam, of Bremen, and the learned Alcuino, referred, in documents still in existence, to the character of the island as indicated in the chart. They also emphasized its religious character, whence its name of Heligoland, or Holy Land, and it is a matter of tradition that in the days of the old vikings the Goddess Hertha had her temple on the island, to which people from all parts of Scandinavia and Frisia made pilgrimages; while St. Willibrod first preached Christianity there toward the close of the seventh century.

By the beginning of the fourteenth century the island had lost two-thirds of its area through the inroads of the stormy sea, which continued their ravages until in 1714 the size of the island had dwindled to 173 acres. Seventy years later the sea tore the island asunder, dividing it into the so-called Island and the Dune, and by the time Germany had taken possession, in 1890, the islands had still further shrunk to their present size of one-fifth of a square mile.

Father Neptune, peering out of the waves which dashed upon this bit of rock, then a bathing resort under the dominion of Great Britain, must have thought his work nearly done, for the Holy Land of medieval days was fast dwindling to nothingness. Then the Kaiser appeared and protected his newly acquired property from the invasion of the ocean at an enormous expense. He had all the fissures and caverns filled in with a particularly durable form of concrete. The cliffs, which rose to a height of about 200 feet, were faced with a tremendous strong granite and in part armored with masonry being yards in depth. The artificial barriers had power to withstand the power of the ocean, by which the natural walls of rock were being undermined. Moreover, by means of breakwaters the stretch of sea between the two islands was converted into a large and wonderfully protected harbor, later to serve as a base for the light cruisers and submarines of the German navy.

The cliffs were surmounted with disappearing forts of the most modern description, armed with immense Krupp guns. Equipped with sheds and hangars for Zeppelins and airplanes, Heligoland formed an ideal base for boats of the air as well as of the sea. The whole rock was pierced in every direction, like Gibraltar, with galleries and tunnels to admit of the handling of the concealed guns, which literally bristled from every point of the island.

What will happen next to this fifth of a square mile, upon which Germany spent $50,000,000 in preparation for the great war? Although it has probably played a more important part during the events of the last five years than any other fifth of a square mile on the face of the earth, still to any country save Germany it would be a white elephant. For what is the use of such a rock, no matter how wonderfully it be fortified, if remote from all bases of supplies belonging to the same nation and within twenty-eight miles of an enemy country? Its fate might have been solved if the sea had been allowed to make invasions or if the allies had succeeded in blowing up the island during the war. Certain it is that had it remained in Great Britain's possession its value would have been negative rather than positive. Germany could not then have so completely fortified it before the outbreak of the war, but, on the other hand, Great Britain would unquestionably have lost it soon after the outbreak of activities and it would have been of little actual use.

The fact that Britain of her own free will gave over Heligoland to Germany a quarter of a century ago is interesting as indicating the lack of fear then existing in Great Britain of the empire across the sea. It was Lord Salisbury, Premier and Foreign Minister, who made the transaction without the knowledge of Parliament. It was generally felt at the time in both England and Germany that Great Britain was getting decidedly the best of the bargain in the North Sea for African territories, including the spice lands and fruitful soils of Zanzibar, Wituland and Uganda. Much weight was given to the opinion of Sir Henry M. Stanley, then the eminent authority on all questions relating to the dark continent. He had been consulted by Lord Salisbury about the transaction and publicly declared that Great Britain had secured an entire suit of clothes, in return for "a mere trouser button."

The lecturer on the fourth day of Chautauqua will be Dr. Frank Bohn, who created such a tremendous interest on the circuit last year. It will be a great pleasure to welcome Dr. Bohn to our town, knowing his reputation as a speaker and his knowledge of the great questions of the day.

Dr. Bohn has spent the year largely in Switzerland and has been in attendance at various conventions of Socialists, combatting Bolshevism and forwarding the interests of the Allies. His subject, "Revolutionary Europe," will be of intense interest.

During the past year he has contributed articles to the "New York Times" and other leading papers and magazines, and no one has been quoted more frequently and more copiously that has he as an authority on all great international questions.

What About That Wasted Five per cent?

Most of us fritter away at least five per cent. of our weekly wages in trifles.

If we stopped to reckon it up, we would find it hard to remember where the money went.

If we could make that money earn more money without troubling to think out a plan or attend to details, we would consider that we had done a good stroke of business.

The Government has made it possible for us to do that. Here is the plan:

You say to your employer: "Every week I want you to hold back five per cent. of my wages and invest them in War Savings Stamps. When you have bought a War Savings Stamp with my money, put it in my pay envelope. Go on doing that for a year."

You will never miss that five per cent. which you had previously frittered away. But at the end of a year you will have a little package of Stamps which, in 1924, will be worth $5.00 for every $4.00 odd you pay for them now.

The guarantee of safety behind the War Savings Stamps is the whole Dominion of Canada.

THE POLICE FORCE OF THE BODY

DAY and night—without ceasing—a struggle is going on in your body between the germs of disease and the white blood corpuscles—the police force of the human body.

If this police force weakens, disease germs gain a foothold—sickness follows.

Constipation is the most common and dangerous way of corrupting the human police force. Food waste remains too long in the intestines—decays—poisons the blood—and opens the way for attack by the germs that cause tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia and a multitude of other ills.

The culpable habit of using salts, pills, mineral waters, castor oil, etc., to force the bowels to move, makes this condition even worse, as constipation returns almost immediately.

Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels.

Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and keep your police force on the job.

Warning: Nujol is sold in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

Cap'n Warren's Wards

by JOSEPH C. LINCOLN

Copyright, 1911, by D. Appleton & Co.

FOREWORD.

This delightful story of a Cape Cod sea captain's adventures in New York is one of the best romances from the pen of Joseph C. Lincoln. There is a real plot, and the story is full of genuine humor and splendid character drawing.

CHAPTER I.

"A Person Named Elisha Warren."

"STABLE!" screamed the brakeman, opening the car door and yelling his loudest, so as to be heard above the rattle of the train and the shriek of the wind. "Ostable!"

The brakeman's cap was soaked through, his hair was plastered down on his forehead, and in the yellow light from the car lamps his wet nose glistened as if varnished. The windows streamed as each succeeding gust flung its miniature freshet against them.

The passengers in the car did not seem greatly interested in the brakeman's announcement. The red faced person in the seat nearest the rear slept soundly, as he had done for the last hour and a half. He had boarded the train at Brooklyn and after requesting the conductor not to "lennue git by Bayport, Bill," at first favored his fellow travelers with a song and then snuck into slumber.

Mr. Atwood Graves, junior partner in the New York firm of Sylvester, Kuhn & Graves, lawyers, stirred uneasily on the humpy plush cushion, looked at his watch, then at the time table in his hand, noted that the train was now seventy-two minutes late and for at least the fifteenth time mentally cursed the railway company, the whole of Cape Cod from Sandwich to Provincetown and the fates which had brought him there.

The train slowed down in a jerky, hiccupy sort of way and crept on till the car in which Mr. Graves was seated was abreast the lighted windows of a small station, where it stopped. Peering through the water streaked pane at the end of his seat, the lawyer saw dim silhouettes of uncertain outline moving about. They moved with provoking slowness.

Then, behind the door which the brakeman, after announcing the station, had closed again, sounded a big laugh. The heartiness of it grated on Mr. Graves' nerves. What idiot could laugh on such a night as this aboard a train over an hour late?

The laugh was repeated. Then the door was flung briskly open, and a man entered the car. He was a big man, broad shouldered, inclined to stoutness, wearing a cloth cap with a visor and a heavy ulster, the collar of which was turned up. Through the gap between the open ends of the collar bristled a short grayish beard. The face above the beard and below the visor was sunburned, with little wrinkles about the eyes and curving lines from the nostrils to the corners of the mouth. The upper lip was shaved, and the eyebrows were heavy and grayish black. Cap, face and ulster were dripping with water.

"Well, I tell you, Ezra," he called over his shoulder. "If it's too deep to wade maybe I can swim. Fat floats, they tell me, and Abbie says I'm getting fatter every day. So long."

He closed the door and, smiling broadly, swung down the aisle. "Hello, cap'n!" cried one passenger. "What's the south shore doin' over here in this flood?"

"What's the matter, cap'n?" demanded another. "Broke loose from your moorin's, have you? Did you ever see such a night in your life?"

The man in the ulster shook hands with each of his questioners, removing a pair of wet, heavy leather gloves as he did so.

"Don't know's I ever did, Dan," he answered. "Couldn't see much of this one but its color, and that's black. I come over this mornin' to attend to some business at the courthouse—deeds to some cranberry bog property I just bought—and Judge Foster made me go home with him to dinner. Stayed at his house all the afternoon, and then his man, Ezra Hallett, undertook to drive me up here to the depot. Talk about blind plotin'! Whew! The judge's horse was a new one, not used to the roads; Ezra's nearsighted, and I couldn't use my glasses 'count of the rain. Let alone that, 'twas darker'n the fore hold of Noah's ark. Ho, ho! Sometimes we was in the ruts, and sometimes we was in the bushes. I told Ez we'd ought to have fetched along a dipsey lead, then maybe we could get our bearin's by soundin'."

"Couldn't see 'em if we did get 'em," says he. "No," says I, "but we could taste 'em. Man that's driven through as much Ostable mud as you have ought to know the taste of every road in town."

"Well, you caught the train any how," observed Dan.

"Yup. If we'd been crippled as well as blind we could have done that." He seated himself just in front of the pair and glanced across the aisle at Mr. Graves, to find the latter looking intently at him.

"Pretty tough night," he remarked, nodding.

"Yes," replied the lawyer briefly. He did not encourage conversation with casual acquaintances. The latest arrival had caught his attention because there was something familiar about him. He must have seen him before.

Conversation across the aisle was brisk, and its subjects were many and varied. Mr. Graves became aware, more or less against his will, that the person called "cap'n" was, if not a leader in politics and local affairs, still one whose opinions counted. Some of those opinions as given were pointed and dryly descriptive—as, for instance, when a certain town meeting candidate was compared to a sculptor, "with a big head that sort of impresses you till you get close enough to realize it has to be big to make room for so much mouth."

The conductor entered the car and stopped to collect a ticket from his new passenger. It was evident that he, too, was acquainted with the latter.

"Evening, cap'n," he said politely. "Train's a little late tonight." "It is—for tonight's train," was the prompt response, "but if it keeps on at the rate it's travelin' now it'll be a little early for tomorrow mornin's, won't it?"

The conductor laughed. "Guess you're right," he said. "This is about, as wet a storm as I've run through since I've been on the road."

The brakeman swung open the door to shout: "Denboro! Denboro!" The conductor picked up his lantern and hurried away, the locomotive whistled hoarsely, and the train hiccupped alongside another little station. Mr. Graves, peering through his window, imagined that here the silhouettes on the platform moved more briskly. They seemed almost excited. He inferred that Denboro was a bigger and more wide awake village than Ostable.

But he was mistaken. The reason for the excitement was made plain by the conductor a moment afterward. That official entered the car, removed his uniform cap and rubbed a wet forehead with a wetter hand.

"Well, gentlemen," he said, "I've been expectin' it, and here it is. Mark me down as a good prophet, will you? There's a washout a mile farther on and a telegraph pole across the track. It's blowin' great guns and rainin' pitforks. It'll be out of the question for us to go forward before daylight, if then. Darn a railroad man's job any how."

Five minutes later Mr. Graves descended the steps of the car, his traveling bag in one hand and an umbrella in the other. As soon as both feet were securely planted on the platform he put down the bag to wrestle with the umbrella and the hurricane, which was apparently blowing from four directions at once. Feeling his hat leaving his head, he became aware that the umbrella had turned inside out. He threw the wreck violently under the train and stooped to pick up the bag. The bag was no longer there.

"It's all right," said a calm voice behind him. "I've got your satchel, neighbor. Better beat for harbor, hadn't we? Here—this way."

The bewildered New Yorker felt his arm seized in a firm grip, and he was rushed across the platform, through a deluge of wind driven water, and into a small, hot, close smelling waiting room. When he pushed his hat clear of his eyes he saw that his rescuer was the big man who boarded the train at Ostable.

"Dirty weather, hey?" he observed pleasantly. "Sorry your umbrella had to go by the board. I see you was carryin' too much canvas and tried to run alongside in time to give you a tow, but you was dismasted just as I got there. Here's your dunnage, all safe and sound."

He extended the traveling bag at arm's length. Mr. Graves accepted his property and murmured thanks, not too cordially.

"Well," went on his companion, "here we are! And I for one wanted to be somewhere else. Caleb," turning to the station master, who came in at that moment, "any way of my gettin' home tonight?"

"Fraid not, cap'n," was the answer. "I don't know of any. Guess you'll have to put up at the hotel and wait till mornin'."

"I'm booked for South Denboro, and I think the whole seven rather than put up at Sim Titcomb's hotel. I've been there afore, thank you! Look here, Caleb, can't I hire a team and drive over?"

LATEST IN FARM FENCES

Posts of Wood, Iron or Cement Can Be Used.

Important Factors to Be Considered Are Cost, Durability and Service—How to Lengthen Life of Fence With Undue Costs.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

BLESSED is the farmer who, conscious in the security of his fences, can leave home on a day's business, or retire to rest at night, without anxiety as to possible depredation committed by straying cattle, or his own stock, to corn, roots, or grain, during his absence or rest. Brush, stump, and stone fences—relics of bygone days—can still be seen here and there, but are rapidly disappearing, and are being replaced with modern up-to-date woven wire fences that are built, not with the idea of the smallest possible initial cost, but with forethought for the future, remembering that quality and material as well as the design and construction of post fences are elements that determine its life and service.

The prime factors in a fence are fair cost, durability and service. The annual up-keep of fences is considerable, and to the farmer a material that will do away with the expense of repairing, replacing, painting, or other form of maintenance, should strongly appeal to him as representing true economy, almost regardless of first cost. The opportunity for economy is found, first, in using the kind of posts which, taking into account both cost and durability are cheapest in the long run. In setting a post which will have comparatively short life, he loses not only through having to buy new posts, but also because of the additional labor involved in removing the old and setting the new one. There is, however, great difference in the lasting properties of different woods. The average life of a fence constructed of wood posts cannot be safely figured as greater than 8 or 9 years. For length of service cedar and white oak outlast all other woods. By treating the posts with creosote, coal tar or charring them, the cost of up-keep might be materially lessened.

That the end or corner posts bear all the strain, and are the foundation of the fence, is common knowledge to every experienced fence builder. They must be well anchored, rigid and strong, and so constructed that they can be depended upon to give proper service at all times, and under all conditions. The foundation carries the strain and must, therefore, be absolutely solid and permanent, so as not to permit the fence to sag.

The setting of wood posts in cement as commonly practiced is not conducive to the longevity of the post, because a water-tight union between the post and the concrete is not secured, and ultimately decay sets in. By far the most effective way is shown in diagram (Fig. 1). The post is first notched as shown in sketch, and the concrete worked well into the notch. This sheds the water trickling down the post, and cannot possibly get between the post and concrete, and the life of the post is considerably lengthened. A post concreted in this way, and kept painted, is practically immune from decay.

However, every locality differs in the material used for fence posts. Wood, steel and cement are all used. The supply of farm timber available, or the prices and condition of the local market for the other commodities determines largely the fence post used. One of the most important factors in the construction of steel posts is the anchorage. The end and corner posts and their braces should be set in concrete whenever possible, as in that way best results and maximum efficiency and service will be secured (Fig. 2).

A steel post cannot possibly give complete satisfaction, no matter how lasting the material itself may be, if it is not strong enough to withstand the use to which the average fence is subjected. It must be capable of resisting and sustaining shocks without bending or breaking.

Concrete fence posts properly reinforced and made from suitable materials, carefully selected and proportioned, should last indefinitely, and are, therefore, a good investment. Considerable variety of surface finish and ornament, limited only by the skill of the individual worker, can be given to the concrete post. Large heavy wires not lighter than No. 3 in woven wire fence are much more durable than finer wire, and a lasting improvement for the farm. Hinged joints in the stays make the most substantial stays, so that under pressure, the stays forced out of alignment will spring back when released. Triple tension curves in the wire fabric will not be pulled out by the stretching process, and will allow for sufficient contraction and expansion. Sound and rigid posts and proper stretching of woven wire fence are the first considerations in fence building, regardless of the type of posts, or the height or make of a wire, the farm which is fenced stock-tight is a valuable and money-making farm in any section of the country.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

Cultivation and Drainage Pays.

Loosening up a soil by cultivation increases the pore space, and with tows, cracks and clays this increases their power to absorb and retain water while at the same time allowing more free air space. Drainage also makes a soil more porous, thereby producing the same results. Cold winds retain less water when loose than when compact.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 29

REVIEW: RESPONSE TO GOD'S LOVE.

SELECTION FOR READING—PHIL. 3: 1-14. GOLDEN TEXT—I will praise thee, O Lord my God, with my whole heart.—Ps. 63:2.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Showing Our Love to Our Heavenly Father.—John 14:15. JUNIOR TOPIC—Some Things We Have Learned About God.—John 3:16. INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—The Marks of a Christian. SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Some Fundamentals of Faith and Practice.

The method of review will largely be determined by the grade of the school. The primary teacher can use the material which shows love to the Heavenly Father; the junior teacher, that which teaches about God; the intermediate teacher, the marks of a Christian; and the senior and adult teacher, the fundamentals of faith and practice. As illustrative of the method for the senior and adult, note the following:

Lesson I. God who was before all things is the cause of all things. The universe came into being by the will and act of the divine personality. Man himself is a creation of God, not an evolution. All things continue to be by the preserving power of God. This great being is the Father of all who believe on Jesus Christ. We should give him our undivided affection and trust him for food and raiment.

Lesson II. Jesus, the Son of God and Israel's Messiah, is the lamb who bore our sins. Out of God's love he was given, and "whosoever believeth on him shall not perish, but have everlasting life."

Lesson III. Jesus Christ rose from the dead. His resurrection guarantees:

1. The integrity of the Scriptures (1 Cor. 15:20).
2. The reality of the divine person (Rom. 1:4).
3. The sufficiency of Christ's atoning sacrifice (Rom. 4:25).
4. Life and immortality of the believer (1 Cor. 15:20).

Lesson IV. On the day of Pentecost the Holy Spirit was poured out upon the disciples, baptizing them into the one body of which Christ is the head. The gift of the Spirit peculiarly qualified the disciples to be his witnesses.

Lesson V. God created man in his likeness and image and placed him at the head of creation.

Lesson VI. Through the fall of Adam sin has passed upon all men, bringing death, physical and spiritual, and sorrow in its train.

Lesson VII. Lost men are saved absolutely by God's grace. His grace means his kindness toward men through Jesus Christ.

Lesson VIII. At the preaching of Jonah the people of Nineveh repented. Because of their repentance God's wrath was turned aside. Those who repent of their sins and cry to God for mercy through Jesus Christ shall be saved.

Lesson IX. It is only through faith that man can please God. Through faith the mightiest victories have been wrought. The grand exemplar upon whom faith can rest is Jesus Christ.

Lesson X. The grand incentive to obedience is love to God. Calling Christ Lord will not answer for disobedience to his will. Hearing and doing his teachings is building upon the solid rock. Such building can never be destroyed by flood or storm.

Lesson XI. The right motive in praying is not to attract man's attention, but to have fellowship with God. God is pleased with persistency in prayer.

Lesson XII. The greatest of the Holy Spirit's gifts is love—the love of God shed abroad in our hearts. Love is not a mere sentiment or emotion, but a mighty dynamic which transforms the life, expressing itself in practical service to men. It abides forever.

Staying Away From Church.

The habit of absenting one's self from the Sunday services of the church is one that some seem to acquire very easily. It is a habit to be shunned. Sometimes it is occasioned by sickness; often some small excuse, some grudge against a member, some resentment at a fellow member's fault is the occasion. Jesus will be there even if an unworthy member is present. Jesus may be present especially to meet and forgive that unworthy member; and who are we that we should judge a brother or a sister?

Charity and Denial.

Brother men, one act of charity will teach us more of the love of God than a thousand sermons—one denial, than whole volumes of the wisest writers on theology.—F. W. Robertson.

Grandest Thing on Earth.

There is not a man or woman, however poor they may be, but have it in their power, by the grace of God, to leave behind them the grandest thing on earth, character; and their children might rise up after them and thank God that their mother was a pious woman, or their father a pious man.—N. Macleod.

Transcends All Substance.

God's will in the present moment is the daily bread which transcends all substance.—Madame Swetchia.

Nature's Way Is Best

Nature's laxative is bile. If your liver is sending the bile on its way as it should, you'll never be constipated.

Keep the liver tuned right up to its work.

Take one pill regularly (more only if necessary) until your bowels act regularly, freely, naturally.

DESPERATE LEAP FOR LIFE

A British observation balloon, anchored at the western front, had its cables cut by enemy airplanes, and the balloon soared thousands of feet upward into the clouds. A writer in London Mail, who witnessed the incident, describes what followed.

From the point where it vanished, he says, we presently saw one small speck, then another, dropping from the clouds. For some hundreds of feet they fell like dead weights, then parachutes opened, and the specks, now revealed as men, were steered in their earthward course, floating rapidly, but safely, to the ground.

After the balloon got free, they destroyed their papers and instruments, clambered over the side of the basket, and leaped for life into the great void beneath them, trusting that the parachutes strapped round their waists would open when they should.

Think of that desperate spring into the vast, gray vapory nothingness beneath the balloon; the feelings of the men as they made it, uncertain of what would happen; the awful sensation of casting yourself blindly from such an appalling height with the knowledge that only a flimsy piece of material, which might act rightly and might not, intervened between yourself and a crash into the earth many thousands of feet below; the tense strain of the stone-like drop through two hundred feet of the void before the parachute opened, and then the anxious mental query, through the later stages of the descent: "What shall I light upon?"—a matter of supreme consequence that chance governs absolutely. In this case, the men made a safe landing.

Carleton Place Horse Show

A Splendid Success—Many Entries—Large Attendance

After a lapse of three years, due to the war, the Carleton Place Horse Association resumed their Annual Show this season, the same taking place on Saturday last at Riverside Park. Conditions have changed considerably since the previous event, driving horses are almost unknown now and the farmers have new features to contend with that were not in pre-war days, so that it was with considerable misgivings that the Association ventured upon this year's show.

But the weather was good, the farmers flocked in, and many of them exhibited their young stock, making the show a very interesting one indeed from the breeder's standpoint.

The townspeople patronized the grand stand. Excellent music was supplied by the Boys' Band of Smiths Falls, and all in all the afternoon was a very good one.

THE HEROIC AIRMEN

London, June 22.—The editor of the Daily Mail presided at the luncheon tendered Capt. Alcock and Lieut. Brown and there was a large and distinguished gathering present including the American ambassador, the Greek and Serbian Ministers, Col. Winston Churchill, secretary for war, Lord Reading, the Dominions' High Commissioners and leading officers of the air force.

Col. Churchill, in presenting a check for $50,000 from the Daily Mail and $10,000 from other donors said the achievement was one of the increasing triumphs over nature and also showed we still possessed as a nation the heroic qualities of bygone times. It was no disparagement to Hawker and the United States navy to say this flight is "it"—the significance that lay in drawing together the peoples on both sides of the Atlantic. Col. Churchill dwelt on the great services of Lord Northcliffe and the Daily Mail to aviation.

Capt. Alcock said his impressions of the journey were very few. He spoke of the interest taken at the start by the people of St. John's and then repeated his account of the flight.

Lieut. Brown, in a modest speech said the fact that they accomplished what they had set out to do was the greatest satisfaction.

FATEFUL YEARS FOR ALL WOMEN

How Best to Overcome the Troubles That Afflict Women Only

The most fateful years in a woman's life are those between forty-five and fifty. Many women enter this term under depressing conditions through overwork, worry or a neglected condition of the blood, and so they suffer heavily. Still, variations of health at this time can be relieved by home treatment.

Among the commonest symptoms are headaches and pains in the back and sides, fever-flushes, palpitation, dizziness and depression. Women stand in need of rich, red blood all their life, but never more so than in middle age, when the nerves are also weak and overwrought. Now every woman can prove the prompt help afforded to her health by renewing her blood supply. It is a test that any ailing woman can make by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for these pills make rich, red blood, which in turn helps the appetite, strengthens the nerves and restores robust health. Thousands of women have found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the means by which new health and a brighter outlook of life were gained. In proof of this is the voluntary testimony of Mrs. H. S. Peterson, Milford, Ont., who says:—"I have suffered greatly from those troubles that afflict my sex, and I have found that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in such cases not only do all that is claimed for them, but more. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done so much for me that I urge every weak woman to try them, and they will soon realize the great difference in one's health they make."

If you suffer from any of the ills that particularly afflict womanhood you should avail yourself at once of the health help of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get them from any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A young man named Williams was fatally crushed when a land roller, from which he was thrown, passed over him, on a farm near Vernon, Ont., Friday.

The total yield of wheat in Canada increased from 112,434,000 bushels in 1908 to 231,730,000 bushels in 1917, as stated in the Dominion census report.
