

DEATH AT DRUMBO STILL REMAINS MYSTERIOUS ONE

Evidence Favors Theory That Man Was Unintentionally Poisoned.

Neither Result of Post-mortem Nor Analysis Ready for Inquest.

WOODSTOCK, April 12.—Coroner Mackay of this city went out to Drumbo yesterday and continued the inquest on the body of Frederick Beemer, who died in convulsions in this village on March 25, after having taken several doses of salts.

The coroner expressed some disappointment at the failure of the Government analysis of the contents of the stomach to arrive, nor was the report of the two doctors appointed to conduct the post-mortem on hand, all of which necessitated another adjournment. A considerable amount of evidence, however, was taken, but the coroner expressed some disappointment at the failure of the Government analysis of the contents of the stomach to arrive, nor was the report of the two doctors appointed to conduct the post-mortem on hand, all of which necessitated another adjournment.

Charles Cassidy, a neighbor, testified that Beemer had told him he felt like a man who had been poisoned.

MR. BUNNELL COMPLIMENTED

Excellent Sale of City Bonds Has Just Been Effected.

The City Treasurer, with the concurrence and approval of the Mayor and chairman of the Finance Committee, has concluded a very satisfactory sale of a large block of city debentures.

Table listing bond sales: Bond for Public School purposes $60,000, Bond for Collegiate Institute purposes $10,000, Bond for Water Works purposes $60,000, Bond for Hospital purposes $85,000, Bond for Local Improvement purposes $15,000.

The price realized, although very liberal, is generally less than that obtained at some time ago, is considered very satisfactory in view of the present business conditions.

It is recognized that Brantford's debentures are very carefully handled, and in a letter received by Mr. Bunnell this morning from the manager of one of the largest securities corporations in Toronto, the remark was made: "You have, as usual, sold your debentures to a very great advantage."

Good style, great wear, pleasing colors, low prices in Crompton carpets.

Square Deal Campaign Offers Great Chance

Opportunity Knocks at Your Door. This Journal Pays Its Way For Every Service Rendered To It.

The "Square Deal" Campaign of the Courier has rightly engaged the approval of the public.

They realize that the paper is "Supreme in Everything," and that each day makes that claim still more secure.

Old subscribers are enthusiastic, and the new ones—of whom there are a large number—are equally pleased.

In fact, the feeling towards the paper is in all quarters and by all classes exceedingly cordial.

The company intends to merit that confidence, and no expense has been or will be spared in any department.

Those who have entered on the campaign have been receiving cash right over the counter for each subscription brought in, or renewed, and they are a pleased lot of workers.

Remember, you can enter at any time, and you will be handsomely paid for what you do.

On top of that you have a chance to win one of many handsome prizes, a list of which appears on another page, and which are to be seen in store windows.

Prince George Hotel Sold

The Prince George Hotel in this city, for some months past conducted by Mr. J. W. Moore, was sold this week, lease and goodwill. Mr. Mat Mitchell of Brampton is the purchaser, and he will assume possession June 1, providing his local license commissioners make the transfer. Mr. Mitchell is a famous old lacrosse player and headed the Brampton Juniors eight years ago in a final game against Brantford. He is well known here.

THAT INQUIRY TO BE LAUNCHED

One Alderman Who Wants Buzz Cart For City Engineer Starts Story.

"The same man who informed the Expositors that an investigation would be conducted into Board of Works affairs, and an enquiry regarding the use of city tools and materials by employees, is the same alderman who has been buttonholing the other members of the department to secure a buzz-cart for the City Engineer. He has lost his buzz-cart."

The above announcement was made this morning by a member of the City Council, who stated that in regard to the proposed investigation, a resolution had twice been introduced recently at the City Council to have the salaries, wages per hour and other information. The resolution was voted down on both occasions, it being left to the Board of Works to go into the matter. This was criticised by the alderman in connection with the investigation. Ald. Suddaby said he had heard of no charges, and it had not been officially intimated to him in any way.

Major Jones, the City Engineer, did not care to discuss the matter this morning, but he remarked, "If an investigation is not held, we will demand one."

Little Boy Badly Hurt

A serious accident occurred this morning shortly before noon, of which little Roy Hartley, the three and a half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hartley, 117 Wellington street, was the victim. The child, with his mother, was going along Dalhousie street, when a team of horses emerged from Mickledymen's lumber yard, and knocked the little one down.

One of the animals stepped on the youngster's head, inflicting severe injuries. The poor little victim was rushed to the hospital, and Dr. Ashton was soon in attendance. When the Courier 'phoned, the child was still unconscious, and his injuries are considered to be very serious.

Naval Blockade Now a Joke "There Ain't No Situation"

The Liberal Fight is Over, and General Belief is That Senate Will Not Venture to Kill the Measure—Parliament Will Soon Prorogue.

OTTAWA, April 12.—"There ain't no situation." Prorogation is a matter of weeks only. Officially the Opposition is saying nothing as to the course which will be followed next week. Unofficially, it is freely admitted that the fight is over. The Government has in its hand a weapon against which no obstruction can continue, much less succeed. Liberals fully realize and admit the strength of the Conservative position. The talk now is of a vote on the closure resolution by the middle of next week, perhaps earlier with a division on the Naval Bill following within a reasonable time probably on a fixed date.

There seems to-day a very general belief that the Senate Liberals will not take the responsibility of throwing out the naval bill. The Ottawa Free Press, the Liberal organ of the capital, a paper which has consistently urged on the obstructionists, and which recently advised the Opposition to fight the closure constitutionally or unconstitutionally, came out to-day with the suggestion that "Liberalism on condition that the hateful closure is dropped, should now make the offer to permit the Naval Bill to pass, reserving the right to continue the campaign of education against it in the country." The Free Press admits that "Liberalism has failed to force the Borden Government to the country at once for a mandate," and adds: "That fact might as well be faced now as later." In order to "save Canada from the greater of two evils" the Free Press earnestly suggests that the time has come for Liberalism to abandon its demand for an immediate election, and permit the Borden Navy Bill to be passed on condition that the closure be dropped. According to this paper, "Liberalism cannot help throwing up its hands in horror at this proposed closure legislation. In face of it, and rather than that it should become law forever, Liberalism can afford to transfer its fight against the Naval Bill to the public platform in the constituencies."

MONDAY'S STRIKE IN BELGIUM WILL BE LABOR'S STRUGGLE FOR VOTE

Premier Recognizes That Situation is Very Grave One—Socialist Unions Are Strongly Organized For the Fight—No Bread Delivery in Some Cities.

[Canadian Press Despatch] CHARLEROI, Belgium, April 12.—Bill boards all over this city have been covered to-day with great red posters on which is printed the Socialist call to the workmen to strike for manhood suffrage by laying down their tools on Monday, when it is expected that from 300,000 to 400,000 men will quit work.

The placards are printed in large type and pointed out to the workmen. "This is a strike of folded arms and not of raised fists. Respect the liberty of those who wish to work, and the authorities will also respect in like manner the freedom of those who wish to cease work."

Complete passiveness is urged upon the strikers by the Socialist unions, which tell them that injury done "to our opponents is injury done to our cause."

Government posters have been hung by the side of the Socialist placards, and these quote in full article 310 of the penal code respecting those interfering with the right to work, and calling attention to the penalties inflicted by the law for any infringement.

No Bread Monday DAMPREMY, Belgium, April 12.—The bakers of this city notified their turner has undertaken to feed fifty children during the strike, and various others have agreed to pay the strikers a week's wages. The strike here will be almost complete. Only enough workmen will remain at their posts to keep the machinery in good working order so that the employes will not suffer from their property being neglected.

Employers Help Out HERSTAL, Belgium, April 12.—A number of employers of this city, while deploring the strike, have decided to aid their hands in participating in the demonstration in favor of manhood suffrage. One manufacturer to-day that they will not deliver any bread after Monday.

Heavy Snowstorm BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 12.—A heavy snowstorm struck the whole of Belgium last night and was accompanied by severe frost. Gardens, orchards and vegetable fields were ruined in the country districts, and the telegraph and telephone service was greatly interrupted.

The premier said he hoped the strike would be a peaceful one, as had been announced. The spectacle of the Labor party calmly and dignifiedly demonstrating its strength and discipline could not fail to make an impression upon the nation. The premier said, however, that he had made every preparation to stop disturbances.

Buried In Roses

Body of J. P. Morgan Lies in State - Funeral On Monday.

[Canadian Press Despatch] NEW YORK, April 12.—Almost buried in roses and twining ivy, the great triple coffin that contains the body of J. P. Morgan lies to-day in the west wing of the marble library which holds his books and many of his art treasures. There it will repose until 1,500 of his friends and associates pay final tribute to his memory at the funeral services to be held at St. George's Church on Monday.

Paris News

Eight Caravans of Gypsies Hit the Town—Other Notes.

PARIS, April 12.—Eight caravans of gypsies struck Paris on Thursday and left again yesterday. During their brief stay in town their numbers were increased by one, a baby being born Thursday afternoon.

The large plate glass window for the store of T. Shawcross & Son arrived this week, but was broken while the workmen were putting it in place. It was an extra large plate, the freight on it from Toronto being $48, as it had to be shipped on a flat car.

Mr. J. S. Armilage will be a member of the Canadian bowlers team which will visit the old country this coming summer.

Mr. William Redman yesterday purchased a very fine team of heavy draught horses, paying over five hundred dollars for them. He will engage in the teaming business this year.

Mr. Wells, who purchased the Randall property on Banfield street will probably divide it, making it into a store house, and also build two more houses on the same lot facing Jane street.

Grand River Lodge, I.O.O.F., will hold their annual church service, on April 20th, where they will attend the Methodist Church in a body.

Members Shied At Big Bill

The account of special Engineer Somerville for $269, five days at $50 per, and $19 expenses, in connection with Lake Erie & Northern Railway matters, came up at the meeting of the finance committee last night. It did not receive an O.K., although it was thought that the city would have to pay. The proposed bill, in view of the bill presented, received a K.O. (knockout), however, as far as the members of the finance committee were concerned. The agitation for the joy-cart has been going on apace for some days in aldermanic circles, although the item was struck out by the City Council at its last meeting.

BAD RUNAWAY ON TERRACE HILL

Alfred Parmenter, Eight Year Old Boy, Was Severely Injured.

Alf. Parmenter, the eight-year-old son of Mr. Bert Parmenter, a well-known Terrace Hill resident, met with a bad accident last evening in a runaway. The young lad got up on the grocery rig of Mr. Alex. Lamb, which stood in front of Mr. Millan's house, Terrace Hill street. The spirited team of ponies bolted during the absence of the owner, and dashed up Terrace Hill street to Sydenham St. It was on Sydenham street where young Parmenter was thrown out. He sustained a broken leg and broken collarbone. The runaway was stopped at the grocery store, minor damage having been done to the rig. The little fellow is reported to be doing as well as can be expected to-day, although beside his injuries he received a severe shaking up.

WILL PROTEST SCHOOL VOTE

Mr. John Robertson Does Not Like the Way Things Were Run at Bellview.

In connection with the action taken at the Bellview school meeting last night, when it was decided to enlarge the present school after two votes had been taken, Mr. John Robertson proposes to launch a legal protest to the proceedings on three grounds.

It is alleged that undue influence was used in securing the vote, an offer of taxes being made to some who were unable to pay the same. Unfair tactics in taking the vote are alleged by the chairman and secretary, and it is also held that the chairman had no right to vote unless in case of a tie.

The Legal Side. In reference to the question brought up at the meeting last night in regard to tenants voting, a Courier representative called upon School Inspector T. W. Standing and asked concerning the matter.

Mr. Standing said that assuredly a tenant had the right to vote on school matters.

County Solicitor Watts was asked the same question and replied, "Most assuredly he can vote." Mr. Watts then produced a copy of the School Act, which reads as follows:

"Where a poll is granted on any school question, the secretary shall prepare a poll book with two separate columns, marked 'For' and 'Against,' and shall write therein the name and residence of each ratepayer voting on the question, and shall record his vote by setting the figure '1' opposite his name in the proper column so as to show how he votes on the question."

Section 4 provides for a declaration to be taken by those against whom objections have been raised. The qualifications are, age, six months' residence, and being a supporter of the public school.

Returned Account. The Adams Wagon Company has returned their bill of $6.10 charged them for street watering, to the city clerk, claiming that they should not be charged the whole amount for street watering, claiming that residents on the other side of Mohawk street should pay their share of the cost of the sprinkling.

Grand Trunk Has Already Paid Col. Wilkes for Land.

But City Could Have Secured It Much Cheaper Weeks Ago.

Col. Wilkes whose property in the Holmedale was recently the subject of an arbitration and award which stirred up a vigorous protest in the City Council was asked yesterday if it were true that he had offered to make a settlement to the city, so that the agreement between the Grand Trunk and city for the construction of the switch might be carried out.

Colonel Wilkes stated that there was no necessity of making any compromise as he had been paid the money by the Grand Trunk under the arbitration proceedings. As far as he was concerned it was closed. He received something over $3,000 for the strip of land in the Holmedale.

From the municipal authorities the Courier was informed that Colonel Wilkes had offered to take $500 for the property with a right of way attached thereto for the remainder of his property, but before the matter was finally settled in this way, the Grand Trunk came across with something like $3,000 to Colonel Wilkes, and naturally the Colonel accepted that amount.

Now, the Grand Trunk under the agreement with the city expects the city to reimburse it for the amount paid to Colonel Wilkes, when the guardians of the civic financial treasury could have made a settlement for $500. But this the city doesn't propose to do, and it is held that the Holmedale switch agreement not having been ratified by a vote of the ratepayers is an illegal one.

Whether there will be a Grand Trunk switch in the Holmedale is a matter of doubt. Had the compromise agreement been effected with Colonel Wilkes the city would have kept its bargain, but there was strong objection to paying such a large sum for the land owned by Colonel Wilkes, as awarded under arbitration at which the city was not represented.

SANITARIUM TO OPEN SOON

Board of Directors Held Meeting More Money Urgently Required.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the new Brant Sanitarium held yesterday, it was reported that the main building of the hospital was ready to receive the necessary furnishings and equipment. Vice-president Cook and Mr. Watts were authorized to order the same and to see the doctors in regard to the staff necessary for the opening of the hospital and its management. The necessary assistance will at once be secured.

The contract was let to Messrs. Schultz Bos for the erection of a morgue and garage, both being necessary for the hospital. The contract price is $700. The treasurer reported that there were a number of subscribers who had not paid up, and as there was an additional outlay of $1,000, it is earnestly requested that payments be received. Money is at present needed to pay the contractors.

The directors planned to have the hospital ready to receive patients at an early date.

You can pay more and get less for your money if you buy your rugs outside of Crompton's.

Go to the service in the Congregational Church Sunday evening.

SOME GRIT RUBBISH

The Toronto Globe is still lashing itself into a puerile fury over what it is pleased to term "an insult to Laurier."

It further alleges that Conservatives are now busy trying to explain away what was done.

In reality they're not doing anything of the kind, and don't need to.

That which happened and properly happened, Laurier brought upon his own head.

He was neatly out manoeuvred in a perfectly legitimate way under a rule which Sir Wilfrid himself introduced one year ago.

In other words he got the medicine which he had prepared to use on Conservatives, if occasion arose, and when he realized the situation he commenced to fume and rave.

Just listen to this talk of his:

"Let me repeat to my Right Hon. friend the Prime Minister: as you are fair, so shall you meet with fairness; as you are unjust, so shall you meet with injustice; as you sow, so shall you reap. The poison that you offer us to-day will come to your own lips at some future day. We are in the minority; we can be gagged; we can be prevented from expressing our opinions; you can trample upon our bodies. But, sir, the day of reckoning will come, and it will come as soon as we have a dissolution of the present Parliament."

What do you think of that for the language of an ex-Premier?

In reality the unfair tactics in this whole business have been on the part of Laurier and his disgruntled henchmen, such as Editor Macdonald of the Toronto Globe, Sydney Fisher, Emmerson and others of that ilk.

Premier Borden, with great courtesy and forbearance allowed the wind jammers more than enough time for their blocking game, and in the end he very properly demonstrated who was boss.

All thinking men, not utterly blinded by extreme partisanship, will heartily approve of what was done as in the best interests of the country.

There will have to be a closure rule, such as a Liberal Premier introduced in the Old Land. Not to be arbitrarily used here any more than it is there, but as a requisite precaution against extreme and unwarranted blocking of public business.

THE VIEWS OF A LIBERAL PAPER.

The Montreal Witness is a staunch Liberal paper and its editor is a close personal friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

In an article referring to the closure it says:

"The question before the country to-day is whether a minority should be able to force an appeal to the people, or whether, as Mr. Borden holds, the dissolution of parliament is the prerogative of the King, that is of the government. This is the British parliamentary theory. Royal prerogatives have died slowly, but die they do. Mr. Borden does not, however, take his stand on royal prerogative, but on parliamentary principle. Here again he has the cry and practice on his side. Ours is government by representatives elected by the people for a term of years. A majority in the House of Commons can do with the country as it thinks best. It may be elected on one set of issues and may legislate on issues which the people have not pronounced upon at all. Its only check is that it will some day have to face the people. It is, therefore, supposed to be influenced by every indication of the people's will. This, however, it sometimes defies. The Balfour government came into power on a wave of war enthusiasm. Its party was a party of class and of privilege, present and prospective. It acted in a variety of ways in the service of class and of interests in matters in which it had no sort of mandate, and in defiance of a long succession of electoral indications that the country was not with it.

Still parliamentary government is a thing to be preserved. It stands to reason that a selection of the wisemen of the nation, giving their best powers to the study of questions, and forced to see them on all sides, will act with more capacity than the public, who know little or nothing of most of the matters that come before parliament, and when they do have them forced on their attention, read, for the most part only one side of the argument, Parliament is, in theory, government by the wisest, and the study of nations should be to realize this ideal. Is it in the interest of parliamentary government that a minority should have a constitutional method of securing an appeal to the people? The only method known is obstruction of public business. It is a crude and unfortunate method. It verges on an appeal to brute force. To meet obstruction the closure had to be devised in the British parliament. It was devised to meet the case of a group who had no hope of carrying their measure in the country, but who organized themselves to render parliamentary government impossible, until the country should surrender to them. The closure has since, however, been used against obstruction by the parliamentary minorities who really hoped, or professed to hope, for success at the polls. An Opposition that makes parliamentary business impossible should be very sure that the country is with it, and will not grudge the enormous waste and friction. On the other hand, a government that exercises closure should feel very sure that its course is a popular one, as its opponents have the plea that it was a refusal of an appeal to the people, and, therefore, an attempt to override the people.

Mr. Borden has not ventured on absolute closure, but has imposed a rule, which, we believe, is a constant one in the United States House of representatives. Each member is there assigned twenty minutes in which to speak, and so exact is this rule that he may before speaking hand out his time in sections to other members who have something to say. In committee the time there allowed each speaker is five minutes. But this, with other limitations proposed by Mr. Borden, strikes those hit by them as a dangerous limitation of free speech. The London Daily News thinks it is very unfortunate that such tactics should be introduced for the first time over the matter of a free will offering to the Empire. It regards it as portending friction rather than Imperial unity. In dealing with this proposal the Opposition were able to cite the obstructive tactics, by which they had been forced to the country in 1911, and how no closure rule was invoked by the then government. But the supporters of the closure were able to reply by quoting a whole chorus of expressions of the Liberal press and Liberal statesmen, some of them quite picturesque, as to how a change in the rules was absolutely needed if parliament was to be carried on at all. Parliament has now sat five months and done nothing; was it to sit ten months and still do nothing? We count it unfortunate for the party administering this discipline that it proceeded forthwith to violate the cause of free speech. After the Speaker had recognized Sir Wilfrid Laurier as having the floor, that party, by a simple party vote, put Mr. Hazen in his place. This was an action that will tell against them in the country.

With regard to the last statement it is well to remember that it was Sir Wilfrid Laurier who introduced the proviso that if two members rose at once it was left to the House to decide which should be the first to be heard.

It was his dodge to continue the debate for an interminable length and he was very properly blocked; that was all.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The "square deal" campaign of the "supreme in everything" Courier, is getting more popular each day.

The local Grit organ is against the introduction of closure at Ottawa. Yet the same sheet applauded Gladstone when he adopted a like measure in the British House of Commons.

The members of the Senate need not make any mistake about the fact that if they monkey with the naval bill, a change will be made to have members of that chamber elected by the people. Then about nine tenths of them will be left at home.

The militant suffragettes and the Ottawa obstructionists constitute a mutual admiration society these days.

Hamilton Herald (independent): "It would be unfortunate for the Liberal party if their chosen leaders were to earn the reputation of being 'poor sports.'"

"It was the purpose of the opposition to obstruct; it had prepared for that course. The government desired that the business of the country should be proceeded with, and took the only way to checkmate the strategy of the opposition. The government won out, and it won fairly and legitimately by intelligent use of the rules of debate."

"The denunciation of Mr. Borden as a 'knavish trickster,' a 'weak tool,' a 'corrupted partner,' who has degraded his high office and is unfit to be trusted—all because he did not choose to let his opponents stack the cards against him—would be amusing were it not that it makes one ashamed of the poor sportsmanship manifested in Canadian public life."

ENGLAND HAS A BLIZZARD

Winter Comes Back Again To Terry April—Snow Fell.

[Canadian Press Despatch] NEW YORK, April 12.—A cable to The Tribune from London says: Winter has returned to terrify England and yesterday a large part of England was swept by a blizzard, which in some districts lasted over ten hours and brought down several inches of snow. In London during the afternoon, snow fell for some time but fortunately, it melted as soon as it touched the ground. Almost the whole day was rainy.

Elsewhere conditions were far worse. In the Derbyshire Peak district a snow storm raged over ten hours, growing heavier hour by hour. Several inches fell in dales and on hills. The fall was very heavy around Doncaster and in West Riding. Snow fell all day in Scotland, and especially along the western seaboard the fall was very severe. Starting at 7 o'clock in the morning snow fell without intermission all day and was still falling late last night. The storm was disastrous to young lambs on hill farms, and heavy losses are expected.

The outlook for the immediate future is equally depressing. Rain and snow are predicted for to-day in almost all districts.

The worry and cares of business prevent it, and out of the irregularity of life comes dyspepsia, indigestion, liver and kidney troubles as a protest. CITY CIRCULATION AGENT

Of Leading Montreal Daily Endorses GIN PILLS

FIVE long years of suffering from Kidney Trouble—two boxes of GIN PILLS—and it's all gone. That has been the experience of Mr. Eugene Quesnel, Chief City Circulation Agent of La Patrie, of Montreal. He describes it feelingly.

May 3rd, 1912 "I have been suffering from Kidney Trouble for over five long years. I had also Rheumatism in my bones and muscles, could not sleep nights and on some occasions could hardly walk. I had been treated by some of our best Physicians but without relief and I lost over fifteen pounds. One day I met one of our leading hotelkeepers, who had been cured by your famous GIN PILLS, and he advised me to try them. So I bought two boxes at my druggist's and before I had used one box I felt a big change. Before I finished the second one I was completely cured."

I can assure you I can hardly believe it for if I had only known what I know now I would not have spent over One Hundred Dollars for nothing when two boxes of GIN PILLS cured me."

PASTOR TELLS HIS REASON

"Business Cards" For Marriage Used to Advertise His Church.

BRIDGEBURG, April 12.—Rev. Robert McIntyre, the "marrying parson" who has "business cards," rector of Knox Presbyterian church, made a statement yesterday in explanation of his conduct, which was made the subject of discussion in the Legislature a couple of days ago.

Rev. Mr. McIntyre has formerly been stationed at London, Tempo and St. Thomas, and is well known in Western Ontario. In discussing the advertising of "marriage made easy," Mr. McIntyre said: "These cards were printed to advertise my church, as to the references to the license on the cards, I believe it better for the girls to wait at my home rather than endure the stares of the people as a couple enter the stores where the licenses are issued."

"You may say that I am for the amendment with all my heart," continued the minister. "I have been opposed to the law now in force ever since I came to Bridgeburg, five years ago. I have written to Sir James Whitney and Dr. Shearer, telling them of the evil of the present law. No

Archbishop Jean Joseph Koppes of Luxembourg, after his reception by the pope this morning, said he found the noniff looking worn and showing the suffering he had gone through but that he displayed a strong spirit and was full of confidence in his recovery. The pope expressed the belief that God would give him sufficient strength to accomplish the task he had begun: "To restore everything in Christ."

Archbishop Koppes added that the pope's voice was robust, his eyes vivacious and his expression as benevolent as usual, also that he was still energetic.

THIS FINE OLD GENTLEMAN ANSWERED 187 LETTERS IN REGARD TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

People in All Parts of Canada Wanted To Know More About These Wonderful Tablets Made From Fruit Juices.

N. JOUBERT, Esq.

"I heartily recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to all who suffer from Constipation and the painful consequences—Piles. I am now over 74 years old and suffered for over 20 years with Constipation and Piles. I tried all kinds of remedies, saw the doctors and took their medicines but nothing cured me. About four years ago, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'—found they were doing me good. Then I procured an additional supply and was much gratified at the wonderful good they did me. After taking four boxes, I felt well—my bowels were regular and the Piles had disappeared."

My wife was troubled for three years with Asthma, and Rheuma on the hands, which made her hands almost useless. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, none of which had any effect. He also advised her to use rubber gloves (she wore out three pairs). I persuaded her as a last resort, to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. The effect was marvellous. Her hands are cured and the Asthma has also left her. We both attribute our present good health to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

Whether it was the fine, honest, straightforward face that inspired confidence or the simple language, which rang true as a silver bell, that made so many people think over this letter, is not for me to say. But the fact remains that one hundred and eighty-seven persons have written Mr. Joubert to enquire more fully about "Fruit-a-tives". And this delightful old gentleman who is now 74 years old—happy in his release from pain—grateful for his cure—took the time to answer every inquiry. Take his advice and try "Fruit-a-tives". soc. a box, 6 for $2.50—trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

It Eases Pain—Ask any druggist or dealer in medicines what is the most popular of the medicinal oils for pains in the joints, in the muscles or nerves, or for neuralgia and rheumatism, and he will tell you that Dr. Thomas, Electric Oil is in greater demand than any other oil.

Metz "Twenty Two" Roadster

In presenting the merits of the Metz "Twenty Two" to the prospective purchaser of a Roadster Car we are happily in a position to avoid generalities, and to offer for your consideration, instead, specific facts that are of the liveliest interest.

The Metz "Twenty Two" is driven by a four-cylinder, water-cooled motor, and is one of the easiest-riding, smoothest-running cars on the market. It will climb hills faster than any other stock car built, regardless of its horse-power or price. It has a torpedo semi-enclosed body with centre control, thus leaving both sides of the car clear of encumbrances and open to convenient entrance or exit.

It is fitted with extension folding top and specially designed wind shield, with side curtains, clincher tires of best quality, Bosch magneto, dash lamps, gas lamps and gas generator, horn, pump, tire and tool outfit, complete for $600.00. "Metz Special" $560.00.

Owners of large cars would find one of these small ones a great convenience in saving the large car many a trip in slush and muddy weather, and for quick work at all times.

Laid at Rest

The Late Mrs. Bunnell. The funeral of the late Mrs. Bunnell took place yesterday afternoon at Grace Church and the Mohawk burying ground, many of the old friends of the family availing themselves of the opportunity of paying their last respects to one who had endeared herself to a wide circle by a long life of unflinching kindness and usefulness. The service at the church was conducted by Rev. Dr. Mackenzie and Rev. Jerrald Potts, the choir also assisting, and the bright spring sunshine and mass of beautiful flowers filling the front of the chancel entirely dispelled any note of sadness, while the triumphant sentences of the ritual and the favorite hymns of the deceased, "Rock of Ages" and "When the Light Forever Shines", were a fitting close to a life whose greatest joy was to worship Him to the light of whose presence she has gone. The pallbearers were: Judge Hardy, and Messrs. Alfred J. Wilkes, Julius Waterous, Kenelm E. L. Gould and George Gault.

WITH THE POLICE

There was a rather quiet session at the police court this morning, about five cases being on the docket. Friday proved a "Jonah" day for three booze artists; two of this trio however, were allowed to go. One, John Smiley, however, was not so fortunate, and contributed $3 to help wipe out the city's debts.

Heavy Fines Imposed. Two Indians were discovered in an intoxicated condition yesterday in the vicinity of the market. These Indians knew they must neither taste touch or handle, but they did, and this morning in court they "cashed" to the extent of $25 and costs each, or a couple of months at the castle. "Never again for me," said one of the Indians.

NEW SCHOOL BIG PROBLEM

Bellevue Ratepayers Have Lively Discussion Last Night.

Votes Taken on Different Phases of the Question.

There was a lively time at a meeting of the ratepayers of Bellevue school held in the school house last night which started shortly after 7 o'clock and lasted until nearly midnight with the result that the motion of the trustees to borrow $23,000 on 30 year debentures for the purpose of enlarging the present school was carried by a vote of 70 to 66 on a poll vote after it had been defeated by 92 to 73 by a show of hands.

The meeting opened shortly after 7 o'clock the two houses of the meeting packed with ratepayers. A. Edwards took the chair and in a few brief words outlined the objects of the meeting namely the enlarging of the school.

Nearly everyone in the building had something to say on the matter and for a time cross firing waxed hot and furious.

The meeting was pretty evenly divided, one-half were in favor of the trustees motion to enlarge the school and the other half were not.

Those not in favor of the motion claimed that there should be a new school built on the Mohawk road and they were there hammer and tongs to support the scheme, which they contended was the only one to be considered.

The Mohawk Road school faction claimed that it was outrageous to spend $23,000 on enlarging the school while a school on Mohawk road could be built for $10,000. They also argued that it was too far for the children from the vicinity of the Starch works to walk to Bellevue school and were firm for a school on Mohawk Road. F. Billo stated that taking Gordon street and a line direct to the River and using that as a dividing line there were 182 houses on the east side and 170 houses on the west in the Bellevue section.

Trustee Atwell claimed that the Mohawk school was not necessary as he said only thirty pupils came to the school from that direction.

This brought the Mohawk crowd to their feet.

Fred Billo replied saying, "Use Gordon street as the dividing line and there are 170 houses on the west side with 280 children and 182 on the east, and yet the trustees mean to say there are only 30 children in 182 houses." This brought forth rounds of applause.

Finally the chairman grew tired of so much wrangling and called for a vote on the question.

The question was raised who should vote—just the ratepayers or the ratepayers and tenants. Some claimed the tenants had no right to vote. One person asked the question could a number of tenants call a meeting and vote the ratepayers money away?

The chairman called for the vote, and asked all who were in favor of the motion to assemble in the East room, and all those opposed to assemble in the West room and after votes were counted it was found that the motion was lost the vote being 92 to 73.

Trustee Atwell then demanded a poll vote which required that the voters list had to be called into commission, and no one could vote unless he was on the list and his name would have to be written down and he be required to vote either for or against the motion. This was done with the result that the previous vote was reversed and the motion carried, the vote standing: Yea 70; Nay 66.

The Mohawk school faction intend to protest the vote on the ground that the chairman voted, contending that he had no right to vote, unless in the case of a tie, and intend to appeal to the county inspector on the ground of irregularities.

Leaving for Winnipeg. The pastor and congregation of Wesley Methodist Church regret to learn of the departure from the city to Winnipeg of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mitchell, who for some time past have taken a great interest in the welfare of the church and Sunday school.

Monday's Strike

ces and defined the freedom of labor. M. De Brogueville, reaffirmed the government's position is that the vital question of the moment was national defence and said it declined to submit to threats and abandon its stand in favor of a discussion of the constitutional revision.

The journalists, who had gathered for the talk with the premier seemed to be of the impression, however, that he was inclined to share the opinion of M. Vanderveide that manhood suffrage was bound to come to Belgium in a few years.

M. Vanderveide in the course of an interview declared emphatically that the strike movement was of a purely political character and in no sense a war on capital. He said the workers would use their utmost endeavors to preserve the national industry as its liquidation by the extinction of the furnaces or the caving in the coal mines would utterly defeat their object.

Another Meeting
Another meeting for the purpose of endeavoring to organize an intermediate lacrosse club in this city has been called for Monday night at the Belmont. Mr. Ed Slattery states that the players will form a club and play if they have to pay their own expenses.

Wanted to See the Shovel.
While one of the police officers was taking a man up Dalhousie St. yesterday afternoon to the police station, the man stopped in front of the new post office property and refused to go any further until he saw the steam shovel in operation.

Mourn the Loss
Mr. and Mrs. Mike Steve, 11 Main street, mourn the loss of their infant son, Eric, whose death occurred on Thursday. The funeral took place yesterday to St. Basil's church, then to St. Joseph's cemetery for burial. Rev. Father Cloney conducted the services at both the church and grave.

Presentation.
A pleasing event took place on Thursday night at the blacksmith shop of the Cockshutt Plow Works, when Mr. Harry Scruton was presented with a suit case by his fellow workmates. The address was read and presentation made by Mr. Albert Mears. Mr. Scruton leaves on Monday for Vancouver and carries with him the best wishes of numerous friends in the city.

A Good Idea.
City Engineer Jones has made satisfactory arrangements with Messrs. P. H. Secord and Sons, Ltd., to have the earth taken from the steam shovel which is being used at the new post office building, dumped along the edge of the river bank between the boat house at the foot of Jubilee Terrace, and Church Street and thus widen the drive way recently constructed there.

Lodge Note
The Woodmen of the World held their regular meeting in the lodge rooms last evening. The meeting was largely attended, and a large number of applications were received. The committee appointed for the June 8 celebration reported progress. Special trains will be run to this city from London, Hamilton, Toronto and other centres. The Hon. Sam Hughes will be here for the celebration.

A debate, resulting in a victory for the negative on the subject: "Resolved that the government should control all public utilities" was held last evening in the Young Men's class room of Colborne street church, between the young men of the S. P. S. class who took the affirmative side and the young men of Mr. W. J. Verity's class who debated for the negative. The speakers for the affirmative were: Messrs. Stanley Holling, L. W. Wickson, Morley B. Drake; for the negative Messrs. Russell Frayne, Bernard Gatecliff and Austin

Billing. Excellent points were put forward by the several debaters. The judges were Messrs. Crawford Buckingham, H. Bassett and Percy Verity, who also acted as critic. Mr. W. Telford sang a solo in good voice.

Railway Board
A meeting of the members of the railway board of the city council will be held in the Mayor's office this afternoon at four o'clock.

Precious Stones and Their Hidden Powers.

Fear there are, if any, who do not believe in the precious stones. Many use them for adornment only, others as a mascot or charm. The influence wielded by heirlooms and precious stones was much considered in ancient days, and in the twentieth century this influence is secretly believed in. Many people consult me regarding the fortunate or unfortunate nature of their jewels and heirlooms, and ask for advice regarding the "luck" of the gift of such and such a stone. It is admitted by scientific men that infection can be carried through hundreds of people from an object invisible except under a microscope. This being so, it is not surprising to find that there are magnetic and chemical influences at work, of which men have little or no knowledge, in apparently inanimate objects. Every person's touch on any object leaves a distinctive mark, difficult to remove, and in some cases and from some things impossible to remove without destroying the object. Precious stones are particularly sensitive, and absorb not only the personal magnetism of the wearer, but other influences surrounding the gem. This probably the reason why from early ages and among all nations stones have never wanted, each country having its own superstitions regarding the powers attributed to them, which have been handed down to the present day.

Certain is it that some gems have a great electric power. This may perhaps be the reason for the curative virtues they were said to possess. Monarchs of the East decorated their persons, horses and thrones with precious stones long before they understood the art of cutting them. It was a very common custom to decorate the Eastern idols with gems, particularly the eyes, and several of the eyes of the idols and statues in the treasuries of Western Courts, and in most instances remarkable misfortunes have befallen the possessors of these stones. One of the largest diamonds in the Russian crown jewels was stolen from the eye of an idol and another from the eye in the sceptre of the Czar. It was the eye of a Brahmin idol and has been further traced as having formed part of the famous peacock throne of Nadir Shah. It was stolen by a Frenchman, who sold it, and after passing through several hands to each of whom it seemed to bring misfortune, it was purchased by the Empress Catherine of Russia.

It was an ancient custom to carry precious stones as a talisman when going into battle. The diamond, for preference, being the most durable stone, supposed to engender courage. Napoleon was known to carry a large diamond called the "Regent" in the pommel of his sword, and Charles the Bold carried several gems on his person for luck, one of which now belongs to the Emperor of Austria. It was lost at the battle of Granson by the Duke of Burgundy. A second stone found on the body of the Duke and sold to the King of Portugal, brought no luck to any of its early owners. The King of Portugal will have it in his possession, which seemed to arise from it that he sold it. The servant to whom it was entrusted, being attacked by robbers, swallowed it, and his death ensuing it was recovered and sold to King James II. of England, who likewise sold it to Louis XII. of France. It disappeared during the French Revolution, but was recovered and sold to Prince Paul Demidoff.

As a rule, however, except when taken from an idol, diamonds are not "malevolent." Rubies and emeralds, on the other hand, can be most malignant if they come from uncanny quarters. Certain stones are considered lucky and must be worn in certain months, the month dating from the sun's entry into a sign of the Zodiac that rules the stone, which occurs between the 20th and 23rd of the month.

OUR GOOD RECEIPTS

Mollasses Cookies.

One cup of molasses, 1-2 cup of sugar, one-half cup of lard, one-half cup of hot water, one teaspoonful of soda in the hot water; salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, flour to make soft dough drop from spoon increased pan.

Lemon Cakes

Dub one-lar dload lowed rdoatwa Rub one-half pound butter in one pound of flour, add one-half pound of fine sifted white sugar, grate in and two lemons and squeeze in the juice of one; add two eggs. Mix all well together, roll and cut into desired shapes and bake in a slow oven. Very nice.

Vienna Puffs

Sift the night before one pint of flour in a bowl, add one-half teaspoon of salt, one ounce of butter and one teaspoon of sugar; rub the butter fine in the flour, break one-half of a yeast cake into one cup of lukewarm water, add one-half teaspoon of sugar, let it stand in a warm place until it rises to twice its original volume; then add it to the flour, add one egg and mix well together, cover and let it stand until next morning, then butter some gem pans, fill them half full with the batter, and bake in a quick oven till done; serve in a napkin.

Do we not apply the term "friend" too lightly and frequently? We meet and are introduced to one or more persons, and straightway speak of them as "friends." We cheaper the term by such a use of it. Only time can test friendship and approve it. The rough and tumble of daily life the ebb and flow of fortune, the bewildering changes of human life, the power that props the body's character and worth of our friendships, the loose attachments, the mere surface affinities, the friendship founded on some sordid consideration of advantage, all perish. They have no inherent power of persistence despite every adverse circumstance. It is curious and not uninteresting to look back over the years and recall how many at different periods we have thought and called "friends."

They have passed out of life and we have no real sense of loss. The difference in life lends color and meaning, aid and purpose, and those who remain with us in good and ill health. In view of the serious illness of the Pope, it is recalled that His Holiness believes firmly that Constantine will be retaken by the Christians during his life-time, and the accession of the new King of Greece has gone far to confirm his faith in this respect. It appears that as far back as 1422, a Greek monk and reputed saint predicted that the Christians would regain that city when St. Mark gave a pope to Rome and a king named Constantine sat on the Greek throne. Both events have come to pass. The Pope came from St. Mark, in Venice, and a Constantine is king in Athens. Whether Constantine of Greece will ever reign as king in the old city the Christians ever built is a different question.

The highest price ever paid for poetry was £375 a line, Jas. Smith, of "Rejected Addresses" fame being the fortunate recipient. One evening dinner he met Richard Strachan, the king's printer, who although badly crippled with gout, conversed so brilliantly that Smith sent the following tribute: "Your lower limbs seemed far from stout. When last I saw you walk, The power that props the body's strength In due proportion spread, In you mounts upwards, and the strength All settles in the head." On receiving this Strachan added codicil to his will, leaving the author £3,000 as a reward for his poem. London Chronicle.

It is a peculiar custom, but with the Persian one cannot discuss his women folk. To ask a Persian about his wife is a grave breach of etiquette. The most you can do is to ask about the "mother of his son," if he has only one daughter he does not mention them. They are a misfortune to be suffered in silence.

In keeping with the adage that there is really "nothing new under the sun," it is scarcely surprising to find that hunger striking is by no means a novelty. The militant suffragettes in the Old Country at present who are abstaining from food while in prison, are only following in the footsteps of people imprisoned at least two centuries ago, on account of religious beliefs, and it could be traced back still farther, for there is a record of one, Edward Coppinger, who died in Bridewell in 1501, after "having wilfully abstained from meat and otherwise tormented himself."

Precious Stones and Their Hidden Powers. Fear there are, if any, who do not believe in the precious stones. Many use them for adornment only, others as a mascot or charm. The influence wielded by heirlooms and precious stones was much considered in ancient days, and in the twentieth century this influence is secretly believed in. Many people consult me regarding the fortunate or unfortunate nature of their jewels and heirlooms, and ask for advice regarding the "luck" of the gift of such and such a stone. It is admitted by scientific men that infection can be carried through hundreds of people from an object invisible except under a microscope. This being so, it is not surprising to find that there are magnetic and chemical influences at work, of which men have little or no knowledge, in apparently inanimate objects. Every person's touch on any object leaves a distinctive mark, difficult to remove, and in some cases and from some things impossible to remove without destroying the object. Precious stones are particularly sensitive, and absorb not only the personal magnetism of the wearer, but other influences surrounding the gem. This probably the reason why from early ages and among all nations stones have never wanted, each country having its own superstitions regarding the powers attributed to them, which have been handed down to the present day.

Certain is it that some gems have a great electric power. This may perhaps be the reason for the curative virtues they were said to possess. Monarchs of the East decorated their persons, horses and thrones with precious stones long before they understood the art of cutting them. It was a very common custom to decorate the Eastern idols with gems, particularly the eyes, and several of the eyes of the idols and statues in the treasuries of Western Courts, and in most instances remarkable misfortunes have befallen the possessors of these stones. One of the largest diamonds in the Russian crown jewels was stolen from the eye of an idol and another from the eye in the sceptre of the Czar. It was the eye of a Brahmin idol and has been further traced as having formed part of the famous peacock throne of Nadir Shah. It was stolen by a Frenchman, who sold it, and after passing through several hands to each of whom it seemed to bring misfortune, it was purchased by the Empress Catherine of Russia.

It was an ancient custom to carry precious stones as a talisman when going into battle. The diamond, for preference, being the most durable stone, supposed to engender courage. Napoleon was known to carry a large diamond called the "Regent" in the pommel of his sword, and Charles the Bold carried several gems on his person for luck, one of which now belongs to the Emperor of Austria. It was lost at the battle of Granson by the Duke of Burgundy. A second stone found on the body of the Duke and sold to the King of Portugal, brought no luck to any of its early owners. The King of Portugal will have it in his possession, which seemed to arise from it that he sold it. The servant to whom it was entrusted, being attacked by robbers, swallowed it, and his death ensuing it was recovered and sold to King James II. of England, who likewise sold it to Louis XII. of France. It disappeared during the French Revolution, but was recovered and sold to Prince Paul Demidoff.

As a rule, however, except when taken from an idol, diamonds are not "malevolent." Rubies and emeralds, on the other hand, can be most malignant if they come from uncanny quarters. Certain stones are considered lucky and must be worn in certain months, the month dating from the sun's entry into a sign of the Zodiac that rules the stone, which occurs between the 20th and 23rd of the month.

WAS FREED FROM PRISON

Mrs. Pankhurst Spends Only Nine Days of Her Sentence—Is Very Ill.

[Canadian Press Despatch] LONDON, April 12.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, was released from Holloway jail this morning after having been on a "hunger strike" since she was sentenced, only nine days ago, to three years of penal servitude. Mrs. Pankhurst was released on license under the terms of which she must report at frequent intervals to the police authorities and in case she commits any misdemeanor she is liable to immediate arrest without a warrant and must serve out her full term of conviction. It is understood that the intention of the authorities is to allow her to be free only for a limited period until she regains her health.

The condition of the suffragette leader was described this morning as being very grave. She was removed at once to a nursing home, where she was placed under the care of her own doctor. The Women's Social and Political Union, the organ of the militant suffragettes, was not aware of her intended release, so that no demonstration took place when she left Holloway Jail.

Even the suffragette sentinels on duty at the gates of Holloway jail were deceived by the police and were unaware of the departure of their leader until they saw a woman's arm wildly waving from a taxicab window some distance away.

The cab was followed by another vehicle containing detectives who are now keeping close watch on the nursing home, where Mrs. Pankhurst is being cared for.

Got Six Weeks. LONDON, April 12.—Phyllis Brady and Millicent Dean, two girls who were arrested on April 4 on suspicion of being about to commit an outrage were sentenced to six weeks imprisonment each at the police court today. Evidence was given showing that they tried to escape from the police by dropping bags they were carrying and running away. The bags contained a paraffin paper saturated with oil, candles, matches, cotton Brantfordites generally are looking forward to a great musical treat at the Brant Avenue Methodist church, on Tuesday evening, April 22nd, when Mr. Jordan and his choir of 60 voices give Gault's Cantata "Una," and Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, contralto; Mr. Redfern Hollingshead, tenor; Mr. Arthur Blight, baritone, and Madame Lenore James Kennedy, soprano, all noted vocalists, will appear. The only drawback if such an expression may be used, is that Brant Avenue church, will only seat six hundred people, and more than that number are sure to want to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing such artists as will appear on the program.

LADY SCOTT ARRIVES HOME

She is Greeted by Her Little Son Peter, Who Looks For Daddy.

LONDON, April 12.—Lady Scott arrived here yesterday afternoon, travelling overland via Brindisi. Nobody awaited her return more anxiously than her three-year-old son, Peter. All morning little Peter played about the house in Buckingham Palace Road, running from room to room, peeping excitedly through the windows. He knew his father could not come with his mother. A few days ago his grandmother told him "Daddy" would not come back this time, but perhaps would come some other time. He is quite satisfied, and believes his mother will go away again soon on a long journey to fetch "Daddy" home. Some day he will know the whole story of his father's great career and courageous end. To-day it would serve no good purpose to tell him.

The meeting of Lady Scott and Peter is the greatest event in his life up to now. The mother reached home shortly after 3 o'clock. Peter stood on the doorstep ready to meet her.

Shakespeare's Julius Caesar Interpreted By Well Known Lecturer.

A Shakespearean recital under the auspices of the B.C.I. Literary Society, was held last evening at the Collegiate. Mr. W. Gordon Craig of London, the reader for the evening, very ably handled Shakespeare's Julius Caesar.

Mr. S. F. Passmore, M.A., chairman for the evening, congratulated the society upon being able to secure the services of such a talented lecturer as Mr. Craig. He also stated that it gave him much pleasure to preside at a lecture given under the auspices of the Literary Society. A vocal duet was rendered previous to the lecture, in good voice by the Misses Syles.

The reader had an excellent grasp of his subject, delivering it in a masterly manner. The dramatic powers of Mr. Craig were quite marked in several passages. Mr. Craig was here at a previous date, under the auspices of the public school teachers.

The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Dull care may now forsake too long; and melancholy's in something's wailing, and dry harbingers of spring near! The basket ball, to boxers go to lame. The crokinole is a false alarm—the old man's in the inglenook and at the cat's paw the sporting joy cometh as a season's drawing near! ENGLISH FOOTBALL

LONDON, April 12.—A tremendous sensation has been created in the football world by the charges of Mr. H. G. Norris of Fulham the Chelsea were allowed to win the first League game of Easter Monday with Liverpool in order to escape relegation to the Second League. Mr. Norris is a man of some prominence and his allegations cannot be dismissed like the common chatter of the amateurs. He is Mayor of Fulham, head of a great London business and a director of two league football clubs, Woolwich Arsenal and Fulham, in the first and second leagues respectively. He knows the value of goals.

Mr. Norris practically accuses Liverpool of allowing Chelsea to win the match which they could have done so quite readily. It is not for me to suggest reasons for this display of the part of a section of the Liverpool team. One is, however, tempted to ask why they acted in the way they did, and echo answers "Why?"

The priceless value of those points is emphasized by the result of Chelsea's game with Blackburn on Saturday last, which the West Londoners lost by 6-1, while Notts County drew Now if, as Mr. Norris suggests, Chelsea should have been defeated last Monday had Liverpool played the game, the bottom of the league table would read this morning—

Played	Won	Lost	D'wn	Pt
Chelsea	34	7	21	6	21
Notts C.	33	6	20	7	18
Woolwich	34	3	22	0	11

But the same three clubs in the league table actually stand now—

Chelsea	34	8	20	6	30
Notts C.	33	6	20	7	27
Woolwich	34	3	22	0	11

These tables show at a glance the tremendous value of the two points at this crucial time of the season both to Chelsea and Notts County. Fighting so well and luckily as it is obvious that if Chelsea had not got the points it would be slight advantage on Notts County saving themselves at the expense of their wealthy brother Leaguers, for they have a game in hand, and are fighting with desperation, as several opponents lately have discovered.

Don't ask me what this howling is. This smear of growling, scowling is. The volcanic, cataclysmic tumult in the air.

With the curtain sprung and the actors filing on, no wonder it's the nation's greatest show. What other production in the universe can show such a mixture of comedy, tragedy, melodrama, comic opera, laughter, curses, thrills, despair, hopes, dreams, sorrow, impulse, praise, mockery and the rest of it?

Bowling

The Canadian Lawn Bowling team that plays in the Old Country in June and July will have a busy six weeks abroad. Capt. Thomas Rennie and his 30 players sail from Montreal on the Victorian June 5, arriving June 13 in Liverpool.

The team plays the first and second weeks in England, the third in Wales, the fourth and fifth in Scotland and the sixth in Ireland. They expect to play six games in each week or 36 games in all.

COBB CONTINUES ONE-MAN STRIKE

No Question of Union Recognition Here, but Wants More Money.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 12.—When President accepts my offer I will report at once and am in shape to jump right into the game to-night," declared Tyrus Cobb, the Detroit American holdout.

Cobb, who arrived here yesterday afternoon, declined to divulge the nature of his latest offer to the management.

Miller's Worm Powders are a pleasant medicine for worm-infested children, and they will take it without objection. When directions are followed it will not injure the most delicate child, as there is nothing of an injurious nature in its composition.

American Red Sox and Pirates Two Fine Teams

H. W. Lanigan Sizes up Two Formidable Contenders in Their Respective Leagues.

(By H. W. Lanigan).

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 11.—Here goes for some aftermath of the training season anent the Boston Red Sox, the American League member which should repeat, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, the National League outfit with a chance.

I am only quoting Jim McAleer in verbatim fashion when I say, "The Red Sox should come. They are a wonderful team; look even stronger than last year, and, whether they come or don't come, they look like a sure winner to me."

As regards debutantes I like Stahl's compliment the best. The two years I have watched the Pirates go through their spring exercises here Clarke has not shown a single rookie for a body to go dippy over.

Pittsburg games here he is the making of a star shortstop, and if he can work there he should be able to show on second or third, and he proved in the International League last season that he is a bear on first. So that it can be seen that as a general all-round proposition he is a "Candy Kid."

However, Harold is scarcely husky or rugged enough to ever become the ideal first sacker. Yes, he is taller, if anything, than the wonderful Stuffy McInnes, but he isn't near as broad as that top liner, nor does he own anything like as stocky a pair of legs.

A Difference of 20 per Cent. Pittsburg is always liked in the spring. A pay roll generally spells something in baseball and Herr B. Dreyfuss always pays out around $100,000 in salary checks. The Pirates must improve some to per cent, and have the Giants lose some to per cent, of their pepper and speed for Clarke to beat McGraw. New blood is scarcely going to help the Pirates one iota.

An Ill Fitting Shoe

What is more uncomfortable and aggravating than an ill fitting shoe.

Make up your mind that for once in your life you will have a shoe that satisfies you to the smallest detail a shoe that does not slip at the heel, nor pinch at the toe, a shoe that will not wrinkle nor run over at the heel.

Make up your mind that this time you will have a shoe that follows perfectly the lines of your feet—a shoe that from the very day you put it on will feel cool and comfortable—a shoe that will retain its trim and stylish appearance under the test of wear.

FOOT-RITE shoes combine the features that you have been looking for so long, Style, Comfort and Service ability. They observe so closely the little points that give ease and comfort that no matter how particular you may be, there is quite sure to be a shoe in our stock that is literally built for your foot.

FOOT-RITE Styles are always foremost. You'll be charmed with the attractiveness of the new lasts shown here.

FOOT-RITE Quality always is supreme. You'll be surprised at the way they wear.

Don't miss this opportunity to get real foot comfort combined with superb style and satisfying quality, at prices no higher than you have paid for ordinary shoes.

Bring your feet here and we'll make them "Smile"

PLUCKY BATTLE IN GRIM POVERTY WITH SERUM CURE

MONTREAL, April 12.—His frantic sold to obtain the wherewith to purchase the daily bread, his house bare and cold in its poverty and...

tures with great zest. The hero of the play takes the part of the rookie, and McGraw's men gave him some strenuous workouts. In one scene he was supposed to win the game...

Red Sox

But Hofman is not going to prove a bloomer. His legs ailed him all month more or less, and he was unable to pull any rapid work on the lines against the Red Sox. But when it came to hitting and covering ground in the meadows, Hofman was there as in his best Cub days.

O'Toole and Miller Improve. In my humble opinion it is all of 2 to 1 that Hofman hits from .390 to .300 for the Pirates; lams the pill in the pinches; fields as well as he ever did in his life and winds up with the leaders in tallying runs and pilfering pillows.

More added strength for the Pittsburg team and possibly enough to make up that much needed to percent, will come from Marty O'Toole's improved pitching. Miller's improved first base play and Gibson's improved catching. This quartette—that includes Hofman—will form a high-flying Big Four of their own.

Hendrix Good As Ever. Though Hendrix can scarcely do better than he did in 1912, when he topped the National League flingers doing everything, I look for him to win more games. He let the Red Sox down with two dinky singles in five innings in his last game and showed that he possessed a world of speed.

Babe Adams will also be ready for the opening. Cooper and Robinson are two very promising southpaws; Camnitz will probably be the same reliable workman, though his work here was mediocre at best; Conzelman is a big fellow with plenty of smoke—here is probably Clarke's best young hurler; Kelly is coming fast.

Joe Tinker is considering taking his Cincinnati Reds on a trip to Honolulu, Hawaii, next winter. Fred Church, an Alabama man with business interests in Honolulu, has popped the question, and has shown up ready to receive from Tinker that the trip will be taken if he finds that all details can be worked out satisfactorily.

The New York Giants while in Texas were trailed by a moving picture crew which has been taking pictures for a photo play entitled, "Breaking into the Big League." The Giant players entered into the pic-

Still More "Direct Evidence"

There is almost no limit to the letters we might publish as "Direct Evidence" of the great good derived by suffering humanity from Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is undoubtedly true that many people have received "permanent relief" by taking this medicine to Purify the Blood and Build Up the System, as in the case of Mr. Steel:

"14 Collier St., St. Catharines, Ont., July 16, 1912. "I was troubled for a number of years with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain, and I had

The Ring

First reports about the tremendous "gate" that Leach Cross and Joe Rivers drew, and the enormous sums they received for their services seem to be a trifle exaggerated. Ed. Curley, in the New York American, declares that Rivers drew down $5,500 instead of $8,000, and Cross got $4,400 instead of $6,000, which is quite some difference. Incidentally Curley adds "It might be mentioned that both were very chippy yesterday morning and eye and perfectly willing to receive for same amount of dough. Yea if a few per cent were cut off the amount of the other evening's performance there would no trouble in getting them to mingle again."

LONDON REVELS IN NEW WATER SUPPLY SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Pumping Drinking Water for London by Explosions

Chingford's Niagara Supplies 180,000,000 Gallons Daily by Means of Electrically Fired Discharges of Gas Which Send the Liquid Into High Reservoir.

FIFTEEN TONS FORCED UP NINE TIMES A MINUTE

(Special Despatch.)
London, Saturday.
CHINGFORD'S Niagara, which is supplying London with an additional 18,000,000 gallons of water daily, and which came into operation the other day in response to King George pressing an electric button, is a Niagara operated by electricity. It is considered one of the most daring feats of engineering in the progress of recent times for it is by means of a constant series of gas explosions, such as sometimes wreck houses, that these huge volumes of water are blown over a barrier about thirty feet in height. And it is very simple after all.

The see-saw motion that can be established by blowing into one end of a U-shaped tube partly filled with water is a familiar sight. Mr. Humphrey, who designed the wonderful pumps at Chingford, has taken advantage of the stresses produced by see-sawing columns of water, and in order to obtain a disturbance in level that shall have businesslike effect he imposed a constant shock to the surface of one column of water by means of a gas explosion. He arranges what are really three vertical tubes, or columns, with a coupling at the base. One of these "tubes," in reality a supply tank of reservoir, carries water at a comparatively low level. At its base are valves isolating it when necessary from the other tubes. This "tube" has at its head a combustion chamber, wherein,
by a series of ingeniously arranged valves, gas and air can be admitted, fired electrically and eventually allowed to escape.
The third "tube" has two branches, one leading to the Chingford reservoir, and the other to a confined over rising well above the level of the reservoir, yet open to the air.

The first operation consists in letting water into all three tubes until they attain a common level. In the combustion cham-

Lively Art Season Ahead, London Dealers Believe

Pictures, Engravings and Furniture of Sir Lionel Phillips To Be Sold at Christie's Owing to Owner's Decision to Reside Permanently in South Africa.

WOMEN ARTISTS HAVE FIFTY-EIGHTH EXHIBITION

(Special Despatch.)
London, Saturday.
THE statement was made in the newspapers some months ago that a lively art season might be expected. In December last it was stated that the great McCulloch collection would be dispersed in May; but before that there is to be an important sale when the varied art possessions of Sir Lionel Phillips, including pictures, engravings and furniture, are removed from Tynney Hall, owing to Sir Lionel's decision to reside permanently in South Africa.

The engravings, which will be sold at Christie's on April 21, include many fine mezzotints and a well selected series of eighteenth century French proofs. On April 21 the small but valuable collection

THERE is a madman proposing to light London with what do you think? Why, with smoke! That was what Sir Walter Scott exclaimed in 1807 when he heard of Winner's idea to make an illuminant from coal.

Now the Incorporated Gas Light and Coke Company has been celebrating the centenary of gas lighting in London.
How the centenary is arrived at is difficult to say. It was on June 24, 1812, that the first meeting of the corporation was held after a charter had been granted by King George III, though it was nearly a year before the first street in London was lighted by gas. That was Pall

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

REASONING ON SCARLET SINS

Most Religious Teachings Are Unreasonable—The Hindrance of Creeds.

Richmond, Va., April 6.—Bible students of all denominations were deeply interested in Pastor Russell's visit today. A series of special Bible lectures has been in progress for some months, and Pastor Russell has been brought here, evidently for climacteric results. His two topics were, "BEYOND THE GRAVE," and "SCARLET SINS." We report the latter from the text, "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow."—Isa. 1:18.

Although thoroughly loyal to the Bible and very reverential, the Pastor has evidently cut loose from the creeds of all the churches. He admitted that they all contain kernels of truth, but declared that the truths are buried in a mass of chaff, and worse, are hidden in God-dishonouring theories so violently misapplied that their true friends and supporters are ashamed of them and prefer never to think of them.

The Pastor claimed that the repulsiveness of the creedal rubbish heap hinders people from looking for the grains of Truth which they contain. All this is well, he said. Why should we trouble and disgust ourselves to search for the grains which the various creeds contain, while we have in the Bible a whole garner full of Truth, clean and pure? He urged all Christian people to abandon their creeds and to come together as Bible students, intent only on knowing the testimony of God's Word and obtaining the guidance of His Holy Spirit in the understanding of it. So doing, he declared, all true Christians would soon be so united in heart and spirit that outward forms of federation would be useless and as absolutely ignored as in the days of Jesus and the Apostles.

Jesus held up to ridicule and scorn the inconsistencies of His day. If He were here today, He would similarly show us many inconsistencies in our estimation of sin and righteousness. The Pastor believed Jesus ridiculed the religious leaders of His time when He pointed out their carelessness to give a title of their increase, even to the smallest of seeds, and their showy religious performances to be seen of men. Our Lord declared that while so doing, they practiced the greatest outrage against the very spirit of God's Law of righteousness; that in mean ways they took the bread from the poor, the orphan, the widow, and to divert attention from their course, they hypocritically lengthened their prayers. It was not that praying was wrong, or that tithing was objectionable, but that their recognition of these things showed them to be all the more responsible in their gross violations, in "deavouring widows' houses," and other sharp practices whereby they took advantage of those who were weak, and held high places of honor and churchmanship. The Pastor spared not this class. He declared religious hypocrites the worst of sinners in the sight of Heaven. Of all sinners theirs were the most scarlet in God's sight, he believed.

Today wealth covers a multitude of sins. To be financially unsuccessful is a crime, an account of which many will consider that a wife is justified in breaking the obligation of her marriage vow and seeking a divorce—a crime on account of which some churches would feel justified in rejecting the culprit as undesirable and striking his name from the list of members. What matters it that sinners addressed some of His most comforting words to the weary and heavy-laden and unsuccessful? (Matthew 11:28-30.) What matters it that the Scriptures declare that not many rich, wise, great or learned, has God called to the Heavenly inheritance—but chiefly the poor of this world rich in faith?—1 Cor. 1:26-29.

It is the same amongst Catholics as amongst Protestants. So long as the sinner remains a member of the church, almost every crime can be absolved. But be the person ever so just, ever so reverential, his would be a sin of scarlet hue and unforgivable were he to attend Protestant services or in any way seek fellowship with God outside of the Roman communion.

The Prophet Isaiah discriminates between scarlet, a bright red, and crimson, a deeper red, as indicating shades of guilt in the same kind of sin. For instance, murder matters it that sin, if committed by a worldly person, but hatred would be a crimson stain—a sin of deeper dye—if cherished by the child of God. Any one would be the fulfilling of the Divine Law, set hatred, which is the most violent form of selfishness, implies its flagrant violation. The Ten Commandments mention covetousness of our neighbor's possessions and happiness, theft of his property or good name or influence and murder, the killing of his life, as the culmination of selfish disregard for his rights. In other times, when chemistry was less appreciated, less understood, scarlet and crimson dyes were estimated the most durable, the most difficult to remove; hence in our text these are used to symbolize sins of greater selfishness and depravity. All mankind have inherited tainted blood from Father Adam. Selfishness of varying hues is found in every member of our race. One difficulty with many is that they do not have the proper focus upon the Divine Law. They know that any transgression of God's Law is try to avoid the cruder forms of theft, adultery, murder. This is the same mistake that the Jews made.

It was Jesus, the great Teacher, who gave the clearer conception of the spirit of the Law. According to His interpretation, they could be committed in the heart, by coveting in a most desperate way, by stealing the good name or the business or the reputation or the trade-mark of another. Similarly, according to Jesus, the crime of adultery might in God's sight be committed without the overt act. Jesus declared, "Whoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already, in his heart"—Matthew 5:28.

Whoever accepts these definitions intelligently realizes that the world's increase of knowledge has brought increase of responsibilities; and that if open crimes to-day were much less frequent than, formerly, the responsibility of to-day would still be greater than formerly. But this is not so. Everything indicates to us that human selfishness has kept pace with the increase of knowledge. The thiefish spirit abounds everywhere, not only amongst the poor, but also amongst the wealthy. Not all of the vast fortunes of our day were honestly obtained, so far as we may be able to judge. And although there are noble chivalry men, it is, alas! too evident that the love of money, a root of all evil, has made thieves and robbers of some in high stations.

The civilized world needs to awaken its conscience to the high ideals of the Master—the Golden Rule, which does to a neighbor as it would that the neighbor would do to him if the conditions were reversed. It seems not possible for human law to reach such cases. Those who cannot be influenced by the Scriptures must wait for their lessons and chastisements till the New Age of Messiah's Kingdom. The vice crusaders have recently been telling us that millions of dollars are spent in New York City alone every year in the white slave traffic. What an awful picture of entrenched sin! When we read such reports and remember our Master's definition of adultery, we stand appalled! That the "Western Metropolis," nevertheless, presents a fair outward appearance which belies such a condition of heart is a matter for congratulation! All pre-meditated people should be placed that, if sin cannot be fully stamped out, it can at least be kept to some extent under cover! The stench of the public reports is something terrible!

The murders of the past year are terribly significant. But if we take the viewpoint of the great Teacher and consider that all who entertain murderous thoughts are really murderers in God's sight—we feel constrained to ask, "How does God regard the conditions now prevailing in the world?" They are not only worse than at any previous time, but still more evil because of our increased light, our increased realization of the principles of justice. It would not seem to be putting the matter too strongly to say that from the Divine standpoint the world is practically full of thieves, licentious persons and murderers.

What magic power is this that could transform a sinful heart and course of life into a pure one? "Education will do it," says the Professor. But no! Many college-bred men are as sinful as others. "Joining the ministry or the priesthood will do it," says another. But no! Priests are abundant that sin may be found in the monastery and the pulpit, as well as in the pew and in the ordinary walks of life.

Our text declares God's reasonable nature, and indicates that He has made it possible for the sinner to escape from his sins. The Prophet does not tell the process by which Divine Justice will clear the guilty. But the New Testament gives the explanation. Christ has died, the Just for the unjust. Human sin, the penalty of which is death, the great Redeemer is prepared to cancel for all those who forsake sin, become pupils in His School and are taught of God. At the present time God's mercy in the forgiveness of sin is exercised to ward those only who hear of His redeeming Love, and are moved to faith, repentance and reformation. Nor is this enough at the present time. God's call of this Gospel Age is for those who not only desire to resist sin and to escape from slavery to it, but who being made free, will enlist with their powers to oppose sin, under the leadership of Jesus—under the banner of the cross. To these comes the assurance of passing from sin to righteousness, from death to life, through the Redeemer.

For these, all the back charges of condemnation to death on account of sin are set aside. A new page of the ledger of God is opened for them. Henceforth the record of their past is canceled through the blood of Christ. Their sins of scarlet are removed. Their hearts, figuratively speaking, are as white as snow. They are pure in heart, although they have the treasure of this new heart in an imperfect body. The imperfections of their flesh, ever present, will seek to assert themselves; but they as New Creatures and sons of God through Christ are to resist these steadfastly. Do you tell me that I am setting too high a standard, and that the millions who read my sermons weekly will be discouraged instead of being helped? I answer that one with God is a majority; and that the Scriptures call upon me to "Cry aloud and spare not; and show My people their sins!" There are approximately four hundred millions of nominal Christians in the world; yet nowhere on earth are these sins to be found in so rank a development, of so deep a crimson, as amongst the professed followers of Christ.

God knows, the Bible declares, that none can do perfectly. But is this an excuse for any of us? Should we not do the best that we can to approximate the Divine standard in our actions, words and thoughts? What we can do is what God requires of us. All the remainder, as we have seen, has been fully provided for in the Savior, and the mercy and forgiveness which He can properly bestow upon the willing and obedient of heart, whose shortcomings are merely those of hereditary weakness and unfavorable environment. It is the purity of heart, of intention, of will, that constitutes saintship from the Divine standpoint and not actual perfection; for, as we read, "There is none righteous, no, not one."—Romans 3:10.

It is a part of my duty, dear hearers, as a minister of God, to speak His Word, to awaken the consciences of all those with whom I have any influence. It is my duty to lift high the Royal Standard of perfection, that all may see as in a mirror their own shortcomings, and that, seeing these, they may flee to the grace of God provided for all in Him. The Apostle speaks of the Church class as keeping themselves unspotted from the world. From what we have seen, dear friends, the term "world" includes nearly everybody claiming to be a Christian. The real Christians are few and far between.

But I hold that many more would be real Christians if the Truth were properly presented to their minds. Instead, millions come under the delusion that they are Christians, when they have not taken even the first step of repentance and reformation. And of those who have repented and reformed, a comparatively few have taken the next step necessary to their induction into the family of God. The second step is the acceptance of the Master's sacrifice, that which atones for their sins. More than this, to attain the full blessed privileges of the "Body of Christ, which is the Church" of the "First-born" (Ephesians 1:22, 23; Hebrews 12:23), it is necessary to make a full consecration of heart and life, time and talent, influence, everything, to the Lord—to be His footstep followers.

This is the only call of this Gospel Age. Only those who hear it and accept it enter into present opportunities and full privileges of sonship. Only those have opportunity of becoming members of the Royal Priesthood of glory, members of "the Bride, the Lamb's Wife." But others, as we have seen, have a measure of responsibility for their conduct, even if they do not come to Christ; and each will receive stripes in proportion as he has done wrong, or blessings in proportion as he has given even a cup of cold water to one of the Lord's faithful saints.

After the elect class of this Age shall have been perfected in the First Resurrection, Messiah's Kingdom will be set up. For this we pray, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, even as it is done in Heaven." Then matters will be different. No longer will it be possible for men to profit by wrong-doing, and no longer will any suffer for right-doing. Then every doer of righteousness will have a blessing, an uplifting, a strengthening. And every one following sin, unrighteousness, we are assured, will have stripes, punishments, intended to bring about a turning course and point him to the right way.

The Lord figuratively points to that New Era and explains the change that will then come, saying in respect to all who desire to be in harmony with Him, "I will take away the stony heart (selfishness) out of your flesh, and will give you a heart of flesh; and your desires will be loving." (Ezekiel 36:25-27.) This work will progress amongst men during the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom. The grand result will be that all lovers of sin and unrighteousness will eventually be destroyed in the Second Death as natural brute beasts (2 Peter 2:12), and all the willing and obedient will be lifted up from the imperfections and blemishes of heredity, and again become images of God in the flesh.

"Rowdiness" of Lords. At a moment when imaginative persons are drawing tragic contrasts between the staid and decorous procedure of the House of Lords and the "rowdiness" of the Lower Chamber it is consoling to find that in 1888 Lord Dorchester and the Duke of Buckingham were sent to the Tower for fighting during a debate. In 1822 the three royal dukes— Clarence, Cumberland and Sussex—attacked each other, using language not merely "unparliamentary," but unprintable. Some lively scenes occurred also during the years following the reform bill. In our own time a highly animated "scene" took place between two prelates, Bishop Magee and Archbishop Taft.

The Co SIR PERCY SCOTT MAKES AN ON LOR

He Tells The Story of The Incident—

Admiral Sir Percy Scott has long no time in grasping the opportunity of replying to the attacks made upon him by Lord Charles Berosford. His retirement from active service was gazetted only on Tuesday night, and his lips being thus unsealed, his apology appeared on Thursday in the "British Review."

Sir Percy Scott prefaces his story by declaring that he entered upon the command of the cruiser squadron attached to the Channel fleet in October, 1907, in "an atmosphere of suspicion, animosity and discord." Lord Charles Berosford, as Commander-in-Chief of the Channel fleet was known to hold opinions antagonistic to the administration of the Admiralty, and made no secret of his hostility to the First Sea Lord.

"It was soon made apparent to me," says Sir Percy, "that I was expected to acquiesce in the views of the majority, and to join in the crusade against authority. I made no secret of my wish to remain neutral, but I had not reckoned with the mutinous spirit which animated the Commander-in-Chief.

"I ought to have recognized the conditions and to have been on my guard. But, wrapped up in my work and thinking more about naval efficiency than personal squabbles, I neglected to take precautions. I might have expected that opportunity would be made to trump up a case against me to weaken my position, and if possible, to cause me to be replaced by an admiral more in sympathy with the opinions and action of my superior officer."

Sir Percy says he had not long to wait for his views to be realized. In the following month a conversation took place between the captain of one of the ships of the squadron and himself. Lord Charles heard of it and immediately jumped to the conclusion that opportunity for getting rid of him (Sir Percy) had arrived.

"In a hasty, high-handed, and impetuous manner," he condemned without investigation, and made a report to the Admiralty.

SIR PERCY SCOTT MAKES AN ATTACK ON LORD BERESFORD

He Tells The Story of The Paint Vs. Gunnery Signal Incident—"Not a Seaman."

Admiral Sir Percy Scott has lost no time in grasping the opportunity of replying to the attacks made upon him by Lord Charles Beresford. His retirement from active service was exacted only on Tuesday night, and his lips being thus unsealed, his apostrophe appeared on Thursday in the "British Review."

Lord Charles throughout was, in Sir Percy Scott's opinion, subversive of discipline and out of keeping with the distinguished rank that he held.

Dangerous Order.

"A further deplorable example to the officers and men under his command was Lord Charles Beresford's order to me not to speak to him, but only communicate with him in writing. Such an act was extraordinary and fatal; it made him the laughing stock of the Fleet."

The writer also describes how confidential communications found their way to the Press, and states that during the short time he was in the Fleet Lord Charles on three occasions had gentlemen connected with his flagship as guests.

Next Sir Percy Scott goes to great length into Lord Charles' famous manoeuvre signals of July, 1908, which the captain of the Scott's ship, the Good Hope, did not carry out, on the ground that it was dangerous, and would have brought his vessel into collision with another warship.

In "The Betrayal" Lord Charles complains that the account of the incident given at the time in the Press was wholly misleading and in the highest degree prejudicial to the reputation of a seaman.

Four years afterwards Lord Charles published his book, "The Betrayal," in which he claimed that the offender had been permitted to retain his position after the grave breach of discipline which he had committed.

Sir Percy says the charge that he was unfitted for his command shall not be allowed to be unrefuted.

The signal, in question was, of course, the famous one: "Paintwork appears to be more in demand than gunnery, so you had better come in, in time to make yourself pretty by the 8th."

Sir Percy goes at length into all the circumstances of the incident, and remarks that the signal was a very happy way of expressing the situation.

As showing that a little flippancy has sometimes been introduced into semaphore messages transmitted and received by Lord Charles, Sir Percy Scott quotes the following examples:

"Vice-Admiral to Rear-Admiral—"The fishing was a failure, but the car behaved like a lady."

"Rear-Admiral to Vice-Admiral—"I hope that she was fast enough for your lordship's requirements."

Sir Percy Scott goes on to complain that Lord Charles refused to listen to any explanation, and issued a signal giving a distorted version of the incident which was made as public as possible to the 20,000 officers and men present, and copies of it were posted on the lower decks for the men to see.

REALISM IN NEW ARMY TRAINING IN BRITAIN

A Test Was Made on a War Scale of Billeting Troops—Beds Placed in a Brick Kiln—Some Clever Manoeuvres.

For the first time a serious attempt has been made by the War Office to get an idea of the accommodation that could be provided by civilians for soldiers in war time.

On Wednesday 10,000 men, 500 officers and 2,500 horses were billeted on the inhabitants of the area between Aldershot and Reading.

The men all came from Aldershot Command, the nucleus force of the British Army, and were under the direction of General Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief.

Although there was not much profit in the transaction as arranged by the War Office—1s. 6d. for a man's lodging and two meals (1s. 4d. if in a barn), and 6d. and 3d. a night if no food were given—the troops were everywhere heartily received.

General Sir Douglas Haig slept in a wayside hotel in which a detachment of infantry was also accommodated, and no luxuries of any kind were allowed.

Every house and barn and cottage seemed to wear a white ticket which said: "Billets."

"Please take this to your door or gate to assist officers in finding the lodgings of their men."

The inhabitants of the countryside were invited to take the soldiers into their houses and provide them with food and shelter at an agreed price per night.

The troops were under active service conditions, the officers being quartered in the same way as the men without being permitted to make any private arrangements for more comfortable lodging.

Until the troops arrived in the area, where they were to be billeted neither they nor even the general commanding, knew what arrangements had been made for them.

The troops were under active service conditions, the officers being quartered in the same way as the men without being permitted to make any private arrangements for more comfortable lodging.

Until the troops arrived in the area, where they were to be billeted neither they nor even the general commanding, knew what arrangements had been made for them.

Although there was not much profit in the transaction as arranged by the War Office—1s. 6d. for a man's lodging and two meals (1s. 4d. if in a barn), and 6d. and 3d. a night if no food were given—the troops were everywhere heartily received.

Explosion on Return from Holiday.

Returning from a holiday Mr. John Fenwick, of St. James street, Newcastle, had just opened the front door of his house when there was a violent explosion of gas. It is thought that he was smoking. The house was practically wrecked, and he was found lying badly burned among the debris.

Gelignite on a Stove.

Herbert Artill, while spending the week-end at Bynton, lost a thumb and two fingers by the explosion of some blasting shot in the kitchen. He was employed at an iron mine near Simonsbath, Somerset, and in taking out his handkerchief pulled out a paper containing a small quantity of gelignite. The gelignite fell on a stove and he was brushing it off with his hand when it exploded. The fingers had to be amputated.

Death of Veteran Town Clerk.

In his 85th year, William Verrell, who was town clerk of Worthing till the end of last year, died recently. He was a native of Worthing, which he knew in its early fishing village days, and had acted as clerk to the local governing body under three different forms of local government—the old Town Commissioners, who met for the transaction of public business at a local hostelry; the Local Board of Health (called into being in the early fifties); and, finally, the present Municipal Corporation. He eventually transacted all his office work standing at a high desk.

Police Day of Rest.

It is officially announced that the scheme which gives every member of the Metropolitan Police Force one rest day in every seven begins on April 1. The zeal of the executive department of Scotland Yard, which has had the task of increasing the force by about 1,600 men, is largely responsible for the reform being instituted months before the date expected. About 20,000 men are affected.

Fatal Cannon Explosion.

A verdict of "accidental death" was returned at the inquest at Balmouth on Gunner Hemmings who was killed by the explosion of a gun at Pendennis Castle. Captain Bullivant said the gunner put the charge into the breech without orders, and the gun not having been cleaned out, a fragment of burning silk casing must have ignited the powder. The only explanation was that Hemmings, being trained to rapidly fire, service charges where men had to load and fire as quickly as possible, forgot himself, and did not remember he was firing blank cartridge. Gunner Shelton who was badly injured, must have handed the charge to Hemmings, and it seemed impossible to explain how two men made the mistake of inserting the charge without orders.

Str. Charles Montague Lush, High Court Judge, who sentenced Mrs. Pankhurst to three years' imprisonment.

There is more cancer in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, but constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Not once has it been cured by any other constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. The only Constitutional cure on the market, it is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They after one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Worn Out by Housework

Housework is monotonous and tiresome, the more tiresome because it is so monotonous. Doing the same thing over and over again day in and day out is what breaks down the nervous system.

And housework is hard work. Let any man do a Monday's wash or a Friday's sweeping, in addition to the other duties which crowd themselves into every day, and then ask him if he is tired.

But most women work away without murmur or complaint, so long as health is good. It is only when the system breaks down under constant and monotonous strain that life becomes well-nigh unbearable.

With the blood thin and watery, the nerves become feeble and starved, and cry out with terrible neuralgic headaches, or serious rheumatism, or weakness which almost equals helplessness.

With the delicate nerves jangled out of tune, little things annoy and irritate one; slight overexertion or excitement brings sleepless nights, with dark forebodings for the future. In some cases irritability reaches such a pitch as to make one think of insanity.

What is to be done? A trip abroad or a long rest in a sanitarium? For the rich this is possible, but the great majority of mothers must fight it out in their own homes, and for them there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Gentle and natural in its upbuilding influence on the system, this great food cure seems to be admirably suited to the delicate nervous system of women.

Each dose goes to form a certain amount of pure, rich blood. This in turn nourishes the feeble, wasted nerve cells back to health and vigor, and instills new energy and strength into every part of the body.

It is wonderful the way new hope and courage come back when the building-up process is set in motion. You cannot get strong and well in a day, but progress is such as to warrant you in keeping up the use of the Nerve Food until the cure is complete.

Mrs. Rena McNulty, St. Theodore, Que., writes: "I had almost constant pains in the chest and back-ache. I was tired and worn out nearly all the time. Four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did me more good than all the medicines I ever took. My system seemed to be all run down, and I was so weak I could scarcely do anything. The Nerve Food did wonders for me, and I want other women suffering as I did to benefit by my experience. I feel like a different person since using this great restorative."

Why not start to get well to-day by beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at once? The benefits of this treatment are both thorough and lasting.

The Washing Machine

By HOWARD L. RANN

THE washing machine is a ball-bearing substitute for blue Monday which has almost entirely displaced the zinc-covered rub board and the galloping back ache. It also prevents the temper from soaring on wash day and enables hungry husbands to sit down to something besides the cold baked bean.

There are several varieties of washing machines, all of which will consume a large family's washing in nine minutes if enough help is employed. The simplest variety is the 48-cent vacuum prod. This is operated by the human hand on the handle of a suction pump, and when applied with sufficient energy will leave the clothes looking as if they had just been washed.

Another favorite device is the family washer which seizes the clothing in its teeth and shakes the dirt loose with a brisk, rotary action. It works with a crank, and it requires only a few revolutions to restore the bluish of youth to the faded cheek of a discouraged bedspread. This machine will also handle lace curtains with so much enthusiasm that they have to be hung in the hired girl's room.

Beyond a doubt the most luxurious washing machine on the market is the electric implement, which can be hooked into a 16-candle socket and turned loose without having to wait to get up steam. This device is always operated by refined society women in evening dress, who stand by its side reading a serial story. Women who have one of these washing machines look forward to wash day with eager anticipation, as there is nothing to do except lay out the clothes, boil a tub of water, shave a few bars of soap, attach the wringer, rinse whatever clothes the washer failed to chew up, and string clotheslines from the kitchen to the parlor bedroom.

Circus Elephants Are Decidedly Queer Lot

No Fun Bringing Up a Family of Youngsters, Trainer, Opines—Necessary Sometimes Even to Spank Them For Discipline.

New York—From the vantage point of the wheel of an animal cage Harry Mooney, keeper and trainer of the elephant corps of the Greatest Show on Earth, watched his charges swing down the runway into the basement of Madison Square garden. The big animals had just returned from the first regular performance. They were all letter perfect in their parts, but, somehow, Mooney was far from satisfied.

The elephants swung into line behind the iron railing of their temporary home, and at the end of the line came Babe, leader of the herd, watching with bright little eyes the conduct of some of her companions. Not far from her, walking with haughty tread, was Hattie, who is Babe's rival for leader and the only one of the twenty more animals not under the control of her capricious old leader. The herd fell into the usual positions, and just then Topsy deliberately butted one of the larger animals, after which, lifting up her trunk, she began to cry so loudly that the whole herd, with the exception of Babe, anxiously shifted about. Whereupon Coco, resisting the efforts of an attendant who was trying to place a chain about her hind legs, moved to the front and began to turkey trot down the line.

This set Babe in action. After regarding this for a second or two she moved out of line and berated the misbehaving Coco with her trunk, bringing the smaller elephant to her knees. "Hey, Jimmy!" sang out Mooney to James Clark, his assistant, "move Topsy and Coco up and chain them to Babe. We've got to have order here if it takes all night."

"It's like this," Mooney explained, "that bunch of elephants is the best over, but just now we have a family row on our hands. Topsy and Coco have reached a point where they want to break away from what I might call parental restraint. Both are young and—well, you know how it is. Up in the ring a minute ago Topsy pulled Albert's tail too hard, and if I had not been on the job, it would probably have broken up the act. Then again, in the baseball act Coco deliberately threw the bat to Hattie. Talk about bringing up a family, it ain't nothin' to the task we have done here," and Mooney stopped to mop his brow and watch Jeany shuffling about near the end of the line.

"Jeany!" he called sharply. Jeany promptly moved back to her place, and, casting down her eyes, posed as the most subdued animal in the line.

Meantime, Clark and Dooley were busy "cutting out" Topsy and Coco from the line and shifting them to a position beside Babe's. Both hung back. Babe regarded them with a far from benevolent eye. "Go in there," shouted Mooney, who had been embosomed in a bale of hay and was emphasizing his commands by waving his arm. The mischievous pair moved unwillingly into a position on either side of Babe. Babe has been in the show business sixty-five years. Mooney believes that she really takes a personal interest in the Barnum and Bailey show. For years Babe has been recognized as the leader of the herd, and during that time she has insisted upon order. It was Babe, who, when the elephants stampeded some years ago at a small town in New Jersey, stopped the rush with her trunk, laying about her until she drove the uneasy animals back to their places. In fact, in the language of her friend, Mooney, she is not the only circus queen, but the real mother of the herd. When any of the group show an inclination to misbehave, they are chased up either alongside of or to Babe. If they continue their evil tendencies, Babe corrects them gently with her trunk. If they continue to pursue the broad road, she simply "beats them up," Mr. Mooney, says.

Therefore Mr. Mooney located on Saturday that Topsy and Coco should be put in care of Babe. Clark and Dooley were busy putting the chains on the pair when John Patterson, in charge of the wild animals, came along. "What's doing?" he asked Mooney. The latter explained that Topsy and Coco were being put in charge of the nurse.

"They'll be well spanked if they ain't good now," commented Mooney. "Do you mean to say that Babe will knock those two little elephants about?" asked Patterson. Mooney allowed that she would.

"Then I've got to move Betty," said Patterson, and, lifting his voice, shouted: "Hey, Bill, get Betty's cage moved back against the wall."

"I couldn't let Betty see a sight like that," explained Patterson. "You remember how she went on the day Old Tom died, and how she tried to act as nurse to Mecca, the camel over there, when he was born?"

Betty, when the cage was moved out into the bright light, proved to be a mildewed angwantibo, looking out upon the world with innocent surprise.

"There goes the tenderest-hearted animal in captivity," said Patterson. "Why if that animal would see Babe correcting either of those youngsters she would grieve herself nearly to death, and, of course, we want all the bunch in good condition now. Why, the night Old Tom, the tiger died—you remember that, Harry? Betty sensed what was happening and just took on terrible. Charlie Smith, who was keeper, then, had to sit up all night holding her in his arms. Talk about being tender—they ain't none of them got more sympathy than that angwantibo. Once—were in winter quarters then—she broke out of her cage one night, and in the morning we found her rocking a sick monkey to sleep."

Mr. Patterson was so overcome by the memory that he had to wipe his eyes. Three minutes after Betty had been hauled safely out of sight, Babe began the corrective process of the wicker elephants. Topsy got her trunk about Babe's foreleg and spent some minutes trying to lift it from the ground. The old leader stood it for some time, and then gently pushed Topsy away. The latter remained quiet a few minutes, and then, when Babe turned to Coco, who was becoming mischievous in turn, quietly put out her trunk and yanked the leader's leg. Babe turned in a flash and, with a side movement of her head, butted the youngster squarely between the eyes. Topsy went back as though struck by a ram and with a screech force that, when the chain became taut, she was jerked back against Babe's side. Five minutes later two very subdued elephants were standing on either side of Babe.

"Jimmy" Mooney called out to Clark. "Take that pair back to their places. If they behave now." And they did. Bailey elephant family is complicated just now by the attitude of Hattie. She is almost as old as Babe, but hasn't had as much experience in the circus business. Hattie has been a sort of leader in the elephant social world for some time, and now that she is coupled up in the same group with Babe she feels her position keenly. Hattie is exercising a bad influence upon the herd, for her rivalry is not making for discipline. "We have our troubles," said Mooney to Patterson. "Sure we have," replied the latter. "There are three classes of animals, and I have never been able to determine which causes the most trouble. There are those with a highly developed sense of humor that is always getting them into trouble. Then there are those, like Betty, who are too sympathetic for the show business, and, last of all, those that are always looking for a fight. If I ever get in right, I am going to give real money for the study and development of animal dispositions by a scientific process. Excuse me, there goes that ang-wantibo crying again. I bet she just saw Clark fall over that bale of hay."

MUSIC and DRAMA

Revivals are the rage just now, but the one of "Robin Hood," which will be seen at the Grand on Tuesday, April 15th, is probably the most pretentious one that has ever been made of a light opera. Not content to spend an immense sum for the scenery and the costumes, the management of the De Koven Opera Company has drawn from the principal opera houses of the world for its leading singers. Bessie Abbott, who heads the cast, had her first experience in the musical world at the Paris Grand Opera and this was followed by several seasons at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Henrietta Wakefield and Herbert Waterous also come from the last named theatre. Walter Hyde, by all odds, the best tenor in England, hails from the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, in London. Sylvia Van Dyck is an English soprano who won her spurs at the Brussels Opera House. Anna Buesert was a member of the Berlin Opera House, while Mincha Piranzo was for several seasons at La Scala in Milan. In addition to its tuneful score, "Robin Hood" possesses a witty libretto and the principal makers of the company will be Hildren Mostyn, Phillip Sheffield and Anna Boyd. The musical director, Frank Tourin, comes from the Gaiety Theatre in London.

All the Tired Nervous Women

CAN FIND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
Madame Perreault Tells How She Cured Her Kidneys With Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Found Health and Contentment.

VERNER, Ont., Apr. 6 (Special)—"I am very content. Dodd's Kidney Pills have made me well." Those are the words of Madame Eugene Perreault, a highly respected lady of this place and mother of a large family. For twenty years she was a sufferer. But let her tell her own story. "I was always tired and nervous," she states. "I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. My limbs were heavy, and I had a dragging sensation across my loins. My hair itched and burned at night. I had a bitter taste in my mouth, especially in the morning. In twenty years I hardly knew what it was to have a well moment. Then I commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes cured me."

Madame Perreault's symptoms were those of kidney disease. They are the symptoms of nine out of ten of the nervous, rundown, pain-racked women of Canada. Madame Perreault found a speedy and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. They simply cured her kidneys.

Lady Marjorie's Love

This was exactly the case, it having been far below the dignity of the enraged old woman to descend to any mention of Mr. Chadburn's audacious agent. Wherefore Marjorie, totally unsuspecting of the curtain last night and Fenella's confidence this morning, wondered he wildly. She stopped suddenly in the path, stooping to pick up a handful of the golden and russet leaves that strewed it. It seemed easier to keep her voice steady while her fingers were busy and it was so childish, so abominably babyish to cry! Besides, it made one a fright. She plucked the leaves to pieces, her eyes following Jack as he sniffed and plunged among the bushes.

"Of course I must stay until I get aunt Eleanor's letter!" she said. "I am afraid she must be ill, or she would have written before—there has been more than time now. Or it may be that she is away from home, visiting; she has such a large circle of acquaintances abroad, and her correspondence may not have been forwarded; servants are so neglectful. But there are plenty of reasons to account for the delay."

Inwardly Barrington thought that one reason was amply sufficient to account for it. But her tone had been questioning rather than assertive, and he gave her the answer which he knew she waited for.

"Plenty of reasons, no doubt!" he said cheerfully. "And, after all, the delay has not been long."

"Yes, that is what I say to myself!" A sob struggled in her throat again; she looked about her pitifully. "Oh, I can't go to Ireland! It is bad enough and cruel enough that I must leave the Castle at all, but to go there—right away!—to be shut up! I don't know for how long—all my life perhaps! Oh, it will break my heart, I think!"

Her eyes were bright with tears as she raised them, her red lips were quivering; it was the prettiest, pitifullest little face he had seen. She might just then have made any man lose his head; how much more now, when she was desperate in love with her and passionately bent upon telling her so on the first chance he got! Barrington was desperately in love with her, and he flushed and moved nearer to her, speaking eagerly.

"Break your heart to leave Castle Wexford? Will it? Not unless you choose that it shall. There is no need for the Dowager and Ireland or Mrs. Paget either, if you don't wish to go. And I don't think you do. Wouldn't you rather stay here, dear—in your home—then run away from it?"

"Stavie" here, Marjorie, echoed eagerly. His look his tone, even his word of endearment passed her utterly by; she stared at him in confused bewilderment, amazed. "Stay here? I cannot stay here!" she cried sharply. "It is impossible—you know it!"

"Impossible! But it isn't impossible, and I don't know it! On the contrary, it is one of the easiest things in the world. I mean to stay here, and so what can be easier than for you to stay, if only you can care for me a little, my sweet? You shall, for I'm a greater fool than I take myself for. I can't make you. He laughed happily, triumphantly; he had clasped her hand, his lips were close to her ear. "You must know I love you, Marjorie—I know I first saw you in this way with her. Well, it was all over with me then, and I knew it. You snubbed me comfoundedly, but that didn't make any difference. Never mind the Dowager—what does she or anyone else matter? I can take care of my little girl without her and without anybody, if only she will stay here—stay here with me!"

His voice had sunk caressingly to a whisper; he was drawing her gently nearer and nearer to him! another moment and he would clasp her close in his arms, so close that she could feel his heart-beats so strongly that she could not struggle. It would all be over—everything that she must remember would be lost, forgotten, Marjorie thought wildly, if he once did that. She had listened, stupefied, distractedly conscious of nothing but that this was dreadful, and that Fenella was right after all. With a cry and a shudder she wrenched herself away. She was who she was, he was what he was, and he had made love to her! To her—Marjorie Wynne! Remembering, she rushed over her head like an ice-wave, freezing her. She looked at him, her eyes filled with wrath and amazement. Dignity, pride, scorn—these were the only weapons she could snatch.

"I am I to understand, Mr. Barrington," she asked slowly, "that I am to attach any meaning to what you have just said? That you were seriously intending I mean, to make me an offer of marriage?"

"You are certainly to understand it, Lady Marjorie. That and nothing else was my intention. And I am undoubtedly as serious as it is possible for me to be."

His face had lost its glow and eagerness; it was fixed, impassive. It was plain that he understood, which was a good thing and a relief. But he showed no confusion or discomposure; his face and voice were both entirely calm and self-possessed, which was a bad thing and annoying. Marjorie's temper rose—had he no conception of his enormity, of the liberty he had taken, of the outrage and insult offered to the pride and station of the Wynnes? She laughed—laughed with a harsh little sound of rage, disdain, resentment, keeping her hand at her throat, for her heart-beats were dreadfully loud and heavy, and she trembled more and more.

"I am willing to suppose that you do not wish to marry me, Mr. Barrington—I do you the justice of believing that you have no intention of the kind. But you know the difference in our stations, and you must be aware that such a proposal from you to me is—ridiculous—is—insulting. It is a fact, is it not?" She beat her foot on the ground hurriedly, looking away.

(To be Continued.) Queen Mary had consented to open the Queen Mary Hospital erected by the National Sanatorium Association at Weston, for children affected with tuberculosis, at a date to be fixed later early in July. Her Majesty will not leave England for the ceremony. She will just press a button at Buckingham Palace that will, by a special arrangement with the Cable Company, have the effect of opening the doors of the building. The building will be completed early in May, and will be quite ready for occupation immediately after the opening ceremony.

The Reason Some Marriages Fail

By RUTH CAMERON

LOVE makes the world go round, we are told. Well, so does any other intoxicant. The stronger the draught, the more dizzily the world revolves, and the sadder the sobering-up process. "The Chinese girl doesn't know her husband until she is married to him," a returned missionary solemnly informed an American clubwoman. "Neither did I," answered the clubwoman.

The increase of divorces is proof that what she said in jest many are finding sober truth. Schopenhauer argued with profound pessimism that love was only the physical attraction of opposites. He would, were he alive, take grim pleasure in watching the procession of people who, grown distasteful to each other after a few years, of married life, pass through the divorce courts, furnishing an argument not available in his day.

I wonder how largely the fault is with the hazy idea that most young folks have of marriage. The average girl gets her notion of it from reading how he bent and kissed her poor bruised hand. An author who might tell how, six months later, he laid abed while she, still suffering from a nervous headache of the night before, built the fire, holds no attraction for the average girl.

The girl who is a bride learns two things, there fore, after marriage. One is the manner of man she has married, and the other is marriage. And both lose glamor. In the man, the little peculiarities and selfish nesses she glossed over when they were only engaged loom large and irritate when they become daily routine. As for marriage—well, it's different.

This is the critical time. She feels cheated. "She does not know that hers is the common lot, for while she has been told that marriage is serious she has not been told that it is likely to start with a period of reaction and readjustment. As a result she is rebellious.

It is here that divorce becomes a menace, because it suggests a way of escape. As a result she does not make the same effort to snatch happiness from the wreck of her illusions as did her mother and her grandmother, who never considered such escape.

In some states this is being taken into consideration, and courts of "reconciliation" are taking the place of courts of divorce. But why should they be necessary? The answer is that they shouldn't, and wouldn't, if mothers would warn daughters, and for that matter sons, what marriage means in the way of mutual concession.

MOTHERHOOD SUGGESTIONS

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable things that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes one childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

$3.50 RECIPE FREE FOR WEAK MEN

SEND NAME AND ADDRESS TO DAY—YOU CAN HAVE IT FREE AND BE STRONG AND VIGOROUS.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigour, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the tolls of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manhood and virility, quietly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge in a plain ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the care of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow-man to send him a copy in confidence, so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest acting, restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-CURRING remedy ever devised and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3782 Mack Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

A Bank of England Sensation To America—Mysterious Not Cleared Up

[Canadian Press Despatch]
NEW YORK, April 14—A cable from the Tribune from London says: Bank of England sensation is the topic in financial circles just now. No details of the affair have been made public from official sources, but it is understood that the investigation following the disappearance of a responsible official of the bank, show that securities valued at several thousand pounds were missing.

In the absence of any authoritative announcement with regard to description of the missing securities, an advertisement published last week concerning bonds that had been stolen attracted a good deal of notice. This advertisement did not mention the Bank of England.

Issue Not Taken Up.
NEW YORK, April 14—A cable from the Journal of Commerce from London says:
The response of the public to the issue by the province of Saskatchewan of 1,000,000 pounds, ten year per cent bonds at 95 was very weak and it is understood that the underwriters have been forced to take 85 per cent. of the issue.

It is reported that the City of Regina is now arranging to float an issue of $50,000 five per cent bonds to expire at 40 or 50 years. The bonds are to be placed at 101.

BREEZY BUDGET FROM

Hot Election is Drawing to General Report of the on Co

[Canadian Press Despatch]
WINNIPEG, April 14—According to special crop reports from respondents of the Western Associated Press, seeding will be general throughout Western Canada by the end of the week. Already in Medicine Hat and Lethbridge districts, farmers are busy with spring sowing while by mid-week, work will be general around Moosejaw, Saskatoon and throughout Manitoba. By the end of the week, the country from Regina, Edmonton and Calgary will be under the discs and shoes and seeder. At Prince Albert the spring has been somewhat tardy but plowing and preparation of seed beds is even now being taken up and by next week seeding will be general.

Despite the heavy nature of soil, due to the abundant snows of the past winter the land is generally in fine condition, the balmy, spring-like weather of the past week have evaporated most of the superfluous moisture, while the weather now shows signs of continuing the summer-like record. High temperatures are reported generally throughout West. Moosejaw registering 84
