CHAPTER XIII.
The Amateur Physician.

"Don't trouble, Mr. Berton," he said, with a laugh. "I'm as right as ninepence now, and I've got a child's horror of medicine."

The fingers unclosed from round the bottle, and allowed it to slip to its place, and locking the cupboard swiftly, Guildford Berton came back to his place.

"Very well," he said. "Oh, yes, you are all right now."

His face was so pale, so white, indeed, and there was so sudden, and strange a hoarseness in his voice, that Cyril looked at him with surprise.

"Hallo!" he said. "Do you feel queer?"

"No no," replied Guildford Berton. "The—the putting your arm in its place—it's rather a ticklish operation, and it upset my nerves a little, that's all."

Cyril looked at him with a feeling rather akin to remorse. After all, this sullen-browed individual, with the strange repelling manner, must be a better sort of fellow than he, Cyril, had thought him.

He held out his hand.

"I've all the more reason to be grateful to you," he said. "And I am Good-night. I'll come over and report progress to-morrow; but, anyhow, you ought to have been a doctor, you know."

Berton forced a smile, and, taking the lantern, lighted his patient to the gate, and with another good-night and repeated thanks, Cyril stepped outside.

The gate dropped to with a dull clang, and Guildford Berton fell against the wall, and, shaking and shuddering, wiped the thick drops of cold sweat from his brow.

"Heaven, it—it was a temptation!"

he muttered brokenly. "Another moment and I should have done it!"

He raised his hand as if it were heavy as lead, and shook his clinched fist after his guest.

"Curse you!" he muttered. "Take care—take care!"

CHAPTER XIV.
True Love's Passion.

Norah, as Cyril turned away from the hall, passed the earl and Guildford Berton without a word, intending to go to her own room; but the earl stepped aside, and opening the drawing-room door motioned to her to enter with stately courtesy, and, following her, closed the door.

There was a look of haughty displeasure on his face, and his keen eyes regarded her sternly.

"May I trouble you to give me an account of this accident?" he said, icily.

Norah raised her eyes.

"It all happened as Mr. Burne said, papa," she answered.

"I prefer to hear it from your own lips," he said.

Norah quietly related the incident; but her voice trembled as she told of her discovery of Cyril's injury.

He behaved very bravely, papa," she said, her long lashes sweeping her cheeks.

"I have no doubt," he said; "but it did not warrant his taking advantage of your situation. He should have sent here for a carriage for you; but I imagine we must not expect grapes from thistles."

A flush rose to Norah's face.

"I am sorry he has offended you, papa," she said in a low voice. "It was as much my fault—"

She stopped, and her face grew pale. "And he went without a word of thanks," she exclaimed, "as if he had committed a crime instead of doing all he could—"

The earl made a gesture of displeasure.

"Oh, please!" he said. "There is nothing I dislike so much as heroics. No doubt," with the suggestion of a sneer, "you thanked him sufficiently."

Norah's face flamed.

"But I wish to tell you that I do not desire your intimacy with this young man to continue."

Norah started slightly and looked up at him. If he had treated her with even the semblance of fatherly kindness she would have told him all that passed between Cyril Burne and herself that night; but his cold words froze her lips.

"I do not approve of him," he concluded, as if that finished the subject.

"But—why, papa?" she asked in a low voice. "He—he is a gentleman, you said yourself—"

The earl frowned.

"It seems that I was mistaken. No, I could not be mistaken; but one may be a gentleman and yet not a desirable acquaintance. I have heard enough of this Mr. Burne to be convinced that he is not a person to whom I can extend my friendship."

"You have heard!" said Norah, wonderingly. "From whom, papa? From Mr. Berton?" and her lips grew compressed.

The earl looked down.

"The name of my informant is of little consequence."

Mother-Made, Quick Acting Cough Syrup

Should be Kept Handy in Every Home—Easily Prepared and Costs Little.

Mothers, you'll never know what you are missing until you make up this inexpensive, quick-acting cough syrup and try it. Children love its pleasant taste and nothing else will loosen a cough or chest cold and heal the inflamed or swollen throat membranes with such ease and promptness. It's equally as good for grown-ups as for children.

This splendid cough syrup is made by pouring 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a 16-oz bottle and filling the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50—a clear saving of $2.

The moment it touches the inflamed, cold-congested membranes that line the throat and air passages, the healing begins, the phlegm loosens, soreness leaves, cough spasms lessen and soon disappear. In addition, this cooling cough syrup acts as a sedative, thus making it possible. Hoarseness and ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Excellent for bronchitis, whooping cough, spasmodic croup, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol and is famous the world over for its quick healing effect on the membranes.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money returned. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

the consequence," he said, coldly.

"Enough that I am satisfied with the information. Do not let us continue the subject; it is distasteful to me."

Norah stood for a moment, her eyes bent on the ground, then she murmured—

"Good-night, papa."

He opened the door for her, making no movement toward kissing her, and she escaped.

Once in her own room, she flung her hat aside, and sinking into a chair hid her face in her hands.

Her heart was beating wildly, but stern as her father's speech and manner had been, its throbs were more of joy than of sorrow.

That great crisis which comes in most women's lives had come to hers. A man had told her that he loved her! Sometimes a girl has to ask her heart the question: "Do I love him in return?" but Norah, though no words of love had ever been uttered to her before, had no need to ask the question. Love needs no instructor. The lesson of his presence is readily learned in every woman's breast; and Norah, as she sat with her face hidden, even from her glass, could feel his words singing in her heart.

She sat and thought of him—how handsome he was, how brave, how kind, how good! Surely, in all the wide, wide world, there was not another man like him. And this best of heroes, who was quick and clever and prompt, who had displayed such courage, hiding his pain from her for so long, loved her!

With the joy of the knowledge there was mixed a thrill of pride that seemed to raise her above all others of her sex.

What could he have seen in her to love? she asked herself again and again. She who was nothing but a simple, ignorant girl, while he was so clever and strong, such a hero among men!

How sweetly he had asked her for her dear rose; how humbly he had bent over her hand! She took her right hand from her face and looked at it, and, slowly raising it to her lips, kissed it where his lips had touched it.

Did she love him? Why, her love seemed proclaiming itself in every trembling limb. Her heart was full, full of him; his voice rang in her ears. She could feel his kiss upon her hand still.

"Cyril, Cyril!" she murmured unconsciously, and in the stillness of night the faint breeze outside seemed to echo his name, lovingly, caressingly.

Then there flashed upon her mind, too full of her lover to have thought of it before, the remembrance of her father's anger, and the words he had spoken. He had forbidden her to continue knowing Cyril Burne; he had heard something. What was it that he had heard? Whatever it was, he must have heard it from Guildford Berton; and as Norah thought of him she shuddered faintly with absolute dislike. He had stood there by the door, saying nothing, with his dark face sombre and sinister.

Why should he have spoken falsely of Cyril Burne?—for that he had spoken falsely she was as certain as that she sat there, with Cyril's kiss burning on her hand.

What should she do? Cyril, when he had told her that he loved her, had asked her not to be angry, but to wait. He would speak to her again.

The warm color suffused her neck and face at the thought. Should she listen to him? Could she disobey her father?

The door opened and Harman came in, and as she proceeded to undress her mistress she cast anxious glances at her. At last she said, as if she could not help herself—

"Oh, my lady, I hope you are not hurt!"

"No," said Norah, for she was lost in thought—half delicious, half painful. "You heard of the accident?"

"Yes, my lady," replied Harman; "one of the grooms was up in the village, and brought down word," and she touched Norah gently and carefully, as if she expected every moment to feel her wince.

"No, I am not even scratched; but I might have been hurt if it had not been for—"

She stopped; she could not speak Cyril's name.

"Yes, I know, my lady," said Harman, warmly. "John says that the gentleman risked his life almost, and it was a wonder he wasn't killed."

Norah winced then.

"Tell—tell me what they say," she said in a low voice. It was delightful to hear of his bravery from another person's lips.

Harman gave the account she had heard from the groom, and dwelt upon Cyril's courage as only a woman can, and Norah listened with bent head, seeming scarcely to breathe.

Harman went at last, but Norah still sat in the low chair thinking, dwelling with joy that was almost painful in its intensity upon every word he had spoken; going back to the first night she had heard his voice on the terrace, the night he had addressed her, all unconscious that she was near, in words of passionate love.

At last she went to bed, but it was hours before she slept; and in her dreams he still bent over her, his handsome face all anxious and troubled on her account—on hers!

When she awoke the next morning it was with the consciousness that some one was in the room, and raising herself on her elbow she saw Becca South standing beside the bed, and looking down at her with a peculiar expression in her black eyes. Then she remembered that she had not locked her door last night.

"Becca," she said.

Becca came nearer and held the curtain back, still looking at her.

"I've come to help you," she said. "Aunt's got one of her bad headaches, and can't move this morning. She's very sorry, she says, and begs your ladyship will overlook it."

"Oh, poor Harman!" said Norah, sympathetically; "I am so sorry. Go and tell her that she must not think of getting up, and not to trouble about me in the least."

While Becca was gone Norah got up and found a bottle of eau de Cologne.

"Take this and bathe her forehead," Becca, she said, "and tell her on no account to trouble about me."

Becca went again, and returned smelling strongly of the scent. She had poured half of it on her own handkerchief.

Severe Head

Resulted From Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

It is in vain to try to restore the healthful action of the bowels until the liver and bowels are in good order.

And just here is where the liver and bowels fail. Kidney medicines fall. Kidney treatments almost invariably with constipation and tropical liver. The whole work of the blood is thrown on the liver and in time they fall to strain. The poison in the blood gives rise to severe headache in the back and tired, drooping.

Because they act directly on the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills are eminently successful in the treatment of kidney derangement.

Mr. William Loney writes:—"I am glad to say that Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills have done me good. I was suffering from trouble or constipation."

Lady Ponsonby, who has been the famous high-society and racing center of London, was one of the three of Queen Victoria's court. Lady Ponsonby, who was the companion of the "apartments" in St. James's Palace. These "apartments" there are eight, are really houses, nearly all of them in the same building. They are very much sought after by the aristocracy. They include coal and lighting. Lady Ponsonby had a strong influence which remained to the last by the companions of the late Queen Victoria, who was the dominant of Queen Victoria, perhaps, more than any other person thought that Mr. A. HUGE SHIPPING COMBINE.

Since the formation of the "Combine" fourteen years ago, the movement in the direction of shipping enterprise has grown. Sir John Ellerman, the first to take a hand in the matter, and it is not surprising that he should now be responsible at the current value of the stock, probably the most extensive in the history of the industry. What he is paying for the shares is not known, but it is also known that the sum will largely exceed £5,173,572 drawn in April.

Sir Owen Phillips, M.P., of the ordinary shares in the Castle Line and the good services of Donald Currie and Co., of centralisation is gradually adopted here, and, apart from Peninsular and Oriental, British India and White Star Line shipping, roughly stated, is divided into three main groups, the Phillips, Ellerman, and the P&O. The Phillips, Ellerman, and P&O interests, which do not conflict to any serious extent on either side of the North Sea, tend in the direction of tonnage has been pronounced years and efforts are made, I learn, to amalgamate Hamburg-American Line, Norddeutsche Lloyd. To trade after the war there is likely to be a very large German shipping and industrial concern.

Success All Round.

The latest war messages are a veritable feast of good news. Indeed, scarcely ever before, since the war began, have victories been recorded for the Allies so valuable both for what they achieve and for the hidden causes which they suggest. In the West the British have begun an entirely new offensive, which at the moment of writing can already claim splendid success; the victory of the Serbians, to which we alluded yesterday, appears to have been more considerable than at first appeared; and from Dobruja come tidings that are almost too good to be true. These are all important enough to deserve separate mention, but the most promising feature they present is the fact that they are occurring simultaneously. The meaning of a single front, unity of action and command of the initiative is by this time well enough known to indicate the great value of that fact. The new British attack above the Ancre extends a little further the application of the principle which it is now clear underlies the whole Somme offensive, which is gradually to widen out and so lengthen the front as it moves forward. In this case the action has a particular and added importance in that it seeks to flatten out the strongest part of the advanced salient which the Germans have held immovable and only once challenged from the beginning. Beaumont Hamel has at last fallen and the very important Divion as well. We do not need to recall Beaumont Hamel twice to the minds of our readers: it is written in letters of blood into the proud page of our history. The Daily News makes the suggestion that its capture, even at this late date, may remove much of the uncertainty that surrounds the fate of so many of our men who fell before it on July 1st. This is very likely, and we trust it will be so. North of this place also the British have advanced and are disputing with the enemy the possession of Serre. Pages could be written to explain the importance of this action and the possibilities contained in its successful issue. For the present it is enough that it has so far succeeded brilliantly, many prisoners have been taken, positions believed impregnable have been carried by a frontal attack and the line to the south having been pushed already as far east as is Serre, the prospects of a further advance are very bright. When it comes—and it may now come rapidly—Bapaume, and with it the great Arras-Gommeccourt salient will be in jeopardy.

We mentioned yesterday the Serbian campaign before Monastir, and there is little to be said about it for the moment beyond what the messages contain. News of the taking of seven shows how far our Allies have progressed since the fierce struggle for the Kymakchalan heights. The attack is being driven nearer and slightly north of Monastir, evidently with the idea of an ultimate envelopment. The capture of guns and other booty is to be noted, an element too often overlooked in the estimation of a victory.

Brilliant and encouraging as both these successes are, the best news of all comes from Dobruja in Roumania, though the rather highly-coloured reports must be accepted with reserve. If Mackensen's retreat turns into the rout that Petrograd claims, the expedition will mark a disastrous chapter in Germany's history of the war. Unable at any point to cross the Danube, he has pushed the defenders back as far as Hirsowa, but his momentum has failed to carry him further. That spent, the recoil has begun. The army in front of him, apparently greatly reinforced, is bearing him back, he is harassed on his eastern flank by the Russian navy and a further element of considerable danger is threatened from the army that is reported to have crossed the Danube in his rear. This last manoeuvre, if it is carried out with sufficient force and the frontal attack continues to succeed, may contrive to cut his retreat off entirely or decimate his worn-out troops. This is perhaps the most serious expectation, but no one can doubt that the tide has turned in Roumania's favour. Within the past three weeks now we have seen a large victory for the Italians on the Carso, a fresh advance of great importance by the British on the Ancre, continued progress by the Serbians below Monastir and a reversal of fortunes in Roumania favourable to our Ally. So that altogether we have good reason to be satisfied with the situation and the outlook.

Sale of Work for Patriotic Purposes.

Patriotism and Christmas needs will be served at the same time at the Presbyterian Hall to-morrow, when a sale of Xmas novelties, including particularly some fine cretonne work, will be held. The funds will be devoted to a patriotic purpose. In addition to the attractive fancy work and articles of great variety, which will solve the difficulties of many purchasers in the Christmas season, further inducements are held out for large patronage in the form of afternoon tea and an evening concert. The affair is being organized and managed by Mrs. Geo. Knowling (Jr.) and Miss Mackay, which is a sufficient earnest of its attractiveness and success. Help the cause and your Christmas shopping by looking in at the Hall to-morrow afternoon.

England Gets the Gum Habit.

Manchester Guardian.—The English have suddenly become a nation of gum chewers, and the leading manufacturers are able to claim that within six months they have increased their monthly sale from three million to twenty million bars. It has been suggested that the habit has been introduced by the Canadian soldiers, who of course share the Americans' fondness for chewing gum, but I am assured that they have nothing to do with it. The spread of the habit is purely a triumph of natural weakness and advertising. The most enthusiastic adherents—a good word—were said to be not women clerks but soldiers and munition workers, with the navy a fair third. It seems that for the past four years chewing gum has been sold at army and navy canteens, but it was not until this last great advance that it was issued as an army ration. The soldier's theory is that it steadies his nerves to have something to chew on, and it certainly keeps his otherwise parched throat moist in time of stress. There is a story of a wounded man kept alive for five days by the native Indians, and a good yarn about a flying man who used his wad to plug a bullet hole in his petrol tank—not an advertised use.

Life on the Top of a Dead Volcano.

The Loneliest Island in the British Empire.—The First Mail for Ten Years Now on its Way.—Colony Which Has No Use for Money. For the first time for ten years a ship from England is on the way to Tristan da Cunha. It is just the summit of an extinct volcano, peeping above the rough water of the South Atlantic, and the road to it leads nowhere, so our ships do not make regular calls. The inhabitants, about a hundred, are the descendants mainly of a tiny British garrison which was placed on the island when Napoleon was a prisoner at St. Helena. The rock became their home, they secured wives from afar, and there their descendants are now, mingled with survivors of wrecks. During the last forty years only a dozen ships have called, so that the inhabitants' stores of clothes and other links with civilization run low.

A French ship visited the island casually this year, and found some of the inhabitants in remnants of proper clothing, some clad in skins, some entirely without clothes. They begged for clothes and bread and flour, and offered in exchange purses and bags made of sealskin and shoes made of foxskin. They have also mutton and beef to offer, for there is vegetation enough for the support of sheep and cattle. They have little, home-made boats of apple-wood, equipped with sails of home-made canvas, and in these tiny cockle-shells they row fifteen or twenty miles out to sea to meet or cross the track of a ship which may pass within their view. They need everything except meat and fish—no, not everything, for Tristan is one of the few places where money is unknown. They live entirely by exchange of goods, and a pile of gold sovereigns would be of less use to them than a few yards of calico. What a tale there will be to tell when the first ship from home for ten years reaches their little world!

The white blouse is very attractive with old rose collar and cuffs and a pretty form of the wide collar reaches to the bust line and is in three rolling collars. Many and varied are the toques, but the smartest of these is the one of rich velvet trimmed with a band of bronze ribbon tied in front in a flat bow.

A truckman of Pilot's Hill was the next to step to the Bar. He was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct, but it was his first offence. He had to deposit a two spot for his liberty.

AIRPLANES BOMBARD OSTEND.

LONDON, To-day.
A squadron of British naval airplanes yesterday dropped a large number of bombs on the German naval works in the harbor of Ostend and on the vessels there, according to a British official issued last night.

THE BATTLE OF THE ANCRE.

LONDON, To-day.
What may become known as the Battle of the Ancre opened yesterday when the British forces struck a fresh blow against the German front in the region of the Ancre River. There had been no serious fighting in this sector since the opening of the British push on the 1st of July when the British line of attack extended five miles north of the Ancre at Gommecourt, but the other few days, no progress being made in this region, efforts were henceforth concentrated further south. Frequent trench raids during the recent weeks indicated that some slow move was contemplated, but the bad weather, which has prevented any serious operations since Oct. 21 when the last big attack was launched on the Schwaben-LeSars sector, delayed the blow. Apparently the Germans were taken by surprise. They offered no serious resistance except before Serre. The attack was carried out on a front extending five miles on both sides of the Ancre against positions which the Germans had held for two years and which they considered impregnable. It resulted in the capture of Beaumont-Hamel and of St. Pierre Division, with a gain of new ground

WAR BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day.
Once again the German line in France has been hard hit. Starting an offensive running from the southern bank of the Ancre River northward over a front of about five miles from St. Pierre Division to the north of Serre, the British have captured the towns of Beaumont-Hamel and St. Pierre Division, and the first and second line of trenches at various points. Between 3,000 and 4,000 men were made prisoners in the attack. The Germans apparently offered slight resistance to their adversaries, although their positions were extremely strong. A depth of one mile on a maximum of over a five mile front was made by the British. Hard fighting is going on north of Serre. The new drive probably has as its objective the straightening out of the British line from the region of Sars across the Ancre, pushing forward by the British left wing toward Achiet le Petit, the junction point of the Arras-Bapaume and Arras-Mirameumont railroads. Except in the Roumanian and Macedonian theatres there has been little fighting of any importance. In Dobruja, according to Petrograd advices received by wireless at Rome, the troops of Field Marshal von Mackensen are still in retreat and it is said that the Russians have crossed the Danube from the western bank and reached two points south of Tchernavoda on the eastern bank. Berlin asserts, however, that the Teutons have defeated the Russian-Roumanians who were coming down the westward bank of the river. The Serbians east of Monastir have scored another victory over the Germans and Bulgars, having captured the village of Iven, northeast of Polog, and forced their antagonists to fall back. About 200 men were made prisoners in this fighting and a large number of guns and quantities of ammunition captured. On the Austro-Italian front quiet prevails except for artillery duels. On the Austro-Hungarian front aerial bombardments at Wroetva killed at least 40 persons, including women and children, says a Rome despatch. A violent artillery duel is still in progress in the Narayvka region of Galicia and the Russians repelled strong Austro-German attacks in the Carpathians.

THE BRITISH ATTACK.

LONDON, To-day.
A bulletin issued last night from the British Headquarters in France says: We attacked this morning astride of the Ancre, and have succeeded in penetrating the German defences on a front of nearly five miles. The strongly fortified village of St. Pierre Division has fallen into our hands. The attack was delivered before daylight in a strong mist. Severe losses have been inflicted on the enemy. Over 3,300 prisoners have passed through our collecting stations, and already more are coming in. The fighting continues. The front which has been captured north of the Ancre consists of the German original front and defences of an exceptionally strong nature.

NORWAY AND GERMANY.

BERLIN, To-day.
Although the Norwegian answer to the German note with respect to the submarine question has not yet been made public, the Lokal Anzeiger learns it is couched in a conciliatory spirit, even though it does not concretely offer enough to warrant its being called satisfactory. The verbal explanations which accompanied the note, says the Lokal Anzeiger, were such that it is not impossible that an understanding will be reached. The paper points out anew however, that the solution of the difficulty in future relations between the two countries must depend wholly on Norway and the further explanations it may choose to make, and not upon Germany which is watching developments with calmness.

SIR SAM HUGHES RESIGNS.

OTTAWA, To-day.
Lt.-General Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia of the Borden Cabinet since its formation in 1911, resigned at the request of Sir Robert L. Borden, Prime Minister. The resignation asked for on Saturday was tendered late on Monday afternoon. No new Minister has been appointed. The Premier and F. B. McCurdy, M.P., will administer.

GREECE THE GREAT STUMBLING BLOCK.

LONDON, To-day.
Operations in the Roumanian theatre of the war must for the time being be regarded as of merely local importance, according to the Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post, who writes: The Allies' whole plan of campaign in this quarter fell through as soon as it became evident that the forces at Saloniki were unable to devote their undivided attention to their task owing to the attitude of Greece. If the adhesion of the Roumanians had been accompanied by similar action by Greece, which it is believed here could have been brought about by the use of a couple of warships at the proper moment, matters would now be very different, and joint action from Saloniki and the Dobruja would by now have cut off Germany's supplies of men from Turkey. The Turks have always been among the finest war material in the world, and under German sergeants they must be considered extremely formidable. Greece has been allowed to prevent the Allied scheme for cutting off Germany, or at any rate to postpone the scheme for another year.

MORE HIGHHANDINESS.

LONDON, To-day.
An Amsterdam despatch to the Times says that the Belgian and British passengers on the Dutch steamer Konigin Regentes recently seized by a German submarine have been sent to prison in Bruges. Belgian women and children were released and allowed to return to their homes. It is reported that the Konigin Regentes' seizure was in retaliation for the refusal of the Dutch authorities to allow a German to proceed from Antwerp to Bremen through Dutch waters.

GERMANY FEELING THE PINCH.

AMSTERDAM, To-day.
The Cologne Gazette says it cannot be in further doubt that the necessity becomes more and more evident to mobilize the labor of the German people in the interests of the war. Coercion regarding male labor is certain, the newspaper adds, but female labor would be voluntary. The Lokal An-zeiger says that after the settlement of the question of labor the discussion of war aims will be permitted, with a restriction prohibiting party and class strife and attacks on neutrals.

NEUTRALS TO INTERVENE AGAINST OUTRAGE.

PARIS, To-day.
A Paris despatch from Rome says that the Vatican and Governments of Spain and United States have decided to approach jointly the German Government with a view to putting a stop to the deportation of Belgians.

GREAT BAG OF PRISONERS.

LONDON, To-day.
The number of prisoners taken by the British in the fighting in the Ancre sector of the Somme front is now over 4,000, according to an official statement.

The Day of Real Men.

How Brains Carry Them to Great Positions—The Sailor Who Rules Four Hundred Million People—And the Postman's Son Who Rules the British Army.

China, whose throne is the oldest in the world, and whose rulers have been, in point of antiquity of lineage, among the great aristocrats, has got a new ruler. He is a simple sailor. In the war between China and Japan, in 1895, a Chinese cruiser was commanded by an officer who is now Chinese Minister for the Navy. That captain's third engineer was Li Yuan-Hung, who is to-day President of the Chinese Republic. Quitting the Navy, he joined the Army, and when the monarchy was overthrown he was simply colonel of a battalion of infantry. But to-day he rules four hundred million people, the most numerous republic in the world. The next in size is the United States, which for the last four years has had a college professor for its President.

Australia, has for its Prime Minister a man who has known honest poverty in its most sinister aspects. Mr. Stanhope Sprigg reminds us that Mr. Hughes, one of the greatest driving forces in the Empire, before he attained political eminence in the Commonwealth, was a penniless emigrant, who acted in turn as sheep-shearer, railway laborer, boundary rider, stockman, fence-builder, teacher, and sailor. He drove cattle and sharpened saws, he kept a shop, repaired locks, and did odd jobs at the docks, and was attended all through by deafness and chronic dropsy. Yet in the same year that Li Yuan-Hung was a subordinate engineer on a cruiser, Mr. Hughes entered the New South Wales Parliament, and to-day is one of the leading men of Australia.

If America and China can be democratic, so, indeed, can we; and we are democratic nowadays, not only in administrative matters, but in military matters, too. Who is it that directs the strategy of the British Army now? It is the General Staff. And who is Chief of the General Staff? General Sir William Robertson, one of the greatest soldiers in the world, and son of Thomas Robertson, who once kept the village post office at Welbourn, in Lincolnshire.

Let Baby Lie Down.

Common sense ought to warn mothers of babies that mail-carts, or go-carts, are not fit vehicles for tender infants, but common sense is sadly lacking in some young mothers who have never been trained to family duties. The consequence is that babies trundled about in these carriers in a sitting position sustain serious and lasting injury. The Medical Officer of Health for Swindon states that within a month no fewer than 62 cases of curvature of the spine have been treated in his district, and the go-cart, he says, is mainly responsible. Mail-carts, if used at all, should never be used for babies, but perambulators, in which they can lie down. In a mail-cart a tiny infant must sit up long before its spine has attained the strength necessary for such a posture.

The Empire Boy.

They breed fine lads in Queensland. One of them, a little four-year-old boy of Charleville, has lately been lost for five days in the bush. He was found sitting upon the bloodstains in his track, and he had been for 120 hours without any food but grass. We hope he will live many years to tell the tale of his adventure and his wonderful endurance. The Empire has need of him.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, Nov. 13.

The Governor, St. John's.
On the Somme, the French have captured the whole of the village of Salilisek. We captured a thousand yards of enemy trench on Friday night, and to-day we attacked enemy positions on both banks of the Ancre. Press reports from headquarters state that Beaumont Hamel and St. Pierre Division have been taken and two thousand prisoners captured. The fighting continues near Serre.

There was much aerial activity during the week. Yesterday, Ostend Harbor and enemy warships were bombed. Another enemy battleship has been torpedoed in the North Sea, damage unknown. In Dobrudja the enemy are retreating.

In Macedonia the Serbians have defeated the Bulgarians on the Cerna River. Little change on other fronts.
BONAR, LAW.

BEAUMONT HAMEL CAPTURED.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
The British troops in their new offensive north of the River Ancre, have advanced to a minimum depth of one mile, capturing from the Germans the town of Beaumont Hamel and St. Pierre Division. Fighting is still going on between the German and British troops around the town of Serre, about two miles northeast of Beaumont Hamel. Two thousand prisoners already have been taken by the British.

HUN WARSHIPS SUNK.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 13.
An official statement issued here to-day says that a majority of the German vessels which took part on Friday in a bombardment in the Gulf of Finland, were sunk. The German warships, the statement says, were 33 knot torpedo craft.

SERBIAN VICTORY.

PARIS, Nov. 13.
The Serbians have won a brilliant victory over the Germans and Bulgarians in the district south of Monastir, the war office announced to-day. The Serbians, supported by French artillery, forced the Teutonic Allies to retire to a distance of two miles and captured about 1,000 prisoners. The retreat of the German-Bulgarian forces was compelled after a battle lasting two days. The prisoners taken raise the captures since September 12 says the statement, to 6,000 men, with 70 cannon and 56 machine guns taken during this period.

AIR RAIDS.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Two successful air raids have been carried out by war craft operating with the British forces in Egypt, says an official announcement. The points raided were Maghdaba and Bisaha.

RUSSIANS CROSS THE DANUBE.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
The Russians have crossed the Danube into Dobrudja at two points south of Tchernavoda, and the Russian fleet has renewed the bombardment of Constanza, according to Petrograd advices received to-day. Field Marshal von Mackensen is reported continuing his retreat with demoralized forces and with one-third of his effectiveness lost through ravages of disease and military reverses. The losses sustained are declared in Petrograd to have seriously affected the morale of Von Mackensen's army, while the reinforcements he requested to make good his losses are said not to have been provided. His retreat, therefore, is being conducted under disastrous conditions.

CAPTURE POSITIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
We attacked early this morning, and already the British line on both sides

BE CAREFUL

In your choice of an ointment. An inferior ointment is worse than none at all because it irritates and inflames, and sometimes even poisons the place it is intended to soothe and heal. In using Zam-Buk you take no risk, as its soothing, healing properties have been proved by thousands of users, and its purity is vouched for by the famous English Chemist, Mr. W. Lascelles Scott, who says:

"I have made an exhaustive analytical examination of Zam-Buk, and find it exclusively of vegetable origin, with none of the impure and irritating mineral drugs and animal fats found in ordinary ointments. The germ-destroying powers of Zam-Buk exceed those of carbolic acid, yet it does not inflame even the most sensitive skin. I have no hesitation in certifying the purity of Zam-Buk, and its value for skin diseases and injuries."

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, ulcers, running sores, old wounds, abscesses, blood-poisoning, boils, pimples, piles, cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. 50c box, 3 for $1.25, all druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c stamp for postage on free trial box.

of the Ancre has been advanced for a maximum depth of one mile, capturing the villages of Beaumont Hamel, considered by the Germans impregnable, and St. Pierre Division, also valuable trenches north of Serre. All these positions were part of the heavily fortified original German main line, and have been occupied for more than two years. Many prisoners have been collected in advanced cages. Fighting continues around Serre, the only place not captured in the first assault.

HUN TORPEDO RAID—MANY CRAFT SUNK.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 13.
In the Baltic Sea on Friday night a flotilla of the enemy's 36-knot torpedo craft entered the Bay of Finland in a dense fog, which hindered the discovery of the enemy's vessels in good time. As a consequence the enemy succeeded in bombarding the Baltic coast for several minutes. About 100 shells were fired, mostly shrapnel. Seven civilians, including five children, were killed. One woman and four soldiers were wounded. Several houses were damaged and 12 horses killed. The enemy retired hurriedly, but we sank the majority of the torpedo craft. Further pursuit of the hostile units was abandoned in consequence of the dense fog.

ROME VISITED.

ROME, Nov. 13.
Sixty women and children were killed in an air raid by an Austrian squadron on Saturday, the Italian official announces to-day.

ROUMANIANS CAPTURE HEIGHTS.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 13.
Austro-German forces are directing violent attacks against the Roumanian positions in the region of Campulung, says a Russian official issued to-day. The Roumanians, after having been pushed back in the region of Ottava valley, attacked the Teutons north and south of Tolvening and captured a series of heights.

FRENCH MILITARY WRITER ON THE ISSUE.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
The Express features an article in to-day's issue by a French military writer, Capt. Philippe Millet, calling on Great Britain to take over more of the western front and relieve the French. Capt. Millet says it is necessary to speak plainly, that the Alliance of Great Britain and France cannot be based on mere exchange of compliments, and that all Frenchmen are wondering whether the English fully realize what is happening in France. We, say the French, recognize gratefully what Great Britain has done, but feel that the time has come for the British Army to relieve the French more efficiently. The writer cites instances of French deputies to support his claim, and remarks that the British are holding only 150 kilometres of the front compared to France's 580 kilometres. He added there is not one village in France where the people do not expect our friends to enable us, after 27 months' hard struggle, to have some rest during the winter and prepare for an advance next year without having to exhaust ourselves. This is what our people feel, they have put their trust in Great Britain and they all expect the relief of a good bit of the French line to be made soon.

REVOLUTION IN BAVARIA.

PARIS, Nov. 13.
The Berne correspondent of the Excelsior Telegraph says, I can guarantee the authenticity of the reports of a growing revolution in Bavaria among the entire regiments of the men aged more than forty-five. They refuse to depart for the front because of the receipt, despite censorship, of terrible news from the soldiers on the Somme and before Verdun, regarding their fearful losses. The King of Bavaria has intervened several times to restore order.

RESIGNATION OF SIR SAM HUGHES.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.
It is understood here that Sir Sam Hughes has resigned as Minister of Militia. He sent a letter to the Premier this afternoon. It is stated his resignation was requested by Sir Robert Borden last Friday morning.

HON. DAVID MACKEN DEAD.

HALIFAX, Nov. 13.
Hon. David MacKeen, Lieut-Governor of Nova Scotia, died to-night. He was appointed in October of last year. He was previously a member of the Canadian Senate for 19 years.

THREATENED STRIKE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.
The failure of the railroads of the country to live up to the spirit and intent of the Adamson eight-hour law, will result in a strike. A vote of four big Railroad Brotherhoods is being put into effect, it was announced here to-day by W. G. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railway and Trainmen. After a three hour conference between the Brotherhood and the railway representatives.

RUSSIAN SUB. ACTIVITY.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 13.
Russian submarines are active in the Black Sea. Near the Bosphorus one steamer has been destroyed, a schooner sunk, and another schooner according to the Russian official issued to-day, has been taken to Sebastopol.

UP TO THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.
Secretary of State Lansing has laid before President Wilson a summary of information from Berlin, given the Government in response to an enquiry sent through the American Embassy there concerning the sinking of the Marina, when six American lives were lost. While the State Department officials consider the submarine question serious, no decision has been reached as to whether Germany violates the pledges given the American Government after the attack on the cross-Channel steamer Sussex. All recent submarine activities, including the raid of the U-53 off the New England coast, are being considered by the State Department together, in an effort to determine whether the new submarine policy has been adopted by Germany.

REPORTED CABINET CHANGES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.
There have been reports circulated regarding changes in the Cabinet. Officials in close touch with the President declared to-day it was almost certain he will urge all present members of the Cabinet to remain at their posts. Changes are not expected unless members themselves desire to quit the official family. It is considered possible, however, that one or more members may resign for personal reasons. Secretary-Treasurer McAdoo has been frequently mentioned as one of the members likely to resign. Representative Carter Gals, of Virginia, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, is suggested for his post.

RUSSIAN MINISTER DINES TINO.

PARIS, Nov. 13.
Prince Elim Demidoff, the Russian Minister to Greece, gave a dinner to King Constantine and members of the Royal family at Athens to-day, says a Havas despatch from that city, which adds that all the Ministers of the Euxente Powers attended.

GERMANY AND NORWAY.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Political circles in Berlin are pessimistic regarding relations with Norway, according to the Exchange Telegraph despatch from Amsterdam. It is expected that the Norwegian note in reply to Germany's note on the submarine issue, was unsatisfactory, and it is believed that Germany will make another attempt to press upon Norway the consequence of insisting upon the present policy which is unfavorable to German submarines.

CARDINAL'S PROTEST.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, has issued a protest to the civilized world, against deportation of Belgians to Germany for forced labor. The protest is dated Nov. 7th and is signed by Cardinal Mercier on behalf of all Belgian Bishops, except the Bishop of Bruges, with whom he was unable to get in touch.

BRITISH ADVANCE LINE.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
From unofficial reports, to-day's attack by the British appears to extend along a front of nearly 500 yards from the Grandcourt-Pozieres road to a point considerably north of Beaumont Hamel. In this area the British line has been advanced on some points for a distance of 2,000 yards, and most of the British objectives were gained. Prisoners already reported number between 3,000 and 4,000 with nearly 70 officers.

REICHSTAG TO BE CONVENEED.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 13.
The Telegraph quotes a German paper to the effect that an extraordinary sitting of the Reichstag is to be convened, supposedly to pass a bill calling up fit civilians for service in the interest of the Fatherland. The paper says it is not intended to extend the age limit for military service.

SERBIAN OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 13.
The Serbian official to-day as received here, says that yesterday, in cooperation with the French, we continued the pursuit of the enemy northward and captured the village of Iven (on the Cerna N.E. of Polog). Our booty comprised 16 field guns, 21 cannons, 14 limbers, a large quantity of artillery and infantry ammunition, rifles and other material. The number of prisoners is not yet known. Enemy dead were strewn on the field.

ESCAPED THE SUBMARINE.

NEWPORT NEWS, Nov. 13.
Members of the crew of the British steamer Strathness, which arrived to-day, say their vessel had engaged a German submarine in the Mediterranean on Oct. 24th. After the submarine began shelling the merchantman, it was said she opened fire with small guns and escaped. Capt. Barnett, of the Strathness, declined to confirm or deny the story.

"Cascarets" Best If Headachy, Bilious Sick, Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head aches, with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache. Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the congested waste matter and poisons in the bowels. A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet, breath right, complexion rosy and your liver and bowels regular for months.

Citizens' Committee.

Would Give Four Thousand Dollars Increase to Firemen.
Chairman Mr. A. Soper presided at the meeting of the Citizens' Committee last night. Mr. A. Mews acted as Secretary in the absence of Mr. W. Smith who is ill. The sub-committee appointed two meetings ago to interview the firemen at the three city stations handed their report to the Committee—Messrs. Lindsay, Peel and Chafe for the East, Central and West End Companies, respectively. It was pointed out that the salary received by the ordinary fireman was $480.02 per annum for which he has to be at his post 24 hours a day for six days of the week and on the seventh day he is granted a so-called holiday, but must not absent himself from the city and further more he must answer all fire calls which might occur on the same day. A Sergeant received one dollar a month more than the ordinary fireman and a Captain one dollar a month more than a Sergeant. It was also pointed out that the firemen at the Central Station were allowed free rent, were exempt from city taxes and were given a piece of ground in which they could grow vegetables, whereas the East and West End Stations were not allowed that privilege. It was estimated that the Central men had an advantage over the others equivalent to $125 per annum. It was proposed that $4,000 be recommended as an increase to be equally divided each year among the firemen. As there were other matters in connection with the firemen to be discussed the discussion was adjourned till the next night of meeting. Section 213, relative to rental values of houses upon which taxes are to be paid, was deferred till the next night of meeting.

DID YOU KNOW RILEY?

James Whitcomb Riley, of whom Mary E. Wilkins Freeman said: "One might as well try to make a home attractive without flowers as without the grace of James Whitcomb Riley's verses."

Of whom Booth Tarkington said: "He was the first and the foremost distinctly American poet and at the time of his death he was the greatest American."

And of whom a Poet has sung: The world was gettin' dreary, there was too much sigh an' frown In this vale o' moral strivin', so God sent Jim Riley down. An' He said: "Go there an' cheer 'em in your good old fashioned way With your songs of tender sweetness, but don't make your plans to stay 'Cos you're needed up in Heaven, I am lendin' you to men Just to help 'em with your music, but I'll want you back again."

An' Riley came, an' mortals heard the music of his voice. An' they caught his songs o' beauty an' they started to rejoice; An' they leaned on him in sorrow, an' they shared with him their joys An' they walked with him the pathways that they knew when they were boys. But the Heavenly angel missed him, missed his tender, gentle knack Of making people happy, an' they wanted Riley back.

Here are his Poems:—
Riley Child Rhymes—A collection of the favorite child-rhymes, including "Little Orphant Annie," etc.
Riley Love Lyrics—The favorite passionate and tender love poems, including "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," etc.
Riley Farm Rhymes—The many poems by Mr. Riley in which is mirrored his love of the great outdoors.
Riley Songs o' Cheer—A collection of the favorites of Mr. Riley's poems of gladness, content and consolation.
Riley Songs of Summer—The loveliest and best-loved poems about summer and the out-door summer land.
Riley Songs of Home—A collection of the best-loved songs, sounding the note of fireside joy, and homely philosophy.
Riley Songs of Friendship—Half a hundred poems here—including favorites that voice in homely fashion the poet's greetings.
Seven volumes of them, selling at 75c. each, 25c. extra if mailed. Never before published at less than $1.25 per copy. There are only five copies of each to be had. If you want to get yours you will need to act promptly.
