Only Half Way Down

The Scandal Investigators Have Not Touched Bottom.

Light Let In On the Postoffice Management.

Latest Scheme of the Abbott-Langevin Cabinet.

Ex-Architect Scott's Statement on the "Extra" Question.

Sir Hector's Report Not Supported by Facts.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—The Scandal Committees have unearthed a vast amount of crookedness, but the prospects are that half of the iniquity done in high places has not yet been exposed. If proper evidence is successful Mr. Haggart's department will show disclosures which will shock Canada. Then there is the Immigration Department, where gross mismanagement has reigned. Mr. Arnoldi, who has been suspended from his duties as mechanical engineer in the Public Works Department, is vowing vengence against the department and the Government generally, threatening to tear the whole fabric to pieces if he is not reinstated. As for the Interior Department, the investigation has shown gross irregularities, and very little would be gained in pushing the inquiry further. It has also been proven that Mr. Dewdney has three private secretaries and a butler with which he charges the country, and when he goes to the Northwest and British Columbia he goes in a private car with one of those secretaries, the butler and a couple of female servants to wait on him. Traveling expenses are also allowed to this retinue of servants.

THE CONSERVATIVE SCHEME.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says: "The Abbott-Langevin Ministry has matured a great scheme, one which was to be kept a profound party secret, but as it had to be laid before all the Conservative members of the House it has leaked out and is too good to be kept from the public. The Government promise their supporters to supply funds for the election contestations and instruct them to carry each case to the court of last resort—the Supreme Court of Canada. The idea is to thus delay judgment until after next session, which they promise their supporters will be the last of this Parliament. Next session things will be ripe for a redistribution act, and with doubtful constituencies gerrymandered they will go to the country in November, 1892. By this delightfully simple programme the Government are hoping to keep in line such of their supporters as are naturally indignant over the exposures of this session."

HONEST MEN NOT NEEDED.

Mr. T. S. Scott, who was chief architect of the Department of Public Works for ten years prior to the 9th of December, 1881, at which date he was superannuated without any apparent cause, still resides in Ottawa. Saturday Mr. Scott was asked whether it was true, as stated by Sir Hector Langevin in the House of Commons in 1884, that he as chief architect reported in favor of paying the claims of Messrs. Goodwin and Beemer for extras. "It is the very reverse of true," said Mr. Scott. "Instead of reporting in favor of those claims I reported against them, as the record in the department will show. Sir Hector stated in Parliament that I, when chief architect, reported in favor of paying Mr. Goodwin's claim, but he failed to produce any report from me when asked to do so, and he cannot produce any such report. I repeatedly refused to recommend the payment of the claim though urged to do so, because there was no just reason for paying it. Some time after I left the department I was asked to give Mr. Fuller, my successor, some information to enable him to report upon the claim, and did so. Mr. Fuller asked me to attach my name to a recommendation that the claim be paid, but I refused to do it. They cannot find any report from me recommending the payment of the Goodwin claim. I reported against it, and it was paid after I left the department." Speaking of the Beemer claim, which was also paid after the presentation of the famous testimonial to Sir Hector Langevin, Mr. Scott said: "I also reported against the claim as unworthy of consideration. But, like Goodwin's claim, it was paid after I left the department. Some time after it was paid I met Mr. Beemer, and he remarked, 'Well, Mr. Scott, you see you might as well have reported in favor of my claim and made a case for yourself.' I said: 'Yes, and sacrifice my reputation as an honest man.'" It will be observed that Mr. Scott was superannuated on Dec. 9, 1891, about fifteen months after the Langevin testimonial scheme was started and after Mr. Goodwin had contributed his $1,000 to the fund. The Beemer claim was paid in 1883 after the testimonial had been presented.

INVESTIGATING THE POSTOFFICE SCANDAL.

[Associated Press Dispatch.]

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—The Public Accounts Committee met to-day, when the postoffice scandal was taken up. Col. White, Deputy Postmaster-General gave evidence from which it transpired that Miss Jane Craig was appointed an extra clerk in the postoffice department in August, 1888. The attendance book showed that she was absent from her duties at various intervals until June, 1889, when she left for good. Her pay at the rate of $400 a year went on until October of that year. Miss Craig, though she was absent from the city, cashed all the checks in due course. She then ceased to draw pay, and two checks for November and December were returned to the credit of the Receiver-General. The books and papers produced showed an entry like this for one of the checks.

"July salary for Miss Jane Craig handed to Deputy Postmaster-General for Postmaster General."

"CONSIDERABLE LATITUDE ALLOWED."

Mr. White said considerable latitude was allowed in the way of payment of salaries to clerks, temporary or otherwise absent on account of sickness.

Mr. Barron conducted the inquiry. Mr. John Graham, a brother-in-law of Miss Craig, said the young lady in question had stopped at his house before leaving the city.

Mr. Barron asked whether Hon. Mr. Haggart had visited her there. The question was ruled out of order.

Hon. Mr. Haggart occupied a seat while the hearing was in progress. He laughed heartily at the passages at arms between Mr. Wood (Brockville) and Mr. Barron.

NOTES.

Mr. Costigan gives notice of an act to amend the Petroleum Inspection Act.

Mr. Gibson received a telegram announcing the death in St. Catharines of Capt. Norris, ex-M.P. Mr. Norris preceded Mr. Rykert in the representation of Lincoln, sitting in the House from 1874 to 1878. He was a Liberal.

Mr. Foster gives notice of the following resolution: "That it is expedient to provide that the Governor in Council may authorize the payment to the producers of any raw beet sugar produced in Canada wholly from beets grown therein between July 1, 1891, and July 1, 1893, of a bounty of $1 per 100 pounds, and in addition thereto 3⅓ cents per 100 pounds for each degree over 70 degrees shown by the polariscopic test." Mr. Foster thus makes a change from the policy announced in the budget speech, when he declared that the bounty should end July 1, 1892.

UNITED STATES ELECTIONS.

Democratic Victory in Utah—The Farmers' Alliance Wins in Kentucky.

IN UTAH.

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 4.—The first election in Utah on national party lines came off yesterday. There were three tickets in the field, however. The remnant of the Liberal party, made up mostly of Republicans, nominated a fine ticket. The Mormon vote was about equally divided between Democrats and Republicans. The former won by a small plurality over the Liberals, who were slightly ahead of the Republicans.

IN KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 4.—As the result of yesterday's State election in joint session the Legislature will stand as follows: Farmers' Alliance Democrats 73, straight Democrats 50, Republicans 15.

IN KANSAS.

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 4.—The Farmers' Alliance have repelled the Democratic advances. They said they ignore both the old parties. They will nominate a full ticket of their own.

A CLOSE CALL.

A Former Londoner Almost Asphyxiated in San Jose.

The following from the San Jose (Cal.) Mercury refers to a former Londoner:

L. C. Leonard, of Pueblo, Col., who has been visiting in San Jose, the guest of J. C. Black, the grocer, had a narrow escape from asphyxiation Sunday morning. Mr. Leonard, who is a brother of Mr. Black's mother, retired to his room about 11 o'clock Saturday night. He turned on the gas, but in attempting to light it was unable to reach the burner with a match. He went into another room in search of a lighter. His sister procured one and going into the room lighted another jet. Shortly after Mr. Leonard retired without knowing that gas was still escaping from the first jet. About 5 o'clock the next morning the odor of gas pervading the house attracted the attention of the family and Mr. Black's mother traced the source to Mr. Leonard's room. The latter was found unconscious and apparently lifeless. Dr. Brown was summoned, but it was not until two hours' hard work that Mr. Leonard, who is 80 years of age, was restored to consciousness. The discovery, coming when it did, was most fortunate, for a short time longer would have sufficed for the gas to have completed its fatal work. Mr. Leonard had intended to start for home on Sunday morning, but was unable to do so on account of the unexpected accident. He, however, returned yesterday, having fully recovered.

LABOR MOVEMENTS.

Hamilton Corporation Employes Laid Off—2,000 Street Pavers on Strike.

Sixty corporation employes were laid off at Hamilton Monday owing to the Board of Works overdrawing its estimates.

The strike of the New York street pavers and their helpers, in which fully 2,000 men are engaged, continues, but it is expected an amicable settlement will be reached to-day (Tuesday).

Home Rule Inevitable.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Mr. Morley, speaking at Leamington yesterday, said that if the Liberals dropped home rule as their foremost plank it would lead to the greatest split the party had ever known. He predicted Mr. Balfour's Local Government Bill would be an irretrievable step towards home rule, and would mean the suicide of the Unionists.

The Queen of Belgium's Condition.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 4—8 a.m.—A bulletin just issued states that there is little doubt that her Majesty will soon recover. Her prostration was due to a nervous shock caused by the spectacle presented by the unhappy ex-Empress Charlotte, who, when visited by the Queen yesterday, was suffering from an attack of violent insanity, to which she has been subject ever since the tragic death of her husband, Emperor Maximillian, of Mexico.

Corns and Bunions and Sure Cure.

It is surprising the enormously increasing prevalence of corns and bunions in this generation, and still more so when we remember that for the trifling sum of 25 cents the sure corn cure or sure bunion cure can be obtained. A prominent professional gentleman remarked the other day: "I tried almost every known preparation for corns without avail, and concluded there was no cure, when a friend recommended the Sure Corn Cure; as a last resort I tried it with the desired effect. My corns have all disappeared, and I am now convinced that there is a sure cure for corns at last, and in justice to the proprietor, W. S. Barkwell, our enterprising young chemist, I gratefully acknowledge the same."

Alive in His Coffin.

Remarkable Scene in Artyni, Russia.

Pardoned After Serving Sixty Years in Jail.

The Kaiser Said to be Succumbing to the Morphia Habit.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A remarkable scene took place recently in the Russian town of Artyni. Prince David Kertitcheff was afflicted for a long time with a serious illness, which finally brought on a state of coma. The attending physicians, however, after a careful investigation were satisfied that life was extinct. The body was laid in an open zinc coffin and carried amid great pomp to the church, where a large number of mourners and spectators had congregated to honor the remains of the Russian nobleman. At the close of the funeral service, as the archimandrite, in accordance with prescribed custom, bent over the body to give the Prince the farewell kiss, the supposed dead man suddenly lifted himself up, slapped the astonished priest twice in the face and said: "Canaille, how dare you bury me without my permission?" The people in the church were panic stricken and rushed to the door. Several women and children in the crowd received severe injuries. The mental and physical excitement proved fatal to the sick Prince. He died three days afterward.

The last great brigand of middle Italy, Domenico Nocchia, who undoubtedly has undergone a longer term of imprisonment than any other living criminal, has been pardoned by King Humbert after a confinement of 60 years.

A rich landowner named Gabriel and his niece, who lived alone together near Kulm, Prussia, were killed by a burglar. Both were found dead on the day after the burglary, with hatchet cuts all over their bodies and a bloody hatchet on the table of the dining room. All the money and documents of value in the house were carried off by the murderer.

The following story, purporting to have been wired from Berlin, is printed in some of the Paris newspapers: The Kaiser is physically and morally succumbing to the morphia habit, and has been put on a strict regimen by Dr. Leuthold. His allowance of morphia has been stopped and he has been put on a limited amount of the very moderate "bier de Nuremberg" as his only stimulant. His mania (according to this veracious report) broke out first at night, and he got wildly drunk and assumed command of the yacht. He took her, at her maximum speed, out into the open ocean, and caused every flag on board to be displayed. He fired repeated salvos with the yacht's guns, and the band played vigorously while he prolonged his feux d'artifice. These scenes were kept up all night, the Kaiser meanwhile changing his uniforms, wearing in succession those of German, English and Italian admirals. In the course of a drunken row he struck Lieut. Schreeder, who immediately went below and blew his brains out, as having been irretrievably dishonored. Some sailors who revolted were unmercifully thrashed and put in irons. The next morning the Kaiser, renewing his mad "drunk," was thrown, as if by accident, by a sailor from the bridge of the vessel to the deck, his feet being badly injured by the fall.

A number of speculators at Barcelona, Spain, made a desperate attempt to force a decline in prices of securities dealt in upon the exchange by getting up an alleged revolutionary movement. A band of fifteen armed men attacked the garrison and tried to force an entrance, but they were overcome after a short conflict. One account of the affair states that it was a genuine revolutionary attempt on the part of the Republicans.

THE PRAYER CURE

Reported to Have Proved Efficacious in a Cancerous Case.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 4.—A sensation has been caused here by the alleged miraculous cure of Mrs. Mary Paul, of No. 82 Nelson street, who has been bedridden and a victim of cancer for ten years. Within three years Mrs. Paul had two cancers removed from her breast, and her death was looked upon as likely to occur at any moment.

While seated with her son-in-law, Captain Johnson, at the breakfast table a few days ago, Mrs. Paul suddenly cried out: "Oh, God, heal my poor weak body." A moment later after a silent prayer she again cried: "Thank God, I am healed." Previous to that moment Mrs. Paul had only been able to go from her bed to the table. She had not performed any light household duties in many years.

Mrs. Johnson, her daughter, related the story to a Press reporter to-day. She said her mother arose from the table, threw her medicine out of the window, and is now well and strong. Her face has a healthy color, and she does hard work.

Mrs. Paul is 56. She came to this city from Detroit, and was known for her piety. She walked to the Salvation Army barracks and told the story of her wonderful cure, and left here yesterday for Cedar Dale, Ontario, Canada, where, she says, she will tell the people of the faith that made her body whole. Mr. Johnson's neighbors fully corroborate the story of Mrs. Paul's long and apparently hopeless illness, of her inability to do any kind of work, and of her sudden and miraculous cure.

A boy stood on the burning deck,
Unwisely, too, 'tis said,
For, with the fast approaching flame,
His elders quickly fled.
So, many now in peril stand,
Unmindful of their fate,
Till, step by step, Grim Death comes on
And then, alas! too late!
Far wiser, surely, would it seem,
When his approach we see,
With "Pierce's Pellets" well in hand
To vanquish old "G. D."

Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have remarkable power to correct all physical derangements, thus warding off disease that would surely follow. Purely vegetable, pleasant to take, perfectly harmless! With a little forethought, they'll be a present help in time of need—cheating the doctor and robbing the grave! As a Liver Pill, they are unequaled. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. One a dose as a laxative, three or four as a cathartic. Tiny, sugar-coated granules, in vials; 25 cents.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Canada's Possibilities Under a Non-Restrictive Trade Policy.

Forcible and Eloquent Address by the Liberal Leader.

The Veteran Hon. Alex. Mackenzie Congratulates His Vigorous Successor.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—On the motion that the House go into Committee on Supply, Mr. Desjardins (L'Islet) moved in amendment a sub-amendment to Sir Richard Cartwright's resolution, upon which the House was divided last Wednesday morning: "That this House express its approval—

"1. Of the fiscal policy of the Liberal-Conservative Government which, by permitting the free importation of raw materials and by a judicious protection of our natural and manufactured products, has resulted in the marked development of Canadian industries.

"2. Of the liberal aid which has been granted to important and necessary public works, notably railways, canals and steamship lines, which have proved such important factors in developing our resources and facilitating our commerce.

"3. Of the wise and prudent management of the finances, which, while adequately providing for the public service, has maintained and advanced the credit of the country, and while producing substantial surpluses for capital expenditure, has made no appreciable addition to the public debt during the last two years.

"4. Of the policy of relieving from duty articles of universal use, such as tea, coffee and sugar, in respect of the latter the consumer being freed from taxation to the extent of $3,500,000 during the present session, and of the mode of meeting the larger parts of the loss of revenue thereby caused by the exercise of economy in expenditure.

"That this House, while approving of the special efforts made by the Government to increase Canadian trade with the far east, with the West Indies, with Great Britain and the United States desires to express its confidence that any negotiations for the extension of commercial relations with the United States will be so conducted that their result will be consistent with that proper control of our own tariff and revenues which every self-respecting people must maintain, and with a continuance of those profitable business and political relations with the mother country which are earnestly desired by all intelligent and loyal Canadians."

It was the declaration of the Government which it was attempted to force upon the Opposition in breach of an agreement and which was withdrawn under circumstances so humiliating to the Government. Mr. Desjardins had added this catch clause to it:

"That this House desires to express its special disapproval of any common plan of commercial union between Canada and the United States which would involve a common tariff against the rest of the world and a pro rata division of the joint revenue of the two countries instead thereof."

Hon. W. Laurier spoke in reply. He exposed the dark dealing of the Government, and showed in nakedness the depths of falsehood and deceit into which the Government had descended during the last election. The resolution asked the House to rejoice at the completion of the country's great public works. "It takes a man of courage to ask that," Mr. Laurier said, "at this time. (Applause.) We are certain that they have cost double what they ought to have cost and that the money has been spent in peculation, malversation and corruption which are to-day an eternal disgrace and standing shame to the fair fame of Canada." (Applause.) The resolution declared the country to be in a prosperous condition. This question had been discussed at considerable length, and he added to the testimony this side of the House had presented to show that the country is not prosperous the opinion of an authority of weight in Quebec. The Credit Foncier, in its report of May, 1891, says:

"As to rural real estate we noticed in our report of last year the crisis which was passing. This state of affairs became worse and worse in 1890, and very bad crops followed the two preceding years. Added to this was the deplorable effect that the McKinley Bill produced on the industry of our Canadian farmers in suddenly shutting the American market to their products with almost no notice and without giving them time to make any preparation for it. Under these circumstances we thought proper to double our prudence and grant rural loans only in localities exceptionally favored."

To that report he said he found attached the name of no less a person than the Secretary of State (Hon. J. A. Chapleau) for Canada, and the names also of the member for Laval (Col. Ouimet) and Hochelaga (Desjardins). There was the authority of three gentlemen prominent in the Government forces. Were they to be believed when they spoke as polititicans or when they spoke as capitalists and business men? (Applause.)

But whatever difference of opinion there might seem to be as to the prosperity of the country, Mr. Laurier proceeded, members on both sides were agreed that Canada's powers of consumption were not equal to her powers of production, and that, therefore, new channels for products must be opened. The Government had pretended to find them in the National Policy, but they acknowledged their failure, because they stood pledged to go to Washington in October to find a market for our natural products, and this although they had filled up statistics to show how that market would ruin our farmers. (Applause.) These proud men who would not lower their dignity by going unasked to Washington said they had been asked by the United States Government to go. "They declared this all over the country," Mr. Laurier said, "and here I say that in making that statement they went to the people with falsehood and deceit in their mouths, for the facts were the reverse. (Applause.) They dared not speak the truth about it, small matter though it was, who made the first advances, because they would have stood in antagonism to their records, and stand convicted of neglect of a duty which had for years been urged upon them." (Applause.)

Referring to the policy of the Liberal party, he said the only objection to it was that it would injure a few classes of manufacturers. But if it favored the farmer, the lumberman, miner and fisherman and the great body of consumers, he asked would any man rise and say it would be a bad thing for the country? He would go further, he continued, and say unrestricted reciprocity would be a good thing for manufacturers. It would give them markets and consumers. It was the history of all past reforms that the interests affected banded together to convince the people that they (the people) would be injured by it. When Paul went to Athens to preach against the worship of idols all the manufacturers of idols opposed him. (Laughter and applause.) They assembled in the red parlor of that day and the leader of them opened the discussion by saying, "We know that by this craft we have our wealth." (Laughter.) And when the Liberal party, Mr. Laurier proceeded, were struggling against the absurdity and wickedness of the present Government's policy, all those who profit by the superstition gathered with the Government in the red parlor and appealed to the credulity of the people just as the idol manufacturers in Athens did. The idol makers of old cried, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians," and in these days their cry was, "Great is the loyalty of Canada." (Cheers.) He claimed for the Liberal party loyalty as true and strong as the honorable gentlemen opposite claimed for themselves. The policy of unrestricted reciprocity was not conceived in hostility to Great Britain, but in the interests of Canada. (Applause.) He contended that its adoption would not alter in any degree the relations of this country with Great Britain. He contended there was no restriction to the power given by England to Canada to settle her interests in the light of her best judgment. The only limit to Canada's right, he declared, was Canada's interest. That was the doctrine on which the Liberal party's policy was based, and it was a doctrine which had been acknowledged by every Government in the empire except the one sitting on the opposite side of this House. It was flunkeyism for the people in this country to be more British than the people of England. It was flunkeyism for men in this country to shout disloyalty at a doctrine which the English people had accepted. (Applause.) The offer this Government had itself lately made to Spain, he declared, showed their loyalty cry was but a sham in their mouths. They were but loyal so far as it would keep them in office; for out of office, they would be no more loyal than they were in 1849. (Applause.)

He denied that unrestricted reciprocity would necessitate an assimilation of tariffs of the United States and Canada. He believed it could be had with or without assimilation. For fifteen years the Conservatives had been assimilating the tariff of this country to that of the United States. In 1877 there were two alternatives to continue the revenue tariff or adopt the policy of the United States. The latter had been done. If the country had taken the first, there might not be so many public works, but Canada could boast to-day of a finer name; the revenue would not have been so large, but corruption would not have been so rampant. (Applause.) There would not have been so many millionaires, but wealth would have been more equally divided. (Applause.) Going back to the speeches of the Conservative campaign, in 1874, he quoted Sir John Macdonald to show that their cry then was reciprocity of trade or reciprocity of tariffs, and that the N. P. was only an assimilation of Canada's tariff to that of the United States.

"I am in favor of unrestricted reciprocity," he said, "but if it can only be obtained by something derogatory to Canada's dignity I am against it—(applause)—and there is no intention in the breast of any Canadian on this side of the House to surrender to the American Government one iota of rights." (Applause.) He dealt with the difficulty which gentlemen opposite made of the loss of revenue which would result from unrestricted reciprocity. It was said that there would be a loss of $7,000,000 or over that amount of the customs duties collected on goods imported from the United States. It seemed to him that this loss of revenue meant $7,000,000 of taxation taken from the people. The basis of the advocacy of unrestricted reciprocity, he said, was that it would make Canada as prosperous as the United States. He believed it would have that effect. Speaking of the measure of putting a treaty with the United States into operation, he said it would come into effect after reasonable notice had been given so that the interests affected would have time to prepare for it. If a treaty were obtained it would be worked in a common-sense way. "From England we acquire every right which is due to our manhood," he said, in concluding his masterly address. "To the United States we will concede nothing derogatory to our manly dignity. This is our double inspiration. The pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night to guide us through the task we have set ourselves."

The cheers of the Liberals filled the chamber for several moments when the leader had concluded. Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, who had listened to the brilliant argument of his successor, reached his feeble hand across the narrow aisle to take the hand of the strong young leader.

Mr. Tupper replied to Mr. Laurier. He admitted new channels were required for our trade, and said the success of the National Policy had brought such a repletion, such plenty in this land. Mr. Tupper went on to deny that the Government were advocates of restriction, and to accuse the Opposition of having made the speeches they did to try to embarrass the Government in their negotiations with Washington in October next. He contended that the McKinley Bill, although hurtful to Canada, would prove far more injurious to the United States themselves. The trade policy of the Liberal party would discriminate against the mother country.

Mr. Davies spoke in reply to Mr. Tupper, and said had the Government not coupled a dishonest outline of their policy with other issues with which they went to the country, they would not have dared to face the people. The honorable gentleman (Tupper) had found fault with the leader of the Opposition because he had referred to the revelations that were being made in the committee. The investigation that was now being held showed a state of things that could find no parallel outside the city of New York. He passed no judgment upon any individual. He did not say that the head of the Public Works Department was guilty, but there were certain facts that the House knew and that the country knew that corruption was rampant in the department from the highest officials to the lowest. The resolution of the honorable gentleman asked the House to condemn a scheme of commercial union which had never been propounded in this House. He warned the Government, however, that the day might come when they would have to grapple with and determine upon this policy of commercial union. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Mills declared the National Policy to be as dead as Julius Cæsar.

At 2:40 the House divided, and the resolution was adopted—Yeas, 99; nays, 77. The House adjourned at 3 a.m.

DUE TO DRINK.

Children Empty a Jugful of Whisky and Die.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 4.—At Walkerville Sunday night two children, Michael J. and Mary Ellen Downey, aged 4 and 3 respectively, died from the effects of drinking whisky. Shortly after 11 o'clock in the morning Mrs. Downey stepped out to a neighbor's house and was gone twenty minutes. A neighbor called at the house during her absence and saw on the kitchen floor a demijohn of whisky with the contents partially spilled over the floor. The boy and girl had been filling up on the liquor. The woman hurried to notify the mother, and when she returned the boy was quite intoxicated, and soon fell limp to the floor. The little girl did not give signs of being so affected. The lad said he had been drinking the whisky, and had induced his sister to drink some, but as considerable was spilled on the floor it could not be ascertained how much they took.

A physician was summoned without delay and the little girl was put to bed and was soon sleeping soundly. Attention was then directed to the boy. Emetics were given and the physician applied restoratives to keep the heart beating. The girl died at 11:30 last night, and the boy breathed his last an hour later.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug 4.—Sunday afternoon James Fitzgibbon, while in a drunken fit, put his family outside and then set fire to his house. He was afterwards arrested. He served through the Northwest rebellion and has also served terms in the Central Prison. Many times he tried to reform, and after the Hunter and Crossley revival kept steady for almost a year. He was offered liquor one day, drank it and at once resumed his old habits.

Fire in a Church.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Aug. 3.—Just after the service had commenced Sunday night in the Methodist Church here, a large coal oil lamp was upset on the carpet, causing a conflagration which destroyed the building, and several persons were painfully burned.

A Very Useful Book.

"Health and Pleasure on America's Greatest Railroad is the title of a charming little volume issued by the Passenger Department of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad this year, with new and attractive features added to the publication of former years. The book is a "summer book" decidedly, and is enough in itself to tempt the tourist out into the leafy fastnesses of the forests, or to the cool, rocky glens of the mountains. The frontispiece is a fine view of that noble structure, the Washington bridge across the Harlem, but that is merely a hint of the beauties that follow. No one who glances over the book can fail to get a comprehensive idea of the wealth of scenery through which the road passes, not to mention the invaluable information that is systematically arranged throughout the book in regard to the hotels and boarding houses, the prices of board, the fares, the distances, the possible excursion, and, in a word, all that that usually inquiring person, the summer tourist, can possibly think of desiring to learn.

Copies of the book will be forwarded free to any address upon receipt of 10 cents postage by George H. Daniels, general passenger agent, Grand Central station, New York.—[New York Times. b

CITY OF LONDON — INCORPORATED 1855 — ONTARIO CANADA

TAKE NOTICE THAT THE MUNICIPAL Council of the Corporation of the City of London intends to construct a tile sewer and house connections on Maitland street between Queen's avenue and Dufferin avenue, and on Dufferin avenue between Maitland street and Peter street, and to assess the final cost thereof upon the property abutting thereon and to be benefited thereby, and that a statement showing the lands liable to pay said assessment, and the names of the owners thereof, as far as can be ascertained from the last revised assessment roll, is now filed in the office of the clerk of the municipality, and is open for inspection during office hours. The estimated cost of the work is $725, of which $215 is to be provided for out of the general funds of the municipality. A court of revision will be held on Monday, the 17th day of August, at 7 p.m., at the city clerk's office, for the purpose of hearing complaints against the proposed assessment or accuracy of the frontage measurements, or any other complaints which persons interested may desire to make, and which is by law cognizable by the court. C. A. KINGSTON, city clerk. Dated August 3, 1891. 11u x

Notice to Creditors
—OF—
Valentine H. Byron, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, IN PURSUANCE of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1887, chap. 110, sec. 36, and amendments, that all creditors having claims against the estate of Valentine H. Byron, late of the city of London, in Ontario, pensioner, who died on or about the 14th day of May, A. D. 1891, are required to send by post, prepaid, or to deliver to the undersigned at his law office, Market Lane, London, Canada, on or before the 15th day of August, A. D. 1891, their names, addresses and descriptions, with full particulars of their claims, duly verified, and the securities (if any) held by them. And that after the said date I will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Valentine H. Byron, deceased, among the parties entitled thereto, regard being had only to the claims of which notice has been given as above required, and I will not be liable for the said assets, or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claims notice shall not have been received by me, duly verified, at the time of such distribution. Dated this 13th day of July, A. D. 1891.

MUSTER OF VETERANS.

The Grand Army Encampment at Detroit.

Immense Influx of Visitors from Every Section of the Republic.

A Foraging Incident—Sleeping Accomodations — Route of the Grand Parade.

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—Detroit is decked in splendor to-day. Bunting, banners, mottoes and every conceivable kind of decoration is displayed in bewildering profusion. The crowd at the Brush street depot yesterday afternoon was enormous. Trains over the Grand Trunk, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee roads followed each other into the depot in rapid succession, all of great length and every coach loaded to its fullest capacity. An unbroken line of humanity passed through the gates into the depot, who are accustomed to large crowds, estimated that not less than 40,000 persons passed through the depot gates during the day.

The Lake Shore people handled twenty special trains of 200 coaches and sleepers, and carried between 12,000 and 15,000 passengers without a hitch or a jar in the arrangements.

The Grand Trunk brought twelve special trains from New England and five from Chicago. The Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee ran six specials yesterday afternoon, carrying Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin posts.

The Michigan Central ran six specials of twelve cars each, and Wabash nine specials of ten cars each. In addition to this all the regular trains were filled with visitors.

Some of the "vets" have not forgotten the lessons in foraging learned 30 years ago. As the second section of one of the eastern special trains was passing a small station this side of St. Catharines, Ont., about 2 o'clock yesterday morning the journal of the locomotive broke and necessitated a long wait. The sudden stoppage of the train awoke most of the boys, and they forthwith piled out to find the cause of the delay. After satisfying their curiosity in this direction they began to make inquiries for "grub." The brakeman informed them that they could get plenty of eatables at the station a short distance back, and a party made their way thither. Lights were out and a constant pounding at the door seemed to awaken nobody. Suddenly, as they were about to desert, a gigantic Hercules, armed with a baseball bat, appeared around the corner and demanded why he had been aroused from his sleep at such an hour of the morning. Assuring him that they sought food and not blood, he informed them in select phrases that they might starve for aught he cared. But they had no notion of starving, and while a few engaged the attention of the watchman, for such he was, the remainder gently forced the door of the eating room, and in a few minutes came forth with seven chickens and a generous supply of biscuits and pies. These were shown to the surprised watchman, who then began threatening them all with arrest. He was asked the price of the food taken, and upon placing its value at $3 50 he was promptly offered that sum and $1 50 more as tip money. He refused to look at the coin, but it was shoved into his pocket, and the "All Aboard" cry of the conductor sent the foragers skurrying down the track to the train.

The committee have expended $3,500 in lighting up the camps, electricity being almost solely used.

The capacity of Camp Sherman is 12,292, of which 7,782 are provided with beds in buildings, and 4,500, if that number appear, can be given quarters in tents and outbuildings. Camp Beecher has 5,140 beds, and the Pingree annex 1,580, the latter devoted to the use of the ladies. Walker has 4,143 beds and Custer 3,344. All of the foregoing are occupied. Of free halls and buildings there was up to Monday an unoccupied bed capacity of 8,500, and this amount can be increased if necessary.

Of the offerings of private houses (not free) 41,700 were listed, and of the hotels 10,000 capacity. All visiting veterans pronounce the accommodation arrangements unexcelled for completeness.

The grand parade is scheduled to start this forenoon from the corner of Woodward and Adams avenues. The route is as follows: Woodward avenue to Park, Park to Washington, Washington to Michigan to Griswold, thence around the triangle's corner to Lafayette, Lafayette to Fourth, Fourth to Fort, Fort to Griswold, Griswold to south side of Jefferson, Jefferson to Dequindre; countermarch north side of Jefferson to Woodward, up Woodward, passing under the arch corner of Park and Woodward, when parade will be dismissed. The reviewing stand is located on Campus Martius, east side of Woodward avenue.

DEATH IN THE CAMP.

The first day of the encampment was saddened by the sudden death of one of the visiting comrades. John Holloway, aged 48, of Richard Allan Post, No. 65, of Elyria, O. The post proceeded to Camp Sherman. John Holloway and a comrade who was to occupy the same tent with him, finished putting their things away and Holloway stepped to the door of the tent to look out. Suddenly he grasped at the bent pole and his companion saw him reel and then fall to the ground. He was picked up and placed on a mattress and a physician was summoned. His services were not required, however, as Holloway was dead.

The deceased leaves a widow and two children, from whom he parted at the Elyria depot yesterday forenoon, apparently in the best of health. Heart disease is supposed to be responsible for his sudden demise. During the war Holloway served in the Forty-Second Ohio, Gen. Garfield's old regiment.

Take water and a little Pearline, and you have the best preparation in the world for washing and cleaning. It will do everything except harm. Use it on your clothes, your dishes, your paint, and your person. Try it on something that you think is too delicate or too difficult. It will silence your doubts in the one case, and save your strength in the other.
Send it Back
Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back.

The original letters of Goethe to Charlotte von Stein will be offered for sale by a grandson of Frau von Stein, not of Goethe. Their price will be about $37,000. They make seven volumes, being 1,748 in number.

The trailing dresses now fashionable have engaged the attention of the Supreme Sanitary Board of Vienna. The District Police Commissioners were asked officially whether dresses sweeping in the mud are injurious to the public health; and whether, if forbidden, the prohibition could be enforced. The replies differed. One official suggested a special tax on trailing dresses, but he confessed that it would be difficult to collect.

This year the population of London has increased in a somewhat lower ratio than that of England and Wales as a whole, the first time such a circumstance has occurred. The population of the ten largest English counties are as follows: Lancashire, 3,926,798; Middlesex, 3,251,703; Yorkshire, 3,208,813; Surrey, 1,730,871; Kent, 1,142,281; Staffordshire, 1,083,273; Durham, 1,016,449; Warwickshire, 805,070; Essex, 785,399; Cheshire, 730,052.

"Paul and Virginia," as we know them, are threatened with annihilation like William Tell and other characters beginning to be enveloped in the haze of myth. M. Arene has written an article to prove that Virginia de la Tour, who was reported to have been drowned in the wreck of the Saint Geran, was really saved by her lover and duly married him. M. Arene relies largely on a fan said to have been given to Virginia by M. M. De la Bourdonnais, the colonial Governor who married her to Paul, this remarkable fan being in the possession of one of the Governor's descendants. M. Anatole France, however, says that the fan from the description is pure Louis seize, and that, as the Saint Geran down in 1744, it is of no value as an argument against the accepted legend.

Impossible.

It would be just as easy to advertise the moon as for any importer to give the same value in imported cigars as we offer in our "La Cadena" and "La Flora" brands of clear Havana cigars. The higher the price the greater the duty. Cheap cigars made in Havana are in the majority of cases offered to the Canadian public as fine goods.

Through Pullmans and Dining Car attached to New York via Erie Railway.

The Erie is the only line running through Canada that gives the people of London the above service, and it is to be hoped they will take advantage of it by purchasing their tickets via the favorite Erie and save themselves the annoyance of changing cars and jumping off the trains for meals. 11-t

Ho! for Cleveland.

The new passenger steamer, the J. H. Milton, will leave Port Stanley for Cleveland every Saturday until further notice, commencing June 6, on arrival of the G. T. R. train from London at 10:30 a.m., arriving in Cleveland at 6:30 p.m. Returning, will leave Cleveland on the following day at 2 p.m. London to Cleveland and return, $3 30; single fare, $2 70. Tickets can be secured from G. T. R. ticket agent at London station. CAPT. JOHN ELLISON, proprietor. JOS. HOUGH, master. 55-tf zxv

Perfectos.

The name of Perfecto is used by the leading Havana factories to designate a particular size and (generally extra fine) quality of a brand of cigars. It is well known to connoisseurs and in great demand in the principal clubs in Europe and America. A great many factories, owing to the great popularity this size has obtained, are using the word Perfecto on all classes of goods, some as low as $20 per 1,000; therefore, we caution the public to be particular when purchasing and see that they obtain the genuine size and quality that should be represented in the Perfecto size. Our "La Cadena" or "La Flora" will be found a creditable example. S. DAVIS & SONS, Montreal 1-tf

WESTERN ONTARIO.

BRUCE.

The mother of R. B. Clement, Walkerton, is still hale and hearty although 88 years of age. She was one of the first white women who ever set foot in Brant 42 years ago. On Monday last she went to Chesley in a buggy and returned on Tuesday, none the worse for her trip.

A new camp of Sons of Scotland has been organized at Kincardine.

A few days ago, while Ed. Barnes, of Kincardine, was sharpening a chisel on a small grindstone, he caught a finger between the tool-rest and the stone, and before he could be liberated the flesh was ground off to the bone and the bone itself injured. The lad bravely stood the intense pain.

An Underwood lady treated the citizens to a fine display of horsemanship the other night. She shewed great nerve and pluck in handling a refractory bronco. A Drumbo lady is the only amateur who is her known superior.

North Bruce Liberals expect Laurier to visit Port Elgin this fall.

Kincardine holidays on Aug. 13.

Bervie has a new Royal Templars' Council, organized by T. O. Evans and Charles Melvin, with 30 members.

John Kieth, late principal of the Paisley public school, has gone to Hamilton, where he has secured the situation of bookkeeper in a manufacturing establishment.

Rev. P. H. McEwen, the popular Baptist minister, of Paisley, has been appointed to go to England on an important mission. When he finishes the work allotted him there he expects to return to the United States.

Mr. Porter, M.P.P., North Bruce, intends taking a holiday trip to the Northwest shortly. He has improved a good deal lately in health and vigor.

DUFFERIN.

After a pastorate of about three years Rev. J. L. Gilmour has tendered his resignation to the Baptist Church, Orangeville, intending to study the next two years in New York city. He leaves about Sept. 1.

BRANT.

The adjourned case of Robert Ramey was up at the Police Court, Brantford, and has been again adjourned until Friday so as to give time for a more extended search for the complainant, who has left the city. Bail has been accepted.

The corner stone of the Toronto Court House, of which the late John Elliot of Brantford, was contractor, will be laid probably at the last day of the Toronto exhibition. So far some $170,000 has been spent on the building. It will not be completed for six years yet.

"Brother Sharpe, have you a candy in your pocket? If so give it to that overgrown baby behind you. It is a pity when people grow up their manners don't grow with them." This was the remark made by the Burford Methodist pastor the other evening, addressed in the middle of his sermon to a Detroit young lady who was visiting friends and sitting in the second row of seats directly behind Brother Sharpe, who found nothing in his pocket that resembled candy nearer than a bunch of keys. The clergyman's words burst like a thunder cloud on the people.

A party of Italian workmen in Brantford began to enjoy a dance on Sunday evening, but were promptly interfered with.

George H. Knox, an exemplary young man in Brantford, died of inflammation on Sunday, aged 26 years. He was an employe of Buck's stove works.

C. B. Heyd has been elected water commissioner in Brantford by acclamation, in place of J. Shenstone, resigned.

The girl Lydia Snelling, formerly of Guelph, who recently charged Robert Ramey with having made improper proposals to her, is the same who is the complainant against John Purcell, Guelph, on a charge of indecent assault. She has disappeared, and Ramey will probably be discharged.

ESSEX.

The country all around Stoney Point is on fire, and the farmers are out fighting the flames. The tall prairie grass was as dry as paper, and it was greatly feared on Monday night that unless the trenches that had been dug would keep back the flames the village would be destroyed.

John Gauthier's residence in Sandwich was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, Gauthier and his hired man barely escaping with their lives. The loss is estimated at $6,000; insured for $4,500.

A number of Windsor citizens have taken exception to the way the majority of the buildings have been decorated, the American flag outnumbering the British flag two to one. On Monday evening a mammoth streamer was stretched from the Manning House to the postoffice bearing these words: "This is Canada, God Save the Queen."

The Windsor School Board on Monday night appointed J. A. Cameron, of Arkona, science master of the high school, and reinstated Miss Dench on the staff. Teacher Cherry was appointed to the model school. For some time the boys of Essex have made fun of Carl Seeley, a man who lives near that place. Sunday night he determined to get even, and loading his musket with beans, waited in ambush for the first one to come along. This one proved to be Alfred Bondy, who had never seen Seeley, but this did not deter the latter from firing both barrels at Bondy's face, nearly cutting it. A warrant is out for Seeley's arrest, but he is not to be found.

Improvement is the order of the day in Belle River. New houses are being erected by Samuel Harp, John Stewart and John Welch, a new barn by Alex. Grant, and Messrs. Moore and Ambrose High are making repairs.

An outhouse owned by Eber Millard, of Richmond, was destroyed by fire on Monday. His dwelling and barn narrowly escaped.

GREY.

A fine cow and steer, the property of Albert Paddon, Arthur, were killed by lightning during Thursday night's storm, and there was also a cow the property of Robert Ellison, of Normanby.

The financial meeting of the Markdale district of the Methodist Church will be held at Flesherton on Tuesday, Sept. 1, to commence at 10 a.m. In the afternoon there will be a classleaders' convention at 2:30, and in the evening at 8 o'clock the district Sabbath school convention.

The financial meeting of the Owen Sound district of the Methodist Church will be held in Owen Soundon Wednesday, Sept. 2, at 10 a.m. Brethren will please bring lists of federation subscriptions.

HALDIMAND.

About 100 men, who have been employed by the M. C. R. laying double track, were laid off Friday night. They have been completing the double track between Cayuga and Attercliffe, a distance of fourteen miles, which was graded last year. This is all the double track work for which orders have been received to do this year. The ceasing of this work also means the taking off of three gravel trains and the stopping of the steam shovel at Waterford.

HURON.

A representative of the Doherty organ works, Clinton, is in Hamilton endeavoring to interest capitalists in the removal of the works from Clinton to Hamilton.

The Financial meeting of the Exeter district of the Methodist Church will be held at Crediton on Tuesday, Aug. 25, commencing at 10 a.m.

KENT.

Plummer and Plucie have both been committed for trial in Chatham. It is believed that Plucie is the greater offender, and that Plummer was used by him to accomplish his ends. Bail was refused.

Bush fires are prevalent near Fletcher.

The wife of Rev. Mr. Husser, Merlin, died suddenly last week after an illness of only a day or two of convulsions. She was a bright and active Christian, and much sympathy is felt for her bereaved husband. She was 29 years old and had been married about three years.

The Sunday schools of Fletcher, Stewart and Valetta picnicked last week in Howe's Grove, near Fletcher.

The financial meeting of the Ridgetown district of the Methodist Church will be held in Thamesville, on Tuesday, Aug. 18, at 10 a.m.

A few weeks ago Capt. Harry Taylor was fined $5 for running his boat on Sunday in Wallaceburg. Since then boats continue to come and go on Sunday with old-time frequency right under the noses of the authorities. The record suggests cowardice and favoritism.

Maud Dowswell, daughter of A. E. Dowswell, Dresden, fell from a fence and broke her right arm recently. She is getting along nicely.

Plummer and Plusie have been jailed in Chatham by Detective McKee, Windsor.

J. B. Carscallen met with a severe accident on Friday, at the residence of Daniel Ewings, Camden township. While coming down off a veranda he slipped and fell about twelve feet, lighting on a board set in the ground edgewise. He is now laid up with a broken rib and a sprained wrist.

MIDDLESEX.

The new Crossley and Hunter Church at Dorchester, will be opened on Sunday, Aug. 9, when the following services will be held: Morning, 10:30, sermon and dedicatory services, conducted by Rev. Mr. Crossley; afternoon, 2:30, sermon by Rev. Mr. Hunter; evening, 7:30, an evangelistic service, to be conducted by Crossley and Hunter. Instead of a teameeting on Monday evening, another evangelistic service will be held.

A. Smith, of the Commercial Hotel, Glencoe, had one of his horses killed on the railway a few nights ago.

Aug. 12 is Glencoe's holiday.

The residence of John Crouse, Westminster, was the scene of a happy gathering last Thursday, the occasion being the marriage of D. E. Copeland, of Napier, to Miss Elma Crouse, Rev. Mr. Sawyers officiating. The groom was ably assisted by C. Babb, of London, while Miss Crouse, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid.

Joseph Collard, formerly of Belmont, but now residing in the Northwest, reports crops in that section better than they have been for years. Mr. Collard is agent for the Stevens & Burns works, London.

Aug. 12 is Strathroy's holiday.

"During the past week," says the Strathroy Age, "J. Ivor & Sons have been doing a good business in shipping eggs, butter and cheese to the old country markets. On Friday last they shipped a car of butter and eggs to London and Liverpool; on Saturday one car of cheese; on Monday a car of butter and eggs, and they also made another shipment on Wednesday."

Rev. Mr. Brown, incumbent of Thamesford Anglican congregation, who has so kindly filled the vacancy in Dorchester Station Episcopal Church for the past six months with marked ability, announced last Sunday evening that the vacancy was about to be filled by the Rev. Mr. Racey, newly appointed to the Belmont mission. Mr. Brown spoke feelingly regarding Mr. Racey as a thorough and earnest worker in the cause of Christianity.

Nelson Cody, of Middlemiss, who has acted as constable in Elgin county, was appointed at a meeting of the Magistrates' Court Saturday as a county constable for Middlesex.

OXFORD.

A man named Thomas Hay, from near Harrington, hired a horse and buggy from a neighbor named French on Monday, for the avowed purpose of going to Stratford. After starting out Hay evidently changed his mind and drove to Thamesford instead. While in the village he made an effort to sell or trade the rig. Chief Northgraves, of Ingersoll, arrested Hay upon suspicion of having stolen the rig. He was taken before P. M. Chadwick at Ingersoll last Wednesday afternoon and sentenced to six months in the Central Prison.

Aug. 6 will be Ingersoll's civic holiday.

James M. Brady, son of Sheriff Brady, has been re-elected city clerk of Oakland, Cal. As indicative of his personal popularity it may be stated that he was the only Democrat appointed to office, the balance being Republicans. There are only three Democrats in the city council.

At a meeting of the Agricultural Society at Embro the other day, 300 members were reported, and it was expected the number would be increased to 400.

Princeton's civic holiday will be on Aug. 14.

Hugh Sutherland, West Zorra, has exhibited a remarkable sample of peas. The straw is immense, but the great feature of the peas, which are of the "Mummy" variety, is the large number of pods on each vine, there being in some cases over twenty pods on a single vine.

PERTH.

Constable John A. McCarthy, father of Chief McCarthy, Stratford, is 80 years of age. Mr. McCarthy attended the school from which the character of "Squeers" is drawn from Dickens' "Nicholas Nickleby." The original of the character was Thomas Shaw, of Bowes Academy, near Gretna Bridge, Yorkshire, and Mr. McCarthy is the boy who had his clothes stolen by "Squeers." He remembers well the comments of his schoolmates on seeing "Squeers'" son parading in his clothes, which were much too small for him, and also recollects a severe whipping he received for stealing a crust of bread and a little bacon from the school larder. Mr. McCarthy is hale and hearty, and carries his 80 years jauntily.

George Daniels, Elma, was thrown off a load of hay the other day and had his collar bone broken and received other injuries.

Dan. Leary, of Logan, got his right hand caught in the pulley of a hay fork the other day and had three of his fingers badly lacerated.

Miss Messrschmidt, of McKillop, was driving to a berry patch in Logan, when the horse became unmanageable and threw the lady out of the rig, breaking her leg badly.

Mrs. Geo. Henry, of Fullarton, received some painful injuries to her head and face by the falling of some scafolding in the barn.

The High Testimony

Of hundreds of druggists affords convincing proof of the great merit of Nerviline in all painful affections. F. R. Melville, druggist, Prescott, writes: "My customers who have used Nerviline speak highly of it. I am satisfied it will take a leading place in the market." This expresses the universal verdict, and if you are suffering from any painful affection, internal or external, give Nerviline a trial, and immediate relief will be as certain as the sun shines. Nerviline is a powerfully penetrating pain remedy. Sold by dealers everywhere.

BYE-ELECTION ISSUES.

A high tax contemporary has exploited a mare's nest. It has made up its mind that the rascalities daily being laid bare at Ottawa do not really exist, and that the men who have been giving evidence seriously compromising the Ministers at Ottawa are myths. Its funny conclusion, therefore, is that these charges are "herrings trailed across the scent" to delude the people in the bye-elections and prevent their considering the tariff question! The wicked "Grits," we are further told, are alone responsible for this diversion. Our hysterical contemporary need not fear that the trade question will be kept in the background by the opponents of the class legislation that it is always ready to defend.

If the rascalities at Ottawa occupy the public mind to the exclusion of other questions, that condition of affairs will have been brought about by the investigation forced upon Parliament by a Conservative M. P., who refused to hold his peace when his leaders urged him to keep quiet. He was a good protectionist, but he failed to see the connection between that system and robbery. His eyes have no doubt been opened since this investigation began, and he must be forced to the conclusion reached by other supporters of high taxation and restricted trade—that there is a close affinity between the purchase of holders of monopolies and the selling of contract privileges in exchange for money and testimonials handed over to Ministers and their subordinates.

In the bye-elections, no doubt, a good deal will be said on the subject of the thievings in high places, and the incapacity or criminal co-operation in high places which rendered it possible for boodling contractors to carry off hundreds of thousands of dollars of public money not earned by them. Why should the people who have been robbed not be fully seized of the manner in which the peculation was carried on and the relationship of the peculators to those in authority?

We care not who the thieves are, we care not who the men are who have received money and silver plate from public contractors that subsequently got more than their due from the men whose pockets they lined and whose sideboards they replenished. Surely it is fair to declare that they and all who are willing to condone their methods are not fit to be trusted with the spending of the millions of dollars of public money every year. That issue will be placed before the electorate in the bye-elections, whether the "Grits" so decree or not. The ADVERTISER will see to that, and it will have the co-operation of every honest journalist, of every honest citizen, in the Dominion. If not, we should like to know the reason why.

The trade question will be disposed of as the people desire it. Its settlement, if left with the Liberals, will be effected in the interests of the masses, not of the classes. But the national life, the national honor, the national morality, is not safe in the hands of men who are ready to stigmatize wholesale stealing as "mere trifles" and who are willing to punish the subordinate, but let the greater rascal go free.

A clean sweep is a necessity.

GRIP of this week is a splendid number. The leading cartoon shows Sir Hector Langevin battling with a swarm of wasps, the latter bearing the features of Tarte, Murphy, R. McGreevy, Mick Connolly, Nick Connolly, Larkin and a number of the Oppositionists prominent in the Tarte inquiry. Bengough has been visiting Ottawa, and has got the likenesses down fine. There is a clever hit at the Opposition, too, in the "The Three Grey Sisters."

LABOR AND ITS REWARDS.

During eight years past the Michigan Bureau of Labor has made an annual investigation of industrial conditions in that State, and embodied them in a report, which, though not complete, is at least approximately correct. No attempt was made to secure figures for all varieties of industry, the investigators confining themselves chiefly to agricultural implement and iron working laborers. As these two industries are among the best and oldest in the State it was considered that an inquiry among them would give an idea of how the better classes of workmen live.

No less than 8,838 workmen were visited and questioned upon such subjects as to whether they owned the houses in which they lived; if there were incumbrances on their property; if they carried life insurance, and to what amount; the extent of their wages and of their savings; whether or not they owned pianos and sewing machines, and a variety of other queries. It was found that out of the 8,838 to whom these queries were put, one earned $40 a week, 8 from $30 to $40, and 125 from $20 to $30, while at the other end of the pay-roll were a dozen boys who received but $2 a week, and 322 more with $3 or less. About 15 per cent. received $15 or over, and more than 17 per cent. less than $7, while the average for the whole number, married and single men, was $10 06, and that for the married men, $11 50. The average total amount for a year was $467, the married men averaging $525. This is not a very large annual income on which to support a family, and yet 69 per cent. of the families visited owned sewing machines; 67 per cent. took newspapers and magazines; half of the entire number were subscribers of daily papers, and more than a fifth possessed musical instruments of one sort or another.

Of the employes visited 2,328 were house-owners, and about half of this number were free from mortgages. A fourth of the whole number of men were insured, the average amount being nearly $1,500, and 40 per cent. saved money last year. The general showing is good, and indicates a fair average of prosperity in a representative body of workingmen.

THE OTTAWA SCANDALS.

The revelations of gross corruption at Ottawa continue. Ministers of the Crown have been shown, by indisputable evidence, to be involved in the peculations revealed, and it has been made evident that their subordinates considered it proper to follow their bad example. This is the situation in a nutshell. But we follow a few of the definitions of these rascalities by Ministers and their newspaper apologists:

"Mere trifles."—Hon. George Foster.
"Side issues."—Ottawa Citizen.
"Herrings trailed across the scent."—London Free Press.
"Slanders."—Toronto Empire.
"Absurd charges."—Halifax Herald.

THE CITY SEWERS.

The London Board of Health took no action on the suggestion of Dr. Gardiner that a report should be obtained on the condition of the sewers. Perhaps when the report of Mr. Chipman on the city sewage is received, the doctor will again raise the question. This subject as well as the sewers needs ventilation. If, as Dr. Gardiner recently asserted, the sewers now used have been constructed without plan and are very defective, it is time that the public knew just where they are. Dr. Gardiner told us in his recent letter that at least one main sewer was so constructed that residents along its route found it impossible to drain their cellars. We want no more sewers built on haphazed plan and so radically defective as the sewer referred to must be. Indeed, in view of the statements made, when the people are asked to indorse a comprehensive sewage scheme they will require a pretty strong guarantee that it will not be bungled or this pressing civic reform may be indefinitely postponed. The taxpayers of London have never been stingy in granting money for needed improvements, but they have a right to demand that national examples shall not be followed in the expenditure of civic money.

UNDER the caption, "No accounting for tastes," the Windsor Record publishes the following:

"We notice several excursions planned to go to London, and this grand Detroit River, with all its attractions, ready to receive them."

Our bright contemporary is yet in its infancy, but it is old enough to know that in this wide world it is not necessary for prosperous cities and towns to be jealous of each other. The London press has had a good many kind words to say of Windsor, and the ADVERTISER is pleased that it has caught the "boom" fever from Detroit. Windsor's prosperity, however, does not detract from London's attractiveness, and this city will continue to attract excursionists long after the Record has experienced the fallacy of wearing green spectacles.

‡‡‡

THE Grand Army of the Republic, now holding its gathering in Detroit, has been a thorough success. It is the greatest concourse of veterans which has taken place since the grand review in Washington at the close of the war. The city of Detroit has carried out its share of the arrangements for the meeting in an admirable way. Our friends over the border never do things by halves, and the City of the Straits has in every sense of the word demonstrated its progressiveness, its whole-hearted hospitality. The extent and the importance of these assemblages of the veterans of the great struggle is shown by the fact that Washington has guaranteed $60,000 towards the expenses of the meeting next year, and yet may be outbidden by some more enterprising center of population.

THE CHRISTIAN UNION, in a very readable article on "The Outlook for Education," thus refers to the address given by the Ontario Minister of Education before the convention of Canadian and United States teachers, a few days ago:

"At one of the evening sessions, before a magnificent audience of 7,000 or 8,000 people, the Hon. Geo. W. Ross, Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario, described the educational system of his Province in a speech which for sustained power and justness of proportion is seldom equaled. With more centralization of administrative power than is usual in an American State, and a closer co-ordination of the several parts of the system than prevails here, the citizens of Ontario are better equipped than we to enforce a compulsory education law and to lead promising pupils on to the higher institutions of learning. Mr. Ross told with pardonable pride of the achievements of the system over which he presides, and let fall many hints of value to the visiting state and city superintendents."

This is a deserved tribute to a hard-working public official and to the self-denying public servants who toil in conjunction with him.

THE Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada, at its late meeting in Toronto, rejected a resolution prohibiting the supplying of liquor at banquets of the order by a vote of 616 to 404. The ancient, free and accepted cling kindly to the ancient landmarks.—[Montreal Gazette.

A mistaken conception as to the action by the Masonic Grand Lodge seems to prevail. The question was not as between permission and prohibition, but as between the power to permit or to prohibit being taken out of the hands of the individual lodges. The Grand Lodge decided to let the lodges continue under a policy of home rule. All lodges are prohibited from using intoxicating liquors in lodge rooms; they can, if they choose, entirely prohibit their use in banquet or other halls under Masonic control. Many have done so, with no ill effects to their members. By the Grand Lodge decision others may do so. All that the Grand Lodge decided was that in view of the division of opinion on the subject it was not expedient for it to issue a prohibitory decree.

MORTAR-SPOTTED SKIN

Covered with Scales. Awful Spectacle. Cured in Five Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

About the first of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers, accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales, being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the county, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, until I have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I know of a great many who have taken the REMEDIES, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a baby's.

ABOUT HAIR

Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Sir,—I have, as you know, for some time advertised in Canada and the States a prescription for the hair called "Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic." I have received some thousands of flattering testimonials from those who have used it as to its merits as a restorative of gray or faded hair; also as a promoter of the growth and a certain cure for dandruff.

A great many of my correspondents ask the questions: "Why is my hair turning gray so early? Why is my hair falling out?" As it is impossible for me to answer every one, I take the liberty of encroaching on your valuable space to make a general reply. A great many persons do not seem to be aware that excessive washing and rubbing is injurious to the growth of the hair; such is the case, however. Constant washing and rubbing the scalp and hair causes over irritation and removes the oily substance which gives strength to the hair; undue heat caused by the wearing of heavy headgear is also injurious. Anything that will tend to dry up the sap or life of the hair will cause dandruff, falling out of the hair, gray or faded hair and finally baldness. Of course there are other causes as diseases, hereditary tendencies, etc., but the first mentioned are the main and most common.

Dr. Dorenwend, an eminent German physician, has given to the world after years of toil and experiment his now famous "Hair Magic." The object of this preparation is to assist nature in the production of this oily substance absolutely necessary to the growth of the hair. It is now sold by all reliable druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, or will be sent on receipt of price to any address. See that each wrapper bears the seal and signature of the manufacturer.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

KINGSTON WINS.

Kingston won a match race for $5,000, with $2,500 added, at Brighton Beach Monday, beating Tulla Blackburn easily. Michael Dwyer put $7,000 on the winner when the odds were 3 to 10. After the race Mr. Dwyer expressed his willingness to run Kingston against Tenny at a mile and a furlong over any track but Morris Park. He said Longstreet will not run at Morris Park on Saturday next, as had been stated.

MONDAY'S WINNERS.

At Brighton Beach—Dixon, Fidelio, Queen of Trumps, Meriden, Kingston, Arnica and Kate Clark.

At Gloucester — Little Addie, Nellie Jases, Fannie Lewis, Vance, Radiant and Arizona.

At Saratoga—Gold Dollar, Dr. Hasbrouck, India Rubber, Ocypete, Charade and Golden Reel.

VETERANS VS. SEMI-VETS.

This match, which has been the topic with cricketers for a week past, will take place to-day on the grounds of the London Cricket Club, commencing at 11 a.m. The teams were to have been composed wholly of veterans. Several gentlemen, however, whose personal cricket reminiscences are of a most startling character left for some place or places unknown as soon as the date was definitely settled. This has caused universal regret, as the lovers of the game were naturally anxious to see Mr. Smith hit up 120 runs in ten minutes as he did in the great match of 1860. Mr. Jones, too, who remembers getting eight wickets in six balls against Grace's eleven, is unfortunately among the absentees; and Mr. Robinson, who in 1850 made a difficult catch by vaulting a boundary fence and grasping the ball with his heels, has sent in a certificate of ill-health. However, enough veterans are left to make the game an epoch-making event, and those who wish to see cricket played as it ought to be played, and as it was played when players knew how to play it, had better attend the grounds of the London club to-day. Mr. Furness will captain the veterans in his former electric style, and Mr. Pope, the demon bowler, will lead the diluted team to victory or death.

The registrar in bankruptcy has issued an order granting Wm. O'Brien a further extension of three days. The basis of action was the failure of O'Brien to pay costs of action for libel brought by him against Lord Salisbury. Mr. O'Brien will fight the matter to the bitter end.

J. A. Ingram, a well-known young man of Winnipeg, was found dead beside the C. P. R. near Selkirk station Saturday. He left Winnipeg for Rat Portage on Friday night, and evidently fell from the train while passing from one coach to another. Deceased leaves a wife and children.

DON'T HESITATE!

You know the old saying, "he who hesitates is lost." It certainly applies with great force, in some things.

When you know you are right, don't hesitate to say it; when you know what you want, don't hesitate to DEMAND IT.

When you go to buy a bottle of CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, don't hesitate to say you want "C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S"—don't hesitate to see that you get "C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S," and don't hesitate to refuse anything offered to you as "same as 'C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S,' or just as good as 'C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S'."—There is nothing so good as "C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S." THEY NEVER FAIL.

Don't hesitate to say so when imitations and frauds are offered to you.

Don't hesitate to demand the genuine CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR SICK HEADACHE.

HONOR TO A HERO.

The City Council Presents Eli H. Griffith with a Gold Watch.

The Offer of Messrs. F. E. and C. W. Leonard Accepted.

A Public Bath House To Be Erected—Engineer Graydon to Get $1,500 a Year — The Western Fair Granted $500—Minor Business Items.

A pleasant little affair varied the monotony of City Council business Monday night. After the disposal of the communications Mayor Taylor stepped from his dais and, calling in Mr. Eli H. Griffith, presented him with the handsome gold watch purchased by the Council as a testimonial to his heroism. In doing so his worship referred in complimentary terms to the bravery of the recipient in rescuing one of the Pritchett children from a watery grave in the Thames, and expressed the pleasure it afforded him to hand over the well-merited token on behalf of the Corporation of the City of London.

The young hero was greeted with a round of applause from the aldermen and the large crowd of spectators as he accepted the honor. He modestly thanked the mayor and Council for their handsome gift and assured them that he would alway gratefully remember the citizens of London. He was applauded again on retiring.

NUMBER THREE COMMITTEE.

By Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald, chairman: 1. We submit estimates for current year. 2. We report progress on Gurney & Co.'s communication and on fire alarm extension in northeast part of city. 3. That copies of new market bylaw re forestalling be printed and distributed on market. 4. That sufficient assistance be rendered the market clerk to enable him to carry out market by-laws.

The report was adopted. Mr. Guymer was heard in connection with the latter portion, and protested against his treatment and against being moved from his old stand. His appeals produced no action on the Council's part.

NUMBER TWO COMMITTEE.

By Ald. Connor, chairman: 1. We report progress re drinking fountains. 2. That house connections on Richmond street be put in by the city and charged to properties equally on each side of street. 3. We refer M. Shea's statement of gravel delivered in No. 6 ward to No. 1 Committee. 4. That a wire broom be purchased for street sweeper at $60. 5. We submit estimates for present year. 6. That a small plot be laid out at the junction of Richmond street and Park avenue, and a fountain be placed thereon.

This report was also carried without an objection, and Ald. Connor was laughingly applauded for his luck.

NUMBER ONE COMMITTEE.

By Ald. Spencer, chairman:

1. Your committee having examined the following accounts and finding them correct, recommend the same for payment:

No. 1 Committee accounts—The London Printing and Lithographing Company, $12 45; stamps, $5; deputation to Ingersoll, $8 75; M. J. Gilligan, $2 50; Tecumseh House, $18 70. Total—$147 40.

No. 2 Committee—Pay sheet, $797 20; C. Beckett, $1,000; S. Barfitt, $173 94; Wm. Anthistle, $38 14; Chas. Pratt, $5; M. Inwood, $100; J. H. Drummond, $349 34; Jos. Rogers, $211 55; the S. B. S. and M. Co., $200; Samuel Flory, $350; John Walters, $500; Greer & Wigmore, $720. Total, $3,732 27.

No. 3 Committee—Pay sheet, $830 25; John Ferguson & Sons, $84; W. J. Bryanton, $37; H. J. Boyd, $5 67; R. Dennis, $5 86; W. Shaver, $9 84; G. W. Newman, $5; Thos. Green & Co., $8 62; G. W. Pitt, 75 cents. Geo. Heaman, $225 70; Smith Bros., $10 18; City Gas Company, $173 50; John Turner, $12 75. Total accounts for three committees, $5,286 89.

2. That the $500 voted the Western Fair Board last year towards an art annex be granted now for other purposes. 3. That the petitions of Mrs. Richards and J. J. Donnelly re taxes be filed. 4. That the petition of John Slater, 570 Richmond street, be granted by correcting frontage to read 45 feet, 6 inches and 5 feet for lane. 5. That $1,600 be granted towards a public bathing house under the conditions stated by the Leonard brothers. 6. That A. O. Graydon's salary as city engineer be $1,200 per annum. 7. That Mr. Graydon be relieved from acting as secretary for committees, Board of Health and Hospital Trust, and Mr. James Bell be appointed secretary of Nos. 2 and 3 committees at a salary of $200 per annum, work to be done if necessary after his office hours. 8. We report progress on the communications of Mrs. Harris, E. T. Essery and the smallpox hospital and fire hall extras questions. 9. That Sam Grigg's petition re income tax remission be filed; no power. 10. That M. Donohue be allowed to resign his lease of City Hall store.

The passage of the first two reports proved too smooth sailing for the Council, and a "snag" was struck at the second clause. A good deal of discussion ensued, but ended in its adoption.

Ald. O'Meara, speaking to clause 5, commended the Messrs. Leonard for their generosity, but thought the baths should be free. He moved that the clause be referred back to the committee.

Ald. Gartshore said many had spoken to him while he was in Hamilton, and had greatly praised the idea.

Ald. Winnett said the offer was a liberal one and should be taken advantage of.

Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald also commended the offer. It was just what the city wanted.

Ald. Spencer pointed out that the board of management could control the prices and minor working details. If necessary, special days could be set apart for free baths.

The clause was carried without amendment.

City Engineer Graydon's salary came up for consideration, and in connection with it the application of Mr. R. Ironsides for appointment as assistant engineer.

Ald. Connor moved that the engineer's salary be $1,500.

Ald. Ivey said it was not customary to give a new man immediately the same salary as his predecessor. There was much information that could not be obtained at the engineer's office because Mr. Graydon naturally had not everything at his fingers' ends, Mr. Tracy had it at Vancouver; there were many things the late engineer carried in his head which should have been on file in the office here.

Ald. O'Meara claimed that Mr. Graydon did more work now in one day than Mr. Tracy did in two.

Ald. Ivey moved that Mr. Graydon receive $1,200 a year, $100 for a horse, and and assistant six months in the year.

Ald. Connor's amendment carried, and Mr. Ironsides' communication was referred to No. 2.

Clause 7 was referred back to the committee in view of the probable appointment of an assistant engineer, who could perform the duties.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The chairman of the Board presented a brief report setting forth the advisability of a proper sewer on Queen's avenue, and asking that the Council pass a bylaw regulating the distance of water closets from dwelling houses.

The report was referred back to the Board, which, it was considered, had power to deal with the matter.

NEW BUSINESS.

Ald. Charles Taylor moved that hereafter the city engineer control all foremen. Carried, with the addition, "subject to the approval of No. 2 Committee."

By Ald. Judd—That the notices of publication for the registration of the bylaws for raising moneys for local improvements be published. Carried.

By Ald. Gartshore—That the city engineer call for tenders for the Hamilton street and Maple avenue drain. Carried.

By Ald. Judd—That No. 2 Committee take into consideration the re-naming of separate streets bearing the same names. Carried.

BYLAWS PASSED.

Bylaws were read and passed providing for the appointment of Aquilla Ormsby Graydon as city engineer in place of Thos. H. Tracy, resigned; for the repeal of the fixed assessment bylaw on John Elliott & Co.'s premises, and for the re-lease to Arscott Mountjoy of his City Hall premises.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the city solicitor—Suggesting that some agreement be made between city and Street Railway Company concerning Richmond street between Oxford and St. James streets. No. 1.

From J. C. Hawkins—For permission to remove a poplar tree. No. 2.

Wm. Row—For permission to cut sods off Brookdale avenue. Granted.

J. B. Laidlaw—Calling attention to Queen's avenue between Elizabeth and English streets. No. 2.

A. T. Wicks—For use of Queen's Park on civic holiday for teamsters' picnic. Granted.

R. Ironsides—For appointment as assistant city engineer. Sent to No. 2.

Grocers' Picnic Committee—Asking use of Queen's Park on Wednesday. Granted.

Carling Brewing and Malting Company—Asking sanction of Council to construct a siding from the C. P. R. to the brewery. Granted.

R. Vick—Asking Council to visit his new bath-house, Central avenue, at its opening this week. Filed.

OTHERWISE.

Mayor Taylor verbally reported that the police commissioners were willing to allow the patrol to be used to carry anyone to the hospital, but that there was no room in the police station premises for the ambulance. The discussion that followed resulted in the much-talked-of vehicle being left in statu quo.

At the suggestion of the city clerk the printing of what is known as the school lists will be discontinued.

There were present at the meeting: Mayor Taylor, Aldermen Wyatt, Connor, Taylor, O'Meara, Ivey, W. W. Fitzgerald, Winnett, Skinner, Gartshore, Spencer, J. Fitzgerald, Scarrow, F. J. Fitzgerald, Bartlett, Wilkey, Thomas, Judd, Shaw, City Clerk Kingston, Commissioner Grant and Chief of Police Williams.

A FORM OF PETTY SWINDLING.

A. Frank Richardson on the Prevalence of the Practice.

Mr. A. Frank Richardson, a thoroughly practical and experienced newspaper man, and probably the most successful advertising solicitor in the United States, in his address before the the editorial convention last week, called attention to the prevalence of a system of petty swindling, which strikes directly and with tremendous effect at the business interests of every newspaper publisher in this country, says the Minneapolis Times. He referred to the universal practice of local dealers, and especially of druggists, in selling cheap counterfeits of standard and widely advertised preparations. This dishonest practice obtains especially with respect to the sale of proprietary medicines. Many of these preparations possess great merit, by reason of which and the vast sums of money expended by their manufacturers in proclaiming their virtues, have become immensely popular. At the same time the dealer has another similar preparation compounded by himself or by some so-called "non-secret patent medicine" concern, bearing a similar name, upon which he makes a large profit and sells at a lower price, and which he palms off on the unsuspecting purchaser as equal, if not superior, to the standard article.

It is a most dishonest practice. It is not only a positive fraud upon his customers and a direct robbery of the manufacturers whose enormous expenditure of money in advertising the genuine article has caused the demand which makes the sale of his worthless imitation possible, but it works an incalculable injury to every publisher in the land. To such a magnitude has this species of swindling grown that the legitimate manufacturers of standard proprietary remedies are beginning to curtail their expenditures for advertising. They realize that the dealers in the counterfeit goods are reaping the lion's share of the profits of their liberal patronage of the press of the country. The more money they expend for printer's ink the more the counterfeiters of these goods fatten and flourish. Within the past few weeks one of the manufacturers of an English preparation, who has been expending an average of $300,000 a year in advertising his article in this country, cabled his agents at New York city to discontinue all advertisements and make no more contracts for the present. Let a dozen manufacturers of these proprietary preparations follow his example and the loss to the publishers of the United States will aggregate many millions of dollars a year. And that is precisely the result that may be looked for. The newspapers have it in their power to avert it. By vigorous and concerted action they can break up this contemptible system of swindling. Let them warn the people against it; and arouse a righteous public sentiment against a practice that is a fraud upon the people, the honest manufacturer and the hard-working publisher alike.

IS IT WM. HARTEL?

A Probable Clue to the Mysterious Affair East of Toronto.

Mrs. Hartel, of This City, Fears the Victim Is Her Husband—The Description of the Body Tallies with His Appearance—What the Anxious Wife Says.

In connection with the body found last week floating inside the bar at the mouth of the Rouge River, down the lake from Port Union, east of Toronto, the following telegram was received Monday by the Toronto chief of police:

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 3.

Chief of Police—If body found in Rouge River Thursday has not been claimed please send photograph to 284 South street. Reply. MRS. HARTEL.

AN ADVERTISER reporter saw Mrs. Hartel this afternoon. "I feared it was my husband, William Hartel," she said, "because the description published tallied so exactly. I have not heard from him for over a year, during which time, from what I have gathered, he has been working in several places. He was a wagonmaker, and was living in Ingersoll when I last heard of him."

The reporter showed her an article in a Toronto paper to the effect that the remains were identified as those of a German named August Werner.

"My husband was also German," said Mrs. Hartel, "and like the one in the paper spoke English with an accent. He was a quiet man, a little given to drink and fond of roaming around. He weighed 140 pounds and was 35 years old—that also corresponds with the description of the man found. I am waiting for one thing to be seen. My husband had a mole on the lower part of his body, a fact which I telegraphed the Toronto police. They wired back asking whether it was a scar or a mole, so I will send back word again to them this afternoon."

One statement of the report furnished some comfort to Mrs. Hartel. It was said that Werner came from Germany some eight years ago. This, Mrs. Hartel says, does not apply to her husband. She fears, however, that the former may be mere conjecture, and is anxiously awaiting developments.

She is a young, pleasant-looking woman, and has a family of little ones, which she supports by honest work.

A Cat Catches Fish and Frogs.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—James E. Norton, of Bristol village, has a mighty bright cat that earns her own living at fishing. She gets a lot of fish and frogs daily. She lies down on the brink of a neighboring trout stream and dangles her forepaw in the rippling water, and alongs comes a fish wondering what curious thing it is wriggling in the flood. Pretty soon the fish rub against the paw, for all fish like to be tickled, then suddenly there is a swish, pussy's needle-like paws are fastened into her prey, and the fish is dexterously flirted out on the bank. It is very much easier for her to catch frogs. She creeps up within range of one and then pounces on it with a long spring. She devours both frogs and fish with equal relish, and it's a poor day for fishing if she doesn't bag enough for three square meals.

VOICES OF THE PEOPLE.

The Law Regarding Fences.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Will you kindly define the law regarding fences for the division of town or city lots, viz.: Who pays for the same, and in what proportions; the placing of the necessary posts on either side, and the style of fence required or recognized by the law?

CITIZEN.

[NOTE.—Owners of any occupied adjoining lands in Ontario are by statute required to make, keep up and repair a just proportion of the boundary or line fence between them, such just proportion has been held to mean one half. If any dispute the matter is settled by award of the fence viewers, which specifies the locality, quantity, description and lowest price of the fence and the time within which the work shall be done, also by which of the parties the cost of proceedings are to be paid. In making the award regard shall be had by the fence viewers to the nature of the fences in use in the locality, the pecuniary circumstances of the parties and the suitableness of the fence to their wants. Fence viewers are appointed by the council in each municipality. In London the city engineer, the street commissioner and the health inspector are ex-officio the fence viewers. The city bylaws also provide that a lawful fence shall be at least four feet six inches high and so constructed as not to allow horses, cattle, sheep, swine or geese to pass through the same. In all other particulars the award of the fence viewers regulate the fence, subject to an appeal to the county judge for manifest unfairness.—EDITOR ADVERTISER.]

SANGUINARY STRUGGLE

Between Cattlemen and Robbers—Fourteen Persons Killed.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 4.—A dispatch from Orange, Tex., confirms the report of a riot at Locke, Moore & Co.'s train. Fourteen men were killed and two are missing. The trouble was caused by the breaking out of an old feud between a band of robbers known as the Ashworth gang and the cattlemen of that section. The former, it is said, had been committing depredations upon the community for quite a time, and they had killed a number of cattle belonging to the cattlemen. They had been notified by ranchmen to desist and leave the country, but the gang continued their proceedings, and at last they were pursued and the fight began.

A late report increases the number of wounded to sixteen.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: English wheat advanced 3d. The provincial markets report great exhaustion of the wheat reserves. It is estimated that at the end of August only one-nineteenth of the old crop will be carried over as compared with the usual amount—one-tenth. Foreign wheats were firmly held at an advance of 6d. Flour was 3d better. Grinding barley advanced 6d. Corn was buoyant at a rise of 9d in the London markets and is in the provincial markets. Oats were 6d higher. Beans, peas and rye were steady. To-day being a holiday there were no markets.

The Dairy Markets.

INGERSOLL, Aug. 4.—The offerings to-day were 3,050 boxes July make; no sales; market quiet, buyers offering 8⅜c and salesmen holding for 9c.

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Cattle—Ten cars on sale; demand very light; a few good stockers sold at $2 50 to $3, and a few light heifers at $2 50 to $2 60, outside of a load of good cows and heifers at $3 65; closed steady.

Sheep and lambs—Five cars on sale; only a light peddling demand at a weak yesterday's prices, and about all the desirable stock was sold at $4 90 to $5, and some good lambs brought $5 85 to $6.

Hogs—Three cars of fresh hogs came in to-day, but all of 30 cars, mostly grassy stock, held over from yesterday; there was some inquiry from packers and York men, and the best of grass hogs sold at about the range of yesterday, or at $5 70 to $5 65 for the corn-fed stock, but the poor grass hogs were almost entirely neglected, and these pigs go a-begging; about 15 to 20 cars of grass stuff hold over unsold, 8 to 10 cars of it being light weights, for which there is absolutely no inquiry.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—Business was only fair at the Western cattle market to-day. Receipts were 40 carloads, including 700 sheep and lambs, 150 hogs, 245 calves. Receipts for the week ended Saturday, July 29, were 1,642 cattle, 1,663 sheep and 804 hogs; weigh freight, $35,90.

Cattle—There was a quiet trade done generally in cattle to-day and prices were slightly weaker. The demand for export cattle is still slow, only a few cars being taken to-day. About the best price realized was 4⅛c per lb, though in one or two instances 4⅜c was reached and a few extra choice cattle brought as high as 5c per lb. Butchers' cattle were in slow request at low figures; in some instances as little as 3c per lb was paid. Only in an exceptional instance was 4c per lb reached for butchers' cattle. Stockers are not wanted. They sold at from 2¾c to 3¼c per lb, according to quality.

Hogs—Active inquiry from Montreal and other down east markets for good fat hogs and the market has an upward tendency. Mostly all offerings were taken. Good straight fat hogs brought from $5 50 to $5 75, weighed off cars; heavy rough, slow demand, $4 75 per cwt; stores, $4 50 to $4 75; light fat $5 to $5 50. All were wanted except stores, which are in slow demand.

Milch cows and springers—Springers held their own fairly well at from $25 to $40 apiece, with $50 for some extra choice animals. Those fetching $25 are hardly worth buying. Offerings exceeded the demand, and a number were left over. Milch cows, good ones, are selling at from $25 to $40 per head, but there is no demand worth calling such. Some good cows brought only $32. One animal which six weeks ago would have brought $42 easily sold to-day for $30; the dealer paid $35 for it, and $1 freight. There was a deal of held-over stock on sale.

Sheep and lambs—Demand good; prices generally easy. Export sheep, 3¾c to 4c per lb; rams, 3¼c per lb, with slow sale. Lambs—Supply away ahead of demand, and many held over. Prices $3 to $4 25 per head. Butchers' sheep are firmer at from $4 to $4 50 up to $4 60 per cwt for extra choice.

Calves—Only 45 fresh arrivals, with some left over from last Friday's market, at slow demand and trade dull; $5 per head for fair to good up to $7 for choice. Some very poor stock could hardly find takers at $2 and $3 per head. There is too much poor stuff on sale, and not enough choice.

Petrolea Oil Market.

PETROLEA, Aug. 4.—Oil to-day opened and closed at $1 34½.

LAST CHANCE

The second edition of the WESTERN ADVERTISER DOUBLE WEEKLY will be published to-morrow. Orders for advertising may be handed in until noon. Business men who want to draw trade from all the Western Ontario counties cannot accomplish their object better than by using the ADVERTISER columns. Bright, newsy literature and cheerful, attractive advertisements combine to make up a very popular paper.

IS YOUR NAME ON THE LIST?

Let every man who earns $300 a year, every new-comer to the city, every man who has moved since 1st January, see to it that his name is on the list now being made up. Residents in wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 can register at Oddfellows' block any day between 2 and 5, and between 8 and 10 p.m. Residents in East London (ward 5) can get their names on the lists by attending at Robertson's stationery store, Dundas street, any evening between 7 and 9 o'clock. This list has nothing to do with the assessment, and anyway no man is assessed for income who has under $700 a year. If any one's name is left off this preliminary list, it will be impossible to get it there unless he attends the court and swears it on.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

London, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Beachville, Embro, Dorchester, and St. Thomas Chistian Endeavor Societies hold a union picnic at Port Stanley to-day. Those from Woodstock and the east go down in the forenoon and will be accompanied by the evangelistic brass band of Woodstock. Those from this city and St. Thomas go down by train leaving London at 1:30 and St. Thomas at 2 p.m.

—The Port Stanley correspondent of the St. Thomas Times is growling about some of the red-coated "gentry" of "D" School of Infantry, London. He says: "They undertook to lay out some of our fishermen the other night, but made a big mistake, the result being that one of the red-coats got laid out himself, and the other, losing his cane, thought his heels would save him and fled. They both left at 9:20 p.m. for home, one minus his cane and the other plus some bruises and sores." There are likely two sides to the story.

—Owing to the high rates of the different railways the committee from the lady companions under the Grand Circle of Canada and the Supreme of the World decided at a meeting Monday night not to hold a union picnic in London this year. Had they secured reasonable rates there would have been a large number of Companions and their friends from different points of Canada and the States present. The London Circle have decided to hold their picnic to Port Stanley next Saturday, Aug. 8. The arrangements are under the able management of the following lady Companions: Mrs. Ford, Mrs. McKippen, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Cripps, Mrs. Hewett, Miss Mills, Miss Smith, Miss Kingsnorth and Miss Annie Maker.

DOUBLE DROWNING DISASTER

Two Little Leamington Girls Lose Their Lives.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Aug. 5.—A most distressing accident took place here yesterday afternoon, which resulted in the death by drowning of Hattie and Lillie, aged 12 and 2 years, children of Joseph Dumas, of this town. Alex. Dumas, brother of the little girls, who is only home on his vacation, had taken them for a drive, and drove on the dock at the lake. The horse became unruly, and backed so far that one of the wheels went down, causing the children to fall into the water.

Being unable to swim the brother hurried for help. The first two to reach the dock were William Fuller and William Prosser, who at once put out in a boat to rescue them, and heroically dived after the children and brought them to the surface and ashore, but it was too late; life was extinct. The parents and brother are prostrated by the shock.

He Fell Among Thieves

"My dear old Wynne!" he said. "Welcome back again. Lady Mabel has told me everything."

"Then Lady Mabel," said Harry, "has committed an indiscretion. I am heartily glad to see you, but I must leave you now. You can tell me to-morrow how you came to follow me. I have an engagement of the utmost importance."

"I know that too," Frost answered. "I must come with you. You are putting yourself in danger."

"I anticipate no great danger," said Harry. "I am armed, and I think I know my men."

"The house," Frost answered, "is to be surrounded by the police. You were to have been arrested with the others."

This tickled the returned wanderer, and he laughed aloud.

"There may be a melee," Frost went on. "One of the scoundrels is known to be desperate."

"What brings you in it? How do you come to know of it?"

"I am the owner of a heap of bonds these fellows stole seven year ago. I was told to-night that you were William Reid, and expected to see you in the dock to-morrow. There is no need now for you to move a step. The men are trapped already. You have the satisfaction of knowing you brought them all together. Let that be enough for you."

"I want my share in the comedy," said Harry. "It promises better than I fancied."

M. Vergueil had seen too many amazing things in his life time to be easily surprised, but wandering warily from man to man of his detachment in company with the inspector, to see that all things were properly disposed, he found accused and accuser walking amicably arm in arm, and stood for a moment rooted in astonishment. Frost caught sight of him and beckoned him. He crossed over, and listened to the extraordinary narrative detailed to him as if it had been the most ordinary in the world.

"Yes," he said, "I think it will be well for Mr. Wynne to enter as if he had not been us at all."

"I had not expected your aid," said Harry, "but perhaps it is better as it is. Let me ask you not to permit your men to break in until I have secured possession of the notes."

"Very good, sir," said Vergueil. "Your wishes shall be considered."

"Shall I give you a signal?" asked Harry.

"No, thank you," returned Vergueil with extreme dryness. "We shall be aware of your proceedings."

"I had not expected you to be so easily convinced," said Frost to Vergueil when they were left alone.

"I had not expected you to be so easily convinced," returned the detective. "We shall see. You do not know your man, Mr. Frost. There is no fox in the world who has so many devices. There is no actor on the stage who is his master in comedy. He invents like the great Dumas—better, for the people believe him."

Harry had already knocked at the door of number fourteen Wexford Row, and had been admitted. Vergueil, holding Frost by the sleeve, led him swiftly past the house, and shot into the walled lane which lay beside it. Half way towards the rear he paused, and spoke in a cautious whisper.

"There is a door which opens flush upon the room in which they all are together. The room is surrounded, and there is no escape from it. If our friend is William Reid, we have him in spite of any trick which he may play. We shall give him no time to destroy our evidence. If he is Mr. Wynne, we shall be there to help him. Now, silence! Do not breathe."

They moved on tiptoe to the door. The alley was black with the shadows of midnight, but there were two denser shadows in the midst of them. A sudden glare of light flashed out across the faces of Frost and his companion, and disappeared, but not a word was spoken. Two or three needle points of light showed redly through the crevices of the door. Vergueil, crouching, laid his ear against it, and listened. Frost placed himself opposite, and the two stood silent as a brace of statues.

Harry, having knocked at the door, was kept waiting for a little while, and in the light of the street lamp near at hand he read upon the neatly engraved brass plate before him, "Butterfield, Jeweler, Engraver, etc. Office and Show Rooms, Conduit street." He was thinking how much the etcetera covered, when a cautious step sounded in the hall within, and the door was partially opened. It was secured by a chain, and the face of an elderly woman peered round it.

"Who is it?" she asked.

"Mr. Ronald Morton."

"All right, sir. Wait just half a minute." She closed the door for the removal of the chain and then re-opening it to no greater width than was necessary for the admission of the visitor, secured it anew behind him. "This way, sir. It's dark, but the road's quite level. The gentlemen's expecting of you."

The whole quartet awaited him.

"You're punctual, William," said Gilead, "and so are we. The flimsy's ready, old pardy."

Sitting in his wheeled chair beside the table, he made a motion with his hand, indicating a neat pile of paper which lay beside him. Mr. Butterfield laid a pair of caressing palms upon the upper sheet, and smiled.

"We have been looking over them," said Captain Heaton. "I don't think I ever saw anything so flawless. Mr. Gilfoil certainly deserves to be congratulated on his success."

"There's a thousand more of 'em," said Gilead. "There's a thousand more that ain't quite dry, but they'll be ready in the morning. You can start on these, and you can have the second batch for Paris. We should have been ready a day earlier if the numbering machine hadn't have broken down."

"I'd better take charge of this lot," said Harry.

"Butterfield'll pack 'em for you," returned Gilead. "He'll do it neat. He's used to it."

Mr. Butterfield smiling obeyed this hint, but whilst he was still at work, and the others stood about him watching, they were all startled by a ring at the front door bell. Mr. Butterfield went ghastly white, and stared from one to another with his lips drawn back in a frightened, attentive grin, which showed all the gold stopping of his teeth. Heaton, almost as white as the jeweler, drew a revolver from his pocket, and laid it on the table.

"You don't want that," said Harry, and possessed himself coolly of the weapon.

Gilead, sitting silent with a wicked, glittering eye, took a cigarette case from his pocket, and toyed with it with his long blanched fingers.

"You ain't got no need to tremble the house down," said Gilead, addressing Hump. "If it had been anybody to be afraid of they'd have been in by now."

There was a tap at the door, and the old woman thrust her head in.

"If you please, sir, here's Miss Priscilla. She says she must see you immediate, and she won't take 'no' for an answer."

Gilead returned the cigarette case to his pocket, and setting his wheeled chair in motion, passed through the doorway into the covered passage leading to the house.

"You needn't run over me," said his voice from the darkness. "Get a light, and come into one of the front rooms. I want to talk to you."

Gilead, having called on the old woman for a light, followed the girl without a word, but while they stood waiting in the darkened hall he cried out suddenly:

"There's some one here. Who is it?"

"It's all right, Gilead. It's a friend of mine," Priscilla answered.

The housekeeper came from the lower regions of the house, leaving a candle, and in its light Gilead made out a pretty and delicate woman, richly dressed. She looked nervous and alarmed, and laid a timid hand on Priscilla's shoulder, as if asking for her protection.

"You can go," said Priscilla, taking the candle and addressing the housekeeper. The old woman obeyed, and the girl placed a chair for her visitor. "This is my brother Gilead. Gilead, this is Mrs. Ronald Morton."

"Proud to make your acquaintance, m'm," said Gilead, with an angry pretense of politeness, "but just now I'm particularly busy."

He was wheeling his chair away with a savage glance at Priscilla when she interposed herself between him and the door.

"You've got to listen, Gilead," she said. "This lady married Ronald Morton in Phillipopolis seven years ago. I have taken the trouble to find her out in Manchester, and she has taken the trouble to come down here to identify the man, if he is the man, and if he isn't, to prove to you that you have been deceived."

"Well," said Gilead, with a sigh, "you've got your cranks, and I know 'em of old. I shan't get rid of you till I've shown you what a fool you are. Come along, both of you."

He snatched the candle from the table, and motioned imperiously to Priscilla to open the door. Then, balancing the candlestick upon his knees, he led the way. At the end of the covered passage he paused and turned his head.

"Hold on to that," he said roughly to Priscilla, extending the candle towards her. "Wait there, and don't come in till I tell you."

No Return.

After a lapse of seven years the following letter explains itself: Toronto, Ont., April 17, 1887. "I would state that your remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, had the desired effect of curing me effectually of rheumatism, with which I suffered in 1880. I have never had any return since of the pain which I endured for months previous. It affords me great pleasure to say I have recommended it to a number of friends. Too much praise cannot be devoted to its healing qualities." J. ABRAHAMS, Passenger Agent, 51 York St. Hundreds certify that once cured, the cure is permanent.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—"Man is but clay"—oh, words of truth,
We learned, each one, in early youth;
Man is but clay.

We call the speedy man a "brick,"
The "soft-baked" mortal makes us sick:
Man is but clay.

Down goes a fellow with a thud,
We straightway say: "His name is mud."
Man is but clay.

—A London West rowdy named John Macdonald was taken into custody Sunday night for abusing his wife. He was bailed out, and straightway commenced to ill-treat the woman again on arriving home. He was further enraged at the interference of his young brother Fred, to whom he began to turn his attention. Fred picked up a revolver and shot his senior brother through the back of the neck. The shot produced merely a flesh wound, but just missed the spinal cord.

A Londoner Honored in Brantford.

The officers and teachers of Wellington Street Sabbath school, Brantford, held a very pleasant and sociable picnic in Grand View Park on Friday afternoon, says the Courier. The chief object of the gathering was to say a few kind words to one of the teachers, Miss Elliott, who is about to leave the city and return to her home in London. After the tea had been served Dr. Birchard, the superintendent, on behalf of the school, presented Miss Elliott with a very handsome copy of Longfellow's poems as a souvenir from her co-workers in Brantford. In making the presentation the superintendent expressed their appreciation of Miss Elliott's services during the last four or five years, the uniform harmony which existed in the school, their regret at her departure, and their best wishes for her future prosperity. The pastor of the church, Rev. A. E. Russ, M.A., spoke of the large number of Miss Elliott's friends whom he had found in his short acquaintance in the city. Brief speeches were also made by Messrs. Vanstone, Hall, Belfry and Stapleton. Miss Elliott thanked those present for their kindness, and the company was dismissed in proper Methodist order by the benediction from the pastor.

Those Troublesome Small Boys.

Two bags of nitrate of potash lay peacefully on a dray behind the City Hall, close to the Masonic Temple, Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. Several small boys in the vicinity had dissected a cartridge and obtained a quantity of gunpowder, which they determined to put to some use. Accordingly a powder train was laid on the truck connecting with the bags. A match was applied, and the potash commencing to blaze one of the bags was thrown on the sidewalk. A young man of remarkable presence of mind dashed a pail of water over the substance. Instantly a loud explosion resulted. The young man with the pail ran for dear life, while the report caused a big crowd to gather around. Another brilliant individual tolled the City Hall bell and summoned all the firemen in the city. Three departments were soon on the scene, but it only required one stream to put the potash bags beyond recognition. A few burned sidewalk planks was the outcome and the crowd laughed as it dispersed

The Health Guardians.

The Board of Health met Monday afternoon, present, Ald. Ivey, (chairman), Skinner, Wyatt, Mayor Taylor, Medical Health Officer Hutchinson, Acting-Secretary Grant, Dr. Gardiner and ex-Ald. Heaman. A petition was read from Mr. Coursey, et al, of Grey street east, complaining of night soil being deposited on the streets. Dr. Hutchinson explained that all cause of complaint had been remedied. It was decided that the chairman and medical health officer attend the annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario, to be held at Trenton, on Aug. 18. Dr. Gardiner spoke of the matter of laying a sewer on Queen's avenue before the block pavement be constructed on the ground that it would do away with the inconvenience of tearing up the pavement at any future time. Mayor Taylor suggested that the sewer pipe might be laid in the boulevard. No action was taken.

READING THE WRINKLE

These sensible girls, hearing so much about the wonderful advantages of using "Sunlight" Soap, have resolved to use it next wash-day, and are reading the directions on the wrapper, in order that they may know how to do a "wash" without hard rubbing, and without boiling the clothes or using washing powders. They will succeed. It's a capital "wrinkle" for all women who have washing to do. IIu xt

"German Syrup"

For Throat and Lungs

Hemorrhage Five Years.

"I have been ill for "about five years, "have had the best "medical advice, "and I took the first "dose in some doubt. This result-"ed in a few hours easy sleep. There "was no further hemorrhage till next "day, when I had a slight attack "which stopped almost immediate-"ly. By the third day all trace of "blood had disappeared and I had "recovered much strength. The "fourth day I sat up in bed and ate "my dinner, the first solid food for "two months. Since that time I "have gradually gotten better and "am now able to move about the "house. My death was daily ex-"pected and my recovery has been "a great surprise to my friends and "the doctor. There can be no doubt "about the effect of German Syrup, "as I had an attack just previous to "its use. The only relief was after "the first dose." J. R. LOUGHHEAD, Adelaide-Australia. 62
