THE WARMTH OF AFFECTION.

A floweret lay sleeping,
A dew drop came peeping,
And charmed with the form of the delicate blossom;
"My touch," said the drop,
"Is bright leaves will open,
And then I shall fall in its soft fragrant bosom."

A while it lay glancing,
When a moon-beam came dancing,
And seeing the floweret still sweetly reposing,
"This is mine," said the beam,
"With my smiles pretty gleam,
To hasten the time of its soft leaves unfolding."

A zephyr came gliding,
It heard the two chiding,
And thus it addressed them—"Ah! vain are you trying:
For the sweet breathing tone
That the floweret will own—
The blossom of beauty will wake but to sighing."

But the flower still lay dreaming,
Till the sun rose up beaming,
And then waking it answered—"False suitors be hold me:
Your touch, smile, and breath,
Has: the coldness of death,
The warmth of affection alone can unfold me."

The heart is that flower,
With coldness its dower,
And it slumbers in darkness; 'neath earthly care
Break it.
Till a Sun from above,
Pours on it his love,
And the power of his beam, alone can awake it.

THE BELLMANSHIP.

A TRUE STORY.

But here, before entering on this disagreeable portion of my task, I cannot forbear venting a few sighs over the uncertainty of friendship. A chain that it has taken years to rivet, may be pulled in fifty pieces by a few syllables—in that respect resembling the knot which jinglers tie upon a handkerchief, apparently strong enough to hang the most determined and fattest of suicides, but which, by being simply blown upon, untwines itself in an instant, and leaves not a vestige of its having ever been tied. Oh juggler's knot! oh friendship! (not to continue the interjections, and say) oh love! you ought all three to be ashamed of yourselves, and not be blown aside by a few puffs of wind, whether those puffs are mere inarticulate blowings, such as those with which, in my impatient youth, I used to cool my pudding, or form themselves into words and syllable men's names. Who could have thought that a friendship of twenty years could have been dissolved by such a very inconsiderable event as the election of John Tapps to the bellmanship of Buzzeleton? Yet, so it was; and the volcano that smouldered in the bosom of Mr. Padden was blown up to explosive heat, and astounded our peaceful town with a prodigious eruption, in the manner I now proceed to relate.

On the evening of Tuesday, our amiable friend Bob waited impatiently for the return of his father, when that gentleman at last made his appearance, looking somewhat discomfited by the defeat of his candidate.

"Ha!" said the tender-hearted Robert, "I knew how it would be! I see by your face Hicks has won."

"By no means, Robert, he has been defeated; but remember, Robert, the word, ha, is a very ungentlemanly—very ungentlemanly. I never say ha!"

"What! Tapps made bellman? Never heard of such thing; but no wonder, old Simpkins'n has it all his own way. We must all yield, I s'pose, and be called whatever names he likes to call us."

"Calling names is very ungentlemanly; I never call names. Who calls any body names?"

"Why, old Simpkins'n to be sure. He laid'em on pretty thick. I've heard all about it, though I wasn't there."

"Do you allude to any thing he said to-day?"

"To be sure I do; and every day, I s'pose. When one has such a tidy little stock of nicknames, I s'pose he don't grudge 'em to his friends."

"Do you mean to say Mr. Sir Simpkinson was so ungentlemanly, so very ungentlemanly, as to insinuate any personal allusion to me?"

"Don't! Who do you think he meant by all that rignarole about parabolas, and hallucinations, and tiger's eyes? Your eyes, you know, father, are nothing to boast of; but, if I were in your shoes, I would let nobody talk of tiger's eyes—be hanged if I would." And with this magnificent declaration, Mr. Robert swung out of the room. And now, oh reader! begin the correspondence.

No. 1.
"Mr. Padden sends compliments to Mr. Simpkinson—would feel obliged by explanation of following passage in Mr. S.'s speech of yesterday, viz. "Cringe to prevaricated hallucination, and bend at shrine of deaf logistigated parabola, and yield submission to an anatomized hyperbole." Also, farther on, what was Mr. S.'s intention in allusion to tiger's eyes? An early answer will be an obligation."

"High St., Wednesday 12th."

No. 2.
"Sir,—in allusion to the document forwarded to me by the hand of Bob, your son, touching certain impressions detained in my speech of yesterday, on the subject of Tapp's elevation to the bellmanship of this highly civilized and indigineous community, I beg to demand on what grounds you impute the sensibility of my remarks, and repudiate, with disgust and obduracy, the language and contorted epithets which you charge me with having employed. Sir, in the sacred discharge of a duty, I scorn the most venerable asseverations, and cast to the winds the wisest expediency, and hold but the high and paramount necessity of holding equal the balance between justice and iniquity! Yes, this course I have been my maximum; and this course I mean to pursue, undeteriorated from the right path by all the eccentricities of decorum, and all the sinuities of acumen. With this explanation, which I hope will be deemed satisfactory, I remain, Sir, your humble servant,

J. SIMPKINSON.

No. 3.
"Mr. Padden again sends compliments to Mr. Simpkinson, and wishes a direct answer. Did you, sir, mean to call me a parabola, &c. &c. So no more at present, but remains"

No. 4.
"Sir,—I stand on my right as a public man. I throw myself before the tribunal of my country, and assert the privilege of a speaker, on a great public occasion, to say what he chooses, without being called upon for his meaning. Sir, oratory would be at an end, if its best prerogative were trampled under foot. To no one will I be answerable but to my own conscience; that minutiae, whose voice I never obey; and therefore, sir, in this concatenation of affairs, and refusing this allegorical mode of questioning, I decline telling whether I meant to designate you as a parabola or not. With these sentiments, I inscribe myself your humble servant,

J. SIMPKINSON."

No. 5.
"Sir,—I must say your conduct is very ungentlemanly—very ungentlemanly indeed; and I must decline the honor of your society at dinner on Friday. Also, your son Plantagenet need not renew his correspondence with my daughter, especially as he has frequently neglected to pay the post. So no more, but remains your humble servant,

J. PADDEN."

Friday came—no dinner-party. Saturday came—no letter from young Plantagenet: Bob looking pleased as Punch, Mary drooping and distressed; the two old men fidgety, and London, in the bleared eyes of the young lover, a desolate wilderness; and all owing to Tapp's election to the bellmanship. What great events from trivial causes spring!

It was two months after these melancholy events—that is to say, when August had first fortively begun to dip his brush into the pallet of November, and had already tinged the leaves of the elm walk of Buzzeleton with the faintest possible tinge of yellow—on the twentieth day of August, 1837, a young lady was taking a disconsolate walk by the side of our beautiful river—pretty foot, plump figure, gentle eyes,—by George! it could be nobody else but Mary Padden! And Mary Padden it was. Not far from her, but sulkily stalking along on the outer row of trees, was the illustrious mob. It is no wonder, therefore, that Mary looked disconsolate. The Yahoo, as if for the convenience of any of the passers-by, who were not entirely deaf, took care, by retaining his distant position, to force the conversation into a very audible pitch—a conversation, by-the-bye, in which he bore the principal part, Mary's portion of it being extremely monosyllabic.

"Why, Mary you are certainly the unluckiest gal I ever saw. Taddy is a deuce eight worse than Dr. Darrell. He's to be married, they say, next week."

(To be concluded in our next.)

A fire occurred at Constantinople on the 12th August, which destroyed 3,007 houses. The number of live lost is stated at thirty. It originated in the carelessness of a woman cooking fish; and would have been vastly more destructive but for the aid of the Prince de Joinville and the French sailors.

THE TRANSCRIPT.

QUEBEC, FRIDAY, 18th OCT. 1859.

New York papers of Friday and Saturday evening reached us by yesterday's mail. The principal topic is the late movements on the Money Markets, and the suspension of Specie Payments by the Banks in Philadelphia. The subjoined items will give some idea of the excitement and confusion that prevail among the monetary circles.

Saturday—There has been a terrible fall on the prices of stocks as will be seen from the following table:—

Comparative table.
October 7th.	10th.	11th	12th.
U. S. Bank, 100	93	77	70.

showing a fall of thirty and one quarter per cent in four days.

The Pennsylvania Banks have followed suit. The events in banking and trade, recorded during the present week, have been so numerous and astounding that the mind can hardly grasp their ultimate results at the first or second effort of thought. The failure of suspension of the U. S. Bank, both in Europe and America, the panic created in consequence thereof throughout the commercial world, the strange connection which this explosion has with morals in society, and with honesty in trade, are all matters of the deepest import to the people of this country, and of France and England.

The crisis has now arrived, and the very fate of the banking system is in the lapse of the next few months.

The New York Banks, to their immortal honor, have determined not to suspend specie payments, and on the success of this determination hangs the fate of the whole paper and banking system, in both hemispheres. The gross and wicked mismanagement of the United States bank has led the way to a train of financial and moral evils that will vitiate every principle of rectitude, if the banks of New York do not maintain their honorable position. Go into Wall street—hear the miserable twaddlers talk—the banks must suspend, or the merchants will break. Be so. Let the merchants break. No man, in the present crisis, will break that ought not to have broken long ago.

All the Baltimore banks have suspended specie payments. It was recommended to the City Council to issue Corporation notes to meet the wants of the community. Great excitement was created.

CONSUL TRIST AND THE SLAVE TRADE.

Among the vessels which arrived at New York on the 1st instant, was the schr. Catherine, of Baltimore, a prize to H. M. brig Dolphin. She was seized on a charge of being engaged in the slave trade, and brought to New York out of respect to the American Government, instead of being adjudicated upon at Sierra Leone as she would have been if belonging to any nation with which the British government has a treaty, for the suppression of the slave trade. She was fitted out at Havana and the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser says this is more of Consul Trist's handwork, and that there will be no lack of American slaves to capture so long as he is kept in office at Havana. A very pretty piece of business truly—the land of the "largest liberty" doing the "largest" business in slavery. The Commercial Advertiser's article on the subject concludes with the following observations which we hope will be attended to:—

"But why do the British cruisers send their captives to the United States for adjudication? Nothing will be done with them here. If our government will not do justice upon them at home, at all events it will not venture, for very shame, to interpose in their behalf when justice is done upon them elsewhere."

Since the above was in type, we find from New York papers, that Martin Van Buren has at length done justice in the premises, by dismissing the offending Consul.

A fleet of packet ships followed the Liverpool: the Burgundy, Havre, 5th Sept. 3; Cambodge, Liverpool, 7th; Sanson, London 8th; Rhone, Havre 9th; Roscius, Liverpool 13th; Erie, Havre 26th Aug.

The British Queen steam ship has again been spoken, making good progress. On the 6th instant, at 7 p. m.—then out 5 days and 3 hours, she was in lat. 43 41, long. 54 24, with a cloud of canvas sail.

NEW PACKET SHIPS.—On the 10th inst. at New York, was launched, a splendid new packet-ship called the Patrick Henry, of sufficient size to carry one thousand tons of merchandise and forty first-class passengers. She is to sail for England on the 7th proximo, under the command of Captain Joseph C. Dolan. Another packet of the same tonnage, to be named the New York, was to be launched this day—to be commanded by Capt. Burrows, late of the South America. A third is to be launched next month, to be commanded by Captain Thompson, formerly of the Saint Andrew. The cost of these packets will be $250,000.

FROM THE CELESTIAL EMPIRE AGAIN.

The ship Panama arrived at New York on Friday last and brought Macao dates of the 4th June, from which we extract the following intelligence. It will be seen that Canton has been deserted by the "Barbarians", and that the "Celestials" routine to issue "Vermilion Edicts."

The Chinese government still persisted in demanding the Bond, as it was termed, of foreigners, on securing with the Hong merchants ships entering the port, and consequently no foreign vessels were brought into the river. Under a conviction that the trade could not go on till the government should abandon the attempt to enforce the new regulations of which it manifested no intention, nearly all the foreign commercial houses had completely broken up their establishments in Canton, and retired to Macao or elsewhere; and very few of any nation remained. All the foreign Consuls were at Macao.

The chief superintendent of British trade, Mr. Charles Elliott, had chartered the bark Ariel, which sailed from Macao, May 29th, and passed Anjer, July 6th, to carry despatches to the British government via a port on the Red Sea (Cossier) wher she was to remain till they could be forwarded to London, and an answer obtained thence, which the same vessel was to bring back to Macao.

An edict, published on the first of June, by the Canton government, gave public notice, that the Imperial Commissioner had received from Pekin, authority to destroy the opium in his possession (20,283 chests) in any way he might deem proper; and it was currently reported that instead of burning it, as at first he alleged in his edict to the foreigners, was his imperial command, or sending it to Pekin by sea, for which the requisite number of junks had been subsequently chartered, he was preparing reservoirs near the river-bank, in which it was intended the whole should be mixed with salt water and other substances, to destroy its narcotic qualities, and render it unfit for use, and when wrought into a liquid state, the composition was allowed to flow into the sea.

Very little foreign business was doing in Canton, and commercial confidence was nearly destroyed by the violent and oppressive proceedings of the government against natives having any connection with foreigners or the foreign trade.

Captain Elliott and the English left Canton on the 23d of May, and on the day previous he published an edict cautioning his countrymen from going up the river. He said that if they did, it would be at their own personal risk.

The British merchants had signed a memorial to Lord Palmerston, urgently requesting his attention to the British Chinese affairs. It goes into the particulars of the opium trade from its beginning.

The Chinese beat every other nation in proclamations and edicts. In one dated May 23d, ordering the opium to be given up, Lin Hing Imperial Commissioner, said—

"But, taking into indulgent consideration the conduct of the said foreigners, after they had received commands to deliver up their opium, in speedily joining with Elliott to deliver it up, and thereby showing that they are yet sensible to fear the laws, we, the commissioner and the government, have reverently embodied the heavenlike benevolence of the great emperor, and remitted the punishment of their offences. There shall certainly be no renewed leniency or indulgence. Be earnest and speedy! Be earnest and speedy! A special order.

Taukwang, 19th year, 4th month, 11th day.

THE WEST INDIES.

Files of the Barbadian to the 7th September inclusive have been received at New York. The paper of the 7th complains bitterly of a drought with which the Island was afflicted, said to be the severest ever known at that season of the year. Its effects had been very injurious upon the cane crop, &c., but a postscript announces a welcome fall of rain in heavy showers.

The Royal Gazette of the 13th Aug. contains accounts of terrible ravages among the troops; the deaths had been three or four daily for several weeks. The disease baffled all medical skill. The town was quite healthy. At Bridgetown and in the vicinity great alarm existed on account of the appearance of the small pox on a neighbouring plantation; two persons had died of it.

By papers from the Spanish coast intelligence had been received of the almost total destruction by fire of the city of Ruiz de Capatal of the province of Choco. Very few buildings were left standing, and in a few hours thousands of miserable wretches were reduced to the most abject poverty. The loss in merchandize alone is estimated at one million of dollars.

SICKNESS AT THE SOUTH.—On the 1st inst. at Mobile, the papers state that it is their painful duty to announce that there is no improvement in the health of the city. At New Orleans, although the disease was evidently on the decline, the number of admissions on the 30th ult. was 22, and these of course are not the only cases occurring in the city. On the first two days of the month, there were 22 deaths—on the succeeding week 127—the next week 190—the next 80—and the last week 51.

FROM MONTEVIDEO.—Capt. Day, of the ship Exlio, who arrived at New York on Saturday, reported that an American ship, whose name he could not remember, had been seized by the French, on an allegation, that she had violated the blockade. Capt. D. brings six days later than any previous advices, but no intelligence beyond the foregoing.

There was a report in circulation last evening, that the sympathizers had crossed Lake Ontario, and burned nearly all the houses in Coburg. It was said that only Mr. Calcott's Distillery and dwelling, and about a dozen of other houses, escaped. It was also reported that an unsuccessful attempt was made to burn Fort Hope the same night. We give these reports as we heard them.

The above is from the Montreal Courier of Tuesday. Private letters received here, yesterday, allude to the reports, and say there is no foundation for them.

If things continue going on in the United States as they exist at present, the whole Union will become a mass of confusion and destruction. We have not space to chronicle a tithe of the numerous burnings, "Swartwoutings" and other disasters that are daily taking place, and therefore are obliged to confine our attention to those of more serious magnitude. In a previous column we give a summary of the awful state of the money market, and a few days ago we published accounts of two very destructive fires. We have now another to record—the new and flourishing town of Aiken, in South Carolina was nearly reduced to ashes on the 4th inst.—loss estimated at $100,000. A large factory at Worcester was also destroyed by fire on the 6th inst.—loss $20,000 to $25,000.

ARRIVAL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

On Wednesday morning, shortly before three o'clock, one of the Aides de Camp of the Right HONBLE. CHARLES POULETT THOMPSON arrived express from Halifax, bearing the intelligence that Her Majesty's ship Pique had arrived in the St. Lawrence and was, when he left her the previous evening, at anchor in Pislet. Major General Sir James McDonnell soon after receiving this information despatched the steamer Canada to tow up the Pique and an express was, we learn, at the same time forwarded to Montreal with the news. During the greater part of Wednesday all day were turned to the river and the telegraph office was not until 5 p. m. that the Canada was seen sounding the point without, however, anything in tow, which circumstance led to a variety of conjectures. The impression that the new Governor had embarked on board the steamer was very general and a Grand Honour of the 11th Regiment was ordered down to the Queen's wharf, and a large number of people assembled at every place where a view of the expected landing could be obtained. But disappointment ensued, for, on the Canada coming to the wharf it was found that she had left the Pique at Crane Island in consequence of experiencing a heavy wind from the westward, and that the New Governor General and the Commander of the Force, Sir R. B. Jackson, remained on board the frigate with their respective suites, with the exception of Mr. Murdoch (the Civil Secretary) and an Aide de Camp who came up to the Canada. The Guard of Honour was, in consequence, marched back to barracks and the spectators went home. Mr. Murdoch was the bearer of despatches to Sir John Colborne, Sir James McDonnell, and, we are informed, to the Chief Justice of the Provinces; those for Sir John Colborne were sent off by the St. George, steamer which left at 8 o'clock. The steamer Canada again started the same evening, to tow up the Pique and at 10 a.m. yesterday was reported by the telegraph 15 miles below on her way up. At 3 past 2 p.m. she came round the point, this time with the expected charge, the Guard of Honour was again ordered down to the Queen's wharf and the spectators once more repaired to the most likely spots for witnessing the disembarking. At 3 o'clock the Pique had anchored off the Cul-de-Sac and Sir James McDonnell immediately went on board. An hour and a half passed away, at the end of which it was ascertained that the Governor would not disembark until the arrival here of His Excellency Sir John Colborne, who is expected to-day.

His Excellency the Right Hon. P. Thompson will hold a levee in Quebec on Monday next, and it is said that on Tuesday he will leave for Montreal, hold a levee in that city on Thursday, and then proceed en route to Toronto. It is further stated that His Excellency will be determined by future events as to whether the seat of government be established at Quebec or Montreal.

On coming round the point, the Pique's fore-top-gallant mast came down by the run and lodged itself in the foremast without, however, doing any damage that we have heard of; and the spar was soon replaced in its proper situation aloft.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.—We extract the following from the Woodstock Times of the 12th inst; it is the only paragraph of importance we can obtain from the papers received by yesterday's Halifax mail:—

Colonel Mudge and Mr. Featherstonhaugh, we understand, have concluded their exploration of the expedition have retraced. The Commissioners are expected here in a short time on their return. Nothing of course has transpired that can be depended upon as the result of their investigation. We have been informed however that no light has been discovered only at the source of the Pennobscot and there we have been informed they are daily marked.

THE QUEBEC TRANSCRIPT.

FINE ARTS.—We had occasion a few days ago to visit the Picture Gallery, and we were much surprised and gratified to observe a fac simile of Sully's portrait of Her Majesty which was lately exhibited here for the benefit of the charitable fund of the St. George's Society at Philadelphia. Mr. Legat, to whose talents our city is indebted for this fine copy, deserves much praise as an artist for the simplicity, and many disadvantages which he has transferred the likeness of the original to his canvas. The handling and coloring have been closely adhered to, as well as the tone, which is finely rendered. More attention appears to have been given to the drapery than in the original. Mr. Legat has handsomely given the public free admission to the Gallery, where his picture will be found in the site lately occupied by the original. Those who have not already had an opportunity of seeing this picture, will, we are sure, be highly delighted by a visit to the Gallery.

MADAME STELLA it will be seen by referring to her advertisement, to give another concert this evening at the Albion Hotel. Through inadvertence we omitted in our last to notice this lady's first soiree. We were surprised to see the room but half full on that occasion, and many regretted afterwards that they had lost the opportunity of hearing one of the first singers of the day. Mlle. Stella has appeared at many of the first theatres in Europe; she has great brilliancy of execution, combined with a voice of much sweetness, and her tenor is peculiarly rich and full. Miss Hill, who is already favourably known in this city, assisted Mlle. Stella, by presiding at the piano, and in the course of the evening she sang two or three songs with much taste and sweetness.

A rich treat may be expected this evening as the programme is very attractive, and we trust a full attendance of the lovers of song will be present to receive the fair vocalist.

AURORA BOREALIS.—We find from English papers by the Liverpool, that the Aurora Borealis, which was visible at Quebec on the 3rd ult. was also discernible in England, Scotland and Ireland, and from the description given it must have presented a similar appearance to that which it bore in this city.

Among other vessels which have arrived home in safety from Quebec, we are pleased to find mention of Mr. Munn's large ship, the United Kingdom, Captain M'Coll. This vessel sailed at Liverpool on the 17th ultimo, having arrived from Quebec on the 19th August, making the passage in 29 days. Our friend Capt. Reid, of the Robert Ker, who furnished us with late news in August last, got home in the short space of twenty two days.

The United Service Gazette says that the destination of the 10th Regt. is Canada, to relieve the 11th, which is going home, the 67th are to proceed to Canada.

There are upwards of 2000 recruits in the Chatham Barracks. They will shortly be sent off to India, to join their Regiments.

We should like to be informed why Ensign Baring, son, we believe, of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, should have been appointed to the staff of his uncle Mr. Poulett Thompson, in direct contravention of the rules and regulations of the service which strictly enjoin that no officer shall be deemed eligible for a staff situation until he has performed regimental duty for a period of two years. (See page 47 of the General Regulations and Orders for the Army.)—United Service Gazette.

We are informed on good authority that official application has been made to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty by Admiral the Hon. Sir Robert Stoford, the Commander in Chief in the Mediterranean, for two field officers of the Royal Marine Corps to serve in the fleet. It appears that from 1,000 to 1,200 men composed of detachments from the several ships have frequently landed for field exercise, under the command of a Captain; the senior is the squadron taking this duty. Admiral Sir Robert Stoford is of opinion that it will be better managed by having two field officers of the corps attached to the squadron, and the necessary orders to head quarters are expected to be issued forthwith.

The following circular was issued by the Horse Guards in July last:—

HONORABLE GUARDS, July 10th 1839. In reference to the instructions contained in page 219 of the General Regulations and Orders of the Army, the General Commanding in Chief desires, that commanding Officers of Regiments and depots will be particularly careful, that no soldier, being a Roman Catholic, or of any religious persuasion differing from the Established Church, shall be compelled to attend Divine Worship of the Church of England, and that every soldier will be at full liberty to attend the worship of Almighty God, according to the forms prescribed by his own religion, when military duty does not interfere. By command of the Right Hon. General Lord Hill, Commanding in Chief.

JOHN MACDONALD, Adjt. Genl. We understand that Her Majesty has been so deeply engaged in festivities at Windsor that she had not found leisure to sign the necessary papers for last night's (13th) Military Gazette; and that consequently, there will be two next week.—United Service Gazette. (It will be seen that the Gazette of the 13th was published on the 17th.)

Lieut. General John Maister has been appointed to the command of the Forces in the Windward and Leeward Islands, in succession to Lieut. General Sir Samford Whittingham, K. C. B., and K. C. H.

THE favorable opinion I formerly entertained of the waters of the Caledonia Springs is MORE THAN CONFIRMED, as well from the benefits personally derived from their use, as from what I observed of their effects on others. OLDRIDGE'S
BALM OF COLUMBIA, FOR THE HAIR.
ITS positive qualities are as follows:—
1st—For infants, keeping the head free from scurf, and causing a luxuriant growth of hair.
2nd—For ladies after child birth, restoring the skin to its natural strength and firmness, and preventing the falling out of the hair.
3rd—For any person recovering from debility, the same effect is produced.
4th—If used in infancy till a good growth is started, it may be preserved by attention to the latest period of life.
5th—It frees the head from dandruff, strengthens the roots, imparts health and vigour to the circulation, and prevents the hair from changing colour or getting gray.
6th—It causes the hair to curl beautifully when done up in it over night.
No ladies toilets should ever be made without it.
7th—Children who have by any means contracted vermin in the head, are immediately and perfectly cured of them by its use. It is infallible.
For sale by nearly all respectable druggists—
JOHN MUSSON,
Agent for Quebec, and to Messrs. SIMS & BOWLES, and BEGG & URQUHART.
THE LATE MAYOR of Philadelphia has certified under seal of the city to the character of several Divines, Physicians, and gentlemen of high standing who declare positively under their own hands (all of which may be seen at the place named below) that the Balm of Columbia is not only a certain preservative, but positively a restorative of the human hair; also a cure for Dandruff. Who shall dispute or who go bald?

HEADACHE,
SICK OR NERVOUS.
THE extraordinary reputation that Dr. Spohn's remedy for this distressing complaint is every day gaining is certainly a matter of much astonishment. That so much suffering should have existed for ages without any discovery of an effectual preventive, or cure, is truly a subject of much regret, but Dr. S. now assures the public that such a remedy has been invented as will convince the most incredulous.—The principles upon which it acts are simple and plain. It is an admitted fact that this complaint, whether Sick Headache, or Nervous Headache, arises primarily from the Stomach—those who think they have the Nervous Headache may rest assured that this organ, the stomach, is the first cause, that the system has become vitiated or debilitated, through the stomach, and that only through the same channel must they expect a restoration of the nature and healthy functions of the system. This object, Dr. Spohn's remedy is eminently calculated to attain. The truth of this position cannot be controverted, and the sooner sufferers with the headache become convinced of it, the sooner, will their sufferings end in restoration of health.—Dr. Spohn pledges his professional reputation on this fact. The remedy may be had of apothecaries generally throughout the United States.

THE HUMAN HAIR.
WHERE the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more preposterous than the use of oils, grease or any fatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood vessels which carry nourishment to the bulb are obstructed, then the oils, &c., may be good, as they tend to relax the skin; but alone they are of no avail. There must be a stimulus to rouse the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood.—Extract from Cutler's Treatise on the Hair.
The BALM OF COLUMBIA is the only preparation that can have that effect, being entirely free from any oily substance.

A CASE IN POINT.
I had unfortunately lost nearly all the hair from the top of my head, when I commenced the use of the Balm of Columbia, and have, by the use of two bottles had my head covered with a fine growth of hair.—There can be no mistake in the matter, as any of my friends can see by calling on me. I had also become quite gray, but had the gray hairs plucked out, and it has grown in as the Balm says of the natural colour. If any body doubts these facts, let them call upon me and see. I bought the Balm of Comstock & Co., 2, Fletcher Street.
