THE LAND OF THE IMPOSTOR.

MAHOMET WAS AN impostor. There is no denying the fact. He was a false prophet—that is to say, false in representing himself as a "prophet," and declaring that Paradise was full of black-eyed girls, with smiles reserved for the faithful. That is shocking doctrine, and the public journals which express Russian sentiments in London, make the most of it. The Times, for instance is horrified by the peculiarities of the Mahommetan religion; and all good Christians, if the religion of Mahomet were the point in controversy, would feel bound to subscribe to the writings of the Times. But the religion of Mahomet is no more in question at the present moment than the religions of Confucius or Joe Smith. Were the case otherwise, it would not be difficult to show how much more Christian the THE LAND OF THE IMPOSTOR. to show how much more Christian the Mahometan Turk is than the Christian Rus-Mahometan Turk is than the Christian Russian. The letter of Omar Pacha to Prince Gortschakoff, demanding the evacuation of the Danubian provinces, is one of the most moderate and temperate documents of the kind that ever was written; and that the Turkish Government is pervaded by the same spirit, we know by the long official declaration just issued by the Sultan's Government to the effect, that war having been only declared against Russia, the general council has decided that there shall be no change in the system either in the interior or abroad; and consequently the ordinance recommending all classes of subjects to act well towards one another will continue to have the same force, and whoever may violate it will be rigorously punished. Firmans containing this declaration, as well as the necessary instructions, have been mans containing this declaration, as well as the necessary instructions, have been addressed to all the governors of provinces. People wha only know Mahomet as an "imposter," may be rather surprised at declarations like this and more particularly if they should have read the denunciation of the Turks in the Times as "brutal barbarians." The followers of Mahomet show that they possess feelings which are scarce in Christian countries; Russia, for instance, where the imperial potentate is gnashing his teeth in a terrible rage, crying "war to the knife!" "war a l'outrance!" war of extermination! against his enemies, whose goods and chattels he desires to take possession of, but is forbidden. Mahomet, with all his peculiar notions of black-eyed houris, just alluded to, was a great reformer in his time, and demolished the worship of wooden figures of men and beasts, which he found his country devoted to. The worst that can be said against the Turks is, worst that can be said against the Turks is, that they have not marched in the way of improvement so fast as some Christians have done. But has the Russian marched as fast the Turk? The latter desired nave cone. But has the Russian marched as fast the Turk? The latter desires only to hold his own. The other covets the Turk's possessions, and by hook or by crook will have them, unless England and France prevent him. And what the prize really is that the Emperor's mouth waters for we learn by the following admission, simply and innocently made by one of his friends. "This poor little weak State is constituted of territories the most opulent, extensive, and Imperial ever known since the days of Rome. Three quarters of the globe contribute their fairest regions to its dominions. Its possessions include the richest provinces of Asia, Africa, and Europe. The superficial extent of its territory is more than doubte that of Great Britain and France united, and this uot constituted of ewamps. double that of Great Britain and France united, and this uot constituted of swamps or solitudes, but of the most renowned and productive countries under the sun. Under the sway of the Government recommended to generous protection on the score of its weakness is compromised half the great basis of the Mediterranean. All the most basis of the Mediterranean. All the most-famous cities of Asia, all the seats of anci-ent power and greatness—Tyre and Sidon, Antioch and Jerusalem, Damascus and Bagdad, Babylon and Palmyra, together-with all the islands and scaports of that magnificent region, form but one-half of the Turkish empire. In Africa it possesses the land of Egypt, itself equivalent to a king-dom. In Europe it pushes its dependen-cies from the waters of the Archipelage up acting as skirmlakers to give him a fair chance for a run, which he immediately improved by foreing his hugh carcase between the logs of his bulwarks out in the air, and sarrad immediately for the woods on the island. The dogs but he woods on the island. The dogs have been lost in the consection of the account of the account him to tran at them admiration of it, and Napoleon in the height of him. The next shot him in the fore legs, when he turned and endeavoured to run. Two other shots were fired, but missed him, or entered the fleshy part of his body, as they appeared to make no impression. By this time I had reloaded my piece, just as he turned around to fight the dogs, and as he reared himself on his haunches, I took deliberate aim between his syee, pulled trigger, and over he fell, struggling, into the snow. One of my men now approached close to him, and put another ball in his brain, which effectually settled him. He proved to be about 300 lbs. weight, young and very fat. In fact, the lard I afterwards extracted from him, served me nearly the entire trip for cooking purposes.

THE LAND OF THE IMPOSTOR. to the latitude of Paris, and as a centre of this prodigious dominion possesses a capital so wonderfully endowed with every conceivable advantage of attength and situation that conquerors of all ages have been lost in admiration of it, and Napoleon in the height of his glovy spoke of Constantinople as equivalent to all." This is Turkey. This is the territory upon which the Emperor of all the Russians has cast longing eyes, and of which some people think the Greeks would be better possessors than the Turks, because the Greeks are christians. Sorrowful would be the day for Christians who were not Greeks that should see a Greek empire established there! The sovereignty of the Greeks would be the sovereignty of the Greeks would be the sovereignty of the Russians. The Greeks are mere living machines—automata, the wires of which are pulled by the wily Czar. Admitting all that is said against the Turks, we still have a people morally and intellectually superior to the Greeks, and much better disposed towards strangers.

The will Czar will not be permitted to towards strangers.

The wily Car will not be permitted to seize upon this rich possession. He has sent his Cossacks across the Pruth, and he sent his Cossacks across the Pruth, and he must call them back again. Sooner or later, he must. He may bluster and fret, but it will be all to no purpose. His troops must go home again. It is a hard thing to ent the leek; but Nicholas will find it easier of digestion the readier he is in swallowing it. The future of Turkey must be determined by the Turks themselves; and Lord Palmerston has assured the country that they are neither insensible of its capabilities, nor indisposed to make the most of them.

EARLY RISING —Said the distinguished Lord Chatham to his son, "I would have inscribed on the critain of your bed and the walls of your chamber, 'If you do not rise early you can make progress in nothing. If you do not set apart your hours of reading—if you suffer yourself or any one else to break in upon them, your days will slip through your hands unprofitable and frivolously, unenjoyed by yourself."

"No, sir, by diawing their breath." "Sit down, Joseph. Thomas, what is the equator?" "Why sir, it is a horizontal pole running perpendicular through the imagination of astronomers and old geographers." "Go to your seat, Thomas. Willam Stiggs, what do you mean by an eclipse?" "An old racehorse, sir." "Silence. Next, Jack, what is an eclipse?" "An eclipse is a thing as appears when the moon gets on a burst, and runs against the sun; consequently the sun blacks the moon's face." "Class is dismissed."

Byron, the celebrated French academi-Byron, the celebrated French academician was walking homeward from Notre Dame, when he was accosted by a blind man, who asked him for charity. He replied in the language of St. Peter, "Silver and gold have I none; but of what I have I shall willingly give you part;" and immediately took out his tablets, and wrote upon them the following verses, which he pinned to the old ways cost. to the old man's coat:

"You that enjoy the light of day, Relieve a wretched, blind man, Relieve a wretched, blind man, gray, Unseen by me, your alms let fall; He sees them clear who sees us all; And when his eyes remove all chade, In eight of all, you'll be repaid."

SIX GOOD REASONS .- The late Orin Fowler, in a letter to a young nephew published in the Appendix of Uncle Toby's book on Tobacco, gives the following six good reasons for advising him "never to use or touch this wild weed." 'First, The use or touch this wild weed." 'First, The use of Tobacco, will injure your health—Second, It will injure pour mind. Third, It may lead to drunkenness and the ruin of your character. Fourth It will waste your property. Some persons spend for Tobacco, in thirty years, money enough to buy a farm. Fifth, It will undermine your constitution and may bring you to an early grave. Sixth, It may ruin your soul for ever. For these good reasons I hope you will remember now, never to meddle with tobacco."

A CHERREUL GIVER.—A venerable man in Eaw Jersey recently called on a clergy-man whom he had heard present the cause of the Bible, and handing him a gold dollar, said: "This was given me as a pocket piece; but, with a dying world before me, I cannot keep it longer—I bring it to you, and wish yon to implore God's blessing on it that it may do good to some soul." When told it would procure four Bibles, he added, "Then four souls more will be without excuse, if they perish." A CHERRPUL GIVER .- A venerable man

You will confer a favor by giving a place to the accompanying correspondence, which has recently passed between Sir Alexander Bannerman and myself. I regret exceedingly that circumstances should have called for it, and especially for its being made public. Neither disrespect for His Excellency, nor predilection for any political party has prompted me in this matter, but a principle thus referred to in one of the celebrated Letters of Junius: "A clear application of character, comprehends not only unblemished character comprehends not only the integrity that will not offer, but the spirit that will not submit to, an injury." I have no reason to expect candid treatment of my defensive statements from the person of whose disingenuousness I thought it proper to apprize His Excellency, and I have no intention to notice any of the effusions against me with which he may continue to account the columns of the may continue to occupy the columns of the Royal Gasette.

Your obed't Servant, EPHM. EVANS.

Charlottetown, 16th Nov., 1853.

May it please your Excellency:
At a late hour this evening. I have observed in Hasarat's Gasatte of to-day a correspondence between your Excellency and certain gentlemen recently in the Commission of the Peace, bearing upon the character and conduct of Mr. Edward Wholan, and upon his fitness to be associated with Her Majesty's Justices.

In one of your Excellency's communications, you are pleased to give the substance of certain explanations of his conduct made to your Excellency by Mr. Whelan, in which my christian and ministerial character is seriously assailed. I am unwilling that your Excellency should remain under the misapprehensions created by Mr. Whelan's very gross misrepresentations of facts; and as I am obliged to leave town tomorrow morning, beg leave to apprize your Excellency of my intention, immediately on my return, in the beginning of next week, to submit such facts and statements as I believe will exonerate me from the slanderous imputations which have been communicated to you, and prove your informant to be unentitled to any credence in his representations of the matters referred to.

With high respect,

To His Excellency Sir Alex. Bannerman, Kt. Lt. Governor, &c. &c. &c.

Charlottetown, 23d Nov., 1853.

May it please your Excellency;
In accordance with an intimation in my note of the 16th inst.—which I hope came to band,—I beg leave respectfully to express the surprise with which I read, in Haszard's Gazette of that date, a communication, purporting to be from your Excellency, leading me to believe that an impression, has been made upon the mind of your Excellency unfavorable to my character as a Christian Minister; and that it has been produced by gross misstatements of facts racter as a Christian Minister; and that it has been produced by gross misstatements of facts by a person recently one of your Excellency's confidential advisers, and more recently appoint-ed a Justice of the Peace for Queen's County. These misstatements, furthermore, appear to have influenced your Excellency to pursue a course in reference to that person which has have influenced your Excellency to pursue a course in reference to that person which has resulted in the retirement from the Commission of the Peace of eleven intelligent gentlemen, who consider "the conduct of Mr. Whelan, as witnessed by themselves, at the County Meeting!" referred to, and "other circumstances affecting his character," to have "rendered him an unfit person to be appointed to the Commission of the Peace."

With the greenies of the Rayal Propogratives

With the exercise of the Royal Prerogatives entrusted to your Excellency, it is neither my duty nor inclination to interfere; nor do I question the integrity and impartiality by which your Excellency desires to be influenced in the discharge of your high functions. But I am unwilling that misrepresentations of my conduct, and consequent depreciation of my character, should by any person be made stepping stones to your Excellency's favor, and to his own elevation; or that, as appears to have been done in this instance, Mr. Wholan should extenuate this own indecorous demensor, at the expense of my reputation, by pouring into the ear of your in this instance, Mr. Wholan should extenuate his own indecorous demensor, at the expense of my reputation, by pouring into the ear of your Excellency such perversions of the truth as are contained in the explanations given, and which have induced your Excellency to confirm him in a position entitling him to rank with gentlemen.

Now, I assure your Excellency, as a fact known to all who were present, that the exclamations referred to were "evoked" at a time when I was sitting silent, and at least an hour before I made any remarks bearing upon Mr. Whelm, and before any intention to do so existed in my mind. They were "evoked" when Mr. Whelm arose to speak, and commenced by insultingly alleging that "there existed no disposition in the meeting to do justice." Although the Hon. Mr. Holl immediately arose to order, and required the withdrawal of that offensive assertion, yet Mr. Whelan persisted in attempting to address the meeting. It was then, and thus, those cries were "evoked." No such excitement was manifested at any time while I addressed the meeting. It was then, and thus, those cries were "evoked." No such excitement was manifested at any time while I addressed the meeting. It was then, and thus, those cries were "evoked." No such excitement was manifested at any time while I addressed the meeting. It was then, and thus, and in how unprincipled a manner he could attempt to palm the demerit of his own disreputable acts upon another. That the Royal Genetic should be made the vehicle of such wicked misrepresentations, can but be lamented by all who have been taught to regard the Royal Armas as the insignie of truth and honor.

In the published correspondence of your Excellency, under date Nov. 3. I find the following: "I was assured that one of the Resolutions—proposed by Mr. Thomas—was accompanied by remarks made by a Reverend gentleman, which Mr. Whelan had considered so personal and insulting to himself, that in regard to this proposed resolution he had expressed himself in the manner attributed to him, or words to the same effect, "viz: "that neither himself nor a member of Her Majesty's Government care a pin for your resolutions." Your Excellency then adds, "On hearing this statement, and after a careful persual of the proceedings to which it related, I ordered Mr. Whelan's nontental in referring to that he spoke, as your Excellen

GOVERNMENT HOUSE,

26th November, 1853.

Reverence Ser:

I duly received your note of the 16th, and also that of the 23d, and I observe with much regret "that you were led to believe an impression had been made on my mind unfavourable to your character as a Christian Minister."

I beg to assure you, that by the allusion to a "Reverend Gentleman" made by me in the communication I necessarily addressed to certain Magistrates on the 3d instant, I had not the remotest intention of reflecting on your character as a Minister of the Gospel, and I am sorry that the allusion referred to has given you uncasiness. Here I might conclude, for you cannot expect me to enter into a correspondence on the proceedings of a meating, so many different versions of which have lately occupied my time and attention; nor do you question, I see, the excreise of that prerogative, for which, I alone am responsible. There is, however, one paragraph in your letter, which I cannot allow to pass unnoticed—you state "That the Royal Gazette "should be made the vehicle of such wicked mis-representations can but be lamented by all who "have been taught to regard the Royal Arms "as the insignis of truth and honour."

Now, not long after my assumption of the Government of this Colony, I wished and suggested that the Royal Gazette should be published separately, but I was informed that the Royal Gazette, "emblazoned with Her Majesty's Arms," had always been the vehicle of political and all other topics, and I did not think it my province, to urge on the Government, at an additional expense to the Colony, any departure from a practice which had been so long sanctioned by the confidential advisers of my predecessors, intimating to its Editor, of which the public must be aware, that he must be responsible for all articles published in the Royal Gazette, unauthorized by the Government.

Deprecating, as you do, wicked misrepresentations or wilful misrepresentation of any kind.

to express to you our unfeigned regret and disappointment that so sadden and unlocked for a termination should be put to our connection with you.
The causes which have brought this about being quite beyond our power effectually to control or prevent, we must only hope that, after properly representing our disappointment and grisvances to the Board of Education, and if needful, to the Executive, we may have institue done as and that the tive, we may have justice done us, and that the advantages which the school act contemplates shall in reality be secured to us.

in reality be secured to us.

In coming the distance you have, in consequence of being under an engagement to us, we feel that the disappointment and sacrifice to you are serious and unipleasant; but you are, yourself, well aware of the causes and where the blame rests. Board of Education and of the Visitor, and which, if allowed to continue, would absolutely deprive us of all actual participation in the benefits of the act for the Encouragement of Education. We feel confident however that matters will yet be settled and our just rights and interests maintained. Should it happen that you continue unengaged till we have our affairs adjusted, we are most anxious again to secure your services for this District, from the experience we have had of your abilities as a Teachier.

We accompany this with six months proportion of the advance promised in addition to the Government allowance and have recommended to the Board of Education that ander all the peculiar circumstances of the case, and from our opinion, and we are happy to say it is the opinion of the district, of your merits, a similar six months allowance of the Government Grant be paid you, particularly as the three other Teachers adjoining this district are allowed to receive our pupils and cause this school to be closed for want of the unmber of scholars required by the lact. Cut attention has been frequently directed by correspondents to the question of "allowing the beard to grow for the purpose of health."—Some have directed our attention to a recent article on the subject which appeared in "Dickens' Household Words," and one has been so kind as to send us the said article cut from one of our colemporaries, with four attention to a recent use of the subject which appeared in "Dickens' Household Words," and one has been so kind as to send us the said article cut from one of our colemporaries, with so kind as to send us the said article cut from one of our cotemporaries, with a few of his own remarks appended, approving of wearing the beard and moustache in all their glory.

We have no doubt but the moustache and beard will be universally worn by our people in the course of four years from the present date; we thus judge now, in our city, in comparison with the number who displayed them five years ago. None but foreigners were n, now they are worn by oneeighth of our male population.

The masons and millers in the cities of Liverpool, Edinburgh, and Glasgow have adopted the moustache as a health perservative, and during the past winter the engineers and others employed on the Scott-ish Central Railroad wore the beard by the recommendation of Dr. Simpson, and have addressed a letter to their Superin-tendent, describing the benefits they derived from such a habit, and recommening the beard, it would in many cases prevent bronchitis ,a disease with which they are peculiarly afflicted; they, however, will be the last to adopt the wisker, as they are so conspicuously shaven and shore. Among the Anglo-saxon race the beard was universally worn in the days of Shakspeare, and even old John Bunyan displayed the moustache. Fashions in dress' and wearing the hair in various modes, revolve in circles, and now the reign of the beard has begun.

THE MISER. -Of all the creatures upon earth none is so miserable as the miser. It is not impossible that the profli-gate may have a friend, for there is usually left about him some touch of humanity some one unbroken cord of the finer feelings of our nature; but the miser meets with no sympathy. Even the nurse who is hired to attend him in his latest hours, loathes the ghastly occupation, and longs for the moment of her release: for although the death's damp is already gathering upon his brow, the thoughts of the departing sinner are still upon his gold, and at the mere jingle of a key, he starts from his torpor, in a paroxism of terror, lest a surreptitious attempt is being made upon the sanctity of his strong box. e are no prayers of the orphan or not a solitary voice has ever breathed his name in heaven as a benefactor. One poor penny given away in the spirit of charity would now be worth more to him then all the gold that the world contains; but notwithstanding that | Cheelet he was a church-going man, and familar from his youth with those awful texts in which the worship of mammon is de-nounced, and the punishment of Dives told, he has never yet been able to divorce himself from his solitary love of lust, or to part with one atom of his pelf. An so from a miserable life detested and ded he passes into a drear eternity; whom he has neglected or m used make merry with the hoards of the Ten minutes of time spent in shaving every day amounts to one hour and ten minutes every week, or nearly 2½ days in one year. If in this city there are 60,000 men whe each consume this time yearly in shaving, it amounts in the aggregate to 150,000 days in one year, all of which would be saved by wearing the beard.—But what is to become of barbers and Sheffield razors? There is nothing, we admit, that would so readily reconcile any man to the inconvenience of an upper lip ornament as a bad razor. If the beard conduces to health then it should never be shaved. Clergymen, above all their classes, we believe, would be gainers by wearing the beard, it would in many cases present bearddly in the solution of the inconvenience of the inconvenience of the first classes, we believe, would be gainers by wearing the beard, it would in many cases present beautifully a discovery with which the control of the contr

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!

THE Submeribure manufacture and keep constantly on band, all sizes of Church, Factory, Steambant, Ferry, Locomotive, School House and Plantston Bells, with the heaf description of Hangings.

These Bells are under from the heaf stock, and the small sizes undergo the same process in unanifacturing as Church Bells. An experience of thirty years, with a great many recent improvements, and as entirely new method of casting, enables as to obtain the most melodious tone, combining also, in extraordinary vibration.

Nearly 9,000 Relis have been cast and sold from this Foundry, which is the best evidence of their experiority. We have fifteen Gold and Silver medals at our office, which were awarded for the "best Bells for sonorousness and parity of tone." We pay particular attention to the getting up Peals or Chimes, and can refer to those furnished by us. Our establishment is contiguous to the Eric and Champlain Canals, and Railroads running in every direction, which brings as within four hours of New York. Cash paid for old Copper. ## AYER'S PHLES.

A VERS's PHLLS,

A MEW and singularly successful remiedy for the A cure of all Billious diseases — Costiveness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Black, and Limbs, Female complaints, &c., &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harnless but effectual Cathardic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates scrious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billous derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Profesors, and Patienta, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Ourse have been effected beyond belief; west they not asbatamitated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are allowed to refer for these facts, are allowed to refer for these facts, are PROV. Valenties Morz, practical Chemist of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Marsachusetts.

Bale L Moorr, M. D., an eminent Surgeon and the first of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Marsachusetts.

DOOT. A. A. HATES, Practical Chemist of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Massachusetts.

IRA L. MOGRE, M. D., an eminent Surgeon and Physician, of the City of Lowell, who has long used them in his extensive practice.

H. C. SOUTHWICK, Esq., one of the first merchants in New York City.

C. A. DATE, M. D., Sup't and Sungton of the United States Marine Hospital, at Chelsea. Mas. Did space permit, we could give many hundred such names, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these eminent public men is shown in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are officed to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical acience can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by climical process, in a state of purity and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Fectorial and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obviaus. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities by this, each individual virtue only that is desired for the curartive effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the ery medicine is burdened with more or less of aerimonious and injurious qualities by this, each individual virtus only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effect should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition. I have supplied the accurate Formula by which both my Pectoral and Fills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Fravinces. If however there should be any offer who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known!
Their life consists in their mystery. I have no
would be taken if their composition was known!
Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all inen, and all who are competent to judge on the subject, fiscal, acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic meris. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific iness to be a wounderful medicine before its effects supen true.
