Not a Corn

Last week that foot had corns. But the owner read of Blue-jay.

She applied it one night and the pain instantly stopped. In 48 hours all the corns came out. And those corns will never come back.

That's the story folks have told about sixty million corns. And tens of thousands tell it every day.

Some of them used to pare corns, merely to relieve. Some of them tried the old-time treatments until they gave up in disgust.

Now never again will they suffer from corns. When one appears, Blue-jay goes on it.

There is no more pain. The corn is forgotten. In two days they lift it out. No soreness, no pain, no trouble.

That sounds too good to be true. But remember, please, that a million corns a month are ended in this Blue-jay way.

Why don't you let it put an end to yours?

CHAPTER XII.

"Hold up!" cried Hodges, offering a not unfriendly shove to safe latters. "Mind where you're a-goin' to! Seems to me—apostrophizing Sydney, who involuntarily sprung forward—a chap can't step straight afore non-time ought to be 'shamed of himself, 'cept he be ha-a-all blind!"

And he grumbled himself off, with his cackling freight, as the obstructor with his shoulder once more by the post of safety, muttered, "Half! Would it were only half!" And Sydney, halting quite near him, saw with an access of profoundest pity that his eyes, turned full upon her now, were absolutely sightless; the light of day to him only darkness!

Such a thrill of pain ran through her as she realized this, it seemed downright cruel to pass him by without one sign of sympathy. A rattling of points and shrill approaching scream announced the train he waited for. With snorts, as of exhausted efforts on such a hot day, the engine came puffing in. "Late!" cried the guard, briskly; "hurry up there porter!" In the distance the strolling tourists were all clamoring for a reduction of fare. Carriage-doors began closing. But the stranger Sydney watched seemed forgotten. Will a wistful sigh he moved his head now right, now left, as with old habitual gesture of full vision. It seemed as if he would be left behind. But this was more than the girl could suffer. Obedient to an instinct of courageous courtesy she went quite up to him and spoke.

"I think I heard you say you wished to go on by this train. May I show you to a carriage?"

He turned toward her voice. "I should be very grateful, but—"

"There was no time to lose. "Which class?" asked Sydney.

The color rose to his forehead. "It must be third."

"Then—she could not say "follow me," so boldly placing her hand within his arm. "this way, please. I am holding the door open. The compartment is empty. Now—as he took his seat—"will you allow me to fetch your ticket?"

But this service was not demanded. Up rushed the station-master with the needful passport. Sydney, releasing her hand, drew back, with cheeks unnecessarily tingling, as her companion stooped nearer than he perhaps knew.

"I am very thankful," he said, "for your kindness. It is difficult to get used to being helpless."

At the patient gravity of his manner tears sprung to her eyes.

"Ah, that it must be!" she murmured; "I wish—" "I could have done more," she would have said, but the guard was calling out, "Stand back!" With a shriek off went the locomotive. His hat raised in farewell, the stranger was borne away, and Sydney devoted her few more minutes' loneliness to a vain hunt through memory's hiding-places for some clue to an identity not altogether unknown, she felt convinced.

But she was still in a labyrinth on the matter when her own train rushed in and having taken her place in a second-class (prudently economizing for return with Mrs. Dacie; ever ten-pound notes have an end!) he: one fellow passenger occupied her attention for the half hour they were together.

"Will you allow your window to be open as well as mine, if you please?"

"Certainly; it is warmer than a hour or two ago."

"Oh, very hot, indeed! Dreadful or traveling!"

"Now, I thought it delightful!" said Sydney, smiling.

"Which shows you bound on pleasure," said the lady, with good humor not untinted by envy, and the sight he ended with bespoke some specie of soothing such as Sydney, out of present mood, could well spare.

After the few instants' comprehensive inspection travelers naturally make of each other, leaving in this case impression of a person of early middle-age, homely and yet refined denoted a gentlewoman by simple propriety of dress—none too rich; by the exquisite mending of her well worn gloves—Sydney would have returned to meditating and watching westward for a first sight of the Malvern Hills, but from the opposite corner came the question soon.

"I hope you are not bound on anything sad," she said, quite earnestly desiring no more encounters with sorrow that morning.

"Well, sad—no," was the answer rather with the air of talking being a relief, "I've only come away from something disappointing. I have been a good many miles and spent a good many shillings for nothing, which is provoking."

"Indeed it must be."

"Do you know Northampton?"

"Not at all. I am from the East of England."

"It was Northampton I went to yesterday—by appointment—to meet a lady—a widow. Just the person who would have suited so well as well, companion, or—to share out some. I thought I had got exactly what I wanted; then when we had our interview the exasperating woman could only simper like a school girl, and tell me she was going to be married again!"

At this Sydney broke into smiles.

"It was too bad, though!" she confessed. "A telegram ought to have spared you your journey."

"Just what I told her! And what makes seeing her all the more annoying is that I'm sure she would have suited. Nice voice, liked reading and, most of all, wanted a home more than a salary. Oh, dear, I wish this man had been at Hong Kong before she'd met him."

"Let us hope you will find some one else just as fitting. There must be plenty such," said Sydney.

"Ah, but not to be found when you want them. And I really must have some one. There are circumstances—but I won't trouble you with those unless you know any one who would fill the situation. I'm sure I would try and make her happy!"

Evidently a kind woman, thought Sydney. Not intellectual, but housewifely "comfortable." If ever dear Lillian Mary Dacie needed a home—on might that day be coming!—here might have been one for her. But on mention this fancy would be absurd. So she could only answer that she had no such treasure on the roll-call of her acquaintance, but would remember the want, "a good reader—a good voice—and very little salary."

"But a good home," put in the lady charmed by Sydney's interest. "I really may say that if she doesn't mind some—peculiarities, I know I would try and make her like it."

"I think you would," agreed Sydney; "but if I ever found this valuable person, whom should I direct her to?"

"Oh, dear, I have no card about me but my address is here, drawing an envelope from her satchel. "You stop at Lutterthorpe?" as the train blackened speed. "I must say good-bye, then. I wish you had been going into Herefordshire with me."

She closed with a regretful handshake. Then Sydney alighted at the Lutterthorpe Station, and as the train sped away into distance, read concerning her friend of a few minutes that she was "Miss Hurst, Wynstone, Chapel Moor, Hereford."

CHAPTER XIV.

Lutterthorpe, the hamlet by the busy, active little Lytton, or Lutter, that ran for miles gleaming in and out near by the railway—Lutterthorpe lay basking in the glow of almost noon, when Sydney Alwyn once more threaded her way through lanes her footsteps had not known for nigh three quarters of her young life's years.

It had not altered much in all that time, or its changes lay lower than the surface; Guywick she could barely remember, but this, an enchanted village full of select delights to childhood, she had not forgotten. As she went with quick, throbbing enjoyment up once familiar paths, the very cottages with their specialties, a row of silky-seeding poplars—here, the hollow willows there, a non bank covered with blue-eyed periwinkles, as of yore, seemed to bear amiable recognition on her. Further up she could have laughed aloud at sight of The Rampant Lion wearing the self-same expression that once upon a time had alarmed her into suspicion that he might turn alive and come down from his sign, with such artistic craft was depleted the grin bestowed by the noble animal on the unwary folk who entered his enticing portals!

Past the school, where the children came trooping and shouting out as she went by, just as they did at twelve o'clock when she was small, and their riotous exit gave nurse and her the time of day—and there was the church, and round about the many tombs where she had learned from "Taft" that "widow" must not be encumbered with two d's, and, by the testimony of numerous "Hic Jacets," that never an a must intrude in "Here lieth."

Almost the kind, quavering old voice sounded in her ears again. Almost she could feel the clasp of the old brown hand about her wrist.

She turned longingly to the humble homestead on the grassy lane—the very same, with humming bees about it, and apple-trees grown shadler and bigger—with half an expectation of seeing her old nurse, white-coiffed, and mob-capped, still in her sunny corner, clicking away with glittering pins at some mysterious manufacture in Welsh wool, destined for the incasement of Mr. Lewis's legs.

But there this disillusionment began.

Nurse's bench was tenanted now by a rabbit-hutch, whereof the dappled inhabitants worked their long ears and pliant little noses about most interrogatively as she traversed the box-bordered path; but no other welcome was accorded Sydney from her once holiday haunt.

A woman of unfamiliar form opened the door to her knock, and looking with wonder on the young stranger, answered her inquiry with,

"Lewis! Why, no, miss. There've been no Lewis here this long while. We are Davis. There was a one, Lewis by name, but he went out afore the two people afore us, so I've heard."

"Went out! And a long time ago?" Sydney looked very blank.

"Lewis is gone!" she repeated slowly. "But"—half afraid to put the question, for fear of possible reply—"he is living? And still here, at Lutterthorpe?"

9927.—A SIMPLE NEAT LITTLE FROCK.

Girls' One Piece Dress with Straight or Shaped Edge at the Closing, and with or without Girdle.

Such a pretty dress was developed from this design in blue and white dotted tub silk. It is equally effective in gingham, percale, galatea, challie, lawn, dimity, voile, or crepe. Feather-stitching or insertion would form a pretty trimming on this model. The model has inverted fullness at the underarm seams and the sleeve and neck finish is pleasing though simple. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. It requires 2 5-8 yards of 36 or 40 inch material for a 6 year size. A Pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

9930.—A SPLENDID MODEL. Girl's Apron.

This simple little design is so easy to develop, that "mother's" girl will be glad to do it alone. The deep arm-eye is so comfortable and the effect so neat, to say nothing of the good covering which the apron will give to the dress beneath. For home, cooking school, for play time, this design will prove very satisfactory. The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 2 1-8 yards of 27 inch material for a 6 year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Quarrels as Safety Valves.

By RUTH CAMERON.

It is sad to clash with his. Both defend their beliefs. The point is that at times they are two forces which clash. The same thing happens in nature over and over again. Then there is a storm, nature's safety valve, and fine weather for another spell.

The little storms that mar our domestic life are, after all, just safety valves. We have our days of storm breeding, a period when the air seems charged, and then, the storm. After that we have fine weather again.

It might be better if we could avoid the storms but if we can't, it is folly to dread them.

When nature smiles, we forget the storm and enjoy ourselves to the utmost. We do not say "This is a fine day—but how I dread the storm that will come day after to-morrow or next week sometime." That would be very foolish.

It is doubtful if we would even consent to the abolition of all storms. A man who is never hungry can never enjoy a fine appetite; a man who has never seen a storm, cannot half appreciate good weather.

It may be that our domestic storms are just another arrangement of beneficent nature to make us appreciate the long stretches of really fine weather in between.

WORDS.

It isn't what you say, my friend, that makes the gray world brighter; fine words are a furnished wilderness end by any skillful writer; and gifted orators will rise, and boost the silver lining, and fill the space beneath the skies with language that is shining. We all can utter Noble Things, and sweet uplifting phrases, and think we've earned a crown and wings because we talk like blazes. The meanest tightwad in the town can hand words to the sinner, but would he help the man who's down, to get a good square dinner? The helpful word is good as when it is backed by helpful action; but if you hone for grub to eat, words are poor satisfaction. The sunny smile is worth its weight in gold if wisely flaunted, but smiling will not pay the freight, if wienewurst is wanted. I'd rather dry a widow's tears (if she is young and winsome) than fill with platitudes her ears and stand around and grin some. I'd rather give an orphan pie than hand him helpful stories concerning mansions in the sky and all the future glories. Oh, let us not depend on talk, to fill this world with laughter, but help the needy on our block, and do our smiling after.

Judge and Mrs. J. Kearny Rice, of New Brunswick, N. J., have announced the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Sally Nelson Rice, to Mr. Harold C. Harvey, of Trenton, N. J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harvey, of London, England. Miss Rice is a cousin of Mrs. J. Kearny Warren, of New York, and a niece of Justice Willard P. Voorhes, of the New Jersey Supreme Court. Mr. Harvey is a cousin of Mr. Eugene H. Outerbridge, of New York, and is connected with the Agassiz Millboard Co., Trenton, and Messrs. Harvey & Outerbridge, New York. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

Sealing Voyage Will Soon Close.

The sealing voyage will close in two more weeks, and as the ships now out must have practically all their coal used by this time, they will no doubt make for port during the coming week. The Fogota is due to-day, and the other ships are the Sagona, Bebie, Diana and Kite at the front, and the Viking and Neptune in the Gulf.

The record of the sealfishery of 1914 has had no parallel in the sealing annals of Newfoundland.

Parthenoa Off.

TOOK ENGLISH MAIL.

After a three months' delay during which time she had a new stern post and rudder put in position, the Donaldson Line Parthenoa sailed this forenoon for London. She was destined for that port from Botwood with 2,600 tons of pulp when she met with mishap off Cape Race. The liner, it may be remembered, was drifting about helplessly for a week when picked up by the mammoth coal carrier Wagiana and towed to this port. The Parthenoa had her cargo unloaded and stored at Harvey's premises before going into dry dock. The expenses of the ship during her stay here, though not definitely known, is an enormous sum.

The Parthenoa took an English mail on board this morning before sailing.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuesle

Supper and Suspense

The soft pulsations of the orchestra's music were stealing through the brilliant Pompeian room as Bert and Marian entered for an after-theatre bite. The lawyer had reserved a table for two on the balcony. He was resplendent in his evening attire. The lawyer had reserved a man. And Marian, as she gazed at him across the table, felt that she had never been in the presence of a more engaging supper companion. She felt, somehow, that she was on the brink of important events.

"That tango tune carries me off to New York," observed Bert. "I notice that tango suppers, teas, and so on, haven't overtaken the provinces yet. If this were New York, we could have a dance between bites. Wouldn't it be great?"

"It would be divine," replied Marian—and she meant it. "Do you know," he continued, after he had ordered, "the world is a pretty merry sort of place after all. These problem playthings try to make us think that it's nothing but one trouble after another. I can't see it that way. I'm getting to be more of an optimist all the time."

"So am I," she answered frankly. "You've apparently had more than your share of troubles, poor girl," he put in. "I ran on to one of the fellows the other day who had heard, and I then and there made up my mind to look you up the next time I got to town. You were such a merry youngster at college that I simply couldn't imagine you paddling around in a sea of troubles."

"I've paddled out of them, you see," laughed the other. "Good!" I'm glad to hear it—and to see it," he added, gazing at her with a steadfast smile. "You look younger and prettier than even in the old days."

She flashed him a smile, and her heart beat faster. The genuine compliment of "this candid youth pleased her, and she slipped the champagne he had ordered with spirits that bubbled like the vintage in her glass.

"I've been pretty staid and busy for more than a year," he continued.

And down in the bottom of her consciousness she had no fear as to what the outcome would be.

She had made the remark with full intention. She fancied that it would lead into the turn of conversation which she had in mind. The throb of music, the timid sign of her wine, the exhilarating personality of her companion, had brought on a mood that craved conversation bordering closer upon the personal. She flirted subtly with her eyes. She planned words and phrases as an architect plans the effective details of a mansion. She meant to arrive at a definite knowledge of this man's feelings toward her, and down in the bottom of her consciousness she had no fear as to what the outcome would be. She thanked the kindly fate which had brought about this meeting, and waited with eager speculation for developments.

WARD'S LINIMENT CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

King's Medal for Boston Man.

Remarkable Story of Exploration in the Wilds of South America.

London, March 27.—The Royal Geographical Society has awarded the King's gold medal to Dr. Hamilton Rice of Boston, for his work of exploration in South America.

Dr. Rice started from London in December, 1911, for Barranquilla at the mouth of the Magdalena River, and twenty-five days later reached Bogota, the capital of Colombia. There supplies were procured and with his party Dr. Rice started for St. Marine, 100 miles south of Bogota.

For twenty-one months the party explored southeast Colombia and northwest Brazil, traversing almost 100,000 square miles of virtually unknown country. The trip ended at Manaus, Brazil, on the Amazon river. Dr. Rice said afterwards that the record of the party was one of bad weather and physical horrors. Insects made existence horrible, there were periods of starvation and constant prevalence of disease. A race of light-colored Indians was discovered as well as a colony composed entirely of male Indians.

For the most part, however, the region explored was uninhabited. Progress through the country was extremely difficult, matches and axes being necessary to cut a track almost the entire way. In being forced to swim small streams the members of the party were attacked by dangerous swordfish which inflicted ugly septic wounds which were attended with great pain. From the result of one of these attacks Dr. Rice suffered from poisonous ulcers and was compelled to operate on himself by candle light, cutting his leg to the bone. During a period of starvation the party was reduced to eating monkey meat.

A Word In Season.

"I think this eczema will drive me crazy some day; always itching, burning, painful; relief, not speak of cure, seems impossible. It will set me off one of these days."

"It will not, if you follow my advice. Go to your druggist and buy a box of Zylex, and use it according to directions. Eczema cannot long remain when it is used. I've tried it myself, and you should wash with Zylex Soap. That will prevent its coming back again."

Zylex Ointment (50c) and Soap (25c) can be bought at your druggist's.—ap3,60d,4f

JOHN M. DEVINE, the RIGHT HOUSE.

The Newfoundland Disaster Enquiry Before Judge Knight.

THURSDAY MORNING.
The hearing was resumed at 10.30 a.m.

STANLEY ANDREWS (sworn), examined by Hutchings, K.C.—I belong to Newtown, am 26 years old. Been to the ice seven springs, twice with Capt. Wes. Kean. Was on the Newfoundland this spring and left her on March 31st about 7 a.m. to go to the Stephano, when I heard there were seals. It was fine with overcast sky. Saw the sun that day but saw no sun hounds. Reached the Stephano about 11.30, just pecking snow then. After a mug up we were ordered on the ice by Capt. Kean. He was snowing fast then, could not see our own steamer. All our crew left for the seals. I did not think it was too stormy to go out for seals, but expected to return to the Stephano. When I saw the Stephano turn I did not expect to go back to her, but that we would go to our ship. I did not think that it was too stormy to reach our own ship. About 4 p.m. when it was very stormy, I did not think we would. I did not see Capt. A. Kean until I got on the ice, he was on the bridge then. I did not hear any men at any time complain that they would not reach our ship. I was one of the 3 to reach our ship on Thursday morning. When I left I had 6 cakes of bread, could have had more. On the Stephano I had tea and soft bread, the tea was good and hot. Came out of hospital yesterday. My toes were frozen and hands swollen.

CECIL TILLEY (sworn), examined by Hutchings, K.C.—Am 19 and belong to Newtown, was in the Newfoundland this spring. This was my third spring, before this spring with Capt. Baxter Barbour. We left our ship on March 31st about 7 o'clock. It was fine with a slightly overcast sky. I saw the sun but no sun hounds. Reached the Stephano about 11.30. It was snowing just a little. Had mug up, I had tea, hard bread and butter, tea was as hot as I could drink it. When we came on deck it was snowing hard. I did not look, but don't think our ship could be seen then. Capt. Kean was on the bridge. We were ordered on the ice over the starboard side, and went towards the seals. I heard no one object to leave the Stephano. I did not. It did not occur to me whether it was too stormy to go for seals. I thought when we left that the Stephano would pick us up for the night, until she turned to move away. I heard someone say our ship lay S. E. and after killing some seals we would go to her. I did not think we would get aboard unless the weather cleared up. This was after we had killed some seals and all hands got together. Some had good thoughts of getting aboard, others didn't. One man, Jesse Collins, said it would be a greater slaughter than the Greenland. He said this in ordinary talk. I heard him, before we reached the seals I heard no one say we would reach our ship. I got on the Bellaventure on Thursday. Came out of hospital yesterday. When I left our ship I had 7 or 8 cakes of bread, could have had more. My tea was frostbitten. I don't know of anything else to say.

To Mr. Mews—I was in Arthur Moulton's watch. I saw the men turn back on Tuesday. George Tuft was ahead of me. I think he could have seen the men go back if he had looked. I understood they went back because the sky was thick. I heard no talk, except that some fellows were going back. I heard of no men trying to stow away on the Stephano. HEDLEY PAYNE (sworn), examined by Hutchings, K.C.—I belong to Greenspond, am 17, was on the Newfoundland this spring. Left her March 31st to kill seals. Reached the Stephano about 11.30 was one of the first on board. Did not know any of our men had turned back until after we left the Stephano. Could see our ship when I got on Stephano. I thought she was about 6 miles away. Had a mug up, hard bread and butter but the tea was cold. We were about 1/2 of an hour on board when we were ordered out, snowing harder then, allow we could see about half a mile. Some one said Capt. Kean had to go 6 miles for his own men. I did not hear anyone object to leave the Stephano. I did not. I was young and thought if the Master Watches could go I could. I thought we would return to the Stephano at night. When on ice Capt. A. Kean told us our steamer bore S. E. and that we would find seals S. W. I knew then we were not going back to the Stephano that night. When we left the Stephano I was most sure we would not reach our ship. When we stopped I heard several men say it was only one chance in 100 that we would get to our ship, several thought we would. This was an hour after leaving the Stephano. I heard men say we should have stayed on the Stephano. Was not near Jesse Collins, did not hear what he said. I was picked up by the Bellaventure. When I left our ship had 5 or 6 cakes of bread and some oatmeal. Could have had more. Saw the sun on Tuesday morning, saw no sun hounds. The sky was overcast. I don't know but if the Master Watches had asked Capt. Kean, he would have let us stay on board. I was not worrying.

To Mr. Mews.—An hour after I left the Stephano I said to my friend Easton who is dead now, I thought we would be out all night.
JOSHUA HOLLOWAY (sworn), examined by Hutchings, K.C.—I belong to New Harbor, B. B., I was in the Newfoundland this spring. This was my 6th spring. On March 31st we went towards the Stephano to pan seals. It was fine when we left, saw the sun and a sun hound, the sky was overcast, and it got thicker as we went along. Reached the Stephano at 11.30. Saw some of our crew turn back. I had a mind to turn back too. I was in the middle rank near those who broke off. It was not snowing then. I said to Alfred Maitland, now dead, that we were not going back. He said, "if the rest can do it we can," meaning to reach the Stephano. Saw Capt. A. Kean on the bridge, heard him say hurry up, boys, get aboard and have a mug up. I had hard bread and butter and cold tea, did not have time to eat it before we were called up. I was one of the last to go down. All the men except 6 were on the ice when I came up. Capt. Kean said, "if you don't hurry I'll carry you away from the seals." Heard him tell our second hand that our ship bore S. E. Could not see our ship when we got on the ice, it was thick. Could not see her when we first boarded the Stephano. None of our men objected to leave the Stephano, we left it all to the Master Watches. Heard our second hand say the Stephano was going 6 miles for her men, then I knew we were not going to her again, before this I thought we were going back. When we first got on board I did not think we would leave her at all. I stopped with the crowd who were killing, but did not kill any myself. We later joined the main crowd on the way to our own ship. While our crowd were stopped killing I heard some wonder where we would get at night. I thought when the Stephano turned that we would be out all night. The storm was at its height when we reached the seals. I was picked up by the Bellaventure on Thursday a.m. When I left I had 9 cakes of bread and could have had more. Came out of hospital yesterday. There is nothing else that I have to say.

To Mr. Mews.—Sun hounds mean bad weather, according to the seasons. We were about 7 miles from the Stephano. We were 1/2 hours walking. The ice was heavy, could not walk in a straight line, so that we had further to walk. Did not speak to the men who went back, but thought it was on account of the weather.
To the Judge—I think we should cover two miles an hour in a straight line over ice in the condition on which we travelled, but would cover by taking a zig-zag course, over three miles.
To Mr. Mews.—I thought when we reached the Stephano we would stay on board as the weather was on. I don't know of any instructions from Capt. Wes. Kean about this. Only myself and two chums thought this. We did not discuss it with others, and heard no others say anything. The weather was bad when we left the Stephano, blowing a strong breeze with thick snow. Capt. Kean was in a hurry to pick up his own men before the weather got bad. I heard him say this, he had 6 miles to go. This was about 12 o'clock. This would be early on a fine day to pick up crews. We picked up our path and just before night fell lost it. Jesse Collins kept the men in good humor as far as possible. I heard no objection from any one, never heard that anyone tried to stow away.
To the Judge—I don't think we could have reached our ship if we had gone straight from the Stephano. It was too late.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
The hearing was resumed at 3 p.m.
CHARLES W. GREEN (sworn), examined by Hutchings, K.C.—I am a master mariner and was navigating officer on the Newfoundland this spring. (The articles of the Newfoundland were then produced.) The dead men are shown by the letter D after their names; the word "missing" is written after those not recovered, there is a cross opposite the names of the men who had not left the ship and those who survived. There were 77 dead men, 69 bodies were recovered. The "tick" in front of some of the names was made by me after the nine men returned on Thursday morning, and represent those on board then. I kept the ship's log which I now produce. I observed the barometer generally every four hours and noted its readings. At noon March 30th, the barometer registered 30.60, at 8 a.m. on the 31st 30.40, at 4 p.m. 30.15, at 8 p.m. 29.80. On April 1st at 8 a.m., 29.50; at noon 29.60; at 4 p.m., 29.70; at 8 p.m., 29.80. On April 2nd I did not note any readings, this was the day the men came on board. There was great excitement and everybody was busy. On April 3rd at 8 a.m., the barometer 29.20; at noon 29.45; at 4 p.m., 29.60; and at 8 p.m., 29.70. The glass gradually went up then until 8 p.m. on the 5th, when it read 30.40. The log read as follows: Monday, March 30th, begins with fine, clear weather and heavy swell, moderate breeze from N.W. Ship steaming to W.N.W., 8 a.m. Florizel and Stephano in sight; 10 a.m., spoke Florizel; noon, fresh breeze and dull sky; 4 p.m. clear weather, wind light from N., two more steamers in sight, 6 p.m. ice very tight, heavy swell, wind light and variable.
Tuesday, March 31st, begins with fine clear weather, overcast sky, wind fresh from S.E., ice tight, ship jammed. 6 a.m. all hands preparing to go on ice; 7 a.m. crew walking towards Stephano. Florizel and Bellaventure in sight; in seals; noon, wind freshening and drifting snow. 1.30, 22 men returned, remainder having boarded the Stephano. 4 p.m., moderate gales with snow; 8 p.m., no change; 10 p.m., strong gale and drifting snow; ship burned down.

Wednesday, April 1st, begins with strong gale from north and drifting snow; ice packed close, ship jammed. 8 a.m. the same. Noon, strong gale and sky clear. 4 p.m. wind moderating and weather clearing. 5 p.m. ice giving a little, ship working to W. N.W. 8 p.m., blowing gale from N.W., fine, clear and frosty. 11 p.m. wind moderating, ice tight, ship making no headway.
Thursday, April 2nd, begins with fine weather and fresh breeze. 4 a.m. began steaming to Stephano to recover part of crew which we believed to be on board her. 6 a.m. some men seen on ice walking towards us and sent men to meet them. 8 a.m. second hand Tuft and others were taken on board and reported that they left the Stephano Tuesday afternoon to pan seals. Thick weather prevented them from getting on board ship. All the men returned are frost bitten and report many more frozen and dead. Stephano and Bellaventure began searching the ice for men. Bellaventure reported picking up 60 of our men at noon; Stephano 1. Ice close and heavy, ship not making any headway. 8 p.m. light breeze from S.E. clear weather and overcast sky.
Friday, April 3rd, begins with dull sky and thick weather. 8 a.m. weather clearing. 9 a.m. the Stephano steamed alongside with 2 of our men alive and two dead, which were transferred to the Bellaventure. After calling roll all sick men on board were transferred to Bellaventure. 2 p.m. got under way. 4 p.m. spoke to Florizel; moderate breeze, northerly, spitting snow. 8 p.m. fresh breeze N.W., and dull sky. I wrote this log on the ship each evening, having taken notes during the day. We bore up for home on April 2nd, after the sick men had been transferred to the Bellaventure, and arrived at St. John's on Tuesday, April 7, at 8 p.m.
To Dr. Lloyd.—Have been a master mariner five years, foreign voyages. Was navigator in Beothic once. Have been three years in the Arctic regions in Canadian Government service, on the s.s. Arctic, as 2nd and 3rd officer, from 1906 to 1909. Wintered in 1906-7 at Pond's Inlet, Baffin Land. In the winter of 1908-9 we wintered in Winter Hr., Melville Island. Between whiles the Arctic came home to re-fit. I have been to Greenland as master of the s.s. Kila about three years. In 1912 I was in the Neptune as master on the Lucky Scott Expedition to Baffin Land. I noticed this spring as we would work to the westward we would work through rough strings of heavy ice. On the Monday of the week of the disaster, the 30th March at 6 p.m. we were in heavy rafted ice. From Friday the 27th, and on including Tuesday we were in heavy rafted ice. I have been examining the plan marked "A.K.I." showing the lay of the ice and particularly showing the dividing line between the heavy rafting ice and the smaller, smoother and looser whelping ice, and it appears correct to the best of my knowledge, and according to my observations. On Wednesday evening we steamed through the heavy rafted ice N.W. by W. about 5 miles, and I also observed the Stephano steaming on Tuesday morning and it was clear to me that she was steaming in looser ice, that is the lower whelping ice. The barometer showed 30.60 at noon on Monday, March 30th. I don't think I have seen a higher barometer reading than that for the year. The glass was standing at 4 o'clock. The change from 30.60 at noon of the Monday to 30.40 at 7 a.m. on Tuesday was nothing to excite any apprehension of weather coming on. The men were all out at 7 o'clock. The drop from 30.40 at 7 a.m. to 30.15 at noon was a considerable drop. This would indicate to a mariner more wind and weather. This gave me notice of the tale which came. The drop of another thirty-five hundredths by 8 p.m. was also considerable. The glass dropped faster in the afternoon than it did in the forenoon. At 10.30 of that morning I noticed the glass was dropping. It had dropped quite considerable. I did not see the glass between 10.30 and noon, I saw the glass a good many times between noon and 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. As the storm increased the barometer dropped at a faster rate during the evening. I did not watch the thermometer as we had not one on board. I have never been on board any ship except an ordinary schooner that did not carry a thermometer until this spring at the ice. In order to judge the weather conditions from the barometer it is necessary to consult a thermometer. As a rule both barometer and thermometer are noted in the log as prescribed by the Board of Trade regulations. The Toronto Weather Forecast would be an aid to a mariner in helping him to form his judgment as to weather. I think it would be very valuable information. Some men might not use it because they would not take it into consideration. The sun was not bright as it would be on a fine day, it was somewhat obscured. That was the morning.

ing of the 31st. I did not notice any sun bounds that morning. I have seen sun bounds before the day is out. On Monday afternoon, the 30th March, I heard Capt. Wes. Keen say from the barrel, "the Stephano is in the seals." At the time he made the remark, I saw the after derrick up on Stephano. We were then working towards the Stephano. We did not make much progress that night. The steamer was working up in the time I turned in at 11, and so far as I know afterwards. At 6 o'clock the next morning, the Newfoundland was jammed. I heard the captain and the second hand Geo. Tuff, talking about what they should do on Tuesday morning. At that time there was nothing to prevent men from going on the ice. I understood at the time the men left that if there were plenty of seals the men would work at panning all day and get up on board the Stephano for the night, and then work at the seals next day. We could not expect men to be panning seals that afternoon (Tuesday) as the weather was too bad. When the men who returned came aboard, the captain remarked to them, "The men are aboard the Stephano, and if they are panning seals to-morrow the day will be lost as it will take you all day to get there." These men got on board at 1.30 p.m. It was at this time that Capt. Wes. Keen told these men that the other men were then aboard the Stephano. I was convinced that the captain felt that the men were safe out of the storm aboard of the Stephano at 1.30. At 12 o'clock on Tuesday when Capt. Wes. Keen came down to dinner he told me that he had seen the men go aboard the Stephano. About 12 o'clock the steward sang out "dinner" and Capt. Wes. Keen came down out of the barrel, and he was replaced by John Tizzardi, the bosun. At the time that his men were safe out of the thing power for saying, the bosun might have been in the barrel half an hour not more, possibly a little less. He left the barrel because it was no use of his staying there, it was too thick for spying. He went on the bridge and kept the whistle blowing until I relieved him after I had had my dinner. The whistle was blown to direct the men who were returning towards us. While we were at dinner in just the ordinary way, the captain remarked the weather was getting thicker. He said our men would be all right aboard the Stephano, "father will look out for them." The time he made this remark was somewhere between 12 and 12.30. The captain said nothing that would lead me to believe that he had seen the men leave the Stephano. The bosun made no remark on the bridge to me about having seen our men leaving the Stephano. He had been specially watching the men who were returning. The bosun blew our whistle between 5 and 5.30 that afternoon, because he may have thought there might be some one around. The bosun spoke to the captain about blowing the whistle about 5 o'clock. He came down to the cabin. I was sitting in the cabin at the same time. The bosun asked the captain as far as I can remember, was it necessary to blow the whistle. The bosun said there might be some one out. I did not think for a minute that any of our men would be out, nor did Capt. Keen. The captain said, "You can blow it if you like." Between 1.30 when I stopped blowing the whistle, as the men who returned were aboard until 5 o'clock the whistle was not blown. The captain up to the time he turned in on Tuesday night showed no anxiety about the safety of his men. Before he turned in that night the captain remarked his men would have a chance to exchange letters with the Stephano's men. The captain showed no anxiety the next day until about 11 p.m. so far as I noticed. When we were about a mile and a half from the Stephano, she did not come towards us and we could get no closer. The Stephano during the day had been making no attempt to get towards us. It was about 11 p.m. that the captain said to me, "It is a wonder father don't steam down towards us." I said, "Perhaps he is burnt down and don't want to move till daylight." I was not feeling very anxious myself. I thought everything was all right. At that time it was not fit for any man to go from one ship to another. We could have made a fire to attract the attention of the Stephano. We had not the usual means of night signalling; up to date ships carry rockets. I think that every ship that travels in and out the Narrows should be compelled to carry rockets and blue lights. The next morning the bosun was in the barrel early and sighted the nine men coming towards the ship. He immediately came down from the barrel and called me. He said, "My God, Captain Green, I see some of our men coming; I know that something terrible is after happening." He asked me to put up a signal. He was greatly excited then. His nerves were all gone. It was a knock-out blow to him, and matters were practically left in my hands. He was not in a fit state to take charge. The man was like a child. I put up the distress signal. At 8 o'clock these nine men were aboard. When the twenty-nine men returned on the Tuesday, the talk of the men was that they saw nothing particular to go on for; they got no orders; they were after the seals and they got none; it began spitting snow, and they thought it better to come back on account of the weather. My opinion is that if we had wireless on the Newfoundland, the catastrophe might have been averted. I don't believe one man would have been lost. The hearing was adjourned at 7 p.m. until this afternoon at 3. (To be Continued.)

Responding Well!

The collectors for the Sealing Disaster Fund in the city report they are doing well and that they are meeting with a generous response to the appeal for the needs of the moment. Two collectors told us last night that they had not met with a single rebuff, and that one woman had the money wrapped up in a paper in the pocket of her apron, waiting for them to come for it. Again we find the Stephano engineers and firmen, the latter outsiders, we are told, have contributed $100.

These facts should be a stimulus for our outpost settlements to organize as we said yesterday on the lines which are being adopted in St. John's, for they have without doubt a fine example to follow. We note that the Placentia Parish has contributed $417.20; and Tor's Cove Parish $115 ($110 direct to the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Watson, and $5 through the Evening Telegram). By and by we shall hear from other parts and we feel confident the response will be worthy of the cause, worthy of the contributors and adequate for the need.

Wants It Settled.

The lull in the Home Rule storm continues. The army crisis put it in the shade at once, and for some days the flag question in Mexico has taken first place in public attention. The army difficulty forced on public attention difficulties of the situation which up to the time of that crisis had not been realized, and now the general desire appears that a settlement of the Home Rule question must be made.

SPOKE TO FOGOTA BIT SAW NO WRECKAGE.

Last night the following messages were received from the s.s. Kyle:—
To R. N. Co. at 9 a.m.
"At 9 p.m. Kyle's position, Cape Spear bearing northwest 140 miles, ship stopped; lying by edge of ice spoke Fogota, reported 2,600 seals short of coal; all well. Have seen no wreckage."
Hon. J. R. Bennett at Midnight.
"Struck ice 3 p.m. position Cap Spear, bearing N.W. 1/2 W., 132 miles, cruised along by the edge of ice until dark. Saw quite a lot of timber. None of it belonged to any ship. Very much burnt all day. Burnt down in the night. Will make thorough search to-morrow and report at noon if in touch with Cape. Just spoke Fogota. She reports 2,600 seals; short of coal; crew all well."

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded in the Office. An order is received in the Office, its history is recorded in the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effect you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this well known firm in Newfoundland.—ap17,14

SCARCITY OF BAIT.—From messages received yesterday, we learn that herring are scarce in Placentia and Fortune Bays. Since most of the bankers are now about to leave for the fishing grounds, the scarcity of bait will mean a serious delay to them.

SLAUGHTER HOUSES INSPECTED.—Health Inspector O'Brien visited a number of slaughter houses in the East and West Ends of the city recently. He found the majority of the premises to be in fairly good sanitary condition and every owner doing his best to conform with the law.

COMFORT.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Sirash."

Comfort is an era of good feeling on the part of the human body. When a man has comfort no part of his body has any complaint. His neck feels as good as his back and his legs feel as well satisfied as his digestive system. He is at peace with the world and the man who tries to pry him out of his arm chair to make a speech before a political ward meeting is as likely as not to be sued for damages.

Comfort is entirely a matter of education. The poor, ignorant savage is so benighted as to think that he is comfortable when he is squatting under a banana leaf in a rainstorm. The early settlers in this country thought they were comfortable when they had one side done to a crisp before a log fire in the winter. Nowadays, however, such startling advances in comfort have been made that when a man buys a $5,000 automobile whose upholstery has been laid by unskilled hands his wife refers to the car with scorn as a back breaker and orders him to sell it at any price.

Comfort has been so perfected in these scientific days that it takes many thousands of dollars to secure even a passable specimen. Once the American citizen could go out in the forest with an axe and fashion a chair which was tolerably kind to his bones. Nowadays, a good, comfortable chair, deeply cushioned in imported leather, costs $100. And even then the average man is not comfortable in it until he has draped his feet over a $300 mahogany reading table.

Comfort is one of the great goals of humanity. There are people, however, so passionately devoted to art that they will sacrifice comfort in its interests. Whenever we wander through a perfect home filled with beautiful models of ancient furniture, which made the tortures of the inquisition much less horrible to the people of those times than we imagine, we burn with joy to think that we do not have to live up to the expectations of art.

American homes are the most comfortable in the world. If American roads competed more with American homes, passenger traffic would rise by leaps and bounds.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, April 17, 1914.
Capsicum Vaseline is a great remedy for local pains and stitches, and is a common household remedy in America. It might well be something of the same kind here. Nerve and muscular pains yield to its counter-irritant properties, and its prompt use will save much suffering. Price 15 cts. in a handy tube.

Nutritive Hypophosphites is one of the best things for a Spring Tonic. It never fails to stimulate the appetite, strengthen the nerves, improve the condition of the digestive organs. It is pleasant to take, does not constipate, and requires but a small dose to do its work. Price 50c. and $1 a bottle.

Grand Falls.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—"A Noble Outcast" was the title of the play staged by the Grand Falls Dramatic Club last night. The proceeds are to be given to the general "Marine Disasters' Fund," about to be inaugurated here.

The ladies and gentlemen who took part were: Misses Simpson, Good-year and Ireland; Messrs. H. A. Morrissey, F. McVane, H. Baird, E. Blackall and W. Ireland, each of whom excelled in their respective characters.

We venture to say that as amateurs they have few equals, and certainly no superiors in this section of the Island.

Between the acts we were favored with songs by Miss Dayton and Messrs. W. Simpson, J. Blackall and H. Baird. This was very thoughtful on the part of the management, as during the whole evening there was no time when we were not being entertained. Mrs. W. F. Little in her usual professional style presided at the piano. Her music touch made the rendering of each selection sublime.

To the untiring efforts of Mr. Morrissey the success of the entertainment is in no small measure due. I fear many of us who sit among the audience do not realize as we should the time and labor it takes to get up such a performance, and we hope when this play is repeated we will show our appreciation in a very tangible manner.

There is still another who is never behind in matters of this kind; although not behind the footlights, he is one of those behind the gun; I refer to Mr. Jim Judge. "Jim" is never weary in well doing—anything he touches is sure to be a success; may it continue to be so.

The new stage scenery was used for the first time last night. This is the work of the "People's Theatre" own artist, Mr. Frank Harris—and re-acts credit on the workman.

Yours faithfully,
PLEBS.

BY CABLE

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, April 16. The Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives to-day adopted the following resolution: "Resolved that the action of the President of the United States in the Tampico incident is sustained by this Committee."

WASHINGTON, April 16. President Huerta has promised Charge O'Shaughnessy, to salute the American flag in apology for the arrest of U. S. bluejackets at Tampico. The news was received at the White House to-day just as Secretary of State Bryan and Acting Chairman Shirley of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee went into conference with President Wilson. Unless Huerta changes his mind the crisis promises to pass over within the next twenty-four hours.

LONDON, April 16. It is stated that the Governments of Australia and New Zealand have requested the British Government to invite Canada and South Africa to attend the meetings of the Imperial Defence Committee, which these Dominions hope will be held this summer to discuss the defence of the Pacific, and the apparent conflict of views between the Admiralty and Australia. No information is obtainable as to whether Canada has been invited to the conference, or whether the conference is to be summoned.

NEW YORK, April 16. George Alfred Townsend, the widely known journalist and author, who wrote for many years under the pen name of "Gath", is dead, aged 73.

MONTREAL, April 16. The Department of Marine and Fisheries announced this morning that it hoped to have the channel from Montreal to Quebec cleared by April 24th, four days before the ocean liners bound up the St. Lawrence for this port, reach Quebec. The Government tugs, now at Sorel, will make their way to this city on April 20th, or soon after, when the ice is expected to go out.

WASHINGTON, April 16. The Government to-night accepts Huerta's offer to salute the Star and Stripes, as an apology for the arrest of American bluejackets at Tampico. The salute to the American flag will be answered with a salute to the tricolor of the Mexican nation. This arrangement, details of which were arranged by messengers between Mexico and Washington, has ended the crisis. In executive quarters an official circles there is a sigh of relief that the tension is over. No time has been set for the firing of the salute until details are arranged, and further orders will be sent the American fleet now proceeding south. It is practically certain, however, that while many vessels will turn back others will continue south and substantially increase the naval force now in Mexican waters.

Look Out Now-Felix Martin

Everyone is saying Look out now as said by the funniest of comedians-Felix Martin, at the Rossley Theatre. He is without a doubt a great comedian. When with Chumley O'Leary Company, this funny little comedian had many tempting offers to make his home in New York City, but he is so fond of travel nothing would tempt him. He is one of the favorites in motion pictures. In Chicago thousands will flock to see picture where Felix Martin appears. The Biograph, Edison, Vitagraph, Refiance and other motion picture companies have offered Felix big money to portray comedy parts for them but Felix must be on the move and won't settle. Jack Rossley has offered him a two-year engagement because Rossley knows what he has got hold of. But the little roving Irishman can't be persuaded to stay. He will give his services free to the Disaster Fund. Hear him say Look out now.

SEALERS' FUND.-In connection with this fund, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church has decided that in addition to subscriptions by private members to the general fund, a special church collection be taken up on Sunday, 3rd May next.

MORWENA AT HALIFAX.-The ss. Morwena, which reached Halifax on Wednesday, will be dry docked and thoroughly renovated before taking up the Montreal-Sidney-St. John's service in May.

Sympathy.

G. W. GOODWIN & SON. Hon. R. Watson, City. Dear Sir:-Yesterday I received the following cable from Messrs. G. W. Goodwin & Son, City, Ship-Manufacturers, Manchester, which reads: "Please put our names down to the subscription list for relief of sufferers. Sealing Disaster, for $50, with expressions of our sincerest sympathy." In accordance with the above I beg to hand you my cheque for $50 in payment of same on their account. Please acknowledge receipt. Yours very truly, W. H. DAVIDSON.

Tor's Cove, April 15th. Hon. R. Watson. Dear Sir:-Believing that material aid is the best proof of genuine sympathy, I appealed to the people of my parish on last Sunday on behalf of those distressed by the late Marine Disaster, and they responded with £100 cheque inclosed.

This parish numbers less than 700 and the last season's misery was so severe many had to go away to earn money for current needs. This appeal came to them at an inopportune time. Knowing their circumstances I can say they have done their best. In fact many of them have borrowed to help the needy.

We ask you therefore to accept our site with our warmest sympathy with the afflicted, viz., $100 from Tor's Cove Parish, per Rev. P. J. O'Brien, P.P.

Faithfully yours, P. J. O'BRIEN. SHIPWRIGHTS' SOCIETY. St. John's, April 16th.

Hon. R. Watson. Dear Sir:-A special meeting of the St. John's Shipwrights' Society was held on Tuesday evening last in the Star Hall, for the purpose of showing in some practical manner their sympathy with those bereft of their loved ones in the recent Sealing Disaster. A vote of Fifty Dollars ($50) was made to the Relief Committee from the funds of the Society, which amount I beg to enclose herewith. Yours sincerely, JAMES WHEELER, President. FRED. FITCHER, Secretary. LEMUEL SIMMONS, Treasurer.

St. John, N.B., April 16, '14. Hon. J. E. Bennett, Acting Prime Minister. Cablegram received. Interviewed City Mayor to-day, and Council immediately voted one thousand dollars. Have also taken matter up with Provincial Government. Hope to hear favorably from them within few days. Am publishing your cable in newspapers requesting public subscriptions. Will advise later of any further action that has been taken. J. E. PERCEY.

Sympathy.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Inquiry as to the character of the pressure which brought Huerta to yield brought out the fact that foreign Governments had serious interests in events of the last 24 hours. Another phase of the situation was a well authenticated report that the installation of the lean due Huerta, was about to be held up by Mexican bankers if he did not comply with American demands. London morning papers, commenting with satisfaction on the continued Tampono incident, continue to criticize President Wilson's policy. The Daily Telegraph says it seems plain that Huerta's face is thoroughly well set and a very considerable strengthening is given to his position in the eyes of his countrymen. He will call the acknowledgement of his salute a measure of recognition, and if Huerta regard it in that light it matters little what Washington may say about it. The truth is that the policy of picking and choosing among competing desperados in Mexico can only be exercised safely on the old principle of recognizing the one who is uppermost. If a statesman's moral sense revolted at doing that his only wise course would be to leave the whole situation severely alone.

WINNIPEG, MAN., To-day. Considerable discussion was occasioned in religious, state and civic circles here when it became known that on the toast list of a big Catholic banquet dated for last night, the Pope was placed at head with the King second. Because of this the Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba and several other prominent men refused to attend. Mr. R. Deacon, Mayor of Winnipeg at first refused to be present but the matter was compromised. The Mayor was in attendance. The compromise agreed upon by the Banquet Committee was that the National Anthem, God Save the King, should be sung at the opening of the banquet, the toast to Pope to follow, and the toast of the King entirely omitted. This program was carried out and in answering the toast of the Pope, Archbishop Langevin stated that they would render unto Caesar things that are Caesar's, and unto God things that are God's. Hon. C. J. Duhaime, Minister of Justice, was to have attended, but his message of regret stated that under ordinary circumstances he would have been most happy to attend.

The Hungry Month Of March.

(By H. F. SHORTIS.)

To all the months of the year belong their favorite sayings. One of the first questions that the Fortune Teller asks is, "Name the month in which you were born."

April showers bring forth May flowers.

The Merry month of May, June weddings and June roses.

I might go through each month with scores of sayings which would be interesting, but it is about "The Hungry Month of March" that I wish to write at the risk of being told I am a pessimist in my old age.

In the olden times, St. Stephen's Day was the proper date to apply for a berth to the ice. Even before the old year had said good-bye, our forefathers were getting ready for the seal-fishery.

In my boyhood days the 1st of March was the climax that we all looked forward to, and there was something for everyone to do to get the ships or their sails, the boats or the men's clothing, etc., in order. I have told many a story about this phase of our whittier's industry that some of you may remember, but when the ships had sailed, it was a long and weary wait for those who remained ashore. It was a trying time for the women when every day a new gale brought a fear into their hearts that the loved ones were in peril on the deep.

It was an anxious time for the merchants who had risked their all in the most hazardous calling that it is possible to engage. It was a pure lottery they all said, but to strike oil or draw a prize will always induce even the hardest headed Scotchman to try his luck. The wireless messages were then nought of, and we all had to wait patiently or impatiently until a vessel arrived to put new heart in us all.

"The weary month of March with its forty-one days," was a well-known saying. It was undoubtedly the longest month of the year, and little blame to the person who thought there was a month and a half stowed away in those long and dreary days.

To the fishermen and their families who were left behind, the grub box was getting near its end, and to ek out a precarious existence, the whole family was put on short allowance and hence the heading for my paper.

'THE HUNGRY MONTH OF MARCH'

How often do we hear of the time that so and so arrived with his load of seals by St. Patrick's Day, but that happened "once in a blue moon," and we are all prone to tell of the exception to cheer up the down-hearted. It was a very rare thing indeed to see any calling vessel arrive from the seal-fishery in the month of March unless she was in distress.

"IN DOGS AND OUT DIETERS."

What a horrid old saying that was, but I venture to say without fear of contradiction that it dates back in Newfoundland nigh three hundred years. It reminds you at once of the infamous "Old Truck system," when the laborers and fishermen had to take goods in place of money. There wasn't even an excuse given "I'm short of cash"—you had to take pretty near anything they liked to give you to "keep the hungry wolf from the door."

After the fishery was over in the fall, the young men who had no homes of their own, had to look out for some place to live during the winter. It was a common thing for a man and his wife with a fairly large house to take in a dozen dieters as they were called. They were stowed away any how in an attic and fed in the cook-room. They had no money to pay their board, but each man or boy paid for his lodgings in the fall by bringing two barrels of flour and a barrel of pork or its equivalent to the house.

The agreement was that they were to be kept from that date till the end of winter which was always fixed as the thirty-first of March. As soon as that day came, out the Dieters had to go to make room for a new crowd, as the old man and his wife wouldn't feed them for another day unless more grub was brought in.

A boarding house in modern days rarely has an enviable reputation for a happy home life, and no wonder you hear of young chaps sighing to return home to get some of the cakes which Mother used to make.

We can readily believe that these Dieters must have had a "dog's life" of it very often, hence their well known expression to the new crowd that were coming in as they were being turned out. "In Dogs and out Dieters."

Now I will tell you another old story that will express better than any words of mine what our forefathers thought of the despotic relentless third-month of the year.

"MARCH SKINNED THE COW."

Was a favorite saying amongst the old people when they were forced to part with the last cent. It was a case of tyranny or "grinding the face of the poor." It showed their abhorrence of the month of March in the most emphatic way. The story is told in one of those half fable, half parable ways that probably dates back to the days of antiquity.

The winter was a hard one for the old cow, and like every one else she had to go on short allowance, and by the end of March she was nothing but skin and bones. The thought "It's cow and you'll get grass" was the uppermost wish, and when the thirty-first day of March had come the cow was still alive, and looking forward for happier times. No, sir, the relentless despotic month of March was not satisfied, and borrowed ten days from April, and got the skin, that was the only thing belonging to the cow left worth having.

This month was a pure case of Jeopardy from first to last, exemplified in those trite words: "March came in like a lamb, and goes out like a lion."

Stick to it, Paddy, boy. What a joyous time it is when we come to Easter. The long dreary winter is over, and the faster days have ended. No wonder everyone tried to fatten up the pig at a high expense very often, but when Easter came the pig's days were numbered.

THE GREATER QUESTION.

At this season of the year for Farmers with up-to-date ideas is, what are the best means to use to get the best returns from the land.

Fertilizers must be used liberally if large returns are looked for. There are several good chemical fertilizers which may be recommended, but Sulphate of Ammonia has been proved to give the best returns, and is the most valuable and economical source of Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

For vegetables, grass, and all leafy crops, about one and a half cwt. per acre is the best quantity to use, and this should be applied when the plant is making its growth, as well as before sowing the seed.

If a liquid manure is preferred, a 25 per cent solution of one gallon of water should be used, and applied once a week for a month. This quantity should not be exceeded.

It is a good plan to reduce the Sulphate to a fine powder, and mix with four or more times its own bulk for the purpose of diluting the manure, which is very powerful.

For potatoes the following mixture is strongly recommended:—
40 lbs. Superphosphate.
20 lbs. Fine bone meal.
10 lbs. Carbonate of Magnesia.
15 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
21 lbs. SULPHATE OF AMMONIA.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 45 square yards.

The use of Carbonate of Magnesia, in conjunction with Sulphate of Ammonia, is of great importance in potato culture.

For turnips use the following:—
66 lbs. Superphosphate.
13 lbs. Fine bone meal.
13 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
20 lbs. Sulphate of Ammonia.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to square yards.

Sulphate of Ammonia of excellent quality is now made by the St. John's Gas Light Company, and may be obtained on very reasonable terms.

For particulars may be obtained at the Gas Works or at the Board of Trade Building. Ask for special booklet on the use of Sulphate, it will be found of great value in securing the heaviest crops.

Mother Is Child's Stomach Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, gives a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Bunny's Face Insured for $50,000.

Motion Picture Favorite, Well Known in St. John's.

The New York Telegraph says: Theatrical and newspaper circles were highly amused over the announcement that John Bunny, the Vitagraph motion picture star, had had his face insured for $50,000 against beauty. Why not? Caruso has his voice insured. Paderewski has his fingers insured. Genee has her toes insured, and it cannot be said that each of these three have insured their most ticket. Why shouldn't Bunny insure his face? It certainly is his fortune, in spite of its lack of beauty.

Bunny never posed as a Romeo and his funny face certainly is his fortune; therefore, he is justified in insuring himself against becoming handsome like Maurice Costello. Of all the unkind remarks which have been passed about Bunny, the worst was by a New York newspaper man who stoutly insisted that you couldn't do anything which would injure Bunny's face, while a kind-hearted young lady, an ardent Vitagraph picture fan, mildly remarked that any injury whatsoever would be an improvement. Funny face, unkind remarks and all, Bunny should not worry. It is getting him a thousand dollars a week.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The s.s. Bloodhound arrived here from the seal-fishery, via St. John's, yesterday morning, and is now landing her fat. Her seals are averaging 54 lbs.

Born yesterday, the 14th inst., a son to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quinn.

The new harbor ferry Muriel, took her first spin on the harbor on Monday, and proved herself to be the right boat for the service. A motor ferry boat is certainly a great advantage to our friends across the harbor, but to have one with a cabin suitable to seat in comfort over 30 people is something to be highly appreciated. Mr. Ernest Sheppard, the obliging officer in charge of the boat will no doubt be assisted by the children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Mr. George Yetman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Yetman, of Woodville Road, left by train on Monday for Turner's Falls, near Boston, where he is employed as a diver. Mr. Yetman came home last fall and spent the winter with his parents. His friends wish him a continuation of his former success.

Fishers sold in town yesterday and to-day at 50 a dozen, and found ready purchasers at that price.

The King Edward Brigade are putting in some hard practice on their play soon to be placed before the public for the benefit of the Disaster Fund. The piece is called "All on the Pay Strike," and is very pretty, and is sure to please.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I should like to know why certain patrons of our theatrical performances perpetually persist in shuffling in their seats and putting on overcoats in their seats and hats and mufflers from the beginning of the last act until the closing incident thereof.

To say the least it is a most abominable, intolerable and annoying practice and tends to class each perpetrator thereof as an ignoramus of high degree.

In the performances of "Pepita" this week such conduct has been strikingly noticeable and much resented by patrons in the back rows, who were thus prevented from enjoying the closing effects. Is there any manager of a theatre in the city with courage enough to ask these ignoramuses in gentle but stern tones to stop this abominable habit?

Yours truly,
SUFFERER.
St. John's, April 17th, 1914.

Train Notes.

The Trepassy train arrived in the city at 8 p.m. yesterday.
The local from Carbonear and Placentia arrived at 10.45 p.m. yesterday bringing upwards of 30 passengers.
Yesterday outgoing express left Gumbo at 8.35 a.m. to-day.
An express with the Lintrose passengers left Port aux Basques at 11 a.m. to-day.
The local from Carbonear via Broad Cove, reached the city at 12.40 p.m. to-day.

MAKING LONG TRIP.—The Allan liner Sardinian has not yet arrived. She is now over 13 days out from Liverpool and should soon make port. A large number of passengers are on board of her for here.

More Sympathy.

St. John, N.B., April 14th, 1914.
To Hon. John R. Bennett,
Colonial Secretary.

If you will cable official confirmation of sealing disasters, stating if relief is necessary and will be acceptable I will be glad to interview Premier of Province and St. John Mayor for financial or any other assistance that may be desired. Will also publish your reply in city newspapers with a view of asking for public subscription. St. John City Council will likely take immediate action if shown an official statement of reported disasters.

April 15th, 1914.
Mr. J. K. Percy,
Manager Sovereign Life Assur. Co., St. John, N.B.

Seventy-seven men of steamer Newfoundland lost their lives on icefloes in storm of last April. At same time steamer Southern Cross with full load seals disappeared and has not since been heard of though diligent search by two steamers has been made. Vessel evidently foundered with officers and crew of one hundred and seventy-three souls. Thus two hundred and fifty persons, all men and breadwinners, lost their lives in that storm, leaving about one thousand widows and orphans. Subscriptions have been received from many cities in Canada, United States and United Kingdom. A Committee of Citizens has been appointed here with His Excellency the Administrator as Chairman, and Hon. R. Watson as Treasurer, to take up local subscriptions and receive amounts from outside. The Committee will arrange for disbursing of money in best way possible. Government and people will appreciate any steps towards assistance which you may be able to take. Have already received $100 from Newfoundlanders in St. John, N.B., through Mr. R. H. Tait. It would be well to see him and act conjointly.

Acting Prime Minister.

And finally the annual report of Carriage Factories Limited for its fiscal year ending November 30th, 1913 — which shows surplus profits accumulated equal to fourteen months' dividends on the 7 p.c. Preferred Stock that can now be had at 80 p.c.

Dear Sir,—When acknowledging receipt of the Company's cheque for my matured Endowment Policy No. 24937, I desire to avail myself of the opportunity to express my satisfaction with the outcome of my investment.
