Eight Persons.

Baltimore, Md., May 30.—The weight of cotton stored in Hooper's building in this city caused it to collapse this after-noon, when the front of the building fell counting room, four in the shipping office and at least fifteen or twenty in front of the structure. The body of Mortimer H. Linthicum, cashier of the house, was found packed in between several barrels, and it was impossible to reach him.

Up to 7 o'clock eight bodies had been recovered, including a man named Kelly. Edward Bowen, a colored porter of the firm, is known to be in the wreck, as well as Gildea Hook and Kenneth McLea, employes of the firm, occupying the second story room.

YE OLDE FOLKES CONCERTE. By the Metropolitan Church Choir at Hor-

This concert which was given in the paevening was a most successful affair, as might have been anticipated from the announcement made that it would be repeated again this evening.

The performers, who numbered upwards of eighty voices, were attired in costume of the olden times, and there was evidently of the olden times, and there was evidently no care or expense spared in making this part of the entertainment a success. The gentlemen wore knickerbockers, stockings and buckled shoes, with coats of divers colors, while the ladies' dresses were gorgeous, and although the ladies of the audience were brilliantly attired they suffered a conventating conversion with the audience were brilliantly attired they suf-fered semewhat in comparison with the strong colors worn by the performers. the ladies were no hats, but this could not be said of all, as several were hats measuring at least two-and-a half feet from the brim to the top of the crown.

The program consisted of a choice selection of quaint compositions consisting of choruses, solos, part songs, etc. The concert opened by the singing of Auld Lang Syne, which was followed by several very old hymn tunes of a similar character. These old tunes are still greatly used in churches in remote parts of the country led by the percentor with his tuning fork. Of the choruses Since First I Saw Your Face and Home Sweet Home were the most appreciated, the latter being rendered with great expression and clearness of enunciation. Miss Torrington sang two solos, her first one, Lo, Here Ye Gentle Lark, with violin obligato, was sweetly sung. Mr. Simms Richard's solos, She Wore a Wreath of Roses and Rule Britannia, were particularly well sung, especially the latter, which was given with great force.

Miss More's "spoke pieces" were well rendered, for which she received an encore.

Herr Jackson played a violin obligato and afterwards a solo with which he delighted his hearers by his sympathetic playing and clearness of tone.

Piano solos, comprising ancient melodies, were also given by Misses Kerr, Bousted and Gurney.

The program, although most successful, was a little too long, and the audience became restless towards the end. There were twenty-nine pieces, to say nothing of encores. Father Helpall Torrington, the celebrated timeist, wore a costume which did not make him look unlike one of the great masters of the olden times. He conducted with his usual ability and upheld his resultations as a musicianer. The prohis reputation as a musicianer. The program will be repeated to-night.

The time for the race set in the articles of agreement was between 2 and 7. Up to 3 o'clock there was very little wind and a good course, but about that hour a stiff breeze sprung up and created a choppy sea. Ross was anxious to row Courtuey, who was less enthusiastic and claimed the water was altogether too rough for the race, but agreed to row if ordered to by the referee. That official went over the course and decided that the seas were too much for a shell, and postponed the match until temperow.

Tory Policy in England. The London Economist is a sound liber journal, and altogether more sober than enthusiastic in its views of probabilities Yet it must surely have startled some of its constant readers recently when it accepted as a fact settled that Lord Randolph Churchill had carried his point in the councils of the tory party, which had on his advice agreed to extension of the franchise. And, further, when it said that this was the best policy for the tories to pursue; and that the young Hotspur of the party had shown himself a good gen-

The liberals being committed to extension of the franchise, the thing must go on if tory opposition to it be virtually with-Will the result be a gain of more We should say-doubtful. It probably will be, in the long run. But it need not be surprising were the immediate result to be the election of many young tory aspirfind it easy work to trim their sails to catch the popular breeze.

Another possibility should be considered. With a greatly extended franchise, would free trade have the same firm grip in England that it has now? Almost certainly it would not; the indications are rather that an unrestrained vote of the masses would sweep free trade out of England like a hurricane, were the opportunity offered. Mr. Herbert Spencer has been telling us about "the new toryism," and its particular dangers. The main danger, he says, lies here—that the people will look to government to do for them what they ought to do for themselves. To come to particulars -the British workman might object to seeing French, Belgian, German and Norwegian products offered for sale, free of duty, at his own door, thereby taking the bread from his mouth, while he is allowed in Toronto three are in favor of independno such favorable terms when completely abroad. The British workman aforesaid fourth, the Globe, which, if it meant anywould be taking a very unphilosophical thing in its article on Thursday morr and Mr. Spencer could have nothing but philosophical condemnation for such absurdity. But the bread and butter argument is a strong one, and if that were to get hold of the masses, then we should see the "rew toryism" with a vengeance. We are curious to inquire: does Mr. Gladstone see this, or Mr. Bright? They must see it, we should say; perhaps they are prepared for it, when it comes. They may foresee a temporary victory for the tories, quickly followed by a return of the liberals to a long lease of power. But Mr. Spencer's prophecy of the new toryism should certainly be a disturbing one for liberal leaders; the more so when we see the hints of the philosophical student taken up and reduced to practice by the active Drafts and Bills of Lading. It used to be a common remark in pro duce-shipping circles, that bills of lading had to go as drafts did. Or, in other words, that the funds to move produce with must be furnished by merchants at the ports to which sent. Produce is sent to New York from the west, not alone bebecause freights to the great shipping port the semi-centennial would be deferred for of the continent are low, but also because New York capitalists find the money to tion, as brought before the dominion government the other day. If New York is taking the freight from us, perhaps not all that the government could do would meet the difficulty. But who, then, is to meet it? We reply—the Canadian banks: they it? We reply—the Canadian banks ; they nothing, they would have offers of ocean freights from Montreal at very low rates. But directly a large shipper got himself committed to the forwarding of a big cargo or two, coming from the west, he would be astonished to find that the steamship companies in Montreal had got wind of it, and were doubling the rates on him because the work of the public rights, without asking the general public first, is not a violation of their oath of office, I fail to know what it is. It would not surprise me if a public region was called and they thought he was in for it and could not help himself.

The steamship companies are good at giving champagne lunches on board their new arrivals to representative commercial men at Montreal, on which occasions a great deal is said about the growth of trade and what is being done for it, More to the Toronto, May 30, 1884.

purpose would it be if the companies would fix freights early in the season, and stick to them, so that shippers could know beforehand exactly what to figure upon, That once secured, the banks would surely advance all the money required, and then both drafts and bills of [lading, along with the produce represented, would go by the Canadian route

An Intolerable Evil. The most burdensome, the most intole able, the least justifiable, of the burdens put upon all or any of the people of Canada is that carried by the citizens of Toonto in the exemptions from municipal axation. A lot of persons resident in th city, for no reason whatever, are provided free of cost with street accomi ire and police protection, water, parks, conveniences that municipal government confer, simply because the people of On tario as represented by their legislature see fit to impose this burden on us, or to put it another way, refuse to take it off. If they do not want to wipe out all the exmptions let them wipe out those that obtain in Toronto, and thereby do a simple act of justice to the struggling taxpayer of this city. Exemptions must go.

Smallpox in London. There is no epidemic disease which has proved so deadly as smallpox since the disappearance of the devastating plagues of the middle ages. The reason of this is that of all modern maladies it is the most contagious. It will occasion less surprise than alarm, therefore, that the Hackney district in London is ravaged to such an extent by this dreadful malady as to make it necessary to black-flag and isolate the infected district. Lamentable as the epidemic is, the uprising of the ignorant populace in consequence of their terror is even more lamentable. The attack on the dead wagons cannot fail to give the malady fresh victims and cause a further spread of the disease. It is only possible to assign as a cause for the outbreak the fear of the people that the disease would be disseminated by the necessity of burying the dead.

The Cornwall News is afraid that Sir ohn Macdonald will out-general the reformers in the matter of Canadian independence. Once he snuffs it in the popalar breeze he will chime in with it, and thus get ahead of the grits who, the News tates, will be slow to take it up. Neversays the News, despite the disclaimers of unreasoning, hardshelled grits and dyed-in-the-wool tories, Independence is a popular issue in Canada

The Stratford Advertiser has an article on the spread of the independence sentiment. It says of the five daily newspapers ence. To these three might be added a neant that it, too, was of the independence party. The Mail has come out flatooted against the movement.

The university creek sewer has been in course of construction for two weeks past. Consequently Mr. John Hague's strong letter against a reported postponement of the work does not apply. But the work has been begun none too soon, and we trust Ald. Turner, with his usual energy, will see that it is completed at the earliest possible

Mr. French on Municipal Matters.

To the Editor of The World. SIR: Will you kindly give me space to say a few words upon the riding park. The city fathers appear to think it is no crime to take away the general public's rights and interests and give it to comparatively few. The idea of a riding park on the east side of the avenue from Queen to the guns would be the greatest injustice that could possibly be done to the general public, as those beautiful shade limbs, within ten feet of the ground, would have to be cut off, and time would never restore them again as they are now. I should hope a hundred years if they have to make such arrangements for it and destroy the beauty move it. They authorise the drafts, and of the park, as they propose now to do. It has been said that there is a great deal of wisdom among those gentlemen that represent us, but indeed, Mr. Editor, I can find none that are any advantage to the city's interest. Take the difficulty. But who, then, is to meet it? We reply—the Canadian banks; they can do it, whenever they choose.

The Canadian banks have it in their power to advance money enough to unload Chicago of all the grain there available for shipment to Europe, and to send it forward by what is really the cheapest route—the Canadian canals. There need be no speculation in the matter, but only buying at export prices on the Liverpool basis. For, be it remembered, even in times of "corners" in Chicago, grain can actually be bought there below market quotations, on the understanding that it is to be promptly shipped and taken out of hat market.

And other parties besides the banks would have to be consulted. Here is an old grievance with produce shippers in Canada. When they were doing little or nothing, they would have offers of ocean these mistakes should be understood? I am afraid the meaning is more than we can comprehend, and be it what it may, it seriously interferes with their oath of office, which one would seem to think they have lost sight of entirely. The declaraSet the Arabs at Wood Splitting

To the Editor of The World. SIR: One of the questions which shortly be answered is: "What shall be done with the street Arabs?" Every fresh arrival of immigrants throws a new force of idle, penniless, homeless boys upon the street. It is quite a customary thing to be asked by some woe-begene looking urchin with a good rich brogue: "Will ye be sa koind as tew giv a poor boy from the ould sod a copper to buy summat to eat." Now I have a suggestion to make as, s means not only of giving them something to eat but also of giving them permanent employment.

Any person who has ever been in London, Eng., must remember the bundles of firewood for sale in all the provision stores, I know of a wood-chopping establishment in London which not only supports 100 boys, but the manager makes a very good income out of the concern besides.

Now, if this can be done in London perfectly "up" in the working of such a place, (as I have had a good deal to do with one of the chief "wood chopping" homes in London), I should be very glad to give any information about the work that may be required.

The subject seems to me to be worth considering, as without doubt something must be done for the "arabs," and this is the only way they can dispose of them with profit in England. "ARAB'S" FRIEND. THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Merciful Power! my left foot came down on something that moved beneath it!—and I felt a shock as though ten thousand galvanic batteries had sent their united currents surging through my frame!

I cast my eyes down and I saw a bright bow, formed of two fine threads of light, clearly defined amid the deep shade of the shrub. I knew 'twas the monster's eyes, flaming mad fire, drawing that curve of light as the ugly triangular head swept to and fro—but swept so only for a moment. I knew agon, while I donned my fishing-suit and prepared the lunch, or, rather, told the women how to prepare it. I had a pair of stout corduroy pants, made on purpose for forest and river wear, and in setting the pockets the maker had so cut and inserted them that they hung low down upon the thighs, causing a chafing sensation from their contents anything but agreeable.

clared the same thing in my hearing. However, we were after spruce gum, not snakes, and we made a strike for it. I had snakes, and we made a strike for it. I had a tree in my "mind's eye." It was a stately spruce which had been blown over by a gale during the previous March, the top of which had been lodged among a clump of shrub oak that grew upon an abrupt elevation—an elevation which must once have been a beal of Smith must

Reader, did you ever hear that alarum?

If not, you may have heard our common locust—the rough hided, gray-backed flying grasshopper, that sings with such sharp, ear-plereing note. Well, strengthen and intensify that sharp, ringing vibration tenfold, and then add to it a first just as sharp and penetrating, and you have the alarum note of the rattlesnake.

And this was what I heard, and what some of the rattles had been broken off. His full number would probably have-been ten or eleven, and perhaps more. The tail looked as though a stone had fallen upon it, as the last remaining vertebra was bruised.

Oh, how I shudder when I see one of these monsters. Talk of your cobras and moccasins, and your stinging vipers! I believe there is nothing of the reptile kind more deadly than our own New England rattlesnake. I know they give token of their presence in shrill, piercing alarum—no one knows it better! but similation seize them—they will strike the death blow while they do it, if they can.

I looked for gum while John carried the dead snake to the wagon and stowed it away under a branch of brake leaf. When he returned we talked of rattlesnake and told to each other what he heard and read and what he knew of their awful nature

I found the spot, and eagerly jammed my way in among the thick ly-growing shruh that extended down the whole face of the bank; for I saw that I could reach the big, bright tears of gun with my shafted chisel.

This bank faced the west, and as I observed how the rays of the declining sum were pouring their golden sheen upon it, I thought so, and the thought thrilled me as I approached the bank; but when I saw my prize, I forgot all but how I should best secure it.

As I have said, I jammed my way into the shrub thicket, which was there about threat high, never looking down, for the cloth of my garments had been selected to withstand all such contact, only looking up to where the gum was within reach of my chisel. I had secured the contact, only looking up to where the gum was within reach of my chisel. I had secured the contact, only looking up to where the gum was within reach of my chisel. I had secured the contact, only looking up to where the gum was within reach of my chisel. I had secured the contact, only looking up to where the gum was within reach of my chisel. And this was what I heard, and what arrested my steps! In starting to spring backward my heel caught against an obstackward my heel caught against an obstackward in order to save myself from the falling I was obliged to grasp a branch of the fallen spruce, the only thing at hand stout enough to support me, and in doing this I made a slight bounce to the left,

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYEE's CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases.

ase of C. J. Palin against R. H. Reid, said to be lost in a hotel. The plaintiff was an estate agent in England and came over here with his papers packed up in a trunk of Saratoga dimensions. He put up at the City hotel, kept by Mr. Reid, and the City hotel, kept by Mr. Reid, and place on Monday next. after remaining a short time paid his bill and went away leaving, as he says, the trunk and some windowfixings in the hotel in the public room, but without check or receipt. A notice warning guests to put their baggage in the room provided for that purpose was disregarded by him. He went away without returning for several weeks, when the trunk was not to be found. The proprietor of the hotel swore that no trunk was left in his charge by the plaintiff, that he had no recollection of any conversation about it, but that there might have been many such there as it was exhibition week. If put in his charge he said he would have put it in the proper room and have given a check for it. The court below appear to have held that it was gross negligence on the part of the hotel-keeper not to have produced the trunk when it was called for, but the full court of appeal reversed this on the facts of the case. Mr. Osler, Q.C., and Mr. O'Sullivan appeared for the appeal and Mr. Delamere contra.

A prominent orangeman said yesterday that the incorporation bill was remove from Toronto to Ottawa at the wish of the leader of the local opposition. Mr. Meredith held that its annual introduction in the assembly embarrassed his following, and prevented the tories from ousting the grits. Sir John, acting on Mr. Meredith's suggestion, conferred with the orange leaders at Chestnut park, when the O'Donohee deal was squared and then ad-O'Donohoe deal was squared, and then advised them to remove the bill to the house of commons. This, it is said, will be the lively question for debate at the coming meeting of the grand lodge.
