Manigat and his men planned to go on this vessel to Hayti and begin hostilities

Colonial Reciprocity.

London, Jan. 29.-The Hon. Robert Reid, Minister of Defense for Victoria, Australia, is here, and will leave for Canada in March. He will endeavor to establish reciprocal trade arrangements between his colony and Canada. In connection with the other Australian representatives he will be present at the trade conference to be held in Ottawa in June. He is strongly urging the Imperial Government to give its support in the way of subsidies, to the Pacific cable scheme and to the Canadian-Australian Steamship Line.

The Times in its colonial article is strongly in favor of treasury aid for the Canadian-Australian steamship service.

The Lords Amend the Bill.

LONDON, Jan. 29. - The House of Lords to-day by a large majority rejected a proposal made by the Marquis of Ripon, Secretary of State for the Colonies, that the reasons of the House of Commons for disagreeing with the amendments made by the House of Lords to the Employers' Liability Bill be considered. The Earl of Camperdown then moved as an amendment that workmen in trades who have insurance funds to which their employers contribute be allowed to contract out of the provisions of the bill. The amendment was agreed to.

The Earl of Dudley also proposed an amendment that if the insurance funds were not sufficient and the employers were not willing to make up the deficiency the workmen would have their remedy by action at ordinary law. This amendment was also adopted and then the House adjourned.

A very heavy sea was running in the bay, and when the bark struck, the surf made a clean breach over her. It was reported the captain and six of the crew were ill. and this made the vessel short-handed. Nineteen men, owever, were fit for duty. The vessel took ground on a sandy bottom. six miles from where she had been anchored. The bark struck almost broadside on, and the surf pounded ber with terrific violence. As the tide rose the surf became stronger, and soon the sea was sweeping over the decks of the bark. Her hatches were evidently battened down and the companion-ways closed, for there were no signs of her filling. It was impossible, owing to the position of the stranded vessel, for any assistance to reach her, and in a short time she began to break up. Some of those on board attempted to reach shore by means of planks and spars, but they were swept off and disappeared almost as soon as they left the vessel. Not a person on the bark party, however, would maintain its inde-

American Visitors in Quebec Delighted With Our Weather.

Just the Thing for the Carniva!-Three Feet of Snew in Scme Places.

QUEBEC, Jan. 30.—A snow storm broke over the city during the night. It blew terribly and the wind howled in a frightful manner all night, but daybreak showed very little damage to the carnival decorations. Saplings were carried off from the roadsides which they protected. Flag-stones were broken and the bunting reduced to tatters. The city carnival committee have squads of men in readiness to clear the streets of the snow banks and repair whatever little damage was done to the carnival decorations. The Yankee visitors are thunderously delighted at such a burst of Canadian weather. A gentleman from New York, well known in the financial world, stood aghast before the windows of the Chateau looking at the clouds of drifting snow as it besieged the fortified city from down the ice-bound St. Lawrence. An American lady tried a short outing from the Chateau and came back delighted, but almost suffocated by the storm. Lord Aberdeen's train is five hours late, so that

CANADA AND HAWAII.

A Good Trade Possible Between Them-

But Our Tariff Must Be Lowered. OTTAWA, Jan. 30 .- The report of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce in regard to the visit of Mackenzie Bowell has reached here. Upon the question of cable communication the Board of Trade agrees that while connection with San Francisco would be preferable, as most of the Hawaiian commerce is with that port, the Government of Hawaii should be recommended to express its desire to facilitate in every way possible the Canadian Australian cable scheme. As to trade relations, the report of the Chamber of Commerce says in effect that with proper facilities Hawaii could send to British Columbia all the sugar, coffee, rice, etc., that could be disposed of, but adds: For the present nearly the whole of our sugars are under contract to be shipped to San Francisco, and therefore are not available for shipment to any other market, but it is not improbable that an arrangement could be made between the San Francisco and Vancouver refineries whereby the latter should receive its supplies from Honolulu, and so restrict the importation of sugar to the Pacific coast by discontinuing importations from Manila, In order to do this it would be necessary that the Canadian tariff be modified so as to admit ordinary Hawaiian sugar free. Hon, Edward Blake Addresses & Big Home Rule Meeting at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 .- Hon. Edward Blake, member for Longford in the Imperial Government, addressed an audience of nearly 2,000 people here to-night on the home rule question. Mr. Blake was attended by a large number of distinguished Irishmen, including Hon. John Costigan, Secretary of State for Canada, Solicitor-General Curran, Hon. James McShane and many others.

Mr. Blake was presented with an address, and in response made an eloquent speech, in which he reviewed the history of the Home Rule Bill. He declared that the Irish party in alliance with the English Liberal party, would keep up the struggle until home rule was obtained. The Irish pendence, and in order to do so, they counted on the national support of the Irish at home and abroad.

He will sail for England on Feb. 10. A total of $1,400 was subscribed at Mr. Blake's meeting to assist the home rule Royalty Likes Its Liquors - Parnell's Memoirs-The Khedive Coming-Turkey's Bad Navy-A Betrothal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 .- Mr. Edmund Yates, in his London cable to the Tribune,

The Princess Still in Society. The sensational statement in a contemporary that the Princess of Wales has decided to withdraw from society is utterly untrue; nor is it a fact that she has announced any resolve on the subject. The Princess has to a considerable extent withdrawn from society ever since the death of the Duke of Clarence, but she would have extended this season's "drawing-rooms" if the state of her health had not rendered it advisable for her to take another voyage to Italy and Greece. The Princess will go into society to a reasonable extent during her residence at Marlborough House next season, which will be from the third week in May until the end of July, after which

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert has just completed an unusually extensive overhauling and refitting at Portsmouth, and on last Wednesday went for a trip in the Solent for a trial of her machinery, with satisfactory results.

Egypt's Ruler Coming.

The Khedive intends to make a tour of the principal European courts this year, leaving Egypt early in May. Abbas Pacha will visit Vienna, St. Petersburg, the end of June. The Khedive will stay at Buckingham Palace as the guest of the Queen, who is to receive a visit from him. Michaelovitch-Xenle. No Cards.

The engagement of the Grand Duchess Xenie and the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, which the papers reported on Saturday, was announced by me about eighteen months ago. Official notification of their betrothal was postponed by command of the Emperor, in consequence of a scandal which was caused in the Russian court by the morganatic marriage which was contracted some time ago by Grand Duke Michael, the elder brother of the future bridegroom.

Right Royal "Booze." The Emperor William's present to Prince Bismarck consisted of a dozen bottles of the famous wine of Steinberg cabinet, of the great comet year, which is the finest and rarest wine in the Imperial cellars, and remarkable both for fragrance and strength, The gift is worthy of the mention, for all such wine is absolutely priceless, and is probably only to be found in the cellars of the Emperor and the Duke of Luxemburg, except for any stray bottles which may be hidden away in a few country houses. Old Emperor William sent half a dozen bottles of the same wine as a present to the Queen in 1887, and it was brought over by Emperor Frederick, then Crown Prince, himself. Fine Rheinish wines get more and more scarce every year, for there has not been a really first-class vintage since 1868. Turkey's Deplorable Navy.

Capt. Egerton, the British naval attache has, it is said, sent home from Constantinople a very lamentable report of the present condition of the Turkish navy. He says the fleet as an effective weapon of war no longer exists. I understand, however, that Capt. Egerton says the Turkish torpedo boats are capitally equipped and in excellent order, and that woe will certainly betide the Russians if they try carrying convoy troops across the Black Sea after Gladstone as an Author.

Mr. Gladstone has permitted a Madrid paper to translate an article on Blanco White, which he contributed to the February Review 49 years ago. Blanco White, having abandoned the priesthood in Spain, settled in Oxford and took orders in the Church of England, which in turn he abandoned for Unitarianism. His great friend and patron, Archbishop Whately, had hoped much from him as a living witness to the impossibility of Popery, out he subsequently refuted these points. He died in or near Liverpool in 1843.

Parnell's Memoirs.

Several minor political memoirs are soon to be published. Among them may be noted the long promised life of the late Mr. Parnell. With that dogged persistency which he has shown since he threw over the man who made him, Mr. Timothy Healy is said to be about to follow up the biography of his former chief with a bundle of reminiscences which will not tend to the glorification of the late Irish leader.

Keen Competition at the Drill Shed-

Last night being the regular practice night for Morris tube shooting, Col. Payne very kindly presented a silver spoon to be competed for by the officers after the close of the annual meeting. Some of the officers had never fired a shot with these rifles, and it was an agreeable surprise to find how well they could handle them. If the officers would take a greater interest in this very useful amusement it would undoubtedly result in great good to the regiment. A soldier is not much use if he is not posted in the use of his rifle, and if the company officers neglect this important work the men naturally cannot be induced to take much interest in it. The conditions were five shots at 200 yards, kneeling. The scores:

were presented by friends of the competitors. The conditions were 5 shots at 200 yards, kneeling, and 5 shots at 500 yards, prone, the juniors to be allowed 2 points, the third class men 3 points. After a very keen and interesting competition the result was

Light Beams Where Darkness Reigned

Paine's Celery Compound and Its Work the Topic of Conversation Everywhere.

The great Healer! The wonderful life restorer! The marvelous banisher of disease! Such are the expressions that come from people in every city, town and village of Canada where Paine's Celery Compound has been used. No other known human agency has every conferred such widespread and lasting blessings on suffering humanity, in this or any other land. Paine's Celery Compound has opened up to millions on this continent, a short, safe and pleasant avenue to the coveted realm of health, which formerly was seldom reached by the sick and diseased. The reat hea er and wonderful restorer has established strong and firm hope in hearts The biggest ditch in Western Canada is that being dredged in Kent county for a glorious light to beam where blackness and darkness formly reigned.

What does all this imply? What are the results to men and women? It means infinitely more than can be expressed in one brief article; the results are so wonderful and marvelous that the best physicians are astonished and now convinced that there exists an agency which, in the future, they can use to advantage in their practice. necessary to go back some three score years and ten and travel to the "Sunny South," where in Prince George county, Virginia, he first saw the light. His training which fitted him for the deceased, it is call use to advantage in their practice. Owing to the almost miraculous curative powers of Paine's Celery Compound, we have daily proof of the grave being robbed of its prey; wives restored to husbands and of its prey; wives restored to husbands and children; husbands saved from death and made strong to provide for those dependent on them, and children raised from beds of suffering and given back to loving parents.

Is there in the history of our nation any record of work that will compared with what has been done by Paine's Celery Compound? Facts and experiences prove that there never has existed any agency that has produced like benefits for our people. Notwithstanding all this, there are unprincipled men to be found in some parts of Canada who, for the sake of extra money profit, will recommend sufferers (when Paine's Celery Compound is asked for) to ry something else they represent as being just as good.

Ah! sufferers, this is the fatal rock on which many valuable lives are shipwrecked and lost. That false assertion, just as good, is never uttered from a sincere heart for your welfare. As the Sirens (mentioned in ancient mythology) lured men into their power by the charms of their entrancing and ravishing music, so, at the present hour, are scores of men and women lured by false representations and honeyed words into buying the something represented to be just as good.

Happily, all dealers are not alike; there are thousands in our midst who are in business and who work on true business principles. If a dealer tries to take advantage of you by asking you to take something else instead of Paine's Celery Compound, leave his store at once, and purchase from his neighbor and rival who will give you what you ask for.

Remember well that when you make up your mind to use Paine's Celery Compound your life depends upon it, and no other medicine can meet your condition. It is wisdom on your part to follow the example and advice of the thousands who have given their strong and clear testimony in favor of earth's best medicine.

ELECTION OF PUBLIC OFFICERS. The Province has been precipitated into discussion of the method of selecting a few officials, responsible for the enforcement of Provincial laws, and dependent upon fees collected, not from the general public, but from litigants, for their support. The Patrons of Industry have taken the ground that public officers, except judges, should be selected by vote of the people, just as members of Parliament are. Some county councils would fain have the Government relieved of the responsibility attending the administration of these Provincial laws, and have voted that the officers should be selected by the counties, pparently forgetful of the fact that the uties of Provincial officials do not affect the immediate locality alone, but concern the whole Province.

We would have no particular objection to the selection of public officials being transferred from the Government to the county councils, if we believed that the turnover would be an improvement on the present system. We take it that the councils would insist on selecting all officials doing business in the community, Dominion as well as Provincial, for the average Dominion official can be rated as one receiving his support from the county" with as much correctness as can the Provincial officers holding the positions of sheriff, registrar, division court clerk, or kindred offices.

If there is to be a change to a more democratic plan than that now prevalent with regard to the selection of public officials, however, it should be to that of direct election by the people, and not by transferring the selecting power from one body of men, who can be made wholly responsible for the work done by an official to another body of men who, in the nature of our representative institutions, could not very well exercise control over work performed in a part of the Province outside of the territory of which they are elected to take care.

It may be said that the Governments at Ottawa and Toronto will not be willing to transfer the duty of appointing the local administrative officials to the people, because the consequent loss of patronage would weaken their standing. Perhaps there is some truth in this statement. We question, however, if it is much advantage to a government to have the responsibility of selecting public officials. In the nature of things there cannot be more than one 92 years old, attended a meet of the office to every 20,000, or 30,000 or more of the population, and the man who makes it his business to look for office as a reward for doing his duty as an elector is more apt

one has well said that the political leader who has to make an appointment makes one ingrate and ten enemies by his act. Who does not know of instances where such a result has been evidenced? If the Government is weakened by giving up the appointing power, it must not be forgotten that the Opposition is weakened by its being unable to dangle prospective positions before officeseekers whose zeal would speedily cool if nothing but the public welfare at large

Suppose, then, that the change of selecting public officials should be so energetically demanded by the electors that the respective Governments were forced to provide for the selection in the manner demanded by the Patrons of Industry, as no halfway, ineffective measure would be satisfactory to them, or in fact to anyone who considers the whole situation. We would then have a revolution in the yearly elections. No longer would the electors have simply to consider who would prove the best men in the respective localities to administer the laws, to act as an executive in the management of public affairs, and to see that their purely county officials, such as road surveyor, engineer and clerk, were performing their duties efficiently. The scramble would be less lively over the election of reeves and councilors than over the triumph of party candidates for the various public offices.

We would have Peter Thomas and John Smith as candidates for the sheriffship.

James Thompson and Alexander Samuel, candidates for the deputy sheriff's position. William Duncan and Duncan McGregor, candidates for collector of inland revenue.

Uriah Wilson and Isthamur Smuck, candidates for collector of customs. Richard McIldowey and John Doe, candidates for division court clerk. Peter Tomkins and David Swankie, candidates for inland revenue officers. James Roe and Patrick O'Hair, candidates for oil inspectors; and so on along the

We observe that the only officers excluded by the Patrons of Industry from popular election are the judges. If the system of popular election is to prevail, then by all means let us have the judges elected as well. We in London have had sufficient experience of a Governmentselected judge to make us believe that the people could certainly be trusted to make no worse appointment.

With elective officials, too, would come election for a term, instead of during wanderers, and pigmies in stature, during good behavior as now, to say nothing f the fact that if an official elected by the people, he could hold his position for his term, no matter how inefficiently he performed his duties. This has been a great trouble in the United States, where elective officials are, to a greater or less extent, charged with the administration of the laws. And the worst of it is that once the system has been inaugurated, however badly it works, it seems to be impossible to get rid of it, just as it is next to impossible to get quit of a bad official unless the Government is held responsible for his conduct, as is the case in this Province with regard to all the administrators of Provincial laws except judges. Thus, while there are compensations in the elective system, there are drawbacks which ought to be seriously considered by the people before they decree the revolution.

THE LONDON SEAT STEAL CON-DEMNED IN BRITISH INDIA,

Canada is getting her name up. The fame of Judge William Elliot, of London, and of Judge Palmer, of New Brunswick, whose conduct on and off the bench have been the subject of remark in recent years. has reached British India. The Indian Jurist, in a recent number, publishes homily on the bench in Canada, taking for text the conduct of Judge Elliot in the infamous London Seat Steal on the one hand and the practices of Judge Palmer in the seaboard Province on the other. "These judicial scandals," remarks this British India authority, "are getting too common in Canada, and are bringing the bench into disrepute." This is a pretty sweeping statement. Well it is for Canadians that the large majority of the judges of Canada conduct themselves above reproach. What is needed is a purification of the Bench when well-established charges are brought against any one who sits on it. Sir John Thompson and his associates aimed a blow at the bench when he refused to investigate the charges against Judge Elliot, made on the responsibility of a member of Parliament on the floor of the House. If there had been nothing in these charges, surely the man attacked would have courted full investigation, but if he did not demand an opportunity to set himself right, the Minister of Justice should have been the first man to agree to a full and searching inquiry into the allegations so specifically formulated in Parliament. That he did not has led our far-off contemporary in India to regard the grave accusations of misconduct as of frequent occurrence, and to point the finger of scorn at our entire system of judiciary.

Year by year Canada is becoming more and more an ally and less a dependency of the United Kingdom. The work of Great Britain in governing and developing this continent has ended. We have acquired that stature which makes it our duty to depend on ourselves. But those unwearied energies which have in times past found expression in North America, Australia, New Zealand and India are now running in fresh channels in the southern portion of the African continent, and are likely to do for that portion of the globe, during the next century, what during the present one they achieved for the regions of the globe which we have mentioned. To those who have faith in the future of the Anglo-Saxon we commend this volume. There is much in it that will prove interesting, both with regard to the country and its people. Those of our readers who read the last volumes of Mr. Stanley will be interested in Dr. Johnston's

"In the chase he has no peer in any tribe in Africa, and knows better than any other how to obtain and prepare most virulent and promptly fatal poisons with which to smear the sharp points of his tiny arrows. while his small size and cat-like movements in the grass enable him to approach to within a short distance of his prey unseen. I had an opportunity last night of observing the effect of their poisoned shafts and also their mode of hunting. A little fellow came to our camp to beg salt. While trying to talk with him through one of the drivers, he suddenly held up his hand and motioned us to be silent. He flung the quiver with his arrows over his shoulder, and grasping his tiny bow, glided swiftly off into the grass in a stooping posture. Looking in the direction on which he seemed bent, we saw at a long distance the heads and necks of two giraffes appearing in the back-ground of an ant hill. In a short time the cunning hunter had got within a few yards of ahem, still unobserved; fitting an arrow to his bow string, in an instant he had aimed at and hit the larger of the two. The animal gave a frightened jump, and leisurely walked away, the bushman returning as stealthily as he went. On expressing our surprise that he did not folow up the game, he, in the coolest manner possible, said, 'Why should I drive the meat away? It will not go far.'

"Nor was his confidence in the weapon misplaced, as he proved by the excellent girafie steaks we had for breakfast next morning. The little hunter somewhat reuctantly parted with his interesting weapon in exchange for a teacupful of salt and three yards of cloth."

Away in the center region of Africa, visited by Dr. Johnston, he met a Canadian, Mr. Gifford, from the Northwest, acting as manager for a trading association. One of the singular features of the place (Palachwe) is this: The African chief there enforces total prohibition of intoxicants with great strictness, the punishment being banishment and a total confiscation of lands and goods belonging to the offender. The chief is no respecter of persons, his own brother-in-law having been driven out as an offender a few months before the arrival of Dr. Johnston. The doctor mentions that there is not the same regard for domestic purity as for sobriety, and that immorality is, in this regard, more brazenfaced than he has ever seen it among the most uncivilized elsewhere. We cordially recommend the book to our readers. The American edition sells for $5. The work here sells at $4-a moderate figure, considering the character of the matter and the mechanical excellence of the book.

A SINCULAR SUIT

Brought by a Detroit Woman in Toronto Court.

The Parties Said to Have Lived for a Time in London-Plaintiff Wins the Case, and Defendant Must Fulfill the Provisions of His Bond.

TORONTO, Jan. 29. - One of the most singular suits that has been tried for some years was heard in the Chancery Court at Osgoode Hall to-day. The plaintiff was Mrs. Pleasant Bradford, who formerly lived in Montreal, but now resides at No. 80 Campeau street, Detroit, Mich.

In 1874, and while she was living with her husband in Montreal, William Lister Sagar, a wealthy English gentleman, admired her, and continued his admiration for three years, when he returned to England. The fair plaintiff immediately followed.

The year following they came back together and settled at Niagara-on-the-Lake, with the husband still living in Montreal.

But again Mr. Sagar went across the line, leaving the plaintiff at Niagara-on-the-Lake and taking with him their child. Shortly after Sagar was arrested for abduction. This trouble, however, was settled by the defendant giving his bond to pay her $300 a year on account of their previous relations. He also gave her a house and lot at Niagara-on-the-Lake. Shortly after the child died, and soon after the plaintiff sold her property and removed to London, Ont. Here she joined her lawful husband and lived for a few years, regularly receiving the $300. This was about 1882. About this time the husband died and the plaintiff removed to Detroit, where she now lives. Until last spring plaintiff had received on the bond $3,675 in payment. In the spring default was made and defendant got in arrears to date for which the suit was brought. This afteanoon the singular case was ried and judgment given plaintiff. Sagar hasafamily now in Toronto, having married in late years. The Detroit city directory does not give the name of Mrs. Pleasant Bradford.

The Great Prohibition Convention in Toronto-A Call to Delegates and Their Instructions.

Toronto, Jan. 29. -- As the time of the great prohibition convention on Feb. 6 lraws near the interest grows apace, and a triumphant rally of the temperance cohorts is expected in the Pavilion. The purpose is not only to rejoice over the victory at the polls but to consider the wisest and most energetic methods to carry out the wishes of the people as so emphatically ex-

The plan of representation is as follows: Every church and society to be entitled to two representatives, and each church or society having more than 50 members, to each 50 or fractional part of 50 after the full 50 members.

The following organizations are entitled to representation on the basis named:

G. T., councils of the R. T. of T., branches of the League of the Cross, prohibition clubs, and other prohibition or temperance organizations, church congregations, Young Men's Christian Associations, Salvation Army corps, societies of Christian Endeavor, Epworth Leagues, branches of St. Andrew's Brotherhood, Baptist Young People's Unions, any other young people's associations in connection with church work; the provincial officers and executive committee of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, the chairman and secretary of each county, riding, or city plebiseize committee, and the chairman of the committee for each municipality or ward, to be also members of the convention. The convention will meet in the Horticultura! Pavilion, on Feb. 6, at 9:30 a.m. Reduced fares will be given by all railway lines. Each delegate will purchase, on starting, a regular single fare ticket to Toronto. He will also procure from the ticket agent at the same time a standard certificate, filled out, showing that he has purchased said ticket. This certificate he will present to the secretary of the convention, who will sign it. It will then entitle him to a return ticket free of cost.

Delegates are specially requested to procure the standard certificates before starting, as otherwise they will not be entitled to the free return. Those having to travel over roads operated by different companies should procure a certificate for each.

The call for thorough representation which has been sent out is signed by the following: JOHN J. MACLAREN, chairman Alliance Executive.

HAMILTON, Jan. 29. - The packages containing $1,500 which were taken between Barrie and Beeton from the express car on the Grand Trunk Railway have not yet turned up, and the authorities of the Canadian Express Company are still in the dark as to what became of them. The Bell Telephone Co.'s Capital. Boston, Mass., Jan. 29 -The announcement made Sunday that the Bell Telephone Company contemplated asking the Legislature for an increase of its capital stock of $30,000,000, bears substantial confirmation by the admission of ex-Governor Long, counsel for the company, that while he could not say what the amount asked would be, he would say that the company would certainly require at least double its present capital, which is $20,000,000.

Insanity Among Women. The large increase in mental trouble among women is directly traceable to a diseased state of their peculiar and delicate organism. Much of this is brought about by carelessness, late hours, thin shoes, tight corsets, over-work, anxiety and sometimes by excesses. When her delicate mechanism is disabled or deranged nothing equals Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in restoring it to order.

LEGAL QUERIES

IGNORANCE. - A lends B money and C goes security; B paid the interest every year. If the note runs over six years is C still good as security? Ans.—Not upon the facts stated.

WYOMING. - Does the disqualification of an elected councilor necessitate a new election? ANS .- Provided he disclaims according to the statute, in which case the candidate having the next highest number of votes takes the seat. If no disclaimer there would have to be a new election.

Avon.-What are the duties of a resident governess? Ans.-Her duties depend upon the nature of the education, pupils, positions of her employers, and agreement between the parties, and may include all or any services in connection with her pupils. There are no legally defined special duties.

ARVA.-If a husband deserts his wife. leaving her with a family of small children and no way of supporting them, can she get them in the Home of Refuge, and if so how will she proceed? Ans .- Yes. Apply personally or through your clergyman to the Board of Management of the Protestant Orphans' Home, London.

CANFIELD .- B representing himself as owning 50 acres of land, bought a horse from A and gave his note, which has not been paid, and now B claims he had deeded his land to his son before buying the horse. A sues B and gets judgment. How should A proceed to get anything from B? ANS. -Have the deed set aside as void against creditors, or seize the horse under execution. Consult a solicitor.

ADELAIDE. - A owns a farm. B came to work for him and they talked about going into partnership. B was to be married and wanted a house built on farm, for which he consented to pay half. The agreement was never drawn out and fell through. Now, A wants to charge B for half the house. Can he do so? Ans .- Not upon the facts stated. The agreement should have been in writing, but, if the parties acted in it and B has had the benefit of the house as intended by the talk, it may be that he is liable. Consult a lawyer.

VOTERS' LIST. - Is there any penalty incurred by the municipal clerk or the deputy returning officer by adding a name to the voters' list after it has been revised and certified by the county judge, provided such voter was in other respects qualified, and could such voter legally vote? ANS .-Any willful and deliberate alteration, omission or insertion in the certified voters' list by any person subjects him to a penalty of $20. The deputy returning officer knowingly giving a ballot to a person so added is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months. The vote would be unlawful and might void the election in case of a majority of one for any candidate.

AYTON .- My wife's father died in 1870, willing her his life insurance. The company was not mentioned in the will and the policy was never found after his death. How shall I proceed to find the company and if found can I legally collect the insurance and interest since his death? Ans.—If there is no policy, receipts or notices among the papers of her father, which should be examined carefully, you might advertise or inquire of his solicitor be entitled to an additional delegate for and any other lawyers who ever did business for him; also of all life insurance agents in the neighborhood of where he lived. The executors of the will should have hunted this matter up. They were Branches of the W. C. T. U., divisions the proper persons to collect from the Sons of Temperance, lodges of the I. O. company when found, unless they had as> pany, any claim on the policy would now be outlawed. You had better consult your lawyer specially.

> IGNORANT. — What persons are entitled to vote for members of (a) municipal council, (b) Legislative Assembly, (c) House of Commons? What qualifications entitle a person to a seat in any of the above? ANS .-The persons entitled to be municipal voters are men, unmarried women and widows, who are British subjects and assessed as owners, tenants, as farmers' sons or for income sufficient to qualify them, viz.: $100 in villages and townships, $200 in towns, $300 in towns having a population over 3,000, and $400 in cities. The persons entitled to be voters at Provincial elections are practically every man resident in the electoral district, and at Dominion elections every man (resident or non-resident) whose name is on the voters' list, and any man resident or having property in the municipality is entitled to have his name on the Dominion voters' list. For fuller particulars refer to the Dominion Electoral Franchise Act and the Ontario Manhood Franchise Act. The property qualification for municipal councilors is freehold $200 in villages and townships, $600 in towns, $1,000 in cities, or double this amount of leasehold. There is no property qualification required for members in the Legislative Assembly or House of Commons. In every case the member must be a British subject. KINGSVILLE. - The secretary-treasurer of the school board has held the position of municipal auditor for a number of years. During the greater part of this time he has been a trustee in addition to holding the other two offices. He has ostensibly been auditor of his own accounts, the municipal auditors being the auditors of the school accounts. No statement of receipts or expenditures of school moneys, either published or otherwise, has been given to the ratepayers for years. What steps will it be necessary to take to have the finances of the school board legally conducted, and the treasurer's accounts properly audited? Is the secretary. treasurer liable for a breach of the law, and can he or the trustees or both be proceeded against under the statutes of the Province? Should the treasurer's accounts be audited for the whole period named, and if so what steps should be taken to have such audit effected? Ans. - Report all the facts to the Minister of Education, Toronto. The application of the existing statute law to the various complications referred to requires that more information

ONTARIO HAS A GOOD SYSTEM. (Toronto Telegram.)

Ontario has a better system of dividing nunicipal, provincial and federal powers tlan any other country in the world. Ontario's escape from many of the small sandals and troubles which afflict American communities is due in part to the superior iny of the Canadian character, and in part to the inferiority of American institutions. In the Province municipal authority is sipreme within the limits marked out by tle general law. The provincial authority is surreme outside the municipal sphere until it reaches the domain of federal supremacy established by the British North America Act. Thus there is no dangerous mixture of powers. Provincial authority does not invade the domain of the municipality, and the federal power no longer encroaches on the territory of the city or of the Province. Law is better enforced, because the weapons of law enforcement are all in the grip of a drong central power.

In the States it is different. The Legisature steps in and apportions the franchise of the city among its friends. The cities elect judges, registrars and sheriffs to administer State laws. Local sentiment is all powerful, and if there be no local sentiment is favor of law enforcement there is no law esforcement, as in Ontario, where the authorities prosecute regardless of local senti-

MRS. ANNIE S. AUSTIN, the newly elected mayor of Pleasanton, Kan., is described as "a buxom woman of 200 pounds, and quite intelligent." Her husband is a railroad employe. She was the leading speaker in the campaign which resulted in her election, and electioneered so cleverly that she went into office with a majority of twelve votes. In her church and among the Good Templars as well as in politics Mrs. Austin is a shining light.

AUTOMATIC nickel-in-the-slot telephones have been introduced experimentally in Chicago. If they prove a success they will be placed in all public places in the city. Their introduction is designed to head off the deadheads, and to afford to the company a revenue on transient business, The machines are provided with four slots ranging respectively for coins from a nickel to a half a dollar, accordingly as the telephones are to be used for city, surburban or long distance service. Each coin rings a different bell at the main office, and special operators are employed to attend the machines

The Seventh in Good Shape. The annual meeting of the officers of the Seventh Battalion was held in the orderlyroom at the drill shed last night. Those present were: Col. Payne, Major Hayes, Captains Dawson, Kingsmill, Moore, Graham and Thomas, and Lieutenants Fitz-Prescriptions gerald, Allison and Magee. The reports presented were far beyond the expectations of the most sanguine of the officers, the standing of the battalion now being 82½ per cent. In numbers also a high rank is taken. A battalion complete is supposed RECIPES to number 480 officers and men, and the Seventh came within 40 of the mark. The finance committee reported that all pills had been met, leaving still in the treasury nearly $200.

The band committee has had plenty to do during the year. The cost of the band reached $454, and it may be mentioned the citizens get the benefit of the band, while the battalion gets very little if anything in return for the outlay.

The regimental committee could only report a successful rifle match and an enjoyable trip to Sarnia, with the total expenses amounting to $464 30.

The appointment of the working committees for the coming year resulted in the choice of the following: Finance-Major Beattie, Major Hayes, Capt. Moore.

The subject was discussed at the convention, but no action was taken, although one delegate said he would not have become member if he had understood that he was subscribing to such intolerance.

The most important business actually transacted was the adoption of a declaration that the P. P. of the members are not voters. The cash in the treasury on Dec. 31 was $157, which has since been increased to $1,155. This is obtained by a capitation tax of 30 cents per member. On the basis of the present membership the annual income of the central body would be $11,067, not a very large sum out of which to pay the expenses of elections throughout the Province. - [Hamilton Times.

MAKES THE HOGS DRUNK Then the Smiling Stranger Sells a

Guaranteed Cure for $25. PADUCAH, Ky., Jan. 30.—A new swindle by which many farmers in Western Kentucky have been beaten out of considerable sums has come to light. A stranger appears in a neighborhood to buy a farm, and some morning he happens to be at a farmhouse when the hogs are acting most queerly, appearing to be in great misery. The stranger knows all about it, and declares that the hogs have the "reeling bots." He can cure them for $25 and throw in a recipe; no pay until cured. The medicine is administered, and by the next day the bogs are all right. The disease spreads through the neighborhood, the cure is a specific. Now it is known the stranger fed the hogs whiskysoaked corn the night before he called at

A Terrible Epidemic. WINNIPEG, Jan. 30 .- A terrible epidemic of typhus is raging at Grand Forks, Grafton and other Dakota towns just across the boundary line. As many as fourteen deaths occur a day. The Manitoba health authorities are about to take vigorous measures to prevent the spread of the epidemic into Manitoba. It is said that the outbreak is due to drinking Red River water, which contains disease germs at the points mentioned.

A Good Ex-Husband. NEW YORK, Jan. 30 .- Col. William E. Sinn, the theatrical manager, whose wife, known on the stage as Cora Tanner, has recently secured a divorce from him in Dakota on the ground of non-support, publishes a letter in which he denies that he refused to support his wife, declares he still loves her and that he intends to settle a snug sum upon her upon his return from New York, to prevent her from suffering from the hard times.

Why to this," replied Jepson, seating himself across his chair and leaning his arms reappear. No one felt sufficiently energetic upon the back, "I was told a story this to go after him. We had only just strength morning at the hospital by an old French enough to sit still and feebly abuse him. At the end of an hour we were all feeling very much better. At the end of an hour and a half we were glad he had not re-turned when he ought to have, and were inly curious as to what had become of him.

In the evening, strolling through the village, we saw him sitting by the open door of his mother's cottage, with a shawi wrapped round him. He was looking worn and ill.
"Why, Jimmy," I said, "what's the matter?
Why didn't you come back this morning?" "I couldn't, sir," Jimmy answered. "I was

"And what did he say?"

"E said that was only your nonsense, sir, and that I'd better have enough for one to begin with; and then he asked me if I'd been eating green apples again."

"And you told him?" "Yees, sir, I teld 'im I'd 'ad a few, and 'e Baid it served me right, an that 'e' oped it would be a warning to me. And then 'e put something fizzy in a glass and told me to

"Did one single scintilla of thought of any kind occur to you in connection with the matter, Jimmy, from beginning to end?"

People who never met Jimmy disbelieve this story. They argue that its premises are in discord with the known laws governing human nature, that its details do not square with the average of probability. ople who have seen and conversed with Jimmy accept it with simple faith.

There are many other anecdotes concerning Jimmy that I could relate, but the fear lest they might not be believed debars me. The advent of Jepson-which I trust the reader has not entirely forgotten, it was, he may remember, this episode that started me talking about Jimmy-cheered us up considerably. Jepson was always at his best when other things were at their worst. It was not that he struggled in Mark Tapley fashion to appear most cheerful when most depressed; it was that petty misfortunes and mishaps genuinely amused and inspired him. Most of us can recall our unpleasant experiences with amused affection; Jepson possessed the robuster philosophy that enabled him to enjoy his during their actual progress. He arrived drenched to the skin, chuckling hugely at the idea of having come down on a visit to a househoat in such

Under his warming influence the hard lines on our faces thawed, and by supper time we were, as all Englishmen and women who wish to enjoy life should be, independent of the weather.

Later on, as if disheartened by our inchairs out on the deck, and sat watching the lightning, which still played incesantly. Then, not unnaturally, the talk drifted into a sombre channel, and we began recounting stories dealing with the gloomy and mysterious side of life.

Some of these were worth remembering, and some were not. The one that left the strongest impression on my mind was a tale that Jepson told us.

I had just been relating a somewhat curious experience of my own. I met a man in the Strand one day that I knew very well, as I thought, though I had not seen him for years. We walked together to Charing Cross, and there we shook hands and parted. Next morning I spoke of this meeting to a mutual friend, and then I learnt, for the first time, that the man had died six months before.

The natural inference was that I had mistaken one man for another, an error that, not having a good memory for faces, I frequently fall into. What was remarkable about the matter, however, was that throughout our walk I had conversed with the man under the impression that he was that other dead man, and, whether by coincidence, his replies had never once suggested to me my mistake.

As soon as I finished speaking, Jepson, who had been listening very thoughtfully, asked me if I believed in spiritualism "to its fullest extent."

"That is rather a large question," I antwered. "What do you mean by spiritualism to its fullest extent?"
"Well, do you believe that the spirits of the dead have not only the power of revisiting this earth at their will, but that, when here, they have the power of action, or, rather, of exciting to action? Let me put a definite case. A spiritualist friend of mine, a sensible and by no means imaginative man, once told me that a table, through the medium of which the spirit of a friend had medium of which the spirit of a friend had been in the habit of communicating with him, came slowly across the room towards him of its own accord one night, as he sat alone, and pinioned him against the wall. Now, can any of you believe that, or can't you?"

"I could," Brown took it upon himself to reply: "but before doing so, I should wish for an introduction to the friend who told you the story. "Speaking generally," he continued, "it seems to me that the difference between what we call the natural and the supernatural is merely the difference hetween frequency and rarity of occurence. Having regard to the phenomena we are compelled to admit, I think it illogical to disbelieve anything that we are not able to disprove.

For my part," remarked McShaugnassy. "I can believe in the ability of our spirit friends to give the quaint entertainments credited to them much easier than I can in their desire to do so.

"You mean," added Jepson, "that you cannot understand why a spirit, not compelled as we are by the exigencies of society, should care to spend its evenings carrying on a labored and childish conversation with a room full of abnormally uninteresting

"That is precisely what I cannot understand," McShaugnassy agreed. "Nor I, either," said Jepson. "But I was thinking of something very different alto-gether. Suppose a man died with the dear-est wish of his heart unfulfilled, do you believe that his spirit might have power to return to earth and complete the interrupted

"Well," answered McShaugnassy, "if one admits the possibility of spirits retaining any interest in the affairs of this world at all, it is certainly more reasonable to imagine them engaged upon such a task as you suggest than to believe that they occupy themselves with the performance of mere

The actual facts are few and simple; all that is known can be read in the Paris police records of 42 years ago.
"The most important part of the case, however, is the part that is not known, and that will never be known.

"The story begins with a great wrong done by one man unto another man. What the wrong was I do not knw. I am inclined to think, however, that it was connected with a woman. I think that because he who had been wronged hated him who had wronged with a hate such as does not often burn in a man's brain unless it be fanned by the memory of a woman's breath.

"Still that is only conjecture, and the point is immaterial. The man who had done the wrong fled and the other man followed him. It became a point to point race, the first man having the advantage of a day's start. The course was the whole world and the stakes were the first man's

A Wonderful Cure.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DIScovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evi- this week. dent signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little affect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know." 3 The good hackman is known by his

COURTEOUS WILFRID LAURIER, ("Koko" in the Toronto Empire.)

Perhaps the most pleasing duty to which was ever assigned, in the interviewing line, was that which secured me an introduction to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. I was detailed to ask him a series of questions boy. He tumbled back into his punt and pushed off vigorously. I watched him land drawing room tricks. But what are you in Toronto and made known my mission. I was at once admitted to the presence of the great leader of the Reform party. He was sitting alone in the library writing. Immediately I entered the room he arose and

> "Are you visiting me as Koko, my young friend, or as an Empire reporter?" he said, as he gracefully motioned me to a chair. I replied that I approached him in a dual capacity. He laughed and thoroughly appreciated the situation; then he replied; extended his hand in friendly greeting.

"I am most pleased to see you as Koko. but since I have nothing at the present time to say to the public through the public prints, I must refuse to meet the reporter.' Then he began to talk about the very subjects I had been detailed to interview him upon in such a manner as to rivet my attention. I had heard him many times in the House and had admired the brilliancy of his oratory, but never before had I found myself under the magic spell of his overpowering personality. He was frank, plausible, and apparently confidential. When he touched upon a particular subject, at that time exercising the public mind, his eyes became brilliant, his face flushed and his voice became particularly clear and musical. When I arose to depart he again shook hands and requested me to call upon him at Ottawa, but did not caution me not to publish the conversation just passed. I failed in my object. I did not secure an interview for my paper, but I gained a sin-

-Mr. W. H. Minifie was in London this week, and had an interview with Mayor Essery of that city. Mayor Essery is of the opinion that the Grand Trunk is not in a position to erect their shops either at Sarnia, London or Stratford. The mayor told Mr. Minifie that London had offered the G. T. R. the running powers over the London and Port Stanley road for twenty years for a rental of 20 cents, which was equivalent to a bonus of over $200,000, and the removal of all obnoxious clauses in the other agreement, the only proviso being the concentration of all their works west of taken by Mayor Essery as pratty good velfare. evidence that they are not in accept either of the three offers .- [Sarnia

Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise.

Arrangements for the rendition of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" by the London Choral Society are fast nearing completion. The society had a great deal of hard work in this composition, which contains some of the grandest and most difficult choruses ever attempted in London, while the orchestra, which is a very prominent feature in the work, has never attained higher results. Everything points to a very successful performance of this great sacred cantata on Feb. 15, and it is expected that quite a large number of the music-loving public will come from the neighboring towns to attend the concert. After the success gained by the society in its initial appearance last season there is no doubt that the citizens will turn out in sufficiently large numbers to completely fill the Opera House.

"Knoxonian" in London. The Rev. R. N. Grant, D.D., of Orillia, is well known throughout Canada, not only as an able pulpit and platform man, but as writer of extremely sensible and witty papers which appear from week to week in the columns of the Canada Presbyterian under the nom de plume of "Knoxonian." His two sermons in the new First Presbyterian Church on Sunday last were much appreciated. The powerful evening discourse on the faith and trust of Job will not soon be forgotten. Last evening he delivered his lecture on "Some Elements of Congregational Success." It abounded in shrewd suggestions and racy sayings. Altogether, Dr. R. N. Grant's visit to London has been a distinct pleasure to those interested. Rev. W. J. Clark, the pastor, occupied the chair, and Mr. Barron conducted the service of song, besides contributing several organ solos. Miss Lillywhite sang a beautiful solo in a charming manner. Mr. Fax also gave a solo. The attendance was very large,

Much Ado About Nothing. The "Loval Protestant Women" applied to the mayor for the use of the City Hall to night and Thursday in order that Prof. Corkery might deliver a couple of lectures. The mayor had not power to grant it, and called a special meeting of the council last night to deal with the request. The notices to the aldermen were not sent out until late in the afternoon, and consequently only seven or eight turned up. The others living at a distance naturally thought it hardly worth attending for so small a matter. The meeting could do nothing without a quorum and adjourned. An advertisement containing the names of the absentees was sent to the papers, but afterwards recalled. The City Hall has been filled with several hundred chairs preparatory to the lecture, which is advertised to be given there.

Big Sales. Mr. J. W. Jones yesterday sold at auction three large stocks.

The first was that of James Scott, Wallaceburg, valued at $8,195 53. It consisted of drygoods, tweeds, clothing, men's furnishings, hats, caps and furs and was purchased by J. A. Graves, the price paid being 60 cents on the dollar.

The second was the ctock of R. J. Mc-Laughlin & Co., of Wallaceburg, composed of drygoods, clothing, tweeds, boots and shoes, other goods and shop furniture. It was valued at $4,627 71, and was bought by Henry Macklin, of this city, at 47 cents on the dollar.

The third was that of E. L. Cleveland, There are plenty of people who look all around town before they buy. You may be sure they don't come back here just to do us a favor. They come back from selfish reasons. They come because they have found that our siding, shingles, lumber are of the highest grades and our prices save them money. W. D.
