THE BRITISH WOOLEN COMPANY, Limited.

The Textile Industry of Newfoundland.

Carefully Note the following Facts:

WOOL FOR COMFORT

We have in stock Newfoundland and Canadian wools, Australian and New Zealand wools, English and Scotch wools, South American wools.

From these an expert blends such mixtures as produce the perfection of woollen underwear. Our mill is, and will be, the greatest sanatorium in Newfoundland.

Underwear made from cotton waste and the sweepings of big cotton mills is not fit to wear. Yet it is imported into this Colony at a cost of about $3.00 a dozen and retailed to people who do not stop to think.

Robust health makes a progressive country. Children well-fed, well-clothed, with all-wool material, and tucked up at night with all-wool blankets, live to a vigorous old age and do not die of consumption.

The principal "woolen" goods on the market contain from ten to twenty per cent of wool, the balance is cheap cotton and waste. These goods are sold as ALL WOOL but you cannot detect the fraud unless you are an expert.

A LITTLE DANDERINE WILL MAKE YOUR HAIR LUSTROUS, SOFT, FLUFFY, ABUNDANT

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

If you Wish to Double the Beauty of your Hair in Ten Minutes surely Try a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as good natured and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Try as you will, after one application of Danderine you cannot find any dandruff or loose or falling hair, and your scalp will never itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair sprouting all over the scalp. Danderine makes the hair grow long, heavy and lustrous and we can prove it. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

A PRECIOUS INHERITANCE.

CHAPTER XIV.

Madam Conway's Disasters.

"To Worcester! For what?" asked Maggie, and the excited woman answered, "To stop it. To forbid the bans. I should think you'd ask for what?"

"To stop it," repeated Maggie. "I'd like to see you stop it, when they've been married two months!"

"So they have, so they have!" said Madam Conway, wringing her hands in her despair, and crying out, "That a Conway should be so disgraced! What shall I do? What shall I do?"

"Make the best of it, of course," answered Maggie. "I don't see as George is any worse for his parentage. He is evidently greatly respected in Worcester, where his family are undoubtedly known. He is educated and refined, if they are not. Theo loves him and that is sufficient, unless I add that he has money."

"But not as much as I supposed," moaned Madam Conway. "Theo told me $200,000, but that woman said one Oh, what will become of me? Give me the hartsorn, Maggie. I feel so faint!"

The hartsorn was handed her, but it could not quiet her distress. Her family pride was sorely wounded, and had Theo been dead, she would have hardly felt worse than she did.

"How will she bear it when it comes to her knowledge, as it necessarily must? It will kill her, I know," she exclaimed, after Maggie had exhausted all her powers of reasoning in vain; then, as she remembered the woman's avowed intention of visiting her daughter-in-law on the morrow, she felt that she must turn back; she must see Theo and break it to her.

"But not as much as I supposed," moaned Madam Conway. "Theo told me $200,000, but that woman said one Oh, what will become of me? Give me the hartsorn, Maggie. I feel so faint!"

gently, or "the first sight of that odious creature, claiming her for a daughter, might be of incalculable injury."

"Stop, Mike," she was about to say; but ere the words passed her lips she reflected that to take Maggie back to Worcester was to throw her again in Henry Warner's way, and this she could not do. There was then but one alternative. She could stop at the Chariton depot, not far distant, and wait for the downward train, while Mike drove Maggie home, and this she resolved to do. Mike was accordingly bidden to take her at once to the depot, which he did, while she explained to Maggie her reason for returning.

"Theo is much better alone, and George will not thank you for interfering," said Maggie, not at all pleased with her grandmother's proceedings.

But the old lady was determined. "It was her duty," she said, "to stand by Theo in trouble, and if a visit from that horrid creature wasn't trouble, she could not well define it."

"When will you come home?" asked Maggie.

"Not before to-morrow night. Now I have undertaken the matter, I intend to see it through," said Madam Conway, referring to the expected visit of Mrs. Douglas.

But Mike did not thus understand it, and thinking her only object in turning back was "to see the doin's," as he designated the "Firemen's muster," he muttered long and loud about "being thus sent home, while his madam went to see the fun."

In the meantime, on a hard settee, at a rather uncomfortable depot, Madam Conway awaited the arrival of the train, which came at last, and in a short time she found herself again in Worcester. Once in a carriage and on her way to the "Day State," she began to feel a little nervous, half-wishing she had followed Maggie's advice, and left Theo alone. But it could not now be helped, and while trying to think what she should say to her astonished granddaughter, she was set down at the door of the hotel, slightly bewildered and a good deal perplexed, a feeling which was by no means diminished when she learned that Mr. and Mrs. Douglas were both out of town.

"Where have they gone, and when will they return?" she gasped, untying her bonnet strings, for an easier respiration.

To these queries the clerk replied that he believed Mr. Douglas had gone to Boston on business; that he might be at home that night; at all events, he would probably return in the morning; she could find Mr. Warner, who would tell her about it. "Shall I send for him?" he continued, as he saw the scowl upon her face.

"Certainly not," she answered, and taking the key, which had been left in her charge, she repaired to Theo's rooms, and sinking into an easy chair, fanned herself furiously, wondering if they would return that night, and what they would say when they found her there. "But I don't care," she continued, speaking aloud and shaking her head very decidedly at the excited woman whose image was reflected by the mirror opposite, and who shook her head as decidedly in return! "George Douglas had deceived us shamefully, and I'll tell him so, too. I wish he came this minute!"

But George Douglas knew well what he was doing. Very gradually was he imparting to Theo a knowledge of his parents, and Theo, who really loved her husband, was learning to prize him for himself and not for his family. Feeling certain that the firemen's muster would bring his mother to town, and knowing that Theo was not yet prepared to see her, he was greatly relieved at Madam Conway's sudden departure, and had himself purposely left home, with the intention of staying away until Friday night. This, however, Madam Conway did not know, and very silently she awaited his coming, until the lateness of the hour precluded the possibility of his arrival, and she retired to bed, but not to sleep, for the city was full of firemen, and one company, failing of finding lodgings elsewhere, had taken refuge in an empty carriage shop near by. The hard, bar floor was not the most comfortable bed imaginable, and, preferring the bright moonlight and open air, they made the night hideous with their noisy shouts, which the watchman tried in vain to hush. To sleep in that neighborhood was impossible, and all night long Madam Conway vibrated between her bed and the window, from which latter point she frowned wrathfully down upon the red coats below, who, scoffing alike at law and order as dispensed by the police, kept up their noisy revel, shouting lustily for "Chelsea, No. 4," and "Washington, No. 2," until the dawn of day.

"I wish to mercy I'd gone home!" sighed Madam Conway, as weak and faint she crept down to the breakfast table, doing but little justice to anything, and returning to her room pale, haggard and weary.

Ere long, however, she became interested in watching the crowds of people, who at an early hour filled the streets, and when as the different fire companies of the State paraded the town in a seemingly never-ending procession, she forgot in a measure her trouble, and drawing her chair to the window, sat down to enjoy the brilliant scene, involuntarily nodding her head to the stirring music, as troop after troop passed by. Up and down the street, as far as the eye could reach, the sidewalks were crowded with men, women and children, all eager to see the sight. There were people from the city and people from the country, the latter of whom, having anticipated the day for weeks a month, were now unquestionably enjoying it.

Conspicuous among these was a middle-aged woman, who elicited remarks from all who beheld her, both from the peculiarity of her dress and the huge blue cotton umbrella she persisted in hoisting, to the great annoyance of those in whose faces it was thrust, and who forgot in a measure their vexation when they read the novel device it bore. Like many other people who can sympathize with the good woman, she was always losing her umbrella, and at last, in self-defense, had embroidered upon the blue in letters of white: "Steal me not, for fear of shame. For here you see my owner's name."

"CHARITY DOUGLAS."

As the lettering was small and not very distinct, it required a close observation to decipher it; but the plan was a successful one, nevertheless, and for four long years the blue umbrella had done good service to its mistress, shielding her alike from sunshine and from storm, and now in the crowded city it performed a double part, preventing its nearest neighbors from seeing, while at the same time it kept the dust from settling on the thick green veil and leghorn bonnet of its owner. At Betsy Jane's suggestion she wore a hoop to-day on Theo's account, and that she was painfully conscious of the fact was proved by the many anxious glances she cast at her chocolate colored muslin, through the thin folds of which it was plainly visible.

"I wish I had left the pesky thing to hum," she thought, feeling greatly relieved when at last, as the crowd became greater, it was broken in several places and ceased to do its duty.

From her seat near the window Madam Conway caught sight of the umbrella as it swayed up and down amid the multitude, but she had no suspicion that she who bore it thrust aloft had even a better right to sit where she was sitting. In her excitement she had forgotten Mrs. Douglas's intended visit, to prepare Theo for which she had returned to Worcester, but it came to her at length, when, as the last fire company passed, the blue umbrella was closed, and the leghorn bonnet turned in the direction of the hotel. There was no mistaking the broad, good-humored face which looked so eagerly up at "George's widow," and involuntarily Madam Conway glanced under the bed with the view of being "thief for refuge."

"What shall I do?" she cried, as she heard the umbrella go the way "I'll lock her out," she continued; and in an instant the key was in her pocket, while, trembling in every limb, she awaited the result.

Nearer and nearer the factotum came; there was a knock upon the door, succeeded by a louder one, and then, as both these failed to elicit a response, the handle of the umbrella was vigorously applied. But all in vain, and Madam Conway heard the discomfited outsider say "They told me Theodosy's grandmarm was here, but I guess she's in the street. I'll come again to-morrow," and Mrs. Douglas senior walked disconsolately down the stairs, while Madam Conway thought it doubtful whether she rained access to the room that day, or as often as she might.

Not long after the gong sounded for dinner, and unlocking the door, Madam Conway was about descending to the dining-room when the thought burst upon her, "What if she should be at the table? It is just her!"

Nearer and nearer the factotum came; there was a knock upon the door, succeeded by a louder one, and then, as both these failed to elicit a response, the handle of the umbrella was vigorously applied. But all in vain, and Madam Conway heard the discomfited outsider say "They told me Theodosy's grandmarm was here, but I guess she's in the street. I'll come again to-morrow," and Mrs. Douglas senior walked disconsolately down the stairs, while Madam Conway thought it doubtful whether she rained access to the room that day, or as often as she might.

Not long after the gong sounded for dinner, and unlocking the door, Madam Conway was about descending to the dining-room when the thought burst upon her, "What if she should be at the table? It is just her!"

From her seat near the window Madam Conway caught sight of the umbrella as it swayed up and down amid the multitude, but she had no suspicion that she who bore it thrust aloft had even a better right to sit where she was sitting. In her excitement she had forgotten Mrs. Douglas's intended visit, to prepare Theo for which she had returned to Worcester, but it came to her at length, when, as the last fire company passed, the blue umbrella was closed, and the leghorn bonnet turned in the direction of the hotel. There was no mistaking the broad, good-humored face which looked so eagerly up at "George's widow," and involuntarily Madam Conway glanced under the bed with the view of being "thief for refuge."

"What shall I do?" she cried, as she heard the umbrella go the way "I'll lock her out," she continued; and in an instant the key was in her pocket, while, trembling in every limb, she awaited the result.

Little Stella Dwyer, the 11 year old daughter of Constable A. Dwyer, is at present very ill with an attack of pneumonia. She is being attended by Dr. Cron.

A lady in the neighbourhood of Ccchrane Street can boast of having a brood of chicken hatched last week.

The Masonic flag is flying over the hall to-day in honour of the children's festival which is being held this afternoon. From the preparations being made we imagine some of the older ones are feeling sorry they are not children "just for to-day."

The Southern Cross finished discharging yesterday. Her crew of 12 men shared $38.00 each. They left for their homes by this morning's train.

We regret to report the illness of Mrs. Thompson, wife of W. H. Thompson, Esq. J. P. Mrs. Thompson is being attended by Drs. Parsons and Cron. We trust that the skill of the physicians will quickly restore this amiable lady to her former health.

Work on the dock is progressing rapidly and soon the two tracks will be ready to take up vessels. Then four can be attended to at one time. There will be very little delay, and our northern friends will be always welcome in Harbor Grace.

Very little if any gardening is begun yet, although occasionally we see a little sign, for instance a man with a plough in his cart. It is said that still greater interest will be manifested in agriculture here this summer, people being encouraged to this by the good prices ruling for vegetables last fall and during the winter.

People living on Carbonar Road have been a little agitated lately about mysterious lights that are seen flitting along at a late hour of the night. It is on Sunday nights that the lights are mostly in evidence. There is a difference of opinion as to what is the cause. Some say it is a Jack-in-the-burn, while others contend it is something more than a magic lantern. All we intend to say on the matter is that it is quite natural, and nothing to be wondered at either here or at our sister town—Carbonar. CORRESPONDENT. Harbor Grace, April 30, 1912.

THE RIGHT HOUSE.

House Cleaning and Self Cleaning.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

The season for spring cleaning is at hand. Now, I am not one of those reformers who believe that a 11-the-year-old room is a cleanliness would eliminate the necessity for such a festival. Indeed no. On the contrary, I believe in more spring cleaning instead of less.

Courage, tired housewives. I don't mean more cleaning of your homes. I know you need no stimulus in that direction. I refer to something quite different.

Why should we feel that our houses are the only things that need spring cleaning? Our houses are not our whole lives, only the setting for them. What about our bodies and minds and souls? Ninety-nine times out of one hundred they need a spring cleaning infinitely more than the worst catch-all closet.

If you don't believe that, Mrs. Housekeeper, please wrench your mind away from the condition of the living-room hangings, and consider with me for a few moments the condition of yourself. Take your body first. What about your skin? Is it as clear to-day as it was five years ago, and as it might be to-day if you gave it proper attention and enough fresh air? Then, how about your carriage? Don't those stooping shoulders of yours need a spring renovation as much as the dining-room rug? And what about your inward workings? Are they in the condition they should be to make you as close as possible to 100 per cent efficient? When you have your house cleaning all done, you will say with a sigh, "How nice it does seem to live in a clean and orderly house." Would there not be as much happiness in living in an efficient and well ordered body, thoroughly clean not only outside but also within?

And then your mind? How about that? Is there any stagnation there which needs a spring freshet to sweep it away? Are you reading anything worth while? Do you look for the real news in the newspapers? Are you interested in anything at all outside your daily routine? Perhaps your mind does not need any spring cleaning. I don't know about that? But you do.

And then there's the rest of you that doesn't come under the heading of either mind or body. What about that part of your life? Don't some of those neglected friendships need dusting as much as the picture moulding in the parlor? And those good resolutions which you made New Year's day; of course, they ought not to need any spring cleaning, but do they? I'll leave it to you.

Ah, my friends, I wouldn't have less spring cleaning, but more. Only this year why not make it, in some small degree at least, self-cleaning. Instead of just house cleaning? "Yes, clean yer house an' clean yer shed." An' clean yer barn in ev'ry part. But brush the cobwebs from yer head. An' sweep the snowbanks from yer heart. Yes, w'en spring cleaning comes aroun' Bring forth the duster an' the broom. But rake yer foggy notions down. An' sweep yer dusty soul of gloom. —Sam Walter Foss.

Are the Fly and Mosquito Dangerous?

The fly, with spongy feet, collects the invisible germs of diseases, spreads them over our food and poisons us with typhoid and cholera. The mosquito with its bite injects into our veins malaria and yellow fever. The bacteria of consumption, or grip, are everywhere present for us to breathe into our lungs. The blood which flows through our veins and arteries is our protection. It should contain healthy red and white blood corpuscles—capable of warding off these disease germs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and alterative made entirely without alcohol, a pure glyceric extract of bloodroot, golden seal, Oregon grape root, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, which has enjoyed a good reputation for over forty years. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital force of the body burns brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

M. MAQUIRE, Esq.

"About forty years ago while in Newark, New Jersey, I had chills and fever," writes Mr. MICHAEL MAQUIRE, of National Military Home, Kansas City, and in the spring of 1877 the chills and fever returned. Doctors and everything I tried failed to do me good. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advertised. I took one bottle of it and the chills vanished. In about a year afterward I felt them coming back so I got another bottle and have never had any symptoms of fever or ague since. That is all of twenty years ago. I had the chills about twelve years before I started to take Golden Medical Discovery.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

Household Notes.

When paint sticks to glass, it can be removed with hot vinegar.

To brighten oil lamp burners, boil for 15 minutes in buttermilk.

When soaking mackerel or other salt fish, see that the skin side is uppermost.

Ice-cold water in a pitcher will keep much longer if a paper bag is placed over the top.

Charcoal in pieces the size of a pea or burnt cork once a week is good for all poultry.

A good, black ink, mixed with white of egg, will restore the color of kid shoes and gloves.

To polish zinc, rub briskly with a cloth dipped in kerosene and rinse off with boiling water.

A porcelain tub or sink may be thoroughly cleaned with a flannel dipped in spirits of turpentine.

Cut flowers will last well if a piece of saltpaper be added to the water in which they stand.

When buttering bread for sandwiches, always butter the end of the loaf before cutting off the slice.

Sprained Ankle Saturday Worked Again Monday

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment Did the Trick.

Mr. A. Carman, one of Davisville, Ontario's energetic young men, writes: "Some time ago I was getting over a wire fence, and when lifting my left foot, my right slipped, and in falling the heel of my boot caught the second wire, thus spraining my ankle. From the pain I thought my leg was broken. I managed to get home, suffering great agony. My father walked over a mile to the druggists, who sold him a bottle of Egyptian Liniment, which we applied, with surprising results, for it relieved the pain almost instantly, and on the next day, Sunday, I was able to put my slipper on. Though this was the worst accident I ever had, I was able to work on Monday without the loss of a single day. Accidents will happen. Don't be without a bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. 25c at all dealers. Free sample on request. Douglas' & Co., Napanee, Ont. 59

When boiling bacon or ham add a little vinegar and two or three cloves to the water and leave the meat in until the water is cold. The flavor will be delicious.

THE GRIP.

BY H. L. RANN.

The grip is an enervating disease which was smuggled into this country from France years ago, and has never shown any desire to return. It is a close imitation of the Vermont influenza, but is much more social, hopping from one member of the family to another in a series of sostenuto snuffles.

The grip was originally imported for the sole use of the aristocracy, and was called "la grippie," in order to popularize it with people who like to show their knowledge of the French language. The common people never had a chance to see what the grip was like until the Bay Harbor push discovered that it was lighting on several chauffeurs and other menials, upon which they passed it on to the rural districts and took up with nostalgia, Henry Ibsen and other polite diseases.

The grip is a very explosive and prehensile ailment, and is generally accompanied by a staccato sneeze, which rattles around the family hearth like hailstones on a tin roof. There are two kinds of grip—standpat and insurgent. The standpat variety is the kind which picks out a vital spot and has to be pried loose with quinine pills and the persuasive eloquence of the sitz bath. The insurgent grip is a brand which doesn't stay in one place long enough to permit a cold compress to catch up with it. There is also the winter grip, which goes around in the disguise of the self-tripping hay fever. People who have the grip in its pristine purity are liable to be jumped on at any time by every disease in the category, from senile dementia to the Swedish mumps. The balmy breath of spring is charged with grip germs, ranging in size from a cold in the head to the copper-gasketed pneumonia, and on this account a great many people migrate in tourist sleepers to some climate where there is nothing to be afraid of except the hotel rates.

When preparing a turkey or chicken, try rubbing it inside with a piece of lemon. It will whiten the flesh and make it more tender.

To make butter scotch, mix four cupfuls of brown sugar, two cupfuls of butter and three tablespoonfuls of water and boil until crisp in water.

Expert Opinion

If anything can, the Titanic disaster should humble the pride of experts. For the great lesson of the disaster is that not even the best of experts are infallible. Bruce Ismay and his associates are faced with the greatest disaster in the annals of marine history, in spite of reliance on experts. Many of those saved in the boats entered them with diffidence, having greater faith in the expert opinion that the Titanic was unsinkable than in their chance in the lifeboats. Sixteen hundred people went down because expert opinion had decided that in great vessels with the best of water-tight compartments and equipped with efficient wireless apparatus, it was unnecessary to provide lifeboat accommodation for all aboard. The Board of Trade regulations at present in force, based on the advice of experts, required lifeboat accommodation for 960 persons in vessels of the type of the Titanic. The Titanic, however, had accommodation for 1178 persons, although only about 60 per cent. of that number were saved, even in favourable weather. This in itself seems to suggest the need of lifeboats in excess of the number of passengers carried.

These rules were, however, based on the advice of a committee of experts which sat in 1890. But the fact is, astonishing as it may seem after the Titanic disaster, that the British Board of Trade received a report last July from the Life-saving Appliances Sub-Committee of the Merchant Shipping Advisory Committee. The features of the report are as follows: that steamers over 10,000 tons should be provided with an extra number of boats which is laid down according to tonnage. But the experts offer this opinion:

"We are strongly of opinion that every encouragement should be given to secure the provision of vessels which by their construction have been rendered as unsinkable as possible, and which are provided with efficient means for communication with the shore or with other vessels in case of disaster."

And made the following recommendation: "That vessels divided into efficient water-tight compartments to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade should (provided they are fitted with wireless telegraphy apparatus) be exempt from the requirements of additional boats or rats."

The report was not adopted by the Board of Trade. If it had been, and the recommendations adopted, the net effect would have been that instead of the regulations requiring the Titanic to have 9625 cubic feet of life saving boats, which with the ten per cent. excess carried by the Titanic saved only one third of those on board, the suggested regulations would have decreased the requirements from 9625 cubic feet of life boats to 8300 cubic feet.

The moral of the story stares one in the face, and it is that—neither owners, nor expert government boards can be too careful when lives are at stake.

Incompetence of British, Says the Kaiser.

New York, April 25.—The American this morning publishes the following despatch from its Berlin correspondent:

According to a report current in court circles, Emperor William made the following comment on the Titanic disaster at a military luncheon of officers at which he was present: "This is another monumental example of British incompetence. The British nation is living on its past instead of keeping pace with the general efficiency of the twentieth century."

"This British blunder goes along with the antiquated methods of the nation, and the result was to be expected sooner or later."
"There is no doubt about the bravery of the British crew and men on the ship. But British building pluck is a poor compensation for the loss by British stupidity."

Looters Caught AND CONVICTED.

Sergt. Cox and Const. Morrissey arrived from Bell Island last evening bringing along two male prisoners who will serve three months each in the Penitentiary. A few days ago these two men, who were workmen on the island, broke into a shack and stole therefrom a watch, provisions and sundry other articles. The victims reported their losses to the authorities and information was secured that led to the capture of the thieves. The accused were tried before Magistrate Power, convicted and sentenced as above stated.

Elect Officers.

A meeting of the Methodist Guards Football Association was held last evening in the armoury of the brigade after drill when the season's football team was debated and the following officers elected: Captain, Corporal J. Barrett; Vice-Capt. Pte. G. Squires; Sec.-Treas., Pte. H. Coulter; League Delegate, Capt. J. P. Blackwood. The Guards will have a strong representation of players this season in the brigade division and hope to give a good account of themselves.

Home Rule Bill.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day.

The Debate Second Reading of the Home Rule Bill has begun in the House of Commons. Mr. Churchill said he believed the Bill would further consolidate the Empire and cited the methods of Germany and the States. Long moved the rejection of the Bill. He said it was not peace the Bill would bring but war. He was bitter on every word and clause of it. The Government had no right even for the sake of settling the Irish question to run grave risks in respect of National defence which would exist under the Irish Parliament. They sought to pass the Bill by dishonest methods with the object of retaining the Nationalist vote in the Commons. Mr. Samuel Young, a Protestant, representing a Roman Catholic Constituency in Ulster supported the Bill. "I have lived long years among Catholics," he said. "There's no spirit of despotism or tyranny among them. They do not desire to put down the Protestant minority but are anxious to give fair play to all. It is the opposition to the bill in the North of Ireland which is based on hatred and bigotry. The opposition in the House of Commons is based on party spirit."

HALIFAX, April 30.—
The Mackay-Bennett has returned from her search for the bodies of the victims of the Titanic disaster. She recovered 306 bodies. Of these 116 were buried at sea, and 190 brought here. On the body of John Jacob Astor the sum of $2,500 in cash was found.

Special to Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, April 30.—
Before reaching the Senate hearing this morning, Ismay and four officers of the Titanic were summoned to give testimony to be used in a contemplated damage suit to be brought against the White Star Line by Mrs. Louise Robins, of this city, for the loss of her husband. While efforts will be made to rush this hearing, it may result in another delay in the departure of Ismay and his associates from the city.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LISBON, April 30.—
There are marked indications that the Portuguese monarchists intend to make another attempt to seize the northern provinces of Portugal. According to information received by the Government here, this step is said to be preparatory to an effort to restore King Manuel to the throne. At San Gregorio on the frontier, the Customs officials were attacked by a body of monarchists, who succeeded in capturing some arms, and then returned to Ganza, where they have established their headquarters. Similar movements are reported from other points in the northern provinces, and the cabinet has ordered the War Minister to despatch reinforcements of troops to the disturbed districts.

Special to Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, April 30.—
The Senate Committee reached the final stage to-day. Bruce Ismay was recalled and put through a last searching examination by Senator Smith. Mr. Ismay indignantly denied that he, or any other representative of his company, had attempted to re-insure the Titanic between the time she went down and the hour the real news of the disaster became public. He asserted that a wireless message, which he had directed to Vice-President Franklin from the Carpathia on Monday morning, April 15th, did not reach that official until Wednesday, 17th. Ismay said that the Titanic was not a speed boat, and had been constructed, under orders given by him, to make the biggest and best equipped vessel afloat. No cost limit had been set.

Bankers Astray.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.
According to a message sent to the Daily News last night by Sir Edward Morris, he and Lady Morris visited in hospital two men from Coomb's Cove, Fortune Bay, who were brought in there Sunday last by Capt. Pinsent, of the schr. Francis M. of Fortune. Their names are Archibald Bungay and William George Baines. They went astray in their dory on Quero Bank on April 14th, and were fourteen days adrift, nine of them on the ice, with only one cake of bread between them. The suffered terribly. The feet of both are badly frostbitten, and Bungay, who is only a youth, has his hands frostbitten also. They are being well cared for here, and are doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Serious Mishap.

MUCH DAMAGE WROUGHT.
As the S. S. Diana was moving from Bowling's South Side premises to Job's yesterday afternoon a serious mishap occurred and considerable damage was done which will take several hundred dollars to remedy. Anchored in close proximity to the sealer was the big steamer Glen Esk, which was loading salt on board a banking schooner belonging to Mr. R. Trimplman. A mistake arose on some one's part and it seems that the stern of the Diana struck the jibboom of the vessel twisting her around and causing the stands which were used for putting the salt aboard to collapse. Eventually the collision reached great proportions and the bowsprit was taken completely out of the vessel, in fact nearly all the forward part of her was more or less damaged.

C.E.I. Dinner.

The C. E. I. dined its members and representatives of sister societies at Smithville last night and a very enjoyable time was spent. Musicales.

In the basement of Cochrane Street Church a Union Sociable was held last night and a pleasant time was spent. Mr. F. W. Pincock, President of the League, occupied the chair, and the following programme was gone through: Instrumental solo, Mr. Roy Kendall; vocal solo, Miss Templeman; vocal solo, Mr. Rowe; recitation, Miss Parsons; musical rendition, Mr. Baird; duet, Misses Christian; solo, Mr. Hatcher; solo, Miss Curtis. After this refreshments were served, and guessing competitions were held and won by Miss Haddon and Mr. E. Parsons.

MAN'S DOMINION.

By WALT MASON.

"I have conquered the air," man cries; "my pinions shall sweep the skies." And, there comes a gale and his levers fail, and he sinks to the earth and dies. "Her secrets I'm bound to wrest from out of Dame Nature's breast." And Dame Nature kicks as her breast he pricks, and scatters him galky west. "I have conquered the sea, I think," says man, with a cheerful wink; "watch the ocean wilt! For I've gone and built a vessel that cannot sink!" He shows us his rare design; all perfect his plans and fine, and we softly say as we go our way that the sea should take in its sign. He launches his mighty bark, that's safer than Noah's ark; it's slick and clean in its lines, I ween, and swift as a trotting shark. "It simply can't sink," he claims; "its bulkheads and mighty frames will defy the knocks of the bergs and rocks and the ocean's wildest games." He sends it a-sailing then, this triumph designed by men; God gives a twist of his mighty wrist, and the sea is on top again.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon an alarm of fire was sent in from box 112, bringing the Central and East End Companies to the General Hospital where a slight blaze was in progress. The services of the firemen were not needed, however, as when they arrived the fire had disappeared. The fire started in the kitchen of the building where tinmiths were engaged sheathing the place with tin. One of the workmen, it seems, was transferring gasolene from one can to another and being too near the kitchen stove at the time the result was it ignited, catching the ceiling and floor, but the fire was extinguished quickly by the application of buckets of water. The burning substance was like a mass of flames and was quickly taken up and thrown outside the door by a tinmith named Ivan who had his hands badly burned. Had the gasolene exploded the chances are a serious conflagration might have followed.

"Camille!"

This appealing drama of woman's caprices will be presented in the Casino Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday by the Joseph Selman Stock Co. There are few people in this city who have not read or heard of the production, while many have seen its presentation here with Miss Jessie Bonstelle in the title role many years ago. The Selman troupe, however, promise a specially good performance. Miss Gertrude Arden, who appears in the character of the coquette, has played the part throughout the United States with decided success. Mr. Selman who is the Armand in the present production, is particularly familiar with the show, and has played in it nearly 300 times at Brooklyn, N.Y., and other places, while Messrs. Montserrat and Barret have also been identified with the play on previous occasions. The costuming of Camille will be quite a feature. The ladies carry a large assortment of the most recent Paris styles will be seen in to-morrow night's play. The advance sale is already very large, and a capacity audience seems assured.

At the Casino.

The reproduction of "The Bells" by the Selman Company last night attracted another full house at the Casino Theatre. Preceding it was a play entitled "The Trust Magnate," in which Mr. Montserrat and Miss Corwin appeared. Mr. Selman and his talented assistants in "The Bells" excelled in the characters they portrayed. To-night "The Bells" will be presented for the last time.

Supreme Court.

The May sitting began this morning, the Grand Jury were present, and were addressed by the Chief Justice on the matter of the charges against two men named Barrett and one named Smith, who are indicted for casting away the schooner Annie Raymond in October last. The Grand Jury then retired to consider their presentment.

Moore versus Carter.
Motion for a day.
Mr. Winter for plaintiff moves for a day to be set for the trial of the action. Mr. Gibbs appears for the defendant. Saturday the 4th day of May is set. This is an action for the appointment of an administrator.

Bond administrator of Dwyer's Estate vs. Browning, administrator of Flood's Estate. Kent, K.C., moves for the appointment of a master to replace the late Mr. McNelly, K.C., Gibbs assents.

Gibbons vs. Crosbie and Piccott. In this matter Mr. Justice Johnson delivered judgment for the defendants.

The Judge also took occasion to refer in a most commendatory way to the ability with which Mr. Mews conducted the case. Mr. Mews has given notice of appeal.

The Twins.

Look on this picture. This is Mr. John A. Smith, of Milwaukee, who sells medicine at 50c. a box.

MR. JOHN A. SMITH.

Then look at yesterday's Chronicle and you will find this picture of Mr. Bruce Ismay.

MR. BRUCE ISMAY.

Shakespeare says, "Man in his time plays many parts," but he says nothing of the parts pictures may play. He lived before the days of up-to-date journalism, or he might have given another version of his famed "What's in a name?" and said, "A cut over any name will look as well and may be serve a double turn." Doubtless Mr. Smith of Milwaukee will be able to sell his medicine better when he finds that Mr. Bruce Ismay has grown so like to him that the same "cut" will serve for pictures of both Mr. Ismay and himself; and the latter may be able to plead to Senator Smith that there is a doubt who he is, for "I am so like Johnny Smith of Milwaukee that some folks think that I am he, and we are one another."

The Police Court.

Four drunks were fined $1 or 3 days each. A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days. Another drunk in charge of a horse, was discharged. A man charged with deserting his ship, was discharged. Another charged with loose and disorderly conduct was discharged on paying costs. An assault case was tried between a man and wife, and both were ordered to sign bonds to keep the peace. Henry Cooper accused of larceny in eight counts, pleaded guilty, sentence was deferred.

Conductor Noseworthy vs. Drover for assault. This case began at 12 o'clock. Dr. Cowperthwaite was called and gave evidence as to the injuries inflicted on Noseworthy, stating that part of the ear was bitten completely off. Conductor Noseworthy himself gave evidence as to the occurrence. He was still being cross-examined by Mr. Squires at 1 o'clock.

Onward Lodge held its annual social and concert in Victoria Hall last evening. The attendance was not as large as the Committee anticipated, and many Good Templars, who should have been present, were conspicuous by their absence. However, those who did attend were amply repaid by the splendid programme, which was faultlessly rendered. The singing of Mr. H. Rowe (a young beginner) was a surprise to many and was favourably commented on. The following is the programme: Violin solo, Miss Johnson; recitation, Miss Uphill; solo, Mr. Willis; instrumental solo, Miss Power; duet, Mrs. Cocher-

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY.—To take over as a going concern, The Nova Scotia Carriage Company, established 1868, at Kentville, and erect large new works at Amherst to carry on the business of manufacturing Carriages, Sleighs and Motor Cars on an extensive scale.
This is the only concern manufacturing Motor Cars and Carriages in the Maritime Provinces, and its market embraces Newfoundland, the West Indies, the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Western Canada and British Columbia, with a promising overseas connection.
The present works at Kentville are overtaxed, and in order to meet the growing demand it became necessary to reorganize to obtain additional capital.
Amherst was selected as the new home of the company, owing to its great advantages as a distributing centre.

THE BUSINESS AT KENTVILLE

The success of the Nova Scotia Carriage Company is due mainly to the able management of Messrs. J. W. and D. C. McKay, practical carriage builders, both of whom are large shareholders in the new concern, and who are under contract to serve the new concern for a period of five years.

The success of this concern can be best judged by the following comparative statement for three years:—

Year.	Assets.	Liabilities.	Net Surplus.	Net Profits.
1909	$86,206.21	$19,068.47	$67,137.74	$37,949.35
1910	108,126.48	17,928.29	90,198.19	22,860.45
1911	184,803.69	39,557.43	145,246.26	54,848.07

OPERATIONS.—While the new plant is being erected at Amherst this year, the manufacturing operations at Kentville will be carried on without interruption. The goods manufactured enjoy a high reputation. This year's output will be approximately, 250 Motor Cars, 2,000 fine Carriages and 1,500 Sleighs and Slovens, representing an aggregate value of $475,000 or thereabouts.
The manufacture of Carriages and Motor Cars under the one roof ensures a busy season all the year round and is invaluable from an economic point of view and assures stability and permanency in times of depression. The company enjoys the advantage of cheap raw material, water transportation and good labor supply.

THE MANAGEMENT'S ESTIMATE OF BUSINESS AND PROFITS.
Messrs. Canadian Investors Limited, Halifax:
Gentlemen,—We beg to hand you an estimate, herewith, of our business and profits from November 30th, 1911, to November 30th, 1912, at Kentville; also from November 30th, 1912, to November 30th, 1913, at Amherst:—

1 911-1912.	Output.	Profit.
At Kentville, Nova Scotia	$475,750	$90,650
1912-1913.	Output.	Profit.
At Amherst, Nova Scotia	$1,089,500	$166,800

We might state that the output for 1912 is already booked, and we will have no difficulty in selling that of 1913, as we have turned down over $100,000 worth of business during the last three months. Our goods are sold and well known all over Canada, Newfoundland and the West Indies.
(Signed), NOVA SCOTIA CARRIAGE AND MOTOR CAR CO., LTD., J. W. McKay, Managing Director.

THE NET EARNINGS of $54,848.07 for the year 1911, are sufficient to pay bond interest and sinking fund charges and dividend on the issued preference stock of the company, and leaves a surplus. According to Mr. McKay's estimate the net profits for the current year on orders and work on hand will pay the bond charges and preferential dividend and leave a surplus of $40,150—more than 4 per cent on the issued common stock. The surplus earnings for the current year would really be nearer $50,000 than $40,150, as the new capital will not be entitled to a full year's dividend.
By the foregoing estimate the net earnings of the company next year will show a surplus of $116,300, after paying bond interest and sinking fund charges and preferential dividend. This is equal to more than 12 per cent on the issued common stock.

THE FUTURE OF THE COMPANY IS ASSURED.
Under the management of the McKay brothers, and with the growing demand for Motor Cars and Carriages, the new business can be expected to assume steadily increasing proportions. In this connection the following letter from Mr. Nathaniel Curry will be of interest:—
"Canadian Investors Limited, Halifax:
Gentlemen,—I have your favour of the 6th instant, asking my opinion as to the future prospects of the Nova Scotia Carriage and Motor Car Company, to be located at Amherst.
I consider this company is doing a wise thing in locating at Amherst and getting practically all the business men of that place financially interested. This, of itself, would mean success for any legitimate enterprise. Amherst men pull together and have long and successful experience in manufacturing. There is a great future in Canada for the Automobile, also the Motor Truck for freight purposes.
I understand that the above company has an excellent management and I see no reason why this industry should not in a few years be one of the largest and most prosperous in the Maritime Provinces."
(Signed), N. CURRY."

AUDITOR'S CERTIFICATE.
Canadian Investors Limited, Halifax:
Gentlemen,—I have examined the books and accounts of The Nova Scotia Carriage and Motor Car Company, Limited, and certify that the amount of Net Assets, comprising Real Estate, Buildings, Machinery and Equipment, Inventories, Accounts Receivable and other current assets, less Liabilities, at November 28th, 1911, after including the proceeds to be received from the sale of the present Bond and Preferred Stock issue, are $578,746.26.
The Net Earnings of the Company for three years ending November 28th, 1911, after making sufficient provision for depreciation, bad and doubtful debts and Bills Receivable, but before charging interest on borrowed money, have been as follows:—

1909	$37,949.35
1910	22,860.45
1911	54,848.07
	$115,657.87
An average of	$38,552.62

The inventories have been valued at approximate cost as certified by Messrs. McKay brothers.
The orders on hand at the beginning of the year were $346,000.00. During the present year the orders have increased very rapidly.

It must not be thought that I do not appreciate the fact that Roman Catholicism has produced many eminent men of science and invention. And the fact that now it honours these men is illustrative of the change which the Church has undergone since the days of Galileo. Almost all the Churches are similarly conservative, the change or progression taking place so gradually that it is not apparent till you compare the Churches to-day with what they were say a century ago. But we are living in an age that moves quickly and the social question has become acute and demands instant relief.
The ordinary man who feels somehow that things are not as they should be, listens with eagerness to the message that "He hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts. He hath put down the mighty from their seat and hath exalted the humble and meek. He hath filled the hungry with good things, and the rich he hath sent empty away." He hears "Thy kingdom come on Earth as it is in Heaven." And then the questions arise within him. Why does not the Church have a part in the shaping of a better world? Why does it not seek so many poor, degraded people? How can the Kingdom of God come on Earth if we do not prepare the way? And what a world of pathos is in his appeal to the Preacher: We are poor, enslaved, unhappy, speak to us of better material conditions, of liberty, of happiness. Tell us if we are doomed to suffer for ever, or if we, too, may enjoy in our turn. Preach duty to our masters, to the classes above us which treat us like machines and monopolise the blessings which belong to all. To us speak of rights; speak of the means of vindicating them; speak of our strength. Wait till we have a recognised existence; then you shall speak to us of duties and of sacrifice.
And so, on the pity of it, the Church alienates many from Religion. Not to become Atheists; for though they may be prejudiced against creeds, not one of them dares to call himself an Atheist.
Canon Henson, of Westminster, some years ago said:—
"The English Church has lost its hold on the great body of the people." Statisticians in Canada point to the fact that the Churches get back a small percentage of the poorer classes as their services.
All this comes from the fact that the Church acts under the assumption that Man is all Soul. But half the command of Jesus was a social one and it is only by loving your neighbour as yourself that you can love God! Christ did not deprecate the body. On the contrary he showed both in the Sermon on the Mount and in his whole career a wonderful tenderness for the bodily well-being of man. He spent the greater part of His short life in healing sick people.
The erroneous idea that Socialism means Atheism arises from the fact that Marx, Engels, Bebel and perhaps other of the exponents of the Movement have been such. But that the ten million voters in the Socialist Party are Atheists is a statement that no one can make without utter disregard for the truth. As I intimated before, a man may not go to church, but he is not therefore an Atheist. Now, without prejudice let us examine these Atheists, however revolting it is to our minds that these men should not acknowledge God. It is in the hope and struggle for the higher social life that these men find their ideal, their religion. They bring back Heaven to Earth. They, of all people, have a definite plan which will relieve the tired, suffering Humanity of our world. They, of all our Christian civilization, are agitating for brotherhood, association and love.

"Love thy neighbour as thyself." "By their works ye shall know them."
May it not be said that to-day the morality of Christians is of a languid and conventional sort compared to the fresh, vigorous and healthy virtue displayed by some who are not Christian. Who exhibit all the tenderness, the devotedness, the ardent elevation which Christ gave us the example. May we not see it in all the workings of the Divine Mind, whose ways are not our ways, whose thoughts are not our thoughts.
God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform.
And if Marx and the others although denying God, yet do His Will and by their works glorify Him, how much loftier should be both the zeal and attainments of us who have had the Example? What manner of men ought we to be?

Socialism makes men more Christian, and from the beginning of the movement societies have been formed of Christian Socialists. In 1848 Baron Von Ketteler, Archbishop of Mayence, in his book, "The Labour Question and Christianity" accepts the principle and often the language of the Socialist scheme. He says: "Associated production in the hands of the working class itself is to be its redemption from Capitalism." It was a bold and noble conception of a living Church. The Pope of the working classes, Leo XIII, recommends that the guilds of arts and trades be adapted to present conditions. Whether these guilds are impracticable or not it was at least one way of direct acceptance by the Christian Church of the economic issue.
The German Protestant leader Pastor Stocker, formed in 1878 his "Christian Socialist Labour Party" on the basis of the Christian Faith "to lessen the division between rich and poor and to bring in a greater economic security."
The legislation of Bismark, (though in the end helping the cause) rather cut the ground under his feet but he is to be counted as the most eloquent in declaring that social organization is an essential duty of the Christian Church in the modern world.

Christian Socialism has always been a prominent factor in the movement in England. In 1877 some of the leaders of the Free Church with out forming any separate organization associated themselves openly with Socialism; and many of the younger ministers of all denominations ranged themselves behind the same banner. An Association of Free Church Socialist Clergymen was founded in 1905 and the Church Socialist League in 1904. Now the Church in all its sections, is permeated with socialism. When Roosevelt called Socialism "irreligious" he was obliged to admit afterward that he found no trace of it in American writers. There are many Socialist publications in America one being "The Christian Socialist" which denounces in no uncertain terms any alienation from the Christian Religion.
In upholding the Christian view of "Peace on Earth," Socialism does not merely talk. It acts. When, during the Morocco dispute between Germany and France a few years ago, it seemed to us as if war would come the German Socialists, two hundred thousand strong, assembled for a mighty peace demonstration in Berlin and declared "that the workingmen of Germany have no grievance against the workmen of France and refuse to murder them." As a result the dispute was arbitrated upon. Again, when Norway and Sweden were on the verge of war over the separation of the two countries, the Socialists and the labour men prevented it by threatening a universal strike. Is this Christian?

W. T. Stead commenting on the success of the Socialists in the recent elections in Germany says: "That the Socialists deserve their success is indisputable. They are the only party that is steady for human brotherhood and that has offered an unflinching opposition to all the predatory policies of our time."
May I close with two verses of the Mid-day Hymn:—
Thine is the loom, the forge, the mart,
The wealth of land and sea;
The worlds of science and of art,
Revealed and ruled by thee,
Work shall be prayer, if all be wrought
As Thou wouldst have it done;
And prayer, by Thee inspired and taught,
Itself will work be done.

Blow of Titanic Same as 72 Engines Going Mile a Minute!

The terrific and awful force with which the Titanic struck the iceberg, travelling as she is reported to have been at full speed, can possibly be imagined from the following illustration which has been furnished by a professor of engineering at McGill University.
A steamship of 46,000 tons, proceeding at the rate of 21 knots an hour, would have an energy of blow on impact on a solid mass of 1,600,000,000 foot pounds, or 870,000 foot tons, equivalent to the energy of 55 twelve-inch guns, firing simultaneously a projectile of 500 pounds.
The force of the blow of the Titanic on the iceberg would be sufficient to lift the whole ship thirty-five feet in the air.
Another instance is that 72 railway locomotives running at the speed of 20 miles an hour would have about the same striking energy.

Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.
There are imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Be sure you see the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, on the bottle you buy. 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much; 60 cents; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
