CHAPTER XXXIII.

"How do you do, my dear Miss Alice?" he says, with his patronising air full on. "Quite a pleasant surprise, and 'ow's Miss Paula?" but his bland enquiry is addressed to deaf ears, for Paula stands with May's hand in hers, their eyes fixed on each other with a mute, tender, sympathetic interest.

May, pale and red by turns, pants a little commonplace greeting; but Paula will utter no commonplaces, and takes her to the window, where May can speak to her heart's content.

"Oh, Paula, dear," she whispers hurriedly, "you can't tell how delighted I was when Stancy came in and said that he had met you. I could scarcely believe it; it—it is the first bit of good news I've heard since—since—"

Here she stops, and her lips quiver. Paula presses the timid little hand sympathetically.

"And have you been very ill, dear?" she murmurs, examining the pretty face, and noting its thin, worried, and all-too-wistful look.

May shakes her head a little wearily. "No, not ill, Paula, dear, though they all said I was, and the great London doctor insisted upon papa bringing me here. Poor papa! he hates the Continent so much, you know. Poor papa!" And she sighs.

Paula looks at her questioningly; the sigh seems to indicate some kind of trouble beyond her—May's—illness.

"What is the matter?" she asks. "Has there been any trouble?"

May glances around her, to see that the others are not with in hearing.

"It's—it's not only about me, Paula, dear," she says. "Of course there has been trouble, and papa is hard with me sometimes because I will not give in—as if I ever should!" And a faint flash of steadfast resolution dyes the pale, pretty face, and the blue eyes grow suddenly resolute. "I promised him that I would wait, and I will wait till—till I die! But—with piteous cadences—"It is hard to have to wait month after month and hear nothing. Tonight, when Stancy came in and said that he had seen you, my heart leapt, and—and I nearly fainted. My first thought—I am always selfish, dear—was, not that I should see you, but that I should hear of him. Is he—"

Paula draws her arm nearer, and caresses her hand.

"Bob was all right when last we heard, dear," she says in a whisper that is rather tremulous, though she smiles gravely. "But—but he has not made his fortune yet; and he sent the tenderest message to you."

"Oh, Paula! and you did not send it to me!"

"No, dear," says Paula. "He said that I was to wait until I saw you; that I was not to unsettle you with bad news. You see, the poor boy hoped to have been able to write to you and tell you that he had succeeded. Don't you understand?"

"May nods with swimming eyes.

"Dear, dear Bob!" she murmurs; "he was always so considerate and thoughtful. If you had seen him the day we parted; how patient he was with papa; how noble and forgiving! Oh! there is no one like him, no one, not ever Sir Herrick—oh, forgive me, Paula, I am forgetting your trouble."

Paula smiles.

"My trouble is long past and done with, dear," she says, with that dreamy, absent look in her dark eyes. "It has gone and faded with the past. There was no hope there, dear, while you, ah, you can hope! Bob is too brave and clever not to keep his word. Be brave and patient, May, dear, we shall be sisters yet," and she bends her glorious head and kisses the pretty, tearful face.

"Now tell me about your other trouble, dear," she says, "and let us get it all over," and she laughs, softly.

May hesitates and looks at her with a curious shyness.

"It—it's about Stancy, Paula," she says, hesitatingly, and looking away.

"About your brother?" says Paula, rather coolly, and with a sudden lack of interest.

"Yes," she says in a whisper. "Stancy has been—rather wild. Oh, Paula, don't laugh!" for a smile at the vision of Stancy de Palmer in a state of wildness has fallen over Paula's face.

"I beg your pardon, dear," she says; "so on."

"He has been very, very wild and foolish," says May, with a sigh, "and it has made papa very unhappy and angry. He—he wants Stancy to—to settle."

"Settle?" says Paula, absently.

May looks up at her with shy distress.

"Yes; marry, you know. But Stancy won't; he doesn't seem to see anyone he likes, and—and he doesn't get any better."

Paula's face flushes for a moment, then she laughs faintly as she remembers Stancy's proposal. She glances, too, at that young gentleman as he leans against the mantel-shelf, resplendent in his evening-dress, with a huge diamond solitaire in his shirt-front, and his hands thrust in his pockets. Certainly he has not improved: the plain, vulgar, conceited face has grown—what is it?—redder and more puffy, and there is a swagger about the gawky figure which smacks of third-class billiard-rooms and brandy-and-water.

As she looks at him another figure rises before her mental vision; it is that of the slim, straight figure of Sir Herrick, with its handsome, clear-cut face, and, crowning all, the air of high birth and breeding.

"I don't know what's come to him," says May, glancing at him; "he—used not to be at any time too wise; but lately, the last twelve months, he has become quite foolish and dissipated; but papa says it would be all right if he would only marry and settle down, and I think it would. Stancy is easily led, you know, dear," pleadingly.

"I daresay," says Paula. "I hope he will get someone to lead him for your sake, dear."

"Y—es," says May, looking wistfully up at the lovely face. "I'm sure, if Stancy could get the person he wants he would improve and turn right round. He is not at all bad, Paula, dear."

"No one is," says Paula, with a faint smile at the pretty little eagerness of her companion; "there is good in all of us—at least, I suppose so"—wistfully, as she thinks of him who deceived and betrayed her.

"What are you two young ladies confabing about?" said Stancy, coming upon them with his awkward attempt at ease. "Exchanging secrets, eh? Haven't you got a word for me, Miss Paula, after all this time?" he adds, with a flushed face and an aggrieved air.

Paula turns to him as May glides away.

"You would scarcely throw me a word this morning," he goes on, shuffling with his patent-leather-clad feet and staring at the carpet. "I suppose I've offended you? I don't know how, though."

"Oh, no," says Paula, with a cheerfulness that is worse than coldness; "perhaps I was a little surprised at seeing you so suddenly, you know."

He looks up with a reassured smile that makes Paula sorry that she has answered him so graciously.

"I thought you were offended at something. There's never any knowing what a woman means, you know."

"Sometimes it is scarcely worth while trying to find out," says Paula, faintly smiling.

He looks at her with half-sullen suspicion.

"That's like one of your old speeches," he says. "I never used to know exactly what you meant. I always used to think that you were making fun of me. I suppose you're doing it now?" and he reddens.

"No, no," says Paula. "Indeed I am not," and she makes a movement away from the window.

"Don't go away for a minute," he says. "Give me a minute or two after all this time. If you get amongst them," and he jerks his head politely towards the rest, "I shan't get another word out of you. What have you been doing since you left Woldshire?"

Certainly he has not improved! Paula struggles with the desire to turn and leave him, and forces a polite smile.

"Not very much, I am afraid," she says. "Just looking at the tea, and sleeping, and eating."

He looks round the room with a contemptuous stare, which takes in the seedy apartment with its shabby furniture and lodging-house appearance.

"You must have found it confoundingly slow, I should think," he says, with lofty pity. "All alone, you two, too?"

"Yes, all alone," says Paula, absently.

He looks at her curiously, with a half-suppressed eagerness which covertly dwells upon the beautiful face, far more lovely than of old, and fidgets with his clumsy hands.

"We must alter all that now we've come, you know," he says. "We must get up some outings. Are you fond of sailing?"

Paula nods.

"That's the style! I'll hire a yacht."

"Pray do not on my account," says Paula, quietly.

"Oh, but I shall," he says, with a nod. "We'll get up a regular trip. The governor's got some horses here—"

"Don't propose a four-in-hand," says Paula. "My nerves are not so strong as they were, Mr. Stancy."

He colours angrily.

"There you are!" he says. "Laughing at me again. When you know it wasn't my fault, but that fellow Sir Herrick's."

Paula's face pales, but she looks at him steadily.

"I—I beg your pardon," he mumbles, reddening sullenly. "Don't let's quarrel the first night we meet."

Paula laughs with fine irony.

"It takes two to make a quarrel, Mr. Stancy," she says, "and one will be missing in our case."

"I shan't quarrel with you, you may depend on that," he says, with a leer.

Paula inclines her head.

"No," he says, earnestly, "I've made up my mind to—to bear anything you like to say, as I give you warning. You can laugh at me as much as you like and I shan't mind."

"I don't think I shall avail myself of the permission, but I'm much obliged," says Paula, and she turns and leaves him.

The exquisite Stancy leans against the window and watches her quietly; indeed, for the rest of the evening his eyes scarcely leave her, excepting when Alice, with a charming apology for the absence of champagne, orders in the brandy-and-soda and some coffee.

Mr. Stancy chooses the former; and Paula, happening to glance at May, sees an anxious look on the pale, pretty face, as her brother mixes for himself a third tumbler of the seductive refreshment.

She notices, too, that after his liberal libations his coarse face grows redder, and his manner louder, more markedly vulgar.

"Don't forget our bargain, Miss Paula," he says, as they are taking their departure.

"I've just been telling Miss Paula," he explains to Mr. Palmer, who stands with his opera-hat stuck against his side, and his fat hands bursting through the lavender kid gloves, "that I'm going to hire a yacht for her, and that we're going to have a fine time of it."

Fashion Plates.

A MODEL VERY ATTRACTIVE FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

Pattern 3101, cut in 3 Sizes: 15, 16, and 20 years, is here depicted. Blue crepe de meteor was used for its development, with bead embroidery for decoration. This would be nice in brown satin or crepe, with embroidery in colors. The 16 year size will require 5 1/2 yards of 36 inches material, with 3 yards of ribbon or material 5 inches wide, for the sash. Width of skirt at lower edge is 1 1/2 yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A SMART GOWN.

Pattern 3107 here illustrated is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material. Width of skirt at lower edge is about 1 1/2 yard. As here shown gray tulle was used, braided with white serge or satin, with worsted, bead or chenille embroidery. Black velvet with facings of ivory astin, or taupe duvetyen with old blue pipings would be very attractive for this design.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO SUPPLY ENORMOUS DEMAND FOR TANLAC

Although Huge Laboratories Turn Out 36,000 Bottles Daily, Thousands of Dealers Cannot Be Supplied.

40 CARLOADS SOLD IN JANUARY ALONE.

After Shipping 838,400 Bottles of Celebrated Medicine in One Month Factory is Still 380,000 Behind With Orders.

Although the big Tanlac laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, and Walkerville, Canada, have been running at top speed for months, it has been a physical impossibility to supply the phenomenal and every increasing demand for this celebrated medicine. During the first ten weeks of last year one million three hundred and twenty-seven thousand bottles of Tanlac were sold, breaking all world's records for the sale of proprietary medicines up to that time. This record now pales into insignificance, however, as orders received during January alone of this year reached the astonishing total of one million two hundred and twenty thousand bottles, showing an increase of approximately one hundred per cent. over the corresponding period of 1919.

To say that Tanlac now has the largest sale of any medicine in the world expressed mildly, it does not begin to tell the story. For no other preparation has ever even approached the marvelous record that is now being made by Tanlac; and it is now conservatively estimated that the sales for the present year alone will amount to from seven to ten million bottles.

Of the orders received during January it was possible to ship only eight hundred and thirty-eight thousand bottles, and thousands of dealers scattered throughout Canada and the United States have been unable to obtain the medicine for weeks.

"Phenomenal and Bewildering" is the way one of the big drug jobbers of the country describes the marvelous demand for Tanlac.

"We know that the day of miracles has passed, and we all know that there are no unfaithful mysteries in the drug business, but this Tanlac proposition smacks of both," writes another leading wholesale druggist, whose firm has sold over 24 car loads, or an average of nearly one car load per month since they began handling Tanlac a few years ago. Thousands of similar letters and telegrams have been received, but for lack of space they can only be referred to briefly.

Most proprietary medicines are sold by the dozen or by the gross; a few are bought by the trade in quantities of from ten to twenty gross; a very few are sold by the car load, and then only to the largest jobbers, covering extensive territories. The fact therefore that scores of jobbers in Canada and the United States have a demand sufficient to justify them in ordering not one carload, but from two to three car loads of Tanlac at a time makes Tanlac's pre-eminence in the field of medicine all the more noteworthy. It is the biggest thing of its kind in the world and nothing like it has ever happened in the drug trade before.

Think of one retail firm selling one-third of a million bottles of any one medicine right over the counter direct to consumers in only two years' time! It seems incredible, but such is the record made by the Owl Drug Company, through their retail stores on the Pacific Coast.

Think of one retail firm in a single city of 200,000 population, selling approximately eighty-eight thousand bottles, an average of over two bottles for every family, in only four years' time! Such is the record of the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, of Atlanta.

Think of one retail firm giving a single order for an entire car load, for every family, in only four years' time! Such is the record of the Lewis K. Liggett Company, of Winnipeg, Canada.

Another big Canadian retail firm, G. Tamblin, Limited, Toronto, Canada, recently gave their order for one hundred gross, amounting to $10,000.00.

Orders from retailers for from fifty to seventy-five gross are not uncommon, and practically all of the leading retail firms buy Tanlac in from ten to twenty-five gross lots to supply their normal demands.

When the magnificent new laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, and Walkerville, Canada, with a combined floor space of seventy thousand square feet and a combined capacity of thirty-six thousand bottles were completed, it was thought that the production would be sufficient to supply the demand for years to come. It is now apparent, however, that additional facilities must be provided if the supply is to keep pace with the demand. And this is true in spite of the fact that there are now on the market from fifty to one hundred preparations claiming similar therapeutic value.

Tanlac has now been on the market for five years. It has stood the acid test of time. It is known and honored in every city, town, village, and hamlet on the American Continent from Key West, Florida, to the Northern wilds of Canada, where even the Indians and Fur Traders have learned of its wonderful powers as a medicine.

Its enormous and ever-increasing popularity is the one great outstanding proof of its wonderful merit. No medicine, no matter how extensively advertised, could sell and continue to sell and establish new world's records year after year, if it did not produce actual and positive results.

Tanlac is composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to the scientific world. The formula conforms with all National and State Pure Food and Health Laws of both the United States and Canada, and although Tanlac's claims for superiority are abundantly supported by leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it and have told other millions what it has done for them.

That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade all over America.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, in Harbor Buffet, by Thomas Wakely & Sons; in Placentia, by James Murphy & Son, and in Topsall by J. K. Burrell—adv't.

RESUMING TRADE RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA.

LONDON, Feb. 24.

An agreement of considerable importance was reached at yesterday's session of the Supreme Allied Council and an immediate announcement is expected, according to some morning newspapers. The resumption of trade relations with Russia, says the Mail, was decided upon in principle, though with important reservations. The Soviet Government will be asked on its part to abandon propaganda and recognize existing loans, while the Allies do not propose to encourage border states to make war on the Bolsheviks. It is understood the decisions were reached with complete unanimity and received the assent of Premier Millerand of France. Resumption of political relations between the Allies and Russia was not pressed, the Mail understands, so the real difficulty of the Russian situation, the recognition of the Soviet Republic, remains unsolved.

SHIPPING CAPTURED BY REDS.

LONDON, Feb. 24.

The capture of ice breaking and other naval craft by Red Forces, which are overrunning Archangel and Murmansk sections, is reported in a Soviet communique received from Moscow.

INFLUENZA BEATEN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.

The opinion that the United States will never experience another influenza epidemic as serious as the last was expressed by some physicians from all parts of the continent who gathered in Chicago yesterday for the American Congress of Internal Medicine. Reports on the progress made by medical science in treating flu and data on isolation of the germ will be presented during the six days' session.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS IN DIFFICULTIES.

BERLIN, Feb. 24.

A general meeting of German newspaper owners held at Weimar developed the fact that the newspapers are at the brink of a catastrophe owing to the enormous cost and uncertain supply of printing paper, materials and machinery. The Government was called upon to save the situation by providing measures to overcome the shortage.

SHORT OF NEWSPRINT.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.

For the first time in seventy-five years the Weekly Witness will not publish this week. The cause of its suspension is inability to get paper. The Herald is also announcing that unless relief is provided speedily it, too, must discontinue publication.

STRIKE LEADER SENTENCED.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24.

William Ivens, one of the seven accused strike leaders was found guilty by the full court of the King's Bench on a charge of contempt of court, and was bound over to keep the peace for three months on two thousand dollars security to-day.

ROYAL BURYING PLACE AT BERLIN RIFLED.

BERLIN, Feb. 24.

Burglars rifled the Mausoleum of Charlottenburg Castle on Sunday. They forced the lid and removed jewels from Queen Louise's coffin, but failed to open other coffins. They removed gold and silver and gilded crowns lying on the coffins of Emperor William, Empress Augusta, Prince Albert and others. The Mausoleum of the Royal Palace was erected by Genetz. In this place repose the bodies of Queen Louise, died 1810; her husband, Frederick William Third, died 1840; together with their second son, Emperor William I, died 1888, and Empress Augusta, died 1890.

MAKING PRISONERS USEFUL.

ROME, Feb. 24.

Deputy Lombardi, yesterday, presented a bill in Parliament calling for the abolition of life imprisonment and also solitary confinement. Agricultural and industrial work would be substituted for imprisonment. This work would be compulsory and the earnings of the men would be used to support themselves and to indemnify such persons as they had injured in commission of their crimes. Prisons would be used only for those under arrest awaiting trial.

FRANCE AND EXCHANGE.

PARIS, Feb. 24.

The Government is considering requiring payment of customs duties in the equivalent of gold as a means of increasing its income, according to one of the Trade Journals, published here. As there is no gold in circulation this would mean the fixing of the relation of gold to currency, which the newspaper suggests might be two to one, which would mean that duties would be doubled.

A YOUTHFUL AVIATRIX.

PARIS, Feb. 24.

The number of women aviators in France, which for some time has stood at 13, is soon to be increased by one who will establish a record for youthfulness, being only 14 years old. She is Andree Farman, a daughter of Maurice Farman, brother of Henry Farman, one of the pioneers in aviation. Miss Farman flew for the first time in 1919.

A SPOILS DIFFICULTY.

QUEBEC, Feb. 24.

It is frankly admitted here that the Provincial Cabinet and many members of the Government are divided over the appointment to a successor to the late Mr. Justice Langelier, as Magistrate of Sessions of Peace. A few days after the death of Judge Langelier it was commonly reported that Arthur Godbout, member for Beauce, would be appointed, but, later, it developed that there was opposition to this and that several members of the cabinet favored the nomination of Arthur LaChance, former member of the House of Commons for Quebec Centre and Crown Prosecutor.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

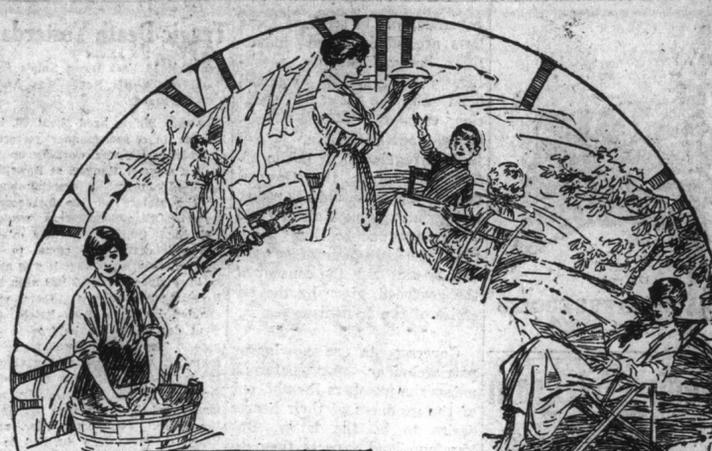

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual chest and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Always The Government.

"When things go wrong blame the Government," is a phrase which has been hall-marked with the happenings of years, and in Newfoundland it has become a classic. No matter what happens in the body politic, the body commercial or the social state the Government has been and still is charged with the cause thereof. From the early days of responsible government to the present time the administration of the day has been blamed for the sins of omission and commission of the divers components already referred to, and it has become a popular obsession to insist that the state authority shoulder the responsibilities for everything that militates against the prosperity of the population. Are fisheries bad—blame the Government. Are taxes too high—it is the fault of the Government. Is the weather unfavorable—saddle it on the Government. Is there a coal shortage in the city—the Government is responsible for it. Is a new industrial concern starting up—ask the Government for tariff protection.

And so it could be carried on ad libitum. As a people we seem to think—may to demand—that the Government shall be our dry nurse and that the nursing bottle should be ever applied to our lips. It is a peculiar belief that has grown into us that in every case where assistance is needed the Government must be requisitioned for assistance, and if the demand is not met promptly, or refused, then a shriek of condemnation of that particular Government is heard all over the land. People seem to forget that Governments are not doing a commercial business. They are not in trade. Their function is specifically to make laws for the improvement and benefit of the governed, and to see that these laws are administered impartially, because strictly speaking, Governments comprehend all the organic agencies engaged in the legislative, administrative, and judicial regulation of public affairs. Therefore the Government is the state, and has power to legislate and administer state affairs, its function thus being the office and power of governing, by and with the consent of the governed, given by the exercise of the franchise.

Governments are no longer patriarchal or even paternal, unless the members thereof, out of the goodness of their hearts desire to be the latter. But Newfoundland expects them to be fatherly in all matters. The coal situation, not only in the city of St. John's, but in many of the outports as well, has been laid at the threshold of the Government, and it has been accused of neglecting the interests of the people because stocks available are not sufficient to tide over the winter. How long since the Government has been in the coal trade? Why is it expected that it should be in that trade? Buying and selling of commercial commodities is not by any means part and parcel of the Government's functions. The people in the coal trade have been engaged in that business quite long enough to know their requirements in time to lay in sufficient stocks to meet consumption. If they cannot estimate this, it is time that they learned. All summer and up to the end of November, and sometimes later there is tonnage available (in war-time it was different), but no effort seems to be made to secure it, until the snow and frosts of winter set in. Then necessarily there is a paucity of stocks, and a howl arises because of it, and the Government is charged with neglect and so on and so forth, when in reality it is the sole fault of the big consumers of coal themselves, who are reluctant to place orders early in the season, when both supplies and shipping offer, and so when a crisis is on and fuel has to be doled out in small quantities, and the population is besieging the coal offices, it becomes a general thing to cast the blame for the misery existing upon the Government, when as a matter of fact the right horse should wear the saddle.

Tragic Death Yesterday.

Man Fell 15 Feet Down Ship's Hold and Broke His Neck—Was Native of Carbonear.

Thomas Smith, aged about 60, lost his life in a sad manner yesterday afternoon. He was working on the sealing steamer Ranger, at Bowring's North Side premises, erecting bunks for the sealers for the forthcoming voyage. Other men were working with him. Suddenly he was missed. When his companions came to remember, they found that it was about an hour since they had last seen him. Receiving no reply to their calls, shouted down the fore hatch, they went down into the hold to investigate. The unfortunate man was found on the bottom of the ship, in the lower hold. He was quite dead. Dr. Roberts was immediately summoned and the coroner's inquest reported to the police. Two constables, under Sergt. O'Keefe, were detailed to the scene and, finding from the doctor that Smith was dead, they carried him on a stretcher to Water Street, where he was laid on a catamaran and taken to the morgue. There a post-mortem examination was made his neck being found to have been broken. It is not definitely known how he fell into the hold, but the surmise is that he went from the fore-castle on the lower deck, through the bulk-head opening and, walking out on the boards which had been laid fell over the edge to the bottom of the ship, a drop of 15 feet. It was very dark at the place from where he fell, and he probably did not know that the boards did not extend further out. Deceased, who was of a quiet, unobtrusive disposition, was a son of the late Joseph Smith, of Carbonear. In the summer he generally carried on the fishery business at Venison Tickle, Labrador, and in the dull season worked here at carpentry. He had been in St. John's for this winter, boarding on the South Side where he worked at Bowring's premises as a carpenter about ships. A widow, two sisters, Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Green, a step-brother, Giles Smith, mailman on the shore train, and an adopted son, Giles, are left to mourn. Undertaker Carnell has charge of the remains, which will be forwarded to Carbonear to-day. To the so suddenly bereaved family the Telegram extends sincere condolences.

Regrettable Error.

In yesterday's Telegram giving a description of the terrible experience of the schooner Metamora, the letter press was made to say that the mate had been washed overboard and drowned. This is altogether incorrect. No such circumstance happened, and the mate himself, Joshua L. Morgan, asks that this correction be made, which we gladly do, as should the intelligence reach his parents living at Indian Pond, Conception Bay, without contradiction, they would feel rather badly. The error crept in through our reporter's transcription of copy left on his desk by some person who did not wait for a personal interview.

Ruri-decanal Meeting.

The clergy of the Deanery of Avalon held their quarterly meeting yesterday, the Feast of St. Matthias, A. & M. There were present the Rt. Rev. the Bishop (who left before the business meeting), Revs. Dr. Jones, Rural Dean; Canons G. H. Bolt, T. G. Notten and G. H. Field; A. Pittman, J. Brinton, A. B. S. Stirling, H. L. Pike, C. Clayton, N. H. Facey, C. A. Moulton, A. E. E. Legge. The day's proceedings began with a celebration of the Holy Eucharist in St. Mary's Church, the Rev. Canon Field being celebrant and Rev. Dr. Jones Epistoler.

At 9 o'clock the clergy partook of breakfast which was provided by the St. Mary's Women's Association and Sanctuary Guild whose members were heartily thanked by those present.

At 10 o'clock the regular business meeting began, the Rural Dean presiding. After the usual devotional exercises, several matters of importance were brought forward and evoked very interesting and editing discussions. The meeting ended at 12.30 p.m. with the Benediction.

It is expected that the next gathering of clergy of the Deanery of Avalon will take place at Portugal Cove in May, (D.V.)

Firemen Determined.

President F. J. Woods and Messrs. H. Walsh and John Hearn were last night appointed a deputation to interview owners of sealing ships to-morrow afternoon on behalf of the Firemen's Union in connection with their request for $65 a month and a full share at the seal-fishery. A fireman of the Eagle, who had been notified to attend but failed to turn up at last night's meeting and either pay his back dues or rejoin the ship, was to be kept from working on the ship to-day, unless he accept one of the two alternatives offered, or Union men will refuse to go to the icefields with him. Twenty five applications for membership were passed last night.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Current Events Club was held in the Ladies' Reading Room on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 21st, at 3.30 o'clock. Lady Horwood, President, opened the meeting with a short address, after which the minutes for the previous annual meeting were read. The Secretary's report was then read, followed by that of the Treasurer, which testified to the flourishing financial condition of the Club. Miss Hayward was then appointed to the chair and conducted the election of officers with the following result:

President—Lady Horwood.
1st V.P.—Mrs. Gosling.
2nd V.P.—Mrs. A. Macpherson.
Treasurer—Miss Kennedy.
Secretary—Mrs. H. McNeil.

Miss Mewa was elected Assistant Secretary in place of Mrs. H. Outerbridge, resigned. The Committee for the past year was then voted in again on bloc and this brought the business of the afternoon to a close. Lady Horwood then announced that Saturday afternoon next, His Honor Mayor Gosling, would address the Club on civic affairs and expressed the hope that there would be a large attendance. Mrs. V. P. Burke and Mrs. Howlett very kindly provided tea.

Have you tried one of these Rubber Sponge Brushes for the bath? No? Well, they're worth while. Rubber Sponge Brushes are more sanitary than Bristle or Fibre Bath Brushes, they are easier on the cuticle, and they are very handy in use. Two sizes, 80c. and $1.00 each. Get one.
And while you are about it, procure a package of Mennen's Bath Powder to soften and perfume the water. Like all specialties of the Gerhard Mennen Chemical Co., this Bath Powder is pure and well made, and a great help at the toilet. Price 30c. a package.
LENTEN SERVICES.—Rev. Canon Jeeves will be the preacher at St. Thomas's Church this evening at 8. At the Cathedral evensong will be said at 7.30, and Rev. Dr. Jones will preach.
DIED.
At Montreal, suddenly of heart failure, James, second son of Ellen and the late John Fahay, leaving a wife, and five children, mother and two sisters here, and a brother in the United States.—Rest in peace.
On Tuesday, Feb. 24th, Annie, aged 66 years, beloved daughter of the late Richard Stowe, of Harbor Grace. Funeral on Thursday, at 2.30 p.m., from 41 Angel Place. Friends and acquaintances please accept this the only intimation.
IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear husband, George Long, who lost his life on the ill-fated Florizel, Feb. 24th, 1918.
Softly at night the stars are shining, On thy lonely, silent grave. Where thou liest, dearest husband, Whom we loved but could not save. Two years have passed, our hearts still sore. As years go by, we miss him more—Inserted by his wife and children.

The Close of the Great FEBRUARY SALE

The ROYAL STORES' 24th Annual February Sale closes Saturday, February 28th at 9.30 p.m.

For the last few days we offer ADDITIONAL BARGAINS in every department.

We'll have all the people this week if prices and value can bring them.

Come in and look on, even if you don't want to buy, and examine the lovely qualities.

Every garment offered in this Sale is well made and finished, and cut in this season's very latest and most charming style.

Fresh new lots are being opened up daily—

Many lots not advertised through lack of space will be found prominently displayed in every department. NOW is the time to invest in all the wearables and household goods that you will need for many months ahead, because most of the lines offered are actually below the cost in foreign markets to-day.

Mothers should not think of outfitting their boys until after seeing our

Huge Stock of Boys' Wearables

and the extraordinary values this Sale affords.

Owing to their being so many styles and sizes, we are unable to give a detailed description of each style, but the savings will be readily seen by the prices quoted below.

Sooner or later you will require a Suit, Hat or Mackintosh and every day you put off buying minimizes your chance of obtaining your needs at the February Sale Price.

The high rate of exchange must materially mean a higher price in many articles of wear, consequently it is up to every man who can to lay in a full supply of wearables for at least six months ahead.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

IN THE MIRROR ROOM.

RUTH CAMERON

What a good thing it would be for all of us, if once in a while we might spend a few days in a room the walls of which were a series of mirrors. What a surprise some of our mannerisms and expressions would be to us! Perhaps a single day would do it if we spent it all in that room, and during the day went through all the ordinary routine of life—such as eating our meals, entertaining our friends, talking, laughing, smiling, sitting down to read, sitting still with our faces in repose as we do in the trolley car, writing letters, using the telephone, etc.

I fancy we would be glad enough to get out at the end of one day! Of course we enjoy the casual glance.

For while few people can pass a well placed mirror, even in public, without a swift, appraising glance into it (take your stand near one in a department store some day and notice the swift glances that each passerby steals at that most fascinating person in the world—himself) a room full of mirrors, giving back our unsteady gestures and expressions, would be less pleasing.

But can't you easily think of many people who would benefit greatly by such a day?

There's the woman who never sits perfectly still but is always making nervous movements, lifting her hand to her hair, taking out her handkerchief, twisting it and putting it back, drumming on the chair arm, etc.

An Unpleasant Mannerism.

And then there's the man who nervously passes his hand over his mouth when he is talking, making making it very difficult for you to hear him and distracting your mind from what he is saying.

Then there's the woman who never laughs and smiles without showing not only her teeth but her gums—"laughing above her teeth," as a friend of mine calls it. Perhaps she could not help showing her teeth, some, but she might reduce the display a little.

Then there's the woman who never has her clothes properly brushed and pressed. Surely she would be surprised to see, in that merciless way, just how untidy she looks.

And the woman who always has loose hair hanging down her back. And the man who has that disagreeable, sneering smile. You feel as though he must know how disagreeable it makes him look, but when he looks at himself in the glass he never smiles that way—why should he? He sees nothing to sneer at there.

What Would You and I See?

All these people we can readily see would be benefitted by a day in the room of mirrors. But we don't know just how we need it. Which is, of course, the reason why we should go there.

Here's a suggestion for some one who wants to start a new enterprise. Let him build several such rooms and rent them out by the day. He could advertise "What Bobby Burns wanted, found at last." I don't suppose I need to tell you what it is.

RETIREMENT.

W. H. MASON

The balmekest bard that ever was, all day I punch my lyre; and passing neighbors often pause, and say, "Why not retire?" You have a bundle put away, so let your labors lose; you now are loosed, bent and gray, and need a long repose. So put away your ancient harp, and can the rhythmic wheeze, and emulate the fussy sharp who basks in gilded ease." And still my trusty harp I swear, as I have done so long, and every day attempt to trot upon the peaks of song. For when a man lays down his tools, and says he'll work no more, and joins the loafing bunch that drools around the Blue Front store, he advertises to all men, to everyone's distress, that he will never find again the number of his mess. Oh, not for me the rocking chair before a dotard's fire, and long white whiskers made of hair—I won't give up my lyre. I'll never see the day, I trust, when I'll be satisfied to sit around the house and rust and some punk hobby ride.

For years to come, I have the hunch, I'll write my limping lines, and make Bill Shakespeare and that bunch take in their blooming signs.

Idiosyncrasies of Exchange.

(From the Victoria Colonist.)

Many and various opinions have been expressed by those qualified to speak with authority on exchange and cognate subjects. But we believe it cannot be said that much has been brought forth tending to clarify the situation so far as the individual outside of the monetary pale is concerned. The public has been told that existing conditions are due to the circulation of a plethora of paper and lectured on the necessity of laboring without ceasing and saving to the point of niggardiness. As is usually the case with lectures and exhortations, admonitions have fallen upon stony ground and brought forth little fruit. The public of Canada is not exhausting itself by application to labor, and it is not exercising in any particular degree the virtue of thrift. What is equally applicable to Great Britain. The United States, being a creditor nation, does not have to trouble itself about these things to any material extent, although she, too, has problems that cause misgivings. The state of exchange on Wall Street, New York, where the paper value as distinguished from the intrinsic value of the pound sterling has fallen very low and may decline much lower still, according to authorities, may be due to inevitable and natural conditions affected to some extent by manipulation. The facts of the case apparently cannot be established, but it is well known that the ambition of New York financial men is to make Wall Street the money centre of the world. Indeed, some of them say already that the job has been achieved. But we prefer to wait and see. In some respects the British merchant may not be as "smart" as his American competitor, but he has not been doing business for hundreds of years without learning something of the ramifications of trade. He has not been building ships and dispatching them laden to all parts of the world for many generations without gaining an insight into conditions governing international commerce. The bankers of London have been studying and solving financial problems of some considerable magnitude for a period that the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, and they are not likely to step into a shadow cast by Uncle Sam if they can stride over it. In the meantime it appears that if the money changers of the temple on Wall Street are doing big business in the sale or purchase of bonds and securities, the manufacturers of the whole of the United States are likely to be seriously affected in their business by the high wall of the state of exchange has raised against them throughout the world. The conditions that are becoming manifest have been illustrated by the offers certain American manufacturers are making to former Canadian customers to accept all cheques at par value. The United States is a great and populous country, but it cannot absorb internally all its own manufactured products, and Europe will pay the price only for such raw materials as cannot be procured elsewhere. Some states of isolation are not altogether splendid.

A Toronto Silent Woman

It seems that England is not the only place to have a silent woman. For Toronto, in Canada, also had one, until recently. Her death by fire in her bed has led to the arrest of her husband. The poor woman had lived in a state of exile, and was even separated from her four year-old boy. Her husband resided in the same house, but had not spoken to her for years. When the firemen arrived he was found fully dressed and waiting to meet them.

Reports of serious living conditions at Petrograd have been received by Professor Hermann Zeidler of Viborg, showing that typhus, cholera and influenza are taking heavy toll of depleted population.

ANOTHER HUN EXPOSED.

BERLIN, Feb. 24.

Matthias Erzberger, Minister of Finance, voluntarily resigned from the Cabinet to-day. Erzberger's resignation came as a climax of the sensational testimony in his libel suit against Dr. Earl Helfferich, former Minister of the Treasury. The nature of this testimony, it was considered, left Erzberger no other choice than to relinquish his portfolio. According to the testimony of States Attorney Messer Schmidt, which was given with the utmost reserve and caution, Erzberger had smuggled large amounts of his private funds to Switzerland.

HELPING THE TURK.

LONDON, Feb. 24.

The Right Honorable K. S. Montague, Secretary for India, in a statement to the Evening Standard on the question of turning the Ottoman Government out of Constantinople, said the taking of Constantinople from the Turks was to be a necessary result of the war, "I respectfully suggest that you ought not to have asked Indians to take part in the war against Turkey."

BULGARIA WARNS ALLIES.

LONDON, Feb. 24.

A Sofia despatch says it is semi-officially announced that the Premier has notified the Allied representative in the Bulgarian capital that if Greece obtained Western Thrace the Bulgarian Government would not be responsible for the consequences.

THE COUNCIL'S CONDITIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 24.

The official statement of the Allied Supreme Council in declining to deal with Soviet Russia, which was announced after a meeting of the Council to-day, follows: "If communities which border the frontiers of Soviet Russia, and whose independence or de facto autonomy they have recognized, were to approach them and ask for advice as to that attitude they should take with regard to Soviet Russia, the Allied Governments would reply that they cannot accept the responsibility of advising them to continue a war which would be injurious to their own interests. Still less would they advise them to adopt a policy of aggression towards Russia. If however Soviet Russia attacks them inside their legitimate frontiers the Allies will give them every possible support. The Allies cannot enter into diplomatic relations with the Soviet Government, in view of their past experiences, until they have arrived at the conviction that Bolshevik horrors have come to an end, and that the Government at Moscow is ready to conform its methods and diplomatic conduct to those of all civilized Governments. The British and Swiss Governments were both compelled to expel representatives of the Soviet Government from their respective countries, because they had abused their privileges. Commerce between Russia and the rest of Europe, which is so essential for the improvement of economic conditions, not only in Russia but in the rest of the world, will be encouraged to the utmost degree possible, without any relaxation of the attitude described above." After the Supreme Council had finished its conclusions with regard to Russia, it again took up the Turkish question, hearing the report of the Smyrna commission. Premier Venizelos of Greece was then summoned to discuss the question with the Council.

Allies and the Ex-Crown Prince of Germany.

There is authority for stating that no demand has yet been made to Holland by the Allies for the extradition of the ex-Kaiser, nor if he is handed over, will he be arraigned on a general charge. The grounds—based on this charge—on which his extradition will be demanded, have not yet been formulated. Optimists say that in five years' time he will be again ruling at Potsdam. Stranger things than that have happened. It is probable that the extradition of the ex-Crown Prince, who is definitely "wanted" for larceny and the spoliation of French chateaux, will be requested in the near future. It has been decided that he and the Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria will be arraigned on these charges. As the Bavarian Prince is now in Germany, his surrender will form the subject of a request to the German Government—probably in connection with the Allies' general list of German war criminals who are to be tried.

Germany to Be Charged.

BUT WILL SHE PAY?
All expenditure incurred by the Inter-Allied Naval Commission in Germany is to be charged to that country, including the value of the fuel used by H. M. S. "Malaya," and the cost of the special fittings required to enable her to carry the Inter-Allied Commission to Kiel. All expenses in taking the plebiscite in Schleswig will be divided equally between the German and Danish Governments. The cost of the British ships employed on this duty, viz., H. M. S. "Carysford" and three destroyers, the hospital ship "Agadir," and a stores ship will also be charged to these countries. But the question most people are asking is, "Will Germany be made to pay?"

Ingenious Smuggling.

At Van Buren, Me., customs officials have discovered the most ingenious method yet of smuggling liquor across the Canadian line in use in various places along the border. What appears to be an innocent horse blanket doubled over the collar of team horses hauling wood, produce and such across the line has been found to be lined with a rubber bag with a capacity of five or more gallons of liquid. Teamsters making two trips a day have been able to bring across hundreds of gallons of liquor in this way, it is believed. Overdoing the business is believed to have been its undoing, the unusual activity in the teaming line having excited the suspicion of the officials, who searched many loads before the horse blanket trick was discovered. One teamster was found to have a broom on his sled with a hollow handle which held more than a quart of whisky. For 50 cents he would "lend" his broom long enough for a customer to take a fairly good drink.

Doorn for Wilhelm.

The Hague, Feb. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The latest Allied note to Holland, with regard to extradition of the former German Emperor, reverses the original demand for his surrender and only asks his internment, with the suggestion that the former German monarch be sent, perhaps, to one of the Dutch islands in the East Indies, if became known to-day.

The Associated Press learns on excellent authority that the Dutch government has already determined to reply with an offer to actually intern Wilhelm at Doorn. Holland will accept the full responsibility of preventing him from endangering the peace of the world, establish a guard over him and a strict censorship.

A Big Success.

On Tuesday evening American Chain Overshoes, in which the principle of the weed chain used on automobile tires has been humbly adapted to horses' shoes, were first tried on the streets of St. John's and created quite a sensation among horse owners. Attached to the fore hoofs of a heavy truck horse they enabled the animal to get a footing on ice and snow without exertion, which his bare hoofs were unable to hold. Later they were tried on a cab horse and worked with the same results, except owing to a mistake in size one chain got detached. American Chain Overshoes are not sold by blacksmiths. Protection for Tenants.

"In Paris the courts are prosecuting landlords who jump rents unreasonably, one proprietor having been sent to jail for eight days and fined $100 for adding $25 to the price of a heated apartment which formerly rented at $27. In Jersey City a thousand tenants who combined against landlords who tried to gouge them are being supported by the City Law Department in their legal fight. In New York a court to deal with rents has had to be established. In Montreal," says the Gazette, "some such measures are being invited by those landlords who have almost doubled already high rents. The prices being asked for some dwellings are beyond the purses of the average household and are literally outrageous. Neither taxation nor cost of maintenance justifies some of the rentals being demanded."

Not the Kind Mother Used to Make.

"Prohibition has gone too far," says the Cincinnati Star. "We have tasted the 'dry' mince pie. Most emphatically we say that it is not mince pie—at least, not the kind that mother used to make and for which father furnished the bottle. Those were the mince pies that were mince pies! Mother's mince meat seemed the glowing embers of the richest fruits, set between two pieces of fondly embracing crust. But this thing that they now seek to pass as mince pie is nothing more than a soggy sandwich, a hash that is metamorphosed into congealed lead as it meets the gastric juices. Mince pie had best join its disreputable companions that suddenly have become anathema to the American legislator and his friend the lobbyist. For without the contribution that came from father's bottle mother is powerless. Her pies have become the rose without the odor, the tree without the foliage, the egg without the nog."

So Sore She Could Not Get Out of Bed

MANTONA LADY STATES THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HER.

Miss Annie Forlonski Had a Complication of Kidney Troubles and Says She Found Permanent Relief From All of Them in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Fraserwood, Man., Feb. 24th. (Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are the standard remedy for all kidney troubles was perhaps never better demonstrated than in the case of Miss Annie Forlonski, of this place. Let her tell her story in her own words.

"My back was sore," Miss Forlonski states, "and my body was so sore I could not get out of bed. My bladder also bothered me, and I had urinary troubles.

"Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

That all Miss Forlonski's ills were caused by the kidneys is evidenced by the fact that she found the relief she was looking for in Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are a kidney remedy. For more than a quarter of a century they have been relieving the kidney ills of the women of Canada. The good work they have done is shown by the friends they have made.

Thousands of Canadian women claim that they owe their good health to Dodd's Kidney Pills. If you haven't tried them ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Mosquito's Responsibility.

(Acadric Recorder.)

One of the first questions asked by those who read Ancient History is, what caused the national ruin of the succession of great nations and Empires which passed across the stage and vanished in oblivion. The generally accepted theory is that the constant wars and massacres, plus famines and pestilences, which were the order of the day, at length so depleted the population that they fell before some stronger assailant. The theory of "moral rotteness" is also a favorite. Now a scientist comes forth with the claim that malaria was the cause and the mosquito the agent, particularly of the ruin of Greece and Rome. In all the many low valleys and marsh-bordered streams of Greece and Italy the Anopheles Mosquito had his habitat and infected the human inhabitants in all the neighboring regions. The malaria thus continuing from generation to generation, and spreading all the time, at length undermined the constitution of the people everywhere, and disabled them both in their peace and war activities, and easily made them victims of more vigorous peoples. If this was the case, and it seems quite probable, the modern world should be wise and wage an unceasing warfare against the deadly insect. No part of Europe or Asia was more terribly cursed than the Panama Canal zone, but the letter was cleared up and is now a health resort. What was done in Panama can be done elsewhere.

Search for Luminous Paint.

Search is being made for a reliable luminous paint which will glow, for the benefit of motorists and pedestrians after dark. The Automobile Association say that they have searched the market for a paint that will successfully illuminate a signpost. They are experimenting, but the chief difficulty has been the adverse action of the atmosphere on the paint. Encasing the sign in glass was tried, but the light faded. The Association is preparing to illuminate electrically a number of signs.

BISHOP, SONS & COMPANY, Limited

The Hun War Criminals.

The Ebert Government in Germany is between the devil and the deep sea. If it should undertake to hand over to Allied nations the Germans charged with war crimes it is likely to be overthrown, for such men as Hindenburg and Ludendorff are national heroes though beaten soldiers. If it should refuse to hand over the men demanded and so violate Germany's obligations, then there must follow Allied action to compel Hun faith-keeping, and it is unlikely that the Government of Berlin could survive amid the new hardships which the exertion of Allied power would bring upon the country. But perhaps the Allied position is not itself free from difficulty. All Europe is suffering under abnormal conditions prevailing. The end of unrest in Germany and the maintenance of stable government within the country is much to be desired from the standpoint of the Allies. Unrest, disorder, anything which may tend to make easier the way of the Bolshevist agitator or other revolutionary in Germany means the prolongation of abnormal conditions in Europe. But, on the other hand, it is unthinkable that German brutes should go unpunished for deliberate, fiendish crimes and that pledges given by Allied governments to their people that the guilty would be brought to justice can now be left unfulfilled. The whole situation is complicated and bristling with difficulties and dangerous possibilities. As to what will come out of it there is as yet no sign. Germany can be compelled to yield, but would the probable price of compulsion be so great as to make the Allies willing to listen to some German proposal to modify the present demand?—Sydney Record.

 He's sworn to love the Stars and Stripes an' die for it, says he.
 An' he's done with dukes an' princes, an' he's done with kings an' queens.
 An' he's pledged himself to freedom, for he knows what freedom means.

He's bought himself a bit of ground, an' Lord, he's proud an' glad!
 For in the land he came from that is what he never had.
 Now his kids can beat his writin', an' they're readin' books, says he.
 That the children in his country never get a chance to see.

He's taken out his papers, an' he's prouder than a king.
 "It means a lot to me," says he, "just like the breath o' spring.
 For a new life lies before us; we've got hope an' faith an' cheer.
 We can face the future bravely, an' our kids don't need to fear."

He's taken out his papers, an' his step is light to-day.

A Hint to Nfld. Buyers.

Sydney, N.S., Feb. 23.—Cancellation of orders placed by Sydney firms with United States dealers has been sufficient to bring some of the local people a prompt intimation that the Americans would be glad to take the Canadian dollar at face value.

A number of large orders placed by Sydney firms with men and Companies across the line have recently been cancelled. The local people could not see their way clear to pay more than a good Canadian dollar for a dollar's worth of goods. Some of the notices of cancellation have brought quick responses from the Americans to the effect that they wanted the orders and it would not be necessary for the Sydney firms to pay the exchange difference. In one case, it is understood, the American company concerned wrote its Sydney customer that he could pay his bills to an Upper Canadian company. In another case the instruction was that if the order were not cancelled the bill could be paid through St. John. Putting a depreciated value on the Canadian dollar in the United States is something which American business men are finding out is not always profitable.

Christopher Wren, Church Architect.

On Feb. 25, 1723, Sir Christopher Wren, knighted in 1673, died at ninety-one years of age, through a chill caught while journeying from his residence in Hampton Court to his London house in St. James' Street, Piccadilly. Most appropriately he was buried at St. Paul's Cathedral, in the south aisle of the choir, and his successor as its architect, Robert Mylne, placed a Latin inscription at the entrance of this church, ending with these words, "Si monumentum requiris, circumspice," meaning, "If thou seekest a monument, look around." The tablet is on the inner side of the north doorway. When the cathedral had been completely destroyed by the Great Fire of London in September 1666, during the reign of Charles the Second, the new and present edifice was commenced and completed under Sir Christopher Wren, the first stone being laid on June 21, 1675, and the building finished by 1700, in the reign of Queen Anne, at a cost of £1,511,202. It is to be earnestly hoped that it will long be preserved by its foundations being strengthened and protected. So many churches were destroyed by the great fire that fifty-one other new ones were built by Wren, of which the most noteworthy are considered to be St. Michael's, Cornhill, St. Bride's, Fleet St., St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, and St. Stephen's Walbrook. And yet so diverse were his talents that he had been Professor of Astronomy at Gresham College, London, and Savilian Professor of that science at Oxford University, where he entered Wadham College as a fellow-commoner in 1646, taking his degree in 1651, becoming by far the most celebrated member which it ever had, and being elected a fellow of All Souls' College. Of his architectural works in that city there are the Sheldonian Theatre, where degrees are conferred; the Ashmolean Museum Queen's College Chapel; and the Tom Tower of Christ Church College and Cathedral.

It may have been noticed by those who endeavor to keep in touch with current Canadian literature that nothing over the name of Bliss Carman has appeared for some time in the magazines and other publications where new work of his was wont to be found. The reason is given in a fine appreciation of the personality and work of this Canadian poet, by Willis Steels, in a recent issue of the Notes From Brigus.

Wednesday the 18th inst. being "Ash Wednesday" appropriate services were held in the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches; in the former at 11 a.m. and at evening, and in the latter at 10 a.m.

As might have been expected, last week's mild spurt was productive of many unpleasant results, both destructive and antagonistic. The elements having poured forth torrents of rain, under the softening influence of which the snow became fluid, once miniature brooks disregarding their natural bounds spread over the neighbouring surface, having regard neither to the possessions nor abodes of mankind. The newly-formed waters seemed possessed of the vigour and audacity of youth, and were not to be prevented from trespassing on the ground-floors of dwellings, warehouses, stables, etc. Imagine the surprise and dismay of a resident, who, on entering the stable, found hens floating around drowned and drowning, the horse and other animals standing knee-deep in water! The making of drains was carried out by some with more energy than discretion, since, while diligently excluding themselves from injury, they placed others in a worse plight than heretofore. This caused conditions to become antagonistic.

Rev. Father Walker, P.P., St. Brendan's, left for his parish by Friday evening's train.

Mr. C. A. Jerrett, who had been in town attending a meeting of the shareholders of the Harbor Grace Dock Co., arrived home by Friday night's train. Mr. J. F. Cantwell also returned by the same train.

Mr. Martin Murphy, J.P., arrived from Carbonear by Saturday morning's train, on a visit to his brother, Rev. Dr. J. Murphy, P.P.

In consequence of last week's "eruptions" the streets are now in a desperate condition. In some places where copious streams have ploughed their course through the deep snow, they resemble the dried up bed of a river and are scarcely more useful than ornamental.

On Tuesday the 24th inst., a public meeting is to be held in the Court House, for the purpose of electing a Road Board.

Owing to recent sharp advance in Tobacco some members of a certain popular club have sworn off against smoking till "profiteering" in that commodity ceases. 'Atta boys! It is time that something should be done to awaken some of our vendors to the fact that there is a limit even to the public patience.

Charlie, the youthful son of Mr. Samuel Wilcox, is expected home by to-night's train from the Hospital, where he has been under treatment for a lame foot. His many friends will be pleased to know that the operation has been a success.

Mainly About People.

Anton Lang, the Christ of the famous "passion Play," who was reported among the Germans as dead, is alive. Oberammergau, the Mecca of so many thousands of tourists, lost 74 men in the great war.

An instance of the unfailing kindness and unselfish consideration which Queen Mary shows to those around her has just been referred to in a London weekly. The King and Queen have arranged for the erection of a hall and recreation room at Balmoral Castle for the use of their household and estate servants. The hall will be provided with a library.

Sir Thomas Lipton has given the English paragraphs interesting copy. He didn't find America dry, and he believes never will be dry while there are policemen, hotel porters, taxi drivers and private sideboards. He didn't have any trouble, and so he concludes nobody else need trouble, for "there are private stocks in abundance."

It is doubtful if Queen Victoria entered half a dozen shops during the whole of her lengthy reign. It was her custom to have a selection of articles that she desired to purchase sent to Whitehall Royal residence she was occupying. Queen Alexandra, in her early married days, followed this custom for several years, but gradually broke away from it, as she found that she had greater choice—and doubtless enjoyment—if she visited the shops herself. And to shop herself is the custom of Queen Mary. Usually Her Majesty is accompanied by Princess Mary.

New York Sun. Mr. Carman, it seems, has been in ill-health and that, signs of tuberculosis having manifested themselves, he is now in a sanitarium at Saranac Lake, New York.

President Wilson's long illness, which has not been construed as the "disability" mentioned in the United States Constitution, has at least been construed as social disability and it has developed on Vice-President Thos. Riley Marshall to welcome foreign personages and otherwise act for the President where the acting could do nothing more than raise a question of etiquette. For some months now people here and there throughout the country have been telling their woes to the Vice-President. Petitions for pardons of Federal prisoners have been addressed to him; parents with boys in some sort of military trouble have petitioned him for relief, and even a few job hunters have asked him for appointments.

Diplomatic Immunities.

Ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary for foreign powers are in the main free from the local jurisdiction. The members of their official suites have similar immunities. Ambassadors, etc., cannot be arrested unless they are actually engaged in plotting against the security of the state to which they are accredited, but they cannot be tried and punished by the offended state. The law of the United States prohibits the service of writs upon the resident ministers of foreign states. In Great Britain, not only are the persons of diplomatic ministers inviolable, but all writs and processes, whereby their goods and chattels may be distrained, seized or attached, are "utterly null and void."
