POETRY.

The Pitcher of Tears.

The woman had closed her eyes,
A-wary with weeping,
She leaned on the empty cradle,
And sobbed in her sleeping,
Her breast like the wave of the sea
Was rising and falling;
Her heart through the mist of sleep
On her baby was calling.
Then her soul was lifted away
To the garden of heaven,
Where flowers shine like stars in the grass,
So smooth and so even;
An angel did wander,
With bright children who looked in his face
To dream and to wonder.

Alone, and apart from the rest,

A little child tarried,
And in his small arms, soft and round,
A pitcher he carried,
His sweet eyes looked wistfully towards
His mates in the meadow.
Heaven's glory was bright, but his face
Bore the touch of earth's shadow.

The woman knelt down where she stood,

"My own my dearie,
Now why do you wander alone,
With little feet weary?
If you cannot come back, come back,
To the arm of your mother,
'Tis your sweet hand the angel should hold
And never another."

"Oh! mother, the pitcher of tears,

"You tears, I must carry,
So heavy it weighs, that behind
I linger and tarry,
Oh! mother, if you would smile,
And cease from your weeping,
My place by the angel's side
I'd gladly be keeping."

The woman waked by the cradle,

And smiled in the waking,
"My baby, the pitcher of tears,
To my heart I am taking,
Go, frolic and sing with your mates;
My smiles shall be given
To make a new light round your head,
In the garden of Heaven."

AN APRIL FOOL.

"I feel like doing something outrageous, Jack."
"Worse than usual, Jill?"
"Very far above and beyond anything I've ever done."
"May the saints preserve me!" and then silence fell upon them.
Jill drew the vase of jonquils over to her side of the table, and began tearing the pretty yellow blossoms to pieces.
Jack caught the fair, destructive fingers in his own.
"You are bent on mischief, Jill; I fear we shall both come to grief, as did our ancestors before us, unless you leave off your bad habits."
"When we are sober, married people, Jack, living out at Elmwood, I shall be a model of sedate propriety, but now I'm hungrier and thirstier for fun."
"Which, being interpreted, meant that you are going to get into another scrape."
"No, I shall lay deep plans this time."
"Then somebody will suffer. I fear us, that you are a bloodthirsty little vixen."
"I am afraid so, Jack. Do you know what I am thinking of now?"
"No, Jill, they say there is honor among thieves. Perhaps if I join you in carrying out your deep and dark plans I may escape the misery that I fear you are hoping to bring upon me."
"And you will really help me? Jack, you are the joy of my life!" Jill pushed the jonquils away, and turned a bright face up to her sweetheart's.
"Uncle Bert is away now," she went on, "and it's just the time for our fun—only two days before April first. Come, Jack, let us settle on something."
It was nearly sundown when Jack went home. He met little Miss Basset on her way from school. She was a dainty little body, well into the thirties but fair and pretty still.
"I am so surprised," she said, "I've just had a note asking me to play the wedding march at your uncle's wedding!"
"Then it's true?"
"Why, yes. The note is signed 'Committee of arrangements.' That is queer, but then, your uncle is queer."
"Very. You will play?"
"To be sure. There! The note is gone."
A whiff of wind snatched it from her hand, and away it went across streets and gardens, to flutter down at the door of the village gossip, and to help very materially in carrying out the plans of Jack and Jill.
Little Miss Basset trudged on. She lived with her sister in the country, and taught music in the academy at the village. She was smiling as she

AN English Story.

Thirty years or more ago the frequenter of bric-a-brac shops and second hand stores in London, and of sales of household articles almost anywhere in England, knew Benjamin, a Hebrew, and a man of giant proportions. As a man of his race, he was rich, and it was not an unusual thing for him to advance as much as $50,000 on the household effects and rare and rich collections of wealthy noblemen who found themselves in financial straits.

So much for Benjamin.
In Lincolnshire lived Sir Charles Mainwaring (pronounced Manering), a rich bachelor, whose seat was Colby Hall, near Hackthorn, eight miles from Lincoln, the shire town, and in this hall Sir Charles had gathered together costly and beautiful things from every part of the world. He had also built in Hackthorn a chapel of exquisite beauty, and for it had given an order to Wallace, of Louth, the celebrated carver in wood, for a communion table and two chairs. More beautiful specimens of his handiwork Wallace had never made, and when they were finished, Sir Charles took them to Colby Hall, preparatory to presenting them formally to the chapel.

Suddenly Sir Charles died, and these articles had never been set aside legally as belonging to the chapel, it was necessary that they should be put up at public sale, as were the other articles in the house not devised by will. Naturally to such a sale all the collectors of England and many from the continent came, and the Hackthorn tables and chairs were held to be the prize of the collection. The members of the congregation of the little chapel were in despair, for they were not rich and they knew their communion set would command high figures. They collected together, however, as much money as they could, and, trusting to the charity of the competitors, who knew the story of the table and chairs, they hoped their small purse might be sufficient to secure what was morally already their own.

On the day of the sale, the rector, a vestryman and one small boy were at the hall in fear and trembling. They had their little purse, but nothing more, for when they came they found that Benjamin Benjamin was there, and they as Christians could not hope against this Hebrew. Yet they did not desert the field, but waited and watched.

At last the auctioneer, from a famous London firm, called out the table and chairs, and gave them such a glowing description that the price went up as far as the hearts of Hackthorn's people went down.
"How much an I bid for this table and chairs?" he said when he had finished his eulogy. "How much?"
The rector with his little purse, waited for someone to start the bidding. Towering over everybody, Benjamin Benjamin came to the front and the rector dwindled into insign

There were present Councillors Sawyer, Starr and Borden, Commissioners Burpee Witter and J. W. Caldwell, and the Town Clerk. Mr E. W. Sawyer was appointed chairman, while the Town Clerk acted in the capacity of clerk. The following committees were appointed:—

Rules of Order—C. R. H. Starr, J. W. Caldwell and E. W. Sawyer.

Seat—C. R. H. Starr.

Government of Schools—G. W. Borden and Burpee Witter.

Property—E. W. Sawyer, G. W. Borden and J. W. Caldwell.

Courses of Study—E. W. Sawyer and C. R. H. Starr.

Audit and Finance—G. W. Borden and J. W. Caldwell.

The whole board resolved itself into a committee on new building.

A statement of the late secretary of the board of school trustees with regard to the financial condition of the section up to date was read, showing that the sum of $803.48 had already been expended and that $595.31 had been collected.

The chairman informed the board that the sum of $500 would be needed by the end of the present month to pay teachers' salaries and other expenses. On motion it was resolved that the town council be applied to at once for the amount.

A bill from E. Sidney Crawley, for legal expenses in connection with the building of the new school-house, amounting to $30, was read and referred to the committee on finance and audit.

The chairman submitted an estimate of the probable expense of building and completing the new school-house as follows:—

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes Building, Architect, E. Sidney Crawley, legal expenses, Fuller & Warren, heating and ventilating arrangement, Estimated cost of fuel, furnishings, etc., Total.

The clerk was authorized to advertise for tenders for brick and mason work in connection with the construction of the new school-house.

Woman's Suffrage.

The bill to give the ballot to unmarried females, which came to an untimely end in the Nova Scotia Legislature, occasioned some interest in the other provinces. The Ottawa Citizen speaking of it says, unmarried women have at present the franchise in municipal elections in Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Before this privilege was conceded dire predictions were made of the injury that would be done to woman's maidenly modesty by her participation in elections. These predictions have not been fulfilled.

Under the bill, and with the wise provisions of the Ontario Municipal Act, closing the saloons upon polling days, elections are now conducted with almost as much sobriety as a Quaker meeting. Women are not insulted or jostled, nor are they subjected to any kind of rudeness when depositing their ballots. It may be a survival of the conservative feeling above mentioned which defeated the Nova Scotia bill, but if so the measure is only retarded for a few years until public opinion advances to meet it.

Man's Dual Nature.

The practice of putting a man's private virtues against his public sins, in obituary estimates, tends, in the opinion of the Watchman, to confuse moral distinctions. A man's character is not built like an open steamship in watertight compartments. Each man's life is a unity. There is an underlying principle which explains both his private and public life and until we apprehend that, we do not know the man. We are quite familiar with the human type which is all saccharine in public and very far from a saint in private. Just now, however, another type is evolving, namely, that of the man who is all hardness and avarice and selfishness in public, but who in an angelic moment he crosses his threshold and gets on his dressing gown and slippers.

Jamaica Trade.

In his report on the trade and finances of Jamaica, Sir Henry Blake, the governor, reports the percentage of imports from the several countries as follows: United Kingdom, 49; United States, 37.2; Canada, 10.4; other countries, 3.4. This shows a decrease in the trade with the United Kingdom, and an increase with the United States and Canada. The importations from Canada have been gradually increasing, and there is no doubt in Sir Henry Blake's mind that this is to some extent due to the representation of that colony at the Jamaica exhibition. The exports were distributed as follows: United Kingdom, 32.7 per cent.; United States, 59.9; Dominion of Canada, 3.4; other countries, 12.7.

The visit of the Blake and two or three others of the regular British North American squadron from Halifax caused a great sensation in the naval parade at New York and comparisons are being made between them and the "navies" of Great Britain. It is quite a number of much heavier war-ships than the Blake, but we trust our neighbors may never need to make their acquaintance in what might be termed a professional capacity.

Funeral of Kenneth E. Bishop.

The funeral of Kenneth E. Bishop on Saturday afternoon last was very largely attended. Appropriate services were held at the residence and were continued at the Baptist church, which was filled with friends of the deceased, anxious to pay their last respects. The services began with the beautiful hymn, "My Jesus Knows," sung by a quartette consisting of Misses Fitch and Wallace and Messrs Wallace and Leonard. Rev. Dr. Higgins then read the 90th Psalm, and Rev. Mr. Martell offered prayer. The hymn, "Asleep in Jesus," was then sung, after which Dr. Higgins gave an appropriate address, taking for his text 1 Cor. 15:57—"But thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." The quartette sang the anthem, "Cast Thy Burden on the Lord," and at the close of the service with the audience was passing out of the church, "No More Good-byes." Wolfville Division and the Wolfville Fire Co., both of which societies the deceased was a member of, attended and marched in the procession from the church to the grave where appropriate services were held. The floral offerings were profuse and very pretty—showing, to some extent, the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Among them we may make especial mention of a wreath furnished by the Fire Co. and a handsome offering by the teachers of the Baptist Sabbath school. The family wish, through the ACADIAN, to thank all those who by their sympathy and in other ways have assisted in their time of deep bereavement.

County Court.

The spring session of the county court was opened at Kentville on Tuesday by Judge J. P. Chipman, only the local barristers being present. After a few motions were disposed of or set down for future hearing, the docket was begun.

De Wolfe vs. Kinsman, an appeal case, was by consent left to be decided in Chambers; Beckwith vs. Woodworth was ordered to be tried on Friday, and Burdick vs. Ellis on Thursday. Stronach vs. Ward was postponed to May 22d.

In the Queen vs. Hushin and their appeal suit, the appeal was allowed on default, as no one appeared for the plaintiff.

Ferguson vs. Bishop was then argued. In this a judgment had been taken against the defendant in the magistrate's court, but more than six years had elapsed since taken. The defence was that the statute of limitation was a bar to the plaintiff's claim, and that the judgment given was not of a court of record. E. B. Copwell for plaintiff and T. R. Robertson for defendant. Judgment reserved.

The case of Smith vs. Overseers of the Poor, Ussin came up and lasted all the rest of the day and was not ended until Wednesday afternoon. Several witnesses were examined. Judgment reserved.

The next case called was Porter vs. Williams and was not finished when the court adjourned that night. There are several cases yet to be heard, and it is probable that the court will be sitting all the week.

Kentville News.

William Eaton, Town Clerk, has been very low with pneumonia for a week, and the citizens of the town were startled on Wednesday afternoon by hearing that he died about 4 o'clock. A great deal of sympathy has been expressed for the bereaved family. Kentville has lost a citizen and an official whose place cannot be filled.

Mr. J. A. Grierson left here last week for Weymouth, where he has now opened an office for practice.

Mr. William Carter died very suddenly at Kentville on Sunday. While in a fit of coughing he burst a blood vessel. He had been suffering from a gripper for some time but had not been considered dangerous. The funeral was on Tuesday. Mr. Carter was worthy pastor of the division here.

Monahaba Lodge, I. O. G. T., are making great preparations for their Fishing Excursion in Margeson's Hall on Friday night, May 6th.

Donahoe's Magazine for May.

Donahoe's Magazine for May is the brightest and most interesting number yet issued of this valuable and entertaining periodical, and this is saying a great deal when we consider the meteoric fashion in which this monthly has flashed into the front ranks of American periodicals. Among its special features this month are: "Through the World's Fair in an Hour," illustrated by Commissioner E. C. Hovey; "The Sacrifice of the Ship Girl," by Mary B. O'Sullivan; "The Catholic in Politics," by Thomas C. Quinn; "The Sisters in the Civil War," by Charles S. O'Neil; "Thirty Years of Ireland's Battle," by Hon. John F. Finerty; "The American Standard," illustrated by Henry Austin; "The Knights of Columbus," illustrated by Thomas W. Cummings; "Suppressing Dangerous Books," by Rev. Charles Warren Carrier; "Round About Pittsburgh," illustrated by Bayard Bradford and a discussion, "Should Married Women Work?" In fiction there are contributions by James Hall, Jr., and Jessie M. Burgoyne, while there are poems by George Russell Jackson, Eugene Davis, Mary Therese West, Katherine E. Conway, Rev. A. B. O'Neil, C. S. C., Godfrey Egremont, Arlo Bates, Rev. Mortimer Edward Twomey, Cora Stuart Wheeler and John S. Browning. Donahoe's Magazine Company, publishers, Boston.

Various News Notes.

The new trial of the Weltons and Dr. Randall, in the graveyard insurance case, has been set for May 15th.

The membership of the Baptist churches throughout Yarmouth county has increased by 250 since the beginning of the present year.

One of a number of French Canadians who have returned to Quebec from the New England States says that there are fifty thousand Canadians preparing to return to Canada.

Sir John Thompson, under date of April 13th, has written to Solicitor-General Curran, expressing the hope that the work of the Behring Sea arbitration tribunal, award and all, will be finished by the first of June.

An exchange says:—A Farmer's club union has been formed at Aylesford, N. S., with a membership of 60 or 70 persons. They have bought together a half cent of feed and flour in Gaspah and $350 worth of grain seed in Toronto, and report that the co-operation plan of buying is a good one.

The wife of Captain Roberts, of the White Star steamship Naronic, which has been missing since Feb. 11, and the wife of Chief Officer Wright, who was second in command to Captain Roberts on the Naronic, have both gone insane through despair caused by the loss of their husbands, and have had to be placed in an asylum for the insane.

The British tar got a lion's share of the applause awarded to the foreigners at the land parade in New York, and the New York papers generally admit that they presented a better appearance even than Uncle Sam's marines. This is probably the case and the admission indicates that the Britishers are a long way ahead of the representatives of any other power.

A Convention of the Liberal party is to take place at Ottawa on the 20th of June next. It promises to be one of the most interesting events of the year, so far as Canada is concerned. It is stated that one of the objects of the convention will be to formulate a policy which the Liberals all over the country may agree upon and through which they may fight their way to power.

The store owned and occupied by A. Bigelow & Son, at Stewiacke Station, was discovered to be on fire at midnight on Sunday, and was totally destroyed. While the fire was in progress a quantity of powder exploded and blew the roof and whole front of the building to atoms. Mr. Bigelow and others who were on duty to save the stock were in great danger, but fortunately escaped with a few bruises. The loss is estimated at $4,000 to $5,000, and there was $1,800 insurance. Mr. Bigelow is a native of this county, living formerly at Perce.

The Falmouth Dykes gave way a fortnight ago to-day, (Tuesday), at the upper abutment, opposite the farm of Mr. John Lawrence. Where the break occurred is about four miles up the river, and caused considerable damage, flooding the dykes of several owners. About forty men repaired the dyke, but it gave way again, and renewed efforts were made last Saturday night, the men working until early Sunday morning. This time they were successful, and some extra work is being done to secure the dyke from further encroachment riverward.

The Legislature of Prince Edward Island has again passed a bill abolishing both the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly, and henceforth the Legislature will consist of one house only, one-half of the thirty members of which will be chosen by electors possessing a real estate qualification to the extent of $375, and the other half will be elected by manhood suffrage. The constitution of the Legislature and the franchise is not to be changed hereafter except by a two-thirds vote of the body created by the act. The question of the prohibition of the liquor traffic is to be submitted to a plebiscite.

M., Evening Prayer and Sermon on this subject: "Difficulties about Christianity; and are those difficulties any reason for our not believing in it?" The Rev. Canon Brock, Rector of Kentville, will (D. V.) take the services.

Fishing Tackle and general Sporting Goods now open at Wolfville Bookstore.

We would again draw the attention of the street committee to encumbrances on the streets of our town. In some places the streets are used to pile lumber, building stone, etc., and are obstructed day and night by carts, waggon, &c. If some action is not taken soon the town may be put in for heavy damage as some of the obstructions are in public places and may cause accident. We think we are not unreasonable in expecting a change now.

Parties from Wolfville ordering a new suit from W. I. Grono, Kentville, will show a return ticket.

We really think it time that some action was taken by the town council to prevent horse racing on our streets. On Saturday evening last, especially, Main street was turned into a veritable racetrack and the street during the busy part of the evening was not safe for the public to use. Such driving on the streets should in future be stopped, as it is doubtless a very dangerous and outside trade and is besides very dangerous for town people.

The recital given by Prof. H. N. Shaw in College Hall on Monday evening was a decided success. A good audience was present and gave the closest attention throughout to the somewhat lengthy programme presented. Every number received an enthusiastic encore, which is the best evidence of the appreciation of the audience. The vocal music by Miss Fitch and the vocal music by Miss Brown and Wallace was all better even than usual—while the reading and singing of Prof. Shaw captivated the attention and delighted the hearts of all.

The largest variety of goods ever shown in Kentville can now be seen at W. I. Grono's, Merchant Tailor, "Margeson's Block."

The young ladies of the Pierian Society of Acadia celebrated their closing recital of the year on Friday evening of last week. The attendance was not so large as at former recitals which is to be regretted, as in many respects this was the best of the series. The piano music, played from memory, ably sustained the reputation of the society for superior work in this department, while the exhibition of voice culture, both in reading and singing, was highly creditable to all concerned. The appreciation of the audience was fully shown in the frequent and enthusiastic encores.

SPECIAL TRIP.—Lewis Rice's Photo Rooms will be open May 10th, 11th, and 12th, all work made up till 17th, finished before closing day.

On Wednesday morning last, after a short illness, Mr. Lewis P. Godfrey passed to his rest at the ripe age of 83 years. In 1833 he came to Wolfville from Windsor and commenced the business of a shoemaker and continued to work at his trade until a few months ago when on account of failing health he was forced to give up work. In 1850 he married Miss Fowler, a daughter of the late Elijah Fowler, who survives him. By his death Wolfville loses, with but one exception, its oldest inhabitant, and the longest continuous resident of the town. In religion he was a Baptist and in politics a Conservative. To the sorrowing family the ACADIAN tenders sympathy.

Under the heading, "Do Pay," the Commerce says:—"The generation of those who read newspapers and won't pay for them, or who devise skillful tricks in order not to pay their subscription is far from being extinct. Some means must, however, be found to do away with these deadheads who, notwithstanding the efforts of the publishers to make them understand that their offices are not charitable institutions, nevertheless persist in their belief that to receive and read a newspaper, without paying for it, is sufficient patronage."

Wolfville, May 5th, 1893.

New Grocery Store.

Mr R. Prat opened business in his new store at the corner of Main and School streets on Saturday last. The store, which was lately occupied by Mr J. H. Bishop's flour business, has been completely remodelled and so changed in appearance as to be quite unrecognizable. The whole building has been raised and now presents a very handsome appearance. Mr Prat has fitted the store up in a very tasty manner and filled it with a complete stock of new goods. The large and handsome plate-glass windows which have been put in afford a grand opportunity of showing his goods to advantage, and when lighted with the electric lights in the evening attract the attention of all. Mr Prat informs us that he is well pleased with his trade so far and expects to do a good business at his new stand. We congratulate him on the fine appearance of the store which is a credit to the town. Wolfville's groceries are certainly well up to the times.

Mr. Edron, California is a lovely country, the soil grows well the poor get rich, cyclones and frosts are practically unknown. A hundred to three hundred dollars per acre is made each year on fruits with irrigation. The California Land and Water Exchange, of Dayton, O., control large quantities of land in California, which they plant, cultivate, pay taxes on for ten years, paying you $40 per acre as your part of the profit, they keeping the balance for the care and cultivation. They give an acre of land away with each certificate. All they ask you to do is to pay for the irrigation, which can be done in small payments each month. They will send you the names of 90 persons who last year received from $25 to $500 on one year's investment. President Harrison says, "Half of the good things of California have not been told." The Hon. Jeremiah Rank says, "Try California is a poor man's paradise." To free-acre holders the California Land and Water Exchange, of Dayton, O., give a free return ticket to view the property. Why should anyone be poor when such a chance remains open and you do not have to do any labor or work to get the profits, and do not have to leave home. Write them to-day and get full particulars. A CALIFORNIAN.

The newspaper has been called the great natural school book. It goes into the family circle, and drops the same idea into thousands of minds at once. An advertisement, if it has an idea, is sure to be read.

MILK.

My delivery wagon calls twice daily, delivering milk to my patrons at 4 cents per imperial quart. I use a milk cooler or aerator which method keeps the milk pure and sweet from 24 to 36 hours longer than without its use. It also frees the milk from all animal heat, from the odors of the stable and from the taste of tarapur, pasture or silo feed. I invite inspection of my stables and dairy.

AN ILLINOIS MIRACLE.

A Case of Deep Interest to all women. Saved Through a Casual Glance at a Newspaper—Weak, Pale and in a Deplorable Condition When Relief Came—Another Remarkable Triumph for a Great Canadian Remedy.

Among the peculiar conditions with which the people of the present age are endowed, is a remarkable capacity for doubt. A full belief only comes after a careful investigation, and after positive proofs have been presented.

Mr. A. R. Kenyon is the fortunate owner of a comfortable house, well kept and with pleasant surroundings, situated on Chicago Avenue, Savanna, Ill., and it was there the reporter sought him to learn of the sickness of his wife and the reason to doubt the sickness of Mrs. Kenyon and in just the form she describes it.

It is a remarkable case. There is no reason to doubt the sickness of Mrs. Kenyon and in just the form she describes it. Hundreds of people in that immediate neighborhood are fully conversant with the facts of both sickness and cure, and discuss it with sympathizing earnestness.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Garfield Tea cures sick-headache. The amount of air that a man will inhale in twenty-four hours will fill seventy-eight hogheads and weigh 65 pounds.

A Cruel King. King Alcohol sits on his throne and rules with a rod of iron. He strikes to kill and always aims when he does not kill.

When you call a wretch like me, brother, it's an insult, for you don't mean it. I am brother to no man, and no man is brother to me.
